Imagine how much more you would get out of the Bible if the meaning of every passage were crystal clear. Compare the same text from the King James Version and The Clear Word.

"Incline my heart unto thy testimonies, and not to covetousness. Turn away mine eyes from beholding vanity; and quicken thou me in thy way" (Psalm 119:36, 37, KJV).

*"Turn my heart toward your law more than toward accumulating riches.
Help me not to desire worthless trinkets, but give me more desire for your word"
(Psalm 119:36, 37, TCW).*

The Clear Word lets the power of ancient texts come through today. As the meaning of Scripture becomes more transparent, you see more of God's grace. His love shines through even in difficult Old Testament passages. The Clear Word has renewed the devotional lives of thousands of people. Let it renew yours.

PREFACE

As has been stated in previous editions, The Clear Word is not a translation, but a devotional paraphrase of Scripture expanded for clarity. It is intended to build faith and nurture spiritual growth. It should not be considered a study Bible. Excellent translations of the Scriptures are available for such purposes.

This paraphrase provides my personal insights into the gracious and long-suffering character of God, the loving ministry of our Lord Jesus Christ and the struggles of the church from its inception to the last days. May the Holy Spirit use The Clear Word to bring about a stronger faith and a deeper spiritual experience to its readers.

A paraphrase uses current language to make the text more understandable. Over the years there have been several modern paraphrases, such as Phillips' New Testament in Modern English, Taylor's The Living Bible, and Peterson's The Message. These provide a variety of reading choices. God has more ways than we can fathom to reach His children wherever they are. Each translation or paraphrase has proved beneficial in its own way to bring readers a clearer understanding of God's magnificent gift to a fallen race.

This paraphrase began as my own devotional journey in seeking a deeper relationship with the One who loved me and gave His life for me. It was simply an extension of what I had been expressing over the years in pastoring, teaching, and in helping people better understand the Word of God by making it more relevant to their lives.

A writer's own understanding of a biblical text will surface in a paraphrase, but it also occurs in translations written by a group of scholars. However, every attempt has been made to allow the Bible to interpret itself. For example, Matthew is allowed to interpret Isaiah, for while the Scripture has many writers, it has only one Author. Where a passage was unclear in the original language, personal judgment had to be exercised in consultation with translations, commentaries, and Bible scholars.

I am indebted to the many thoughtful colleagues, pastors and laity, old and young, who have written or called with constructive suggestions to make this paraphrase more meaningful. Especially, I wish to thank Jolena King and others who have unselfishly given of their time to make this new "column format" more reader-friendly.

I pray that the Holy Spirit will use our humble efforts to bring many to the foot of the cross and to a greater knowledge and appreciation of what the Son of God has done for us.

To the glory of God, our Father, whose love knows no bounds,
Jack J. Blanco

It is a very common mistake to think that the only way to get a good result is to work hard. In fact, the most important thing is to work smart. This means that you should focus on the things that are most important and that will give you the best results. You should also make sure that you are working in a way that is sustainable and that you are not overworking yourself. This will help you to stay motivated and to get the most out of your work.

Another important thing to remember is that you should not be afraid to ask for help. If you are struggling with something, it is always better to ask for help than to try to do it all on your own. This will help you to learn from others and to get the most out of your work. You should also make sure that you are working in a way that is collaborative and that you are working with others to achieve your goals.

Finally, it is important to remember that you should not be afraid to take risks. Sometimes, the best way to get a good result is to take a risk and to try something new. This will help you to learn from your mistakes and to get the most out of your work. You should also make sure that you are working in a way that is innovative and that you are always looking for new ways to improve your work.

THE OLD TESTAMENT

GENESIS

Six Day Creation

1 This earth began by an act of God. He created the heavens and the earth.

²The earth was only a mass of created matter floating in space, covered with a vapor garment. Everything was dark. Then the Holy Spirit hovered over the vapor, ³and God said, "Let there be light." And everything was bathed in light.

⁴God looked at the light and was pleased. Then He separated the light from the darkness, ⁵and He called the light Day and the darkness Night. That ended God's activity on the first day of earth, marked off as it is now by nighttime and daytime.

⁶The next day God spoke again, "Let an atmosphere encircle the earth instead of water vapor." ⁷Instantly, there was a magnificent sky; most of the vapor in the atmosphere disappeared, and the vapor below the atmosphere came together as water covering the whole earth. ⁸God called the sky Heaven. This was the second day of His activity on earth, marked off by nighttime and daytime.

⁹The next day God said, "Let the water covering the earth be collected in certain places, and in other places let dry land appear." And it happened. ¹⁰God called the dry land Earth and the collected waters Seas. And He was pleased with what He had done. ¹¹Then God said, "Let grass appear on the earth as well as plants that produce seeds, and fruit trees with seeds in the fruit so they can reproduce themselves. And that's what happened. ¹²Instantly the earth produced fruit-bearing plants and trees in abundance. And God was pleased. ¹³The nighttime and the daytime marked off the third day.

¹⁴Then God said, "Let there be lights in the sky to help make a difference between nighttime and daytime, and let them not only control the days, but also the seasons and the years. ¹⁵They will be as lights in the sky to shine on the earth." And that's what happened. ¹⁶There were two lights that God made, the larger one to shine during the day and the smaller one to shine at night, together with thousands of twinkling stars which He had previously made. ¹⁷God arranged the way these lights should be and placed them in the sky to brighten the earth ¹⁸to make a difference between daytime and nighttime and to separate the light part of each day from the dark part. And God was pleased. ¹⁹The nighttime and the daytime made up the fourth day.

²⁰The following day God said, "Let the bodies of water swarm with all kinds of fish and let the air be filled with all kinds of birds." And that's what happened. ²¹Some of the fish God made were huge, but all the fish were created by Him, both big and small, as were all the different kinds of birds. And God was very pleased. ²²Then God blessed the birds and fish, saying, "I'm giving you the ability to reproduce and multiply, so fill the bodies of water with life and the air with song." ²³And the nighttime and the daytime made up the fifth day.

²⁴The next day God said, "Let various kinds of animals appear on the earth." And that's what happened. ²⁵He created domestic animals such as cattle, as well as free ones. He made all the animals, large and small and those in between. And once again, God was pleased.

²⁶But this was not the end of His work for that day. Next He said to His Son, "Now let us make beings who look like us and can reflect our thinking and our personality. Let's give them the responsibility of ruling over and caring for the fish, the birds and the animals which we created."

²⁷So they created two human beings, a male and a female, equal but with different functions, to reflect the unity of the Godhead.

²⁸Then God and His Son blessed them and said, "We have given you the capability to produce beings in our image. So be fruitful and multiply. Fill the earth and manage it for us. We have put the two of you in charge of the fish, the birds and all the animals that walk the earth.”²⁹Then God told them what to eat, saying, “For food, we have given you fruit-bearing plants. There is ample food for you and your offspring.³⁰There is also plenty of food for the animals, birds and all the other living things which we created. They will eat what the earth produces just as you will.” And that’s how it was.³¹Then God looked at everything He had created through His Son, and it was very good. And the nighttime and the daytime made up the sixth day.

2 So the earth with its atmosphere was finished, and everything worked together in harmony.

²Then on the seventh day of creation week, God stopped to enjoy what He had made and to rest in the beauty of it all.³So He blessed the seventh day and set it apart as a day of spiritual refreshment and joy, a memorial of creation.

⁴In brief, this is the story of creation when God made the earth and the sky.

⁵Only after man was expelled from the garden and told to work the soil were cultivated plants and herbs grown. And God did not send rain to water the earth until after the flood.⁶At first, God watered the earth by streams which came up from the ground.⁷When God created man, He used clay to mold his body, then through man’s nose, He blew life into the clay, and the clay became a living human being.

The Garden of Eden

⁸God arranged a special garden for man to live in. This garden was located in an area called Eden, the place where the first man made his home.⁹In this garden God not only placed trees for food but also ornamental trees, most beautiful to look at. In the middle of this garden God placed the Tree of Life and not far distant, the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil by which He would test man’s love and loyalty.

¹⁰There was a river flowing through Eden which helped water the garden. Beyond the garden it branched into four smaller rivers.¹¹The name of the first was Pishon, which made its way through the region known as Havilah where people today (Moses’ day) go to find gold.¹²The gold there is some of the best. A sweet-smelling resin perfumes the air and precious stones, such as onyx, are abundant.¹³The second river was called Gihon. It made its way through the entire region of Cush.¹⁴The third river, called Tigris, was east of Assyria. And the fourth river was the Euphrates.

¹⁵God placed man in this special garden called the Garden of Eden to tend it and keep it beautiful.¹⁶He told man, “You may eat of every tree in the garden,¹⁷but there is one tree whose fruit you mustn’t eat; this will test your love for me. You must choose between good and evil. If you decide to eat from this tree, you will have chosen evil and will have to die.”

¹⁸On the sixth day of creation God and His Son had said to each other, “It’s not good for us just to create man and leave him alone. He needs to have companionship similar to our oneness, so let’s make another human being suitable for him.”

¹⁹But first God brought the animals and birds to Adam—that was the man’s name—and asked him to name them, and whatever he called them, that became their name.

²⁰As Adam inspected and named all the animals and birds, he noticed that all of them had a companion. He thought he might eventually see a suitable companion for himself, but there was none. That’s when Adam first felt lonely.²¹So God caused Adam to fall into a deep sleep, and while he slept, God opened Adam’s side, took out a rib and closed the wound.²²He used the rib which He had taken from Adam to create a woman as a companion for him. Then God woke Adam up and introduced him to her.

²³When Adam saw her, he said, “This is a companion to make man complete. She is my flesh and bone; she's like me, and she will be known as woman because she came out of man." ²⁴That's why a man will leave his father and mother and be united with his wife, and the two of them shall become as one person.

²⁵Adam and the woman, whom he called Eve, wore no clothes in those days, yet they were unashamed because they were innocent and covered with the light of God's presence.

The Fall of Man

3Of all the animals, the serpent was the most beautiful and intelligent that God had made. One day Satan used the serpent to speak to Eve. When she came close to the forbidden tree, the serpent said, "Didn't God restrict your freedom by not letting you eat from any tree you wanted?"

²Eve was startled, but instead of fleeing to Adam's side, she answered, "God didn't restrict our freedom. We may eat of any tree in the garden that we want to ³except this one which is in the middle. God asked us not to eat of it or even to touch it, or we'll die."

⁴Satan, through the serpent, said, "That's a lie. You won't die. ⁵The reason God told you that is because He knows that there is supernatural power in this tree, and as soon as you eat its fruit, you'll be as intelligent as He is and will be able to decide for yourself what is good and evil."

⁶As Eve watched the serpent eat the delicious fruit, she suddenly felt a strong urge to taste it too. She reached out and touched the fruit and nothing happened. Then she picked it, took a bite and instantly felt a surge of energy. Excited, she took more fruit and ran to find her husband. When Adam saw her, he sensed what she had done. But in the blush of her excitement, she looked more beautiful than ever. He couldn't bear the thought of living without her, so he took the fruit and ate it also. ⁷As soon as he did, their eyes were opened to the true character of what they had done. The light of God's presence disappeared and they stood there naked. Now, for the first time, they felt shame. Taking some fig leaves, they fashioned coverings for themselves.

⁸In the cool of the morning they heard God walking in the garden looking for them. Adam and Eve ran and hid among the trees. ⁹God called to the man, "Adam, where are you?" ¹⁰Then Adam came out from among the trees and said, "I heard you coming and I was afraid. I was ashamed for you to see me because the light of your presence was gone. So I hid."

¹¹God said, "Who made you realize that you were naked? Did you eat fruit from the tree I told you not to?" ¹²Adam answered, "The woman you gave me ate from the tree first, then she offered it to me and I ate it."

¹³God turned to the woman and said, "What have you done? Why did you tempt your husband to eat?" The woman answered, "The serpent you created tricked me into eating from that tree."

¹⁴Then God said to the serpent, "Because you were used as a tool of Satan, I cannot continue to let you be the most beautiful creature in the garden. You will now be lower than any of the animals and will crawl on the ground eating its dust. ¹⁵Also, I will place a hatred of sin in the heart of the woman and her descendants. This hatred of sin will find its ultimate expression in One of her offspring. Satan, like a striking serpent, will try to kill Him, but as a man crushes the head of a poisonous snake with his bare heel to save his children—knowing he will die—so the Savior will sacrifice His own life to save those who love Him, and He will utterly crush the serpent's head."

¹⁶Turning to the woman, God said, "Because you have sinned, childbearing will be very painful for you. And because you desired to control your husband, you will be subject to him."

¹⁷Then God said to Adam, "Because you listened to your wife when you knew better and you ate fruit from the tree I told you not to eat from, you will live a life of toil. The soil will be hard to work and sorrow will follow you throughout your life. ¹⁸You will contend with thorns and thistles, and you will have to grow vegetables to survive. ¹⁹By the sweat of your brow you will have to earn your bread, and it will be a struggle to provide for yourself and your family. When your life is over, you will be buried in the ground out of which you were taken. You are made of dust and to dust you will return.”

²¹But God didn't carry out their sentence that day. He told them He had a plan to save them. Adam must sacrifice a lamb as a symbol of the One who would come and die in their place. God then took the lamb's skin to cover Adam and Eve's nakedness. ²²God said to His Son, “Man was like us, but he has changed. He now knows good and evil, so he's infected with sin. If we leave him in the garden and he continues to eat from the Tree of Life, he will never die, and he and his descendants will live in sin forever. We can't let this happen.” ²³So God sent Adam and Eve out of the Garden of Eden to till the soil. There they would live and work until they died. ²⁴Near the garden He stationed angels whose beams of light looked like flaming swords, so no one would eat of the Tree of Life again.

Cain Murders Abel

4 Soon thereafter Adam slept with his wife, and Eve conceived. She gave birth to a son whom they named Cain. She said, “I have given birth to a man! Maybe he is the One who will break the power of sin and death.” ²The next child was also a boy, and they named him Abel.

Abel grew up to be a shepherd, and Cain became a farmer. ³As they worshipped week by week, Cain brought the fruits of the field as an offering to the Lord—symbolic of his own labor and given as a favor to God. He refused to ask his brother for a lamb in order to sacrifice an offering as the Lord had instructed his parents to do. ⁴But Abel brought a lamb to the Lord, and God accepted Abel's offering because it pointed forward to the One who would give His life for man. Abel understood the principle of redemption and, by his obedience, showed faith in what God had promised to do.

⁵But Cain's offering was not acceptable to God. He saw no need for the sacrifice of blood. He believed that offering the fruit of his labor was all that mattered. When Cain realized that God was not pleased with his offering, he not only became upset with God, but blamed his brother as well. As time went on, he became increasingly angry.

⁶So God said to Cain, “Why are you so angry? And why is your face so distorted? ⁷If you had done what you had been told, wouldn't your offering have been accepted? If you insist on doing things your way, you open the door for sin to control you. With my help you could master this.”

⁸But Cain did not listen to God's counsel or ask Him for help. Instead, he asked his brother to meet him in the field. When they met, he turned on Abel and killed him.

¹⁰God said, “What have you done to your brother? His blood is crying out to me from where you killed him in the field.

¹¹What you have done will be both a curse to you and to the soil which soaked up your brother's blood. ¹²From now on the soil which has been so responsive to you will not be as fruitful because I am cutting back its power to produce. As a result of your rashness, your family will never fully trust you again. You'll be a lonely man wherever you go and will be treated as a stranger wherever you live because everyone will hear about what you have done.”

¹³Cain answered, “This isn’t fair! The punishment is out of proportion to what I’ve done! ¹⁴For the rest of my life there will be no place where I can feel at home. If no one feels safe with me, how can I feel safe with them? I feel like running away! Whoever finds me will kill me for having killed my brother!”

¹⁵God spoke mercifully to Cain: “If anyone kills you, the consequences will be seven times worse for him than for you, and I will make sure that everyone knows this.” Then God put a mark on Cain to protect him and to keep him from being killed.

Cain’s Descendants

¹⁶So Cain left the area near the Garden of Eden where his parents lived and traveled east to settle in a part of the country which he called Nod, meaning I’m A Wanderer.

¹⁷While still at home he had married one of his sisters, and in this new land she gave birth to a son whom they called Enoch. Then Cain decided to build a city for his descendants, and he named the city Enoch, after his son. ¹⁸Enoch grew up and had a son called Irad, and Irad had a son called Mehujael, and Mehujael had a son called Methushael, who was the father of Lamech.

¹⁹Lamech turned away from God’s pattern and married two women at once, one was Adah and the other Zillah.

²⁰Adah gave birth to Jabal, who preferred living in tents and taking care of cattle, as did his descendants. ²¹His brother was called Jubal, who was interested in music, and so were his descendants. ²²Zillah also had sons; one was called Tubal-Cain, who became an artisan in brass and iron. Zillah also had a daughter named Naamah.

²³One day Lamech boastfully said to his wives, “Listen to me! Listen carefully to what I have to say! I have just killed two men, one for hitting me and a young man for insulting me. ²⁴If God protected Cain and said that seven lives will be taken for anyone killing him, then God will protect me also, and say that seven times seven lives will be taken for anyone killing Lamech!”

The Third Son

²⁵Meanwhile, Adam and Eve had a third son and named him Seth, meaning Substitute, and Eve said, “God has given me another son in place of Abel; maybe he will be the appointed Deliverer.”

²⁶Seth grew up and had a son he named Enosh. Enosh and his father led those who had chosen to serve God to openly declare loyalty to Him and to call on the Lord to help them.

The Family of Adam

5In brief, here are the descendants of Adam. When God created man, He created him in His image. ²He created a male and a female and brought them together, blessed them, and called them Mankind. That happened right after they were created.

³Adam was one hundred and thirty years old when he had his third son. Seth strongly resembled Adam in appearance and character. Seth led God’s people to openly profess Him and to call on the Lord to help them be faithful to Him.

⁴After Seth was born, Adam lived another eight hundred years and had many sons and daughters. ⁵Altogether, Adam lived nine hundred and thirty years.

⁶Seth was one hundred and five years old when he had his first son, called Enosh. ⁷After Enosh, Seth lived another eight hundred and seven years and had many sons and daughters. ⁸Altogether, Seth lived nine hundred and twelve years.

⁹Enosh was ninety years old when he had his first son, called Kenan. ¹⁰After that he lived another eight hundred and fifteen years and had many sons and daughters. ¹¹Altogether, Enosh lived nine hundred and five years.

¹²Kenan was seventy years old when he had his first son, who was called Mahalalel. ¹³After that he lived another eight hundred and forty years and had many sons and daughters. ¹⁴Altogether, Kenan lived nine hundred and ten years.

¹⁵Mahalalel was sixty-five years old when he had his first son, who was named Jared. ¹⁶After that he lived another eight hundred and thirty years and also had many sons and daughters. ¹⁷Altogether, he lived eight hundred and ninety-five years.

¹⁸Jared was one hundred and sixty-two years old when he had his first son, who was called Enoch. ¹⁹After that he lived another eight hundred years and had numerous sons and daughters. ²⁰Altogether, he lived nine hundred and sixty-two years.

²¹Enoch was sixty-five years old when he had his first son, and he called him Methuselah. ²²Enoch kept very close to God. After Methuselah was born, Enoch lived three hundred years and had many sons and daughters. ²³Altogether, Enoch walked this earth for three hundred and sixty-five years. ²⁴His life on earth was much shorter than those before him. He knew God so intimately that one day when he was walking in the field, he disappeared, and no one could find him because God had taken Enoch bodily to heaven. This brought hope of eternal life to all who loved God.

²⁵Now Methuselah was one hundred and eighty-seven years old when he had his first son, Lamech. ²⁶After that he lived another seven hundred and eighty-two years and had many sons and daughters. ²⁷Altogether, he lived nine hundred and sixty-nine years.

²⁸Lamech was one hundred and eighty-two years old when he had his first son. ²⁹He called him Noah, saying, "We hope that this will be the son who will comfort us in our toil as we work the ground that was cursed because of the sin of Cain." But Lamech's hope was not to be fulfilled in his son. ³⁰After that Lamech lived another five hundred and ninety-five years, and he had many sons and daughters. ³¹Altogether, he lived seven hundred and seventy-seven years.

³²Not until after Noah was five hundred years old did he have any sons. Eventually he had three sons—Shem, Ham and Japheth.

The Wickedness of Man

6 The population of the earth increased as couples continued to have children. The daughters of the ungodly were particularly appealing. ²When the sons of the godly saw how attractive these women were, they took as many of them for wives as they wanted. ³God saw this and said, "More and more of my people are turning against me. The human body has become their god. My Holy Spirit will not work with them endlessly. I will give them one hundred and twenty years to change their ways." ⁴In those days people were giants, twice as large as people today. Even afterward, when children from mixed marriages of the godly with the ungodly were born, they were mighty men, known for their strength and accomplishments.

⁵God saw the growing wickedness among the people. All day long they thought of nothing but sinning. ⁶He was sick at heart over His creation. He had made man in His own image, but now man was becoming even more evil. ⁷Then God said, "I have no choice but to destroy the human beings I have made. Man's wickedness is out of control and needs to be stopped. I will also destroy the animals, including the huge creatures and those that crawl on the ground, as well as birds of the air. Man's evil cannot be allowed to continue. It breaks my heart to see what they are doing, and in mercy I will bring this wickedness to an end and save those who love me." ⁸So gradually the Lord laid to rest all those who loved Him, except Noah and his family. Finally, they were the only ones left alive who found grace in God's sight because they obeyed the Lord and did what was right.

Noah Pleases God

⁹The family of Noah was made up of his wife, their three sons and their wives. Noah was a good man, one who had total confidence in God, an unusual trait in those days. ¹⁰The names of his three sons were Shem, Ham and Japheth.

¹¹The whole culture in which they lived was corrupt, and violence was everywhere. ¹²God saw how totally corrupt the people had become. Everyone was caught up in evil except Noah and his family. ¹³So God said to Noah, "I will have to put an end to the wickedness of these people, because violence has become a way of life for them. The time has come for me to take action.

The Ark

¹⁸"But I will carry out the covenant I made with you to save you and your family. When the time comes, I want you and your wife to move into the ark, together with your three sons and their wives. ¹⁹Then I will send some animals to come to live in the ark with you, two of every kind, one male and one female. ²⁰I will send you one pair from each kind of wild animal, each kind of bird and each kind of creeping animal that I have created, both clean and unclean. All other animals, birds and creeping things will be destroyed. Two of every created kind will come into the ark to be saved with you and your family. ²¹So you will have to stock up on food, both for you and for the animals. I will help you know how much to store." ²²Noah obeyed and did whatever God told him to do.

The Great Flood

7When the ark was finished, the Lord said to Noah, "Probation for the people is now closed; one hundred and twenty years have past. So bring your family and move into the ark. You are the only righteous ones I have not laid to rest. ²From domesticated animals, take with you seven pairs of every clean animal, males and females, and one pair of every unclean animal, male and female. ³I will also send to you seven pairs of every kind of birds. These animals and birds will be needed to keep their kind alive. ⁴Seven days from now it will start raining and will continue for forty days and nights, and every living thing I have made will be destroyed." ⁵Noah listened to God and did everything He had told him.

⁶Noah was six hundred years old when the rains came which caused the flood. ⁷He and his wife, their three sons and their wives all moved into the ark to escape the coming destruction. ⁸Then the animals started coming, the clean and the unclean, the birds and the creeping animals. ⁹They came to Noah, two by two, in order, to take their places in the ark. They came, male and female, just as God had said. When the people who had scoffed at Noah's preaching saw it, they were momentarily impressed, but still they ridiculed him because their leaders had discounted the possibility of rain. ¹⁰Seven days later, the rains came and flooding began.

¹¹This was on the seventeenth day of the second month in the six hundredth year of Noah's life. Rain came down in torrents, and great jets of water erupted from the ground. ¹²This continued for forty days and nights.

¹³The very day that Noah and his wife and three sons, Shem, Ham and Japheth and their wives were told to get into the ark, they obeyed. ¹⁴So Noah's family and every kind of animal that God had created, whether cattle, bird or creeping animal, ¹⁵went into the ark, the male with its female, just as God had directed.

¹⁶After they were all safely in the ark, God sent His angel to shut the huge door and to make sure it was watertight. ¹⁷Then it rained for forty days and nights as God had said, and the flood waters rose and lifted the huge boat off its supports. ¹⁸The waters continued to rise until everything on the surface of the earth was covered, and the ark floated safely on the waters. ¹⁹The water rose until it covered the highest mountains all around the world. ²⁰Eventually the water reached a height of twenty-five feet above anything on the surface of the earth.

²¹Every living thing on the earth died—men, women, children, domestic and wild animals of all kinds, birds and even animals that creep and crawl. ²²Everything was destroyed except the fish. ²³The only ones left alive were Noah and his family and the animals with them in the ark. ²⁴After the rain stopped, the flood remained on the earth for one hundred and fifty days.

Noah's Deliverance

8 But God did not forget Noah and the animals in the boat. He made a strong wind blow to help evaporate the water and collect it into oceans. ²By this time the jets of water from inside the earth and the rains from above had stopped. ³After the flood waters had covered everything and all living things had been destroyed, the waters finally began to recede. ⁴Exactly five months later, on the seventeenth day of the seventh month, the ark came to rest among the mountains of Ararat. ⁵The floodwaters kept receding for almost another three months until, on the first day of the tenth month, the tops of mountains appeared.

⁶Noah waited another forty days, then opened one of the portholes high up on the side of the ark ⁷and let a raven fly out. The raven flew back and forth, resting on the ark, until it finally found a place to nest. ⁸Then Noah released a dove to test how far the waters had subsided and to see if the ground was dry enough to walk on. ⁹But the dove didn't find a resting place because a lot of water still covered the earth. When it returned, Noah reached out and brought it back inside. ¹⁰Seven days later he sent the dove out again. ¹¹This time the dove was gone all day. In the early evening it returned with an olive shoot in its mouth, so Noah knew that the waters had also receded from the valleys. ¹²He waited one more week and again released the dove, but this time it didn't return.

¹³Then God sent his angel to open the large door, and Noah and his sons stepped outside and saw that the waters were gone. On the first day of the first month in the six hundred and first year of Noah, the earth was dry again. ¹⁴But it wasn't until the twenty-seventh day of the second month, almost sixty days later, that Noah felt that the ground was hard enough to let the animals go.

¹⁵In fact, Noah did not leave the boat until God told him it was safe to leave. ¹⁶God said to Noah, "You, your wife, your three sons and their wives can leave the boat now. ¹⁷Empty the ark of all creatures, cattle, birds and creeping things, so they can scatter over the earth, breed and multiply."

¹⁸After God spoke, Noah, his wife, his three sons and their wives, ¹⁹together with all the animals, creeping things and birds, left the ark, each with its own mate.

God's Covenant

²⁰The first thing Noah did when he touched land was to gather some rocks and build an altar. Then he chose a young animal and bird from each clean kind and sacrificed them to the Lord.

²¹The Lord accepted the offering and said, "Never again will I suddenly change the productivity of the earth as I did in the days of Cain, even if man's heart continues to be evil. Never again will I destroy every living thing on the earth with a flood as I have done this time.²²As long as this world lasts, planting time, harvest time, cold, heat, summer, winter, and day and night will continue."

9 Then God blessed Noah and his sons and said to them, "Now you may have children, as many as you want, and fill the earth with your offspring.²Don't worry about the animals, because I have caused them to be afraid of you. All animals, birds, crawling creatures and fish will respect your authority and be under your care.³Many of these animals will provide food for you, and from now on, you may eat meat as well as vegetables.

⁴However, I don't want you to eat raw meat with the blood still in it, because blood is the source of life.⁵You should not kill an animal for sport, only for food. Whoever kills for sport will be held responsible and will suffer the consequences, whether blood is shed by man or beast, because he who takes a life forfeits his own.⁶Anyone who willfully takes another person's life will be judged by his fellowmen and condemned for murder. Man's right to life is sacred because he was created in my image.

⁷Have many children, because I want you to increase in number and populate the earth."⁸Then God assured Noah and his sons of their future, saying,⁹"Listen, I am making a covenant with you and your offspring,¹⁰and with every animal that was with you in the ark, the birds, the cattle and all of them as they roam the earth.¹¹I will never again allow a flood to destroy all life, nor will there ever be another global flood to destroy the earth."

¹²Then God drew Noah's attention to the sky, saying, "Look! There is the sign of my promise concerning you and all living creatures from now on.¹³I am putting a rainbow in the sky as a perpetual reminder of my promise about the future of men and animals.¹⁴The rainbow will appear wherever it rains to remind people of my promise never again to destroy the earth by a flood.¹⁵I will keep my promise concerning you and all living creatures that I will never again destroy all life with a flood.¹⁶The rainbow will be in the clouds for both of us to see, and I will not forget the promise I made to you and to all living things."

¹⁷And God repeated, "This rainbow is the sign of my promise to you and to all living things upon the earth."

Noah and His Three Sons

¹⁸The sons of Noah who left the ark with their father were Shem, Ham and Japheth. Ham was the forefather of the Canaanites, and his son was Canaan.¹⁹It was from Noah's three sons that eventually the whole earth was populated.

²⁰After Noah settled down, he planted gardens and vineyards.²¹One day he drank some wine that had been sitting for awhile, became drunk and was in his tent naked.²²When Ham, (the father of Canaan) came into the tent and saw the condition his father was in, he thought it was funny and went and told his brothers.²³But Shem and Japheth didn't think it was funny. They took a sheet and, out of respect for their father, walked into the tent backwards, covering him without seeing him naked.

²⁴The next day when Noah came to his senses and heard what had happened and how his younger son had laughed at him, he made this prediction:²⁵"The descendants of Canaan will be called Canaanites, and they will have no sense of shame before God or man. This will be a curse to them, for they will not acknowledge their guilt. They will be subdued by the descendants of Canaan's brothers."

²⁶He also said, "Blessed be the Lord, the God of Shem, through whose descendants the Deliverer will come. May Canaan not walk in the sins of his father but serve the God of Shem.²⁷May God extend the land of Japheth. May he live in the tents of Shem and continue to be at peace with his brother, and may Canaan serve the God they worship."

²⁸Noah lived for another three hundred and fifty years after the flood. ²⁹He was nine hundred and fifty years old when he died.

Nations Descended From Noah

10 These are the descendants of Shem, Ham and Japheth, which were all born after the flood.

The Japhethites

²The sons of Japheth were Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Meshech and Tiras.

³The sons of Gomer, Japheth's first-born, were Ashkenaz, Riphath and Torgarmah who are ancestors of the people who bear those names.

⁴And the sons of Javan were Elishah, Tarshish, Kittim and Dodanim who inhabit Spain, Cyprus and Rhodes. ⁵Their descendants became maritime people and lived along the coastlines and on the islands, each one speaking a different language.

The Hamites

⁶The sons of Ham were Cush, Egypt, Put and Canaan whose descendants live in the countries of Ethiopia, Canaan, Libya and Egypt. ⁷The sons of Cush were Seba, Havilah, Sabtah, Raamah and Sabteca. And the sons of Raamah were Sheba and Dedan.

⁸One of the sons of Cush was Nimrod who became a mighty warrior and the founder and monarch of the first extended empire. ⁹He was not only a mighty warrior but also a fearless hunter. His name and reputation became proverbial, so much that men would say to each other, "May you become like Nimrod!" But Nimrod was against the Lord. ¹⁰At first the center of Nimrod's empire included Babylon, Erech, Accad and Calneh in the land of Shinar. ¹¹From here he went on to conquer Assyria and built the cities of Nineveh, Rehoboth-Ir, Calah ¹²and the great city of Resen which was located between Nineveh and Calah.

¹³The descendants of Ham who lived in Egypt and migrated out from there were the Ludites, Anamites, Lehabites and the Naphtuhites. ¹⁴The Pathrusites, the Casluhites (from whom the Philistines came) and the Caphtorites made up the rest of the descendants of Ham.

These descendants soon scattered, ¹⁹and the borders of the land of Canaan reached from Sidon southward to Gerar near Gaza and eastward to Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboiim near Lasha.

²⁰These then are the descendants of Ham according to their tribes, languages and countries.

The Semites

²¹Shem, whose older brother was Japheth, was the ancestor of all the sons of Eber.

²²Shem's sons were Elam, Asshur, Arphaxad, Lud and Aram, who were ancestors of the people who bear that name.

²³The descendants of Aram became the people of Uz, Hul, Gether and Meshech.

²⁵Eber had two sons: one was Peleg (during his time the people of the earth scattered themselves), and the other was Joktan.

³⁰The lands in which they lived extended from Mesha to Sephar in the eastern hill country.

³¹All these people were descendants of Shem through his sons according to their tribes, living in different areas, each with its own language.

³²All these clans are descendants of Noah's three sons, nation by nation, according to their lines of descent.

The Tower of Babel

11 At first all the descendants of Noah had only one language. ²As they moved east from Mount Ararat where the ark had settled, they made their homes in the plain of Shinar, also called Mesopotamia.

³After some time they said to each other, "Come, let's build permanent places to live. We'll use baked bricks and tar instead of sandstone and mortar."

⁴When this was successful, they said, "Now that we've built this beautiful city, let's erect a huge escape tower to protect ourselves against any future flood. People from other cities will come to see it, and we will become famous."

⁵Then the Lord came down to take a look at the city and the escape tower they were building, ⁶and said, "This is only the beginning of what these people will attempt to do. They all speak the same language, and if they succeed in this, they'll think that they can do anything they set their minds to. ⁷We need to stop them so they don't become proud and forget who created them. Let's confuse their language so they can't communicate so easily with each other."

⁸And that's what happened. Suddenly the people started speaking different languages and couldn't understand each other. Building on the tower and the city stopped, and people moved away. ⁹The area became known as Babylon or Babel, which means "confusion," because that was where the Lord confounded the language of the people. It was from there that they scattered around the world.

Shem's Descendants

¹⁰The line of Shem continued thus: two years after the flood had subsided, when Shem was one hundred years old, his son Arphaxad was born. ¹¹After that he lived another five hundred years and had other sons and daughters.

¹²Arphaxad was thirty-five years old when he had Cainan, whose son was Shelah. ¹³After Cainan was born, Arphaxad lived another four hundred and three years and had additional children.

¹⁴When Shelah was thirty years old, he had a son called Eber. ¹⁵After that he also lived another four hundred and three years as his grandfather did, and had many more children.

¹⁶When Eber was thirty-four years old, he had a son named Peleg. ¹⁷Afterward he lived another four hundred and thirty years and had numerous other children.

¹⁸When Peleg was thirty years old, he had a son called Reu. ¹⁹After that he lived only two hundred and nine years and also had additional children.

²⁰When Reu was thirty-two years old, he had a son called Serug. ²¹After that he lived another two hundred and seven years and had many more children.

²²When Serug was thirty years old, he had a son named Nahor. ²³Afterward he lived another two hundred years and had additional children.

²⁴When Nahor was twenty-nine years old, he had a son called Terah. ²⁵After that he lived only one hundred and nineteen years and left behind many children.

²⁶By the time Terah was seventy years old, he had fathered Abram, Nahor (named after his grandfather), and Haran.

Terah and Abram

²⁷So these are the godly descendants of Shem, beginning with Arphaxad and going down to Terah, the father of Abram, Nahor, and Haran (who was the father of Lot). ²⁸Haran died before his father Terah and was buried in the city of Ur where he was born, in the land of the Chaldeans. ²⁹Abram, one of Terah's other sons, married his half-sister Sarai, and Nahor married his niece Milcah, the daughter of his brother Haran who had also fathered Iscah. ³⁰Sarai, the wife of Abram, unlike the rest of the women in the family, could not have children.

³¹Shortly after Haran died, God spoke to Abram and asked him to leave the city of Ur and go to live in the land of Canaan. When Abram told his father Terah, he agreed. So Terah left the city of Ur with Abram, Sarai who was Abram's half-sister and wife, and with Lot his grandson by Haran, to go to the land of Canaan. They got to a city they named Haran where, because of Terah's health, they decided to stay for a while. ³²Terah died there, at two hundred and five years of age.

12 Then the Lord said to Abram, "Now that your father Terah is dead, leave this city and move on to the land that I will show you, because you are still living too close to your relatives. ²My plan is to make a great nation from your descendants, a different people, and I will bless you, and through you all nations of the earth will be blessed. ³I will bless those who bless you and let those who curse you suffer the consequences. My intention is for you to be a blessing to the whole world."

⁴Abram did as the Lord had told him and left the city of Haran, and his nephew Lot went with him. Abram was seventy-five years old when he left to go to the land of Canaan. ⁵So Abram, his wife Sarai and his nephew Lot, took all their goods which they had acquired while living in Haran, all their servants and flocks and left for the land of Canaan.

– ⁶And when they arrived there, Abram traveled through the country until he came to Shechem where today the giant oak of Moreh and the other oaks stand. The descendants of Canaan, the grandson of Noah, lived in this land. ⁷Abram was apprehensive about living there. Then the Lord appeared to him and said,

"Don't be afraid. This is the land I want to give to you and your descendants to live in, and it will belong to you forever." Then Abram built a stone altar to the Lord on that spot because that was where the Lord spoke to him.

⁸From there Abram traveled on toward the hills east of Bethel and set up his camp. Here he built another altar and worshiped the Lord. ⁹Some time later Abram broke camp and traveled south toward the Negeb.

Abram in Egypt

¹⁰Then famine struck the area, so Abram went south into Egypt, because the drought lasted a long time. ¹¹As they neared the Egyptian border, Abram said to his wife Sarai, "I know that you are a very beautiful woman. ¹²When the Egyptians see you, they will say, 'She is this man's wife. So let's kill him, then we can have her for ourselves.' ¹³So if they ask who you are, tell them you're my sister. That's partly true because you are my half-sister. And when you tell them that, they'll treat me as your brother and let me live."

¹⁴And that is exactly what happened. When Abram arrived in Egypt, the Egyptians saw how beautiful Sarai was. ¹⁵Even the officials of Pharaoh noticed her and brought her to the attention of the king, who ordered them to bring her to him. ¹⁶Just as Abram predicted, the Egyptians treated him well for her sake because Sarai told them that he was her brother. Though the Lord did not approve of what Abram had done, He continued to prosper him for He knew his heart. Soon Abram had even more sheep, donkeys, camels and servants than he'd had before.

¹⁷But the Lord withheld His blessings from Pharaoh and his house, and soon everyone became sick because Sarai was being kept in the king's palace. ¹⁸So Pharaoh called Abram in and said, "What have you done to me! Why didn't you tell me the truth, that Sarai is your wife?"

¹⁹Why did you say that she is your sister? I might have taken her to be one of my wives. When I wondered why everyone in my house was sick, your God revealed the truth. So now take your wife and go!" ²⁰Then Pharaoh gave orders to his men not to harm Abram, but to send him away in peace, together with Sarai his wife and everything he owned.

Abram's Inheritance

13 Abram left Egypt and went back north into the Negeb with his wife Sarai, his nephew Lot and all their possessions. ²By this time Abram had become very rich, not only in cattle, but also in silver and gold.

³From the Negeb he continued north until he reached Bethel, where he had set up his first camp upon arriving in the land of Canaan. He intended to stay there for a while. ⁴It was here that he had built an altar and now, for the first time, was afraid and called on the Lord for protection.

⁵Lot, who was traveling with Abram, also had flocks and herds and tents that he had acquired. ⁶And the place where they camped could not support both of them because they had so many animals. ⁷In addition, there was constant fighting between the herdsmen of Lot and those of Abram, and the Canaanites and Perizzites who lived nearby noticed this.

⁸So Abram said to Lot, "Let's not have any more quarreling between your herdsmen and mine, especially since we're related. The witness we're giving to our neighbors about God is not good: ⁹This whole country is open to us. Let's live in different areas and that will end all this fighting. You choose first. If you go to the right, I'll go to the left, and if you go to the left, I'll go to the right."

¹⁰Lot looked at the various parts of the country and saw that the plain of Jordan was well watered with some pastures even better than Egypt. To him it looked like the Garden of Eden. This was before the Lord destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah. ¹¹Then Abram and Lot went their separate ways, with Lot settling in the plain of Jordan. ¹²Abram stayed in the countryside away from the cities of Canaan, while Lot moved closer and closer to the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah. ¹³The men of Sodom were extremely wicked and openly defied the Lord with their wicked practices.

¹⁴After Lot had left, the Lord said to Abram, "I want you to stand outside and look north, south, east and west, as far as you can. ¹⁵All the land you can see and more will belong to you and to your descendants forever. ¹⁶Your descendants will be as numerous as specks of dust on the earth, which no one can count. That's how impossible it will be to count your offspring. ¹⁷So go and live anywhere you wish in the length and breadth of this land because I have given it to you."

¹⁸Then Abram broke camp and moved to where the great oaks of Mamre in Hebron are, and there he built another altar to the Lord.

Lot's Rescue

14 At this time there was war among the city kings in the land, and Amraphel, king of Shinar; Arioch, king of Ellasar; Kedorlaomer, king of Elam; and Tidal, king of Goiim, attacked ²Bera, king of Sodom; Birsha, king of Gomorrah; Shinab, king of Admah; Shemeber, king of Zeboiim; and the king of Bela, also known as Zoar. ³These last five kings grouped their forces in the Valley of Siddim, which today is the area covered by the Dead Sea. ⁴For twelve years these kings had paid taxes to Kedorlaomer and his coalition of kings, and in the thirteenth year these five kings rebelled.

⁵In the fourteenth year, Kedorlaomer and his kings attacked and defeated the Rephaites in Ashteroth near Karnaim, the Zuzites in Ham, the Emites in Shaveh Kiriathaim, ⁶and the Horites in the hill country of Seir as far as El Paran near the desert. ⁷Next they turned back and went toward En Mishpat (also known as Kadesh) and conquered the whole territory of the Amalekites and the Amorites who lived in the area of Hazezon Tamar.

⁸Then the kings of Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, Zeboiim and Bela (also called Zoar) drew up their lines of defense in the Valley of Siddim. ⁹Kedorlaomer, king of Elam; Tidal, king of Goiim; Amraphel, king of Shinar; and Arioch, king of Ellasar, attacked them, and the four kings defeated the five kings. ¹⁰Now the Valley of Siddim was full of open tar pits, and when the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah were defeated, some of their troops slipped into these pits, and the rest fled to the hills. ¹¹Then the four kings looted the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, took all their food supplies and went on their way. ¹²They also captured Abram's nephew Lot, who had moved into the city, and took everything he owned.

¹³But someone escaped and came and told Abram what had happened. Abram was living at the great oaks of Mamre, where Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eshcol and Aner lived, all of whom had made an alliance with each other and with Abram. ¹⁴When Abram heard that his nephew Lot had been taken captive, he armed three hundred and eighteen of his trained men born in his camp and, together with Amorite reinforcement, pursued those four kings all the way north to the city of Dan. ¹⁵During the night Abram divided his forces, and just before dawn, he launched a surprise attack. The four kings fled and Abram pursued them all the way to Hobah, north of Damascus. ¹⁶He rescued his nephew and recovered all of Lot's possessions, together with the women and the other men taken from Sodom.

¹⁷Then Abram returned to Sodom, having defeated Kedorlaomer and the other three kings, and brought back with him all the captives they had taken. The king of Sodom, who had escaped from the battle before being captured, came out to meet Abram and his armed men in the Valley of Shaveh, known as the King's Valley.

Abram and Melchizedek

¹⁸And Melchizedek, king of nearby Salem which today is called Jerusalem, also came out to meet Abram and his men and brought bread and new wine to refresh them. In addition to being king of Salem, Melchizedek functioned as a priest of the Most High God, teaching his people to serve the Maker of heaven and earth. ¹⁹When he met Abram, he blessed him, saying, "Blessings on Abram, servant of the Most High God, who created heaven and earth. ²⁰And blessed be the Most High God who helped you overcome your enemies and be victorious." Then Abram gave a tenth of all he had to Melchizedek.

²¹The king of Sodom said to Abram, "Just let me have my people back, and you can keep for yourself all the goods Kedorlaomer took from us."

²²Abram said to the king of Sodom, "I have made an agreement with the Lord God, the Creator of heaven and earth, and took an oath to confirm the agreement, ²³that my motive to pursue the four kings would not be for booty. I promised not to take so much as a thong of a sandal from you. I did this so your people could never say, 'We helped Abram get rich.' ²⁴The only thing I acknowledge taking is what my men have eaten and what Aner, Eshcol and Mamre, the Amorites, claim as rightfully theirs."

God's Covenant

15 Soon after this the Lord spoke to Abram in a night vision and said, "Abram, do not be afraid of a return attack because I am your shield, and your reward for serving me will be exceedingly great."

²Abram answered, "Lord God, what greater reward can a man have than to live on in the lives of his children? ³I am still without a child, so my rightful heir is Eleazar, my chief servant who was born among us in Damascus."

⁴The Lord said, "Eleazar will not be your rightful heir, but a son coming from your own seed will be your heir.”⁵ He then asked Abram to come outside. “Look up at the night sky and see if you can count the stars,” God said. “That’s how numerous your offspring will be.”

⁶Abram believed the Lord, and the Lord credited it to him as righteousness. ⁷Then the Lord reminded Abram of what He had done for him. “I am the Lord God who asked you to leave the city of Ur in the land of the Chaldeans, who protected you all along the way and who brought you into this country to possess it.”

⁸Abram responded, “Lord, how do I know that this land will always belong to me and my descendants? Is there some visible evidence you can give me?”

⁹The Lord said, “I will make a covenant with you as is customary among the people around you when two of them decide to become blood-brothers. Bring a heifer, a female goat and a ram, each three years old, and also a dove and a young pigeon.”

¹²At sunset Abram fell into a deep sleep and dreamed that a dreadful darkness was closing in on him, and he was terrified. ¹³Then the Lord said to him in vision, “Your descendants through your firstborn son from Sarai will begin to suffer affliction and will eventually be made slaves. All of this will last four hundred years. ¹⁴But I will punish the nation that enslaves them, and I will free them. They will return to this land with great possessions. ¹⁵Before this happens, you will live to a ripe old age, die in peace and be buried with your fathers. ¹⁶The fourth generation of your descendants will return to this land to possess it. They cannot possess it now because the wickedness of the Amorites and others has not yet reached its limit, and their probation is not yet over.”

¹⁷In the middle of the night Abram awoke and saw a blazing torch and a burning lamp pass together between the pieces of the animals. The Lord visibly consumed His part of the sacrifice as well as Abram’s part, acknowledging his faith. ¹⁸Then the Lord said to Abram, “I have made this covenant with you according to the custom of the people, so you can understand that everything I have is yours and everything you have is mine, and whoever touches you touches me. We are in a covenant as blood-brothers. So I will give to you and your descendants the land from the river of Euphrates to the river of Egypt, ¹⁹which includes all the territory inhabited by the Kenites, Kenizzites, Kadmonites, ²⁰Hittites, Perizzites, Rephaites, ²¹Amorites, Canaanites, Girschites and Jebusites.”

Hagar and Ishmael

16 Time passed, but Sarai, Abram’s wife, still had not had children. So she decided that Hagar, her Egyptian maid, would make a good mother through whom she could have children. ²She said to Abram, “The Lord has still not given us a child, but maybe we could have one through Hagar and begin our family that way. Why don’t you go and sleep with her?”

Abram agreed, since it was the custom for a childless couple to begin their family through surrogate motherhood. ³Besides, ten years had passed since Abram had come into the land of Canaan, and they had waited all that time, hoping to have children. After Sarai talked to Hagar and she agreed, Sarai brought her to Abram’s tent. He slept with her, and by doing this, she became like a second wife. ⁴Hagar did conceive, and when she was sure she was pregnant, she began acting superior to Sarai and looking on her with disdain.

⁵Sarai was distressed and said to Abram, “You’re responsible for this woman’s attitude toward me. I brought her to you, and you made her pregnant, but you didn't make me pregnant. So now she looks down on me and expects me to be her maid. May the Lord judge you for what you've done."

⁶Abram said to Sarai, "Hagar is still your maid, so do with her whatever you think is best." Then Sarai exerted her authority as Abram's wife and reminded Hagar that she was still her maid, but Hagar refused to serve Sarai. Instead, she ran off into the desert. ⁷There the Lord's angel found her sitting by the roadside near a spring.

⁸The angel said to her, "Hagar, maid of Sarai, what are you doing out here in the desert? Where do you intend to go?" She said, "I'm running away from Sarai. I intend to go home to Egypt."

¹⁰Then the Lord's angel added, "And don't worry, I will increase your descendants so they will become too numerous for you to count. ¹¹You will give birth to a son and will call him Ishmael, which means God Hears and Answers Prayer. ¹²He will be a great fighter and as strong as a wild donkey. He will carve out a place for himself against all opposition and live at odds with his brothers. He and his descendants will settle just east of here."

¹³Then Hagar called the Lord's angel who spoke with her, The God Who Sees Me, because, she said, "I have seen the light of the One who sees me and I'm still alive!" ¹⁴That's why the well where she sat is called Beer Lahai Roi, meaning The Well of the Living One Who Sees. It is still there, next to the road between Kadesh and Bered.

¹⁵So Hagar went back to Sarai and bore Abram's son and called him Ishmael, as the Lord's angel had instructed her.

¹⁶Abram was eighty-six years old when Ishmael was born.

The Sign of the Covenant

17The years passed, and when Abram was ninety-nine years old, the Lord appeared to him, saying, "I am the Almighty God; if you continue to walk blamelessly in my paths, ²I will carry out my covenant with you and will greatly multiply your descendants."

³Then Abram fell on his knees and bowed his face to the ground as God continued to talk with him, ⁴"This is the covenant that I have made with you. You will become the father of many nations. ⁵So I am changing your name from Abram to Abraham, which means, The Father of Many, because I have appointed you to be the father of many people. ⁶I will make your descendants fruitful and whole nations will come from them, including princes and kings. ⁷This covenant between us will continue between your descendants and me forever. I will always be their God just as I have been your God. ⁸The whole country of Canaan in which you are a stranger will be yours and theirs. Eventually the entire earth will belong to you and your natural and spiritual descendants, and I will forever be their God.

⁹"The conditions of this covenant apply not only to you, but to your descendants as well. ¹⁰As a present symbol of the covenant I have made with you and your descendants, every male, including the children, shall be circumcised. ¹¹You will begin by circumcising yourself, and that will become a visible symbol of the covenant I am making with you this day. ¹²And among your descendants, every male child is to be circumcised eight days after he is born. All males are to be circumcised, whether they are born into your family, adopted or bought. Each will be considered your offspring. ¹³Whether they are your natural descendants or not, they must all be circumcised. The signature of my covenant with you will be in your own flesh and in the flesh of your descendants as a lasting reminder. ¹⁴Any male not willing to be circumcised will be cut off from the family because he is unwilling to enter into covenant with me.

¹⁹God answered, “Sarah, your wife, will have a baby boy, and she will call him Isaac, meaning Laughter. I will pass on my covenant to him and to his descendants. ²⁰As far as Ishmael is concerned, I understand your concern, and I will bless him also. I will make him fruitful and will greatly increase his descendants. He will be the father of twelve great rulers, and his descendants will become a great nation.

²¹“But I will make my covenant with you and with Isaac, who will be carried by Sarah and will be born about this time next year.” ²²With this, God was finished speaking with Abraham and left him still bowed face down.

²³That same day Abraham circumcised himself. Then, beginning with Ishmael, he circumcised all male children born to his employees, including those who had been adopted or bought. He also circumcised every adult male in his household, just as God had told him to do. ²⁴Abraham was ninety-nine years old when he circumcised himself. ²⁵And Ishmael his son was thirteen years old. ²⁶Both Abraham and Ishmael were circumcised the same day. ²⁷And all the men who lived in his household, those born to his employees as well as those bought from foreigners, were also circumcised.

The Son of Promise

18 About three months later, the Lord appeared to Abraham one day as he was sitting at the entrance of his tent which was pitched among the great oak trees of Mamre. ²Abraham looked up and saw three men heading in his direction. Quickly he got up and ran to welcome them. He bowed low with his face to the ground and said,

³“Please don’t pass me by. Come in and stay awhile and refresh yourselves. Come, let me serve you. ⁴I’ll get some water to cool your feet and you can rest in the shade of these beautiful trees. ⁵Then I’ll bring you something to eat to renew your strength before you go on your way. You’ll honor me if you accept my invitation.” The men said, “Thank you. We’ll accept.”

⁹Upon finishing, they asked him, “Where is your wife Sarah?” Abraham answered, “She’s in the tent.”

¹⁰Then one of them, the One who was the Lord, said, “Nine months from now, I’ll be back, after your wife Sarah gives birth to a son.” Sarah, who was in the tent, overheard what was said. ¹¹Now Abraham and Sarah were very old, and she had stopped having monthly periods long before. ¹²So when she heard this, she laughed and said to herself, “At my age I should become pregnant? And Abraham—he’s almost a hundred years old!”

¹³Then the Lord said to Abraham, “Why is Sarah laughing and saying that she’s too old to have a child? ¹⁴Is anything too hard for the Lord? As I said, I will be back nine months from now after Sarah has had her baby.”

¹⁵When the visitors stood up and were ready to leave, Sarah came out of the tent to say good-bye and said to the One who predicted she would have a baby, “I didn’t laugh at what you said.” He answered, “Yes, you did.”

Abraham Intercedes

¹⁶Then Abraham went with the three men to see them on their way. They walked up one of the nearby hills in the direction of Sodom and Gomorrah, and there they said good-bye. ¹⁷But just as they were parting, the Lord turned to the other two and said, “Shall I tell Abraham what I need to do? ¹⁸After all, I did promise to make him the father of many nations and through him bring a blessing to the whole world. ¹⁹I promised this because I know that he will be an example to his children, his servants and his descendants. He will teach them to obey me and to do what is right and just. They will listen to what he says and follow his example. Then I will do for them what I promised to do for Abraham.”

²⁰Then the Lord told Abraham what He was going to do. He said, “The cry of the terrible things happening in Sodom and Gomorrah calls for my personal attention. ²¹So I have decided to come down with two of my angels to take a firsthand look at the situation.”

²²Before continuing, the Lord told the two who were with Him to go on ahead to Sodom while He stayed behind to talk with Abraham a little longer.

²³That’s when Abraham humbly asked, “You’re not planning to destroy the whole city, including all the innocent people, are you, Lord? ²⁴Suppose there are fifty innocent people in the city? You wouldn’t destroy them too, would you? Wouldn’t you spare the city to save them? ²⁵It’s not like you, Lord, to destroy innocent people in order to stop the wicked from sinning. If you did, the innocent would die unjustly with the guilty, and that wouldn’t be right. Shouldn’t the One who judges be just Himself?”

²⁶The Lord answered, “I promise that if I find fifty innocent people in Sodom, I’ll spare the whole town.” ²⁷Then Abraham said, “Lord, please excuse my boldness. I know I’m a mere human being who will return to dust, and I have no right to question you, ²⁸but suppose you find only forty-five innocent people in the whole city. Will you still destroy everyone there because the number of innocent people was five less than the fifty we just mentioned?”

The Lord said, “Even if I find only forty-five innocent people there, I won’t destroy the city.” ²⁹Abraham spoke up again, “Lord, suppose there are only forty innocent people in the city?”

The Lord answered, “I wouldn’t destroy the city even if there were forty innocent people.” ³⁰Then Abraham said, “Don’t be upset with me, Lord, but what if there were only thirty people in the city?”

The Lord said, “I wouldn’t destroy the city if there were thirty such people.” ³¹Abraham asked again, “Lord, please forgive me for my boldness, but what would you do if you found twenty innocent people there?”

The Lord answered, “I would not do it if there were twenty.” ³²Then Abraham spoke one last time, “Lord, just one more question; then I’ll keep quiet. What if you find only ten innocent people?”

The Lord said, “I’ll not destroy the city if I find ten such people there.” ³³After this the Lord went on toward Sodom and Gomorrah, and Abraham went back to his tent.

Sodom’s Sin

19It was toward evening when the two angels who had been with the Lord when they visited Abraham, arrived at the gates of Sodom. Lot was sitting by the gates, as the elders of the city do to welcome strangers. As soon as he saw these two men, he got up to meet them. He bowed with his face low to the ground and said, ²“Welcome. Please come to my house where you can wash your feet and spend the night. Then early tomorrow morning you can be on your way again.”

The men said, “Thank you for your kind offer, but we’ll find a place to stay downtown.”

³But Lot urged them, so they went with him. When they arrived at his house, Lot asked his servants to make fresh bread and prepare other food for his guests. And they ate what Lot had prepared for them. ⁴Not long after they had finished eating and before Lot’s guests went to bed, the men of Sodom surrounded the house, young and old from every part of town, ⁵and called Lot to come out. When he came out, they said, “Are your guests staying with you tonight? If so, tell them to come out. We want them to join us in a homosexual party.”

⁶When Lot heard that, he shut the door behind him, hoping his guests hadn’t heard. ⁷He said to the men of Sodom, “Friends, listen to me. Don’t try to force these visitors to do such evil. ⁸Look, I have two young daughters who are still virgins; let me bring them out and they can go with you to your party. But don’t make my guests go with you, because they came to my house at my urging, so I owe them protection.”

⁹But they said, “Get out of the way! You came here as a stranger, so you’re not our judge. If you don’t get out of the way, we’ll take you along too.” They stepped forward to pull Lot out of the way so they could break down the door.

¹⁰At that moment, the two visitors opened the door, pulled Lot in and quickly shut the door. ¹¹In that instant, they blinded the men outside, young and old alike, so they had to grope their way back home.

Sodom and Gomorrah Destroyed

¹²With Lot safely inside they said to him, “Do you have any other relatives living in this city besides your two daughters here at home—any sons? daughters? sons- or daughters-in-law? If so, you had better get them out of here, ¹³because we’ve been sent to destroy the whole city. The Lord has heard the evil cry of these sinful people and has sent us to take a firsthand look. The city has come to the point where it must be destroyed. While men have no right to take life, God does, for all life belongs to Him.”

¹⁴So that very night Lot went to see each of his daughters and his sons-in-law and told them what would happen. Then he said to them, “You need to get out of here as quickly as you can. Tomorrow morning the Lord is going to destroy the whole city because of its terrible wickedness.” But they merely smiled at what he said and refused to take him seriously.

¹⁵All night Lot tried to reason with his children, one by one, but they wouldn’t listen. In the wee morning hours when he returned home, the two men said, “We’re glad you’re back. Quick, take your wife and your two daughters and get out of here so you won’t perish. By sunrise the whole city and everyone in it will go up in smoke.”

¹⁶Lot hesitated to leave, but the men took him, his wife and his two daughters by the hand and pulled them out of the city. ¹⁷When they reached the edge of town, the men released them and said, “Now run for your lives! And don’t stop to look back! Keep going right on through the valley and up into the hills.”

¹⁸Lot said, “Please don’t make us go up into the hills. ¹⁹You’ve been very kind to save our lives, but it’s difficult to live in the mountains, and they’re so far away. Besides, we can’t run that far or that fast. We would die before we got there. ²⁰Can’t we go to that little town nearby? Please! It’s only a small village, and we can run that far. Besides, it’s safer than the mountains.”

²¹The men said, “All right, you may go there, and for your sake we won't destroy that village as we had planned. ²²But hurry! Run! We can't do anything until you're safe." Because Lot referred to the village he went to as little, the place has ever since been called Zoar, meaning Small Town.

²³It was about sunrise when Lot and his family approached Zoar. While most of the people in Sodom slept, the men still bent on evil returned to Lot's house, but found it empty. ²⁴Suddenly the sky exploded with fire, and blazing sulfur and brimstone rained down on Sodom and Gomorrah. ²⁵Both cities were destroyed, as was everything in the valley, including the ripened grain and all the people. ²⁶Lot's wife, who had begged to live in Sodom, looked back longingly toward her home and was instantly turned into a statue of salt.

²⁷Early that morning Abraham returned to the hilltop where he had said good-bye to his guests the day before and where he had talked with the Lord. ²⁸He looked in the direction of Sodom and Gomorrah and saw the whole valley full of fire and smoke. It looked like a blazing furnace.

²⁹The Lord heard the prayers and concerns of Abraham for his nephew and saved Lot and his family from the city before His angels destroyed it.

Lot's Descendants

³⁰After this Lot was afraid to stay even in little Zoar. So he and his two daughters made their way up into the mountains where they had first been asked to go and moved into a cave. ³¹After settling in, the older daughter said to her sister, "There are no men up here for us to marry and have children by; the only one here is Father, and he's getting old. ³²Let's get Father drunk and sleep with him, and he'll never know it. That way we can preserve our family line."

³³The younger sister agreed, and that night they got their father drunk. The oldest daughter slept with her father without his knowing when she laid down or when she got up.

³⁴The next day the oldest daughter said to her sister, "I slept with Father last night and now it's your turn. Let's see if we can get him drunk again, then you can sleep with him. This way we'll both get pregnant and can have our children together. ³⁵And that's what they did. They got their father drunk and the younger sister slept with him. This time too, he didn't know when she laid down or when she got up.

³⁶In this way both girls got pregnant by their father without his realizing what had happened. ³⁷The older daughter gave birth to a son and named him Moab, and he became the father of the Moabites. ³⁸The younger daughter also gave birth to a son and called him Benammi, who became the father of the Ammonites.

Abraham and Abimelech

20 About this time Abraham moved south from Mamre where he had been and settled between the cities of Kadesh and Shur near the town of Gerar. ²While there he said to those who asked him whether Sarah was his wife, "She's my sister." So Abimelech, king of Gerar, sent for Sarah to make this beautiful woman his wife.

³But during the night, God spoke to Abimelech in a dream and said, "If you so much as touch that woman, you'll die, because she is Abraham's wife."

⁴Abimelech had not even come near her, so he said, "Lord, we did nothing wrong. Surely you're not going to let innocent people who sinned in ignorance suffer. ⁵Abraham told me that she was his sister, and when I asked her, she said, 'Yes, he's my brother.' So in all honesty of heart I sent for her. But even though I sent for her, I'm still innocent because I haven't even touched her."

⁶Then God said to Abimelech in a night vision, "I know you did this in all honesty. But I spoke to you because I wanted to stop you before you sinned against me by touching her. This is why I'm speaking to you, not because I'm holding you guilty. ⁷Now give Abraham back his wife. He holds the office of a prophet, and he will pray for you and no harm will come to you. If you don't give her back, both you and all those who belong to you will die."

⁸The next morning, Abimelech got up early and called in all his servants and told them about the night vision and what God had said. And they were all afraid. ⁹Then Abimelech called Abraham and said to him, "What have you done to us? And what have I personally done to you for you to almost bring a disaster on me, my family and my country? No one should ever do what you have done to me. ¹⁰Answer me! Why did you lie to me about your wife?"

¹¹Abraham said, "I didn't think anyone here respected my God so I thought you might kill me to get my wife. ¹²That's why I said she's my sister, which is true. She is my half-sister. We have the same father but not the same mother. We fell in love and got married, so, yes, she is my wife. ¹³And when the Lord asked me to leave my father's house to come east, I said to her, 'Please be kind to me and tell people that I'm your brother, so they won't kill me for you because you're so beautiful.' And she agreed."

¹⁴Then Abimelech gave Sarah back to Abraham and also gave him sheep, oxen and servants as farewell gifts. ¹⁵He said to Abraham, "In addition to these gifts, I'm opening up the whole country for you. Live wherever you like."

¹⁶And to Sarah he said, "I'm giving your half-brother and husband one thousand pieces of silver for him to keep just for you. I want this to be a reminder that I am innocent of having touched you and that you are as innocent as when you came into my house."

¹⁷Then Abraham prayed for Abimelech and asked the Lord to heal him and his family and his servants so they could have children and the family name would not die out. ¹⁸The Lord answered Abraham's prayer and healed Abimelech's household.

Sarah Conceives and Isaac Is Born

21 The Lord also restored Sarah's ability to conceive, as He had promised. ²She became pregnant and gave Abraham a son in his old age. The baby was born when the Lord had said he would be. ³Abraham named him Isaac, meaning He Made Us Laugh. ⁴When Isaac was only eight days old, Abraham circumcised him as God had instructed. ⁵Abraham was one hundred years old when Isaac was born.

⁶Sarah was so happy, she said, "God has made me laugh for joy and everyone who hears about my joy will laugh with me. ⁷Who could have predicted this and who could have told my husband that his wife, at her age, would be nursing a baby?"

¹¹This hurt Abraham because he loved Ishmael also. ¹²Then God said to Abraham, "I know you feel hurt, but don't worry about the future of Ishmael and his mother Hagar. I'll watch over them. Do what Sarah asked you to do, because Isaac will be your heir and should be considered your firstborn. ¹³I'll take care of Hagar and will bless Ishmael and increase his offspring, so that he will become a great people because he too is your son."

¹⁴The next day Abraham talked to Hagar and told her what God had said. She accepted God's instruction, and when she was ready to go, Abraham gave her all she needed, including food and water for her trip. So the mother and son made their way south on one of the trade routes toward Beersheba.

¹⁵But soon their water bag was empty, and still no caravan had come. Hagar had been hoping that a caravan would come and give them a ride to Egypt. She found a large bush and told her son to stay in the shade while she went to find some water. ¹⁶She walked only a short distance and fell on her knees and said, "If God wants me to die from thirst, I'm willing, but to watch my son die out here is just too much." Then she started crying.

¹⁷However, God saw Hagar and Ishmael and heard their prayers. So He sent an angel from heaven to speak to Hagar. The angel said, "Hagar, don't be afraid. And don't worry. God has seen your tears and heard your prayers and has sent me to help you. ¹⁸Go back and get your son, but first let me show you where you can find some water. You will both live, and your son will become the father of a great nation."

¹⁹When she looked in the direction the angel was pointing, she saw a spring. She ran to fill her jug. Now she and her son had plenty to drink.

²⁰God took care of Hagar and Ishmael, and they caught a caravan going south and settled just this side of Egypt. That is where the boy grew up and became a very skillful hunter. ²¹When Ishmael reached manhood, he and his mother went to Egypt to find a wife for him, and when they found one, they came back and lived in the area known as Paran.

An Agreement With Abimelech

²²About this time, Abimelech with Phicol, his commander, went to see Abraham and said to him, "We know that God is with you and that you obey Him in everything you do. ²³We would like you to take an oath and promise by your God that you will never again deceive me, my son or my descendants by telling me only part of the truth. Also, because I was kind to you and protected your people, I want you to take another oath and promise that you will be kind to me and protect my people."

²⁴Abraham answered, "I promise before God that I will do both just as you said."

²⁷Then Abraham gave Abimelech sheep and oxen as a sign of ratification of the agreement the two of them had made.

²⁸In addition, he selected seven special lambs from the flock and offered them to Abimelech. ²⁹Then Abimelech said, "What does this mean? Why this special selection of seven lambs?"

³⁰Abraham said, "Please accept these seven lambs as an acknowledgment by you that I have dug this well."

³¹Abimelech accepted the seven lambs, so they named the place Beersheba, meaning The Well of Agreement, or The Well of Seven.

³²After they had made the agreement, Abimelech and Phicol, his commander, returned to their home in Philistia.

³³Then Abraham planted a grove of tamarisk trees around the Beersheba well, and there he worshiped the Lord and thanked Him for His protection.

³⁴And Abraham stayed in the land of the Philistines for a long time.

Abraham's Faith

22 Some time after this, when Isaac had grown to be a young man, God decided to test Abraham's loyalty. One night He called to him, "Abraham!" Abraham answered, "Yes, Lord, here I am."

²God said, "Take your son, the only one you have, the one you love so much, and go with him three days' travel to Mount Moriah. There at the top of the mountain I want you to offer up Isaac to me as a human sacrifice."

³Confused and pained over such a command, Abraham nevertheless obeyed. He quietly woke up two young servants and told them to load some donkeys with food, water and wood. Then even more quietly, so as not to wake Sarah, he woke up Isaac, and long before sunrise they were on their way to Mount Moriah. ⁴After two painful days and nights of wrestling with his conscience, on the third day Abraham saw in the distance Mount Moriah, the mountain to which God had sent him.

⁵Later that day, when they got to the base of the mountain, Abraham said to his servants, "Stay here with the donkeys while Isaac and I go to the top and offer a sacrifice to God. We'll be back later." After going over and over the promise God had made to him that he would have descendants, Abraham had come to the point where he had total confidence that God would solve the problem by raising Isaac from the dead.

⁶So he took the wood and put it on Isaac's back, while he carried the sacrificial knife and the live coals for the fire, and they started up the mountain. ⁷As they climbed, Isaac said, "Father?" Abraham answered, "Yes, my son?" Isaac questioned, "We have the wood and the fire, but where is the lamb?"

⁸Abraham replied, "God will provide one, my son." So the two of them silently walked up the mountain together. ⁹Finally they reached the top. Together they found some stones, arranged them to build an altar and put the wood on top. Then Abraham told Isaac what God had said. Though sad, Isaac saw it as a privilege to give up his life for God while he was young. He let Abraham tie his hands, then he willingly lay down on the altar. ¹⁰Abraham offered a prayer, then trembling, raised the sacrificial knife high above his head so he could bring it down with force to quickly end his son's life. ¹¹At that moment, the Lord called out, "Abraham!"

He turned and answered, "Yes, Lord, here I am!" ¹²The Lord said, "Stop! Don't hurt the young man. You have proven your loyalty to me in the sight of the whole universe, because you have not held back your only son whom I know you dearly love."

¹³Abraham wept for joy, untied Isaac's hands, then saw a ram caught by his horns in some thorn bushes. Quickly they got the animal, and Abraham offered the sacrifice God had provided in place of his son. ¹⁴So Abraham named the place Jehovah-Jireh, meaning The Lord Sees and Provides. Ever since then people have called the place The Mountain Where the Lord Provided.

¹⁵Then the Lord said to Abraham, ¹⁶"I swear by My own name that I will bless you because you listened to me and in your heart offered up your only son as a sacrifice, no matter how painful it was to you. ¹⁷I promise to multiply your descendants until they are as numerous as the stars of heaven or the sand along the seashore. They will conquer the cities of their enemies, and from your offspring will come the Seed who will conquer death. ¹⁸Through Him all the nations on earth will be blessed. The Seed will come from your lineage because you have trusted and obeyed me."

¹⁹Then Abraham and Isaac made their way down the mountain to where the servants were and together went back to Beersheba where they lived.

Nahor, Abraham's Brother

²⁰Some time later Abraham learned that since he had left Ur in the land of the Chaldeans, his brother Nahor with his wife Milcah had had eight sons. ²¹Their firstborn was Uz; next was Buz; Kemuel, who was the father of Aram, was third. ²²Then came Chesed, Hazo, Pildash, Jidlaph and Bethuel. ²³Bethuel was the father of Rebecca who would become the wife of Isaac. These are the eight nephews of Abraham, sons of his brother Nahor and his wife Milcah. ²⁴Nahor had four other children by Reumah his concubine, which were Tebah, Gaham, Tahash and Maacah.

Sarah's Death

23 Sarah lived another thirty-seven years after Isaac was born until she was one hundred and twenty-seven years old. ²She died in Kiriath Arba which is Hebron in the land of Canaan. Abraham wept over her and decided to bury her there.

³So he prepared her body for burial and went to the descendants of Heth, known as Hittites, and said, ⁴"I'm only a guest in your country, and through your kindness you have allowed me to settle here. My wife Sarah has just died. Would you please sell me a piece of land so I can give her a permanent resting place?"

⁵The descendants of Heth answered, ⁶"We know you are a leader and prince among us. Pick the choicest land you want and give your wife a permanent resting place. Not one of us would keep you from having the piece of land you choose."

⁷Then Abraham stood and bowed his head in gratitude before the Hittites. He said, ⁸"If you are willing that I choose the best land and give my wife a permanent resting place, please speak to Ephron, the son of Zohar, to see if he will sell me a piece of his land. ⁹I would like to bury my wife in the cave of Machpelah which is at this end of his property. I will pay him whatever he thinks it's worth so I may own it and give it to my wife as her last resting place."

¹⁰Now Ephron was sitting among the Hittite leaders gathered there, and he answered Abraham in the hearing of all the men sitting there, ¹¹"I'll be glad to give you that whole piece of land, including the cave. I agree to give it to you openly in front of all of our leaders so you can have a place to bury your wife."

¹²Then Abraham bowed again in front of the Hittites ¹³and said for all of them to hear, "Please be so kind as to listen to me once more. I would consider it an honor to pay for the land and would like to feel that my last gift to Sarah really cost me something. So do let me pay you for your land."

¹⁴Ephron answered, ¹⁵"Sir, that piece of land is worth only four hundred pieces of silver. Such a small sum would never come between us. Just go ahead and bury your wife there."

¹⁷So the land which had belonged to Ephron, including the cave and all the trees that were on it, now became Abraham's property. ¹⁸And it was acknowledged by all the Hittite leaders present that this piece of land now legally belonged to Abraham. ¹⁹Then Abraham buried his wife Sarah in the cave of Machpelah near Mamre in Hebron in the land of Canaan. ²⁰So the land and the cave which had belonged to the Hittites now belonged to Abraham, and it was ever after accepted as such by the local people as Abraham's burial ground.

Isaac and Rebecca

24 The Lord continued to bless Abraham in all that he did. And when he was very old, ²he called in his household servant to come see him, the one who had been with him the longest, who was in charge of everything he owned. Abraham said, "I want you to make me a promise and confirm it by placing your hand under my thigh and taking an oath. ³Promise me before the Lord God of heaven and earth that you will see that my son Isaac does not marry one of the girls here in Canaan. ⁴I want you to choose a wife for him from my country, from among my relatives."

⁵Then the servant asked, "What if I go to your relatives and find a suitable girl for Isaac, but the girl doesn't want to come and live here? Should Isaac go back to your country and live there?"

⁶Abraham answered, "Absolutely not! Whatever you do, don't send my son to live there! ⁷The Lord God of heaven told me to leave my country, my relatives and my own brothers. He told me to come to this country to live, and He promised to give this land to my descendants. So I believe that the Lord will help you find a wife for my son and that she'll be willing to come back here with you. ⁸But if you find a girl for Isaac and she doesn't want to come back here to live, you are free from this promise." ⁹So the servant put his hand under Abraham's thigh and took the oath he was asked to take.

¹⁰Since he was in charge of all that Abraham owned, he not only chose everything he needed for the long trip, but also gifts for Abraham's brother Nahor and his family who were living in the city of Nahor in the Haran region. With ten loaded camels he headed for Abraham's homeland in northern Mesopotamia. ¹¹When he arrived, he made his camels lie down by the well just outside the city. It was late in the afternoon about the time the women of the city came to the well to draw water.

¹²Then the servant prayed, "Lord God, the God of my master Abraham, please help me today and be kind to my master, as you promised. ¹³I'm standing here at a well waiting for the young women of the city to come to draw water. ¹⁴I will ask each one as they come to fill their jars, 'Please, may I have a drink of water?' And if one of them says, 'I'll be happy to give you a drink, and I'll even draw water for your camels because they must be thirsty too,' may this be the one that you have picked for your servant Isaac. If this happens, then I'll know that you are really interested in my master Abraham's son as you told him you were."

¹⁵Before he said Amen, the first young woman was coming from the city to the well with a large water jar on top of her shoulder. Her name was Rebecca, daughter of Bethuel, who was the son of Nahor, Abraham's brother, and of his wife Milcah. ¹⁶She was very beautiful and was still a virgin. She walked down the steps to the well and filled her jar with water. As she came up, ¹⁷Eleazar approached her and said, "Please, may I have a drink?"

¹⁸She answered, "Of course! I'll be happy to give you a drink." So she lowered the large jar from her shoulder and held it while he drank. ¹⁹When he finished, she said, "Your camels must be thirsty too. Let me get some water for them." ²⁰She went over to where the camels were and emptied her jar into the drinking trough, then ran back down the stairs of the well to get more. She did this until all the camels were watered.

²¹The servant of Abraham was amazed, wondering if she would finish watering all ten camels. This would indicate for sure that this was the girl the Lord had chosen for Isaac. ²²When Rebecca finished watering the camels, Eleazar took a small gold nose ring and two large gold bracelets and said to her, "Thank you for what you have done." He put the gold bracelets on her arms and gave her the gold nose ring, ²³then he asked, "What is your name, and whose daughter are you? Do you think that your father would mind if my servants and I stayed at his house tonight?"

²⁴Rebecca answered, "Thank you for these gifts. My name is Rebecca, and I'm the daughter of Bethuel, the son of Nahor and Milcah. ²⁵I'm sure my father will let you stay at our house tonight; there's lots of room for you and your servants. Our barns are full of straw, and there's plenty of food for the camels."

²⁶Then the servant bowed down and worshiped God and said in the hearing of Rebecca, ²⁷"Thank you, Lord. May your name be praised. Truly you are the God of my master Abraham. You have let me see your kindness and truthfulness. You have kept your promise to bless my master Abraham and his descendants, and you have led me straight to his relatives."

³²So the servants followed Laban to the house. When they got there, Laban unloaded the camels, took them to the barn and fed them. Then he brought water to Eleazar and his men so they could wash up before the evening meal. ³³Laban invited everyone into the house and ordered his servants to bring on the food so the men could eat. But Eleazar said, "The meal can wait. I will not eat until I've told you why I've come here." Laban said, "Fine, tell us."

³⁴Eleazar answered, "I am Abraham's chief servant. ³⁵The Lord has greatly blessed my master and he has become a very rich man. The Lord has given him huge flocks of sheep and goats, large herds of cattle, plus silver and gold, and numerous men and women servants, not to mention unnumbered camels and donkeys. ³⁶Sarah, my master's wife, gave birth to a son when she was ninety years old, which was a miracle in itself. And Abraham has now turned everything over to his son, Isaac. ³⁷One day recently, my master called me in and said, 'I want you to take an oath and promise me that you will not let my son marry one of the girls here in Canaan, ³⁸but that you will go to the land where I grew up and visit my relatives to see if you can find a suitable young woman for him there.'

find a suitable young woman there, but she doesn't want to come here?' ⁴⁰He said to me, 'The Lord whom I serve and whom I have always obeyed will send an angel to go with you and help you find a wife for my son from among my own relatives. ⁴¹After you find a suitable young woman—and you will—ask her family to let her come with you. If they refuse, or if she refuses to come, then you are free from your oath.'

⁴²"So when I got here, I stopped at the city well and prayed, 'O Lord, You are the God of my master Abraham, so please help me find a suitable young woman for my master's son.' ⁴³When I came to this well, I told myself that soon the young women would be coming to draw water. I would ask each one to give me a drink of water from her jar. ⁴⁴And the one who says, 'I'll be glad to, and I'll even water your camels for you,' let her be the one you have chosen to be the wife of my master's son.

⁴⁵"I had hardly finished praying when Rebecca came along with her jar on her shoulder and went down the stairs to draw water from the well. When she came up, I went over to her and said, 'Please, may I have a drink of water?' ⁴⁶She quickly took down the jar from her shoulder and said, 'I'll be happy to give you a drink, and I'll water your camels too.' So I took a drink and watched her as she went up and down the stairs to draw water for my ten camels, which was no small task.

⁴⁷"When she finished, I asked her, 'What's your name and who is your father?' She answered, 'My name is Rebecca. I'm the daughter of Bethuel who is the son of Nahor and Milcah.' As soon as I heard that, I gave her a small gold nose ring and put a gold bracelet on each of her arms.

⁴⁸"Then I knelt down and said, 'O Lord, God of my master Abraham, may your name be praised because you led me straight to my master's relatives and helped me find a young woman for my master's son.' ⁴⁹And now that I've told you the story, please be so kind as to let me know whether or not you will let Rebecca come with me to my master Abraham's house to be his son's wife, so I can know your answer before I eat."

⁵⁰Then Rebecca's father Bethuel and Laban, her oldest brother, said, "Since this is the Lord's doing, how can we say no? ⁵¹It's up to Rebecca. You need to ask her. She's the one who has to decide whether or not she thinks the Lord led you here and if she wants to marry your master's son."

⁵²So Abraham's servant asked Rebecca. When she gave her acceptance, he fell on his knees and thanked the Lord for all His blessings. ⁵³Then he opened his packs and brought out beautiful dresses and gold and silver jewelry and gave them to Rebecca. He also gave expensive gifts to her parents and to her brothers and sisters. ⁵⁴Only after Abraham's servant had given gifts to everyone, did he and his men sit down to eat.

After a good night's sleep they got up early the next morning and said to Rebecca's family, "We would like to get going as soon as we load our camels."

⁵⁵But her mother and her older brother Laban said, "Let Rebecca stay with us a week or ten days, then she can go."

⁵⁶But the servant said, "Please don't make me stay any longer than I have to. The Lord has made my trip worthwhile and I'm eager to get home." ⁵⁷They said, "Let's ask Rebecca and see what she wants to do." ⁵⁸So they called Rebecca and said, "Are you willing to go with them today?"

She answered, "I'm willing to go today." ⁵⁹Then the men loaded the camels, and that very day the family let Rebecca and her maid go with Abraham's servant back to Canaan. ⁶⁰Before she left, the family blessed her and said, "Rebecca, dear, may God bless you and may you become the mother of many people, and may your descendants always be victorious." ⁶¹Then Rebecca with her maid mounted the camels and left with Abraham's servant to go to Canaan.

⁶²In the meantime, Isaac had returned from attending the flocks in another area of the country to be with his father Abraham, who was then living near Beersheba. ⁶³One day toward evening, as he took a walk in the field to pray and meditate, he saw in the distance a small caravan of camels. He sensed that it might be his father's servant, so he decided to meet the caravan. This was not far from the well called Beer Lahai Roi, meaning The Well of the One Who Sees Me, the name Hagar gave it after God helped her find water for herself and her child. ⁶⁴Rebecca had been watching too, because Abraham's servant told her that they were nearing home. As she scanned the horizon, she saw a man walking alone in the field. Sensing it might be Isaac, she asked the caravan to stop, and she slipped off the camel.

⁶⁵She asked the servant, "Is that Isaac walking in the field coming to meet us?" The servant answered, "Yes, that's my young master." Then Rebecca took her veil and covered her face, as was the custom for young virgins to do.

⁶⁶When they met, the servant greeted Isaac, introduced him to Rebecca and told him everything that had happened. ⁶⁷Then Isaac led the caravan to his father's encampment and took Rebecca to his mother's tent, and she became his wife. He loved her very much, and she loved him and helped him over his grief from the loss of his mother.

Abraham Remarries

25 About this time Abraham married again. He took a wife whose name was Keturah. ²With her Abraham had six sons: Zimran, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak and Shuah. ³Jokshan's sons were Sheba and Dedan. The descendants of Dedan were Asshurim, Letushim and Leummim. ⁴Midian's sons were Ephah, Epher, Hanoch, Abida and Eldaah. All of these were the offspring of Abraham and Keturah.

⁵Abraham left everything he owned to Isaac. ⁶But while he lived, he gave gifts to all his sons, and as they grew and married, he asked them to settle toward the east, in order to leave Palestine for Isaac.

Abraham Dies

⁷This then is the life of Abraham: He lived to be one hundred and seventy-five years old. ⁸He lived to a ripe old age and then went to sleep as his ancestors had done. ⁹Isaac and Ishmael buried him in the cave of Machpelah near Mamre, which had once belonged to Ephron, the son of Zohar the Hittite. ¹⁰This was the cave that Abraham had bought from the Hittites as a burial site for Sarah, his wife. ¹¹After Abraham died, the blessings and promises of God belonged to Isaac. He had settled with Abraham his father near the well Beer Lahai Roi.

Ishmael and Isaac

¹²The twelve sons of Ishmael, Abraham's son by Hagar, the Egyptian maid of Sarah, ¹³are here listed in order of their birth: Nebaioth, Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam, ¹⁴Mishma, Dumah, Massa, ¹⁵Hadad, Tema, Jetur, Naphish and Kedemah. ¹⁶These are the heads of twelve tribes, all descendants of Ishmael, and twelve areas of the country are named after them, as are many towns and villages. ¹⁷Ishmael lived one hundred and thirty-seven years and was buried with his people. ¹⁸The descendants of Ishmael lived between Havilah and Shur in the area just east of Egypt. All his relatives were present when he died.

¹⁹The story of the descendants of Isaac, Abraham's son by Sarah, is as follows: ²⁰Isaac was forty years old when he married Rebecca, the daughter of Bethuel the Aramean, and sister of Laban the Aramean, both of whom lived in Mesopotamia. ²¹Rebecca was not able to have children, so Isaac prayed to the Lord, and the Lord answered his prayer. Soon afterward Rebecca became pregnant. ²²Months passed and the babies began to struggle inside her. "What's happening to me?" she asked the Lord.

²³God said, "This means that two nations and two kinds of people are in your womb. The twin boys you're carrying are totally different from each other, and there will always be rivalry between them and their offspring. But one nation will be stronger than the other, and the older will serve the younger."

²⁴So when the time came for her to be delivered, she had twin boys, just as the Lord had said. ²⁵The first boy to come out was reddish with lots of hair, even some on his body, so they called him Esau, which means Hairy. ²⁶The other twin came out holding tightly to his brother's heel, and they called him Jacob, which means Heel-holder. Isaac was sixty years old when they were born.

²⁷As the boys grew, the parents could see that there was considerable difference between the two. Esau was the restless type and interested in hunting, at which he became quite skilled, while Jacob was quiet and preferred to stay at home and care for the sheep. ²⁸As the years went by, Isaac favored Esau because he loved deer meat, while Rebecca favored Jacob.

Esau Sells His Birthright

²⁹One day when Jacob was out in the field tending the sheep and cooking lentils in front of his tent, Esau stopped by, very tired after hours of fruitless hunting. ³⁰He said to Jacob, "Please let me have some of that red stuff because I'm starved and exhausted." That's why the people later called him Edom, meaning Red.

³¹Jacob answered, "First, give me the priestly privileges of your birthright." ³²Esau said, "Look, I need something to eat! What good are the priestly privileges of my birthright if I starve to death? You can have them!"

³³Jacob replied, "Wait! Don't just say, 'You can have them.' Take an oath, so I'll know that you mean it." So Esau took an oath to show that he meant what he said.³⁴ Then Jacob gave him as many lentils as he could eat, and Esau ate and drank until he was full. Without even thinking about what he had just given away, Esau said good-bye and left. But Jacob had run ahead of God's providence, just as Abraham had in fathering Ishmael.

Isaac and Abimelech

26 Another famine came on the land, similar to the one which happened during the time of Abraham. Isaac moved into the territory of Abimelech, king of the Philistines, and settled near the city of Gerar.² Here the Lord appeared to Isaac in a dream and said, "Don't go to Egypt. Stay here, and I'll tell you where and when to move to survive the famine.³ Stay in this land, and I'll be with you and bless you. This land will belong to you and your descendants as I promised your father Abraham.⁴ I will multiply your descendants, and they will be as numerous as the stars in the heavens. This land will belong to your descendants, and from them blessings will flow out to the whole world.⁵ I made this promise to your father Abraham because he followed my instructions, even though it seemed unreasonable to him. He also kept my commandments and my laws."⁶ So Isaac stayed near the city of Gerar where he and his family had pitched camp.

⁷One day the Philistines in the area asked about his wife, who also was his second cousin. He lied and said, "She's my sister." He said this because he was afraid that if they knew he was her husband, they would kill him so they could have Rebecca, because she was a very beautiful woman.

⁸Isaac and Rebecca lived there a long time. One day the Philistine king named Abimelech, like his ancestor, was looking out the window when he saw Isaac caressing his wife Rebecca.⁹ Then Abimelech had Isaac brought to him and said, "What have you done? You told us Rebecca was your sister when she's really your wife! How could you do this to us?"

Isaac answered, "I was afraid someone would kill me just to get her if I said she was my wife."¹⁰ Abimelech said, "But by telling us she's your sister, one of our men might have forced her to go home with him, and your God would have punished our whole country for that!"¹¹ Then Abimelech issued an order to all his people that anyone who touched Isaac or Rebecca would be executed on the spot.

¹²So the couple continued to live there, respected by the people and protected by the king. That same year Isaac planted crops, and the Lord blessed him. When harvest time came, he reaped a hundred times more than he had sown.¹³ So Isaac prospered and became one of the richest men in that area.¹⁴ He had many herds of cattle and flocks of sheep and scores of servants, so much so that the local Philistines became jealous.¹⁵ All the wells which Isaac's father Abraham had dug when he was still alive, the Philistines had filled them with dirt.

¹⁶Abimelech finally told Isaac, "Why don't you just move away from here, because you're already so much richer than any of us."¹⁷ So Isaac moved away and set up camp in the Valley of Gerar.¹⁸ He re-dug some of the wells which the Philistines had filled in after Abraham had died. Then Isaac gave them the same names his father had given them.

¹⁹One day Isaac's servants were digging a new well in the valley when they came across a spring of bubbling water.²⁰ The local herdsmen argued with Isaac's servants over who had the right to the spring. They said, "The spring belongs to us because we lived here before you did." So Isaac called the spring Esek, meaning The Place of Quarrel, because the herdsmen were always arguing over it.²¹ Then Isaac's servants dug another new well nearby, but soon the local herdsmen argued over that one too. So Isaac called it Sitnah, meaning The Place of Hatred.²² This time he told his servants to dig a well in another valley, which they did, and there was no more arguing. So Isaac called this one Rehoboth, meaning Lots of Room, and he said, "The Lord made room for us, and now we can grow and prosper again."

²³Soon after this Isaac made a trip to the area of Beersheba. ²⁴While he was there, the Lord said to him in a dream, "I am the God of your father Abraham, so don't be afraid, because I am with you as I was with your father, and I will bless you and multiply your descendants just as I promised him." ²⁵So Isaac built an altar there and worshiped the Lord. Then he returned home and moved his family and his herds to Beersheba, and his servants dug the needed wells.

²⁶After Isaac had settled there, Abimelech, with Ahuzzath his adviser and Phicol his commander, left the city of Gerar and went to Beersheba to talk with Isaac. ²⁷Isaac was surprised to see them and said, "Why have you come all this way to see me when you didn't even want me to live near you? In fact, you asked me to leave the area near Gerar, which I did."

²⁸They said, "We now know that the Lord is with you, so we decided to come to see if we could make an agreement between us and seal it with an oath. ²⁹This agreement would simply be that you would not harm our people, but be good to them just as we've been good to you and sent you away in peace. We did it because we knew that the Lord was with you and that He was protecting you."

³⁰So Isaac had his servants prepare a feast, and they ate and drank together. ³¹Early the next morning they made their agreement and sealed it with an oath. Then they said good-bye and parted as friends.

³²That same day, Isaac's servants told him that they had found more water and had dug still another well, enough to take care of his herds and flocks. ³³So Isaac called the new well Sheba, meaning The Place Where I Took an Oath, and this is how the present city of Beersheba retained its name.

³⁴Now when Esau was about forty years old, instead of marrying one of his distant relatives as his father Isaac had done, he married two Hittite girls. One was Judith, the daughter of Beerli, and the other Basemath (also called Adah), the daughter of Elon. ³⁵They were a constant source of grief to Isaac and Rebecca.

Isaac Blesses Jacob

27When Isaac was old and nearly blind, he called Esau, his firstborn and said to him, "My son, come here; I want to talk to you." So Esau sat down and said, "Here I am, Father."

²Then Isaac said, "I'm now old and nearly blind and don't know how much longer I'll live. ³So why don't you take your bow and go hunt a deer for me. ⁴Roast some of the meat and make it the way I like it. Then you and I can eat together. I want to give you what rightfully belongs to you, a double portion of everything I have before I die."

⁵Rebecca overheard what Isaac said to Esau and then watched Esau take his bow and head out to the fields to find a deer. ⁶She immediately called Jacob in and said to him, "Listen! I just overheard your father talking to your brother Esau. ⁷He told him to hunt a deer and roast the meat the way he likes it, then they'll sit down together and eat. Your father will give your brother a double portion of everything he has, because he's the firstborn. ⁸Hurry and do as I say, so you can have all the rights of the firstborn, temporal and spiritual, as God has said you should have. ⁹Go out to the herd in the field and get the two youngest goats you can find. We'll kill them and roast their meat and make it just as your father likes it. I'll cook it the way Esau cooks venison, and your father won't know the difference. ¹⁰Then you can take it in to him, and the two of you can eat together, and he'll will the inheritance of the firstborn to you."

¹¹Jacob hesitated to deceive his father,

so he said, "Even if I agree to do this, Father will know that I'm not Esau. I hardly have any hair on my arms, and Esau's arms are covered with hair. ¹²All Father has to do is reach over and take my hand and feel my arm. He'll know that I'm not Esau. Then instead of blessing me, he'll pronounce a curse on me for lying to him." ¹³Rebecca said, "Let God's curse be on me; I'll assume responsibility for this. Do as I say and go out to the herd and get a couple of young goats."

¹⁴So Jacob did what his mother had suggested and selected two young goats and brought them to Rebecca. She cooked the meat just the way Isaac loved it. ¹⁵Then she took some of Esau's clothes and told Jacob to put them on. ¹⁶She covered Jacob's hands, arms and neck with the skins from the two young goats. ¹⁷And she gave Jacob the platter of meat she had prepared and told him to take it to his father.

¹⁸Jacob took the meat to his father's tent, and as he came in, he gently called, "Father!" Isaac said, "I can barely hear you, my son. Who are you?"

¹⁹Jacob answered, "I'm Esau, your firstborn, and I've done what you asked me to do. Sit up and let's eat this special dish of venison together. It's made just the way you like it. Then you can give me the double portion that you told me about."

²⁰Isaac sat up and said, "How did you find a deer so soon and prepare this meat so quickly?" Jacob said, "Because God was with me and helped me." ²¹But Isaac had some doubts and said, "Come close to me, my son. I want to feel you to make sure you're Esau."

²²So Jacob came close to Isaac and his father felt him and said, "I'm puzzled, because you sound like Jacob, but your hands and arms feel like Esau's." ²³Isaac was not able to detect the deception because Jacob's hands and arms felt as hairy as Esau's. He said, "God bless you, my son, ²⁴but tell me honestly, are you really Esau?" Jacob answered, "Yes, I am."

²⁵Isaac then believed him and said, "Bring me the meat you prepared so I can enjoy your special recipe one last time, then I'll give you the inheritance of the firstborn." So Jacob brought him the dish of meat, poured out some freshly squeezed wine and watched his father eat and drink. ²⁶When Isaac finished eating, he murmured, "Come close to me again, my son, and give me a hug and kiss."

²⁷Jacob went up to his father and hugged and kissed him, and Isaac sniffed Jacob's clothes and said, "God bless you, my son. You smell just like the open fields which I love and which the Lord has blessed. ²⁸May the Lord God of heaven give you the rains you need to keep your pastures green, and may He give you abundant harvests of grapes and wheat. ²⁹May you have many servants, and may all nations respect you and your descendants. May your brother accept your authority as the firstborn, and may you and your descendants be respected by all who trace their ancestry back to your mother's womb. Cursed be everyone who curses you and blessings on everyone who blesses you. The double portion of the firstborn is now yours."

Esau's Lost Birthright

³⁰No sooner had Jacob thanked his father and given him a good-bye hug and kiss, than Esau came back from hunting.

³¹He skinned the deer and prepared the dish his father liked and brought it to him in his tent. As he came in he said, "Father, sit up and feast on the special dish that I made for you. Then you can give me the inheritance that you promised."

³²Isaac sat up and asked, "Which son are you?" Esau said, "I'm Esau, your firstborn." ³³Then Isaac began to shake, and with a trembling voice, he said, "Who did you say? I just ate a special dish of meat just before you came and gave a double portion of everything I have to him who brought it. There is no way to change that blessing!"

³⁴When Esau heard this, he cried out in bitterness and pain and pleaded, "O, my father, give me some kind of blessing!" ³⁵Isaac said, "It must have been your brother who came in pretending to be you. He took away the double portion which I intended to give to you."

³⁶Esau said, "Jacob hasn't been called Heel-holder for nothing. That's twice now he's tricked me. First, he took away my privileges as family priest, and now he has taken my inheritance! Father, isn't there one blessing left for me?"

³⁷Then Isaac answered, "Listen, my son. Jacob is now officially in charge of everything, including the servants, and all the future harvests of grapes and wheat will belong to him. So there is nothing left to give you unless he decides to do so."

³⁸With tears in his eyes, Esau pleaded, "Surely you have something for me, Father, at least a blessing, even if there is no inheritance that goes with it. Please, Father, please bless me." And Esau cried.

³⁹Isaac reached out to him, "Yes, my son, I do have a blessing for you. Listen, your future will not be in the harvests of the earth, nor will it depend on the rains from heaven. ⁴⁰But your future will lie in your skill as a hunter and in the use of the sword. Right now you're subject to your brother, but the time will come when you will break away from dependence on him and be totally free."

Jacob Escapes

⁴¹From then on Esau hated his brother Jacob because he had tricked his father into giving him the family fortune. He decided that he would kill Jacob as soon as Isaac his father died.

⁴²But Esau couldn't keep that thought to himself, and he shared it with others. Soon it got back to Rebecca. When she heard it, she sent for Jacob and warned, "Listen, my son, your brother Esau is saying that he'll kill you as soon as your father dies. The way your father's health is, this could happen tomorrow! ⁴³You need to leave immediately and go to visit my brother, Laban, in Mesopotamia. ⁴⁴Stay there with him until your brother's anger cools off. ⁴⁵I'll let you know when it's safe to return. Knowing your brother, he'll soon forget, and you can come back home. If you stay here, he'll kill you as soon as your father dies, and I couldn't take losing you and your father at the same time."

⁴⁶Then Rebecca went to see Isaac and said, "These Hittite women really bother me. They're constantly after Jacob, and I surely wouldn't want him to fall in love with one of them. If that happens, I'd just as soon die. I think we should send Jacob to my brother, Laban, in Mesopotamia to find a girl there."

28 Isaac listened to Rebecca and agreed to do just as Abraham had done when he sent his servant to find a wife for him. So Isaac called Jacob in and told him not to marry one of the local Hittite girls, ²but to go to his grandfather Bethuel in the region of Haran in Mesopotamia as his mother had suggested. There he should try to find a wife for himself from one of the daughters of Laban, his mother's brother. ³Then Isaac forgave Jacob and prayed, "May the Almighty God bless you and keep you and give you a safe journey. May He give you many children so that your descendants will become a great nation. ⁴May the blessings of God be with you and your descendants forever, and may you eventually inherit the land which He promised to your grandfather Abraham." ⁵Then Isaac and Jacob hugged and kissed each other, and Jacob said good-bye and left for the region of Haran in Mesopotamia to visit his grandfather Bethuel and his uncle Laban.

Esau Marries Mahalath

⁶When Esau heard that Isaac had approved Rebecca's plan for Jacob to go to Mesopotamia to find a wife and that his father had counseled Jacob not to marry a Hittite girl, ⁷and also that Jacob had listened to both of them and had already left for Mesopotamia, ⁸it finally dawned on him how strongly his parents disapproved of his having married the two Hittite girls. He now understood that they didn't want local women to be part of the family. ⁹So Esau went to visit his uncle Ishmael, Abraham's first son, and married Mahalath, his cousin, one of the daughters of Ishmael, and the sister of Nebaioth, in addition to the wives he already had.

Jacob at Bethel

¹⁰Meanwhile, Jacob headed north from Beersheba, taking the road to Mesopotamia. ¹¹The first night out he was very tired and stopped as soon as the sun began to set. He used a flat stone for a headrest and lay down and fell sound asleep. ¹²That night he had a dream. He saw a long staircase resting on the earth and reaching all the way to heaven, with angels going up and down on it. ¹³At the top of the staircase stood the Lord who said to Jacob, "I am the Lord God of your grandfather Abraham and of your father Isaac. The land you're sleeping on will someday belong to you and your descendants. ¹⁴It will be as difficult to number your descendants as to count the grains of sand on the seashore, and they will spread out to the west, to the east, to the north and to the south. Through them, all people on the earth will be blessed. ¹⁵I will be with you and protect you wherever you go, and I will bring you safely back home. I will never leave you or forsake you, and I will keep my promise to you, the same promise I made to your father and grandfather."

¹⁶Suddenly Jacob awakened and said, "I didn't know the Lord was standing in this very place when I went to sleep last night!" ¹⁷Then he was afraid and said to himself, "This is awesome! This place is holy! It's the gateway into heaven!"

¹⁸The rest of the night he couldn't sleep. So just as it began to dawn, he got up, gathered some rocks, stacked them up and put the stone he had used as a pillow on top. Then he poured some olive oil on it and made a commitment to the Lord. ¹⁹He called the place Bethel, meaning The House of God, even though the pagan village nearby was called Luz.

²⁰Then Jacob vowed, "Lord God, if you will be with me wherever I go and watch over me as you have promised, and if you will see that I don't go hungry or become a beggar, ²¹and if you will help me return home and find peace, then I'll know that you have accepted my confession and forgiven me. I will know that you care about me, and I will serve you forever. ²²This pillar of piled-up rocks will testify that this place is sacred. It seems as if you already live here; it's like a gateway into heaven. Also, I promise that whatever you give me, I will give one-tenth back to you."

Jacob Meets Rachel

29After many days Jacob arrived in Mesopotamia at the city where his grandfather Bethuel and his mother's brother Laban lived. ²He noticed a well on the outskirts of the city with three flocks of sheep waiting to be watered, but there was a huge stone covering the mouth of the well. ³The custom was that the stone could not be rolled away until all the flocks had come in from the field, and after they had been watered, then the stone would be rolled back again.

⁴He walked over to the shepherds and asked, "Where are you from?" They replied, "We're originally from Haran." ⁵Jacob said, "Do you know a man named Laban, whose grandfather is Nahor?" "Yes, we do," they answered. ⁶Jacob asked, "How is he?" "Fine," they said, "in fact, here comes his daughter Rachel with the family sheep."

⁷Jacob said, "There's something strange about all this. This isn't the time of day to bring in sheep from the field and let them stand here. Why don't you men water your sheep and then take them back to pasture? There's still lots of daylight left." ⁸They said, "We don't do that because it's the custom that no flock is watered ahead of any other. Only when they're all here do we roll away the stone."

⁹Jacob and the men were still talking about the custom of watering when Rachel arrived with her flock. ¹⁰And when Jacob saw Rachel taking her place in line to water his uncle Laban's flock, he went to the well and rolled away the stone so she and the men could water their sheep. ¹¹While Rachel was waiting her turn, Jacob went over and introduced himself as her cousin, then kissed her on the cheek and began to weep. ¹²When she learned that he was Rebecca's son, she ran home to tell her father, leaving the servants in charge of the sheep.

¹³And when Laban heard that his sister's son was here, he ran to the well to meet him. He hugged him, kissed him on both cheeks, brought him home and did everything he could to make him feel welcome. Then Jacob told the family everything that had happened since his mother left their home. ¹⁴When he finished, Laban said, "You are bone of my bone, flesh of my flesh. Stay here for the next month and see if you like it." So Jacob stayed and helped Laban take care of his sheep.

Leah and Rachel

¹⁵One day Laban said to Jacob, "You shouldn't be working for me for nothing, just because you're my nephew. How much do you want me to pay you?"

¹⁶Laban had two daughters; Leah was the oldest and Rachel, the youngest. ¹⁷Leah had weak eyes and little personality, while Rachel was shapely, with beautiful eyes and a sparkling personality. ¹⁸Jacob loved Rachel from the first day he saw her. He said to Laban, "I'm in love with your daughter, Rachel, but I don't have the right kind of security to think about marriage. I'm willing to stay here and work for you for seven years to build up a financial base, if at the end of that time you'll let me marry Rachel."

¹⁹Laban said, "I would prefer that you marry her to keep our families together than to have some stranger marry her. I'll accept your offer, and we'll look forward to the wedding." ²⁰So Jacob worked seven years for Laban to pay the dowry to marry Rachel. He loved Rachel very much and was so happy to be near her that the seven years seemed like nothing.

²¹When the time was up, Jacob went to Laban and said, "I have kept my part of the agreement and shown myself successful to guarantee Rachel a secure future. I would now like to go ahead and get married."

²²Laban agreed and set a date for the wedding. He planned a big celebration and invited family and friends from near and far. ²³During the reception when the time came for the bride to go to the bridal chambers as a sign of marriage, Laban sent Leah in instead of Rachel, and she willingly took part in the deception. A little while later Jacob followed. In the dark and in his eagerness to consummate their marriage, Jacob made love to Leah without realizing who she was. ²⁴It was the custom to let the bride keep her servant girl with her even after marriage, which Leah did. Her name was Zilpah.

²⁵In the morning when Jacob woke up and looked at his sleeping bride, it wasn't Rachel, it was Leah! He was furious and stormed out of the tent. He went to Laban and said, "What in the world have you done to me? I worked for you for seven years so I could marry Rachel and you agreed. But you've given me Leah! How could you do that to me?"

²⁶Laban said, "Calm down. You've been in our country long enough to know that it's not culturally acceptable to let the younger daughter get married before the older one. ²⁷Let's finish the week-long reception and at the end of the week, I'll announce to everyone that I'm giving you Rachel as well. That is, providing you work for me another seven years."

²⁸Jacob agreed, because he loved Rachel. So he went through the week-long celebration, looking forward to the end of the week. On the last day of the feast, Laban announced to everyone that he was giving Rachel to Jacob to be his second wife. ²⁹And as the custom was, Rachel kept her servant girl, Bilhah, just as Leah had done. ³⁰After Rachel had gone to the bridal chamber, Jacob followed her and consummated his marriage to Rachel as he had for Leah. And he worked for Laban another seven years.

Jacob's Descendants

³¹When the Lord saw that Leah was being shunned by Jacob, He caused her to get pregnant the very next time Jacob slept with her. But Rachel continued to be childless. ³²Leah conceived and gave birth to a son and named him Reuben, which means Look, a Son! She said to herself, "The Lord saw how I was being shunned and that I had to entice my own husband to sleep with me, but now that I've given my husband a son, he will take greater interest in me."

³³Leah conceived again and gave birth to another son and called him Simeon, which means An Answer to Prayer, because she said to herself, "The Lord saw that I was still being shunned, so He gave me another son."

³⁴Then she became pregnant again and gave birth to a third son whom she called Levi, meaning Attached, because she was convinced that her husband would now love her since she had given him three sons.

³⁵Once more she conceived and gave birth to a fourth son whom she called Judah, which means Let God Be Praised, because she thanked God for having four sons. Then she stopped having children for a while.

30 When Rachel could not get pregnant but saw that her sister Leah had four sons, she was jealous and said to Jacob, "Give me some children, or I might as well die!"

²This outburst upset Jacob, and he said, "Do you think I'm God? I've done my part. What else do you expect? God controls such things, not me." ³Then Rachel said, "Why don't you sleep with Bilhah, my servant girl, and she can have a baby for me." ⁴So Rachel made arrangements for Jacob to sleep with Bilhah as if she were his wife so she would conceive. ⁵And Bilhah did conceive and gave birth to a son. ⁶Then Rachel said, "The Lord heard my prayer and decided to lift me up by giving me a son." She called him Dan, which means Judged Favorably.

⁷Then Rachel made the same arrangement with Jacob and Bilhah again, and she conceived and gave birth to another son. ⁸Rachel said, "I have wrestled with God in prayer and have won back my wifely respect." And she called the baby Naphtali, meaning Victorious Wrestling.

⁹When Leah saw that she was not getting pregnant anymore, she put pressure on Jacob to sleep with Zilpah. Leah made the same arrangements with Zilpah as Rachel had made with Bilhah. ¹⁰Then Zilpah conceived and gave birth to a son. ¹¹Leah called him Gad, meaning Good Fortune.

¹²Then Leah made a second arrangement with her, and Zilpah got pregnant again and gave birth to a second son. ¹³Leah said to herself, "I'm really happy because all the women now call me blessed of God." So she named Zilpah's son Asher, meaning Happy.

¹⁴One day during the harvest season, Reuben, Jacob's firstborn, came back from working in the field and brought home some wild mandrakes, called love apples. His mother Leah had asked him to find some to help her get pregnant again. When Rachel saw them, she said to Leah, "Please let me have some!"

¹⁵Leah said, "Did it ever occur to you that you've stolen Jacob's affection from me when he was my husband before he was yours? And now you want some of the love apples my son found for me! Forget it!" Rachel said, "I'll give up my turn to have Jacob sleep with me tonight and let him sleep with you if you give me some of those love apples.” So Leah agreed. ¹⁶When Jacob came home that evening, Leah ran out to meet him and said, “Tonight you’re going to sleep with me because Rachel traded her night with you for some of the love apples Reuben found in the field.”

Jacob agreed, and that night he slept in Leah’s tent. ¹⁷The Lord answered Leah’s prayer, and she conceived and gave Jacob a fifth son. ¹⁸She said, “The Lord has answered my prayer, so now I don’t have to let my servant girl have babies for me anymore.” And she called the boy Issachar, which means There Is a Reward.

¹⁹Leah conceived again and gave Jacob a sixth son of her own. ²⁰She said, “The Lord has given me a rich dowry to give to my husband. Now I know Jacob will love me because I’ve given him six sons.” So she named the baby Zebulun, which means Now I’ll be Accepted. ²¹Then Leah conceived again and gave birth to a daughter and called her Dinah, which means Justice.

²²But the Lord didn’t ignore Rachel’s prayer and He activated her womb also. ²³She conceived and gave Jacob a son and said, “Finally God has heard my prayers and taken away my shame.” ²⁴Rachel named her baby Joseph, which means May He Add and said, “The Lord has given me a son and taken away my shame. Now maybe He will give me another son.”

Jacob’s Agreement

²⁵After Joseph was born, Jacob went to Laban and said, “It’s time for me to go back home to my own country. ²⁶I’ve worked for you for years now, fulfilling my obligation for Leah and Rachel. Now it’s time for me to go back home. I’ve worked hard looking after your interests, and you have more than prospered from my service.”

²⁷Laban answered, “Do stay. I’ve learned that the Lord is with you, and I admit that He has blessed me because of you. So don’t leave, please. ²⁸As far as your wages go, tell me what you think I should pay you, and I will do it, because I really want you to stay.”

²⁹Then Jacob said, “You know how hard I’ve worked and how carefully I have watched over your herds. ³⁰When I first came here, you had very few animals, and now you can hardly count them. There’s no doubt that the Lord has blessed you. But the question is, When will I be able to have my own herds and build a future for my family?” ³¹Laban asked, “What do you want me to give you?”

Jacob answered, “I don’t want you to give me anything. You’ve always paid me the least you could. I’ll stay on one condition. Start paying me decent wages. ³²Let me go through the herds and pick out all the speckled or spotted sheep and goats and the black lambs. And all the animals born that way in the future will belong to me. ³³Then everyone can see what my wages are and can tell whether or not I’m honest. If you ever find one of your animals in my herds, you can count it as stolen.”

³⁴Laban said, “It’s a deal! We’ll begin today.” ³⁵Then he went out to the field and separated the spotted sheep and goats from his herds and asked his sons to take charge of them. ³⁶He told them to take these herds three days’ walking distance away from Jacob, who would stay and take care of Laban’s solid colored herds. Laban wanted to prevent any crossbreeding from taking place.

³⁷From that day on, Jacob followed a local custom which people believed would change the color of herds. He got some green branches of poplar, almond and other trees, stripped off rings of bark here and there so the branches had white and brown rings on them. ³⁸He then placed these in front of the animals when they came to the water holes to drink, where the animals usually mated. ³⁹When Laban’s animals gave birth, many of their offspring were speckled or spotted, just as Jacob had planned, not knowing that God was really the One at work. ⁴⁰Jacob continued this practice until the speckled and spotted animals grew and were ready to mate. Then instead of using branches, he made Laban's animals face the speckled and spotted ones as he lined them up to drink, and the same thing happened. Soon Jacob had large herds of his own, and he decided it was time to separate the speckled and spotted animals from Laban's herds.

⁴¹Another way Jacob built his herds was to put ringed branches only in front of the strong animals, not the weak ones. ⁴²Soon Laban had all the weaker animals in his herds while Jacob had the more vigorous ones. God was correcting Laban's injustice by affecting the formation of the speckled and spotted animals. ⁴³In a few years Jacob became very prosperous with large herds of healthy sheep, goats, donkeys and camels. He also had many workers to care for his animals while he continued to work for Laban.

Jacob Flees

31 Before long, Laban's sons were saying, "Everything that Jacob has he's taken from our father. He's become wealthy from what belongs to us."

²And as the months went by, Jacob noticed that Laban was not as friendly to him as he had been before.

³About this time the Lord said to Jacob, "It's time for you to go back home to the land of your ancestors to be with your own kindred, and I'll be with you."

⁴So Jacob sent word to Leah and Rachel to come out to the field to meet him.

⁵There they had some privacy, and he was able to speak to them freely. He said, "I've noticed that your father hasn't been as friendly to me lately as he used to be, but at least the Lord has been with me."

⁶You know how hard I've worked for your father, harder than anyone else he's ever had. ⁷Yet he hasn't always been honest with me. In fact, over the past twenty years, he's changed my wages ten times. But the Lord has been with me and kept me from harm. ⁸When your father said to me, 'All the speckled animals will be your wages,' then all the flocks gave birth to speckled young. When he changed his mind and said, 'All the spotted animals will be your wages,' then all the flocks gave birth to spotted young. ⁹So the Lord has blessed me and taken large numbers of speckled and spotted animals from your father's herds to pay me what I should have been paid in the first place.

¹⁰"I saw in a dream that when the herds came to water, the only goats that mated were the speckled and spotted ones. That's why so many newborn animals were speckled and spotted. ¹¹In my dream, the Angel of the Lord called, "Jacob!" I answered, "Here I am!" ¹²He said, "Have you seen how the speckled and spotted males prevailed? This is my doing, because I have noticed how Laban has been treating you. ¹³I want you to know that I haven't changed. I'm still the same as when you saw me at Bethel where you set up a pillar of stones and anointed it with oil, vowing to be faithful to me if I forgave you. Well, I've been with you, and now it's time for you to go back to your own land and people."

¹⁴Leah and Rachel said, "There's nothing for us here. We have no inheritance coming, so why stay? ¹⁵In fact, our father treats us more like strangers than like daughters. He sold us to you as he sells property, and the money he made from you, he's already spent. ¹⁶Everything the Lord has taken from our father and given to you is legitimately ours and belongs to us and to our children. So whatever the Lord has told you to do, do it, and let's go."

¹⁷As soon as they said this, Jacob began preparing to leave. He packed and loaded his tents, put his wives and children on camels and started out toward home. ¹⁸He took all his servants and herds with him and whatever else he had accumulated during his stay in Mesopotamia, and headed back to his father Isaac, who was still alive in the land of Canaan.

¹⁹Just before they left, while Laban was out in the fields shearing sheep, Rachel went to her father's house and took the small figurines of the fertility goddesses. ²⁰When she got back, everything was ready, and Jacob and his wives and children left for Canaan without a word to Laban. ²¹Jacob had with him everything he owned, including his very large herds of animals. They soon came to the Euphrates River and, after safely crossing it, they headed for the hill country of Gilead.

Laban Pursues Jacob

²²Three days later, word reached Laban that Jacob had left for his home.

²³Without a moment's hesitation, Laban took his best men and went after Jacob. Seven days later he found Jacob still camped in the hill country of Gilead. ²⁴That night God said to Laban in a dream, "I don't want you to flatter or threaten Jacob to get him to go back with you. It's time for him to go home."

²⁵The next day Laban reached the hill country, and he and his men set up camp opposite Jacob, blocking his way out.

²⁶Then they crossed the valley to see Jacob, and Laban said, "Why have you kidnapped my daughters? You left so fast that it looked like I had been mean to you!

²⁷Why? Why didn't you tell me you were going? We could at least have had a going-away party with music and dancing, and eaten together one last time. ²⁸I didn't even have a chance to kiss my daughters good-bye as a father should. As far as I'm concerned, what you did was foolish.

²⁹With these burly men of mine I could harm you, but God spoke to me last night and told me not to flatter you or force you to return. ³⁰I can overlook everything you have done in your eagerness to get home to see your father, but did you have to take my fertility goddesses?"

³¹Jacob said, "I was afraid you would try to stop me by taking your daughters back by force. ³²As far as your fertility goddesses go, I don't know what you're talking about. But go ahead and search all our tents, and if you find anyone in my family or servants who has taken the figurines, that person will pay for it with his life. In fact, if you find anything that's yours, take it. Don't let anyone accuse me of taking anything that belongs to you." (Jacob didn't know that Rachel had taken her father's fertility goddesses just before they left.)

³³So Laban went into Leah's tent first, then into Jacob's tent; next, he searched the tents of the servant women, Bilhah and Zilpah, but in all of them he found nothing. Finally, he went into Rachel's tent. ³⁴Now Rachel had hidden the figurines in her camel's saddlebags and was sitting on the rugs that covered the saddle. Laban searched her tent also and found nothing, ³⁵Then Rachel said, "Father, please don't be upset with me if I don't get up. I'm having my monthly period, and I'm not feeling very well." According to the law of his people, he was not to touch her or whatever she sat on. He had searched for the figurines but had not found them.

³⁶Then Jacob was very angry and said to Laban, "Why are you treating me and my family like common thieves? What have I done to you? What is my sin? Will you please let me know! Why did you chase after me? And why did you bring all these burly men with you? ³⁷Now you have pawed through all our belongings, and you still didn't find anything of yours. If you did, I want to see it! Bring it out and set it in front of us, so we can all see what it is.

made me pay for them. ⁴⁰This went on for years and I never complained. Out in the field, the heat scorched me during the day, and at night I was so cold, I couldn't sleep. ⁴¹That went on for twenty years. The first fourteen I worked to pay for your two daughters and the other six to earn herds of my own. Yet during all these years, you changed my wages ten times. ⁴²If the God of my grandfather Abraham, the God whom my father Isaac worships and respects, had not been with me, you probably would have sent me away empty-handed. But God saw how you've treated me and how hard I've worked for you, and that's why He talked to you last night and told you to leave me alone and not to force me to go back with you."

Laban's Covenant

⁴³Laban answered, "You married my daughters, didn't you? Then these children are my grandchildren, aren't they? And your herds were born from my cattle, weren't they? So in one sense everything you have, you got from me. Yet I can't take my daughters and their children back—that wouldn't be right. ⁴⁴So let's make a covenant between us and put a marker right here as a sign of our agreement."

⁴⁵So Jacob walked over to a large stone, picked it up and put it down between them. ⁴⁶Then he told his men to get some more stones and pile them up next to his stone. When the pile was complete, Jacob and Laban picked up the large stone and put it on top of the pile. Then to ratify their agreement, they sat next to the stone marker and ate together. ⁴⁷Laban gave the stone marker an Aramaic name, Jegar Sahadutha, meaning A Pile of Stones to Remind Us. But Jacob gave it a Hebrew name, Galeed, but both names meant the same thing.

⁴⁸Then Laban said, "Let these stones represent the agreement we just made." So the place has always been called Galeed. ⁴⁹Jacob said, "May the Lord watch over us as we separate from each other." So the place is also called Mizpah, which in Hebrew means, A Place from Which God Watches. ⁵⁰Laban said to Jacob, "If you mistreat my daughters or marry anyone else, even though I might not know it, God will be the witness to what you have done.

⁵¹"Now this marker we're leaving here is just an ordinary pile of stones, but on top is the stone of remembrance which we put there and on which we poured the oil of agreement. ⁵²So this pillar of rocks is a reminder of what we've agreed on. I will never go on the other side of this marker to attack you, and you will never come to this side to attack me. ⁵³And the God of your grandfather Abraham and my grandfather Nahor, his brother, will be the judge as to which one of us has been at fault."

Jacob accepted Laban's proposal and swore "by the fear of Isaac," by the God of heaven and earth, to keep the agreement. ⁵⁴Then he killed a lamb and offered it to God as a sacrifice right there on the mountain and invited the men on both sides to eat together. So Laban's men spent the night camping on the mountain with Jacob.

⁵⁵Early the next morning, Laban kissed his daughters and grandchildren good-bye and blessed them. Then he and his men returned to Mesopotamia.

Esau Meets Jacob

32 Jacob also broke camp and went on his way. As he neared Canaan, he saw a band of angels, some in front of him and some behind him for his protection. ²God had opened his eyes so he could see them. He said, "God's angels have been traveling with me and I didn't even know it!" So he called the place where he first saw them Mahanaim, which in Hebrew means, The Place of Two Groups of Angels.

³Meanwhile, Esau had heard that Jacob was coming back home, so he took four hundred armed men and set out to meet him. As Jacob neared home, he realized the danger he was in, so he sent messengers to Esau who was living in the region of Seir in the country of Edom. ⁴Jacob said to his servants, "This is what I want you to say when you meet Esau: 'Your brother Jacob is your humble servant. He has lived with Laban all these years until now. ⁵He has herds of cattle, donkeys, sheep, goats and camels and many servants, both men and women. He has sent us to ask his lord for grace and mercy.'"

⁶The messengers left, then after a couple of days they returned and said, "We delivered the message to your brother, but he's coming to meet you with four hundred armed men."

⁷When Jacob heard that, he became very fearful and divided up the family, the servants and the herds of cattle, sheep, goats and camels into two groups. ⁸He said to himself, "If Esau comes and kills one group, maybe the other group can get away."

⁹Then Jacob prayed, "O God, the God of my grandfather Abraham and my father Isaac, you are the One who told me to leave Mesopotamia and come back here to my own country and to my own people, and you promised you would take care of me. ¹⁰I know I am not worthy to receive the least of your mercies or faithfulness that you've granted me. Some years ago I crossed Jordan with nothing but a shepherd's stick in my hand, and now I have so much that, divided in two, it would still be more than I need. ¹¹But now Esau, my own brother, is coming after me with four hundred armed men. I know he's coming to kill me and everyone who belongs to me, men, women and children, and I'm afraid. ¹²You said that you would be good to me and protect me and that my offspring would be as difficult to count as the sand on the seashore, but with Esau coming, how can this be?"

¹³Jacob set up camp there that night. The next morning he decided to send presents to Esau, hoping to soften his heart. ¹⁴He grouped together two hundred female goats with twenty male goats, then two hundred female sheep with twenty rams. ¹⁵Next, thirty female camels still nursing their young, then forty cows with ten bulls, and finally twenty female donkeys with ten males. ¹⁶Then he put servants in charge of each of the five herds and told them to go on ahead to meet Esau, being sure to space themselves in such a way as to give each group time to properly present themselves to him before the next group arrived.

¹⁷He told the servants leading the first herd of animals that when they met Esau and he asked who they were, where they were going and why they were stopping to see him, they were to say, ¹⁸"These animals are a present from your humble servant, Jacob, sent by him to his lord Esau. And your servant Jacob is coming behind us."

¹⁹Jacob told the servants in charge of the other herds of animals to say the same thing when they met Esau. ²⁰He reminded them that each one should end his speech by saying, "And your servant Jacob is coming behind us." Jacob did this because he said to himself, "With these presents I will buy his favor, so when I meet him, he'll forgive me and accept me again as his brother." ²¹So that morning he sent the gifts of animals ahead of him to his brother Esau, but he decided to stay where he was another night.

Jacob Wrestles With the Angel

²²However, before nightfall he sent his two wives, his two servant women and all his children across the Jabbok River. ²³Then he sent everything he owned across the river, but he stayed on this side to spend the night alone with God. ²⁴About midnight a Man appeared out of nowhere. Jacob thought someone had come to kill him. He tried to fight Him off because he didn't want to die before being forgiven by his brother. The two of them wrestled and fought for hours until just before daybreak. ²⁵When the Stranger saw that Jacob would not let Him go, He touched Jacob's hip, and instantly it was twisted. Then Jacob knew he had been contending with Someone with more than human power. ²⁶So Jacob clung to Him and pleaded for mercy. The Stranger said, "Let me go because it will soon be daybreak."

But Jacob said, "I will not let go until you assure me of forgiveness for what I have done to my brother and promise to bless me when I meet him, so he'll forgive me too."

²⁷The Man asked, "What is your name?" He answered, "Jacob!" ²⁸The Man declared, "I'm changing your name. You'll no longer be called Jacob, but Israel. Because you held on to Me and did not let Me go, I will break the power of evil against you and give you the mercy you longed for."

²⁹Jacob said, "Please tell me your name." But the Man said, "Why do you ask my name. You know it." Then He blessed Jacob and disappeared. ³⁰Jacob slumped to the ground saying to himself, "I can't believe it! I've been face to face with the Lord and am still alive." So he called the place Peniel, meaning The Face of God.

³¹Early that morning just as the sun rose, he crossed over the Jabbok River, limping as he went. ³²That's why the descendants of Israel to this day do not eat meat attached to the hip joint, because Jacob's hip was struck by God.

Jacob and Esau Meet

33 As Jacob looked off in the distance, he saw his brother Esau coming with four hundred armed men. So he quickly divided his family, putting the children where they belonged, either with Leah or Rachel or one of the two servant women. ²He put the two servant women with their children first, followed by Leah and her children, and Rachel and Joseph last. ³Then he went ahead of them all. While he was still a distance from Esau, he stopped and bowed low to the ground. Jacob did this seven times until they were very close.

⁴When Esau saw his brother, he ran to meet him, threw his arms around him and kissed him, and soon they were both crying. ⁵Then Esau saw the women and children and said, "What is all this? Who are all these people?"

Jacob said, "These are the wives and children whom God has graciously given to me." ⁶The two servant women and their children dismounted first, bowed low to the ground and introduced themselves. ⁷They were followed by Leah and her children, who also bowed low to the ground, and finally came Rachel and Joseph who did the same.

⁸Then Esau said to Jacob, "Now what about all the herds of animals, what does that mean?" Jacob answered, "Those are my presents to you because I need your mercy and forgiveness for what I did to you."

⁹Esau said, "I have enough, my brother. Keep what's yours."

¹⁰But Jacob insisted, "Please take my gifts because that will be evidence to me that you've forgiven me. It's a great burden lifted to know that you accept me as your brother. It's as if God Himself has forgiven me. It's just so good to see you and to know that you're not angry with me. ¹¹So please, take my gifts. They're for you from me. God has been good to me and I've got more than I need." Jacob kept urging Esau to accept the gifts until he finally took them.

¹²Then Esau said, "Let's go now, and I'll lead the way." ¹³Jacob said, "My brother, you're my leader, but the children can't walk as fast or as far as you can. And there are so many young animals in the herd that if we drive them hard for just one day, many of them would die. ¹⁴So please go on ahead, and, as your servant, I will follow as fast as we can. Then we can lead gently as the young animals and the children can bear it until we catch up with you near Edom.

¹⁵Then Esau agreed, "All right, I'll go on ahead, but let me leave some of my armed men with you to protect you."

Jacob answered, "There's no need for that. God has heard my prayers and He will protect me, just as He has heard my prayers for protection until I could meet you and know that you've forgiven me."

¹⁶So Esau took his men and Jacob's gifts and headed back home. ¹⁷And Jacob went on from there to Sukkoth where he built a shelter for himself and for the animals that needed it. And the place is called Sukkoth to this day, because it means Shelter.

Jacob Comes Home to Canaan

¹⁸After staying there for a short while, he moved near Shechem, one of the cities in Canaan, and set up camp there. This wasn't long after he had arrived in the country from Mesopotamia. ¹⁹He bought the land on which he camped for a hundred pieces of silver from the relatives of Hamor, the father of Shechem, after whom the city was named. ²⁰He also built an altar there and called the place El-Eloh-Israel, meaning Dedicated To the God of Israel.

Dinah and Shechem

34 One day, Dinah, the daughter of Jacob by Leah, went to the city of Shechem to make friends with the girls there. ²When Shechem, son of Hamor the Hivite, who was the crown prince and for whom the city was named, saw Dinah, he fell in love with her. He invited her to his house where he seized her and forced her to have sexual relations with him, taking away her virginity. ³Shechem loved Dinah very much and spoke to her kindly, treated her gently and respected her. ⁴Then he said to Hamor, his father, "Please make arrangements for me to marry this girl. I love her and want her to be my wife."

⁵Word got back to Jacob about what had happened and that Shechem wanted to marry Dinah. When the news reached Jacob, his sons were out in the field with the flocks and herds. So he decided not to make a commitment until his sons came home and he could talk it over with them.

⁶In the meantime, Hamor, the father of Shechem, agreed to go to see Jacob to talk about his son's wishes and to make the necessary arrangements for the wedding.

⁷When the sons of Jacob came home from inspecting the flocks and herds and heard that Shechem had had sexual relations with their sister and disgraced the family, they became very angry.

⁸Hamor came and said to Jacob and his sons, "My son Shechem loves your daughter Dinah very much. He wants to marry her. Please give your permission and let them get married. ⁹Personally, I see no reason why this should not be, and as the years go by, your sons can marry our daughters and our sons your daughters. ¹⁰We can live together in peace, and this land will then belong to you as well as to us, and you can live here and trade and do business just as we do."

¹¹Then Shechem, who was with his father, said to Jacob and his sons, "Please be kind to me and let me find favor in your eyes, and whatever you ask me to do, I'll do it. ¹²And whatever amount you want for the dowry payment, ask for it, and I'll gladly pay it. Just let Dinah be my wife."

¹³The sons of Jacob felt they had a right to be vengeful since Shechem had forced himself on their sister Dinah. So they said, ¹⁴"We can't let you marry Dinah because our sister is not allowed to marry a man who has not been circumcised. To do otherwise would be a disgrace to the family. ¹⁵We will give our consent only if you and all the males in your city agree to be circumcised. ¹⁶Then we can go ahead with the marriage, and in the future our daughters can marry your sons and our sons your daughters, and we can live together in peace and become one people. ¹⁷But if you decide not to be circumcised, then we cannot give our consent for Dinah to become your wife. We will have to take her back and move on."

²⁰So Hamor and Shechem went back home and said to the city fathers, ²¹"These Hebrews are peaceable men, so let's allow them to settle here and do business and trade. After all, the country is big enough for both our people and we'll all benefit. Our sons can marry their daughters and our daughters their sons. ²²These men will consent to settle here and become one with us on one condition; that is, if all of our males are circumcised as they are. ²³Just think, whatever they own, we'll own, because we'll be one people. So let's accept their condition and they'll agree to stay."

²⁴The city fathers listened to Hamor and his son Shechem and agreed to be circumcised. Then they asked every male who could walk in and out of the city gates without assistance to come back to be circumcised, and all of them did.

²⁵On the third day after all the males were circumcised, when they were too sore to move, two sons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, Dinah's older brothers, quietly came into the city, took their swords and killed every man in sight. ²⁶They even killed Hamor and his son Shechem, pulled their sister out of Shechem's house and went back to camp. ²⁷Then the other sons of Jacob went into the city and plundered the houses, even taking things from the bodies of dead men. They justified their actions because of what Shechem had done. ²⁸But they didn't stop there. They took the people's sheep, cattle and donkeys, whether the animals were tied up at home or loose in the field. ²⁹In addition to all the material wealth, they also took the wives and children of the dead men and made them their servants, stripping their houses of anything valuable.

³⁰When Jacob heard this, he was sick. He called in Simeon and Levi and said to them, "You surely have brought a lot of trouble on us. What witness do you think you have given to the Canaanites and Perizzites as to the kind of people we are? What sort of heroes are you, attacking wounded men? When this news gets around, the people of the land can easily band together and kill all of us. If that happens, that will be the end of the house of Israel."

³¹They answered, "You mean to tell us that we should have let our sister be used as a prostitute and just sit here and do nothing?" So they felt justified in what they had done.

Jacob Returns to Bethel

35 Then God said to Jacob, "Better break camp and go on up to Bethel to live. When you get there, build an altar for Me. That's where I appeared and talked to you when you were running away from your brother Esau."

²So Jacob called everyone together, including his servants, and said to them, "We'll be moving on to Bethel to meet God there. So get rid of any statues you have of any gods, bathe and change your clothes. ³We'll be going there because God told me to go and build an altar for Him. That's where God appeared to me when I was so distressed the first night after I ran from my brother and God promised He would go with me." ⁴So they gave Jacob all the statues of their gods, their earrings and other jewelry, and he buried them underneath a big oak tree near the village of Shechem. ⁵Then they broke camp and headed south, and God restrained the people in the area so that no one pursued Jacob and his sons as they left.

⁶Jacob and all those who were with him arrived safely at Bethel, also called Luz, which is in the land of Canaan. ⁷He built an altar there and called it El-Bethel, meaning

Dedicated to the God of Bethel, because that's where God appeared to him when he fled from his brother.

⁸It was here that Deborah, Jacob's mother's old nurse, died, and Jacob buried her under an oak south of Bethel and called the site Allon-bacuth, meaning Oak of Tears.

⁹During this time God appeared to Jacob again, just as he had before and blessed him, saying, ¹⁰"Remember that your name has been changed to Israel and you are no longer Jacob." Whenever God spoke to him, He called him Israel and not Jacob.

¹¹God said, "I am God Almighty. I will bless you and you will be fruitful and multiply. Your descendants will grow into a nation and eventually into a group of nations, and kings and rulers will come from among them. ¹²And the land which I promised to your grandfather Abraham and to your father Isaac, I am promising also to you." ¹³Then God went up from the place and vanished from sight.

¹⁴So Jacob gathered stones, made a pillar and set a memorial stone on top of it. He dedicated the pillar to the Lord by pouring unfermented wine and olive oil over it. ¹⁵Then he said, "From now on, we will call the city of Luz, Bethel."

Death of Rachel

¹⁶From Bethel Jacob went to Ephratha, and on the way Rachel went into labor. ¹⁷But complications set in and Rachel had problems delivering the baby. The nurse encouraged her through her pain by saying, "Don't worry, it looks like a fine healthy boy, and you'll deliver it just as you delivered the first one." ¹⁸But Rachel didn't survive the birth, and as she was dying, she named her baby Benoni, which means Son of My Sorrow, but Jacob renamed the baby Benjamin, meaning Son of My Right Hand.

¹⁹So Rachel was buried beside the road to Ephratha, later called Bethlehem. ²⁰Then Jacob stacked a pile of rocks over her grave, which still marks the place to this day.

²¹From there Jacob continued south and camped just on the other side of the Tower of Eder. ²²While there, Reuben, Jacob's oldest son, had sex with Bilhah, Rachel's handmaid and his father's servant woman. When Jacob heard about it, he was very upset.

²³Jacob had twelve sons.

The sons of Leah were Reuben, Jacob's firstborn, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar and Zebulun.

²⁴The sons of Rachel were Joseph and Benjamin.

²⁵The sons of Bilhah, Rachel's servant, were Dan and Naphtali.

²⁶The sons of Zilpah, Leah's servant, were Gad and Asher.

All these sons were born to Jacob while he was still in Mesopotamia, except Benjamin.

The Death of Isaac

²⁷From the Tower of Eder, Jacob and his household went on and arrived in Mamre, near Hebron, where Abraham had lived and where Isaac was still living. ²⁸By now Isaac was one hundred and eighty years old. ²⁹Soon after Jacob's arrival Isaac died of old age. His two sons, Esau and Jacob, were there to say goodbye, and they buried him.

Esau's Descendants

36 These are the descendants of Esau who lived in Edom and who married Canaanite women.

²Esau married Adah, daughter of Elon who was a Hittite; Oholibamah, daughter of Anah who was the son of Zibeon the Hivite; ³and his cousin Basemath, a sister of Nebaioth and a daughter of Ishmael (Esau's uncle by Abraham and Hagar).

⁶About this time Esau took his wives, his sons, his daughters and all his servants, together with everything he owned, and left the area to put some distance between himself and Jacob.

⁷The reason Esau moved out of the area was because the fields could no longer support their huge flocks and herds. ⁸So Esau moved to the hill country of Seir and became the father of the Edomites.

⁹These are the descendants of Esau, whom people called Edomites. ¹⁰These were his sons and their descendants:

Esau's wife Adah bore him a son named Eliphaz, and Basemath bore him a son called Reuel.

¹¹The sons of Eliphaz were: Teman, Omar, Zepho, Gatam and Kenaz. ¹²Eliphaz's concubine was Timna, and she bore him a son called Amalek. These were grandsons of Esau and his wife Adah.

¹³Now the sons of Reuel, Esau's son by Basemath, were: Nahath, Zerah, Shammah and Mizzah.

¹⁴It should be mentioned that Esau's wife, Oholibamah, the daughter of Anah and granddaughter of Zibeon, bore him three sons: Jeush, Jalam and Korah.

Chiefs of Edom

¹⁵The chiefs of the tribes that sprang from Eliphaz, Esau's firstborn, are: Teman, Omar, Zepho and Kenaz, ¹⁶Korah, Gatam and Amalek. All these chiefs trace their maternal ancestry back to Adah.

¹⁷Esau's son Reuel was the ancestor of the following chiefs: Nahath, Zerah, Shammah and Mizzah. All these trace their maternal ancestry back to Basemath.

¹⁸Also, the following chiefs traced their ancestry back to Esau and Oholibamah, who was the daughter of Anah: Jeush, Jalam and Korah.

¹⁹All of the above chiefs were descendants of Esau.

Sons of Seir

²⁰The original inhabitants of the land of Edom were divided into tribes which traced their ancestry back to Seir, the Horite.

The chiefs of these tribes were: Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, ²¹Dishon, Ezer and Dishan.

These were the chiefs of the Horites, the descendants of Seir who lived in Edom.

²²Lotan was the father of Hori and Hemam, and Lotan's sister was Timna.

²³Shobal was the father of Alvan, Manahath, Ebal, Shepho and Onam.

²⁴Zibeon had two sons called Aiah and Anah. This was the same Anah who had discovered hot springs in the desert while herding his father Zibeon's donkeys.

²⁵Anah was the father of Dishon, and Oholibamah was Anah's daughter whom Esau married.

²⁶Dishon was the father of Hemdan, Eshban, Ithran and Cheran.

²⁷Ezer was the father of Bilhan, Zaavan and Akan (or Jaakan).

²⁸And Dishan was the father of Uz and Aran.

²⁹These then are the Horite chiefs: Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, ³⁰Dishon, Ezer and Dishan who ruled the tribes in the land of Edom and were the descendants of Seir.

Kings of Edom

³¹These are the kings who ruled in Edom before Israel had a king:

³²Bela, the son of Beor, ruled from the royal city of Dinhabah.

³³After Bela died, Jobab, the son of Zerah of Bozrah, took over.

³⁴After Jobab died, Husham, one of the Temanites, ruled in his place.

³⁵When Husham died, Hadad, the son of Bedad, ruled the country. He defeated Midian in the country of Moab, and his capital was Avith.

³⁶When Hadad died, Shamlah from Masrekah took over.

³⁷After Shamlah died, Shaul from Rehoboth by the river, ruled in his place.

³⁸After Shaul died, Baalhanan, the son of Achbor, ruled the country.

³⁹When Baalhanan died, Hadad took over, and his capital was Pau. His wife was Mehetabel who was the daughter of Matred and the granddaughter of Me-Zahab.

Chiefs Descended From Esau

⁴⁰The following are the chiefs of the Edomite tribes who descended from Esau: Timna, Alvah, Jetheth, ⁴¹Oholibamah, Elah and Pinon, ⁴²Kenaz, Teman, Mibzar, ⁴³Magdiel and Iram. Now the area where each of these tribes lived was called by the name of the tribe, and Esau was their ancestor.

Joseph's Dreams

37 Jacob lived in Canaan as a stranger just as his father and grandfather had.

²Here is more history of the family of Jacob (or Israel).

Joseph was a young man seventeen years old. He watched over the herds with some of his brothers, sons of Bilhah and Zilpah. When he came home, he told his father some of the evil things his brothers had been doing.

³Israel listened to Joseph and believed him. He loved him more than any of his other sons because Joseph was tenderhearted and honest, and he was Rachel's firstborn. Israel made Joseph a long robe with sleeves, the kind usually worn by persons of distinction. But none of his other sons had such a robe.

⁴When they noticed this preferential treatment, they hated Joseph and never spoke kindly to him, even though he was their brother.

⁵About this time Joseph had a dream which he told his brothers. When they heard what it was, they hated him even more. ⁶Joseph said, "Listen, my brothers. I had a dream. ⁷In this dream we were all harvesting in the field and tying the wheat into bundles. Suddenly, my bundle stood up and your bundles made a circle around mine. Then they started bowing toward mine which was standing upright in the middle."

⁸Then his brothers said, "Do you think we're ever going to bow down to you and let you rule over us? Are you planning to make a little kingdom for yourself and have us be your servants?" After he told his dream, they hated him still more.

⁹Then Joseph had another dream and told it to his brothers also. He said, "I had another dream. In it I was looking up into the night sky and suddenly the sun, moon and eleven stars appeared, and they all bowed to me."

¹⁰After telling these dreams to his brothers and his father, Israel said, "What kind of dreams are you dreaming? Do you think that I, your mother's sister Leah and your eleven brothers will come and bow before you?" ¹¹Joseph's brothers were jealous of him. But Israel, when he heard these dreams, thought about what they could mean.

Joseph Sold

¹²Soon afterward, Joseph's brothers went to inspect their father's herds grazing near Shechem. Time passed, but they sent back no report. ¹³So Israel said to Joseph, "Come, I want you to go up to Shechem to find your brothers and bring me a report of what's going on." Joseph said, "Certainly, Father, I'll be happy to go."

¹⁴Israel said, "I'm concerned about your brothers' safety, as well as about our herds, because of what Simeon and Levi did to the Shechemites. I'm sure the people there have not forgotten that. Go and find out how things are and come back as quickly as you can."

Joseph left Hebron early the next morning and after a few days, finally reached Shechem. ¹⁵But the area was so large that he couldn't find his brothers. A man noticed him wandering the fields as if he were looking for someone, so he stopped him and said, "What are you looking for? Maybe I can help you."

¹⁶Joseph said, "I'm looking for my brothers who are taking care of our herds somewhere near here. Have you seen them? Can you tell me where they are?" ¹⁷The man said, "Yes. They left here a few days ago, and I heard them say they were taking the herds to pastures near Dothan."

Joseph thanked him and went on to Dothan, about another day's journey. Finally he spotted them. ¹⁸When they saw him in the distance, they said, "Hey, look who's coming! The dreamer!" And they agreed to kill him as soon as he came into camp.

¹⁹They sneered, "That dreamer is coming to spy on us, then he'll go and tell father how bad we've been. ²⁰So let's kill him and throw his body into a dried-up well, and we'll say that a wild animal killed him. Then we'll see what happens to his dreams."

²¹But Reuben overheard their plans and decided to save Joseph. He said, "Let's not kill him. After all, he's our brother!" ²²Then he suggested, "Instead of killing him and becoming murderers, let's just throw him alive into one of these empty wells and let him die. There are a number of them right here." He made this suggestion because he intended to rescue Joseph and send him back to his father before anything else happened to him.

²³As Joseph neared the camp, they waved at him, but when he got there, instead of hugging him, they grabbed him, ripped off his robe, ²⁴dragged him over to a nearby dry well and dropped him into it. ²⁵Then they sat down to eat, and while they were eating, they saw a caravan in the distance. It was coming their way, heading south toward Egypt. When the caravan got nearer they recognized the men as Ishmaelite traders coming from Gilead. Their camels were loaded with all kinds of goods, including spices of balm and myrrh.

²⁶Then Judah said to his brothers, "If we let our brother starve to death in this well, we're actually killing him, even if we say otherwise. After all the trouble he's caused us, we at least ought to get something out of this. ²⁷Why don't we sell him to these Ishmaelites. Then no one can accuse us of killing our own brother. After all, he is our flesh and blood." And the brothers agreed.

²⁸As the Ishmaelites and their Midianite friends came nearer, the brothers motioned to them. When they came, the brothers lowered a rope to Joseph and pulled him out of the well. Then they bargained with the Ishmaelites over Joseph's worth. No matter how much Joseph pleaded with his brothers not to sell him as a slave, they would not listen. Finally, the brothers agreed on twenty pieces of silver and gave Joseph to the traders who took him to Egypt.

²⁹Reuben was away when his brothers sold Joseph, and when he returned to the well to rescue Joseph, it was empty. He knew something had happened to Joseph, so in anguish he ripped his tunic in half. ³⁰Then he returned to camp and confronted his brothers. "I went to the well to look for Joseph, and he isn't there! Where is he? If he's dead, what will I tell Father?"

³¹Then they told him what had happened. After a discussion, they all agreed to take Joseph's robe, kill a goat, dip the robe in it ³²and take it to their father as evidence that Joseph had been killed by a wild animal. And that's what they did. When they got home, they showed the bloodstained robe to Jacob and said, "We found this robe on the way home. Do you think it's Joseph's?"

³³Immediately Jacob recognized it, and in anguish he cried out, "Yes! It is! And by the looks of it he was attacked by a wild animal and torn to pieces!" ³⁴Then Jacob took off his own robe and ripped it to pieces. He then put on sackcloth and mourned over Joseph for many, many days. ³⁵All his sons, daughters and grandchildren tried to comfort him, but it was useless. He simply responded, "Let me go down to the grave with him."

That's how grieved Jacob was over the loss of his son Joseph.

³⁶When the Ishmaelite traders arrived in Egypt, they put Joseph on the slave market and sold him to Potiphar, one of the king's officers in charge of the palace guard.

Judah and Tamar

38 About this time back home, Judah, Jacob's son by Leah, left his brothers in the field and went to visit Hirah, who lived in Adullam. ²While there, Judah met a Canaanite woman whose father was Shuah, and he married her. ³She conceived and gave birth to a son and called him Er. ⁴Then she conceived again and gave birth to another son and called him Onan. ⁵She had a third son and called him Shelah. Now Judah was away at Chezib when his third son was born.

⁶When Er was grown, Judah found a girl for him whose name was Tamar. ⁷Er's behavior was so wicked that it pained the Lord to see what he was doing to himself and to others, so He took his life.

⁸Then Judah said to Er's brother, Onan, "Go and sleep with Tamar, your brother's widow, and father a child. This way you'll carry out your responsibility as his brother by making sure he has descendants to inherit his land and to carry on his name." ⁹But Onan knew that Tamar's firstborn would belong to Er and be no credit to him. So he went in to sleep with her to consummate the marriage, but let his seed spill on the ground because he didn't want to raise a child for his brother. ¹⁰His deception and abuse of Tamar displeased the Lord, and He took Onan's life to stop his influence from spreading.

¹¹Then Judah said to Tamar, "You had better go back home to your parents and wait until Shelah gets a little older, then he can father a child for you, and we will see to it that he does." Judah said this because he didn't want Shelah to lose his life as Onan had. So Tamar left and went home to live with her parents.

¹²Time passed and Judah's wife died. After a time of mourning, he and his friend Hirah of Adullam went up to Timnah to see how the flocks and herds were doing.

¹³Someone told Tamar that her father-in-law was coming to Timnah to shear his sheep. ¹⁴So she took off the clothes that marked her as a widow and dressed as a prostitute. Then she covered her face with a veil and sat at the entrance of Enaim, on the way to Timnah. She did this to tempt Judah, because Shelah his son was now grown, yet she had not been given to him in marriage.

¹⁵When Judah approached Enaim, he saw her sitting there and solicited her, because he thought she was a prostitute with her head covered. ¹⁶He said, "Let me come to see you." He didn't realize he was talking to his daughter-in-law. She said, "How much are you willing to pay?"

¹⁷He said, "I'll send you a young goat from my own flock." She said, "OK, if you'll leave something with me as a deposit."

¹⁸He said, "Like what?" She said, "Give me your seal and its cord. Give me your shepherd's rod." He said, "All right," and gave them to her. So they slept together, and the next morning Judah went on his way. ¹⁹She went home and changed back into her widow's clothes and some weeks later found that she was pregnant.

²⁰Now when Judah got to his flocks and herds, he picked out a young goat and asked his friend Hirah to take it to the prostitute and get back his personal seal and his shepherd's rod. But Hirah could not find her. ²¹He asked some of the men who lived there where the prostitute was.

They said, "No prostitute has ever lived here." ²²So Hirah took the young goat back to Judah and told him that he tried to find the prostitute but couldn't. He then told Judah how he had searched for her and asked the people around the place about her, but they knew of no prostitute who lived and worked there. ²³Judah said, "Let her keep my things.

We don't want to keep looking for her and make fools of ourselves. Let's just forget it."

²⁴About three months later, someone told Judah that Tamar, his daughter-in-law, had apparently played the prostitute, because she was pregnant. When Judah heard this, he was angry and ordered two of his men to go with him to get her and publicly burn her to death.

²⁵So they went to her house, and Judah sent them in to drag her out, but she said, "Go and tell Judah that I am pregnant by the man who owns these things. Have him look and see whose they are, this seal and shepherd's rod."

²⁶They took the seal and the shepherd's rod outside and showed them to Judah. He recognized them and said, "They're mine! Leave her alone; she's all right. I'm the guilty one, because I failed to give her to my son Shelah as I promised. She did this to get back into the family. She now belongs to me."

So he took her but never had sexual relations with her again. ²⁷When it came time for her to give birth, she found she had twins. ²⁸While she was in labor, one baby put out its hand as if it were coming and the nurse tied a red thread around its little wrist so they would know which one came out first. ²⁹But suddenly it pulled its arm back in, and the other baby came out first. It was a boy, and the nurse said, "You're a little pusher, pushing your way out like this." So they called him Perez, meaning The One Who Breaks Through. ³⁰Then the baby with the red thread came out next, and it, too, was a boy, and they named him Zerah, meaning The First Rays of Dawn.

Joseph a Slave

39 Joseph had been taken to Egypt by the Ishmaelites and sold to Potiphar, one of Pharaoh's officers and captain of the palace guard.

²Joseph determined to be faithful to the Lord no matter what, and the Lord was with him. Soon Potiphar learned that Joseph could be trusted, and allowed him to live with him in his house.

³He noticed Joseph's efficiency and was convinced that Joseph's loyalty to his God caused him to prosper. ⁴Potiphar was so pleased with Joseph that he made him his personal servant and put him in charge of all his household. ⁵Then the Lord blessed his Egyptian master so that he prospered both in his domestic affairs as well as in his increase in herds and flocks. ⁶Next Potiphar put Joseph in charge of everything he owned, both at home and elsewhere, and paid no attention to anything, except when he came home to eat.

By this time Joseph had developed into a well-built, handsome young man. ⁷Potiphar's wife was lonely and took a liking to Joseph. She asked him to come to bed with her. ⁸But he refused, saying, "My master has put me in charge of everything he owns, both here at home and elsewhere, and he doesn't worry about anything because he trusts me completely. ⁹I have as much authority as he has, and he has not kept anything from me except you. And I promised my God that I would not disappoint my master. How then can I go to bed with you, even though I am your slave? I would be sinning against God."

¹⁰She persisted and kept asking Joseph day after day to come to bed with her, but he kept refusing. ¹¹One day as Joseph went around the house doing his work, no one was there except his master's wife. ¹²She came up to Joseph, grabbed his tunic and said, "Come to bed with me! I've arranged for everyone to be out of the house. No one is here but us, so my husband will never know."

But Joseph slipped out of his tunic and ran from the house. ¹³When she realized that he had left her holding his tunic, ¹⁴she started screaming. And when the servants came running back into the house, she said, "Look at this! That Hebrew slave, whom my husband trusts so much, attacked me! He came into my bedroom and tried to rape me! So I screamed as loud as I could, ¹⁵and when I did, he got scared and ran and left his tunic on my bed."

¹⁶She kept Joseph's coat until her husband came home. ¹⁷Then she told him the story and said, "That Hebrew slave you brought here came into my bedroom and attacked me! ¹⁸When I screamed, he ran and left his tunic on my bed!"

¹⁹When Potiphar heard his wife's story, he pretended to be furious, even though he doubted what she said. ²⁰He ordered his men to go to Joseph's room, arrest him and put him in the palace prison for the rest of his life. He didn't order him to be executed, because Joseph had not run away. That was evidence to Potiphar of Joseph's innocence.

²¹In prison, Joseph was just as faithful to God as he had been before. The Lord blessed him, and the prison warden noticed that Joseph was different. ²²Soon the warden was so pleased with Joseph that he put him in charge of all the prisoners and he became their spokesman. The warden put all the prison responsibilities on Joseph. ²³The warden didn't check on anything that Joseph did because he trusted him. He knew that Joseph's God was with him because he was so faithful to Him.

The Prisoners' Dreams

40 After Joseph was in prison for some time, it so happened that the chief steward and the chief baker offended the king of Egypt. ²And the king became very angry with both of them. ³So he asked Potiphar, captain of the palace guard, to put them in prison until he decided what to do with them. This was the same prison where Joseph was kept. ⁴Potiphar had the two men turned over to the warden, and the warden turned them over to Joseph.

⁵They had been in prison for some months when one night they each had a dream. Each dream had a different meaning. ⁶The next morning when Joseph was making his rounds, he noticed that both men looked very sad. ⁷He asked, "Why are you men looking so sad?"

⁸They answered, "We each had a dream and we desperately want to know what they mean, but there's no one here to interpret them for us. Then Joseph said, "Only the God of heaven can interpret dreams, but tell me your dreams anyway."

¹²Then God gave Joseph wisdom to interpret the dream, and he said to the steward, "This is what your dream means. The three vines represent three days. ¹³Within three days Pharaoh will call for you, take you out of prison and reinstate you as his chief steward. You will serve Pharaoh as you did before, taking his cup, filling it and personally giving it to him. ¹⁴When this happens and you're reinstated, please be kind and say a word to Pharaoh about me to get me out of this prison. Otherwise, I'll be forgotten and will be here all my life. ¹⁵You see, I am a Hebrew. I was taken by force and brought to Egypt. I have not done anything to deserve being in this dungeon."

¹⁶Now when the chief baker heard Joseph's interpretation of the steward's dream and how favorable it was, he said to Joseph, "Let me tell you my dream! In my dream I was walking along and I had three white wicker baskets on my head. ¹⁷In the top basket were all kinds of baked goods which I had baked for Pharaoh. But as I was carrying them, suddenly some birds came out of nowhere and ate up all the baked goods."

¹⁸Again God gave Joseph wisdom to interpret the dream, and he said, "The three baskets represent three days. ¹⁹In three days Pharaoh will issue an order to have you hanged, and the vultures will come and eat your body.”

²⁰Three days later Pharaoh had a birthday and gave a party for all of his servants. During the party he ordered the chief steward and the chief baker to be brought in to face the court. ²¹Pharaoh discussed their cases with his officials and then announced his decision. He reinstated the steward, ²²but he had the baker hanged just as Joseph had predicted.

²³The chief steward was so happy to be free and to have his job back that he completely forgot about Joseph and his promise to speak to Pharaoh for him.

Pharaoh's Dreams

41 Two years passed, then Pharaoh had a dream which really disturbed him. In his dream he was standing by the river Nile. ²Seven well-fed cows came up out of the river and started grazing in the nearby meadow. ³Then he saw seven thin cows come up out of the river and for a moment stand next to the well-fed cows. ⁴Suddenly the skinny cows started eating the well-fed cows. Pharaoh was shocked by what he saw and woke up.

⁵After some time he got back to sleep and promptly had another dream. This time he saw seven full ears of corn attached to one stalk. ⁶Then he saw seven thin ears of corn spring from another stalk; they looked like they had been scorched by a desert wind. ⁷Suddenly the seven thin and shriveled ears of corn leaned over and ate the full ears, and again Pharaoh was jolted awake.

⁸By now it was nearly morning, and Pharaoh couldn't sleep because he was troubled by his dreams. So he sent for those who claimed to speak with the dead, as well as for all his wise men, and he told them his dreams and asked these men to interpret them, but none of them could.

help. I should have drawn this to your attention before. ¹⁰About two years ago, as I and the chief baker were serving Pharaoh, he became upset and sent us both to prison, holding the warden personally responsible if we should escape. ¹¹One night each of us had a dream, but each dream had a completely different meaning. ¹²There was a young Hebrew slave in the prison who was the warden's personal assistant. He took a special interest in each prisoner. When he noticed that we were troubled over our dreams, he encouraged us to tell him what we dreamed, so we did. Then he interpreted our dreams for us, but each one had a totally different meaning. ¹³Three days later everything happened just as this young Hebrew had said it would. I was reinstated and the chief baker was executed.”

¹⁴Then Pharaoh ordered Joseph to be brought to him immediately. The warden was notified, and Joseph was told to get ready to meet Pharaoh. Joseph shaved, changed his prison clothes and was hurried off to court.

¹⁵Pharaoh said to Joseph, “I have had two dreams that trouble me, and these men cannot interpret them for me. I've been told that you interpret dreams. Is that true?”

¹⁶Joseph answered, “I cannot do so, Your Majesty, but my God can.” ¹⁷Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, “In my dream I stood on the bank of the Nile. ¹⁸Suddenly seven well-fed cows came up out of the river and started feeding in the meadow. ¹⁹Then seven thin cows came up out of the river. I was shocked because I had never seen cows so thin in all Egypt. ²⁰And the seven skinny cows went over to the meadow where the well-fed cows were, attacked them and ate them. ²¹But after they ate them, they were as thin as they had been before. Then I woke up.

²⁴Suddenly the seven thin ears of corn leaned over to the stalk with the fat ears of corn and started eating them. That's when I woke up. Now I told these two dreams to my wise men and to those who communicate with the dead, but not a one of them could tell me the meaning."

²⁵Then Joseph said, "Both dreams have the same meaning. The God of heaven is letting Your Majesty, Pharaoh of Egypt, know what is about to happen.

²⁶The seven well-fed cows and the seven fat ears of corn represent a seven-year period. ²⁷And the seven skinny cows and the seven thin ears of corn blasted by the desert winds also represent a seven-year period.

²⁸"It is the God of heaven who is showing Pharaoh what He is about to let happen to Egypt. ²⁹First there will be seven years of plenty throughout the land.

³⁰After this there will be seven years of famine so severe that the seven good years will be hard to remember. The whole country will feel the effects. ³¹The famine will be so severe that whatever the good years produced will be used up during the bad years. ³²The dream was given twice to show that this will happen and begin very soon.

³³"My suggestion is for Your Majesty to put someone in charge of planning for the future. ³⁴Assign officers to help him, and together they should see to it that one-fifth of all the food grown in Egypt during the seven good years is stored and saved. ³⁵They should be faithful in doing this. These officers should see to it that storage facilities are built near every major city, then transport all surplus food there to be stored. Let the food belong to Pharaoh. ³⁶The stored food should be saved for the seven years of famine and should in no way be touched during the seven good years, because the future of Egypt will depend on it."

Joseph Made Governor of Egypt

³⁷Pharaoh believed Joseph's interpretation of the dreams, and it seemed to the king, as it did to all the king's counselors, that Joseph's suggestions as to how to prepare for the famine were sound.

³⁸Then Pharaoh said to his counselors, "Where can we find a man like this through whom the spirit of the God of heaven works? We should put him in charge of this project, don't you think?"

³⁹Turning to Joseph, he said, "Since the Supreme God has given you this insight into the future and wisdom to interpret dreams, ⁴⁰I'm putting you in charge of everything. Whatever you tell the people to do, they are to do, beginning right here in the palace. Only in matters of government and royal concern will I be greater than you.

⁴⁴After the procession, Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Now remember, I'm still the king of Egypt, and I am the one who appointed you as governor and gives you authority over all the land of Egypt. No one will dare to lift up his hand against you anywhere in our country." ⁴⁵Then Pharaoh changed Joseph's name to Zaphenath-Paneah, which means God Speaks and the Land Lives, and gave him Asenath, the daughter of Potiphera the high priest of Heliopolis, to be his wife. He told him again that as governor he was now officially in charge of all the land of Egypt.

⁴⁶Joseph was about thirty years old when Pharaoh made him governor. He bowed to Pharaoh as he left his presence to take charge of the land of Egypt.

⁴⁷During the seven good years the land produced abundantly. ⁴⁸Joseph collected one-fifth of all the crops in Egypt and stored them near the major cities in each district. ⁴⁹Soon there was so much grain that Joseph decided to stop measuring it. There was such abundance that the piles of grain looked like huge mounds of sand from the seashore.

⁵⁰During these years, Joseph's wife, Asepath, bore him two sons. ⁵¹Joseph named the firstborn Manasseh, for he said, "God has made me forget all my sufferings, including what happened to me in my father's house." ⁵²And he named the second son, Ephraim, for he said, "God has given me a lovely family in a land away from home."

⁵³Finally, the seven years of plenty ended, ⁵⁴and the seven years of famine began just as Joseph had predicted. Not only was Egypt affected, but also all the countries bordering Egypt. No crops were harvested anywhere. ⁵⁵When the local people went to Pharaoh and begged for food, he said, "Go see Joseph, and whatever he tells you to do, do it."

⁵⁶The famine worsened, and soon that entire area of the world suffered. So Joseph opened all the storage facilities and sold Pharaoh's grain to people as they needed it. The famine didn't end the first year, nor the second year, but continued as Joseph had said it would. ⁵⁷Soon people from other countries came to buy grain from Joseph, because the famine was everywhere.

Joseph's Brothers Go to Buy Food

42 When Jacob heard that there was grain in Egypt, he said to his sons, "You need to stop talking about how awful this famine is and do something about it. ²¹ Hear that Egypt has stored up a lot of food and is now selling it. Go there and buy some so we can eat and live."

³So Joseph's ten brothers went down to Egypt to buy what food they could. ⁴But Jacob kept Benjamin, Joseph's younger brother, at home because he was afraid something might happen to him. ⁵The other sons of Jacob headed for Egypt to buy food as their neighbors were doing, because the famine had affected the whole country of Canaan.

⁶Joseph, who was governor of Egypt, was in charge of all the food supply and was selling grain to people who came to purchase it. All foreigners had to see him personally to get permission to buy food. His brothers came and bowed before him just as all the others did. ⁷As soon as Joseph saw his brothers, he recognized them, but he acted as if he didn't.

He spoke roughly to them through an interpreter, saying, "Where do you men come from?" They answered, "We're from Canaan and have come to buy food." ⁸Even though Joseph knew who they were, they didn't recognize him. ⁹He remembered the dreams he'd had years ago and what had happened when he had told his brothers. He wanted to see if their cruel attitudes had changed. So he spoke sharply again. "You men are spies and have come here to find the weak spots in our defenses!"

¹²Joseph shot back, "No! You have come here to find any weak spots in our defenses!" ¹³They answered, "Sir, we are twelve brothers, sons of the same father who lives in Canaan. One of our brothers is dead and the youngest is at home."

¹⁴Joseph questioned, "How do I know you're telling the truth? I still think you're spies. ¹⁵But I will test your honesty. As surely as the Pharaoh lives, you had better pass the test. You will not leave until your youngest brother comes here so I can know you're telling me the truth. ¹⁶One of you can go home and get him, and the rest of you will stay here under guard. If he doesn't come, it will prove that you are spies. I'll give you a couple of days to think about it." ¹⁷With this statement he ordered them locked up.

¹⁸After three days, Joseph had them brought in and said, "Since I'm a God-fearing man, I have changed my mind. ¹⁹If you are really honest men, one of you can stay here, and the rest of you are free to buy the food you need and return to your families. ²⁰But you must come back with your younger brother, or the one who stays here will be executed as a spy, because it will prove to me that you were lying to me. Now you decide among yourselves which one of you will stay here."

²¹They said to each other, "The reason this is happening is because we're guilty of killing our own brother. When we sold him to the Ishmaelites, we saw how desperately he begged us not to sell him into slavery, but we wouldn't listen."

²²Then Reuben, the oldest, said, "Didn't I tell you not to sin against your own brother? But you were stubborn and wouldn't listen. Now the Lord is requiring blood for blood." ²³The brothers didn't know that the governor was Joseph and that he could understand everything they were saying, because he had used a translator.

²⁴Then Joseph excused himself and went to his office, where he wept. Later he came back, self-composed, as if nothing had happened. Then he interrupted the brothers and picked Simeon, the second oldest, to remain. He ordered his hands tied right there in front of his brothers, and Simeon was taken off to prison between two guards.

The Brothers Return Home

²⁵Joseph sent a message to the granary manager asking him to fill the brothers' sacks with grain and to give them extra food for along the way. He was also to return their money. ²⁶So the brothers loaded the sacks of grain on their donkeys and left for home.

²⁷At the place where they spent the first night, one of them opened his sack to give some grain to his donkey, and there right on top was his money. ²⁸"Look!" he shouted. "My money is back in my sack!"

They all came running, and when they saw the money, their hearts sank. They were too scared to look in their own sacks. They said to each other, "Now what are we going to do? What else will God let happen to us? Let's hurry home."

²⁹When they got back to Canaan, they told Jacob everything that had happened to them. They said, ³⁰"The man in charge of Egypt was very hard on us. He thought we were spies and wasn't kind to us at all. ³¹We told him we weren't spies but honest men from Canaan there to buy food. ³²We also told him that we were twelve brothers, all from the same father, that one of our brothers was dead and that the youngest was at home.

³³"But the governor didn't believe us and still accused us of being spies. He said, 'OK, I'll test you to see if you're telling the truth. I'll keep one of you in prison, and the rest of you can buy grain for your families and go back home. ³⁴But all of you need to come back and bring your youngest brother with you. Then I'll know that you're honest men telling the truth, because you're willing to risk your lives by coming back here just to save your brother. If you bring your other brother, then I'll set this brother free, and you can trade in Egypt all you want.'"

³⁵Then the other brothers emptied their sacks, and each man found his money in his sack of grain. When they and their father saw that the money had been returned, they were very fearful. ³⁶In distress, Jacob cried out, "Do I have to lose another of my sons? Joseph is dead, Simeon is in prison, and now you want to take Benjamin back to Egypt. I'm not sure I can take it!"

³⁷Then Reuben said, "I promise, on the lives of my own two sons, that when we return to Egypt with Benjamin, we will bring him back with us. Trust me with Benjamin, and I will bring him back."

³⁸Jacob said, "Benjamin will not go to Egypt with you. Joseph, his brother, is dead, and Benjamin is Rachel's only son left. If something should happen to him along the way, I couldn't take it at my age. I would die."

Benjamin Goes to Egypt

43 The famine didn't end, but got worse. ²When Jacob's family had used up all the grain which his sons had brought from Egypt, he called them together and said, "You need to go back to Egypt and buy more food for us."

³Then Judah said, "Father, remember last time when we were in Egypt, how the governor told us not to come back without our younger brother whom he wants to see face to face. ⁴Now if you're willing for us to take Benjamin with us, we can go and buy some more food. ⁵But if you're not willing for us to take Benjamin with us, we can't go back, because the governor told us that we had better not come to see him again unless we bring our younger brother with us."

⁶Then Jacob asked, "Why did you put me in such a predicament by telling the governor that you had a younger brother?" ⁷They answered, "Because he asked us straight out about our family, whether our father was still alive, whether we had a younger brother, how he was doing, and so on. So we simply answered his questions. How could we know that he would ask us to bring our younger brother with us the next time we came?"

⁸Then Judah said to his father, "Let us take Benjamin along because we need to get going. The days are passing and we need more grain; otherwise we'll all die, especially you, Father, and our little ones. ⁹I promise to protect Benjamin and give you my word that if I don't bring him back to you, you can extract whatever you want from my own family. ¹⁰If we hadn't hesitated so long these last few weeks, we would have already been there and back."

¹¹Then Israel said, "If it has to be that way, take some of the best that we've been able to grow as a personal present from me to the governor. Also take a little balm, honey, spices, pistachio nuts and almonds. ¹²And take double the money with you—the money you found in your sacks which may have been an oversight on the part of the servants and additional money for more grain. ¹³And take Benjamin with you and get going. We are running out of time. ¹⁴I'm praying that God will make the governor show mercy to all of you and release Simeon, so he can return with you."

¹⁷The steward did as he was told and took the ten brothers to Joseph's house. ¹⁸Now because they were being taken to the governor's palace, they were afraid and said to each other, "It's because we didn't pay for our first load of grain that we're being taken to the governor's house. When we get there, he'll have us arrested as thieves. Then he'll take all we have and make us his personal slaves!"

¹⁹When they got to the door of the palace, they said to Joseph's assistant, ²⁰"Pardon us, Sir. We came to Egypt once before to buy grain, ²¹and on our way back home, when we got ready to camp, we opened one man's sack of grain and found his money. Later, we all found our money in our sacks. So now we have brought the money back with us to pay for our first load of grain. ²²We also brought more money to pay for a new load of grain. We still have no idea how each man's money got back into his sack."

²³Then the steward said, "Relax and don't worry. Nothing will happen to you. Maybe God put your money back into your sacks. All I know is that your first haul of grain was paid for." Then he took them into the house, and Simeon was waiting for them.

²⁶When Joseph got home, they took their gifts into the reception room and politely bowed to him. ²⁷He then asked about their families, "How is your father, the old man you told me about? Is he still alive and well?" ²⁸They answered, "Yes, our father is still alive and well, and he asked us to tell you that he is your servant to do your bidding." Then they knelt in front of Joseph and bowed to the ground.

²⁹When they got up, Joseph saw Benjamin and said, "So this is the young brother you told me about. Now I can see that you are not spies but that you have told me the truth. You will be treated as honest men, and I will allow you to come and go and buy food." Then he turned to Benjamin and said, "God bless you, and may He be gracious to you, my son." ³⁰Suddenly Joseph excused himself and left the room because he couldn't hold back his tears any longer, especially after seeing his younger brother.

³¹Then he washed his face and came back under control and ordered lunch to be served. ³²Joseph sat at one table, his brothers at another, and the Egyptian officials at still another table. It was a curse for the Egyptians to eat with certain foreigners, including the Hebrews. ³³The brothers were seated facing Joseph according to age from the oldest to the youngest. When the brothers noticed this, they were amazed that the governor knew how to seat them. ³⁴Then they were served from the food on Joseph's table. Benjamin was offered five times as much as his brothers, but not one of the brothers showed any jealousy. They all ate and drank happily together.

Joseph's Silver Drinking Cup

44 When the meal was over, Joseph said to the steward in charge of his house, "Fill the sacks of these men with as much food as they can carry and put each man's money back into his sack. ²Also, put my own silver drinking cup on top of the grain in the youngest man's sack, in addition to his money." The steward did as he was told.

³At daylight the next morning, the brothers were sent on their way with their donkeys loaded down with grain. ⁴They had not been gone long when Joseph said to the man in charge of his house, "Take some armed guards and go after those men, and when you catch up with them, say, 'Why have you been so wicked as to take advantage of the governor's kindness and hospitality?' ⁵One of you has stolen my master's silver drinking cup. How ungrateful can you be!"

⁶So when the steward overtook the brothers, that is exactly what he said to them. ⁷They were stunned, and said to him, "Sir, why would you think that one of us stole the governor's silver cup? God forbid that we should do such a thing! ⁸Didn't we bring back the money that was found in our sacks the first time we bought a load of grain? Does that sound like we're dishonest, wicked men eager to steal the governor's own cup? ⁹If one of us has the governor's cup, let him be executed and the rest of us will be the governor's slaves!"

¹⁰Then the steward said, "All right, but I'll not take as drastic a measure as you suggest. Only the man who has the cup will become my slave, and the rest of you can go free."

¹¹So each man quickly took down his sack of grain and opened it, to prove that the steward was wrong. ¹²He searched each man's sack, beginning with the oldest and going to the youngest, and he found the governor's cup in Benjamin's sack. ¹³In anguish, the brothers ripped their tunics in half, reloaded the grain on their donkeys and headed back to the city.

¹⁴Judah led the way, and when they got to the governor's house, they fell on their knees and bowed to the ground.

¹⁵Joseph said, "What have you done? Don't you know that I have ways to find out what people do?"

¹⁶Judah said, "What can we say, Your Excellency? What can we do to clear ourselves? The evidence is there! God has brought our guilt home to us. We are in your power and we know that you can make all of us your slaves, not only the one in whose sack the cup was found."

¹⁷Joseph said, "God forbid that I should punish all of you. But the man in whose sack the cup was found, he will be my slave. The rest of you are free to go back to your father."

Judah Intercedes for Young Benjamin

¹⁸Then Judah got up off his knees, stepped forward and said, "Sir, let me speak just one more time and don't be angry with us. Please listen to our story.

¹⁹Sir, when we came the first time, you asked if we all had the same father and if we had any younger brothers. ²⁰We told you the truth when we said that we all have the same father who is now an old man and we have a younger brother. We also said that originally we were twelve brothers, but one of our brothers is dead. He had the same mother as the younger one. Father loves our younger brother very much.

²¹"Then you asked us to bring this brother the next time we came, so you could see him for yourself and know whether or not we were telling the truth.

²²We mentioned that our younger brother could not leave home without endangering the life of his aged father, because if anything happened to him, our father would die. ²³Sir, you told us that unless we brought our younger brother with us, there would be no next time. ²⁴So when we got back home, we told Father everything you said, and he is like your own servant, willing to do anything to please you.

²⁵"It was hard for him to accept your wish, but when our food ran out, he told us to come back and buy more grain.

²⁶We told him we couldn't return to Egypt, because you had said we couldn't buy more grain unless we brought our brother and you saw him for yourself.

²⁸The oldest went out to the field and was killed by a wild animal, and I never saw him again. ²⁹Now if you take his younger brother from me and something happens to him, the sorrow and pain would kill me, because I'm already an old man.'

³⁰"Sir, if I get back home to our father and he sees that our young brother is not with us the sorrow and pain will be too much for him and he will die. ³¹And when this happens, we will feel as if we have killed our own father. ³²Also, I pledged my own life to our father for the safety of our brother. I told him that if I did not bring him back with me, to let the blame be on me the rest of my life. ³³Please, let me be your slave and let the young man go back with his brothers. ³⁴How can I go back home to our father without him? What I've told you, sir, is true."

Joseph Reveals Himself to His Brothers

45 By this time Joseph was no longer able to control his emotions, and he ordered his servants, "Everyone but these brothers, leave the room!" He wanted to be alone when he told his brothers who he was. ²After his servants left, Joseph broke down and cried out so loudly that the servants could hear him throughout the whole house. They carried word to Pharaoh what Joseph had told them about his brothers.

³The brothers didn't know what to make of the governor's actions. Finally, Joseph brought himself under control and said in Hebrew, "I am Joseph! Praise God my father is still alive!" His brothers were so stunned, they were speechless.

⁴Then Joseph said, "Come closer! Come!" When they finally did, he said, "I am really Joseph, your own brother, the one you sold as a slave into Egypt! ⁵You can now stop condemning yourselves over what you did in a fit of anger when you sold me to the Ishmaelites. God has turned what you did into a blessing to preserve your lives. ⁶This is only the second year of famine and there are still five more years to go, during which there will be no plowing, sowing or reaping. ⁷God brought good out of your anger and sent me here to preserve our lives and those of our families.

⁸“So it wasn’t you who sent me here, but God. And He has made me the highest official in the land, next to Pharaoh, who has put me in charge of all the business affairs of the palace and made me governor of all of Egypt. ⁹Hurry home and tell Father that his son Joseph is still alive and that I’m governor of Egypt. Then as quickly as you can, move down here so you can make it through the next five years of drought. ¹⁰In the northern part of Egypt, close by, is the land of Goshen, and it will be an ideal place for you to settle and raise your children and grandchildren. It has good pasture-land for your flocks and herds. ¹¹I’ll see to it that you’re taken care of for the next five years, so that you and your families survive.”

¹²The brothers were so shocked that they could hardly believe what they were hearing. Joseph said, “Can’t you see that I am really your lost brother? Can’t you tell by the way I talk? You can, can’t you, Benjamin? ¹³Now go and tell Father how much authority the king of Egypt has given me. Tell him everything you have seen, then move here as quickly as you can.”

¹⁴Then he hugged his brother Benjamin and cried, and so did Benjamin. ¹⁵Next he hugged all of his brothers and cried with each one of them. Then the brothers got up their courage and talked to him.

¹⁶When word reached Pharaoh that Joseph’s brothers had arrived, Pharaoh and his servants were happy for Joseph’s sake. ¹⁷Pharaoh sent a message to him, saying, “I’m glad that your brothers are here. Tell them to load their animals, return to Canaan, ¹⁸then bring your father here along with each man’s family. They may settle in any part of Egypt that is best for them, and be fed from my personal granaries.

²¹So Joseph gave his brothers wagons to travel in, as Pharaoh ordered, and also food for along the way. ²²He also gave each man a new set of clothes, but to Benjamin he gave five changes of clothes and three hundred pieces of silver. ²³For his father he sent ten donkeys loaded with the choicest merchandise of Egypt and ten additional donkeys loaded with food for the trip back. ²⁴So Joseph sent his brothers on their way and as they left, he said, “Don’t stop to quarrel, but keep moving along as fast as you can.”

²⁵Then they said good-bye and left Egypt, heading back to Canaan to their father. ²⁶When they got home, they told Jacob that Joseph was still alive and that he was governor over all Egypt. Jacob’s heart nearly stopped because he simply couldn’t believe it. ²⁷They told him everything that had happened and took him outside to see the Egyptian wagons which Joseph had sent with them by order of the Pharaoh. Their own donkeys were also loaded with gifts. Finally, Jacob believed them, and his spirits were lifted. ²⁸He said, “It is enough! I’m convinced that Joseph is alive! Let’s go! I will yet see him before I die.”

Jacob Comes to Egypt

46 So Jacob moved to Egypt with everything he had, and when he came to Beersheba, he stopped and offered sacrifices to the God of his father Isaac.

²That night God called to Israel in a vision, "Jacob, Jacob." And he answered, "Yes, Lord, here I am."

³Then the Lord said, "I am the Lord God, the God of your father Isaac. Don't be afraid to move down to Egypt because I have not forgotten my promise to make your descendants a separate nation. ⁴I will go down to Egypt with you and bring you back home again, and you will see your son Joseph and he will be there to close your eyes when you die."

⁵Jacob took courage and left Beer-sheba, heading for Egypt. His sons transported their father and their wives and children in the royal wagons which Pharaoh had ordered. ⁶They also took their flocks and herds with them from Canaan and finally arrived in Egypt. ⁷So Jacob, his sons, his sons' children, his daughters and their children—all his offspring—finally arrived in Egypt.

⁸Here are the names of the children of Israel who came to Egypt with him: Reuben, Israel's firstborn, ⁹with his sons, Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron and Carmi. ¹⁰Simeon and his sons, Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar (or Zerah), and Shaul, who was the son of a Canaanite woman.

¹¹Levi and his sons, Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

¹²Judah and his sons, Shelah, Perez and Zerah (his other sons, Er and Onan, had died in Canaan). Perez's sons, Hezron and Hamul.

¹³Issachar and his sons, Tola, Puah, Jashub and Shimron.

¹⁴Zebulun and his sons, Sered, Elon and Jahleel.

¹⁵All these were sons of Leah who were born in Mesopotamia, not counting her daughter Dinah. So there were thirty-three descendants of Jacob by Leah.

¹⁶Then there was Gad and his sons, Zephon, Haggi, Shuni, Ezbon, Eri, Arodi and Areli.

¹⁷Asher and his sons, Imnah, Ishvah, Ishvi, Beriah and their sister Serah. Beriah's sons were Heber and Malchiel.

¹⁸So there were sixteen descendants of Jacob by Zilpah, Leah's maid.

¹⁹Now Jacob's wife Rachel had two sons, Joseph and Benjamin.

²⁰Joseph had two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim, born to him in Egypt by his wife Asenath, the daughter of Potiphara, the high priest of Heliopolis.

²¹Benjamin's sons were: Bela, Becher, Ashbel, Gera, Naaman, Ehi, Rosh, Muppim, Huppim and Ard.

²²So there were fourteen descendants of Jacob by Rachel.

²³Then there was Dan and his son Hushim.

²⁴Naphtali and his sons, Jahziel, Guni, Jezer and Shillem.

²⁵These seven were the descendants of Jacob by Bilhah, Rachel's maid.

²⁶The total number of Jacob's sons, grandsons and unmarried daughters when he came to Egypt was sixty-six, not counting his sons' wives. ²⁷Including the two sons born to Joseph in Egypt, together with Joseph and Jacob himself, brought to seventy the total number of Jacob's family who were going to be in Egypt.

The Sons of Jacob Settle in Goshen

²⁸Jacob sent Judah ahead to tell Joseph that they were coming and that they were going directly to Goshen.

²⁹Then Joseph ordered his chariot to be made ready and rode north as quickly as he could to meet his father, Israel, in Goshen. When they met, Joseph threw his arms around his father's neck, and they both cried for a very long time.

³⁰Finally, Israel said to Joseph, "Let me look at you, son." And when he had filled his eyes with Joseph, he said, "Now I can die in peace because after fifteen long years, I have seen you again, and you are still alive."

³¹Then Joseph said to his brothers and to his father, "Let me go back to Pharaoh and tell him that my brothers and my father are here. They have arrived in Goshen and the whole family is finally together again.

herds and cattlemen and that you have brought your flocks and herds with you. ³³And if Pharaoh requests that you come to Heliopolis to see him and asks what your occupation is, ³⁴say to him, 'We are your servants, Your Majesty, willing to live wherever you choose, but by occupation, we are shepherds and have been since we were young, just as our fathers before us. We are planning to stay in Egypt only a little while.' You need to be honest with Pharaoh, for all shepherds are looked down on by the Egyptians. Then he'll let you live by yourselves in the land of Goshen."

47 Joseph then went back to Heliopolis, asked for an audience with Pharaoh and said, "My father and brothers with their flocks and herds have come all the way from Canaan and are now in Goshen."

²Joseph arranged for Pharaoh to meet his father and brothers, and when the time came, he took five of his brothers and introduced them to Pharaoh. ³When Pharaoh met them, he asked, "What do you men do for a living?"

They answered, "We are shepherds, just as our fathers were before us. ⁴We've come to Egypt because back home all the pastures are dried up, and the famine is even worse than it is here. So please, Your Majesty, let us settle in Goshen, and we will be forever grateful."

⁵Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, "It's good to see the whole family reunited and to have your father and brothers here with you. ⁶The whole land of Egypt is in front of you. Choose the part that is best suited to their needs, and if they prefer Goshen, let them settle there. If they want to, you can put the most capable of your brothers in charge of my own cattle."

⁷Joseph thanked Pharaoh, then brought his father in and introduced him to the king. ⁸Pharaoh asked Jacob, "How old are you?" ⁹Jacob answered, "I'm one hundred and thirty years old, but I'm not going to live as long as my ancestors did.

The days of my life have been difficult, so my years will be few." ¹⁰Then Jacob lifted up his hands and blessed Pharaoh before he left his presence.

¹¹So Joseph took his father and brothers back to Goshen and gave them properties in the best part of that northern area called the district of Rameses, as Pharaoh had directed. ¹²Joseph made sure that his father and brothers had enough food and were well provided for, according to the number of their children.

The Famine

¹³The drought was so bad in Egypt and in the land of Canaan that no one could grow grain anywhere. ¹⁴Egyptians, as well as people from other nations, came to Joseph to buy food. He sold grain to the Egyptians and the foreigners alike and deposited the money in the king's treasury. ¹⁵When the people ran out of money, they came to Joseph and said, "We have no money, but you must give us food or we will die!"

¹⁶Joseph said, "Bring the cattle you have, and I'll trade your food for cattle." ¹⁷So they brought their cattle, horses, donkeys and other animals to Joseph and used them in exchange for food. And Joseph sold them the food they needed.

¹⁸The next year the people came back to Joseph and said, "There is no use pretending. We have nothing left with which to buy food. Our money is all gone, our cattle and animals are gone; we have nothing left to offer you in exchange for grain except ourselves and our land. ¹⁹Why should we starve to death in sight of food? We will give you our bodies and our land in exchange for food, and we will gladly serve Pharaoh. Just let us have some food and grain so we can live. Maybe we can plant a little grain and water it by hand so we can at least have something to feed our families."

²⁰In that way Joseph bought all the property in Egypt and turned it over to the state. Every family in Egypt had to sell their land in order to survive, and soon it all belonged to Pharaoh. ²¹From one end of the country to the other, many people were now working for the government and were not much better off than slaves. ²²The only property not bought by the government were those owned by the priests, because Pharaoh had ordered the priests to be fed from his own royal granaries, so they didn't have to sell their land.

²³When the people came to Joseph again asking for food, he said to them, "Since you have nothing more to sell and you're already working for the government, I'll give you food and grain on the following condition: ²⁴I'll assign you a piece of land which belongs to the state, and you work it—the only stipulation is that one-fifth of all you reap will belong to the state and four-fifths will be yours to trade with and to feed your wives and little ones."

²⁵The people said, "That's a deal! You have saved our lives! You have virtually given us back our property, and for this we are grateful. We want you to tell Pharaoh that we are his willing servants."

²⁶Now Joseph had made it a law throughout Egypt, one which is still in existence as this book is being written, that one-fifth of all harvests go to the state, except harvests from the lands of the priests which Pharaoh did not buy.

Joseph's Vow to Jacob

²⁷Jacob and his family lived in the northern part of Egypt in the land of Goshen. After the famine was over they acquired property there and grew in number.

²⁸Jacob himself lived another seventeen years after he came to Egypt, so he was one hundred and forty-seven years old when he died. ²⁹When he knew he was about to die, he asked Joseph to come to see him. When he came, Jacob said, "Be kind to your old father and place your right hand under my thigh and swear to me that you will not bury me in Egypt, ³⁰but that you will take my body back to Canaan and bury me with my fathers in the land God promised us."

Joseph said, "I will do as you say."

³¹Then Jacob said, "Now seal your promise with an oath." So Joseph took an oath, and Jacob got up, leaned on his staff and bowed in thanksgiving to the Lord.

Jacob Blesses Joseph's Sons

48 Not long after this, Joseph heard that his father wasn't well and probably wouldn't live much longer. So Joseph took his two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim, and went to see Jacob. ²When Jacob was told that Joseph and his two sons were coming to see him, he pulled his last ounce of energy together and sat up in bed to look as good for Joseph as he could.

³When they came in, he welcomed them and said to Joseph, "The Almighty God appeared to me at Bethel in the land of Canaan and blessed me. ⁴He said, 'I promise to be with you and multiply your descendants so your offspring will become an entire nation. And I will give this land to you and to your descendants as your possession forever.'

⁵"Now your two sons, Ephraim and Manasseh, even though they were born to you before I came to Egypt or saw them, yet I consider them my own sons just as much as Reuben and Simeon, so their inheritance will be the same. ⁶And if you should have any additional sons or consider others to be part of your family, their inheritance will come through Ephraim and Manasseh. ⁷When I came back to Bethel after leaving Mesopotamia, your mother Rachel died, and I had her buried off the road which goes to Bethlehem. She wanted to give me more sons, but couldn't. So I'm accepting your sons as my own offspring."

⁸Then Jacob looked up toward heaven, closed his eyes and said, "Joseph, tell me in the sight of God, are these your very own sons?" ⁹Joseph answered, "Yes, father, they are. These are the sons God gave me here in Egypt." Jacob said, "Bring them close to me, so I can put my hands on their heads and bless them.”

¹⁰Jacob couldn't see very well, for his eyes were weak because of his age. So Joseph brought his boys up close to him, and Jacob hugged and kissed them.
¹¹Then Jacob said to Joseph, “You know Joseph, I never expected to see you again, and now I have not only seen you, but also your sons.”

¹⁵As he did so, he said in Joseph's hearing, “May the God of my fathers, Abraham and Isaac, bless these two boys. May the God who has been with me all my life bless them abundantly. ¹⁶May the Angel who has redeemed me from evil, bless these boys. May my name and the name of my fathers, Abraham and Isaac, live on through them and their offspring. May they be fruitful and may their descendants be many.”

¹⁹But Jacob refused to change, saying, “I know it, my son, I know it. Manasseh's descendants will also become numerous, but the younger brother's descendants will multiply faster, and they will become a small nation.” ²⁰So Jacob kept his hands on Joseph's two sons and finished his patriarchal blessing by saying, “And the children of Israel will bless your names. They will greet each other and say, ‘May God make you like Ephraim and Manasseh.’” Thus Jacob put Ephraim ahead of Manasseh.

²¹Then Jacob concluded the visit by saying to Joseph, “It won't be long now before I die. But God will be with you as He has in the past, and He will bring you back to the land of your fathers. ²²I have given you one portion more than your brothers. The whole Shechem area will be yours. I don't want your brothers to settle there because of what they did to the local people. This is a fertile region which I defended against the Amorites with my own bow and sword.”

Jacob's Last Words

49 Then Jacob called for all his sons to come in and said to them, “Come and gather around my bed, so I can tell you what the Lord has told me about your future and the future of your descendants. ²Listen carefully, my sons, to what your old father, Jacob, has to say.

³“Reuben, you are my firstborn, the firstfruit of my strength, the product of my young manhood. You are the proudest and strongest of all my sons. ⁴But you can also be as unstable as a raging flood, brimming with passion. You slept with Rachel's maid, your brother's mother, and by so doing you dishonored your father's name. The personality of your descendants will be just like you—strong, proud and passionate.

⁵“Simeon and Levi, you two are brothers, and you're just alike. Both of you have violent tempers, and you've used your weapons to kill and commit acts of aggression. ⁶The two of you held secret meetings to plan violence, and you've killed at the slightest provocation. You crippled bulls just for sport. ⁷Expressing your violent temper has done you no good; it's been a curse to you. It is fierce and its fury is cruel. Your descendants will have the same personality. They will be just as restless as you are, and God will scatter them throughout Israel.

⁸“Judah, your brothers respect you. When you get your enemy by the neck, you will not let go, and your brothers know this. ⁹You are like a lion who kills, not for fun, but for food, then returns to his den to sleep. And when you're lying down, who would dare disturb you? ¹⁰Your descendants will be leaders and kings. The scepter will come to your descendants and the ruler's staff to your children, and it will not depart until Shiloh comes to whom everyone's obedience belongs. ¹¹You will tie your donkey to the best of vines and your colt to the choicest branch. You will be so prosperous, you could wash your clothes in wine. ¹²Your strength will be evident to everyone, for your eyes will sparkle like wine and your teeth will be as white as milk.

¹³“Zebulun, you love the ocean. Your descendants will live along the Mediterranean coast as far up as Sidon. Their cities will be a welcome haven for ships and a needed rest to shipwrecked mariners. ¹⁴Issachar, you are like a strong donkey that can be loaded down until its legs seem to bend. You work hard and enjoy it. ¹⁵You know where the land is good, where it's delightful to live, and you're willing to work for it. You put your shoulder to the wheel, but you often become a slave to your own ambitions. Your descendants will be just like you.

¹⁸Jacob got this far and prayed, “O God, please help me to go on!” ¹⁹Then he continued, “Gad, you are a peaceful man and an easy prey for robbers and for those who want to take advantage of you, but you are not afraid to go after them and catch them. Your descendants will be just like that.

²⁸These men and their descendants eventually made up the twelve tribes of Israel, and this is what Jacob said to his twelve sons about their descendants just before he died.

Jacob Dies

²⁹When he finished speaking to them, he said, "I'm about to die. I want you to bury me next to my fathers in that cave in the middle of Ephron, in the land of the Hittites, ³⁰the same cave which Abraham bought from Ephron, the Hittite, as a burial place. The cave of Machpelah is close to the oaks of Mamre in the land of Canaan. ³¹Abraham and Sarah are buried there, and Isaac and Rebecca, and that's where I buried Leah. ³²This cave originally belonged to the descendants of Heth before Abraham bought it."

³³Then Jacob, who had been sitting up in bed, lay down, curled up and died.

50 Joseph fell across the bed, kissed his father's face and cried uncontrollably. ²When he finished crying, he went back home and asked the morticians to embalm his father's body, which they did. ³The time required to embalm a body, according to Egyptian custom, was about forty days, with thirty days spent in mourning. But the total time the Egyptians mourned for Jacob was seventy days.

⁴When the days of mourning were over, Joseph went to Pharaoh's advisors and said, "In my heart I'm still mourning and cannot see Pharaoh. Would you please speak to him for me? ⁵Tell him that my father Jacob made me promise before he died that I would bury him in the tomb of his fathers in the land of Canaan. Ask Pharaoh to please let me go and bury my father, then I will come back and assume my duties."

Goshen with some of the servants to watch the flocks and herds. ⁹Even a military escort with chariots and horses went along for protection.

¹⁰They took the long way, traveling south around the Dead Sea all the way to the harvesting center of Atad on the other side of the river Jordan. They stayed there for a full week mourning the death of Jacob, going through ceremonies and rituals for the dead. ¹¹When the Canaanites saw it, they said, "This is a great mourning the Egyptians are holding." So they called the place Abel Mizraim, which means The Great Mourning of the Egyptians.

¹²While the Egyptians waited by the river Jordan, the sons of Jacob transported the body of their father the rest of the way into Canaan as he had requested. ¹³They took his body to the cave of Machpelah near the oaks of Mamre which Abraham had bought as a burial plot from Ephron the Hittite. ¹⁴After the burial ceremonies, Joseph, his brothers and all the others who had accompanied them returned to Egypt.

Joseph Loves His Brothers

¹⁵Then Joseph's brothers said to each other, "Now that our father is dead, what if Joseph still holds a grudge against us for selling him as a slave and wants to get even for what we did to him?" ¹⁶So they sent a messenger to Joseph in Heliopolis with a letter which said, "Remember that Father spoke to you about forgiving us just before he died. ¹⁷And remember that he said, 'Please forgive your brothers for what they did to you, for they have admitted they did wrong in selling you to the Ishmaelites as a slave.' So please tell us that you have forgiven us, for we are all servants of the same God our fathers worshiped." When Joseph read the letter, he wept.

¹⁸A few hours later, his brothers arrived. After they were ushered in, they fell on their knees, bowing before him, and said, "We are willing to be your slaves!"

¹⁹Joseph shook his head and said to them, "Don't kneel down in front of me! Get up!" When they were up, he said to them, "I'm not in the place of God to carry out judgments on anyone. Don't be afraid; I'm not going to do anything to you. ²⁰You were angry at the time you sold me into slavery. You wanted to get rid of me, but as you can see, God turned it to our good and has kept our families alive. ²¹I've forgiven you, and will continue to feed you and your families from the royal granaries as I've been doing, just as Pharaoh instructed." He spoke kindly to his brothers and comforted them.

Joseph Dies

²²Joseph stayed on in Egypt with his family, as did all the brothers and their families. He lived to be one hundred and ten years old ²³and saw Ephraim's children and their children, even the children of his grandson Makir, the oldest son of Manasseh. He was privileged to hold them on his knee and bless them.

²⁴One day Joseph called his brothers to him and said, "I am about to die. But God will continue to take care of you and lead you out of here and take you back to the land He promised to give to our fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob."

²⁵Then Joseph asked them to take an oath that when the time came for God to lead them out of Egypt and back to their own land, they would take his body with them. The brothers agreed and took the oath to do so.

²⁶Shortly afterward, Joseph died at one hundred and ten years of age, and they embalmed him and placed his body in a coffin in Egypt.

EXODUS

The Children of Israel in Egypt

1 These are the names of the sons of Jacob who, each with his household, came down to Egypt with him: ²Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, ³Issachar, Zebulun, Benjamin, ⁴Dan, Naphtali, Gad and Asher. ⁵Actually, there were seventy heads of families who came to live in Egypt, counting Jacob and including Joseph and his two sons who also were heads of families. ⁶In time, Joseph died, as did his brothers. ⁷The descendants of Jacob continued to multiply and became so numerous and strong that they took up the whole land of Goshen. But they did not keep God's commandments as Abraham had, so the Lord allowed them to be placed in bondage.

⁸Then a foreign king began to rule over Egypt who didn't want to know about Joseph and what he had done to save Egypt. ⁹He said, "There are so many of these Israelites that soon they'll be more powerful than we are. ¹⁰In case of war, they might join the enemy and fight us, or they might leave the country, which would greatly jeopardize our economy. We need them but we must stop them from having so many children." ¹¹So the Egyptians sent troops into the land of Goshen and set slave masters over the children of Israel to crush their spirits with hard labor, forcing them to build cities like Pithom and Rameses which became supply centers for Pharaoh. ¹²But the harder they were forced to work, the more they multiplied, and the more land they needed to live on. Soon the Egyptians became afraid of them. ¹³They tried to protect themselves by making their Israelite slaves work even harder. ¹⁴They made life extremely difficult for the Israelites by ruthlessly forcing them to work on the king's building projects and in his fields in the bitterly hot sun.

¹⁵One day Pharaoh called in Shiprah and Puah, the Hebrew midwives in charge of those who delivered babies, and said to them, ¹⁶"When you and your assistants help a Hebrew woman deliver her baby, if it's a boy, kill him, but if it's a girl let her live. That's an order."

¹⁷But the midwives respected the Lord more than they feared the king so they didn't do as the king said but let the baby boys live. ¹⁸Then the king sent for the midwives again and said, "Why are you letting the baby boys live when I ordered you to kill them? Answer me!"

¹⁹The midwives said, "The Hebrew women are not like the Egyptian women; they're vigorous and give birth much more easily. Many times their babies are born before we can even get there." ²⁰So God blessed the midwives and protected them, not because He approved of their partial truths, but because of their kindness to the mothers and their babies. The children of Israel increased until they became extremely numerous.

²¹Because the midwives put God first and did what He said rather than what the king said, the Lord blessed them with families of their own. ²²Then Pharaoh issued this order to all Egyptian slave masters: "Take every Hebrew baby boy that you find and throw him into the Nile as a sacrifice to our river god. But don't harm the baby girls."

Moses Is Born

2 An Israelite man from the tribe of Levi had married a woman from the tribe of Levi. ²They had a daughter named Miriam and then a son named Aaron. The woman became pregnant again and gave birth to a second son. He was a good baby and she succeeded in hiding him for three months. ³When she could no longer hide him, she made a small basket out of reeds, coated it with tar and pitch to make it watertight and put the baby inside. Before sunrise she set the basket in the water by the reeds at the edge of the Nile. ⁴Pharaoh's daughter often came here to bathe and to pay her respects to the river god. The baby's sister hid nearby to see what would happen to her little brother.

⁵That morning the king's daughter came down to the river to bathe and worship. As she and her attendants were walking along the river bank, she saw a basket floating among the reeds near the edge of the river. She asked one of her servant girls to go in and get it. ⁶When the princess opened the basket, there was a baby inside. He immediately began to cry. She could tell it was a Hebrew baby and felt sorry for him and for the mother who had abandoned him.

⁷Then the baby's sister, who had been hiding nearby, came and said, "If you need someone to take care of the baby, I can get a Hebrew woman to nurse it for you. Would you like for me to do that?" ⁸"Please do," said the princess. So the girl ran home and got her mother. ⁹When the child's mother came, Pharaoh's daughter said to her, "Take this baby and nurse him for me and I'll pay you for it. Take good care of him until he's old enough to come live with me at the palace." So the mother took the baby and nursed him for her.

¹⁰The years passed quickly. Periodically the princess came to visit, and when the boy was twelve years old, she decided it was time for him to come live with her. So he became the adopted son of Pharaoh's daughter. She said, "I drew him out of the Nile when he was a baby, so I will call him Hapimoses, meaning The One Given to Me by the Nile-god, Hapmose. But the boy preferred the shortened form, Moses, simply meaning The One Drawn Out.

Moses Flees

¹¹As a young man, Moses was trained in all the wisdom and military art of the Egyptians. He often saw how harshly his fellow Hebrews were treated. One day when he was about forty years old, he saw an Egyptian slave master beating a Hebrew so severely, the man could easily have died. ¹²Moses looked around and noticed that all the other Egyptian slave masters were gone for the day. So he ran over, grabbed the Egyptian and killed him. When he realized what he had done, he hid the man's body in the sand and went back to the palace. He hoped that the Hebrew people would recognize this as a signal for them to revolt, accept him as their leader and fight to free themselves.

¹³The next morning Moses went out to see his fellow Hebrews, expecting them to eagerly accept him as their leader. When he got there, he saw two Hebrews fighting with each other. He separated them and said to the one who seemed to be the stronger, "Why are you beating up on a fellow Hebrew?"

¹⁴The man looked at Moses and angrily retorted, "Who asked you to judge us? Are you going to settle this by killing me like you killed the Egyptian?" Immediately Moses knew by the man's attitude how the people felt toward him. He thought, "They know what I did, but they're not willing for me to set them free."

¹⁵Meanwhile, Pharaoh heard that Moses had saved a Hebrew slave by killing an Egyptian. Pharaoh suspected that Moses had done this to begin a revolt against the government. So he issued an order for his arrest and execution. But Moses fled Egypt and headed east for the land of Midian. There he spotted a well and sat down to rest, hoping that someone would come along to give him a drink.

¹⁶There was a priest living in that area of Midian who was a descendant of Abraham. He had seven daughters who came to the well to draw water for their father's sheep and goats. ¹⁷But as they had done before, the shepherds drove the flock of Jethro's daughters away. Moses defended the young women and watered their sheep and goats for them. ¹⁸That afternoon when Jethro's daughters got home, their father was surprised and said to them, "How come you're home so early?"

¹⁹They said, "An Egyptian was at the well and didn't let the shepherds push us away. So we didn't have to wait. He even drew the water for us."

²⁰Jethro was grateful and asked, "Where is this Egyptian? Why didn't you invite him home? Go back and find him and invite him to come and eat with us."

²¹So Moses went to Jethro's house. There he fell in love with Jethro's daughter Zipporah and eventually married her. ²²Zipporah gave birth to a son and Moses called him Gershom, meaning A Stranger In A Foreign Land, to remind himself that Midian was not his home. (It was during his stay in Midian that Moses, under the direction of the Holy Spirit, began to write Genesis and Job.)

²³Years went by and the king of Egypt died, but the children of Israel still suffered under slavery and cried to the Lord for help. ²⁴The Lord heard their prayers as they pleaded for deliverance and decided that the time had come to set them free. He had not forgotten the covenant He had made with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. ²⁵So the Spirit of the Lord spoke to the hearts of the people to let them know that the time of their deliverance was near.

The Burning Bush

3 One day Moses was taking care of the sheep and goats of his father-in-law Jethro, a priest of the Lord in Midian, when he took them across a stretch of wilderness to graze near Mount Sinai. ²Here the Angel of the Lord spoke to him from the middle of a burning bush. When Moses first saw the bush on fire, he wondered why it didn't burn up. ³"That's strange," he thought. "I'm going up there to see what's going on."

⁴So Moses went up the slope, and as he approached, the Lord called out from the middle of the fire, "Moses! Moses!"

He answered, "Yes, here I am."

am the God of your ancestors, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob." Moses quickly removed his sandals, fell on his knees, covered his face with his hands and bowed until his head touched the ground. He was afraid to look at the One who spoke.

⁷Then the Lord said, "I have seen how the children of Israel are being treated in Egypt. I have heard their cries of pain and their pleas for help. They are finally ready to let me deliver them from the oppression they're under. ⁸I have decided that this is the time to bring them out of the land of Egypt into a land that's rich and fertile. Right now the Canaanites live in that land, as do the Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites, but the land is mine and I want to give it to my people. ⁹Their cry for help has not gone unheard. I have seen their hardships and the way the Egyptians are treating them. ¹⁰So I want you to go back to Egypt to see Pharaoh and ask him to release my people. Then I want you to lead them out of Egypt to freedom."

¹¹Moses trembled as he heard this and said, "Lord, look at me! Who am I to go to Pharaoh? Who am I to free Israel and bring all these people out of Egypt? No, Lord, you need to find someone else."

¹²The Lord said, "I will go with you, and when you lead the children of Israel out of Egypt, bring them here to this mountain to worship, and when they hear me speak, they will know that I am the One who has sent you."

¹³But Moses still doubted God's wisdom in choosing him and said, "Suppose I go back to Egypt and say to the Israelites, 'The God of your fathers has sent me to set you free,' and they say to me, 'What is His name?' What shall I tell them?"

¹⁴The Lord answered, "I Am Who I Am. Tell them that I Am has sent you, the eternal God of heaven and earth. ¹⁵Also tell them that the God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob has sent you. I am Yahweh, I Am Who I Am. This is the name by which I will be known from generation to generation. ¹⁶Go and call together the elders and leaders of the people and tell them that the Lord—the God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob—appeared to you in the wilderness. I have seen their suffering, and I know how cruelly they’re being treated by the Egyptians. ¹⁷Tell them I have decided that the time has come to bring them out of Egypt into the rich and fertile land now inhabited by the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites. ¹⁸Don’t worry—the leading elders will listen to you. Then go together to Pharaoh and say to him, ‘The Lord God of the Hebrews has spoken to us and asked us to take a three-day journey into the wilderness to worship Him in the Sinai mountains where He will meet us. Please let us go and offer the necessary sacrifices to our God.’ ¹⁹The king of Egypt will not let you go. He has no intention of losing his slaves unless he’s forced to do so. ²⁰Only after I stretch out my hand against him and do many terrifying things in the land will he let you go. ²¹The Egyptians will learn to respect you because of me, and when you leave, you will not go out empty-handed. ²²Every Hebrew woman is to ask her Egyptian neighbor, or the woman in whose house she lives, for a gift of clothing and jewelry. The women are to put them on their sons and daughters and in this way you will carry the wealth of Egypt with you.”

Miracles for Pharaoh

4 Moses said, “But what if the elders and leaders don’t believe me and don’t do what I ask them to? What if they say, ‘The Lord didn’t really appear to you. You’re just making this up so you can take charge like you tried to do before?’”

²Then the Lord asked him, “What is that in your hand?” Moses answered, “That’s my shepherd’s rod.” ³The Lord said, “Throw it down on the ground.” Moses threw it down and it turned into a huge snake. He jumped back and ran to get away from it.

⁴The Lord called to him, “Come back and catch the snake by its tail.” Moses caught the snake, and as soon as he touched it, it turned back into a shepherd’s rod. ⁵The Lord said, “If the elders and leaders of Israel doubt that the God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, appeared to you, then do this same thing in front of them to prove that your story is true.”

⁶The Lord gave Moses another sign, saying, “Now put your hand inside your robe, then take it out and look at it.” Moses obeyed. He put his hand inside his robe, pulled it out and when he looked at it, it was covered with leprosy. ⁷The Lord said, “Put your hand back inside your robe, then pull it out and look at it.” Moses obeyed and put his hand back inside his robe and when he pulled it out and looked at it, it was clean, just as before. ⁸Then the Lord explained, “Some of the elders of Israel will not believe the first sign. They’ll think it’s some kind of magic. But when they see this second sign, they’ll believe you.”

⁹“But there will be some who will still doubt. So if you need to give them more evidence, then take them to the Nile, draw out some water and pour it on the ground. As soon as it hits the ground it’ll turn into blood.” ¹⁰In spite of all this, Moses still hesitated to go back to Egypt, and said, “Lord, please don’t ask me to go. I’ve never been a good speaker, and I’m certainly not one now after being with sheep and goats all these years. You know that my words don’t flow smoothly when I speak.” ¹¹The Lord said to him, “Who made man’s mouth? Who can restore his ability to speak when he’s dumb or his hearing when he’s deaf? Who can restore his sight when he’s blind? Only I, the Lord. ¹²So go to Pharaoh and I will be with you and teach you what to say.”

¹³But Moses pleaded again with the Lord, “O, Lord, please send someone else; let me stay here and take care of my sheep.” ¹⁴The Lord was displeased with Moses’ lack of faith and said to him,

“What about Aaron, your older brother? He’s a Levite and can speak fluent Egyptian. He can speak for you. I have told him where you are and he is coming to find you. ¹⁵You can speak to him in Hebrew and he can translate into Egyptian. I’ll be with both of you to tell you what to say. ¹⁶Aaron will be your spokesman. He’ll be like a mouth to you and you can tell him what I want said. ¹⁷Be sure to take your shepherd’s rod with you because it is to be a symbol of my power.”

Moses Returns to Egypt

¹⁸Then Moses took the flock home to Jethro, his father-in-law, and said, “I feel it’s time to go back to Egypt to visit my relatives to see how many of them are still alive and how they’re doing.” Jethro agreed, saying, “Go, and may God be with you.”

¹⁹The Lord spoke to Moses again, “Don’t be afraid to return to Egypt because all those who wanted to kill you are dead.” ²⁰So Moses took his wife and two young sons and headed for Egypt. He also took God’s shepherd’s rod. ²¹Again the Lord spoke to Moses, “When you get to Egypt, be sure to perform all the miracles in front of Pharaoh that I tell you to. I’ll give you power to do them so don’t be intimidated by him. He’ll be stubborn and will not give in easily. ²²Say to Pharaoh, ‘The Lord God of the Hebrews says: Israel is like a firstborn son to me. ²³I want you to let him go so he can come and worship me. If you refuse to let him go, I will not hesitate to take the life of your firstborn son.’”

was done. He spoke in such a stern way that Moses thought the angel might kill him. ²⁵When he told Zipporah about it the next morning, she took a stone knife, cut off her son’s foreskin, threw it at Moses’ feet and said, “You surely love to see blood!” ²⁶So the angel let him go. Then Zipporah called Moses a “bridegroom of blood,” but Moses knew that if he had disobeyed, he couldn’t expect the Lord to protect him. He then sent his family back home.

²⁷Before all this, the Lord had said to Aaron, “Moses now has a family, but he is returning to Egypt alone. I want you to go out and meet him.” So Aaron had left to find his brother, and they met not far from the mountain of God. They threw their arms around each other, exchanged a brotherly kiss and wept. ²⁸Then Moses told Aaron everything that had happened to him since he had left Egypt, how the Lord had appeared to him in the burning bush, what He had told him to say to Pharaoh and all the miracles that He had performed.

²⁹When they finally got to Egypt, Moses and Aaron called together all the leading elders. ³⁰Aaron told them everything that the Lord had said to Moses. Then Moses performed the same miracles for them that the Lord had shown him. ³¹When they heard the report and saw the miracles, they believed that the Lord was about to set them free. They were very grateful that the Lord had heard their prayers and observed their misery. They bowed their heads and worshiped Him.

Encounter With Pharaoh

5 After this Moses and Aaron went to see Pharaoh and said, “This is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: ‘Let my people go so they can hold a religious festival and worship me in the wilderness.’”

²Pharaoh said, “Who is the Lord that I should listen to Him? He’s not my God! It’s our gods who have prospered our country. I know nothing about your God, and I will not let your people go.”³ They said, “The God of the Hebrews has shown Himself to us and told us what to do. We need to go for three days into the wilderness and offer sacrifices to the Lord. If we don’t do what He says, He may send a plague or the sword of war.”

⁶The next day Pharaoh called in his officers and gave them the following orders: ⁷“Stop giving straw to the Hebrew slaves for their quota of brick. From now on, let them go to the fields and find their own straw, ⁸but they are to make the same number of bricks. I don’t want one brick less from our daily production. They’re not working hard enough as it is or they wouldn’t keep talking about going away for some religious festival. ⁹Make them work hard and they’ll soon forget about going anywhere. They’ll also stop believing these lies that Moses and Aaron are telling them about a God waiting for them somewhere out in the wilderness.”

¹²So the people scattered everywhere looking for straw to make their daily quota of bricks. ¹³The Egyptian officers kept pressuring the Hebrew foremen, saying, “Don’t you dare fall behind in your quota. We expect the same number of bricks from your people as when we gave you the straw.” ¹⁴When the people failed to reach their quota, the officers had the foremen whipped and said to them, “Why haven’t you made the same number of bricks? You fell behind yesterday and again today!” ¹⁵Then the foremen went to see Pharaoh and said, “Why are your officers doing this to us? We can’t possibly make the same number of bricks we made before. ¹⁶We’ve been asked to find our own straw, but that takes time, and yet we’re expected to keep producing the same daily quota. Your officers keep shouting at us, ‘Make bricks! Make bricks!’ When we fall behind, they beat us unmercifully. But it’s not our fault. It isn’t easy to go out in the field to find all the straw we need and bring it back to the worksite. Your officers are being unreasonable.” ¹⁷Pharaoh said to them, “You’re just lazy, that’s all. You just don’t want to work. That’s why you keep talking about going out to the wilderness to hold a religious festival. ¹⁸Now get back to work! You’ll have to find your own straw, but keep making the same number of bricks as before.”

¹⁹The Israelite foremen realized they were in real trouble when Pharaoh himself wouldn’t listen to reason but demanded the same quota of bricks. ²⁰As they left the palace grounds, they met Moses and Aaron who were waiting to hear what Pharaoh had said. ²¹The foremen blurted out, “May the Lord punish both of you for what you have done to us! You’ve made Pharaoh and his officers hate us even more than they did before, and now they have an excuse to kill us.”

Israel’s Deliverance Promised

²²Moses and Aaron listened but said nothing. After the foremen left, Moses turned to the Lord and said, “Lord, why have you done this to your people? They’re being treated worse now than they were before. ²³Ever since I went in to see Pharaoh to speak in your name, things have gotten even harder for them, and you’ve done nothing about it, Lord. Why?”

6 The Lord answered Moses, “You’ll now see what I will do to Pharaoh. I will force him to let my people go. In fact, he will beg them to leave.”²The Lord further said, “I am the God of Israel.”³I spoke to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob as the Almighty God, but I did not reveal myself to them as Yahweh, the covenant-keeping One. ⁴I promised to give them the land of Canaan, the same land in which they lived as strangers and foreigners. ⁵I have heard the groanings of my people whom the Egyptians have enslaved, and I have not forgotten my covenant promise. ⁶So say to the children of Israel, ‘The Lord says: I am the God of your fathers. I will bring you out of Egypt and into Canaan. I will free you from slavery and redeem you from the house of bondage. I will do so with an outstretched arm and with mighty acts of judgment. ⁷I will openly claim you as my people and show the nations that I am your God. You will no longer doubt that I am the living Lord, because I will bring you out of Egypt and will set you free. ⁸I will bring you into the land I promised to give to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. I will give it to you as an inheritance because I am the Lord.’”

⁹So Moses went and told this to the people, but they would not listen to him because their desire for freedom had been crushed by the cruelty of Pharaoh. ¹⁰Then the Lord said to Moses, ¹¹“Go tell Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, to let my people go.” ¹²Moses said, “If the Israelites don’t believe me, why should Pharaoh? To him I’m just another Hebrew, which makes it even more unlikely that he’ll pay attention to what I have to say.” ¹³Then the Lord again told Moses and Aaron to speak to the Israelites about leaving Egypt and to Pharaoh about letting His people go.

Moses’ Ancestry

¹⁴Notice Moses’ ancestry. The first three sons of Jacob with their descendants were: Reuben, Jacob’s firstborn whose sons were Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron and Carmi. These are the ancestors of the clans which bear their names. ¹⁵The descendants of Simeon, Jacob’s second son, were Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar and Shaul, who was the son of a Canaanite woman. These are the ancestors of the clans which bear their names. ¹⁶The descendants of Levi, Jacob’s third son, were Gershon, Kohath and Merari. These are the ancestors of the clans which bear their names. Levi himself lived one hundred and thirty-seven years. ¹⁷The sons of Gershon were Libni and Shimei. ¹⁸The sons of Kohath were Amram, Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel. Kohath himself lived to be one hundred and thirty-three years old. ¹⁹The sons of Merari were Mahli and Mushi. They were ancestors of the clans of Levi with their descendants. ²⁰Amram, the grandson of Levi through Kohath, married Jochebed, his father’s younger sister, who bore him Aaron and Moses. Amram lived to be one hundred and thirty-seven years old. ²¹The sons of Izhar were Korah, Nepheg and Zichri. ²²The sons of Uzziel were Mishaël, Elzaphan and Sithri.

²³Aaron, the son of Amram, married Elisheba, daughter of Amminadab and sister of Nahshon, and she gave birth to Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. ²⁴The sons of Korah were Assir, Elkanah and Abiasaph. These were ancestors of the clans descended from Korah which bear their names. ²⁵Eleazar, son of Aaron, married one of the daughters of Putiel, and she gave birth to Phinehas. He was the ancestor of the families which bear his name. ²⁶It was this Aaron and his brother Moses to whom the Lord had said, “Take the tribes of Israel out of Egypt.” ²⁷So they went and talked to Pharaoh about letting Israel go.

Aaron Becomes Moses’ Spokesman

²⁸When the Lord spoke to Moses from the burning bush in the wilderness, ²⁹He said, “I am the Lord. I want you to tell the king of Egypt everything I tell you.” ³⁰But Moses answered, “Lord, I feel unclean in your presence, a sinner with uncircumcised lips. Why should the king of Egypt listen to an ordinary man like me?”

7 The Lord replied, “You will stand in the eyes of Pharaoh as if you were God, and Aaron your brother, as if he were your prophet. ²Say what I tell you to say, and your brother Aaron, who speaks Egyptian fluently, will make it plain to Pharaoh that I want him to let Israel go. ³Pharaoh will be stubborn and will not let Israel go. He won’t change his mind, no matter how many miracles I perform. ⁴Then I will have to do something drastic to get his attention, but I will bring Israel out of Egypt. I will not force Pharaoh to resist me, but as he turns against me, he will become more and more stubborn. ⁵The Egyptians will know that I am the Lord when they see what I do to their country to free my people.”

⁶Moses and Aaron did everything the Lord commanded them to do. ⁷Moses was eighty years old and Aaron eighty-three when they confronted Pharaoh.

Aaron’s Rod

⁸The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, ⁹“When Pharaoh asks you to perform a miracle to prove that what you’re saying is true, give Aaron your shepherd’s rod and ask him to throw it down in front of the king and it will turn into a snake.” ¹⁰So Moses and Aaron went to see Pharaoh and did just what the Lord had said. The king asked for a miracle and Aaron threw down the shepherd’s rod in front of Pharaoh and his officials, and it turned into a snake.

¹¹Then Pharaoh called for his wise men and magicians and they used demonic power to make it appear that they could do the same thing. ¹²Each man threw down his rod and each rod looked as if it had turned into a snake. Then Aaron’s snake swallowed the other snakelike rods and turned back into a rod. ¹³But Pharaoh would not give in and he refused to let Israel go. He thought that Moses and Aaron’s magic was simply more powerful, but not a miracle from the Lord. So he dismissed them.

The First Plague

¹⁴The Lord said to Moses, “It’s just as I told you. Pharaoh is being stubborn and will not let Israel go. ¹⁵In the morning I want you to go down to the Nile River. Pharaoh will be going there to worship the river god as he usually does. Take your shepherd’s rod with you, the one that I turned into a snake, and wait there for him.

¹⁶“When he comes, say to him, ‘The Lord, the God of the Hebrews, sent me to tell you to let His people go so they can worship Him in the wilderness. You don’t seem to understand how important this is to us. ¹⁷If you want to know who the God of the Hebrews is, just watch. When I hit the waters of the Nile with this shepherd’s rod, He’ll turn the whole river into blood. ¹⁸The fish will die and your river god Hapi will begin to stink. The waters of the Nile will turn red and have the consistency of blood and your people will not be able to drink it.’ ¹⁹Then give Aaron your shepherd’s rod and have him stretch it out as a sign to include all streams, canals, ponds and reservoirs in the land, for they, too, will turn into blood. Wherever there is water, it will become the consistency of blood, even the water in stone jars and wooden buckets.”

²⁰Moses and Aaron went to meet Pharaoh by the Nile, and in the presence of the king and his advisers, Moses told Pharaoh what the Lord had said. Then Moses gave Aaron his rod. Aaron struck the surface of the river and the water became the consistency of blood. ²¹The fish in the Nile died and floated to the surface. The river smelled so bad that the people wouldn’t come near it, much less drink it. This happened throughout the land of Egypt. ²²The king ordered his servants to dig along the edge of the Nile until they found some clear water. When they did, he called for his magicians and asked them to use their magic to do the same thing. And they did. This made the king as determined as ever not to let the Hebrews go, and he refused to listen to Moses and Aaron, just as the Lord had said he would.

²³So Pharaoh went back to his palace and dismissed it all from his mind as if it had never happened. ²⁴The Egyptians either had to dig along the Nile for fresh water, or dig wells. This was the only way they could get any water to drink. ²⁵The plague of the river lasted for a whole week.

The Second Plague

8 Then the Lord said to Moses, “Go back to Pharaoh and say to him, ‘This is what the Lord, the God of the Hebrews, says: Let my people go so they can worship me in the wilderness as I want them to. ²If you refuse to let them go, I will openly show that Heqa, your frog-headed goddess, is of your own making. I will fill your whole country with frogs. They’ll be everywhere. You won’t be able to walk without having to kick them out of the way. ³The Nile will be so full of frogs that they will leave the river and come into your palace, your bedroom and even into your bed. They’ll also invade the houses of your officials and your people and will get into their kitchens, their brick ovens and all over their baking pans. ⁴They’ll jump on you, your officials and your people, whether you’re sitting up or lying down.’”

⁵So Moses and Aaron went to see Pharaoh and told him what the Lord had said. Then the Lord spoke to Moses, “Give Aaron your shepherd’s rod and tell him to stretch it out as a sign of my power over streams, canals and ponds, and I will make frogs come out of them all over Egypt.” ⁶Aaron did so and frogs came up from the streams, canals and ponds and covered the land of Egypt. ⁷Then Pharaoh’s magicians used their magic and brought frogs out of the water. The king dismissed Moses and Aaron and asked his magicians to rid the land of the frogs, but that they couldn’t do.

⁸So Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron back to the palace and said, “Pray to the God of the Hebrews to take away these frogs from me and my people. I can’t stand it anymore. As soon as they’re gone, I’ll let your people go to offer their sacrifices to the Lord.” ⁹Moses said, “You set the time for me to pray for you, your officials and your people that your houses and your lands be rid of the frogs, except for those in the Nile River.” ¹⁰Pharaoh said, “At this time tomorrow.” Moses replied, “It will be just as you say. Tomorrow at this time the frogs will be gone. Then, hopefully, you’ll realize that there is no other god like our God. ¹¹The frogs will leave your house and the houses of your officials and your servants, but there will still be frogs in the Nile River.”

¹²Then Moses and Aaron left the presence of the king, and Moses prayed to the Lord and asked Him to remove the frogs. ¹³The Lord did what Moses asked and the next day, at the exact time that Pharaoh wanted the frogs to be gone, they all died. They died wherever they were—in the houses, in the courtyards and in the fields. ¹⁴The people piled them into great heaps, and the whole country stank because of the dead frogs. ¹⁵When Pharaoh saw that the frogs were gone, he was relieved, but he refused to keep the promise he had made to Moses to let the people go, just as the Lord had said he would.

The Third Plague

¹⁶Again the Lord spoke to Moses, “Take Aaron and go back to Pharaoh. When you get there, give Aaron your rod and tell him to stretch it out as a sign of my power. Then he should strike the ground, and all over the country particles of dust will become tiny, stinging gnats.” ¹⁷Moses and Aaron went back to Pharaoh and when Aaron stretched out the shepherd’s rod and struck the ground, dust particles all over Egypt turned into tiny, stinging gnats. ¹⁸Pharaoh called the magicians and they used their magic and tried to turn dust into gnats, but they couldn’t. The tiny gnats were everywhere. ¹⁹Then the magicians said to Pharaoh, “This is the finger of God!" But when the gnats were gone, the king became stubborn and refused to listen, just as the Lord had said. He wouldn't even listen to his officials.

The Fourth Plague

²⁰The next morning the Lord said to Moses, "Get up and go down to the Nile and confront the king as he goes to worship the river. Say to him, 'The Lord God of the Hebrews says: Let my people go so they can go into the wilderness and worship me.' ²¹If you don't, I'll send millions of flies into your land. They will be on you, on your officials and on your people. Your houses will be full of them and the ground will be covered with them. ²²But I will not bring the flies into the land of Goshen where my people are, so you will know that I am the Lord of the earth. ²³From now on I will make a difference between your people and my people. This will go into effect tomorrow.'

²⁴So Moses and Aaron went to Pharaoh and told him everything the Lord had said. The next day great swarms of flies appeared in the land and swarmed into the king's palace and into the houses of his officials. The whole country was contaminated with flies, except the region of Goshen.

²⁵Then the king called for Moses and Aaron and said, "Go ahead, offer sacrifices to your God, but it must be done here in Egypt, not out there in the wilderness." ²⁶Moses answered, "That will never work, because the animals we need to offer to our God are sacred to Egyptians and they'll be offended. When they see us sacrificing these animals, they'll stone us. ²⁷We need to obey the Lord and take a three-day walk into the wilderness to offer our sacrifices there just as He commanded us to do."

²⁸Pharaoh said, "All right! I'll let you go into the wilderness to offer your sacrifices, but don't go very far. And pray for me!" ²⁹Moses agreed, "As soon as I leave, I will pray to the Lord and tomorrow at this time the flies will leave the palace, the houses of your officials and the homes of your people. But the king must not change his mind again and refuse to let our people go to offer their sacrifices to the Lord." ³⁰Then Moses left the palace and prayed to the Lord to remove the flies out of the land. ³¹The Lord did what Moses asked and took away the flies from the king, his officials and his people. Not one was left in all the land of Egypt. ³²But the king changed his mind and refused to let the people go.

The Fifth Plague

9 Then the Lord said to Moses, "Go to Pharaoh and say to him, 'The Lord God of the Hebrews says: Let my people go so they can worship me. ²If you refuse again and continue to hold them here, ³I will send a terrible plague on the animals in the open field, on your horses, donkeys, cattle, camels, sheep and goats. ⁴But I will not let the plague touch the animals of the Hebrews. I will make a difference between what belongs to them and what belongs to the Egyptians. Not one animal belonging to the Hebrews will die. ⁵I, the God of heaven and earth, have set tomorrow as the time when I will do this.'

⁶The next day the Lord did what He had said, and all the animals in the fields belonging to the Egyptians died, but not one animal belonging to the Hebrews died. ⁷Pharaoh sent men to investigate the situation and they found that none of the animals belonging to the Hebrews had died. But the king was as stubborn as ever and would not let the people go.

The Sixth Plague

⁸Then the Lord said to Moses, "Take a handful of soot from a furnace and take your brother Aaron with you and go to see Pharaoh. Then throw the soot into the air, ⁹and it will turn into fine dust and spread throughout the land. Wherever it goes, festering sores will break out on men and animals alike."

¹⁰Moses went to a furnace, took a handful of soot and together with Aaron went to see Pharaoh. He threw the handful of soot into the air and it turned into fine dust and spread throughout the land. Wherever it went, large sores broke out on the bodies of men and animals, just as the Lord had said. ¹¹Even Pharaoh's magicians broke out in festering sores, so much so that they couldn't come to the palace to confront Moses and Aaron. ¹²But Pharaoh was still stubborn and became more determined than ever not to give in to the God of the Hebrews, just as the Lord had said. Pharaoh would neither listen to Moses and Aaron nor would he let the people go.

The Seventh Plague

¹³The Lord spoke to Moses again, "Early tomorrow morning take Aaron and go to Pharaoh and say, 'This is what the Lord, the God of the Hebrews, says: Let my people go so that they can worship me. ¹⁴From now on I will increase the force of the plagues against you, your officials and your people so you will know that I am the Lord and will let my people go. ¹⁵Any time before this I could have raised my hand against you and struck you and your people with a plague that would have killed all of you. ¹⁶But I have not done so because I want all the earth to know who I am. ¹⁷In spite of this, you have set your mind against me and become more stubborn than ever. You have refused to let my people go. ¹⁸I have no choice but to use still harsher measures until you let my people go. So this time tomorrow I will bring something very unusual on Egypt. I will send a violent hailstorm upon your land such as Egypt has never seen. ¹⁹Ask your people to come inside and bring in all their farm animals and pets that are left and anything else they want to save. The hail will be so severe that it will kill any man or animal caught outdoors.'" to get all the livestock under cover and come inside because a terrible storm was on its way. ²¹But others ignored the warning and didn't tell their servants to bring in the farm animals for protection. ²²The next morning the Lord said to Moses, "Point your shepherd's rod toward the sky and I will send a hail-storm over all the land of Egypt. The hail will be so severe that it will destroy all the men and animals that are outside and anything else that's been left unprotected." ²³Moses did as the Lord had said, pointed his rod toward the sky and the Lord sent a violent storm over the land of Egypt with huge hailstones, earth-shaking thunder and lightning that rolled in balls of fire along the ground. ²⁴The hail fell everywhere and the thunder and lightning were more severe than anything that had occurred in all the history of Egypt. ²⁵All over Egypt the hail killed all the men and animals that stayed in the field, destroyed plants and crops and stripped the leaves off trees. ²⁶The only place in Egypt where the hail did not fall was in the land of Goshen where the Hebrews lived.

²⁷As soon as there was a lull in the storm, while more clouds were gathering on the horizon, the king sent for Moses and Aaron and said, "I have sinned against the Lord your God. Your God is right and I and my people are wrong. ²⁸Do pray to your God for us! We have had enough thunder and hail. I'll let your people go to worship your God and will not hold you back any longer." ²⁹Moses replied, "As soon as we reach the outskirts of the city, I will lift up my hands to the Lord in prayer and the thunder will stop; the dark storm clouds will go away, and there will be no more hail. Then you'll know that both the earth and the sky belong to the Lord. ³⁰But I know that you and your officials will still not accept the God of the Hebrews for who He is." ³¹The flax and barley harvests all over the country were ruined, because the barley had been ready to harvest and the flax had already bloomed when the hail-storm hit. ³²But the wheat and the spelt were not destroyed, for they were late in coming up.

³³So Moses and Aaron left the presence of the king and as soon as they reached the outskirts of the city, Moses spread out his hands to God in prayer, and the thunder and the rain stopped, and the storm clouds blew away. ³⁴When Pharaoh realized that the rain and thunder had stopped and there would be no more hail, he and some of his top officials became as stubborn as ever. ³⁵So the king hardened his heart and refused to let the people go just as the Lord had predicted.

The Eighth Plague

10 Then the Lord said to Moses, "Go to see Pharaoh again. I know that he and some of his top officials have hardened their hearts against me. If they continue to be stubborn, I will show them still more of my power. ²The next three plagues will not only impress Pharaoh and his servants, but will remain in the memory of the children of Israel forever. They will never forget what I had to do to get Pharaoh to let my people go. They will all know that I am the Lord."

³So Moses and Aaron went to Pharaoh again and said to him, "This is what the Lord says. 'How much longer will you refuse to listen to me? Let my people go so they can worship me as they should! ⁴If you refuse to let them go, I will bring locusts into your country first thing tomorrow morning. ⁵They will cover the ground so that no one can see it. They will eat everything that was left by the hail, including any leaves left on the trees. ⁶They will come into your house, the houses of your officials and the houses of all the people in this part of Egypt. It will be a plague of locusts greater than anything your fathers have ever seen.'" Then Moses and Aaron turned and left the palace.

Pharaoh, "How much longer will you let this man Moses give us trouble? At least let the Israelite men go to worship their God. Don't you realize that the country's economy is already in shambles? Why make things worse?" ⁸So the king called Moses and Aaron back to the palace and said to them, "I'll let you go and worship your God, but tell me again who will be going." ⁹Moses said, "All of us will go. We will go with our very young and our very old. Our wives and our sons and daughters will go, as well as our flocks and herds, because the Lord has told us that this is the way we should come and worship Him." ¹⁰Pharaoh said, "I swear by the Lord your God, that I will never let you go with your women and children! From what you just said, it's clear to me that you're planning to leave the country for good. And if that's the case, you're asking for trouble. ¹¹So my answer is no! I will only let the men go. You've been asking for permission to go to worship your God and this is what I'm giving you." With this, he ordered Moses and Aaron to leave.

¹²Then the Lord said to Moses, "Stretch out your shepherd's rod as a sign of my power over the land of Egypt to bring on the locusts. They will swarm over the land and devour everything growing in the fields that was left by the hail." ¹³Moses stretched out his rod and the Lord caused an east wind to blow across the land all that day and all that night. By morning it had brought the locusts. ¹⁴They came in huge swarms and settled over all of Egypt, except Goshen. It was the largest swarm of locusts that had ever been seen or would ever be seen again. ¹⁵There were so many of them that they covered the ground. They began to eat everything that the hail had left, everything growing in the fields and anything green left on the trees.

¹⁶Then Pharaoh quickly called for Moses and Aaron and said, "I have sinned against the Lord your God and against your people. ¹⁷Forgive me and ask the Lord your God to take away this plague from me and my people.”¹⁸ So Moses left Pharaoh and prayed for him and for the people of Egypt. ¹⁹The Lord heard Moses’ prayer and changed the east wind into a strong west wind that picked up the locusts and blew them across the land and into the Red Sea. Not one locust was left in all of Egypt. ²⁰But when the locusts were gone, Pharaoh changed his mind again and would not let Israel go.

The Ninth Plague

²¹Then the Lord said to Moses, “Point your shepherd’s rod toward the sky as a sign of my power and I will send darkness over all the land of Egypt. It will be so dark that people will feel it.” ²²Moses pointed his shepherd’s rod toward the sky and total darkness enveloped the land of Egypt for the next three days. ²³It was so dark that the Egyptians couldn’t see each other’s faces. For three days not one Egyptian left his house. But in the land of Goshen where the Israelites lived it was light. ²⁴Pharaoh called Moses to the palace and said to him, “Go! Get out of here and worship the Lord your God. Even take your women and children with you, but your sheep and goats and cattle must stay here. You can’t use them for worship.”

²⁵Moses answered, “You must let us have animals for sacrifices and offerings in order to worship the Lord. ²⁶We need to take our animals with us and not leave any of them behind. Besides, we don’t know which animals the Lord will tell us to use in worship until we get there; then He’ll tell us.”

²⁷When Pharaoh heard this he changed his mind again and would not let them go. ²⁸Then he said to Moses, “Get out of my sight! Don’t ever let me see you again! If you dare come into my presence, I’ll kill you!” ²⁹Moses said, “Just as you say. Unless the Lord tells me otherwise, you’ll never see my face again.” Then he turned and left the palace.

Death of the Firstborn

11 The Lord said to Moses, “I’m going to bring one more plague on the king of Egypt and his people. After that, he will let you go and take everything with you that you have. He’ll be so glad to get rid of you that he’ll drive you out of the country. ²The women of Israel shall go to their Egyptian mistresses and ask for their back pay in clothing and jewelry. The men shall go and ask their Egyptian masters to give them their back pay in silver and gold. Then they should go to their neighbors and ask them for their help.” ³By now the Egyptians had great respect for the Israelites and their God and they did everything they could for them. Even Pharaoh and his officials had learned to respect Moses and they considered him to be a very powerful man.

⁴Then God said to Moses, “Go back to Pharaoh and say to him, ‘The Lord says: About midnight tonight, I will go through the land of Egypt, ⁵and every firstborn son in Egypt will die, from the firstborn son of Pharaoh who sits on the throne, to the firstborn son of the young slave woman who grinds at the mill, as well as the firstborn of all the cattle. ⁶There will be loud crying and mourning in all of Egypt such as there never has been before and never will be again. ⁷But nothing will happen to anyone in Israel; not even a dog will growl at them or at their animals. Then you’ll know that the Lord makes a distinction between those who worship other gods and those who worship me.’” ⁸So Moses went to see Pharaoh in spite of the king’s threat to kill him and told him everything the Lord had said. Then he added, “When this happens, your officials will come and bow to me and beg me to take my people out of Egypt. After that we will leave with our families and with everything we have.”

Moses was very angry over Pharaoh’s stubbornness and turned and left him. ⁹Before Moses had gone to see Pharaoh this time, the Lord had said to him, “Don’t be afraid. I will not let the king harm you. He will let you in and will even let you speak to him, but he will not listen to you. He will not let my people go until after this plague that I will bring on him and on all the people of Egypt.”

¹⁰Before each plague Moses and Aaron had told Pharaoh what would happen, but each time the king had hardened his heart. It wasn't until the death of the firstborn that Pharaoh gave in and let the people go.

The Passover

12 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron before the children of Israel left Egypt, saying, ²“This month is to be the first month of your religious year. ³On the tenth day of this month, each man is to choose a lamb as a sacrifice for himself and his family and for the sacrificial meal that is to be eaten on the fourteenth. ⁴If his family is too small to eat the lamb, then let a couple of small families get together for the sacrificial meal. They should take into account the number of people in each family and the amount of lamb's meat each person usually eats. ⁵They can choose a young goat if they don't have a lamb, but in either case it must be a one-year old male without defects. ⁶Take special care of the animal for a minimum of four days before it's killed. Then just before sundown on the fourteenth of the month, the children of Israel shall kill the animals that they selected and roast them.

be left over until the next morning. If any meat is left, it must be burned that same night. ¹¹They are to eat quickly, as if they were in a hurry to go somewhere. They should also be dressed for travel, with their long cloaks tucked up in their belts, sandals on their feet and walking sticks in their hands. ¹²That night I will go through the land and every firstborn male of both men and animals will die. This plague will be a judgment on Egypt and on the gods they worship and everyone will know that I am the Lord. ¹³The blood on the doorposts will mark the houses of my people. When I see the blood, I will pass over that house and no harm will come to anyone who's inside. That same night I will go through the land of Egypt and strike their firstborn and they will die.

¹⁴“So the fourteenth is to be kept as a day of remembrance for you, and it is to be kept throughout your generations to remind you and your children what the Lord has done for you. ¹⁵Beginning the next day, the fifteenth, no one is to eat bread made with yeast for a whole week. The people are to eat only unleavened bread. On the first of these seven days, you are to get rid of all yeast in your house, and if anyone eats bread made with yeast during these seven days, he will be cut off from Israel because of his disobedience. ¹⁶The first and the last days of that week are to be special days of rest and worship. No work is to be done on those days except what is needed to sustain life. ¹⁷This week-long festival shall be kept every year at this exact time in memory of the day I brought you out of Egypt. It is to be kept throughout your generations. ¹⁸Beginning at sundown on the fourteenth—the day I will pass over the houses of the children of Israel—until sundown on the twenty-first day of the same month, you are not to eat any bread made with yeast. ¹⁹For seven days no yeast is to be found in any of your houses. If anyone eats bread made with yeast, whether he is an Israelite or an alien who has come to live with you, he will be cut off from Israel.

²⁰You are to eat only bread that has been made without yeast, whether you live in Israel or in some other country."

²¹When the day came, Moses called together the leaders of Israel and said, "Go and get a lamb, or if you have trouble finding one, get a young goat; slaughter it and get your family ready to keep our first religious festival to be known as the Passover. ²²Take a small branch of hyssop, dip it in the bowl that holds the animal's blood, then put some of it on the doorposts of your house. Make sure that every member of your family is inside and don't let anyone leave the house until morning. ²³At midnight the Lord will go through the land to bring the last plague on the Egyptians, and when He sees the blood on your doorposts, He will pass over your house and will not let death come in and touch any of your family. ²⁴The rituals of this new festival will be a permanent law for you and your children for generations to come. ²⁵Even after you're in the land the Lord promised to give you, you are to keep the Passover and carry out these rituals. ²⁶When your children ask, 'What does all this mean?' ²⁷you are to say to them, 'These rituals are part of the Passover. They help us remember the time when the Lord passed over our houses when we were in Egypt and saved our firstborn sons. That night the Lord brought the plague of death on the Egyptians to set us free.'" When Moses finished speaking, the leaders and the people bowed their heads and worshiped the Lord.

²⁸Then they went home and did exactly what the Lord had told them to do.

The Tenth Plague

²⁹At midnight the Lord went through the land of Egypt and brought the plague on all the firstborn sons of the Egyptians, from the firstborn son of Pharaoh who sat on the throne, to the firstborn of the prisoners in prison and the firstborn male of all the animals.

³⁰That night, the king, his officials and the people of Egypt were awakened from sleep and found their firstborn sons dead. There was loud crying and mourning throughout the land because there was a death in every family.

The Exodus

³¹It was still dark when Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron to the palace and said to them, "Get out! You and your Israelites! Leave my people and go to worship the Lord, as you said. ³²Take your wives and children, your sheep and goats and cattle with you and be gone! But pray for me."

³³The Egyptians urged the Israelites to hurry and leave, because they were afraid that something like this could happen to others in their families. They said, "We'll all be dead if you don't leave, so please go!" ³⁴The children of Israel had done what Moses had asked them to do. They had their unleavened dough in wooden kneading bowls, all wrapped up, ready for the next day's use. ³⁵They also had gone to the Egyptians asking for their back pay in silver or gold and needed articles of clothing. ³⁶The Lord gave His people favor in the eyes of the Egyptians and the children of Israel received more than they had asked for. So the Israelites took with them much of the wealth of Egypt.

³⁷They set out on foot and went south from Rameses, then southeast to Succoth. There were about six hundred thousand men on foot, not counting women and children. ³⁸There were also Hebrews who had intermarried with Egyptians, plus a vast number of sheep, goats and cattle. ³⁹The dough they had made without yeast while in Egypt, they now baked at Succoth. They hadn't had time to bake it because they had left in such a hurry.

⁴⁰Altogether, the children of Israel lived as strangers in Canaan and slaves in Egypt for four hundred and thirty years. ⁴¹At the end of the four hundred and thirty years—the length of time Abraham and his descendants were strangers and slaves—the children of Israel became a free people. ⁴²That same night the Lord passed over the houses of the Israelites and brought them out of Egypt. That's why the Passover has been solemnly observed by the Hebrew people from then on.

The Passover Meal

⁴³The Lord also said to Moses and Aaron, "An alien who does not want to become an Israelite is not allowed to eat the Passover meal. ⁴⁴But if an alien or the bond-servant who belongs to you agrees to be circumcised, he is to eat the Passover meal with you. ⁴⁵No temporary resident or hired worker is allowed to eat the meal. ⁴⁶The meal must be eaten in the house in which it was prepared. None of the animal's bones are to be broken while cutting up the meat, and no one is to eat the meal outside. ⁴⁷All the tribes of Israel are to celebrate the Passover and never forget the day of their deliverance. ⁴⁸The aliens living among you who want to celebrate the Passover with you should make sure that all the males in their households are circumcised before they take part. If they do this, they are to be treated just like full-blooded Israelites and invited to participate in all the festivities. No male who refuses to be circumcised has a right to participate. ⁴⁹The same rule applies to Israelites and to the aliens who live among you."

⁵⁰All Israelites and those who chose to live among them obeyed and did what the Lord through Moses and Aaron told them to do. ⁵¹So on that very day the Lord brought the children of Israel out of Egypt. They left by tribes named after the twelve sons of Jacob.

The Firstborn Dedicated

13 The Lord said to Moses, ²"I want you to dedicate to me every firstborn male who opens the womb. Every firstborn male from humans and animals belongs to me."

The Feast of Unleavened Bread

³Then Moses spoke to the people, "Remember this day. I want you to remember it as the day you came out of Egypt, the day the Lord freed you from slavery. The Lord brought you out with a show of power. You are not to eat anything made with yeast for a whole week. ⁴This is the first month of our religious year. It's called Abib (later named Nisan). ⁵The Lord promised to give you the land of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Amorites, the Hivites and the Jebusites for an inheritance. When He brings you into that rich and fertile land, you are to continue to keep the Passover during the first month of every year. ⁶For the next seven days you are not to eat anything made with yeast, and on the last day of this special week you are to hold a festival to the Lord. ⁷For seven days no yeast is to be found among you; all yeast must be put away. And no one is to eat bread made with yeast. ⁸At the beginning of this special week, tell your sons and daughters why you're doing all this. Tell them what the Lord did for you when you were in Egypt and how with His mighty hand He set you free. ⁹This festival will help you remember what happened. It'll be like something tied to your finger, to your hand or even to your forehead. It will remind you that you should look to the word of the Lord for direction and guidance, because He is the One who loved you and brought you out of the land of Egypt with such mighty power. ¹⁰So keep the Passover at the same time each year.

The Firstborn Male

¹¹"After the Lord brings you into the land of Canaan, which He promised your forefathers He would do, ¹²you are to set apart every firstborn male of humans and animals for the Lord. These are the animals that are to be set aside for sacrifice. All the firstborn males who open the womb, whether from man or animal, belong to the Lord. ¹³Every firstborn male from animals that are unclean, such as donkeys, can be saved by offering a lamb in its place. If you don't want the donkey, you are to quickly break its neck and bury it. No unclean animal is a fit sacrifice. Also, your firstborn males may be bought back from me for five pieces of silver. ¹⁴When your sons ask you, 'What does all this mean?' tell them, 'The Lord delivered us from slavery and brought us out of Egypt by His mighty acts of power. ¹⁵Pharaoh was stubborn and would not let us go. So the Lord killed every firstborn male from humans and animals in the whole land of Egypt. But not one firstborn male was touched among our people. That's when the king finally let us go. This is why all firstborn male animals who open the womb are set aside for sacrifice, and all firstborn sons who open the womb belong to the Lord and are to be bought back with money. ¹⁶So this festival is a reminder, like something tied to our fingers, to our hands or to our foreheads, that the Lord brought us out of Egypt by His great power.'

The Wilderness

¹⁷After the king of Egypt let the children of Israel go, the Lord did not lead them along the road called The Way Through the Land of the Philistines, even though that was the shortest route. The Lord said to Moses, "I don't want the people to change their minds when they see war and decide to go back to Egypt." ¹⁸So the Lord led the children of Israel eastward along the desert road called The Way of the Wilderness Toward the Red Sea. They left Egypt as an organized people, moving along in columns according to their tribes. ¹⁹Moses also took the bones of Joseph with him just as Joseph had made his brothers promise. He had said to them, "Someday God will take you back home, and when He does, you must carry my bones with you because I do not want to remain buried in Egypt. I was sold to Egypt as a slave and I don't want my body to stay here." ²⁰So the Israelites left Succoth and turned north and then east until they got to Etham on the edge of the wilderness and set up camp there. ²¹During the day the Lord went ahead of them hidden in a pillar of cloud to show them the way and to shade them from the hot desert sun. At night He kept them warm by turning the same cloud into a pillar of fire to give them light. ²²So the pillar of cloud was in front of them by day and it became a pillar of fire by night. And the Lord was always with them.

Crossing the Red Sea

14 Then the Lord said to Moses, ²"Tell the children of Israel to head north, then turn back and head south. They shall set up camp near Pi Hahiroth between Migdol and the Red Sea, directly opposite Baal Zephon. ³Pharaoh will think your divine help has run out and that you're hopelessly lost, following a dead-end trail, hemmed in by the desert. ⁴He'll become stubborn again and will chase after you to bring you back to Egypt. I'll let him come with horses and chariots, but that will only bring me greater honor when they realize that I am the Lord." So the children of Israel kept going and did as they were told.

⁵When Pharaoh heard that the Israelites had no intention of coming back, he and his officials decided to go after them. They said, "We let these Hebrews go, but if we don't bring them back, our economy will be totally ruined. Besides, we don't want other countries to think that we gave in to the Hebrews." ⁶So Pharaoh called up his troops, ordered his war chariots to be brought out and chased after the Hebrews, determined to bring them back. ⁷He took with him all the chariots of Egypt, including six hundred of the finest under the command of his top officers. ⁸The Lord did not interfere with Pharaoh's plan or correct his stubbornness, but let him pursue the children of Israel who were rejoicing in their new freedom and in the personal presence of their God. ⁹Pharaoh took all his horses and chariots and pursued the Israelites and caught up with them at the Pi Hahiroth Canal, a slight distance from the Red Sea, near the border town of Baal Zephon where they were camped.

¹⁰When the Israelites looked up and saw the king and his chariots coming after them, they were terrified and cried to the Lord for help. ¹¹They said to Moses, "Weren't there enough grave sites available in Egypt that you had to bring us out here to die? Look at what you've done! You brought us out of Egypt and then led us up here to the edge of the Red Sea! ¹²Didn't we tell you before we left Egypt that the king would come after us? It would have been much better to stay in Egypt as slaves and be alive than to be slaughtered out here in the wilderness!"

¹³Moses assured the people by saying, "Don't be afraid! Stand your ground, and you'll see what our God will do to save you. The Lord will deliver you from the hands of Pharaoh and you will never see him or his men again. ¹⁴The Lord will fight for you. All you have to do is to stand still and watch." ¹⁵Then Moses cried to the Lord for help, and the Lord answered, "Why are you crying to me for help? This is a time for action. Tell the people to move forward. ¹⁶When you get to the Red Sea, lift up your shepherd's rod and point it out over the waters, and they'll divide so the children of Israel can walk across on dry ground. ¹⁷Pharaoh is so determined to take all of you back to Egypt that he is personally leading his troops and coming after you. When he comes, I will bring honor to my name by defeating him and his entire army of horsemen and chariots. ¹⁸All of Egypt will know that I am the God of heaven and earth when they hear the news that their army has been destroyed without a fight."

²¹The children of Israel broke camp and made their way to the Red Sea. When they got there, Moses stretched out his rod over the waters as the Lord had told him, and the Lord sent a strong east wind, which during the night drove back the waters until the waters were divided and the ground was dry. ²²With light from the pillar of fire, the children of Israel crossed the Red Sea on dry ground. There was a wall of water on both sides of them. ²³By morning all the Israelites had crossed. Then the cloud lifted, moved across the Red Sea and again settled in front of the children of Israel. Once the Egyptian army could see where the Israelites were, they rushed after them. All of Pharaoh's troops with their horses and chariots headed toward the children of Israel on the other side of the Red Sea. ²⁴Just before dawn, the Lord looked down on the army from the pillar of cloud. Suddenly the cloud changed into a pillar of fire, lightning flashed, thunder rumbled, and the earth shook. The Egyptian army, already in the bed of the Red Sea, was thrown into a panic. ²⁵The Lord allowed the water to seep up through the ground again, and in a matter of minutes the horses and chariots of the Egyptians were bogged down in mud. Some of them tried to turn around and go back. They said, "Let's get out of here! The God of the Hebrews has turned against us again!"

²⁶The Lord said to Moses, "Stretch out your rod over the waters; the wind will stop and the waters will return and engulf the entire Egyptian army, together with its horses and chariots.”²⁷ Moses stretched out his rod over the waters; the wind stopped, and the waters came rushing together. The Egyptians tried to escape, but the swirling water pulled them under and swept them away.²⁸ The water completely covered them and all their horses and chariots. The entire Egyptian army was destroyed. Not a man was left, not even Pharaoh.²⁹ But the children of Israel were safe on the other side. They had crossed the Red Sea on firm dry ground with walls of water on either side of them.

³⁰That day the Lord saved His people from the hands of the Egyptians. As the Israelites stood there, they saw the dead bodies of the Egyptian troops being washed up on shore.³¹ When the children of Israel saw the great power of the Lord that He had used against the Egyptians, they stood in awe of their God and believed in Him and in Moses, His servant.

The Song of Moses

15 Then Moses and the children of Israel sang this song: “I will sing to the Lord, for He has triumphed gloriously. The horse and its rider He has thrown into the sea.² The Lord is my strength and my song. He has become my salvation. He is my God and I will praise Him. He is my father’s God and I will exalt Him.

³The Lord is a Man of War. The Lord God is His name. ⁴He brought Pharaoh and his chariots into the sea. He drowned the armies of Egypt in the Red Sea. ⁵The waters covered their chariots and they sank to the bottom like rocks.

⁶Your right arm, O Lord, was glorious in power. Your right hand broke the enemy to pieces. ⁷In the greatness of your majesty, you threw down those who opposed you. Your righteous indignation consumed them as fire consumes stubble. ⁸You blew on the sea and the waters piled up. They stood up like a wall and the floor of the sea became firm and dry.

⁹The enemy said, ‘I will pursue them and catch them. I will draw the sword and force them to return. I will recover the wealth I gave them and take it all back.’¹⁰ But one word from you, O Lord, and the wind stopped and the sea closed over them. Like rocks they disappeared in the mighty waves.

¹¹Lord, who is like you? Who among Egypt’s gods is like you in power and majesty, in holiness and glory? Who can work wonders like you and perform such mighty acts? ¹²You stretched out your right arm and the earth swallowed our enemies. ¹³You kept your promise. You rescued the people you promised to redeem. In your strength you will guide them to the Promised Land.

¹⁴The people of Canaan will hear and tremble. The Philistines will be gripped with fear, and anguish will flood their hearts. ¹⁵The chiefs of Edom will be terrified. Moab’s mighty men will tremble. The rulers of Canaan will lose courage. ¹⁶Terror and dread will fall on them all. They will know how strong you are, O Lord. They will stand as still as a rock until your people pass by.

¹⁷You will bring your people into Canaan and plant them in that new land. You will bring them to the mountain of your inheritance, to the country you have chosen for yourself, the place where your Temple will be built. ¹⁸There the Lord will reign for ever and ever.”

¹⁹This was the Song of Deliverance that the men of Israel sang after they had crossed the Red Sea on dry ground, and the Lord had brought the waters together and destroyed their enemies.

The Song of Miriam

²⁰Miriam, a prophetess, the sister of Moses and Aaron, took a tambourine and danced for joy over what the Lord had done. The rest of the women joined her in playing their tambourines and joyously dancing before the Lord. ²¹Miriam led them to sing in response to the men: “Sing to the Lord, for He has triumphed gloriously. The horse and its rider He has thrown into the sea.”

Waters Made Sweet

²²From the Red Sea Moses led the children of Israel into the Wilderness of Shur. They walked part of one day and all the next without finding water. ²³The third day they came to an oasis called Marah and found water. They ran to drink from the little lake that was fed by underground springs, but the water was so bitter they couldn't drink it. ²⁴The people became angry and said to Moses, “What are we going to drink? Or are we supposed to die of thirst?” ²⁵Then Moses prayed and asked the Lord what to do. The Lord showed him a small tree and told him to cut it down and throw it into the water. When he did, the water became sweet and the children of Israel had plenty to drink and enough to water their flocks and herds. It was here that the Lord began to give instructions to the children of Israel that would test their faith and obedience.

²⁶The Lord said to Moses, “If you will listen to me and do what is right, if you will keep my commandments and laws, I will not let any of you come down with the diseases of the Egyptians. I will heal you, for I am the Lord.” ²⁷From Marah the children of Israel went on to the Oasis of Elim, a place with twelve springs and seventy palms, and there they set up their next camp.

The Manna

16 After resting at Elim, the children of Israel traveled south, camping along the way. On the fifteenth day of the second month after leaving Egypt, they came to the Wilderness of Sin, which is about halfway between Elim and Sinai. ²Then the people again complained to Moses and Aaron for bringing them out of Egypt. They had already forgotten all the things the Lord had done for them just a few weeks before, thinking only of their present inconveniences. ³They said to Moses, “We're sorry we listened to you and followed you out here to this wilderness! It would have been better to die by the hand of the Lord in Egypt than to die by starvation out here in this God-forsaken place. In Egypt we at least had plenty of meat to eat and all the food we wanted. But you have brought us out here to starve to death.”

⁴Then the Lord said to Moses, “I'll rain bread from heaven for all the people. The children of Israel shall go out every morning beginning the first day of the week and gather just enough bread for the day. That way I'll test them to see if they're willing to listen and to do what I tell them. ⁵On the sixth day they should gather twice as much as on the other days so as to have enough for the seventh day, which is the Sabbath, the day I set aside for worship and rest.” ⁶So Moses and Aaron said to the children of Israel, “By early evening you will know that the Lord is the One who brought you out of Egypt and that He has not forsaken you. ⁷Tomorrow morning you will see what the Lord will do for you.. The complaints you have made are against Him, because He is the One who brought you out here. We are His servants and have simply done what He asked us to do.” ⁸Then Moses said, “The Lord will give you meat for supper and as much bread as you can eat for breakfast. He has heard your discontent and taken careful note of it. So you're not grumbling against us, but against Him.”

⁹Next he turned to Aaron and said, “Tell the people to get ready to come out of their tents to see the glory of the Lord, because He has not only heard their complaints but also our prayers.” ¹⁰As Aaron was speaking to the people, suddenly their attention was arrested by a dazzling light coming from the wilderness. They turned to look and saw the burning light of the presence of the Lord inside the cloud. ¹¹Then the Lord spoke from the cloud and said to Moses, ¹²“I have heard the grumbling of the people. Tell them that early this evening before the sun sets, they will have meat to eat, and in the morning they will have all the bread they need. This will give them even more evidence that I am the Lord."

¹³Early that evening before the sun set, a huge flock of quail flew in. There were so many of them that they covered the camp. The next morning a heavy dew covered the ground. ¹⁴When the sun came up and the dew disappeared, there was something flake-like and round, about the size of a pea, all over the ground. It was yellowish-white and easy to handle. When the people tasted it, it tasted like bread made with honey. ¹⁵When they first saw it, they said, "What is it?" because they had never seen anything like this before.

Then Moses said, "This is the bread the Lord has given you to eat. You can eat it as it is, grind it, make it into flour, or cook it for cereal. ¹⁶The Lord said that each of you should gather as much as you need for the day, about two quarts per person. This should give you an idea how much to get for your family." ¹⁷The people did as they were told, some gathered more than two quarts and others less. ¹⁸When each one got home and used it, those who had gathered more did not have too much and those who had gathered less did not have too little. Each family had just what it needed for the day. ¹⁹Then Moses said, "Do not store any of it, for the Lord will give you more tomorrow morning." ²⁰Some of the people didn't believe Moses and tried to keep some of it for the next day, but by morning it was full of maggots and began to smell. Moses was really upset about that. ²¹Early every morning the people gathered as much as they needed and when the sun became stronger, what was left melted and disappeared.

²²On the sixth day the children of Israel gathered about four quarts per person, twice as much as on each of the other days. The leaders came and reported this to Moses. ²³But he said to them, "This is what the Lord told me to tell the people to do. They should gather what they need for today as well as for tomorrow. They are to prepare for the Sabbath by boiling and baking what they need for two days, not just one. Whatever they gather for tomorrow will keep: it will not spoil." ²⁴That's exactly what happened. The people saved what they needed for the Sabbath and it did not get maggots in it or spoil. ²⁵Early Sabbath morning Moses spoke to the people, "Eat what you gathered yesterday. There will be no bread on the ground this morning, because today is the Sabbath of the Lord. ²⁶You can go out and gather bread every day for six days, but on the seventh day you won't find any food on the ground."

²⁷Some people didn't believe Moses and went out to gather food Sabbath morning but they found none. ²⁸Then the Lord said to Moses, "How much longer will the people refuse to listen to me and keep my commandments? ²⁹I gave them twice as much bread on the sixth day as on any of the other days so they could observe the Sabbath. On the seventh day they are to stay inside the camp because the Sabbath is holy." ³⁰So the people rested and worshiped the Lord on the seventh day as they were told to do.

³¹The children of Israel called this food "manna," because when they first saw it, they said, "What is it?" It was the size of a small pea, yellowish-white, and tasted like bread made with oil and flavored with honey. ³²Moses said to the leaders, "The Lord wants us to save some manna and keep it so our descendants can see the food the Lord gave us in the wilderness when He brought us out of Egypt." ³³Then he said to Aaron, "Take a container and put two quarts of manna in it and keep it so we can place it before the Lord as a memorial for our descendants when we build His Sanctuary."

³⁴So Aaron gathered two quarts of manna, put it in a container and kept it until it could be put inside the Ark of the Covenant in the Lord's Sanctuary. ³⁵So the people ate manna for the next forty years until they reached the borders of Canaan. ³⁶The manna that Aaron saved was about two quarts, and it didn't get maggots or spoil.

Water From the Rock

17 From the Wilderness of Sin, the children of Israel moved on, camping at different places under the guidance of the Lord until they came to the Oasis of Rephidim. When they got there they found that the water had dried up, and the people had nothing to drink. ²Again they complained to Moses, "It's all your fault that we're out here! We need water and we need it now!" Moses said, "The Lord is the One who's leading you, and He is the One who's supplying your needs. You need to go to Him about it, not to me."

³But the people were thirsty and had no patience to wait and pray. They complained to Moses, "Why did you bring us out of Egypt, anyway? Are you just going to stand there and let us and our children and our animals die of thirst? " ⁴Then Moses prayed to the Lord, "What should I do? These people are ready to stone me!" ⁵The Lord said to Moses, "Take some of the leaders of Israel with you and walk on ahead with the shepherd's rod in your hand, the same one you used in Egypt to strike the Nile. Tell the people to follow you. ⁶I'll stand in front of you on the rock in the mountains of Sinai, and when you get there, strike the rock one time, and fresh water will come out for the people."

So when Moses got there, he struck the rock once and water came gushing out in full view of the leaders of Israel. ⁷Moses called the place Massah Meribah, because the children of Israel were tested there and quarreled with the Lord. After all He had done for them, they still doubted His love and said to each other, "Do you think the Lord is still with us or has He abandoned us?"

⁸It was at Rephidim that the Amalekites, the descendants of Esau's grandson and one of the desert tribes that inhabited that region, attacked the Israelite stragglers who were weak and had fallen behind. ⁹When Moses found out about it, he said to Joshua, "Choose men to fight the Amalekites. Early tomorrow morning we'll attack and while you fight, I'll stand on top of that hill with the shepherd's rod of God in my hand and pray." ¹⁰Joshua did as Moses said and first thing in the morning, he and his men went out to fight the Amalekites. Then Moses took Aaron, his brother, and Hur, his brother-in-law who had married his sister Miriam, and went to the top of a nearby hill to pray. ¹¹As long as Moses held up his hands in prayer, the Israelites would win, but as soon as he lowered them and stopped praying, the Amalekites gained the upper hand. ¹²So when Moses got tired and lowered his arms again, Aaron and Hur got a rock for Moses to sit on and they held up his hands as he continued to pray. This way he was able to keep his arms up in prayer until sunset. ¹³By that time Joshua and his men had completely defeated the Amalekites.

¹⁴Then the Lord said to Moses, "Write all this down on a scroll so the people won't forget it. Also tell Joshua that the day is coming when I will have to destroy all of the Amalekites because of their terrible wickedness. For the sake of all the other people in this part of the world, I will have to blot out the memory of them from under heaven." ¹⁵Moses celebrated this victory by building an altar to the Lord, calling it The Lord Is Our Banner. He said, ¹⁶"Our enemies have lifted up their hands against the Lord, and He has heard our prayers and has sworn to go to battle for us any time the Amalekites attack."

Jethro's Advice to Moses

18 When Jethro, Moses' father-in-law and priest of the Lord in Midian, heard everything that the Lord had done for Israel and how He had brought them out of the land of Egypt, he decided to visit Moses. ²He brought his daughter Zipporah, Moses' wife, with him and their two sons whom Moses had sent back home for safety just before he reached Egypt. ³Moses had named his first son, Gershom, meaning Homeless, for he said to himself, "I'm an alien in a foreign land." ⁴He had named his second son, Eliezer, meaning God Is My Helper, for he had said to himself, "God saved me from being killed by the king of Egypt."

⁵So Jethro came with Zipporah and her two sons near Sinai where Moses and the children of Israel had set up camp. ⁶He sent word ahead saying to Moses, "I'm coming to visit you, and I'm bringing with me your wife Zipporah and your two sons." ⁷Moses went to meet his father-in-law and to welcome his wife and two sons. He bowed before Jethro, and then hugged and kissed him as well as his wife and two sons. They asked about each other's welfare, then Moses took them back to camp and to his tent.

⁸Moses told them everything that the Lord had done to Pharaoh and the Egyptians to free His people. He also told them about the hardships they had met along the way and how the Lord had taken care of them. ⁹When Jethro and the family heard what the Lord had done for His people and how He had delivered them, they rejoiced. ¹⁰Then Jethro said to Moses, "Praise the Lord, who brought you safely out of Egypt and rescued you from Pharaoh's army! Praise the Lord, who delivered His people from slavery and set them free. ¹¹This shows that the Lord is greater than all other gods. The Egyptians had boasted of the power of their gods and treated the God of heaven with contempt." ¹²Then Jethro took an animal for a burnt offering and other sacrifices and offered them to the Lord in thanksgiving for what He had done for Israel. He invited Moses, Aaron and all the elders of Israel to come and join him for the sacred meal. So they sat down and ate together as an act of worship and praise to the Lord.

¹³The next day Moses took his seat as judge to settle various disputes among the people, and he was kept busy from morning until night. ¹⁴When Jethro saw all that Moses was doing he said to him, "You're going to kill yourself. You can't possibly judge all these cases and keep it up. Look at all the people standing in line just to see you!" ¹⁵Moses said to Jethro, "The people come to me to learn what to do and to know God's will for them. ¹⁶Whenever they disagree on something, they come to me and I decide which one is right and which one is wrong and tell them what God's law says about it."

¹⁷Jethro said, "What you're doing for the people is not wrong, but what you're doing to yourself isn't right. ¹⁸You're going to wear yourself out and discourage people from coming to see you. They're not going to keep standing in long lines for days at a time. ¹⁹Listen to me, I want to give you some advice. God will still bless you and help you. It's good that you're helping the people and bringing their differences before the Lord. That's what you should be doing. ²⁰You need to teach them what God says and explain to them how to live and what to do. ²¹But you can't go on like this. To preserve your strength, pick out some God-fearing men to help you, the kind who can be trusted and who won't be bribed. Then divide your leadership responsibilities among them. Put some in charge of thousands, others in charge of hundreds and still others in charge of fifties and tens. ²²Let them serve as judges to handle the more common problems and settle the less difficult cases among the people. The harder cases they can leave for you to handle. This will make it easier for you. ²³You won't wear yourself out and you'll be able to carry the strain of leadership much better. And the people will go home satisfied because they didn't have to stand in line all day long just to see you."

²⁴Moses listened to his father-in-law and did everything he said. ²⁵He chose capable men from each of the tribes of Israel and made them leaders and judges of the people. He put some in charge of thousands, others in charge of hundreds and still others in charge of fifties and tens. ²⁶These men took the less difficult cases and left the harder ones for Moses. ²⁷Then Moses said good-bye to his father-in-law and Jethro returned to Midian.

Israel at Sinai

19 After leaving Egypt, the children of Israel arrived at Mount Sinai on the first day of the third month of their religious year. ²The people had left Rephidim and moved on to the foot of Mount Sinai where they set up a more permanent camp. ³Then the Lord called Moses to come up the mountain to meet with Him. When Moses got there the Lord said to him, "This is what I want you to tell the children of Israel, the descendants of Jacob: ⁴You saw what I, the Lord, did to the Egyptians and how gently I carried you along, as gently as a mother eagle carries her young on her wings, and I brought you all the way here to meet with me. ⁵If you will obey me and keep my commandments, then out of all the nations on earth, you will continue to be my treasured possession. The whole world is mine, but you will be a special people to carry out my mission. ⁶You will be for me a kingdom of priests, a holy nation committed to me alone."

⁷So Moses went back down, called the leaders of the people together and told them everything the Lord had said and what He expected them to do. ⁸The elders responded enthusiastically, "We will do what the Lord says and gladly accept Him as our King." Moses went back up the mountain and took their answer to the Lord. ⁹God said to Moses, "I will come near to you in a dense cloud and the people will hear me speak to you and will accept you as my spokesman." Then Moses again told the Lord what the leaders of Israel and the people had said, that they would obey and accept the Lord as their only King.

¹⁰The Lord said, "Go back down and tell the people to spend the rest of today and tomorrow purifying themselves and getting ready for worship. ¹¹They should wash their clothes and get ready for me to speak to them. The day after tomorrow I will come down on Mount Sinai in the sight of the people and they will unmistakably sense my presence. ¹²I want you to mark out a boundary at the base of the mountain and tell the people not to cross it. They are not to ignore these limits and try to climb up the mountain. Whoever crosses the boundary and touches the base of the mountain, either with his foot or his hand, will be put to death. ¹³If he's defiant and ignores the boundary and goes toward the mountain, the people are to stone him or shoot him with arrows, but no one is to go in after him and touch him. His body is to lie there until I finish speaking. Only when the trumpet sounds a long blast can the people cross the boundary and know it will be safe."

¹⁴Then Moses went down and told the people what the Lord had said and what they should do to get ready to hear the Lord speak. So the people washed their clothes and prepared themselves for worship. ¹⁵Moses made it clear that they should get ready, and during this time the men were not to have sex with their wives.

¹⁶On the morning of the third day a thick cloud began covering the top of the mountain. Suddenly there was thunder, lightning and the loud sound of a trumpet. All the people heard the sound coming from the mountain and they trembled with fear. ¹⁷Moses led the people out of the camp up to the boundary near the base of the mountain to meet with their God. ¹⁸Soon the whole mountain was covered with smoke as it billowed down from the top. The Lord had come down on top of the mountain and set it on fire. The smoke also rose up into the sky like smoke from a furnace and the whole mountain shook. ¹⁹The sound of the trumpet became louder and louder until finally it stopped. When the thunder and lightning ceased, there was a period of awful silence.

Then Moses, shaking with fear, spoke to the Lord and the Lord answered him in the hearing of all the people. ²⁰He called Moses to come up the mountain into the cloud to talk to Him and He would speak to him from the midst of the fire and smoke. ²¹When Moses got there, the Lord said, "You'll need to go back down and warn the people again not to cross the boundary and come near the mountain. Some are thinking about coming up here to see what I look like. If they do, they'll die. ²²Even those you have appointed as priests must not consider themselves on the same footing as you and Aaron. They are not to come near the mountain or they, too, will die." ²³Moses answered the Lord, "The people won't come up because you told us to consider this mountain sacred and not to cross the boundary or in any way touch it. The people know better than to do that." ²⁴The Lord said, "You need to go back down as I asked you to and warn them again. Then come back and bring Aaron part way up with you. Any of the people, including those who have been set aside as priests, are not to try to force their way up here or they will die." ²⁵Then Moses went back down and told the people that what the Lord had said, He meant.

The Ten Commandments

20 Then from the top of the mountain God spoke to Moses and the people:

²"I am the Lord your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage, and set you free. You are my people, and I want you to be holy, for I am holy.

⁴"Do not manufacture idols for yourselves designed after things in heaven, on earth or in the sea. ⁵Don't bow down to them or serve them. Such practices will only hurt you and your children, who will reap the consequences of your sins down to the third and fourth generations. ⁶But the children of parents who love me and keep my commandments will benefit from such love for many generations to come.

⁸"Remember to observe the Sabbath because I have set it apart as holy. ⁹There are six days in the week for you to earn a living. ¹⁰But the seventh day of the week belongs to the Lord your God. On that day you are to do no work—you, your sons or daughters, your male or female servants, your animals or any aliens living among you. ¹¹Because in six days, I, the Lord your God, created the earth, the sky, the seas and everything in them, and on the seventh day I rested in the joy of having made it all. That's why I blessed the Sabbath day and set it apart as holy, so you can rest and rejoice with me.

¹²"Do not dishonor your parents. Respect your father and mother, and I will bless you with long life in the land I'm about to give you.

¹³"Do not murder anyone or even hurt them.

¹⁴"Do not commit adultery or sexually abuse anyone.

¹⁵"Do not take what doesn't belong to you.

¹⁶"Do not lie, deceive or accuse others falsely.

¹⁷"Do not covet another man's house, his wife, his servants, his cattle or anything else that he has."

The People Afraid of God

¹⁸When the people heard God speak to them, followed by lightning, thunder and the loud blasts of a trumpet, they shook with fear and kept their distance from the mountain. ¹⁹They turned to Moses and said, "If you speak to us in God's place, we promise to listen, but we're afraid that if God speaks to us one more time, we'll all die!" ²⁰Moses said, "Don't be afraid. God has spoken to you to make you afraid of sin, not of Him. These commandments are like ten promises to you."

²¹The people stayed at a distance while Moses and Aaron went part way up the mountain. Then, going on alone, Moses disappeared into the dark cloud where God was.

Instructions for Building an Altar

²²The Lord said to Moses, "When we finish talking I want you to go back down and tell the people for me, 'I am the Lord of heaven and earth. You have seen my power and heard me speak to you from this mountain. ²³You are not to make gods for yourselves out of silver or gold. ²⁴I want you to make an altar out of the natural stones of the earth. Offer on it your sheep and cattle as sacrifices for your sins and in appreciation of my plan for your salvation. Whatever place I set aside for you to come and worship me, I will be there to bless you. ²⁵When you build an altar, don't build it out of cut stones. If you use any tool, or put forth any human effort to make it acceptable, it will lose its meaning and be unfit for worship. ²⁶And don't make a high altar with lots of steps because I don't want others to see your nakedness as you go up.'"

How to Treat Servants

21 The Lord continued, "Teach the Israelites the commandments I just gave them, and help them understand how to apply them to everyday life. ²If you buy a fellow Hebrew to be your servant, he is to be yours for only six years. You don't own him. In the seventh year you are to let him go; he has no more obligation to you. ³If he came in single, he is to go out single. If he chooses to leave in the seventh year, he must leave alone because he has no claim on anyone. This way no female can marry him just to secure her own freedom. If he was married when you bought him, then when he goes free, so does his wife and family, because they belonged to him before you got him. ⁴If you give him a female slave to be his wife so he can have a family of his own, she and the children do not belong to him. They are your responsibility. If in the seventh year he chooses to leave, he must leave alone. ⁵But if he says to himself, 'I love working here because my master has been good to me. I also love my wife and children, so I don't want to go,' and he tells you that he would rather stay, you must keep him. ⁶Then take him before the Lord at the place of worship and in the presence of the judges stand him up against the doorpost and pierce his ear lobe, and he'll belong to you for the rest of his life.

⁷"If a father who owes you money gives you his daughter with the possibility of marrying into the family, you are not to treat her as a slave nor let her regain her liberty like other slaves. ⁸If she doesn't please you, you must let her father buy her back even if he has no immediate cash. You have no right to sell her to foreigners, because this is the promise you made when you agreed to take her. ⁹If you like her and decide to offer her to your son in marriage, and he marries her, then you are to grant her the rights of a daughter. ¹⁰If you choose another woman instead of her to be your son's wife, you must not deprive her a servant's rights of food, clothing and shelter. ¹¹If in any way you deprive her of one of these things, you must set her free and allow her to go back home without any payment on the part of her father.

¹²"If you hit a man so hard as to kill him, you must pay with your life. ¹³But if in a scuffle you unintentionally harm a man so severely that he dies, you can quickly go to a place that I will designate and be safe from the family's revenge. While you're there, no one will be allowed to touch you. ¹⁴However, if you deliberately kill a man and then run to the place I will designate, the authorities will be allowed to take you and put you to death.

¹⁵"If you hit your father or mother you must pay for this with your life.

¹⁷"Anyone who curses his father or mother is to be put to death.

²²"If men get in a fight and in the process accidentally hit a pregnant woman and the baby comes early, but neither are hurt in any other way, the one who hit her is to be fined the amount the woman's husband demands and the courts allow. ²³But if the woman or the child is hurt or dies, the one who did it is to be punished according to the law of equal value which means life for life, ²⁴eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, ²⁵burn for burn, wound for wound, bruise for bruise.

²⁶"If a man hits his male or female servant in the face and the servant loses an eye, the man must let the servant go free as payment for the eye. ²⁷If he knocks out a tooth of his male or female servant, he must let the servant go free as payment for the tooth.

Laws Regarding Animals

²⁸"If a bull grazing in the field gores a man or a woman to death, it is to be stoned and its meat must not be eaten. The owner of the bull is not to be held responsible for what it did. ²⁹But if the bull has been in the habit of attacking people and the owner was warned but has not kept the bull fenced in and it kills a man or a woman, the bull is to be stoned and the owner is to be tried for manslaughter. ³⁰If the judges decide to let the owner live and redeem his life by paying for what his bull did, he is to pay whatever is imposed on him for the value of the victim's life. ³¹If the bull kills a boy or a girl, the same rule applies. ³²If the bull kills a male or female servant, the bull's owner is to pay the servant's owner thirty pieces of silver and the bull must be stoned to death.

³⁵"If a man's bull injures another man's bull and it dies, the owners are to sell the live bull and divide the money and the meat of the dead bull equally between them. ³⁶But if it was known that the bull had the habit of attacking other animals, and the owner was warned and did not keep the bull fenced in, he is to pay the other man for the loss by providing him with an equivalent bull and the dead animal will be his."

God's Law Applied

22 "If a man steals an ox or a sheep and slaughters it or sells it, he must pay five head of cattle for an ox and four sheep for a sheep.

²"If a thief breaks into a house at night and someone beats him up and kills him, the defender is not guilty. ³If a thief breaks into a house in broad daylight and someone beats him up and kills him, the defender is guilty and is to be tried for manslaughter. If a thief is caught, he is to make restitution for what he took and for any damage he caused. If he has nothing with which to pay, he is to be sold as a slave to help pay for it. ⁴If the thief is caught with one of the owner's animals in his possession, whether an ox, a donkey or a sheep, he is to pay back double, two animals for one.

⁵If a man lets his animals graze in a field or a vineyard and they stray and eat another man's crops or eat in his field, the animal's owner must make up the exact loss from the best of his field or vineyard.

⁶If a man starts a fire to burn the weeds in his field and the fire spreads to another man's field and burns up the grain growing there or what has been cut and stacked, the one who started the fire has to pay for the damages.

⁷If a man gives money or other valuables to his neighbor to keep for him, and the neighbor agrees, and a thief breaks in the neighbor's house and steals them, when the thief is caught he must pay back double what he stole. ⁸But if the thief is not caught, the neighbor who agreed to keep the valuables must come before the judges to swear that he did not steal them and in that way declare his innocence.

¹⁰If a man gives his neighbor a donkey, an ox, a sheep or any other animal to keep for him and the neighbor agrees, but the animal dies, is injured or is stolen when no one was watching, ¹¹the neighbor is to take an oath that he did not kill or injure the other man's animal and the man is to accept his neighbor's oath as true. No restitution is to be imposed. ¹²If the animal was stolen, the neighbor must repay the owner according to the law because of his negligence. ¹³If the animal was killed by wild animals attacking it, the neighbor needs to bring some of the remains as evidence, and he will not be required to pay for the dead animal.

¹⁴Now if a man borrows an animal from another man and it is injured or dies while he is using the animal, he must make restitution. ¹⁵But if the owner is with his loaned animal and it happens, the borrower does not have to pay. If the animal was rented out and it dies, the man does not have to pay because the loss is covered by the hiring fee.

¹⁶If a man seduces a virgin who is not pledged to be married to have sex with him, he must pay a dowry to the parents and marry her. ¹⁷But if her father refuses to give her to him, he must still pay the dowry as if he were going to marry her.

¹⁸Anyone who practices witchcraft must be put to death.

¹⁹Anyone who has sex with an animal must be put to death.

²⁰You must put to death anyone who sacrifices animals to any god other than the Lord.

²¹Do not mistreat or oppress an alien; remember how you were treated when you were in Egypt. ²²Do not take advantage of a widow or an orphan. ²³If you do and they cry to the Lord for help, He will certainly answer their prayers. ²⁴The Lord will respond by allowing the sword to come into the land and your wives will become widows and your children orphans.

²⁹“Do not hold back offerings for the Lord from your grain, grapes, or olive oil at harvest time. And don’t forget that your firstborn sons belong to the Lord. ³⁰The firstborn male of your cattle and your sheep also belong to the Lord. Let the firstborn stay with its mother for seven days and on the eighth day, give it to the Lord.

³¹“I want you to be a holy and healthy people. So don’t eat the meat of an animal that has been attacked and torn by wild beasts, but throw that meat to the dogs.”

Justice

23 “Do not spread false rumors about anyone. Never help a guilty man by giving a false testimony to protect him. ²Don’t go along with the crowd when they’re wrong. When you give your testimony in court, don’t be influenced by others to pervert justice. ³Don’t show favoritism to a poor man when he’s on trial for doing wrong.

⁹“Never mistreat an alien, because you were once aliens in a foreign land and know what it’s like to be mistreated.

A Sabbatical for the Land

¹⁰“Sow your fields and harvest your crops each year for six years. ¹¹But during the seventh year the land should rest and lie dormant. Do not harvest anything that grows there, but let it be for the poor and what’s left after that, for the animals. Do the same with your vineyards and olive groves.

¹²“Do all your work in six days, and on the seventh day of the week, rest. Your animals need a chance to rest and refresh themselves, just as your servants and the aliens who work for you do. ¹³Listen to me and be sure to do everything I ask you to. Don’t pray to the idols you’ll find in the land where you’re going; don’t even talk about them or use their names in your conversation.

Three Yearly Feasts

¹⁴“Three times a year you are to hold a religious festival. ¹⁵In the first month of your religious year, the month of Abib, you should keep the Festival of Unleavened Bread for a week beginning the day after the Passover. You are to do things just as you did the night you left Egypt. This means that all through the week you are to eat unleavened bread. Don’t come before me empty-handed, but bring an offering with you. ¹⁶Next is the Harvest Festival to be held for one day. That’s when you offer me the first of your harvests. The third festival is the Festival of Ingathering or Festival of Shelters which is to take place after all your harvests are in at the end of the year. ¹⁷These three festivals are to be held each year and all adult males are to come before me at those times.

¹⁸“Don’t offer bread made with yeast at the same time you offer an animal. The fat of animals sacrificed during these festivals I appointed must not be left until morning.

¹⁹“When you bring the firstfruits of your harvests to me, bring the best you have. Don’t cook a young goat in its mother’s milk as the heathen do, for they do it as a fertility rite.

The Angel

²⁰“I have sent my Angel before you to protect you and bring you into the land I have promised to give you. ²¹So obey me. Don't be headstrong and rebel. He will not forgive your sins except you repent for He bears my name.

²²"If you obey Him and do what I ask, then I'll protect you, fight off your enemies for you and set myself against any who oppose you.

²³"My Angel will bring you into the land of the Amorites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Canaanites, the Hivites and the Jebusites, and I will defeat them for you. ²⁴When you come into their land, do not worship their local gods or adopt their cultural or religious practices. You are to destroy their idols and break down the sacred pillars where they worship.

²⁵"If you worship me as the Lord your God, and me only, then I will bless your food and water and will take away sickness from among you. ²⁶There will be no miscarriages among you, neither will any of your wives be infertile nor without children. And I will prolong your lives. ²⁷I will send terror into the hearts of the people who oppose you and throw every nation that confronts you into confusion. I will make your enemies so afraid of you that they will turn and run. ²⁸I will send hornets ahead of you to attack the Hivites, the Canaanites and the Hittites; you'll be able to move in without a battle. ²⁹But I will not do all of this in one year because the land would become desolate and the wild animals would come to live there. Soon they would attack you to protect their turf. I will not move your enemies out of the land any faster than you can settle it. ³⁰I will move them out gradually until there are enough of you to take over. ³¹Slowly I will extend your borders from the Red Sea to the Euphrates River and from the Mediterranean Sea to the Arabian Desert. I will make you a powerful nation so that those who moved out from the land will not come back and attack you.

³²"Don't make a peace agreement with these people or a covenant with their gods. ³³And don't let them come back and settle in the land, because if you do, they'll cause you to sin against me by luring you into worshiping their gods and you'll be caught in a trap."

The People Promise to Obey

24 Then the Lord said to Moses, "Go back down the mountain and tell the people everything I've told you. Then come back and bring Aaron with you, but this time also bring his sons Nadab and Abihu and the seventy leaders of Israel. They are not to come clear to the top, but find a comfortable place on the way to stop and wait for you. I will put my Spirit upon them and give them a glimpse of my glory. ²You are to come up to the top alone as before, but the people are to stay away from the mountain as they've been told or they will die."

³So before Moses went up the mountain with Aaron, the seventy elders, and Aaron's two sons Nadab and Abihu, he told the people everything the Lord had said about His law, just as he had been told. The people responded with one voice, "We will do all that the Lord has said!" (They thought they could do what the Lord had said without His help.)

⁴Then Moses wrote down everything the Lord had said, including the response of the people. Early the following morning he got up and built an altar at the foot of Sinai and set up twelve pillars made of large stones, one pillar for each of the twelve tribes of Israel. ⁵He also chose twelve young men from among the first-born to serve as priests until the priesthood was officially set up. They helped slaughter several oxen and offered them to the Lord, confirming the people's commitment and acceptance of His covenant. ⁶Moses caught the blood in basins and poured half of it against the altar confirming the Lord's promise and the people's agreement. ⁷Then he took the book of the covenant that he had just written and read it to the people. When they heard the words of the Lord the second time, they again responded, "We will do all that the Lord has said!"⁸ That's when Moses took the rest of the blood, sprinkled some of it toward the people and poured the rest out on the ground in front of them. As he did so, he said, "This blood represents your response to the covenant that the Lord has made with you and the agreement is now sealed."

Seventy Leaders Join Moses on the Mountain

⁹When this was done, Moses and Aaron, Aaron's two sons Nadab and Abihu, and the seventy leaders of Israel went up the mountain.¹⁰ Before reaching the top they stopped to worship. The Lord poured out His Spirit upon them and showed them the glory of His presence. They saw the feet of God resting on what looked like pavement of blue sapphire.¹¹ The Lord protected them from His glory, but He did allow them to see His feet resting on the blue pavement. While they were there they ate bread and drank water as a covenant meal, surrounded by God's glory.

¹²After they came down from the mountain, the Lord said to Moses, "When you come up next time, bring Joshua with you. While you're up here I will give you two tablets of stone on which I will write my law as a guide for my people."¹³ So Moses took Joshua, his assistant, and went back up the mountain to be with God.¹⁴ Before they went, Moses said to the seventy elders, "This time stay here with the people until I come back. Aaron and Hur will be here with you, so if the people have any major disputes to settle they can go to them."

¹⁵Then Moses and Joshua went up the mountain and when they were part way up a thick cloud covered it.¹⁶ The glory of the Lord was in the cloud, and it hid the mountain for six days as Moses and Joshua waited. On the seventh day the Lord spoke to Moses and asked him to come up into the cloud to talk to Him.

¹⁷From down below, the glory of the Lord looked to the people like flames of fire consuming the top of the mountain.

¹⁸Moses obeyed the Lord, left Joshua, and went the rest of the way to the top. He was without food for forty days and forty nights, miraculously kept by the power of God.

Offerings for the Sanctuary

25 The Lord spoke to Moses,² "When you go back down, I want you to give the children of Israel the following instructions: Bring me a special offering, whatever your hearts prompt you to give.³ The offering can be gold, silver or bronze,⁴ or it can be blue, purple or scarlet yarn, finely woven white linen, spun goat hair,⁵ ram skin dyed red, fine leather from animals with soft skin, acacia wood,⁶ olive oil as used in lamps, spices to mix with oil to make sweet-smelling incense,⁷ and onyx stones and other gems to be mounted on the ephod and breastpiece worn by the high priest.⁸ Have them make a holy tent for me so I can live among them. It will be called the Lord's Sanctuary.⁹ I want you to supervise its construction and see that its furnishings are exactly like the plan I'll show you, which is patterned after things in heaven. My Sanctuary will have its own measurement. A hand's breadth is to be added to each cubit, making a Sanctuary cubit twenty-two inches.

¹⁰"First, I want you to make a chest out of the same kind of hard acacia wood that the burning bush had. I want this chest to be fifty-five inches long, thirty-three inches wide and thirty-three inches high.

¹¹Overlay it with pure gold, inside and out, and make a molding of gold to go around the top.¹² Make four large rings from gold and fasten them to the four corners near the bottom of the chest, two on one side and two on the other.¹³ Then make two carrying poles out of acacia wood and overlay them with gold.¹⁴ Slip them into the golden rings along the sides of the chest, one pole for each side with which to carry it. ¹⁵The poles are to stay in the rings and must not be taken out, even when the chest sits in the Sanctuary. That's why the rings for the poles are attached to the bottom and not the top.

¹⁶Place the two tablets of stone on which I will write my law inside the chest. It will be known as the Ark of God's Covenant because it will hold the Ten Commandments. ¹⁷Make an atonement cover of pure gold for the Ark to serve as its lid. It is to be known as God's Mercy Seat. It is to be fifty-five inches long and thirty-three inches wide to fit the Ark. ¹⁸Then make two cherubs out of hammered gold with two wings each, one cherub for each end of the lid. ¹⁹Fashion one cherub on one end of the lid and the other cherub on the other end, making one piece with the Mercy Seat. ²⁰The angels are to face each other across the lid and are to be made so one wing from each make an arch over God's Mercy Seat and one wing folds over their body. ²¹Place the two tablets of stone that I will give you inside the golden Ark and then put the lid with its angels on top of it. ²²I will appear to you above the Mercy Seat, and from there I will give you added instructions for my people.

²³Next I want you to make a table out of acacia wood, forty-four inches long, twenty-two inches wide and thirty-three inches high.

²⁴Overlay the table with gold and make a gold molding to go around the top. ²⁵Make a three-and-a-half-inch frame to go around the top and a gold molding for the frame. ²⁶Make four gold carrying rings and fasten them to the four corners where the legs meet the table top. ²⁷The rings are to be close to the frame, to hold the poles that will be used to carry the table. ²⁸Make the poles for carrying the table out of acacia wood and overlay them with gold. ²⁹Make plates, pitchers, bowls and covers out of pure gold. ³⁰This table is to hold the bread of the presence, which is to be kept before me every day.

The Lampstand

³¹Make a lampstand of pure gold. Hammer out its base and shaft. Together with its decorative flowers, the whole lampstand is to be one solid piece of gold. ³²Its central shaft should have six branches coming out of it, three on one side and three on the other side, all curving upward. ³³Each of these six branches is to have three almond-shaped cups decorated with buds and blossoms. ³⁴The shaft is to have four such almond-shaped cups with buds and blossoms. ³⁵Put a bud on the shaft under each of the three pairs of branches and one near the top. ³⁶The buds, the branches and the shaft should be hammered out of one solid piece of gold. ³⁷Make seven oil lamps and put one on top of the shaft and one on top of each of the six branches. Light will reflect off the wall, lighting up everything around it. ³⁸Also make the wick trimmers, tongs and trays out of gold. ³⁹Use seventy-five pounds of pure gold to make the lampstand and its tools. ⁴⁰Be very careful that you make everything according to the plan which is patterned after the heavenly Sanctuary I showed you on the mountain."

The Sanctuary

26 "For the Sanctuary itself, make ten curtains out of fine white linen embroidered with blue, purple and scarlet yarn. Have a skillful person weave artistic figures of angels on the cloth. ²All the curtains are to be the same size, fifty-one feet long and seven feet wide. ³Sew five of them together to make one large piece and then do the same with the other five. ⁴Make blue loops for the long seam of each set. ⁵Put fifty of them along the end seam of the first set and fifty matching loops along the end seam of the second set. ⁶Make fifty gold clasps and hook the two sets together to make one large curtain for the ceiling.

⁷Next make the first of three outside coverings for the Sanctuary out of eleven pieces of cloth spun from goat hair.

⁸Make these pieces all the same size, fifty-five feet long and seven feet wide.

⁹Sew five of them together into one set and the other six into another set. Half of the sixth piece in the second set is to be doubled over at the entrance of the Sanctuary. ¹⁰Make fifty loops along the end piece of the first set and fifty loops along the end piece of the second set.

²²For the rear of the Sanctuary, make six frames, ²³and two corner frames to overlap the end frames of the side walls. ²⁴These corner frames are to overlap the end frames of the side walls all the way to the top. ²⁵Altogether there will be eight frames for the west end, including the corners, with sixteen silver feet, two for each frame.

³¹Make a curtain out of finely woven white linen, using blue, purple and scarlet yarn to embroider the curtain with figures of winged angels, exquisitely sewn. ³²Make gold hooks for this curtain and hang it on four square hollow pillars made out of acacia wood, overlaid with gold and set in four silver bases. This will be the curtain that separates the first and second parts of the Sanctuary. ³³Behind this curtain you are to place the Ark of God's Covenant with its two tablets of stone. The curtain will separate the first compartment called the Holy Place from the second compartment called the Most Holy Place. ³⁴Then put the lid holding the carved angels on the Ark and close it up as it sits inside the Most Holy Place. ³⁵On this side of the curtain in the Holy Place, put the table that will hold the sacred bread against the north wall of the Sanctuary and the lampstand with its seven lights against the south wall.

³⁶For the entrance to the Holy Place make a curtain of finely woven linen and have someone who sews well embroider the curtain with blue, purple and scarlet yarn. ³⁷Make gold hooks for the curtain and hang it on five pillars made of acacia wood, overlaid with gold and set in five bronze bases."

The Altar of Burnt Offering

27 “Next build an altar on which to offer sacrifices. Make it out of acacia wood, nine feet wide, nine feet long and five-and-a-half feet high. ²Make a horn for each of the four corners, so that the horns and the altar are one piece, and overlay the horns and the altar with bronze. ³All the utensils for the altar are to be made of bronze: pots to remove ashes, shovels, bowls for sprinkling blood, meat forks and pans to carry the fire in. ⁴Make a bronze grate to be set inside the altar and four bronze rings for its four corners. ⁵Set the grate half way down inside the altar as it sits over the pit.

⁶“Make two carrying poles of acacia wood and overlay them with bronze. ⁷The poles are to be inserted into the rings on each side of the altar and used to carry it. ⁸Make the altar out of solid planks. Then cover the planks with bronze plates just like I showed you in the plans.

The Courtyard

¹²“The west end of the courtyard beyond the Sanctuary should be ninety feet wide with curtains, ten such posts with silver hooks and crowns on top, and ten bronze bases. ¹³On the east end of the courtyard will be the entrance to the Sanctuary. It will also be ninety feet wide. ¹⁴On one side of the entrance the white enclosure curtain should be twenty-seven feet wide, with three posts which have silver hooks and silver crowns and three bronze bases. ¹⁵On the other side of the entrance the white enclosure curtain should also be twenty-seven feet wide, with three of the same posts with silver hooks and silver crowns and three bronze bases.

¹⁶“For the entrance itself, make a curtain thirty-six feet wide out of finely woven linen embroidered with blue, purple and scarlet yarn. Hang it from four posts with silver hooks and crowns on top, sitting on four bronze bases. ¹⁷All the posts around the courtyard are to sit on bronze bases and be connected with silver rods and have silver hooks to hold the curtain. ¹⁸The entire enclosure is to be one hundred and eighty feet long, ninety feet wide and nine feet high. The curtains are to be made of white linen and all the posts are to have bronze bases. ¹⁹All the utensils to be used in the Sanctuary are to be made of bronze. The tent pegs for the Sanctuary and courtyard are also to be of bronze.

²⁰“Tell the children of Israel to bring you the best oil from pressed olives for the lampstand, so the seven lamps can always be kept burning. ²¹Aaron and his sons are to set the lampstand in the Holy Place and keep the seven lamps burning before the Lord continually day and night. This is to be a lasting practice among the children of Israel and their descendants for all generations to follow.”

The Garments of the Priests

28 “Call Aaron your brother out from the people, along with his sons, Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar, to set them aside as priests. ²Make seven sacred garments for your brother Aaron to give glory and beauty to his position. ³Tell the craftsmen to whom I have given wisdom and ability in such matters that they are to make these special garments for Aaron so he can be consecrated as my high priest. ⁴These are the clothes they should make: white undergarments, a white long-sleeved inner robe down to the ankles, a blue short-sleeved outer robe down to the calves, a holy vest with front and back panels joined at the top to reach halfway down the thighs, a waistband to hold the front and back panels of the holy vest close to him, a breastpiece for the outside of the vest and a flat white turban. They also are to make special clothes for Aaron's sons who will serve as priests.

The Ephod

⁵“The craftsmen are to use gold, blue, purple and scarlet thread and the finest linen. ⁶The holy vest is to be called an ephod and should be made of fine linen beautifully embroidered with gold, blue, purple and scarlet thread. ⁷The front and back panels are to be joined at the shoulders. ⁸The sash is to match the vest with its gold, blue, purple and scarlet colors. ⁹They are to take two flat onyx stones and engrave on them the names of the twelve sons of Jacob in order of their birth, ¹⁰the six names of the oldest sons on the stone on the right and the six names of the youngest sons on the stone on the left. ¹¹Engrave their names on these stones as a gem cutter engraves a royal seal. Each stone is to be mounted in a gold setting, ¹²then fasten the two stones on the two shoulder pieces that join the front and back panels of the holy vest. This way Aaron will be carrying the twelve sons of Jacob representing the twelve tribes of Israel on his shoulders before the Lord to show that they will never be forgotten. ¹³Make two little loops out of woven gold and fasten them to the two gold settings holding the onyx stones. ¹⁴Also make two short cords out of twisted gold to look like chains and attach them to the two little loops to hang down over Aaron's chest.

The Breastplate

rial as the vest using finely woven linen embroidered with gold, blue, purple and scarlet thread. ¹⁶It should be a foot long and a foot wide after it's folded, and the fold should be at the bottom so it looks like a pouch. ¹⁷Then mount four rows of three precious stones on the outside of the breastpiece. In the first row have a ruby, a topaz and a beryl. ¹⁸In the second row have a turquoise, a sapphire and an emerald. ¹⁹In the third row have a jacinth, an agate and an amethyst. ²⁰In the fourth row have a chrysolite, an onyx and a jasper. All these are to be mounted in gold settings. ²¹Each of these stones is to have the name of one of the sons of Jacob engraved on it to represent the twelve tribes of Israel. This way Aaron will carry the twelve tribes of Israel over his heart as he goes before the Lord. ²²The breastpiece will be attached to the two short cords hanging from Aaron's shoulders. ²³Make two gold rings and fasten them to the two upper corners of the breastpiece, ²⁴and then fasten the one end of the two cords to each of these rings. ²⁵The other end of the cords will be attached to the gold loops that are fastened to the gold settings on Aaron's shoulders. This way the breastpiece can hang freely over his chest. ²⁶Then make two gold rings and attach these to the two lower corners of the breastpiece on the inside edge. ²⁷Make two more gold rings and attach them to the sides of the holy vest toward the front just above the waistband. ²⁸Then tie the two lower rings of the breastpiece to the two rings on the sides of the vest with a blue cord to pull the breastpiece close to Aaron's chest. This way the breastpiece will not swing away from him when he leans forward. ²⁹When Aaron enters the Sanctuary to go before the Lord he is to wear the breastpiece with its twelve stones, each one engraved with the name of one of the twelve sons of Jacob, to show that the twelve tribes will always have a place in God's heart.

³⁰“Next, take two large gemstones and attach them to the breastpiece, one to the right and the other to the left of the twelve gems already there. These are to be known as the Urim and the Thummim, words which begin with the first and last letters of your alphabet. I will use these gems to guide Israel. If I approve a certain action, a light will encircle the stone on the right, and if I disapprove, a shadow will be over the stone on the left. Aaron is to carry them over his heart whenever he enters the Sanctuary.

Additional Priestly Garments

³¹The blue short-sleeved robe that Aaron is to wear over his white inner robe is to be woven as one piece, without seams. ³²There is to be an opening at the top for Aaron to slip his head through, and the opening is to be reinforced with a special binding to keep it from tearing. ³³On the bottom hem, by Aaron's calves, you are to attach small balls like pomegranates made of blue, purple and scarlet yarn arranged alternately in color with little gold bells between each of them. ³⁴The gold bells and the pomegranates are to be placed alternately around the bottom of the hem. ³⁵Aaron is to wear this robe whenever he ministers before me as high priest. The sound of the bells will be heard by the people as he enters the Sanctuary and when he comes out. It will be an audible link between him and the people as they hear him ministering in my presence. If he comes before me without the robe, he will surely die.

³⁶Also make a headband of pure gold and engrave on it the words, 'Holiness to the Lord.' ³⁷Fasten a blue cord to it, place it on his forehead and tie it in the back. This will hold the white turban in place. ³⁸Aaron is to wear this gold headband on his forehead because he represents the Lord and in this role he will carry the guilt of my people as they come to him with their sin offerings. The headband is to be worn on Aaron's forehead whenever he comes into my presence so the people will find favor before the Lord.

⁴⁰Also make a long white robe for each of Aaron's sons who are to serve as priests to give them dignity and honor. Make embroidered sashes for them as waistbands and flat white turbans out of fine linen which they are to wear when they minister before me. ⁴¹Have Aaron and his sons put these clothes on, and then ordain them as priests by anointing them with oil. ⁴²Also make linen underclothes for them to reach from the waist to the knees. These are to be worn under their robes so as not to expose themselves when they go up the steps to the altar. ⁴³Aaron and his sons must wear these clothes whenever they come into the Sanctuary to minister in my presence or approach the altar; otherwise they will incur guilt and die. This is a perpetual ordinance for Aaron and his sons throughout their generations."

Aaron and His Sons Serve as Priests

29 "This is what you are to do when you dedicate Aaron and his sons to serve me as priests. Select a young bull and two rams without defects. ²Take the best wheat flour and make bread cakes and wafers without yeast. The cakes are to be made with olive oil and the wafers without it, but the tops of the wafers should be brushed with olive oil. ³Put all of them in a basket and bring them to me as an offering along with the young bull and the two rams. ⁴Then bring Aaron and his sons into the courtyard near the entrance to the Holy Place and wash their hands and feet according to the ritual I have shown you. ⁵Put the priestly clothes on Aaron. First the long white inner robe, then the shorter blue outer robe, followed by the holy vest with its breastpiece, and then the decorated sash. ⁶Finally, put the flat white turban on his head as you would a crown and tie the gold headband across his forehead. ⁷Then dedicate him to the Lord by pouring perfumed oil on his head, letting it drip on his beard and clothes. ⁸Next bring Aaron's sons into the courtyard near the entrance to the Holy Place. ⁹Put their long white robes on them, tie the embroidered sashes around their waists, put flat white turbans on their heads, then dedicate them to the Lord as you did Aaron. This will be the rite of ordination for Aaron and his sons when they're set apart. They and their descendants are to serve me as priests from generation to generation.

Aaron and his sons place their hands on its head in dedication. ²⁰Kill it, catch its blood and with your finger put some blood on the lobes of the right ears of Aaron and his sons, on the thumbs of their right hands and on the big toes of their right feet. Then pour the rest of the blood against all four sides of the altar. ²¹Take a little blood from the altar, mix some of the anointing oil in it, then sprinkle it on Aaron and his sons and on their clothes. This means that he and his sons and their vestments are set apart for me.

²⁹"The holy clothes made for Aaron are to be passed on to his descendants to wear when they are ordained to become high priest, because the garments belong to me and not to Aaron. ³⁰When Aaron's son is chosen to serve as high priest and begins his ministry in the Holy Place, he is to wear the high priestly garments for seven successive days.

³¹“The meat that Aaron and his sons receive from the ram of dedication is to be boiled inside the courtyard, then prepared for eating. ³²They are to eat it together with the bread in the basket near the entrance to the Holy Place. ³³They are the only ones who are to eat this food because it is the food of their dedication. No one else is to eat of this food because it is holy. ³⁴If any meat or bread is left over until morning, it is to be burned. No one is to eat it, because it is holy.

³⁵“This is how the dedication service for Aaron and his sons is to be conducted for seven days. ³⁶On each of the seven days you are to sacrifice a young bull as a sin offering to make atonement for Aaron and his sons. This sacrifice also will make atonement for the altar. Each day you are to anoint the altar and dedicate it to the Lord. ³⁷Do this every day for seven days and then the altar will be most holy, and whatever touches it will be considered holy.

Daily Offerings

³⁸“Once the altar has been made holy and dedicated, the priests are to offer two one-year-old lambs on it, one in the morning and one in the evening, every single day without a break. ³⁹One lamb is to be offered at sunrise and the other just before sunset. ⁴⁰With the first lamb, offer two pounds of finely ground wheat flour mixed with two pints of pure olive oil as a cereal offering, and two pints of unfermented wine as a drink offering. ⁴¹With the other lamb, offer the same amount of wheat, olive oil and unfermented wine as you did in the morning. Such offerings are pleasing to the Lord because the lamb and the cereal and drink offering represent what I will do for you. Only together do they make a complete offering. ⁴²These two offerings are to be made each day on the altar in the courtyard in line with the entrance to the Sanctuary where I will meet and speak with you.

⁴³“It is in the Sanctuary that I will make my presence known to the children of Israel and my glory will make it holy. ⁴⁴My presence will also make the altar and the laver in the courtyard holy, and Aaron and his sons will serve me as priests. ⁴⁵I will dwell among the children of Israel, and I will be their God and they will be my people. ⁴⁶They will know that I, the Lord, brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage, to live among them. For I am the Lord their God.”

The Altar of Incense

30“Make an altar out of acacia wood for burning incense in the Holy Place. ²It should be square, twenty-two inches long, twenty-two inches wide and forty-four inches high. It should have four little horns on each of the upper corners and they should be one piece with the altar. ³Put a crown molding of gold around the top edge of the altar, lay the gold plate to be used for burning incense down inside the molding and overlay the entire altar with gold. ⁴Make two gold rings and attach them to opposite corners just below the molding. They are for the poles that will be used to carry the altar. ⁵The poles are to be made of acacia wood and overlaid with gold.

⁶“Place the altar in front of the curtain going from the Holy Place into the Most Holy Place where the Ark of the Covenant and the mercy seat are and where I will meet with you. ⁷Every morning when Aaron or one of his sons comes into the Holy Place to take care of the lamps on the seven-branched lampstand, he is to look toward the Ark and offer fragrant incense on the coals of the altar. ⁸He is to do the same thing when he comes in to take care of the lamps at sunset to keep them burning during the night. This way the sweet fragrance will continually rise to the Lord all through your generations, day and night, representing the Lord’s righteousness ascending with the prayers of the people. ⁹You are not to offer on this altar strange-smelling incense, or any parts of an animal, grain or drink offering as you do on the altar of sacrifice that's in the courtyard. ¹⁰Once a year Aaron, as high priest, is to make atonement on the altar by putting on its horns the blood of the animal that was sacrificed that day for a sin offering. This is to be done every year throughout your generations. This altar is special in its service because in its function it belongs to the Most Holy Place."

The Ransom Money

¹¹Then the Lord spoke to Moses on another topic, saying, ¹²"When you take a census of the people of Israel, every male who registers must pay a ransom for himself. They are to be sure to do this so no harm will come to them. ¹³Everyone who registers must bring the same weight in silver—one-fifth of an ounce—set by the monetary standard of the Sanctuary. This is called the census offering. No one is exempt. ¹⁴Those who are twenty years and older are to bring this amount to the Lord as a ransom offering for themselves. ¹⁵The rich are not to bring more than this and the poor are not to bring less. All are to bring the same amount as an offering to the Lord who ransomed your lives. ¹⁶This money is for the upkeep of the Sanctuary that it may continue to be a memorial before the Lord to protect you."

The Laver

¹⁷Then the Lord came back to the subject of the Sanctuary, saying to Moses, ¹⁸"Make a large bronze basin with a bronze stand and place it in the courtyard between the altar of sacrifice and the entrance to the Sanctuary. Then fill it with water. ¹⁹Aaron and his sons are to remove their sandals and wash their hands and feet with water from this basin. ²⁰They are to do this before they enter the Sanctuary so they will not be harmed by my presence or perhaps die, because the ground on which they will be walking is holy. They are to do the same before they approach the altar of sacrifice to burn an offering there. ²¹They are to wash their hands and feet with the water from the basin so they will not be harmed or die. This is an ordinance for all the priests to observe from now on."

The Anointing Oil

²²The Lord gave Moses additional instructions about the Sanctuary, saying, ²³"Take these amounts of fine Eastern spices: twelve pounds of liquid myrrh, six pounds of fragrant cinnamon, six pounds of fragrant cane and ²⁴twelve pounds of cassia, all weighed out according to the official standard of the Sanctuary. Then add one gallon of olive oil to these spices ²⁵to make a holy oil like that blended by a perfumer. This is the oil to be used to anoint the priests and the Sanctuary. ²⁶You are to anoint the Sanctuary tent, the Ark of the Covenant in the Most Holy Place, ²⁷the table that holds the sacred bread, the seven-branched candlestick and the altar of incense in the Holy Place; ²⁸and in the courtyard, anoint the altar of burnt offerings and its equipment and the wash basin with its base. ²⁹By doing this you are dedicating these things to the Lord and setting them apart as holy. Anything that touches them will also be considered dedicated to the Lord and holy. ³⁰Then anoint Aaron and his sons to dedicate them and set them apart to serve me as priests. ³¹Tell the priests and the people that this perfumed oil will be the Lord's anointing oil for generations to come. ³²It is never to be used on anyone but those who are set aside as priests. You are never to make such oil. It is holy and it is to be holy to you. ³³Whoever makes this oil and puts it on himself or on someone else will no longer be considered part of my people."

The Incense

³⁴The Lord continued, "Take an equal amount of these spices: gum resin, onycha, galbanum and pure frankincense.

³⁵Make a fragrant blend of incense from these as a perfumer does, then add a little salt to keep it pure and it will be holy unto the Lord. ³⁶Grind some of it into a fine powder, take it into the Holy Place and sprinkle it on the altar of incense that stands in front of the curtain going into the Most Holy Place where I will meet with you. This incense is holy and must always be treated as such. ³⁷Neither you nor anyone else are to make incense like this, because it's set aside for the Lord's use. ³⁸Whoever makes incense like this for his own use, whether to perfume himself or his house, will no longer be considered part of my people."

Building the Sanctuary

31 Then the Lord said to Moses, ²"I have chosen Bezalel, the son of Uri, the son of Hur, from the tribe of Judah, to help you build the Sanctuary. ³I will fill him with my Spirit and give him knowledge, skill and ability in all kinds of artistry and craft. ⁴He will make artistic designs in gold, silver and bronze. ⁵He will cut and set precious stones, carve wood and do all kinds of hand crafts. ⁶And I have chosen Oholiab, the son of Ahisamach, from the tribe of Dan, to help him. I also have filled others with my Spirit and given them knowledge, skill and ability to help them make everything for the Sanctuary that should be made. ⁷They are to make the Sanctuary tent, the Ark of the Covenant with its atonement cover and all the other furnishings, such as ⁸the bread table, the seven-branched lampstand, the altar of incense, ⁹the altar of sacrifice with all its equipment and the wash basin with its stand. ¹⁰They will make the garments for Aaron as high priest and for his sons as priests. ¹¹They also will make the anointing oil and the perfumed incense for use in the Holy Place. They are to make all these things exactly as I have told you."

people, 'Most importantly, remember to keep the Sabbath holy because it is a very special day for me, and it's a day of rest for you. It's a sign between you and me for all time to show that you are the people whom I have chosen and set apart. ¹⁴The Sabbath is holy and anyone who desecrates it by working on that day will be put to death. To break the Sabbath is an act of treason against divine government. ¹⁵There are six days in which you should do your work to earn a livelihood, but the seventh day is the day set apart for me. Anyone doing unnecessary work on that day is to be put to death. ¹⁶My people are to keep the Sabbath, celebrating it forever as a sign that they belong to me. ¹⁷It is to be a permanent sign between us, because in six days the Lord made the heavens and the earth, and by the seventh day he had finished everything. He then rested in the joy of what He had made.'" ¹⁸When God finished talking to Moses on Mount Sinai, He gave him the two tablets of stone He had promised to give him on which He had written the Ten Commandments.

Aaron's Golden Calf

32 Moses was up on the mountain much longer than the people had expected. Some of them became impatient, so the leaders went to Aaron and said, "We don't know whether something has happened to Moses or not. He brought us out of Egypt all the way here, but now what do we do? Let's make a god we can see!" ²They surrounded Aaron and put pressure on him to go along with them. At first Aaron remonstrated with them for wanting to do such a thing, but finally he gave in and said, "All right, ask your wives and sons and daughters to take off their gold earrings and bring them to me, and we'll see what we can do." ³So the leaders talked to the people and they took off their gold earrings and brought them to Aaron. ⁴He took the earrings, melted them down and made a golden statue for the people in the shape of a young bull. Then the leaders said to all the people, "Hear, O Israel, this is your god! Think of him as the one who led you out of Egypt, the one who will lead you into the Promised Land. This is a god you can see!" ⁵When Aaron saw the joy that this brought to the people, he built an altar in front of the golden bull and announced to everyone, "Tomorrow will be a festival to the Lord and you can bring your sacrifices to Him and offer them in front of this bull." ⁶So early the next morning people brought their animals and offered them as burnt offerings and peace offerings to this visible god. Then they sat down to eat and drink and soon their feasting took on the sexual rites of pagan worship.

⁷The Lord saw all this and said to Moses, "You had better hurry on down to your people you led out of Egypt. They've rebelled against me and are corrupting themselves with fertility rites. ⁸They're worshipping a golden idol made to look like a young bull. They're offering sacrifices to it and telling themselves that the young bull represents me, the God who brought them out of Egypt. ⁹I know how rebellious and stubborn these people can be. ¹⁰One way for me to solve this problem is to wipe them off the face of the earth. So leave me alone. I will start a new and greater nation with you and your family."

¹¹But Moses pleaded with God, "Lord, why would you do this to your own people? Everyone knows that it was your power that set them free and brought them out of Egypt. ¹²If you do this, the nations will say, 'The Lord brought these people out of Egypt to kill them. He told them he wanted them to come and offer sacrifices and worship Him, when He really brought them out here to become human sacrifices.' So don't do it, Lord. Think of the misunderstanding other people will have of you! ¹³You said you would make a great nation out of their descendants. They would be so numerous that they would be as hard to count as the stars in the sky, and they would have a land all of their own. If you destroyed them, what would the people think of your promise? They'd think that you couldn't keep it and had to start over. So don't destroy your people, Lord." ¹⁴The Lord had told Moses that He would destroy the children of Israel, but by saying "Leave me alone," He was testing Moses' love. So the Lord accepted Moses' intercession as a reflection of His own love for His people and did not destroy them.

¹⁵Then Moses went down the mountain carrying the two tablets of stone which had been written on, both front and back. ¹⁶These were the tablets of stone which God had made and given to Moses after writing on them with His own finger. ¹⁷Part way down, Moses met Joshua, who was still there waiting for him, and together they continued down the mountain. Suddenly, Joshua stopped and said, "Wait! I hear people shouting! It's so loud, it sounds like war!" ¹⁸Moses said, "No, it doesn't sound like war because the shouts don't sound like shouts of victory, neither do they sound like shouts of pain and defeat. The shouting sounds more like what you hear in pagan worship." ¹⁹As they came within sight of the camp, they could see the golden calf, the dancing, the revelry and the people participating in the sexual fertility rites. When Moses saw all this, he became furious. He went to where the people could see him and threw down the tablets of stone so hard that they broke into many pieces. ²⁰Then he walked into the midst of the camp, had the people build a huge fire, took the golden calf, threw it in and melted it down. He ordered them to grind the gold into powder, poured the powder into the water and made the leaders and those principally involved drink it.

²¹Moses then turned to Aaron and said, "What was going on here? What did these people do to you? Why did you help them make a golden calf and then let them sin like this?" ²²Aaron said, "Don't be so upset! You know that these people are inclined to do evil. That's their nature. ²³They said to me, 'We don't know what happened to Moses, who brought us out of Egypt, so now you take over the leadership. But give us a visible god, one we can see.' ²⁴So I asked them to bring me their gold jewelry which they did, and I threw it into the fire, and when it all melted and flowed together, it made a statue that looked like a young bull!"

²⁵Aaron's excuses didn't make sense. Moses noticed that some of the people were still in a frenzy. He knew that their enemies would see them as a bunch of wild people, easy to attack, rob and slaughter. By not trusting God and standing firm, Aaron had not restrained them and had lost control. ²⁶So Moses went to the entrance of the camp and shouted, "Those who did not take part in this abomination to the Lord, come and stand on my right, and those who did take part but are repentant, come and stand on my left!" Then the whole tribe of Levi and those who had opposed this false worship at the risk of their lives, came and stood on his right, and a great many went and stood on his left. But there was still a large group, mostly foreigners and Hebrews who had married Egyptians, who stubbornly defended what they had done. ²⁷Then Moses turned to the Levites and said, "The Lord God is asking you to take your swords and go through the camp from one end to the other and kill everyone you find defending this kind of worship, whether he's your brother, friend or neighbor. This is nothing but a rebellion against the God of heaven who personally spoke to them just a few days ago." ²⁸So the Levites put on their swords and did as Moses said. That day three thousand men who had led out in this kind of worship died by the sword, not counting the others who would die from the plague that the Lord would send on them later.

However, all those who had taken part but repented were spared. ²⁹Afterward Moses said to the Levites, "Your whole tribe was loyal to God. You have put Him first before your own sons and brothers and you destroyed those who defended what they did. So the Lord will honor your whole tribe by setting you apart for Himself."

³⁰The next day Moses said to the people, "You committed a terrible sin by worshiping a golden calf and saying that this was the God who had brought you out of Egypt. This was nothing but open rebellion. But I'll go back up the mountain and ask the Lord to forgive you." ³¹Then Moses pleaded with the Lord, "These people have committed a terrible sin against you. They made themselves a golden idol and fell down and worshiped it and did some terrible things. ³²Please forgive them. But if you can't forgive them, take my name out of the Book of Life also." ³³The Lord answered, "Whoever persists in rebelling against me, his name will be removed from the Book of Life. Everyone is responsible for his own sins. ³⁴Tell the people to break camp, then take them to the place I'll show you and my Angel will go with you. However, I still need to discipline the people for what they have done."

³⁵Then the Lord sent a plague on the people who had worshiped the golden calf that Aaron had made for them.

Leaving Sinai

33 The Lord said to Moses, "Get ready to break camp and leave the area, you and the people you led out of Egypt, and make your way to the land that I promised to give to Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and their descendants. ²My Angel will guide you and drive out the Canaanites, Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites by the same means He used to subdue the Egyptians. ³You will go to a rich and fertile land. But I will not be in your midst as I was before. These Israelites are very rebellious and stubborn, and if they rebel again, my presence will destroy them.”

⁴When the people were told what the Lord had said, they became very sad and took off their jewelry to express their grief. ⁵For the Lord had told Moses, “Say to the children of Israel, ‘You are a most rebellious and stubborn people. If I were to stay in your midst, my presence would destroy you. Yes, take off your jewelry as a sign of repentance and commitment to me and let me decide what to do with you.’” ⁶From Horeb on, it was a perpetual rule not to wear jewelry, as a sign of dependence and reliance on God’s providential care.

The Building of the Sanctuary Delayed

⁷Because of their rebellion, Moses decided to delay the building of the Sanctuary. Instead he had a temporary tent of meeting pitched some distance from the camp. Anyone wishing to ask the Lord anything would go there. ⁸Whenever Moses went out to the tent of meeting to speak with the Lord, the people would reverently stand at the entrance of their tents and watch him until he went inside. ⁹Then a pillar of cloud would come down and hover over the entrance of the tent as the Lord spoke with Moses. ¹⁰As soon as the people would see the cloud coming, they would bow low to the ground and worship. ¹¹When the Lord spoke to Moses, He did so directly, as a man speaks to his friend, but Moses could not see Him. Then Moses would return to the camp, but Joshua, the son of Nun, Moses’ young aide, would stay at the tent.

God’s Promise

¹²When the Lord told Moses to break camp at Sinai and move on, Moses said to the Lord, “You asked me to lead these people to the land you promised to give them, but because of their sin you didn’t say who would go with me. However, you did say that you know me well and are pleased with me. ¹³If you are, Lord, then teach me your ways and show me the paths I should walk in so I can serve you better and continue to find grace in your sight. But, Lord, remember that these people belong to you, because you chose them to be your people.” ¹⁴The Lord said, “I won’t leave you. I’ll go with you and help you.” ¹⁵Moses said, “But suppose we leave here and then along the way you decide not to go on with us, then it would be better for us to have stayed with you here. ¹⁶How will other nations know that we are your people and how will I know that you are pleased with me, if you don’t stay with us? What else would set us apart from the other people of the world?”

¹⁷The Lord said, “I will go with you and stay with you, so don’t worry. I am pleased with you, Moses, and I know you love me.” ¹⁸Then Moses asked the Lord, “Please, may I see you?” ¹⁹The Lord said, “Come back up the mountain and I’ll let you see the glory of my presence and give you a deeper insight into the kind of God I am. I am a God of mercy and compassion and as gracious and merciful as I am just. ²⁰I will not let you see my face, because no man can look at me and live. ²¹When you come up, I’ll have you stand on a rock near me, ²²and as the glory of my presence begins to pass by, I’ll make an opening in the rock and put you in that cleft and cover you with my hand until I’ve passed by. ²³Then I’ll take my hand away and you’ll see my back, but not my face.”

New Tablets of Stone

34 Then the Lord said to Moses, “I want you to chisel out two tablets of stone like the first ones I gave you, and I’ll write on them the same words that I wrote on the first ones which you broke. ²Have them ready by morning, then come back up to meet me on the top of the mountain and I’ll permit you to see the glory of my presence. ³Bring no one with you, not even part way up, and no one should be anywhere on the mountain.

The sheep and cattle are not to graze at the foot of the mountain."

⁴So Moses chiseled out two tablets of stone like the first. Then early the next morning he went up the mountain again, carrying the two stone tablets with him, and stood on the rock the Lord pointed out to him. ⁵Then the Lord came down on the mountain and stood close to Moses and said, "I am Yahweh. I AM WHO I AM." ⁶He then made a cleft in the rock, put Moses in the opening, held His hand over him and passed by. As He did so, He said, "I am the Eternal One, the Lord God of Israel, full of mercy and compassion. I am gracious and kind, not easily angered, overflowing with love and forgiveness. ⁷I am faithful and true, full of goodness, showing mercy to thousands who love me and keep my commandments, forgiving iniquity and sin but without clearing the guilty and unrepentant, letting the consequences of sin be felt down to the third and fourth generations." ⁸After the Lord had passed by, He removed His hand and Moses saw the back of His person. Moses bowed in awe and reverence and worshiped God. ⁹Then Moses said, "Lord, now I know that you are pleased with me and that I have found favor in your sight. Do forgive our wickedness. We are a stubborn people and have sinned against you. Don't leave us. Accept us once again as your own."

The Covenant Renewed

¹⁰The Lord said to Moses, "I'm ready to renew my covenant with you. In front of all your people I will do wonders such as never have been seen before by any nation on earth. People will see how awesome the things are that I, the Lord, will do for Israel.

¹¹"I will drive the Amorites, Canaanites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites out of the land. ¹²Do not make a treaty with them because it would bind you to them and they will lead you into sin. ¹³When you go in to occupy the land they have left, I want you to crush their altars, pull down their sacred pillars and destroy all the symbols of their goddess Asherah. ¹⁴Do not worship any of their idols, for the Lord is very jealous for your safety, your welfare and your love. ¹⁵Do not make any treaties with these people. If you do, they will invite you to participate in worshipping their gods and sacrificing to them. To be polite you will be tempted to accept their invitation and become involved in their fertility rites and eat their blood-filled meat which was offered to their idols. ¹⁶The next thing you'll know, your sons will marry their daughters and these women will lead your sons to worship their gods.

¹⁷"Never make a likeness of any of their gods.

¹⁸Observe the Passover as a most sacred day. Then for the next seven days observe the Festival of Unleavened Bread. During this time you are to eat only unleavened bread. Do this in the month of Abib, the first month of your religious calendar, the month you left Egypt. ¹⁹Also remember that every firstborn son who opens the womb belongs to me, as well as the firstborn males from your herds and flocks. ²⁰You can buy back every firstborn male donkey with a lamb. If you decide not to buy it back, as soon as it's born, quickly kill it by breaking its neck. You are to give an offering for all your firstborn sons who have opened the womb. Never come to worship empty-handed. ²¹You have six days in which to do all your necessary work, but on the seventh day you are to rest, even during the plowing and harvest season.

²²"In addition to the Passover and the Festival of Unleavened Bread which go together, you are to keep the Harvest Festival, called the Festival of Weeks. This festival should be kept when you begin to harvest your barley, the first of your many crops. Then keep the Festival of Shelters (also called the Festival of Ingathering) toward the end of your harvesting for the year. ²³This means that three times a year, at these three festivals, all men are to come before the God of Israel. ²⁴When I drive out the inhabitants of the land and enlarge your borders, I will see to it that no one attacks you or invades your land while your men come before me at these specified times during the year.

²⁷Then the Lord said to Moses, “Write all these things in a book, because they’re all in harmony with the other instructions I’ve given you as part of my covenant with you and with Israel.”

Moses’ Face Shines

²⁸Again, Moses was on the mountain with the Lord for forty days and forty nights. All this time he ate and drank nothing, but was kept by the presence of the Lord. The Lord wrote the same commandments He had written before, this time on the stone tablets that Moses had chiseled out.

²⁹When Moses came down from the mountain with the two stone tablets in his hands, he didn’t know that his face was glowing and reflecting the glory of God. ³⁰When Aaron and the leaders of Israel saw his glowing face, they were afraid and backed away from him. ³¹But Moses called to them and asked them to come, so they cautiously approached and told him about his face, and he spoke to them. ³²Then the people quietly assembled, and he shared with them all that the Lord had told him while he was on the mountain. ³³When he finished speaking, he covered his face with a veil so the people would not be afraid of him. ³⁴But when he went into the temporary tent to speak with the Lord, he took the veil off until he came out and related to the people what the Lord had said. ³⁵Because the people were afraid of his shining face, he would cover it again until the next time he met with the Lord.

The Sabbath

35 Moses shared with the people what the Lord had told him, saying, “These are the instructions the God of Israel gave me when I was with Him on the mountain: ²You have six days to do all your work, but the seventh day is mine. It is a holy day, a Sabbath of rest and worship. Whoever rebels and does unnecessary work that day is to be put to death. ³Do not go out to gather wood to make a fire to cook for yourselves that day.”

Offerings for the Sanctuary

⁴He continued, “The Lord also told me to tell you, ⁵Look around to see what you have to bring me as an offering. It can be gold, silver, bronze, ⁶fine linen, either blue, purple or scarlet yarn, cloth made of goats’ hair, ⁷ram skins dyed red, fine leather, acacia wood, ⁸olive oil to be used for light, spices for anointing oil and for fragrant incense, ⁹precious stones like onyx, and other gems to be mounted on the shoulders of the holy vest called the ephod and on the breastpiece to be worn by the high priest.

Furniture for the Sanctuary

¹⁰All who are skilled and who want to work should come and help make everything that I have asked to be made. ¹¹These are the things you need to make: a tent with coverings, frames, hooks, clasps, crossbars, posts, bases, ¹²an Ark with poles, an atonement lid, a curtain closing off the Most Holy Place, ¹³a table with its poles, to hold bread, utensils and special bread, ¹⁴a seven-branched lampstand with its utensils and individual lamps with olive oil for light, ¹⁵an altar of incense with its poles and sweet-smelling incense, the anointing oil, a curtain to close off the entrance to the Holy Place, ¹⁶the altar of sacrifice on which the offerings are burned, its bronze grate, poles and all its equipment, a laver to stand near it, ¹⁷a curtain around the courtyard with posts and bases, a curtain for the entrance into the courtyard, ¹⁸tent pegs and ropes for the Sanctuary and for its enclosure, ¹⁹and woven garments to be worn by those ministering in the Holy Place. These sacred garments are for Aaron the high priest and his sons who are to serve as priests.”

²⁰Moses dismissed the people and they went back to their tents to see what they could bring as an offering to the Lord. ²¹Everyone whose heart was moved and whose spirit was willing came and brought an offering. These gifts were used for the Sanctuary and to make garments for Aaron and his sons who would serve as priests. ²²So all who wanted to give, men and women, came and brought gold and all kinds of precious stones and jewelry such as pins, earrings, rings, necklaces and many other ornaments. They brought it all as a freewill offering to the Lord. ²³Those who had fine linen, or blue, purple or scarlet yarn, cloth of goats' hair, ram skins dyed red or fine leather gave it to the Lord. ²⁴Those who had silver or bronze brought what they had, and those who had acacia wood that could be used, brought it. ²⁵Women who were skilled brought finely woven linen, or blue, purple or scarlet yarn which they had spun by hand. ²⁶All the women who were skilled and wanted to help spun the goats' hair. ²⁷The leaders brought precious stones such as the onyx and other gems to be mounted on the holy vest and on the breastpiece. ²⁸The people also brought spices, oil for the lamps, together with anointing oil, and spices for sweet smelling incense. ²⁹All the men and women who wanted to help came eagerly and brought these offerings to the Lord for Moses to construct the Sanctuary.

Craftsmen Equipped by God

³⁰Then Moses said to the children of Israel, “The Lord has chosen Bezalel, the son of Uri from the tribe of Judah, ³¹to work on the Sanctuary. He has placed His Spirit on him and given him skill, ability and knowledge in all kinds of artistic work. ³²The Lord wants him to design things to be made out of gold, silver and bronze. ³³He wants him to cut and set precious stones, to carve wood and to use his artistic craftsmanship to help me make His Sanctuary. ³⁴The Lord has given both him and his assistant Oholiab, the son of Ahisamach from the tribe of Dan, the skill to teach others to do the same. ³⁵He has given them skill as craftsmen, designers, embroiderers and weavers of fine linen and yarn dyed blue, purple and scarlet. They will do this with the skill of trained designers and craftsman.”

36 Moses said, “This means Bezalel, Oholiab and all the other workmen to whom the Lord has given skills to make everything needed for the Sanctuary are to do it exactly as the Lord has commanded.”

Offerings More Than Enough

²So Moses called together Bezalel, Oholiab and all the others whose hearts were in the work to whom the Lord had given special skills and told them to begin. ³He gave them all the offerings that the children of Israel had brought to the Lord for making the Sanctuary, but the people continued to bring their offerings because they wanted to. ⁴Then the skilled workmen said to Moses, ⁵“The people are bringing more than is needed for the work which the Lord wants us to do.” ⁶So Moses told the people not to bring any more offerings because the workmen had all they needed to make the Sanctuary. The people did as Moses said and stopped bringing their offerings. ⁷What they had brought was more than enough to do the work.

Building the Sanctuary

⁸The most skilled workmen among them made the things directly connected with the Sanctuary. They made ten large curtains to drape over the Sanctuary. They made them out of finely woven white linen and embroidered them with figures of angels out of blue, purple and scarlet yarn. ⁹Each curtain was the same size, fifty-one feet long and seven feet wide. ¹⁰They sewed five of them together to make one set, then did the same with the other five to make another set. ¹¹They made loops out of blue cloth all along the edge of the end curtain in one set, then did the same for the other set. ¹²They made fifty loops for the end curtain of the one set and fifty loops for the end curtain of the other set. ¹³Then they made fifty gold clasps and used them to fasten the two sets of curtains together to make one huge piece.

¹⁴They made a roof covering for the Sanctuary out of eleven pieces of cloth made of spun goat hair. ¹⁵The pieces were all the same size, fifty-five feet long and seven feet wide. ¹⁶Then the workmen sewed the pieces together, five in one set and six in another. ¹⁷They put fifty loops along the edge of the last piece of one set and fifty loops along the edge of the first piece of the second set. ¹⁸Then they made fifty bronze hooks to hold the two sets together to make one huge piece. ¹⁹They also made two more roof coverings for the Sanctuary, one out of ram skins dyed red to go above the spun goat hair cover, and the other out of fine leather to serve as an outer cover.

²⁰Next they made hollow wall frames for the Sanctuary out of hard acacia wood. ²¹Each frame was eighteen feet high, thirty-three inches wide and twenty-two inches thick. ²²These hollow frames had solid bottoms with two pegs each for fitting tightly into two silver feet. All the frames were made the same way. ²³They made twenty frames with pegs for the south side of the Sanctuary, ²⁴and forty silver feet for the frames to sit on, two feet for each frame. ²⁵Then they made twenty frames for the north side of the Sanctuary, ²⁶and forty silver feet to hold those in place. ²⁷For the back of the Sanctuary, the west end, they made six frames, ²⁸and two special frames for the corners to overlap the frames on the sides. ²⁹These corner boards were made to overlap the side frames all the way to the top to give them extra strength; the same was done for both corners. ³⁰So they made a total of eight frames, six for the back wall and two extra for the corners, plus sixteen silver feet, two for each frame.

³¹They made fifteen thick rods of acacia wood, five for the frames along one side of the Sanctuary, ³²five along the other side, and five for the frames on the west end, the back of the Sanctuary. ³³The center crossbar went into one end of the frame extending to the other exactly half way up. This was done all along the line to hold the frames together. ³⁴Then they covered the frames with gold and made gold rings to hold the other four rods in place on the outside of the boards and covered them with gold.

³⁵Next, they made a curtain for the entrance into the Most Holy Place. They made it out of fine linen, then carefully embroidered it with the figures of winged angels from blue, purple and scarlet yarn. ³⁶They made four hollow posts of acacia wood, overlaid them with gold and put gold hooks on them to hold the curtain. Then they made four silver bases to hold the posts in place. ³⁷For the entrance into the Holy Place they made another curtain of fine linen, also skillfully embroidered with winged angels from blue, purple and scarlet yarn. ³⁸For this curtain they made five hollow posts with hooks. They overlaid the tops of the posts and their connecting rods with gold and made five bronze bases to hold the posts in place.

The Ark of the Covenant

37 Bezalel made the Ark of the Covenant for the Most Holy Place. He made it out of hard acacia wood, fifty-five inches long, thirty-three inches wide and thirty-three inches high. ²He overlaid the chest with pure gold, inside and out. Then he put gold molding around the top like a king's crown. ³He made four gold carrying rings and attached them near the bottom, with two rings on one side and two rings on the other side. ⁴He made two carrying poles out of acacia wood and covered them with gold. ⁵He inserted the poles at the bottom of the Ark from front to back so it could be easily carried. ⁶Then he made the atonement cover for the Ark out of solid gold. It was fifty-five inches long and thirty-three inches wide. ⁷He also made two cherubs of solid gold, each with four wings, for the ends of the cover. ⁸One angel was attached to one end of the cover and the other angel to the other end of the cover. He made the angels and the cover all as one piece. ⁹The angels were attached to the lid in such a way that they faced each other, and one wing of each was spread upward and outward to arch over the lid like a canopy.

The Table to Hold the Showbread

¹⁰Next, he made the table for the bread out of acacia wood. It was forty-four inches long, twenty-two inches wide and thirty-three inches high. ¹¹He covered it with pure gold, then put a gold crown around the top. ¹²He made a three-and-a-half inch rim around it and put gold molding around the frame. ¹³He made four gold rings to carry the table with and put them by the corners where the four legs were. ¹⁴The rings were attached to the table near the top. ¹⁵He made two poles out of acacia wood and also covered them with gold. ¹⁶Then he made plates out of solid gold to hold the bread. He also made the dishes, cups, bowls and pitchers out of pure gold to be used in connection with the service of the bread and drink offerings.

The Lampstand

¹⁷He made the seven-branched lampstand out of pure gold. He made its base and shaft, its six branches and its decorative flowers with their buds and petals and blossoms all as one piece. ¹⁸The six branches extended out from the shaft and swung upward so the tops were even with the top of the shaft. There were three branches on one side and three on the other side of the shaft. ¹⁹Each branch had three almond-shaped cups decorated with buds and blossoms. ²⁰The center shaft itself had four such almond-shaped cups with buds and blossoms. ²¹One such flower was under the first pair of branches extending from the shaft, the second flower under the second pair, the third flower under the third pair and the fourth flower near the top of the shaft. ²²The shaft, the three pairs of branches and the golden flowers were all made as one piece together with its base. The entire lampstand was hammered as one piece out of solid gold. ²³Then he made seven bowls to hold oil, plus wick trimmers and trays, all out of pure gold. ²⁴He used seventy-five pounds of pure gold according to the standard weight of the Sanctuary to make the seven-branched lampstand and its accessories.

The Altar of Incense

²⁵He also made the altar of incense out of acacia wood. It was twenty-two inches long, twenty-two inches wide and forty-four inches high. It had four horns, one for each of the corners, making one piece with the altar. ²⁶He overlaid the top, the four sides and the four horns with gold. He then put a gold crown molding around the top. ²⁷He made two gold carrying rings for each side, and attached them just below the crown molding to hold the poles that would carry it. ²⁸Then he made the poles out of acacia wood and overlaid them with gold.

The Oil and the Incense

²⁹And he made the sacred anointing oil and the pure sweet-smelling incense, as a perfumer makes perfume.

The Altar of Burnt Offering

38 Bezalel built the sacrificial altar for the courtyard on which to burn offerings. He made it out of acacia wood, nine feet long, nine feet wide and five-and-a-half feet high. ²He made four horns, one for each corner, to be one with the altar and then overlaid the altar and the horns with bronze. ³He also made all the utensils to be used for the altar out of bronze, as well as the pots, shovels, sprinkling bowls, meat hooks and fire pans. ⁴Then he made a grate out of heavy bronze with four carrying rings, and set it halfway down inside the altar. ⁵He also made four carrying rings, one for each of the four corners of the altar. ⁶He made two poles out of acacia wood with which to carry the altar and covered them with bronze. ⁷Then he inserted them into the rings on each side of the altar. The altar itself was made out of acacia wood, but it was overlaid with thick bronze and was hollow inside.

The Laver

⁸After that, he made the large bronze basin and its base out of polished bronze mirrors donated by a group of women who had dedicated themselves to the Lord and later served at the entrance to the Sanctuary.

The Courtyard

⁹Next, he made the curtain enclosure of the courtyard out of fine linen. On the south side of the Sanctuary the curtains measured one hundred and eighty feet. ¹⁰Then he made twenty hollow posts out of acacia wood, twenty bronze bases for them to sit on, and two silver hooks for each post, one on one side and one on the other. The silver hooks on the inside of the posts facing the courtyard were to hold the silver rods for the curtains and the silver hooks on the outside of the posts were for the ropes that went to the bronze stakes. ¹¹On the north and south side of the Sanctuary the curtains measured the same, one hundred and eighty feet long, and they had twenty posts, twenty bronze bases and silver hooks and rods. ¹²On the west end of the Sanctuary the curtains were ninety feet long with ten posts, ten bronze bases and silver hooks and rods. ¹³On the east end of the Sanctuary toward the rising sun, the enclosure was also ninety feet long. That's where the entrance was located. ¹⁴The curtains on one side of the entrance were twenty-seven feet long with three posts, three bronze bases and silver hooks and rods. ¹⁵On the other side of the entrance the curtains were also twenty-seven feet long with three posts, three bronze bases and silver hooks and rods. ¹⁶All the curtains making up the enclosure around the courtyard were made of fine white linen. ¹⁷The bases for all the posts were made out of bronze and all the hooks and rods were made out of silver. The crowns on all the posts were overlaid with silver and connected with silver rods. ¹⁸The curtains for the entrance were exquisitely embroidered and made of finely woven linen and yarn that was dyed blue, purple, or scarlet. The entrance was thirty-six feet wide and nine feet high, just as high as the curtains for the enclosure. ¹⁹It had four hollow posts with four bronze bases and silver hooks and rods, and the caps of the posts were overlaid with silver. This made a total of ten posts and bronze bases just like the west end of the courtyard. ²⁰The tent pegs supporting the posts of the courtyard were all made of bronze.

Materials Used for the Sanctuary

²¹This is the list of materials used in building the Sanctuary where the two tablets of stone were kept on which the Ten Commandments were written. These things were ordered by Moses and recorded by the Levites under the direction of Ithamar, the son of Aaron.²²Bezalel, the son of Uri and the grandson of Hur from the tribe of Judah, made everything the Lord commanded.²³His assistant was Oholiab, the son of Ahisamach from the tribe of Dan. He was a craftsman, designer and weaver, with skill to embroider the white linen curtains with blue, purple and scarlet yarn.

²⁴All the gold that the people brought to the Lord as a thank offering weighed two thousand, one hundred pounds, according to the standard weight of the Sanctuary.²⁵The silver given by those of the congregation who were counted in the census weighed seven thousand, five hundred and fifty pounds, according to the standard weight of the Sanctuary.

²⁶The silver was brought to the Lord by the men of Israel who registered for the census, each one paying his required amount. There were six hundred and three thousand, five hundred and fifty men counted in that census who were twenty years old and up.²⁷The seven thousand, five hundred pounds of silver were used to make the one hundred silver bases for the frames of the Sanctuary and the four posts that held the curtain going into the Most Holy Place. It took seventy-five pounds of silver for each base or a total of seven thousand, five hundred pounds.²⁸Bezalel used the remaining fifty pounds of silver to overlay the tops of the posts and to make the silver rods on which to hang the curtains and the silver hooks on which to lay the rods.

²⁹The bronze that the people brought to the Lord weighed nearly five thousand pounds, according to the standard weight of the Sanctuary.³⁰Bronze was used to make bases for the posts at the entrance of the Sanctuary, for the sacrificial altar on which the offerings were burned and for the grate and the utensils.³¹The bronze was also used to make bases for the posts holding the curtain around the courtyard and the curtain going into the Holy Place. All the tent pegs for the coverings of the Sanctuary and the posts surrounding the courtyard were also made of bronze.

The Priestly Garments

39 Then they used the finely woven white linen to make garments for the priests to wear as they ministered in the Holy Place. They also made garments for Aaron to wear as he ministered in the Holy Place and in the Most Holy Place. Some of the garments were embroidered with blue, purple and scarlet thread. All this was done just as the Lord had said.

The Ephod

²They also made the holy vest from fine linen, embroidered with blue, purple, scarlet and gold thread.³They did this by hammering out sheets of gold until they were extremely thin, then cutting threads from it to be worked into the blue, purple and scarlet colored embroidery of the holy vest.⁴They also made shoulder pieces which were fastened to the front and back panels of the holy vest.⁵The waistband was from the same material as the vest and made just as carefully. It was made of the blue, purple and scarlet fabric as the Lord had directed.⁶Then they mounted the onyx stones in gold settings and engraved them as an engraver does a seal. They engraved the stones with the names of the twelve sons of Jacob.⁷They fastened these stones to the shoulder pieces of the holy vest as memorial stones representing the twelve tribes of Israel, just as the Lord had said.

The Breastplate

⁸They then made a breastpiece out of the same material as the vest, embroidered with blue, purple and scarlet yarn. It was sewn with gold thread.⁹It was one foot long and one foot wide and looked like a pocket because it was doubled over.¹⁰Then they mounted four rows of precious stones on it. In the first row

there was a ruby, a topaz and a beryl;¹¹ in the second row, a turquoise, a sapphire and an emerald;¹² in the third row, a jacinth, an agate and an amethyst;¹³ and in the fourth row, a chrysolite, an onyx and a jasper. These were all mounted in gold settings.¹⁴ Each of the twelve stones had engraved on it the name of one of the sons of Jacob, representing the twelve tribes of Israel.¹⁵ Then they made two cords of gold, twisted to look like chains.¹⁶ They made two gold rings which were fastened to the two gold settings on the shoulder pieces and also two rings for the two upper corners of the breastpiece.¹⁷ Then they attached one end of the two gold cords to the two gold rings on the breastpiece,¹⁸ and the other end to the gold settings attached to the shoulder pieces of the vest. This let the breastpiece hang from the shoulders over the high priest's chest.¹⁹ They also made two gold rings for the lower corners of the breastpiece on the inside edge.²⁰ They made two more gold rings and attached one on each side of the vest just above the waistband.²¹ Then they tied the rings of the breastpiece to the rings on the vest with a blue cord to pull the breastpiece close to the chest just above the waistband. All this was in harmony with what the Lord had told Moses.

Additional Priestly Garments

²²Next, they made the calf-length robe that the high priest wore under the holy vest which was made without seams from one piece of blue cloth.²³ It had an opening for the head in the center of the robe and the opening was reinforced to keep it from tearing. The sleeves reached only to the elbows.²⁴ They made little balls like pomegranates out of blue, purple and scarlet yarn and attached them in alternate colors to the hem of the robe.²⁵ They also made little bells out of pure gold and attached them to the hem of the robe, one each between the pomegranates.²⁶ So the bells and the pomegranates alternated with each other all the way around the robe just as the Lord had said.

²⁷They also made long-sleeved robes of finely woven white linen for Aaron and his sons to wear when they served as priests.²⁸ They made flat white turbans for Aaron and his sons and also undergarments.²⁹ The sash or waistband for Aaron was made out of fine linen and embroidered with blue, purple and scarlet thread just as the Lord had told them.

³⁰Then they made a headband for Aaron out of pure gold and inscribed on it, "Holiness to the Lord," meaning that the people were wholly God's, separated fully to Him.³¹ They tied the headband on his forehead with a blue cord to sit across the front of the turban just as the Lord had said.

The Work Completed

³²So all the work on the Sanctuary was completed. The people did everything exactly as the Lord had instructed.³³ Then they brought everything they had made to Moses, all the items for the Sanctuary: the posts with their bases, the hooks, the frames and the crossbars;³⁴ the three roof coverings made of goats' hair, ram skins dyed red and fine leather; as well as the curtains for the ceiling and the entrance into the Most Holy Place.

³⁵They also brought the Ark of the Covenant which would hold the two tablets of stone and its atonement cover;³⁶ the table for the bread with all its utensils, including the bread of the Presence;³⁷ the lampstand with its seven branches made out of pure gold, together with its accessories and oil;³⁸ the gold altar with its incense and anointing oil, the curtains for the entrance into the Holy Place;³⁹ the bronze altar with its bronze grating, its carrying poles and all the equipment needed to offer sacrifices, the large wash basin with its base;⁴⁰ the curtains for the enclosure with the posts and their bases, the special curtains for the entrance to the courtyard, the tent pegs and all the other equipment needed to set up the Sanctuary.

⁴¹Last, they brought the woven garments for the priests, both the sacred garments for Aaron the high priest and those for his sons. ⁴²The people had done all the work just as the Lord had commanded. ⁴³When they brought it to Moses, he carefully inspected everything and observed that they had made it just as the Lord had said. Then Moses praised the people for what they had done and blessed them.

The Sanctuary Tent Erected

40 Then the Lord spoke to Moses, ²“Pitch the Sanctuary tent on the first day of the first month of the new year. ³After it’s pitched, place the Ark of the Covenant inside the Most Holy Place, then shield it from view with the curtain. ⁴Next, bring in the table for holding the sacred bread and set out everything that goes with it. Then bring in the lampstand and start the lamps burning. ⁵Bring in the altar of incense and set it in the Holy Place in front of the curtain that shields the Most Holy Place. ⁶Set the altar for burnt offerings in the courtyard. ⁷Place the wash basin between the Sanctuary and the altar and fill the basin with water.

the sacred oil and dedicate him to my service. ¹⁴Next bring in Aaron’s sons, wash their feet and hands, and then put on them the priestly robes. ¹⁵Anoint them just as you anointed Aaron and dedicate them to my service.”

¹⁶Moses did everything the Lord told him to do. ¹⁷So the Sanctuary was set up and anointed on the first day of the first month in the second year after the children of Israel came out of Egypt. ¹⁸Moses did everything the Lord had told him. He set up the silver bases, erected the frames, put the crossbars in place and the posts to hold the curtain for the Most Holy Place. ¹⁹He put the coverings over the Sanctuary just as the Lord had told him. ²⁰He took the two tablets of stone and placed them carefully inside the Ark of the Covenant. He put the carrying poles into the rings attached to the Ark and then added the atonement lid with the cherubim on top of it.

²¹He brought the Ark into the Most Holy Place and hung the curtain to shield it from view just as the Lord had directed. ²²He brought the table for the bread into the Holy Place and set it against the north wall this side of the curtain which shielded the Most Holy Place. ²³He laid out the bread in the order the Lord had told him. ²⁴He brought the lampstand with its seven branches into the Holy Place and set it against the south wall. ²⁵He lit the seven lamps just as the Lord had commanded. ²⁶He brought the altar of incense into the Holy Place and set it in front of the curtain shielding the Most Holy Place. ²⁷He burned sweet-smelling incense on it as the Lord had directed. ²⁸He hung up the curtain at the entrance to the Sanctuary. ²⁹He set the altar of sacrifice in the courtyard and offered burnt offerings and grain offerings on it just as the Lord had said. ³⁰He set the wash basin in place between the altar and the Sanctuary and put water in it for the ritual washing. ³¹This is the basin that Moses and Aaron and his sons used to wash their hands and feet. ³²They would do this whenever they entered the Sanctuary or approached the altar of sacrifice just as the Lord had told them to do. ³³Moses also set up the enclosure of the courtyard around the Sanctuary and hung the curtains at the entrance. So the Sanctuary was finished and set up just as the Lord had said it should be.

The Glory of the Lord

³⁴Then the cloud of the Lord came down and covered the tent and the glory of His presence filled the Sanctuary. ³⁵The glory of His presence was so blinding that Moses couldn't even enter the Sanctuary, because of its brilliance. ³⁶Whenever the cloud lifted from the Sanctuary, the people broke camp and followed the cloud. ³⁷But if the cloud did not lift and move on, the people stayed where they were. ³⁸During all their time in the wilderness they could always look up and see the cloud of the Lord's presence over the Sanctuary by day and the fire of His presence by night.

LEVITICUS

The Burnt Offering

1 At first God spoke to Moses from the mountain, but afterward He spoke to him from the cloud that filled the Sanctuary. He told Moses ²to say to the children of Israel: "When you bring an offering to the Lord, it should be an offering of an animal from your own herds or flocks." (There were three major offerings: The whole burnt offering, acknowledging one's sinful nature and total dependence on the Lord for salvation; the sin or trespass offering, confessing specific sins against either God or man; and the peace or fellowship offering, expressing gratitude to God for reconciliation and being at peace with all men. The burnt and peace offerings were always accompanied by grain, salt, olive oil and fermented wine.)

³The Lord said, "If a man volunteers to offer a burnt offering from his cattle, it must be a young bull without defect. He is to bring this animal to the entrance of the Sanctuary. The priest will meet him there, and examine the animal to see if it is without blemish. If he approves, he will invite the man to come into the courtyard. ⁴The priest will then ask the man to lay his hands on the head of the animal. While leaning on the animal, transferring his guilt and that of his family on its head, he is to face the Sanctuary and silently confess his sins to me. The animal will be accepted as a substitute, a stand-in, for him. ⁵To help the man realize that sin brings death, the priest will give him a knife to slit the animal's throat. The priest is to catch some of the blood and sprinkle it against the sides of the altar of sacrifice which is near the courtyard entrance. Only a priest is to apply the sacrificial blood. All this will help the man understand the result of sin and that forgiveness can be granted only by confession and the ministrations of blood. ⁶Then the man should skin the animal and divide its body into its natural parts. ⁷The priest is to carefully arrange the wood on the altar. (The wood must be solid, without decay.) Then he is to start a fire from coals that are already smoldering there. ⁸He shall salt the head, legs, internal organs and fat of the animal, then arrange them in their natural order on the logs. ⁹The man shall sever the legs of the animal and wash them together with the internal organs with water from the laver, dry them, then give them to the priest who will put them in their proper order on the altar as they were when the animal was alive. This offering is called the whole burnt offering because it is a sign of a man's total dedication to me. It is the kind of dedication that pleases me.

¹⁴"If the man has nothing to bring but a bird for a whole burnt offering, it must be a dove or a young pigeon. ¹⁵The man is to give the bird to the priest who will take it up to the altar, quickly pinch off its head, drain out the blood against the side of the altar, then throw its head on the fire to burn. ¹⁶Before he places its body on the altar, he is to pluck off its feathers and leave them on the east side of the altar where the ashes are. ¹⁷He should take hold of the wings in such a way as to tear its body open without tearing off the wings; then he is to place it on the fire to burn. This sacrifice will be accepted as a burnt offering, just as the bull calf, the sheep or the goat are. It will be considered a sign of complete dedication, which greatly pleases me.”

The Grain Offering

2 The Lord continued, “When someone brings a grain offering it should be made from very fine flour, together with salt and olive oil, and sprinkled with sweet herbs. ²He must bring it to the priest who will take a handful of the fine flour with its mixture of oil, salt and sweet herbs and pour the drink offering of the juice of grapes on it. Then it must be burned up on the altar as a sign of heartfelt appreciation for the Lord’s material blessings. ³The rest of the grain offering belongs to the priest. It is most holy because it is part of the offering which was brought to me.

⁴If the worshiper chooses to bake the grain offering, he must prepare a mixture of flour, water, oil and salt, but without yeast, and press it into flat loaves. Or, if he chooses, he may make wafers without yeast and pour oil over them. ⁵If he fries it in a skillet, it must be made with olive oil, but without yeast. ⁶He is to break it up, pour a little oil over it and take it to the priest as an offering. ⁷If he decides to cook it in a pan, it must be made from fine flour, water, olive oil and salt. ⁸Whether the flour is baked or cooked, it should be given to the priest who will bring it before me at the altar. ⁹He will take a part of the grain offering as a reminder of my ownership, and burn it on the altar as a sweet fragrance of gratitude, which is pleasing to me. ¹⁰The rest of the grain offering should be given to the officiating priest and his family. It is most holy because it is part of the man’s dedication offering.

¹¹“Every such grain offering brought to me must be made without yeast or honey if it is to be burned on the altar. ¹²You can bring it to me as part of the offerings of the firstfruits of your harvest, but it is not part of the offering burned on the altar. ¹³All grain offerings are to be seasoned with salt, a preservative. The salt is a symbol of the covenant I have made with you which is to last forever.

¹⁴“If the offering is made from the first grain that is harvested, it should be crushed and roasted in the fire before you bring it to me. ¹⁵After it’s roasted, put olive oil, salt and sweet smelling herbs on it. ¹⁶The priest will take the remaining portion of the grain offering, sprinkle it with incense and burn it on the altar to acknowledge my ownership.”

The Peace or Fellowship Offering

3 Another major offering the people were to bring to the Lord was the peace and fellowship offering, followed by a sacred meal with family and friends, during which they were to share their testimonies and praises to God. God said, “When a man decides to bring a peace offering to me, he may bring a calf, either male or female, but it must be without defect. ²He is to take it to the Sanctuary and when invited into the courtyard, he is to lay both his hands on the animal’s head and enumerate all the blessings he has received from me. Then he is to kill the animal according to the instructions I have given you before. The priest will catch some of the blood and sprinkle it on the four sides of the altar. ³He shall take the fat from the inner organs of the animal to the altar to be part of the sacrifice made to me by fire. ⁴He will take the kidneys with their fat and the fatty part of the liver to the altar to be burned. ⁵These shall be offered together with the whole burnt offering as a sign that the worshiper is dedicating himself to me and is at peace with God and man. All this should burn on the altar as one offering.

may bring either male or female, but it must be without defect. ⁷If he chooses a lamb, he must bring it to the Sanctuary to be offered just as he would a calf. ⁸He should lay both hands on the animal's head, enumerate the blessings he has received from me, and then kill it in the courtyard just north of the entrance to the Sanctuary. The priest will catch some of the blood and sprinkle it against the four sides of the altar. ⁹The offering must include the fatty tail of the lamb removed close to its body and the fat in and around the internal organs, ¹⁰both kidneys with their fat and the fatty part of the liver. All these should be brought to me. ¹¹The priest will offer these to me by burning them on the altar as he does the grain offering.

¹²"If a man chooses to bring a goat as a peace offering, ¹³he should bring it into the courtyard to the north side of the Sanctuary entrance. There he shall lay both his hands on the animal's head and enumerate the blessings he has received from me. Then he must kill the animal. The priest will catch some of the blood and sprinkle it on all four sides of the altar, ¹⁴and he will take the fat of the animal, which is part of the offering, such as the fat covering the internal organs and around the intestines, ¹⁵the kidneys with their fat and the fatty part of the liver and bring them to me. ¹⁶He should burn these parts on the altar just as he does the grain offering. All the fat belongs to the Lord. ¹⁷No Israelite shall eat fat or blood. This is to be a perpetual ordinance throughout your generations no matter where you live."

4 Still another major offering was the sin or trespass offering for the confession and forgiveness of all types of sins. These sins were then recorded with the blood of the sacrifice as forgiven sins. The Lord continued instructing Moses, saying, ²"If anyone sins thoughtlessly, either through ignorance or negligence of my law and breaks one of my commandments, the following instructions will help him know what to do. ³If the high priest sins, he has brought guilt on himself and symbolically on the whole nation. He is to bring to the Lord a young bull without defect and offer the animal as an atonement for his sin. ⁴He should bring it into the courtyard, north of the entrance to the Sanctuary. Facing the Sanctuary, he is to lay his hands on the calf's head, lean on it and silently confess his sin. Then he should slit the throat of the young bull, ⁵catch its blood and carry it into the Sanctuary. He is not to eat of the sacrifice, for he cannot bear his own sins. ⁶He will dip a finger into the blood and sprinkle it seven times in front of the curtain at the entrance to the Most Holy Place, ⁷and smear some of the blood on the four horns of the altar of incense that stands in front of that curtain. The rest of the blood he should pour at the foot of the altar of sacrifice in the courtyard. ⁸Then he shall remove all the fat from the internal organs of the animal, ⁹including both kidneys with the fat around them and the fatty part of the liver. ¹⁰He should remove the fat the same way it's removed from the young bull of the peace offering. He will offer this sacrifice for himself and the nation and the guilt of both will be recorded as forgiven. ¹¹The hide of the young bull and all its flesh, as well as its head and legs and inner organs— ¹²all the rest of the young bull—is to be taken outside the camp to a ceremonially clean place where the sacrificial ashes from the altar are dumped. He will burn the body of the animal with a wood fire on the ash heap.

¹³"If the nation as a whole sins thoughtlessly, either through ignorance or negligence of my law and breaks one of my commandments, the people are guilty. ¹⁴When this sin is pointed out to them and they realize what they have done, the leaders shall bring a young bull as a sin offering into the courtyard. ¹⁵The elders will take turns placing their hands on the animal's head, leaning on it and then one of them is to sacrifice the animal. ¹⁶The high priest will catch some of the blood and take it into the Sanctuary. ¹⁷He will dip his finger into the blood and sprinkle it seven times in front of the curtain that veils the Most Holy Place. ¹⁸He is also to smear some of the blood on the four horns of the altar of incense that stands in front of that curtain. The rest of the blood should be poured out at the foot of the altar of sacrifice in the courtyard. ¹⁹He should then remove all fat from inside the animal, the kidneys and their fat and the fatty part of the liver, and burn them on the altar.

²⁰“He is to sacrifice this young bull the same way he would for his own sins. In both cases the animal should be sacrificed as a sin offering. It is a sacrifice made to the Lord for the sin of the nation and their sin will be recorded as forgiven. ²¹Then he should carry the young bull outside the camp and burn it in a ceremonially clean place just as he would do with the young bull that he brought for his own sin, the only difference being that this is a sin offering for the whole nation.

²²“When the head of a tribe or the head of a division of a tribe sins thoughtlessly, either through ignorance or negligence, he is guilty. ²³As soon as his sin is pointed out and he realizes what he has done, he should bring a male goat without defect as a sin offering to me. ²⁴The ruler or chief must bring it into the courtyard, lay both his hands on its head, lean on it, confess his sin, then kill the animal where the animals for the whole burnt offerings are killed. This is an offering to remove guilt. ²⁵The priest will catch some of the blood, dip a finger in it, smear it on the four horns of the altar of sacrifice there in the courtyard, then pour the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar of burnt offering. ²⁶Then he shall remove all the fat and burn it on the altar just as he burns the fat of the animal brought as a peace offering. This way the priest will make atonement for the sin of the official and his sin shall be recorded as forgiven.

²⁷“If one of the original inhabitants of the land who has chosen to worship me sins thoughtlessly, either through ignorance or neglect of my law, and breaks one of my commandments, he is guilty. ²⁸When his sin is pointed out and he realizes what he has done, he is to bring a female goat without defect to me as an offering. ²⁹He should bring it into the courtyard, lay his hands on its head, lean on it, and by confession and faith in me, transfer his sin to the animal. Then he must sacrifice it where the animals for the whole burnt offerings are killed. ³⁰The priest will catch some of the blood, dip a finger in it, smear it on the four horns of the altar of sacrifice there in the courtyard, then pour the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar. ³¹Then he will remove all the goat's fat and burn it on the altar just as he burns the fat of the animals brought as peace offerings. This way the priest will make atonement for the man's sins, and they shall be recorded as forgiven.

5 These are the things for which a sin offering must be made. The Lord said, “If a person is ordered to testify in court but refuses to tell what he has seen or what he knows, he is guilty of sin and is subject to punishment. ²If someone touches anything ritually unclean such as the carcass of an unclean wild or domestic animal, or the carcass of an unclean animal that crawls on the ground, whether he does so intentionally or not, he is ritually unclean and guilty. ³If someone touches anything that would make him ritually unclean from another person, whether he does so intentionally or not, he is ritually unclean. If he does it ignorantly, as soon as he realizes that what he did was wrong, he becomes guilty. ⁴If someone thoughtlessly makes a rash vow to do something or to refrain from doing certain things and breaks that vow, as soon as he realizes what he has done, he is guilty. ⁵Anyone who is guilty of any of these things must confess that sin. ⁶Then he should bring a female lamb or goat from the flock as an offering to me. The priest is to offer the animal as a sacrifice for the man's sin.

⁷"If a man can't afford a lamb or a goat, he is to bring two doves or two young pigeons, one as a sin offering and the other as a whole burnt offering. ⁸He should take them to the priest who will offer the sin offering first. The priest will take a dove or a pigeon and quickly pinch its neck without pulling off its head, ⁹then sprinkle some of its blood on the side of the altar and squeeze the rest of the blood out against the foot of the altar. This is the offering for the man's sin. ¹⁰Then he will offer the second dove or pigeon as a whole burnt offering to complete the atonement ritual and the man's sin will be recorded as forgiven.

¹¹"If a person can't afford two doves or two young pigeons, he is to bring two pounds of fine flour as a sin offering. He should not put any olive oil or sweet herbs on it, because it is a sin offering, not a grain offering. ¹²He shall bring this flour to the priest, who will take a handful of it as a memorial portion of the offering, then burn it on the altar with the other sin offerings, because it has been brought to me as an offering for sin. ¹³This way the priest will make an atonement for the man and his sin shall be recorded as forgiven. The rest of the flour belongs to the priest, just like the regular grain offering."

Restitution

¹⁴The Lord also said to Moses, ¹⁵"If anyone sins by choosing to remain ignorant of my law and withholds or pays less than was due to me in tithes, firstfruits, or anything else that is holy, he is guilty. When he realizes that what he did was wrong, he shall bring a ram from the flock, one of value without defects, as a sin offering to me. The animal's value will be determined according to the standard set by the Sanctuary. If the man brings the equivalent in money, it is considered a sin offering because he has sinned against me. ¹⁶He shall return to me what he failed to give, plus twenty percent. He must give it to the priest and the priest will make an atonement for him with the ram that he brought. Then the man's sin will be recorded as forgiven.

¹⁷"If anyone breaks any of my commandments by choosing to remain ignorant of my law, he is still guilty. ¹⁸When this is pointed out to him, and he realizes that what he did was wrong, he is to confess that sin. Then he is to bring a ram without defects to the priest, or the equivalent value in silver. The priest is to offer this sheep as a sacrifice to make atonement for the man's willful ignorance and his sin will be recorded as forgiven. ¹⁹It is a sin offering to cover the guilt of his trespass."

6 Next the Lord talked about things knowingly done, for which a sin offering must be made. ²"If a person deceives his neighbor about what happened to something he was taking care of for his neighbor, deceives him about a deposit or pledge, lies about a promise he made to him, steals from him or cheats him,³ if a person finds something that was lost and doesn't return it but lies about it, then swears he told the truth, or if he does anything such as that,⁴ he has sinned against God and against the owner. He shall return what he took by manipulation, what the neighbor left in his care, the lost property he found which wasn't his, what he stole,⁵ or anything else that he received through swearing falsely. He must confess what he has done and pay the full price plus twenty percent. He should return what he took as soon as he is convicted of his guilt, giving it back to the owner before coming to the Sanctuary with his offering.⁶ He should bring a ram without defect as a sin offering to me. In cases of dispute over the value of the restitution, the priest will estimate the damages.⁷ He will offer the animal as a sacrifice for the man's sin against his neighbor, which is a sin against the Lord, and what he did will be recorded as forgiven."

The Law of Offerings

of fine flour with oil mixed in it, together with sweet smelling herbs and hold it up as a memory offering from the worshiper before burning it on the altar where the whole burnt offering is smoldering. The fragrance from the smoke will please me because it represents the faithfulness of my people.¹⁶The rest of the grain offering is for the priests, Aaron and his sons, to eat. They will make it into unleavened bread and eat it only in the courtyard of the Sanctuary.¹⁷This bread should be made without yeast. I have given them a portion of this offering. It is most holy just like the sin offering and the peace offering.¹⁸Any male descendant of Aaron may eat it. It is the priest's share of the grain offering brought to me and burned by fire. Anything that touches it is to be considered holy."

¹⁹Then the Lord gave additional instructions on Aaron's anointing as high priest.²⁰He said, "Each priest is to bring two pounds of flour for a grain offering to me, one quart in the morning and one in the evening.²¹It must be well mixed with olive oil and water and baked on a grid-dle. The grain offering should then be broken in pieces and offered to me.²²This shall be done by every one of Aaron's descendants when they're anointed as high priests. The grain offering shall be completely burned as a sacrifice made to me. It is a perpetual offering.²³No part of the grain offering that a priest brings to me on the day of his dedication is to be eaten. It should be burned completely as an offering that is most holy."

²⁴The Lord continued,²⁵"Tell Aaron and his sons that when they accept a sin offering from the people, the animal should be killed in the courtyard where the whole burnt offerings are killed. These offerings are most holy.²⁶A portion of it should be eaten in the courtyard of the Sanctuary by the priest who offers it.²⁷No one is to touch these offerings except those who are called to do so. The clothes that are spattered with the animal's blood are to be washed in a place that is ritually holy.

²⁸"If the portion of the offering belonging to the priest is cooked in a clay pot, that pot must be broken afterwards. If it is cooked in a bronze pot, the pot must be thoroughly scrubbed and carefully rinsed with water. ²⁹Any male of the priest's family may eat of this offering, but they are to remember that it is a portion of a most holy offering made to me. ³⁰No portion of the sin offering should be eaten if any of its blood is to be used for atonement in the Holy Place. It must be completely consumed by fire."

7 "These are the regulations for the priests to follow when they sacrifice an animal as a sin offering. This is an offering that is most holy. ²The animal brought shall be killed where animals for the whole burnt offerings are killed, and its blood shall be sprinkled against all four sides of the altar. ³The animal's fat must be removed and offered on the altar, including its fatty tail, the fat covering the intestines, ⁴both kidneys with the fat around them and the fatty part of the liver which shall be removed with the kidneys. ⁵The priest will burn all the fat on the altar as an offering made to me by fire. It is a part of the sin offering. ⁶All the priests may eat from the sin offering, but it must be eaten in a holy place, for it is most holy. ⁷The regulations for carrying out the sin offering are the same as for the trespass offering. A portion of the animal's meat will always go to the priest who offered it. ⁸The priest may keep the hide of the animal that is brought to me as a whole burnt offering, but not the hide of the animal brought as a sin offering.

¹¹"There are also regulations for sacrificing an animal as a peace or fellowship offering. ¹²When a man brings an animal for a peace offering for a vow or because he's thankful, he shall also bring with it either bread made with oil and without yeast, wafers made without yeast and spread with oil, or cakes made of fine flour mixed in oil. ¹³With the peace offering you may bring bread made with yeast. ¹⁴One portion of bread from each offering must be given to the priest who will wave it before the altar of burnt offering and in this way offer it to me. It will then belong to the priest who will offer the animal and sprinkle its blood. ¹⁵If the peace offering is one of thanksgiving, the portion of the meat of the animal that the priest takes must be no more than can be eaten that day. Nothing must be left over and kept for the next day. ¹⁶If a man brings a peace offering as a vow or a freewill offering, the portion of the meat of the animal that the priest takes should be eaten the same day, but if some is left over, it may be eaten the next day. ¹⁷If any meat is left until the third day, it must be burned up. ¹⁸If any of it is eaten on the third day, the offering will not be credited to the man who brought it, and those who eat of it will be held responsible for what they have done.

¹⁹"If the meat taken by the priest from the offering touches anything ritually unclean, it must not be eaten; it must be burned. The meat from the offering that has not touched anything unclean may be eaten by anyone who is clean. ²⁰If anyone who is ritually unclean eats it, he will be cut off from the rights and privileges of the people with no share in the blessings of the covenant. ²¹If anyone touches anything ritually unclean, whether a man or an animal or anything else, and then eats the meat from the peace or fellowship offering at the sacred meal that follows, he must be separated from the people."

of Israel shall not eat any fat from cattle, sheep or goats. ²⁴Fat from an animal found dead or torn by wild animals may be used for other purposes, but it must not be eaten. ²⁵Anyone who eats the fat from an animal that is offered as a peace offering to me will lose the rights and privileges of an Israelite and will have no share in the covenant. ²⁶No blood of any bird or animal shall be baked or eaten by an Israelite, no matter where he lives. ²⁷Anyone who eats or drinks blood must be separated from my people."

The Priestly Portion

²⁸Then the Lord said to Moses, ²⁹"Whoever brings a peace or fellowship offering to me shall think of it as a special gift. ³⁰He should bring the offering to the Sanctuary himself. The whole sacrifice shall be presented to me, but the fat of the animal with its breast will be brought to the altar. ³¹The fat is to be burned. The breast should be waved before me, but it is for Aaron and his sons. ³²The right thigh from your peace offerings is for the priest. He will wave it up and down before me and then it will be his. ³³The priest who offers the blood and fat of the animal to me on behalf of the man is to be given the right thigh. ³⁴I have taken both the breast and the right thigh of the peace offering from the children of Israel and given them to the priests. ³⁵This part of the offering will belong to Aaron and his sons from the day they are dedicated and set apart as priests. ³⁶On the day of their dedication I will give the priests this part of the offering, and this shall be the standard practice in Israel for generations to come."

³⁷So these are the rules for the whole burnt offerings, the peace offerings, and the sin offerings with their accompanying grain offerings, as well as the offering for the ordination of the priests. ³⁸The Lord gave all these instructions to Moses on Mount Sinai when the children of Israel were still in the wilderness, so the people and priests would know what to do when they brought Him their offerings.

Aaron and His Sons Anointed

8 The Lord continued, ²"Bring Aaron and his sons into the courtyard at the entrance of the Sanctuary. Also bring the priestly garments with you, the anointing oil, a young bull for a sin offering, two rams and a basket of bread made without yeast. ³Then tell the people to come to the entrance of the courtyard." ⁴Moses did what the Lord had said, and when the people assembled at the entrance of the courtyard, ⁵he said to them, "What you're about to witness is what the Lord has told us to do."

⁶Moses had instructed Aaron and his sons not to wear their priestly garments. He had them come into the courtyard and he washed their hands and feet. ⁷He put a white linen robe with long sleeves on Aaron and tied it with the white linen sash. He put the sleeveless blue tunic on him and the embroidered holy vest over that, tying it close to him with the blue, purple and scarlet waistband made of the same material. ⁸Then he put the breastpiece on him with its twelve precious stones and the Urim and Thummim. ⁹Last of all he put the white turban on Aaron's head and positioned the golden nameplate on his forehead as a sign of dedication to the Lord and tied it in place just as the Lord had said to do.

¹⁰When this was done, Moses took the anointing oil and anointed the two rooms of the Sanctuary, the courtyard and everything that was in it. ¹¹He took the oil and sprinkled it seven times on the altar, on its utensils and on the water basin and its stand, dedicating them to the service of the Lord. ¹²Then he poured the anointing oil on Aaron's head, setting him apart for the service of the Lord. ¹³Next Moses asked the sons of Aaron to come forward and he put long-sleeved white linen robes on them, tied sashes around their waists, then put the priestly turbans on their heads just as the Lord had said to do.

¹⁴After that, he brought in the young bull for a sin offering and asked Aaron and each of his sons to lay their hands on the head of the animal. ¹⁵Then he killed the young bull and caught some of its blood and with his finger smeared some of it on the horns of the altar of sacrifice dedicating it to the Lord. The rest of the blood he poured out at the foot of the altar. By doing this he set them apart for the service of the Lord. ¹⁶He took the fat from the internal organs of the animal, both kidneys with the fat around them, and the fatty part of the liver and burned it on the altar. ¹⁷The rest of the bull—its skin, meat and intestines—he took outside the camp and burned just as the Lord had told him to do.

¹⁸He brought one of the rams into the courtyard to sacrifice as a whole burnt offering, and again he asked Aaron and each of his sons to lay their hands on its head. ¹⁹He killed the ram, caught some of its blood and sprinkled it on all four sides of the altar. ²⁰Then he cut the ram in pieces and burned the head, the pieces and the fat on the altar. ²¹He washed its internal organs and hind legs with water and made sure that the whole ram was burned on the altar. This pleased the Lord, for it was an offering made by fire, just as Moses had been told.

²²Moses brought the second ram into the courtyard, the one to be sacrificed for the dedication of Aaron and his sons, and they each laid their hands on its head. ²³Moses killed the ram, caught some of its blood, and with his finger smeared some of it on the lobe of Aaron's right ear, on the thumb of his right hand and on the big toe of his right foot. ²⁴He also brought Aaron's sons forward and put some of the blood on the lobes of their right ears, on the thumbs of their right hands and on the big toes of their right feet. Then he sprinkled the rest of the blood on all four sides of the altar. ²⁵He took the fat of the ram, its fatty tail, the fat from the inward organs, the kidneys and the fat around them, the fatty part of the liver and the thigh of the right leg. ²⁶He also took from the basket

a loaf of bread made without yeast, one cake made without yeast and a wafer smeared with oil, together with the fat from the right thigh. ²⁷Moses placed all of these in the hands of Aaron and his sons and they waved them up and down and back and forth before the Lord. ²⁸Then Moses took them from their hands and put them on the altar and burned them with the whole burnt offering as a sign of complete dedication of the priests to the Lord. This was an offering made by fire and it greatly pleased the Lord. ²⁹Moses took the breast of the ram and waved it before the Lord. This part was for him, according to the command of the Lord.

³²Take any meat and bread that is left over and burn it on the altar. ³³Don't leave the courtyard of the Sanctuary for the next seven days. It will take seven days to do all that needs to be done for your ordination. ³⁴Today we have done what the Lord requires of us; we have made atonement to cover your sins. ³⁵So you and your sons are to stay here for the next seven days and seven nights and give yourselves to study and prayer. Then each day we'll do what the Lord wants us to do. If you leave the courtyard of the Sanctuary, you will die. This is what the Lord told me to tell you." ³⁶So Aaron and his sons stayed in the courtyard seven days and seven nights and did everything the Lord asked them through Moses to do.

The Priestly Ministry

9 On the eighth day, the day after the ordination of Aaron and his sons to the priesthood, Moses called them and the leaders of Israel together ²and said to Aaron, "Take a young bull for a sin offering and a ram for a whole burnt offering—both must be without defect—and offer them to the Lord. ³Tell the leaders to bring a male goat for a sin offering, a year-old calf and a year-old lamb, all without defect, for a whole burnt offering, ⁴and a young bull and a ram for a peace or fellowship offering. They are to sacrifice these animals to the Lord together with a grain offering mixed with oil. (Later, when they reached Canaan, they were told to add a drink offering.) They are to do this because today you are to see the glory of the Lord. Today is the day the Lord will appear in the midst of Israel." ⁵So the leaders of Israel brought everything to the Sanctuary that Moses through Aaron had asked them to bring. The people also came and stood before the Lord. ⁶Moses said to the leaders, "The Lord has asked you to do all this so He can come in our midst and appear to us in the dazzling light of His presence." ⁷Then he turned to Aaron and his sons who were now anointed as priests and said, "First, sacrifice the animals for the sin offering and the whole burnt offering that you brought for yourselves, then take the animals that the leaders brought and offer them to the Lord."

⁸So Aaron placed his hands on the head of the calf and silently confessed his sins. He then killed the calf as a sin offering for himself. ⁹His sons caught the blood, then he dipped his finger in it, smeared some of it on each of the four horns of the altar and poured the rest of it at the base of the altar. ¹⁰Next he burned the fat of the animal, its kidneys and their fat and the fatty part of the liver, just as the Lord had said. ¹¹But the rest of the animal, as well as the hide, he burned outside the camp.

¹²Then he killed the ram as a whole

burnt offering for himself. Again his sons caught the blood, but this time he sprinkled it on the four sides of the altar. ¹³They then handed him the pieces of the burnt offering, including the head, which he burned on the altar. ¹⁴He washed the internal organs and the legs of the ram, put them on top of the other pieces and burned them also.

¹⁵Having finished offering the sacrifice for himself exactly as Moses had instructed him, Aaron took the goat that the leaders of the people had brought to the Lord for a sin offering. He killed it and then offered it the same way he had offered his own sin offering. ¹⁶He also took the whole burnt offerings the leaders of the people had brought and offered them to the Lord in the same way he had presented his own whole burnt offering. ¹⁷Then he brought the grain offering, took a handful of it and burned it on the altar in connection with the whole burnt offering.

¹⁸He also killed the young bull and the ram the leaders had brought for a peace offering. His sons caught the blood, and he sprinkled it on the four sides of the altar. ¹⁹The fat of the young bull and the ram, including the fat tail, the kidneys and their fat and the covering of the liver of both animals, ²⁰he put on top of the breasts and carried it all to the altar where only the fat was to be burned. ²¹The breasts and the right thigh of the animals he waved as a special gift before the Lord as Moses had told him.

²²When Aaron finished his work, he turned to the people, raised his hands and blessed them. Then he stepped down from the platform around the altar because the sacrifices were finished. ²³Moses and Aaron went into the Sanctuary and when they came out, they both blessed the people. And the Lord appeared in a dazzling light above the Sanctuary to show His pleasure over everything that had been done. ²⁴Suddenly fire came out from the dazzling light and consumed the whole burnt offering and the fatty parts on the altar. When the people saw this, they stood in awe! Then they gave a shout of joy, fell on their knees and bowed with their faces to the ground.

Nadab and Abihu Offer Strange Fire

10 When time came for Aaron's two sons, Nadab and Abihu, to officiate at the Sanctuary, they took their censers and, under the influence of wine, put ordinary fire in them instead of fire from the altar. Then they walked toward the entrance of the Holy Place to go into the Sanctuary to minister before the Lord. ²Suddenly fire came out from the presence of the Lord and struck them, and they died before the Lord in the sight of the people. ³Moses then said to Aaron, "This is what the Lord meant when He said, 'All who minister before me need to know that I am holy. I will be glorified and honored in the sight of my people.'" Aaron listened to Moses, but said nothing.

⁴Moses called Mishael and Elzaphan, the sons of Uzziel, Aaron's uncle, and said to them, "Come and carry the bodies of your cousins outside the camp away from the Sanctuary." ⁵They carried out the bodies of Aaron's sons, still dressed in their priestly garments. ⁶Then Moses turned to Aaron and his sons Eleazar and Ithamar and said, "Don't let your hair fly loose or uncover your heads in mourning, and don't tear your clothes in grief; otherwise, the Lord will destroy you too, and the whole community will suffer. Let your relatives and the people of Israel mourn over those the Lord has destroyed. ⁷Don't leave the courtyard of the Sanctuary and interrupt God's services or you, too, will die, because the Lord appointed you to His service." So they dutifully carried on their ministry.

Alcohol Forbidden

⁸The Lord said to Aaron, ⁹"You and your sons are not to drink wine or any kind of alcoholic beverage when you come into my Sanctuary to serve me or you will die. This is a standing order for all generations to come. ¹⁰You need to know the difference between what is holy and what is not holy, between what is right and what is wrong. ¹¹You and your sons need to be examples to the people and teach them the laws that I have given to Moses."

¹²Moses then said to Aaron and his two other sons, Eleazar and Ithamar, "Take the grain offering left from the offerings made to the Lord, make unleavened bread with it, and then eat it beside the altar because the offering is most holy. ¹³This offering belongs to you and your sons from the offerings brought to the Lord to be burned by fire, but it should only be eaten in a place that is holy. This is what the Lord has ordered. ¹⁴You, your sons and your daughters are to have the breast and the thigh of the peace offerings that are waved before the Lord. You are to eat these in a clean place. ¹⁵You are to wave the breast and the thigh as a special gift to the Lord at the time when you burn the fat of the animal on the altar. After that, these pieces will be yours to eat and will be your family's regular share throughout your generations. These instructions are from the Lord."

¹⁶Moses came into the courtyard looking for the goat to be offered as a sin offering. He asked Eleazar and Ithamar about it, and they told him that it had already been burned up. Then Moses became very angry because they had not gone through the proper ritual. He said to them, ¹⁷"You were supposed to eat your part of the sin offering in the courtyard. This offering is most holy and every part of the ritual is very important. It is to make an atonement for the people signifying that their guilt is now carried by you. ¹⁸Since its blood was not to be taken into the Sanctuary, you should have eaten the meat while in the courtyard as a symbol of the transfer of sin. I told you that before."

¹⁹Then Aaron spoke up for his sons, "My sons and I are still shaking because of what happened to Nadab and Abihu earlier today. Is the Lord happier with the right ritual or with the right attitude? How could we take the guilt of the people on ourselves by eating our portion of the meat when we were in this frame of mind?" ²⁰When Moses understood the reason behind what Aaron and his sons did, he was satisfied.

Dietary Laws

11 The Lord said to Aaron and Moses, ²"Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: These are the land animals that you may eat. ³You may eat any animal that has divided hooves and chews the cud. ⁴Some animals chew the cud but don't have divided hooves, so don't eat them. The camel chews the cud but doesn't have divided hooves. It's unclean. ⁵The rock badger chews the cud but has no split hoof. It's unclean. ⁶The rabbit, while it appears to chew the cud, has no split hoof. It's unclean. ⁷Do not eat pig. It has a split hoof but doesn't chew the cud. It's unclean. ⁸You are not to eat these animals or touch their dead bodies for they are all unclean.

⁹"As for fish, you may eat any kind of fish taken from the sea or from rivers and streams as long as they have fins and scales. ¹⁰But you are not to eat anything that moves in the water which doesn't have fins and scales. ¹¹Such seafood is unclean. You are not to eat these kinds of fish or touch their dead bodies, for they are unclean. ¹²You are not to eat any creature taken from the sea or from rivers and streams if it does not have fins and scales. Such should be repugnant to you as food.

²⁰"Also, all winged insects are unclean, ²¹except those that have jointed legs and hop. ²²You may eat grasshoppers, locusts, crickets and the like. ²³But all other insects which have wings and crawl along the ground are unclean to you. You are not to eat them.

Unclean Animals

²⁴"Whoever touches the dead body of any one of these unclean animals will be ritually unclean until that evening. ²⁵Whoever picks up the dead body of one of these unclean animals must afterward wash his clothes and he will be ritually unclean until that evening. ²⁶The bodies of dead animals that do not have split hooves and do not chew the cud are unclean. ²⁷Also animals that walk on all fours and have paws are unclean. ²⁸Anyone who picks up their dead bodies must afterward wash his clothes and he will be ritually unclean until that evening.

³⁶A spring or a cistern holding water into which such an animal falls will still be clean, but anything else that their dead bodies touch will be unclean. ³⁷If their bodies fall on seeds to be planted, the seeds will remain clean, ³⁸but if the seeds are soaking in water and a dead body of one of these animals falls into the water, those seeds are unclean.

lowed to eat is not slaughtered but dies on its own, anyone who touches its body will be ritually unclean until that evening. ⁴⁰Anyone who eats part of that animal must wash his clothes and will be ritually unclean until that evening.

⁴¹Every creature that moves along the ground is unclean to you and must not be eaten, ⁴²whether it crawls on its belly, has four legs or has many legs. ⁴³Do not defile yourself by eating any of these unclean creatures. Do not be made unclean because of them. ⁴⁴I am the Lord your God and you must be holy because I am holy. Do not defile yourself by eating crawling animals. ⁴⁵I am the Lord who brought you out of the land of Egypt to be your God, therefore live clean and holy lives because I am holy."

⁴⁶These are the laws that God gave about animals, birds, fish and other things that live in water and creatures that move along the ground. ⁴⁷This was so everyone could know the difference between what is clean and unclean, between those animals which are good for food and those which are not.

Required Ritual After Childbirth

12 The Lord also said to Moses, ²"Tell the children of Israel that when a woman gives birth to a son, she will be ritually unclean for seven days in the same way she is ritually unclean during her monthly periods. ³On the eighth day she should have the boy circumcised. ⁴She will continue to be ritually unclean for another thirty-three days until she is rested and free from the loss of blood. During that time she must not touch anything holy or go to the Sanctuary or participate in sacred ceremonies until the days of her purification are over. ⁵If she gives birth to a daughter, she will be ritually unclean for fourteen days in the same way she is ritually unclean during her monthly periods. Then she is to wait another sixty-six days until she is rested and free from the loss of blood. During this time she should not touch anything holy nor go to the Sanctuary until the days of her purification are over.

⁶"When the time of the new mother's purification is over, she must bring a sacrifice to the priest at the entrance of the courtyard of the Sanctuary. She must give a year-old lamb for a whole burnt offering and a dove or a pigeon for a sin offering. ⁷The priest will offer these to take away her impurity. Then she'll be clean. These are the regulations for a woman who has given birth to a boy or girl. ⁸If the woman cannot afford to bring a lamb, she is to bring one dove or pigeon for a whole burnt offering and one for a sin offering. The priest will offer them for her and perform the necessary ritual to take away her impurity and she will be clean."

Leprosy

13 Then the Lord said to Moses and Aaron, ²"When anyone has a swelling, a scab, a rash or a bright red spot on his skin, it could be the beginning of a leprous disease. So he should see Aaron, the high priest, or one of his sons who is serving as priest. ³The priest will examine the man's sore and if the hair in the sore has turned white and the sore appears to be deeper than the rest of the skin, it is a leprous disease. The priest must pronounce him ritually unclean. ⁴But if the white spot does not appear to be deeper than the rest of the skin and the hair in it has not turned white, the priest shall isolate the man for seven days. ⁵On the seventh day the priest must examine him again and if the sore looks the same and has not spread, he shall isolate him for another seven days. ⁶The priest will examine him again on the seventh day and if the sore has faded and has not spread, the priest will pronounce him clean. It was only a rash. The man should wash his clothes and he will then be ritually clean. ⁷Now if the rash reappears after the priest has pronounced him clean, he must go back and show himself to the priest. ⁸The priest must examine him again and if the rash has spread, he will pronounce the man unclean. It is the beginning of a leprous disease.

⁹“If anyone has a skin problem of any kind that looks like a disease he must show himself to the priest. ¹⁰The priest will examine him and if there is a white swelling in the skin that has turned the hair white and it is full of pus, ¹¹it is a leprous disease and the priest will pronounce him unclean. He should not isolate him for observation, because he's obviously unclean. ¹²Now if the disease breaks out and has spread over the man's body as far as the priest can see, ¹³the priest must closely examine him and if these same white spots are over his whole body, he will pronounce him clean. ¹⁴But from the moment raw flesh appears in the sore, the man is unclean. ¹⁵So the priest must examine him again and if he sees raw flesh in the sore, he will pronounce the man unclean. The raw flesh means he has a leprous disease and is therefore ritually unclean. ¹⁶If the raw flesh turns white, he must return to the priest. ¹⁷The priest will examine him again and if the sores are indeed turning white, he will pronounce the man ritually clean.

¹⁸“If someone has a boil and it heals, ¹⁹but then a white swelling or a reddish-white spot appears where the boil was, he must go to see the priest. ²⁰The priest will examine it and if it is more than skin deep and the hair in it has turned white, he will pronounce the man unclean. It is a leprous disease that has started in the boil. ²¹But, if the priest examines it and there is no white hair in it and it is no more than skin deep and has faded, then he will isolate him for seven days. ²²If it is spreading after seven days, the priest will pronounce him unclean. It is a leprous disease. ²³If the spot is unchanged and has not spread, it is only a scar from the boil. The priest will pronounce him ritually clean.

the spot has turned white and the spot is more than skin deep, it is a leprous disease that has started in the burn. The priest shall pronounce him unclean. ²⁶But if the priest examines it and there is no white hair in the spot and if the spot is only skin deep and is light in color, he is to isolate him for seven days. ²⁷On the seventh day the priest will examine him and if it is spreading, it is a leprous disease and he is to pronounce him ritually unclean. ²⁸If the priest examines it and the spot has not spread, but has faded, it is only the result of the burn; he will pronounce him ritually clean.

²⁹“If anyone, a man or a woman, has a sore on the scalp or on the chin, ³⁰the priest must examine it and if it looks like it is more than skin deep and the hair in it is yellowish and thin, he will pronounce him unclean. It is a leprous disease. ³¹If the priest examines it and finds that it's only skin deep, but finds no healthy hairs in it, he will isolate him for seven days. ³²On the seventh day the priest is to examine the sore and if it has not spread and there are no yellowish hairs in it and it's still only skin deep, ³³he will shave off the hair around the sore and the priest will isolate him for another seven days. ³⁴On the seventh day the priest will examine the sore again and if it has not spread and is still only skin deep, he will pronounce him clean. The person must wash his clothes, and then he will be ritually clean. ³⁵If the sore spreads on the skin after he is pronounced clean, ³⁶the priest will examine it again and if the sore has spread, even though there are no yellowish hairs in it, the priest will pronounce the person unclean. ³⁷If the sore has not spread and black hair is growing in it, the sore has healed. The priest will pronounce the person clean.

⁴⁵“The man who has this leprous disease must wear torn clothes, leave any hair he has uncombed, cover the lower part of his face and call out, ‘Unclean! Unclean!’ whenever he appears in public. ⁴⁶As long as he has this disease and is unclean, he must live alone outside the camp.

Contaminated Garments

⁴⁷“When clothing becomes contaminated with mildew or fungus, whether it’s linen or wool, ⁴⁸woven cloth or knitted material, a hide or anything made of leather, ⁴⁹if the mildew or fungus is green or red, it may spread, so these items must be shown to the priest. ⁵⁰The priest will examine the article and isolate it for seven days. ⁵¹On the seventh day he will examine it again and if the mildew or fungus has spread, the article is unclean. ⁵²He must burn the clothing or the leather article because it is contaminated with spreading mildew or fungus.

⁵³“But if it has not spread, ⁵⁴the priest will ask that the article be washed. Then he must isolate it for another seven days. ⁵⁵On the seventh day he will examine the washed article. If it looks the same, even though it hasn’t spread or is only on one side, the article must be burned.

⁵⁶“But if the priest examines the article and sees that the mildew or fungus has faded after the article has been washed, he will cut out the contaminated area from the clothing or leather. ⁵⁷If it reappears and is spreading, the article must be burned. ⁵⁸If he washes the item and the mildew or fungus disappears, it must be washed one more time and it will be ritually clean.”

⁵⁹These are the regulations regarding mildew or fungus on clothing of linen or wool or on anything made of leather.

Cleansing Healed Lepers

14 The Lord said to Moses, ²“Those who are cured of a leprous disease and who wish to be pronounced clean by the priest must go through the rite of purification. ³The priest will take him outside the camp to examine him. If this leprous disease has healed, ⁴then the priest will ask the person to bring two live, clean birds, a piece of cedar wood, a scarlet cord and a sprig of hyssop for the cleansing ritual. ⁵He will have one of the birds killed over fresh water in a clay pot. ⁶He will then take the living bird and dip it, together with the piece of cedar wood, the scarlet cord and the sprig of hyssop in the blood of the other bird that was mixed with water. ⁷He will sprinkle the water mixed with blood seven times on the person to be purified and pronounce him clean. Then he must release the live bird in the open field and let it fly away, symbolizing the man’s freedom from the leprous disease and the atonement to be made by the Lord for His people. ⁸The man must wash his clothes, shave off all his hair and take a bath. He will then be ritually clean and can come back into the camp, but he must sleep outside the family tent for seven days. ⁹On the seventh day he shall shave off all his hair again, his beard, his eyebrows and all hair on his body. He must wash his clothes again and take another bath. He will then be considered ritually clean.

¹⁰“He may now come to the courtyard of the Sanctuary with an offering for me. On the eighth day he must bring two male lambs and one female lamb without defect, all about a year old. He also must bring six pounds of flour for a grain offering and two-thirds of a pint of olive oil. ¹¹The priest will announce that the man is clean and present him and his offerings to me at the entrance of the courtyard. ¹²Then the priest will take one of the lambs and offer it together with the olive oil as a sin offering to me. ¹³The lamb must be killed in the courtyard where all sin offerings and whole burnt offerings are killed. Yet it is different from these offerings in that the priest will wave the offering before me. It will atone for the man's guilt and is most holy. ¹⁴Then the priest will catch some of the blood of the sin offering and put it on the lobe of the man's right ear, on the thumb of his right hand and on the big toe of his right foot before he can be declared ritually clean.

²¹"If a man is poor and can't afford these offerings, he shall bring only one male lamb as a sin offering to make atonement for him, and only two pounds of flour mixed with olive oil for a grain offering, plus two-thirds of a pint of olive oil. ²²He should also bring two doves or two young pigeons, whichever he can afford, one for a sin offering and the other for a whole burnt offering. ²³On the eighth day of his purification, after sleeping outside his family tent for seven days, he must bring these offerings for his cleansing to the priest to be presented to me at the entrance of the courtyard. ²⁴The priest will take the lamb for the sin offering and the olive oil and offer them as a wave offering to me. ²⁵He must kill the lamb and catch some of its blood and put it on the lobe of the man's right ear, on the thumb of his right hand and on the big toe of his right foot.

²⁶"Then the priest will pour some of the oil into the palm of his own left hand, ²⁷and with the forefinger of his right hand he will sprinkle it before me seven times. ²⁸He must take some oil from the palm of his hand and put it in the same places on the man he put the blood from the sin offering; that is, on the lobe of the man's right ear, on the thumb of his right hand and on the big toe of his right foot. ²⁹He will pour the rest of the oil in his hand on the man's head to make atonement for his guilt before me. ³⁰Then he must offer the two doves or the young pigeons, whichever the man can afford, to me, ³¹one as a sin offering and the other as a whole burnt offering together with the grain offering. In this way the priest will make atonement for the man's sins and declare him ritually clean." ³²So these are the Lord's regulations for anyone who has recovered from a leprous disease but cannot afford the regular offerings for his purification.

Contaminated Houses

³³Again the Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, ³⁴"When you reach Canaan which I am giving you for a possession, and you find mildew in a house, ³⁵the owner of the house shall go to the priest and tell him about it. ³⁶The priest will order everything in the house moved out before he examines it for mildew or the furniture will be declared unclean. Only then is he to go in to inspect the house. ³⁷If there are greenish or reddish spots on the walls that appear to be eating into it, ³⁸he will order the house closed and locked for seven days. ³⁹On the seventh day he will return and inspect the house again. If the mildew has spread on the walls, ⁴⁰he must order the stones with the mildew to be torn out and thrown into the dump outside the city. ⁴¹The walls shall be scraped and the plaster that is scraped off must be thrown into the dump outside the city. ⁴²Other stones are to be used to replace those that were torn out and new plaster shall be put on the walls of the whole house.

⁴³If the mildew reappears in the house, the owner of the house must report it to the priest. ⁴⁴The priest will examine the house again and if the mildew has reappeared and spread, it is a mildew that destroys things. ⁴⁵The house is unclean and must be torn down. Its stones, wood and plaster are to be taken out of town to the city dump. ⁴⁶Anyone who goes into the house will be unclean until that evening. ⁴⁷Anyone who slept in the house or ate there must wash his clothes.

⁵⁴These are the Lord's regulations for leprous diseases, sores, boils, ⁵⁵spreading mildew in clothing or in a house, ⁵⁶and for a swelling, rash or inflammation. ⁵⁷They teach the difference between clean and unclean by applying the rules for leprous diseases and mildew.

Bodily Discharges

15 The Lord gave further sanitary regulations to Moses and Aaron, saying, ²“When a man has a discharge from his body, the discharge is unclean and can spread disease. ³Whether this discharge flows from the openings in his body or is blocked and has caused a swelling in his body, the man is unclean. ⁴Any bed he lies on or anything he sits on is unclean. ⁵Anyone who touches his bed must bathe and wash his clothes. He will be ritually unclean until that evening. ⁶Anyone who sits on anything the man with the discharge sat on must bathe and wash his clothes. He will be ritually unclean until that evening. ⁷Anyone who touches the man with the discharge must bathe and wash his clothes and will be ritually unclean until that evening. ⁸If the man with a discharge spits on anyone, that person must bathe and wash his clothes and will be ritually unclean until that evening. ⁹Anything the man with the discharge sits on while riding will be unclean. ¹⁰Anyone who sits on anything that was under the man or who picks up and carries anything the man sat on must bathe and wash his clothes, and he will be ritually unclean until that evening. ¹¹Anyone the man with the discharge touches without first having washed his hands, must bathe and wash his clothes and he will be ritually unclean until that evening. ¹²Any clay pot that the man touches must be broken and any wooden bowl that he touches must be washed with water.

¹³“After the man is cured of his discharge, he must wait seven days. Then he is to wash his clothes and bathe in fresh spring water, then he will be ritually clean. ¹⁴On the eighth day he shall bring two doves or two young pigeons to me at the entrance to the courtyard of the Sanctuary and give them to the priest. ¹⁵The priest will sacrifice them, one as a sin offering and the other as a whole burnt offering. In this way he will make atonement on behalf of the man before me because of his discharge.

¹⁶“When a man has a discharge of semen, he must bathe his whole body and he will remain ritually unclean until evening. ¹⁷Any clothing or leather that has semen on it must be washed and will remain unclean until evening. ¹⁸After having sexual intercourse both the man and the woman are to wash their bodies and they will remain ritually unclean until evening. ¹⁹When a woman has her monthly period, she is ritually unclean for seven days. Anyone who touches her will be unclean until evening. ²⁰Anything she sits on or lies on during her period will be unclean. ²¹Whoever touches her bed must bathe and wash his clothes. He will be unclean until evening. ²²Whoever touches anything she sits on must bathe and wash his clothes and he will be unclean until evening. ²³Whether someone touches her bed or anything she was sitting on, that person will be ritually unclean until evening. ²⁴If a man sleeps with her and her monthly flow is on him, he will be unclean for seven days and anything he lies on will be unclean.

²⁵“When a woman has a flow of blood other than during her monthly period, or her monthly flow continues beyond the normal time, she will be ritually unclean just as she was during her regular period. ²⁶Any bed she lies on or anything she sits on while her flow continues will be unclean, just as it was during her regular monthly period. ²⁷Anyone who touches such items must bathe and wash his clothes and will be unclean until evening. ²⁸After the woman’s flow stops, she must count off seven days, then she will be ritually clean. ²⁹On the eighth day she is to bring to me two doves or two young pigeons at the entrance to the courtyard of the Sanctuary and give them to the priest. ³⁰The priest will offer one bird as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering. In this way he will make atonement for her uncleanness before me.

³¹“You must warn the Israelites to keep away from things that are unclean so as not to defile my Sanctuary that is in their midst.”

³²These then are the Lord’s regulations for a man who has had either an infectious discharge or a discharge of semen. ³³These also are His regulations for a woman who is having her monthly period or who has an infectious discharge. These are the regulations for anyone having sexual relations with a woman who is ritually unclean.

The Day of Atonement

16 Following the death of Aaron’s two sons who died while offering incense, God said to Moses, ²“Tell your brother Aaron he is to come into the Most Holy Place only on the Day of Atonement. He should never come in dressed just as he is, or he will die. On the Day of Atonement, I will veil my presence by a small cloud just above the lid of the Ark called the Mercy Seat. ³On that day, he will come into the Sanctuary area and sacrifice a young bull for a sin offering and a ram for a whole burnt offering before coming into the Most Holy Place. ⁴He should bathe and put on the white linen underwear, the special white linen robe with the linen sash and the white linen turban. These special priestly garments are holy. ⁵He will take from the leaders of Israel two male goats for a sin offering and a ram for a whole burnt offering.

⁶“He must sacrifice the young bull he brought for his own sins and for those of his family. ⁷Then he will take the two goats and present them before me by the entrance to the Sanctuary. ⁸He will draw lots for the two goats, one lot to be inscribed with the words, ‘For the Lord,’ and the other with the words, ‘For Azazel.’ ⁹Aaron will tie a scarlet cord around the neck of the Lord’s goat for identification and sacrifice it for a sin offering. ¹⁰He will tie a scarlet cord on the horn of the other goat, present it alive before me, then send it into the wilderness to symbolically remove sin and Satan from my people forever.

¹⁵“After that he shall go back to the courtyard, kill the Lord’s goat as a sin offering for the people and take some of the blood into the Most Holy Place. He must sprinkle it first on the Mercy Seat, then seven times before the Ark. ¹⁶This way he will purify the Most Holy Place because of the uncleanness and rebellion of the Israelites, whatever their sins have been. He is to do the same for the Holy Place. ¹⁷No one shall be in the Sanctuary from the time Aaron gets ready to go into the Most Holy Place until after he has made atonement for himself, his family and the people of Israel. ¹⁸Then Aaron is to come out to the altar of burnt offering, take some of the bull’s blood and some of the goat’s blood and put it on the horns at the corners of the altar. ¹⁹Still using his finger he will sprinkle the blood before the altar seven times to purify it from the sins of the people and to again make it holy and consecrated to me.

²⁰“After Aaron finishes making atonement for the Most Holy Place and the Holy Place, he will take the live goat called Azazel or Scapegoat and present it to me without blood. ²¹He must lay both his hands on the goat’s head, transferring to it all the forgiven sins of the people which have been atoned for by the Lord’s goat. He will put the responsibility of all sin on the Azazel goat, who is to be taken into the wilderness by a man appointed to do so. ²²Symbolically, this goat will take all sin away from the camp into the wilderness where the man will turn it loose. It will have been taken there to die.

²³“Then Aaron will go back into the Sanctuary and take off the special linen clothes he put on before he went into the Most Holy Place and leave them there. ²⁴He must wash himself in the Holy Place and put on his regular priestly clothes. Then he will come out of the Sanctuary and begin the ceremonies for another year by offering the evening sacrifice for his own sins and the sins of the people. ²⁵He will offer the fat of the various sin offerings made earlier and burn it on the altar. ²⁶The man who took the goat into the wilderness must wash his clothes and bathe before returning to camp. ²⁷The bull and goat that were killed for the sin offering and whose blood was sprinkled in the Most Holy Place must be burned outside the camp. Everything must be burned, their hides, all their meat and their internal organs. ²⁸The one who does this must then wash his clothes and bathe before he returns to camp.

²⁹“The tenth day of the seventh month will be the Day of Atonement. No regular work shall be done on that day. The children of Israel and the foreigners living among them must fast, humble themselves and enter into the deep spiritual significance of the day. ³⁰This is the day when atonement will be made for their sins and the record of their sins in the Sanctuary will be removed, and they will stand before me as a clean people. ³¹It is a sacred day, a special Sabbath, during which the people are to deny themselves, search their souls and do no regular work. This is a lasting ordinance for generations to come. ³²The high priest, who has been ordained to succeed his father, will put on the vestments of the high priest. ³³He will perform all the services involved in purifying the Most Holy Place, the Holy Place and the sacrificial altar. He must remove from the Sanctuary the sins of the priests and the people who brought their sin offerings during the year. ³⁴These ordinances are to continue for generations to come. Each year on the Day of Atonement, the sins of the priests and the people are to be removed from the Sanctuary." Aaron followed all the instructions the Lord had given Moses.

Blood Represents Life

17 Again the Lord said to Moses, ²"Pass these ordinances on to Aaron and his sons and to all the people: ³Any Israelite who sacrifices a young bull, a lamb or a goat anywhere in the camp or outside of it, ⁴and does not bring it to the Sanctuary courtyard to present it as an offering to me, he will be held guilty of causing bloodshed and must be cut off from the people. ⁵This ordinance is so the Israelites will bring their peace offerings to me to be sacrificed at the Sanctuary under the supervision of the priests and not take them outside the camp to be sacrificed in the open field. ⁶The priest will catch some of the blood and sprinkle it against the altar and burn the fat as a pleasing offering to me. ⁷The people are not to offer goats as sacrifices to a goat idol as they have done in the past. This regulation will protect them against such demonic worship and is a lasting ordinance for generations to come.

⁸"An Israelite or a foreigner living in the community who continues to sacrifice animals in the field ⁹and does not bring them to me at the Sanctuary must be cut off from the people. ¹⁰Any Israelite or foreigner living among you who bakes blood and eats it, or eats raw meat with the blood still in it, must be cut off from the people. ¹¹The life of the body depends on blood. I have chosen blood as a symbol of salvation. Blood makes atonement for sin because of the life that is in it. That is why it is poured out on the altar. It is exchanging one life for another. ¹²Therefore blood shall be used only to make atonement for sins and is not to be eaten. Neither an Israelite nor a foreigner is to eat blood for any reason. ¹³Any Israelite or foreigner living among you who kills a clean animal or bird for food must pour its blood on the ground and cover it with dirt.

¹⁴"Blood is life and life is sacred. No one shall eat the blood of flesh. If anyone does, he must be cut off from the people. ¹⁵Any Israelite or foreigner living among the people who eats meat from a dead animal or bird that he has found, whether it died naturally or was killed by animals, must bathe and wash his clothes. He will be unclean until evening; after that he will be considered clean again. ¹⁶But if he does not bathe and wash his clothes, he will be held guilty for what he has done."

Sexual Immorality

18 The Lord said to Moses, ²"Tell the children of Israel that I am the Lord your God. ³You are not to follow the practices of the people in Egypt where you once lived, nor are you to follow the practices of the people in the land of Canaan where you're going. ⁴You are to obey my laws and do what I ask you to do for I am the Lord your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt. ⁵Do what I ask you to do; the one who listens to me and keeps my laws will save his life by doing so. I am the Lord.

⁶"You are not to have sexual relations with your relatives. ⁷Do not disgrace your father by having sex with your mother. She is your mother and you are not to have sexual relations with her. ⁸Do not disgrace your father by having sexual relations with your stepmother, even if she's from another tribe. ⁹You are not to have sexual relations with your sister or stepsister even if your stepsister was born and raised somewhere else. ¹⁰You are not to have sexual relations with your granddaughter. That is a very wicked thing to do. ¹¹Do not have sex with your half-sister because she is still your sister. ¹²Do not have sex with your father's sister. She is your aunt and your father's blood relative. ¹³You are not to have sex with your mother's sister. She's also your aunt and your mother's blood relative. ¹⁴You are not to dishonor your father's brother by approaching his wife. She is your aunt by marriage and your father's sister-in-law. ¹⁵Do not have sexual relations with your daughter-in-law. She is your son's wife; you are not to have sex with her. ¹⁶Do not have sexual relations with your brother's wife because that would dishonor your brother. ¹⁷You are not to have sex with a woman and her daughter, nor with her and her granddaughter, whether the granddaughter is by her son or her daughter. That is a very wicked thing to do. ¹⁸Do not take your wife's sister as a wife to rival her. That also is a wicked thing to do.

²⁴"You are not to defile yourself in any of these ways, for that is how the people in the land where I am taking you are defiling themselves. That is why I am driving them out from this fruitful land and making room for you. ²⁵Their perverted natures have defiled the whole land. Therefore I have withheld my blessings and the land is vomiting them out. ²⁶So you are to keep my laws and carry out my instructions. I don't want anyone, whether he is an Israelite or a foreigner who lives among you, to do such detestable things. ²⁷The people living in the land where I am taking you do these things and the whole land is defiled by their wickedness. ²⁸If you do them, the land will vomit you out just as it is vomiting out those who are there now. ²⁹Anyone who does these things must be cut off from the people. ³⁰So keep my laws and follow my instructions. Once you come into the land, do not pick up the disgusting practices done by the people before you, thus defiling yourselves, for I am the Lord your God."

Ceremonial Laws

19 The Lord said to Moses, ²"Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: You are to be holy because I, the Lord your God, am holy. ³Each one of you must respect your mother and father, and you must observe my Sabbaths. I am your God. ⁴No one is to make gods out of stone or wood, or worship them. I alone am the Lord.

⁵"When you sacrifice an animal for a peace offering, follow the regulations I have given you and I will accept your offering. ⁶The meat should be eaten on the day you sacrificed the animal or the next day, but any meat left over on the third day must be burned. ⁷If any of it is eaten on the third day, I will reject the offering that was brought because it was made impure by disobedience. ⁸Whoever eats it is guilty of sin for he is treating something sacred as something ordinary, and he will be cut off from the people.

⁹"When you reap the harvest, do not cut the grain to the very edge of the field or pick up the grain that fell as you were harvesting. ¹⁰Do not go over your vineyard the second time or pick up the grapes that fell as you were harvesting. Leave them for the poor and the stranger. I am the Lord.

tage of him. Do not hold back the wages of someone you hire, not even for one night. ¹⁴Do not curse the deaf or the hard of hearing, and do not put something in front of a blind man to make him stumble, but fear God. I am the Lord.

¹⁵Do not pervert justice by showing favoritism to the rich or partiality to the poor. Judge every case honestly and fairly. ¹⁶Do not spread falsehoods about others. Don't do anything that would put your neighbor's life in danger. I am the Lord.

¹⁷Don't bear a grudge against your neighbor or hate him. Speak to him about what he has done. Don't just harbor hateful feelings and let him go on sinning or you too will be guilty. ¹⁸Never seek revenge against anyone. Forget about the wrong he has done to you. Love your neighbor as you love yourself. I am the Lord.

²⁰If a man has sex with a slave girl who has been promised in marriage before her future husband has purchased her freedom, he is not to be put to death, but he should be punished, because she was not free. ²¹The man has sinned against me and shall bring a ram for a sin offering to the Sanctuary. ²²The priest will make an atonement for him before the Lord for the sin he committed and it will be forgiven him.

²³When you come into the land of Canaan and plant fruit trees, you should not eat the fruit for the first three years. ²⁴In the fourth year all the fruit will be holy and is to be given as an offering of gratitude to me. ²⁵In the fifth year the fruit will be yours. If you do this, I will bless you and increase your harvest. I am the Lord your God.

²⁶Do not eat any meat that still has blood in it. Do not practice any kind of witchcraft or sorcery. ²⁷Do not shave the sides of your head nor all around your head, nor clip your beard to make it square, for that is what the pagans do as a sign of commitment to their fertility gods. ²⁸Do not tattoo yourself or cut your body in any way to mourn the dead. I am the Lord.

²⁹Do not degrade your daughter by selling her to the temple of the fertility god to become a temple prostitute. This degrades women, lowers the morals of society and destroys the nation.

³⁰Keep the Sabbath and respect the Sanctuary, for both are holy. I am the Lord.

³¹Do not turn to spirit mediums for answers or go for advice to people who consult demons. If you do, you will be defiled and will soon be caught in their web. I am the Lord your God.

³²Respect the elderly and honor them, for by so doing you are honoring me. I am the Lord.

³³Do not mistreat foreigners who live in your land. ³⁴Treat them as you do your own. Love them as you love yourself. You, too, were once foreigners in a strange land and you know what it was like to be mistreated. I am the Lord your God.

³⁵Do not cheat anyone by using faulty weights and measures. ³⁶Use honest scales and accurate measures. I am the Lord your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt. ³⁷Keep my laws and carry out all my instructions and do them. I am the Lord who loves you."

Penalties for Breaking the Law

20 The Lord said to Moses, ²"Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: If anyone in your country sacrifices his newborn baby to the idol Molech, he shall be stoned to death. ³I will set my face against anyone who sacrifices his child to Molech because he has disgraced my name and defiled my Sanctuary. I will cut off his life from my people. ⁴If the people ignore what he has done and fail to stone him for sacrificing his child to Molech, ⁵I will personally turn against him and his family and against all those who went with him to worship Molech. I will cut off their lives from my people.

⁶“If anyone goes to spirit mediums for advice and prostitutes himself by following these messengers of Satan, I will cut off his life from my people. ⁷Consecrate yourselves and be my holy people, for I am holy. I am the Lord. ⁸Keep my commandments and my laws because I am the Lord who wants to sanctify you and make you holy. ⁹Anyone who curses his father or mother must be put to death. He has brought it on himself.

¹⁰“If a man commits adultery with another man’s wife, he and the woman shall be put to death. They also have brought it on themselves. ¹¹If a man has sexual relations with his stepmother, his father’s wife, he has disgraced his father; both he and the woman are to be put to death. ¹²If a man has sexual relations with his daughter-in-law, both are to be put to death. ¹³If a man has sexual relations with another man as he would with a woman, they have done a disgusting thing and both are to be put to death. They have brought it on themselves. ¹⁴If a man marries both a woman and her mother, they have done a wicked thing and all three shall be burned to death. They have brought the sentence on themselves. ¹⁵If a man has sexual relations with an animal, he and the animal shall be put to death. ¹⁶If a woman presents herself to an animal to have sexual relations with it, she and the animal shall be put to death.

have brought the sentence on themselves. ¹⁹If a man has sexual relations with the sister of either his father or his mother, they have committed incest and will be held responsible for what they have done. ²⁰If a man has sexual relations with his aunt, they have disgraced the family and, if she was married, they have disgraced his uncle as well. Neither of them will have any children. They have brought the consequences on themselves. ²¹If a man has sexual relations with his brother’s wife, he has disgraced his brother. Neither of them will have children. They will have no part in the future of Israel. They will die childless.

²²“You are to keep my laws and follow all my instructions. Then the land where I am taking you will not vomit you out. ²³I am forcing the people out of the land ahead of you. Don’t go in and do what they’re doing, which I abhor. ²⁴I will bring you into this rich and fertile land and give it to you just as I promised. I am the Lord your God and have set you apart from all other people. ²⁵You shall make a clear distinction between what to eat and what not to eat. Do not defile yourselves by eating animals and birds that I have told you are unclean. ²⁶You shall be a clean and holy people for I, the Lord, am holy. I have set you apart from other nations to represent me and to be my very own.

²⁷“Any man or woman who consults demons will surely turn you against me. Such people are to be stoned to death. They are responsible for bringing about their own death.”

Priestly Conduct

21 The Lord said to Moses, “Tell Aaron and his sons that no priest shall make himself ritually unfit by touching a dead body, ²except for a very close relative such as a mother or father, a son or daughter, ³a brother or an unmarried sister who is still at home. ⁴Otherwise, a priest has made himself ritually unfit to serve his people as a leader. ⁵No priest shall shave his head, cut off the edges of his beard or cut his body to demonstrate grief. ⁶He will respect my name and be blameless and holy. He has been set apart to present offerings burned on the altar as bread for their God. So he must be holy and ritually clean, ready in heart to serve. ⁷He must not marry a woman who has been a prostitute or who is divorced, for the priest is holy to his God. ⁸Treat the priest as one set apart for holy service. Think of him as holy because I, the Lord, am holy and I make you holy. ⁹If the priest's daughter becomes a prostitute, she disgraces her father. She shall be put to death by fire. She has brought it on herself.

¹⁰"The high priest will be chosen from among his brother priests. The anointing oil will be placed on his head and he will be set apart to wear the high priestly clothes. He is not to uncover his head and let his hair fly loose in mourning or to tear his clothes in grief. ¹¹He will not attend to funeral details, thus making himself ritually unclean, not even if it is his father or mother. ¹²He must not do anything to desecrate the Sanctuary, because he has been set apart and consecrated with the anointing oil of his God. I am the Lord. ¹³The high priest must marry a woman who is a virgin. ¹⁴He must not marry a widow, a divorced woman or a woman who has been a prostitute, but only a virgin from his own people. ¹⁵This is so his offspring will be respected by the people. I am the Lord, and I have set him apart as high priest to be holy."

disease or damaged testicles. ²¹If one of Aaron's descendants has a physical defect, he cannot come before me as a priest to serve and to burn offerings. He is not ritually suited to carry out the symbolic function of a priest as he looks after the offerings. ²²He may eat from the priestly portion of the offerings as the other priests do, ²³but because of his defect, he must not approach the altar or the curtain going into the Holy Place. If he does, he will desecrate the Sanctuary. I am the Lord and I am holy. I am the One who sets people apart and makes them holy." ²⁴This is what Moses passed on to Aaron and his sons and to all the people.

22 The Lord said to Moses, ²"Tell Aaron and his sons that they shall treat with respect the offerings people bring so as not to profane my name, for I am the Lord. ³If one of Aaron's descendants is ritually unclean or physically unfit and tries to come before me with offerings, he will be cut off from my presence and will never serve at my altar again. I am the Lord. ⁴If one of Aaron's descendants has an infectious skin disease or a bodily discharge, he is ritually unclean and shall not eat the holy offerings until he has been declared clean. He will be ritually unclean if he touches a corpse, anything defiled by a corpse or a man who has had an emission of semen. ⁵If he touches an unclean animal or any person who is ritually unclean, he, too, will be unclean.

⁶"The priest who has become unclean in any one of these ways will be unclean until evening. He must not eat from any of the offerings until he has bathed and been declared clean. ⁷Only after the sun goes down will he be considered clean again and fit to eat from the holy offerings. ⁸He must not eat the meat of any animal that has died naturally or been killed by wild animals. For him to eat such meat will make him ritually unclean. I am the Lord. ⁹All priests must carefully keep my laws and follow my instructions so they will not die before me because of disrespect. I am the Lord who sets them apart and makes them holy.

¹⁰“Only the priest’s family shall eat of the sacred offerings. Not even one of his house guests or hired workers is to eat from such holy offerings. ¹¹But if a priest has a slave, or if a slave was born in his house, that person is part of his family and may eat of the offerings. ¹²If a priest’s daughter marries someone other than a priest, she has forfeited her right to eat of these offerings. ¹³However, if she is divorced or widowed and lives at home as a dependent, she may eat of the sacred offerings because she is once again part of her father’s family. But no one outside the family may eat of such offerings. ¹⁴If anyone eats from the sacred offerings when he should have known better, he must pay the full value of the whole offering plus twenty percent. ¹⁵The priest must not desecrate the offerings by letting strangers eat of them. These offerings are sacred for they have been given to me by the people. ¹⁶If a priest lets someone eat of such offerings, he is bringing on himself and on the man who eats, guilt that requires payment. I am the One who makes the offerings holy.”

Animals Without Defect

¹⁷Again the Lord spoke to Moses, ¹⁸“Speak to Aaron and his sons and to all the children of Israel and tell them that if any Israelite or foreigner living in Israel brings an offering to me, either to fulfill a vow or as a freewill offering, ¹⁹the animal must be without defect, whether from cattle, sheep or goats, before it can be accepted on his behalf. ²⁰If there is something wrong with the animal, it is not an acceptable offering. ²¹If anyone brings an inferior animal from his flock or herd to fulfill a special vow or for a peace offering, it will not be accepted on his behalf. ²²No blind, crippled or injured animal shall be brought to me, nor is one that has running sores or scabs. ²³An animal that is stunted or deformed from birth, whether a calf or a lamb, may be brought to me as a special gift, but not to fulfill a vow. ²⁴A male animal whose testicles have been crushed, cut, bruised or torn is not an acceptable offering. ²⁵Such animals obtained from a foreigner not living in Israel are not acceptable because of their defects; they are not suitable ‘food’ for me and my altar.”

²⁶The Lord also said, ²⁷“When a calf, a lamb or a goat is born, it is to stay with its mother seven days before it can be brought to me as an acceptable offering. ²⁸Do not kill a calf or lamb for an offering on the same day you kill its mother. ²⁹When you offer a special gift of thanksgiving to me, do it of your own free will and in a way that pleases the Lord and brings honor to His name. ³⁰Whatever part of the animal is to be eaten must be eaten that day. Nothing is to be left until morning. I am the Lord.

³¹“So keep my commandments and do them. I am the Lord. ³²Show respect for my name for I am the Lord. I am holy and have set you apart to be holy. ³³I am the One who brought you out of Egypt to be your God. I am the Lord.”

Feasts of the Lord

23 Then the Lord said to Moses, ²⁴“Speak to the children of Israel and tell them about the appointed feasts. They shall be regarded as sacred festivals of worship set apart by me.

The Sabbath

³⁴“There has always been the weekly Sabbath since God first blessed it. Six days are set aside for your regular work, but the seventh day is the Sabbath, a day of solemn rest. On that day all work must stop because it is the day the Lord has set aside for worship. The day belongs to me, no matter where the children of Israel live.

The Passover and Unleavened Bread

shall be kept every year. Three of these are religious and three are harvest festivals. ⁵First, there is the Lord's Passover. It is a one-day sacred assembly that must be kept beginning at sundown on the fourteenth day of the first month. ⁶In connection with the Passover, you shall celebrate the Festival of Unleavened Bread which begins the very next day. For seven days you must eat no bread made with yeast. ⁷On the first of these seven days you shall come together for a special Sabbath and do no regular work. ⁸Each day for seven days you shall bring your offerings to me. Then on the last day you are to come together again for worship and do no work."

⁹The Lord continued, ¹⁰"Tell the children of Israel: When you come into the land that I have promised to give you, you are to reap your crops and celebrate your barley harvest in connection with the Festival of Unleavened Bread. On the sixteenth day you shall bring the first bundle of grain to the priest. ¹¹He will take it and wave it before me on your behalf. He will present it to me on the day after the Sabbath. ¹²In addition to the wave sheaf of barley, you should bring a year-old lamb without defect as a whole burnt offering. ¹³You must bring four pounds of flour mixed with olive oil as a grain offering and one quart of fresh unfermented wine as a drink offering. These offerings will be burned by fire. They will be pleasing to me because of what they represent. ¹⁴You must not eat any of the new grain, whether raw, roasted or baked as bread until these offerings have been brought to me. These regulations must be followed by each generation no matter where you live.

The Festival of Weeks

¹⁵"The third festival that you must hold is the Festival of Weeks (later known as Pentecost). It must be held seven weeks after the first harvest of that year. By then your wheat crops will be ready to be brought in. ¹⁶It will begin on the fiftieth day, the day after the seventh Sabbath. On that day you must bring a grain offering to me, the first cut from the final harvest of that year. ¹⁷Bring an offering of two loaves of baked bread, each one made from four pounds of fine flour and yeast as a sample of the first grain to be harvested from your last crop of the year. ¹⁸This bread will be presented to me by your priest together with seven male lambs, each a year old, one young bull and two rams, all without defects. These animals must be sacrificed as whole burnt offerings to me, along with the grain and drink offerings. These offerings and what they represent will please me.

¹⁹"Also you must offer one male goat for a sin offering and two year-old lambs as a peace offering. ²⁰The priest will present the two lambs together with the bread as a wave offering to me. They will belong to the priests. ²¹On that day everyone shall come together for worship and no ordinary work is to be done. This will be a lasting ordinance for the children of Israel for generations to come, no matter where they live in the land.

²²"When you harvest your fields, don't reap to the very edge of the field or pick up every last stalk of grain that was left, but leave it for the poor and the foreigners who live among you. I am the Lord your God."

The Festival of Trumpets

²³The Lord told Moses, ²⁴"Speak to the children of Israel and tell them: On the first day of the seventh month, you are to observe a special day of rest and come together for worship when you hear the blast of trumpets. This is the fourth assembly you are to observe, called the Festival of Trumpets. ²⁵On that day you must bring a food offering to me and do no ordinary work. This signals the beginning of ten days of preparation for the Day of Atonement."

The Day of Atonement

²⁶The Lord continued, ²⁷"The tenth day of the seventh month will be the Day of Atonement. This is the fifth assembly and a most sacred day. On this day, deny yourselves and examine your spiritual standing with me. The priests will present a whole burnt offering to me. ²⁸All regular work must stop, as it does on the Sabbath. It is the day when atonement will be made to take away sin. ²⁹Anyone who does not deny himself and humble his soul on that day will be cut off from the people. ³⁰And anyone who works on that day will be put to death. ³¹Don't even think about your work. This will be a lasting ordinance for the children of Israel for generations to come. ³²It is a special day of worship during which you are to deny yourselves and humble your souls. It must be observed from sunset on the ninth day of the seventh month to sunset on the tenth day."

The Festival of Shelters

³³The Lord further said, ³⁴"The fifteenth day of that same month you shall celebrate the Festival of Shelters, the gathering in of your olives and fruit. It is the sixth assembly and shall be observed for an entire week. ³⁵On the first day of this week no ordinary work shall be done and the people should come together for worship and rejoicing. ³⁶Each day for seven days the priest must present an offering to me. On the eighth day the people will again come together for worship and no regular work is to be done.

the regular weekly Sabbaths. And these offerings are in addition to the regular gifts or freewill offerings you choose to bring to me.

³⁹"The Festival of Shelters is the last festival of the year. So beginning on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, after your harvesting is over, praise the Lord for what he has done for you. The festival will last seven days. The first and last days of that festival week will be special days of joy and solemn rest. ⁴⁰On the first day you will take the best fruit from your fruit trees, and leafy boughs, palm fronds and branches of willow trees that grow by the brooks to make shelters for yourselves. You will rejoice for an entire week over what the Lord has done for you. ⁴¹This festival will be kept for generations to come in the seventh month of each year. ⁴²You will camp in these shelters for seven days during the festival. ⁴³This way your descendants will be reminded that I gave their forefathers shelters to camp in when I brought them out of Egypt. I am the Lord your God."

⁴⁴Moses told the children of Israel everything the Lord had said.

The Continuous Burning Lampstand

24 Again the Lord spoke to Moses, ²"Tell the children of Israel to bring to you clear oil pressed from olives. That oil is for the seven-branched lamp in the Sanctuary which is to be kept burning continuously. ³Every evening Aaron shall make sure that the seven-branched lampstand in the Sanctuary, this side of the Most Holy Place, has enough oil to burn all night. This will be continued by the high priests for generations to come. ⁴The seven lamps of the golden lampstand must never go out.

New Bread Each Sabbath

Place ⁷and put incense in a golden cup on each stack to be used as a fragrant offering. It will be a token offering for the bread that is to be burned on the altar. ⁸Every Friday evening, at the beginning of the Sabbath, set out fresh bread before me. This is to be done for generations to come. ⁹The bread should be eaten by Aaron and his sons in a holy place set apart for the priests. It is their share of the holy offerings which are brought to me.”

Blasphemy

¹⁰While the Lord was giving all these instructions to Moses, a young man who had an Israelite mother and Egyptian father left his part of the camp and insisted on pitching his tent in the main camp. A fight broke out between him and a fellow Israelite. ¹¹The son of the Israelite woman and Egyptian father cursed the God of Israel in front of the judges. So he was brought to Moses. His mother’s name was Shelomith, daughter of Dibri from the tribe of Dan. ¹²Moses ordered him to be kept under guard until the Lord would tell him whether or not to apply the full force of the law.

¹³Then the Lord said to Moses, ¹⁴“Take the man outside the camp and everyone who heard him curse the God of Israel is to put his hands on the man’s head and testify that he is guilty. Then the people are to stone him to death. ¹⁵Tell the Israelites that anyone who curses the Lord God will suffer the same consequences. ¹⁶Anyone living in Israel who curses the Lord God, whether he is an Israelite or a foreigner living in Israel, shall be stoned to death by the people.

else is to be done to him, whether it is to break one of his bones, take out an eye or knock out a tooth. ²¹If someone kills another person’s animal, he must replace it. But if someone kills a man, he must be put to death. ²²This law applies to everyone living in Israel, whether Israelites or foreigners. I am the Lord your God.” ²³When Moses told the people what the Lord had said, they took the man who had cursed God outside the camp and stoned him to death just as the Lord had commanded.

A Sabbath for the Land

25 The Lord said to Moses while on Mount Sinai, ²“Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: When you enter the land I promised to give you, let it also have a Sabbath by giving it a rest every seventh year. ³For six years you shall sow your fields, prune your vineyards and harvest your crops. ⁴But during the seventh year the land is to rest, to have a Sabbath to honor me. That year the people shall not sow their fields or prune their vineyards. ⁵The land must have a full rest. And the people are not to harvest for storage anything that grows on its own, either in their fields or on their vines. ⁶Whatever the land grows on its own may be used for food for yourselves, your hired men and servants and any foreigners living with you. ⁷It also can be used to feed your livestock and provide for wild animals. Whatever the land produces by itself can be used and eaten.”

The Year of Jubilee

⁸The Lord also said, “Count off seven times seven years or a total of forty-nine years. ⁹Then on the tenth day of the seventh month in the forty-ninth year, on the Day of Atonement, have the trumpet blown throughout the land. ¹⁰This shall be called the Jubilee. It is a year of freedom, a time to proclaim liberty throughout the land. This is the year when all property must be returned to its original owner or to his descendants and all slaves must be set free to return home. ¹¹The fiftieth year will be a year of joy. Do not sow your fields or harvest your unsown crops or pick grapes from your unpruned vineyards for storage. ¹²The entire year will be sacred for you. Let your fields rest and eat only what the fields produce of themselves.

¹³This is also the year when all property that has been sold shall be returned to its original owner so that each family will have their property back again. ¹⁴When you sell land to a fellow Israelite or buy a piece of property from him, do not take unfair advantage of him. ¹⁵He is to buy or sell to you on the basis of the number of years left until the next Jubilee, that is, according to the number of times he can harvest the field. ¹⁶If there are many years left the price may be higher, and if there are only a few years left the price should be lower, because it is to be sold according to the number of crops it will produce. ¹⁷Do not take advantage of each other, but respect your God by being honest. I am the Lord.

The Seventh Year

¹⁸Obey me and keep my laws so you can have my protection and live in peace and safety in the land to which I'm taking you. ¹⁹The land will produce good crops for you. You will be able to eat to the full and live in peace. ²⁰If someone says, 'What are we going to live on during the seventh year when no crops are planted or harvested?' ²¹Tell them not to worry, for I will bless the land in the sixth year so that it will produce twice as much, enough for two years. ²²When you plant your crops in the eighth year you will still be eating from what you harvested during the sixth year. There will be enough from the sixth year bumper crop to last you until the harvest in the eighth year.

Buying Property Back

²³The land belongs to me, so you may not sell it on a permanent basis. You are my tenants and stewards. ²⁴Whenever a piece of property is sold, the seller has the right to buy it back. If he chooses not to buy it back, only then may it be sold to another.

²⁵If an Israelite is poor and circumstances force him to sell his land, his closest relative should buy it back for him. ²⁶If the man has no relative who wants to buy it, only then may it be sold to another. But if the man later wants to buy his property back before the Year of Jubilee and has enough money to do so, ²⁷he is to offer the new owner an amount based on the number of harvests left until the next Jubilee, even though at that time he will get it back free. ²⁸But if he doesn't have enough money to buy it back before the Jubilee, the new owner has a right to keep it until then, but he must return it at the time of Jubilee.

²⁹"If a man lives in the city and sells his house, he has the right to buy it back during the first year after it's sold. ³⁰But if he doesn't buy it back by the end of that year, the house becomes the permanent property of the buyer and his descendants. It is not to be returned to the original owner at the time of the Jubilee. ³¹Houses in farming villages are to be treated as property in open country. They may be bought back at any time, and in the Year of Jubilee they are to be returned to their original owners. ³²The Levites, on the other hand, are allowed to buy back the houses in their cities any time they wish, for they have no land inheritance. ³³If a city house of theirs is sold and is not bought back it must be returned to the Levite at the Jubilee. It is not the permanent property of the buyer, but of the Levite. ³⁴Land that is common property of the Levites around their Levitical cities should never be sold. That land is always to be theirs.

The Poor Pay No Interest

need, so that he doesn't have to move and live among strangers. ³⁶If you help a fellow Israelite get established, do not charge interest on the money you loan him. Stand in awe of the Lord and deal reasonably with your brother so he will not object to live near you. ³⁷You shall not lend him money for interest or take advantage of his poverty by selling him food for a profit. ³⁸Remember that I am the Lord your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt to bring you into the land I promised you, and you got it for nothing.

The Law Regulating Slavery

³⁹"If a fellow Israelite becomes so poor that he sells himself as a slave, and you buy him, you must not ask him to work for you as a slave. ⁴⁰Treat him as a temporary employee because you will own him only until the Year of Jubilee when you are to set him free. ⁴¹He and his family shall be allowed to return home to their own tribe and their own land which they inherited from their forefathers. ⁴²No Israelite shall be sold as a slave because all Israelites belong to me. I am the One who brought them out of the land of Egypt. ⁴³Never is anyone to treat a fellow Israelite ruthlessly and without concern. You must show him respect for I am his Lord. ⁴⁴If you need workers for your fields, you may buy men and women slaves from the nations around you. ⁴⁵You may also buy them from foreigners who have come to live among you or from their descendants. ⁴⁶You may pass such slaves on to your children as part of their inheritance. They may be redeemed, but they are not to be set free at the year of Jubilee as are the Israelites.

saves enough to buy his own freedom, he shall be allowed to do so. ⁵⁰He and his buyers shall count the number of years he worked for the man and the number of years left until the Year of Jubilee and from that determine the price of release. It should be based on the cost for a hired man for that length of time. ⁵¹If many years are left until the Year of Jubilee, the price may turn out to be higher than what the man paid for him to begin with, but they must pay it. ⁵²If only a few years are left until the Jubilee, those should be considered in paying for whatever remains, not taking into account the owner's benefit of the previous years served. ⁵³He is always to be treated as a man hired on a yearly basis. Do not let foreigners treat him cruelly. ⁵⁴If during this time he is not set free in any of these ways, when the Jubilee comes, he and his family will be free. ⁵⁵All Israelites belong to me. They are my servants. I am the One who brought them out of Egypt. I am the Lord their God."

Consequences of Obedience and Disobedience

26 The Lord continued to speak to Moses, "Do not make idols or set up statues or sacred stone pillars and worship them. I am the Lord your God. ²Keep my Sabbath and show respect for my Sanctuary. I am the Lord.

³"If you obey me and follow my instructions, ⁴I will send you rain when you need it so that your land will produce crops and your trees will bear an abundance of fruit. ⁵Your crops will be so plentiful that you will still be threshing when the grape season comes, and you'll still be picking grapes when it's time to sow your fields again. You will have plenty to eat. ⁶I will give you peace in your land and you will be able to lie down and sleep at night without having to be afraid. I will remove any dangerous animals throughout your land and wars will not come near you. ⁷If others are so foolish as to attack you, you will pursue them and they will fall by your sword. ⁸Five of you will be able to chase a hundred and a hundred of you will be able to chase ten thousand. Your enemies will run before you and they will fall by your sword.

⁹I will bless you and your children will be fruitful and multiply. I will keep my covenant that I made with you. ¹⁰You will still be eating from last year's crop when you have to make room for the new one. ¹¹I will live among you in my holy Sanctuary. I will never leave you. ¹²I will go with you and be your God and you will be my people. ¹³I am the Lord your God, the One who brought you out of Egypt and freed you from bondage. I broke the power that held you in slavery so you could be free and walk out with your head held high.

¹⁴But if you will not listen to me or follow my instructions, you will suffer the consequences. ¹⁵If you go against my laws, break my covenant and refuse to be corrected, ¹⁶I will allow disasters to come to your land. Diseases and fevers will take away your sight and drain your life forces. You will plant crops, but your enemies will come and eat them. ¹⁷I will let you be defeated and those who despise you will rule over you. You will be so scared of your enemies that you will run when no one is chasing you. ¹⁸If after all that, you still refuse to listen to me, I will discipline you seven times more than before. ¹⁹I will break your stubborn pride by withholding rain until the sky above you looks like copper and the ground under your feet feels like iron. ²⁰No matter how hard you work and what you do, your land will not produce the crops you need and your trees will not bear their full measure of fruit.

²¹If you still continue in your stubbornness, I will increase my discipline seven times greater, according to your sins. ²²I will direct wild animals to come into your land. They will be so numerous that you will not be able to destroy them fast enough. They will kill your cattle, attack your children and reduce you in number so that your streets and roads will look empty.

²³If you still refuse to listen to me and you continue to be stubborn, ²⁴I will increase my discipline seven times again. ²⁵I will direct armies to attack you, and if you run to your fortified cities for protection, I will bring disease on you and you will be so weak you will be forced to surrender. ²⁶Your food supply will be so low that ten women will need only one oven to bake the bread they have. They will cut what little they have into ten pieces to feed ten families.

²⁷If after all of this, you still won't listen to me but continue to have a rebellious spirit, ²⁸I will show my hatred of sin and again increase your discipline sevenfold. ²⁹You will be so hungry and so insensitive that you will kill and eat your own infant sons and daughters just to survive. ³⁰I will destroy your mountain retreats where you worship your idols, crush your incense altars, knock down your sun images and heap up your dead bodies on top of your crushed idols. ³¹I will reduce your cities to ruins and destroy your pagan temples. Unless you change, I will not accept any offerings you bring to me. ³²I will destroy your country so completely that even your enemies who will come to live in it will be astonished at what happened to you. ³³I will bring the sword down on you and scatter you among the nations. Your farmland will be deserted and your cities will be in ruins.

³⁴All the time you're away in exile the land will finally enjoy the rest I had set aside for it every seventh year. ³⁵By lying desolate, the land will have the rest that it should have had while you were working it. ³⁶I will make those who survived the war and were taken into exile so afraid that even the sound of leaves in the wind will scare them. They will run and fall as if someone were chasing them with a sword, when actually no one is near them. ³⁷And even though no one is pursuing them, they will stumble over each other as if they were. They will be too weak to stand up to any of their enemies. ³⁸They will die in exile and the land of their enemies will swallow up their dead. ³⁹Those who are left back home will waste away because of their own sins and the accumulated consequences of the sins of their fathers.

⁴⁰“But if they will confess their sins and acknowledge that their fathers have sinned and that they, like them, have been stubborn and refused to listen to me, I will forgive them. ⁴¹It was their stubbornness which caused me to discipline them by destroying their land and sending them into exile. But if they humble themselves and accept exile as the consequence of their own sins, ⁴²then I will reactivate the agreement I made with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and bring them back home and once again bless their land. ⁴³It will have had its rest and enjoyed its Sabbaths while they were away. They will reap the consequences of their disobedience, from breaking my commandments and my laws. ⁴⁴Yet in spite of all this, I will not abandon them while they’re in exile, nor will I abhor them so as to completely destroy them for what they and their fathers have done. I am still the Lord their God. ⁴⁵I will remember the agreement I made with their ancestors when I brought them out of the land of Egypt and in the sight of all the nations became their God.”

⁴⁶These are the instructions, the statutes and laws that the Lord gave Moses on Mount Sinai for the good of His people.

The Redemption Price of a Vow

27 The Lord said to Moses, ²“Speak to the children of Israel and say to them: If anyone vows to give himself or one of his family members to the full service of the Lord, and circumstances change so that he cannot keep his vow, he shall pay a redemption price to be freed from that vow. ³The value of an adult male from twenty to sixty years old is to be set at fifty pieces of silver; ⁴for an adult female at thirty pieces of silver; ⁵for a young male from five to twenty years at twenty pieces of silver; for a young female at ten pieces of silver; ⁶for infant males from four weeks to five years of age at five pieces of silver; infant females at three pieces of silver; ⁷males above sixty at fifteen pieces of silver; and females at ten pieces of silver. ⁸If anyone making such a vow is too poor to pay the required amount, he must present himself or the other family member to the priest who will make an adjustment of the redemption price according to what the man can afford.

⁹“If he vows to give an animal to me and the animal is one that is acceptable as a sacrifice, that animal belongs to me; it cannot be bought back. ¹⁰If the man changes his mind and decides to substitute another animal for the prize animal he said he would give to me, both animals will then be holy and belong to me. ¹¹If all he has to give is an unclean animal, such as a donkey which is unacceptable, he must bring the animal to the priest ¹²who will decide its value and set a price for it to be sold, and whatever the priest decides will be final. ¹³If the person wants to buy back the animal instead of having it sold to someone else, he must pay whatever price the priest sets, plus twenty percent.

¹⁶“If a man promises to give part of his family land to me, the price will be set according to the amount of seed required to sow it, at the rate of ten pieces of silver per bushel. ¹⁷If he promises to give part of his land to me during the year of Jubilee, the price will be arrived at the same way. ¹⁸If he promises to give part of his land to me after the Jubilee, the priest is to take into account the number of years left until the next Jubilee and reduce the price according to the years that have passed. ¹⁹If the man changes his mind and wants to keep the land that he promised to give me, he must pay the price set by the priest plus twenty percent. ²⁰If he sells the land to someone and then turns around and promises it to me, he cannot buy it back. The family loses its right to own it. ²¹At the next Jubilee it will become the permanent property of the Lord and will belong to the priests. ²²If a man promises to give a field to me that he just bought, and then changes his mind and wants to keep it, ²³the priest will decide its value based on the number of years left until the next Jubilee and the man must pay the full price that very day; he does not have to pay the extra twenty percent since he has paid for it twice. ²⁴But whether he buys it back or it stays with me, at the next Jubilee the field must be returned to its original owner. ²⁵All prices are to be set according to the official Sanctuary standard.

²⁶No one shall promise to give the firstborn of certain clean animals such as cows, sheep or goats to me, because all such firstborn animals already belong to me. ²⁷If he promised the firstborn of an unclean animal to me, it shall be sold to someone at the price decided on by the priest, or the man can buy it back for the same amount plus twenty percent.

²⁸Now if a man vows to devote something totally to my service, whether it's himself, someone from his family, an animal or a piece of land, he is not allowed to redeem it or buy it back. Whoever or whatever it is belongs to me and is most holy; nothing can be substituted for it. ²⁹Justice must be carried out in your land and someone who is under the ban of death must be executed. He is neither to be redeemed nor be allowed to pay his way free.

³⁰One tenth of everything, whether grain from the land or fruit from the trees, belongs to me. ³¹If a man wants to buy some of it back from me, he must pay the price set by the priest plus twenty percent. ³²One out of every ten animals, whether from the herd or the flock, belongs to me. The shepherd will mark such animals as he counts them when they come out of the pen and pass under his rod. ³³He must not line up the animals in such a way so as to make the nine good ones pass through the counting gate first, nor is he to make any substitutions. If he does, both the Lord's animal and the substitute animal will belong to me and cannot be bought back."

³⁴These are the instructions the Lord gave to Moses on Mount Sinai to give to the children of Israel.

The First Census

1 And the Lord spoke to Moses from the newly erected Sanctuary in the Sinai wilderness on the first day of the second month in the second year after the children of Israel had left Egypt, saying, ²“Take a census of the children of Israel by tribes and families listing every male by name. ³You and Aaron are to keep a count of those who are twenty years old and up who are fit for military service. ⁴I have chosen one man from each tribe to help you; each one is a leader of his ancestral house.

¹⁷Moses and Aaron gladly accepted the men as leaders to help them. ¹⁸And the same day that the Lord asked for a census to be taken, Moses announced it to the people. So on the first day of the second month in the second year after the children of Israel had left Egypt, Moses and Aaron and the leaders chosen by God for the twelve tribes began to count the men twenty years old and up who were fit for military service. They did this by tribes and families, just as the Lord had told them to do. ¹⁹Moses and Aaron took the census right there in the Sinai wilderness.

²⁰They began with the tribe of Reuben, Jacob's firstborn, by families, then by households, counting those twenty years old and up who could serve in the army. ²¹From the tribe of Reuben there were forty-six thousand, five hundred, ²²from the tribe of Simeon, ²³fifty-nine thousand, three hundred, ²⁴from the tribe of Gad, ²⁵forty-five thousand, six hundred and fifty, ²⁶from the tribe of Judah, ²⁷seventy-four thousand, six hundred, ²⁸from the tribe of Issachar, ²⁹fifty-four thousand, four hundred, ³⁰from the tribe of Zebulun, ³¹fifty-seven thousand, four hundred, ³²from the tribe of Ephraim, the son of Joseph, ³³forty thousand, five hundred, ³⁴from the tribe of Manasseh, ³⁵thirty-two thousand, two hundred, ³⁶from the tribe of Benjamin, ³⁷thirty-five thousand, four hundred, ³⁸from the tribe of Dan, ³⁹sixty-two thousand, seven hundred, ⁴⁰from the tribe of Asher, ⁴¹forty-one thousand, five hundred, ⁴²and from the tribe of Naphtali, ⁴³fifty-three thousand, four hundred.

⁴⁴These were the number of men fit for military service as counted by Moses and Aaron and the leaders chosen by the Lord to help them. ⁴⁵They were listed according to their tribes and family divisions and were registered as such for military service. ⁴⁶The total was six hundred and three thousand, five hundred and fifty.

⁴⁷The tribe of Levi was not included in this census like the other tribes, ⁴⁸because the Lord had said to Moses, ⁴⁹“When you take the census, do not count the tribe of Levi, for those men are mine. ⁵⁰They are in charge of the Sanctuary and all its equipment. They are to care for it, carry it when you move, set it up at the next campsite, then pitch their tents around it. ⁵¹When I tell you to move, only the Levites are to take the Sanctuary down, and only the Levites are to set it up again. Anyone else who comes near the Sanctuary to touch it or to help them is to be put to death. ⁵²Once the place of the Sanctuary is staked out at the new campsite, the children of Israel are to pitch their tents by tribes and family divisions, each under its own flag with its own insignia. ⁵³But the Levites are to keep others from carelessly going near it and touching it so I don't have to discipline them." ⁵⁴And the children of Israel did everything the Lord told Moses to tell them to do.

The Leaders of Tribes

2 The Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron again, ²"When the children of Israel set up camp, each man is to pitch his tent under the banner of his tribe and family division. The tribes are to set up camp on all four sides of the Sanctuary. ³Looking east from the Sanctuary, toward the sunrise, the family divisions of the tribe of Judah shall camp under their tribal banner whose insignia is a lion. Nahshon, the son of Amminadab, will be the leader ⁴and commander over Judah's seventy-four thousand, six hundred men in his division. ⁵The tribe of Issachar shall camp to the right of Judah under their tribal banner. Nethanel, the son of Zuar, will be the leader ⁶and commander over Issachar's fifty-four thousand, four hundred men in his division. ⁷The tribe of Zebulun shall camp to the left of Judah under their tribal banner. Eliab, the son of Helon, will be the leader ⁸and commander over Zebulun's fifty-seven thousand, four hundred men in his division. ⁹The tribe of Judah shall be the lead tribe of this first set of three tribes to march out of camp with a combined total of one hundred and eighty-six thousand, four hundred men.

the leader ¹¹and commander over Reuben's forty-six thousand, five hundred men in his division. ¹²The tribe of Simeon shall camp to the left of Reuben under their tribal banner. Shelumiel, the son of Zurishaddai, will be the leader ¹³and commander over Simeon's fifty-nine thousand, three hundred men in his division. ¹⁴The tribe of Gad shall camp to the right of Reuben under their tribal banner. Eliasaph, the son of Deuel, will be the leader ¹⁵and commander over Gad's forty-five thousand, six hundred and fifty men in his division. ¹⁶The tribe of Reuben shall be the lead tribe of these three tribes and the second group to march out of camp with a combined total of one hundred and fifty-one thousand, four hundred and fifty men.

¹⁸"To the west of the Sanctuary, the tribe of Ephraim shall set up camp under their tribal banner whose insignia is a bull. Elishama, the son of Ammihud, will be the leader ¹⁹and commander over Ephraim's forty thousand, five hundred men in his division. ²⁰The tribe of Manasseh shall camp to the left of Ephraim under their tribal banner. Gamaliel, the son of Pedahzur, will be the leader ²¹and commander over Manasseh's thirty-two thousand, two hundred men in his division. ²²The tribe of Benjamin shall camp to the right of Ephraim under their tribal banner. Abidan, the son of Gideoni, will be the leader ²³and commander over Benjamin's thirty-five thousand, four hundred men in his division. ²⁴The tribe of Ephraim shall be the lead tribe of these three tribes which are to follow behind the tribe of Levi carrying the articles and materials of the Sanctuary with a combined total of one hundred and eight thousand, one hundred men fit for war.

²⁵"To the north of the Sanctuary, the tribe of Dan shall set up camp under their tribal banner whose insignia is an eagle, the killer of snakes. Ahiezer, the son of Ammishaddai, will be the leader ²⁶and commander of Dan's sixty-two thousand, seven hundred men in his division. ²⁷The tribe of Asher shall camp to the right of Dan under their tribal banner. Pagiel, the son of Ochran, will be the leader ²⁸and commander of Asher's forty-one thousand, five hundred men in his division. ²⁹The tribe of Naphtali shall camp to the left of Dan under their tribal banner. Ahira, the son of Enan, will be the leader ³⁰and commander of Naphtali's fifty-three thousand, four hundred men in his division. ³¹The tribe of Dan shall be the lead tribe of these last three tribes which are to follow the third set of three in the line of march with a combined total of one hundred and fifty-seven thousand, six hundred men fit for war.

³⁴The people of Israel did everything the Lord said according to the instructions He gave to Moses. Each tribe camped under its own banner in the place assigned to it, leaving a huge hollow square in the middle of the camp for the Sanctuary. And whenever the children of Israel broke camp they marched out in their assigned order.

The Sons of Aaron

3 The families of Moses and Aaron at the time the Lord spoke with Moses on Mount Sinai were as follows: ²Aaron had four sons whose names were Nadab the firstborn, Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. ³They were all anointed and set aside as priests for the Lord's service. ⁴But Nadab and Abihu fell dead before the Lord when they made an offering with unholy fire in the Sanctuary while the children of Israel were still in the wilderness. They had no sons, so only Eleazar and Ithamar served as priests with their father Aaron during his lifetime.

The Levites and the Sanctuary

⁵It was also at Sinai that the Lord said to Moses, ⁶"Bring the tribe of Levi forward and set them before Aaron, for they are to be his support staff to serve him and his sons. ⁷The Levites are to help them perform their duties as required by the various services of the Sanctuary and to carry out their responsibilities of ministry to the people. ⁸They are to care for all the furnishings of the Sanctuary, do all the work of setting it up and taking it down, and any other duties needed to serve the children of Israel there. ⁹The Levites are responsible only to Aaron and his sons. They are the only tribe that has been set apart to serve me in this way. ¹⁰Appoint Aaron and his sons to serve me as priests. Anyone else who approaches the Sanctuary to carry out a priestly function is to be put to death."

¹¹The Lord also said to Moses, ¹²"I have chosen the tribe of Levi to serve me in this way in place of all the firstborn males who have opened the womb. ¹³These firstborn males are mine because I spared them the night I brought the children of Israel out of Egypt. All the firstborn males are mine, both human and animal. I am the Lord."

Census of the Levites

¹⁴The Lord continued to speak to Moses at Sinai, saying, ¹⁵"Count the Levites by family divisions and register every male from a month old and up." ¹⁶Moses did as the Lord said and counted them all. ¹⁷These are the names of the three sons of Levi, who were the original heads of the divisions of families: Gershon, Kohath and Merari. ¹⁸Gershon had two sons named Libni and Shimei. ¹⁹Kohath had four sons named Amram, Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel. ²⁰Merari had two sons named Mahli and Mushi. All of these were the ancestors of the Levite families that bear their names.

²¹The Libnites and Shimeites belonged to Gershon and were known as the Gershonites. ²²Their males one month and older numbered seven thousand, five hundred. ²³The Gershonites were to camp west of the Sanctuary. ²⁴Their leader was Eliasaph, the son of Lael. ²⁵They were responsible for both the inner and outer coverings of the Sanctuary, as well as the curtain for the entrance going into the Holy Place. ²⁶all the courtyard curtains that go around the entire Sanctuary with its sacrificial altar, and the curtains for the courtyard entrance.

²⁷The Amramites, the Izharites, the Hebronites and the Uzzielites belonged to Kohath and were known as the Kohathites. ²⁸Their males one month and older numbered eight thousand, six hundred. They were responsible for the Sanctuary, ²⁹and were to camp to the south of it. ³⁰Their leader was Elizaphan, the son of Uzziel. ³¹They were responsible for the Ark of the Covenant, the table of showbread, the lampstand, the altar of incense, the sacrificial altar, the utensils used by the priests and the curtain going into the Most Holy Place. ³²Eleazar, the son of Aaron, who served as a priest was in charge of the Levites who took care of the Sanctuary.

³³The Mahlites and the Mushites were descendants of Merari, the other son of Aaron, and they were known as the Merarites. ³⁴Their males one month and older numbered six thousand, two hundred. ³⁵They were to camp to the north of the Sanctuary. Their leader was Zuriel, the son of Abihail. ³⁶They were responsible for the frames of the Sanctuary, its crossbars, posts, bases, all the fittings to hold them up and all the work connected with them. ³⁷They also were responsible for all the posts, bases, pegs and ropes that hold up the curtains for the courtyard.

³⁸The families of Moses and Aaron were to camp to the east of the Sanctuary on the side of its entrance.

Aaron and his sons were responsible for carrying out the services of the Sanctuary on behalf of the people. Anyone else who would attempt to do so was to be put to death. ³⁹The combined total of Levite males one month and older was twenty-two thousand.

Levites Take the Place of the Firstborn

⁴⁰Then the Lord said to Moses, "Now I want you to count all the firstborn males who opened the womb, those one month and older from all the tribes of Israel. ⁴¹Then set aside the Levites for me in place of all these firstborn males, and set aside the cattle of the Levites in place of the firstborn cattle of Israel. I am the Lord." ⁴²Moses did everything the Lord asked him to do. ⁴³These firstborn males from all the tribes of Israel numbered twenty-two thousand, two hundred and seventy-three.

⁴⁴Then the Lord spoke to Moses again, saying, ⁴⁵"In place of the firstborn of Israel, take the Levites to serve me, and in place of the firstborn cattle of Israel, take the cattle of the Levites. The Levites are mine. I am the Lord. ⁴⁶Since there are two hundred and seventy three more of these firstborn than there are Levites, these extra sons must pay a redemption price to me. ⁴⁷For each such firstborn collect five pieces of silver according to the standard of the Sanctuary, ⁴⁸and give the money paid for these extra firstborn to Aaron and his sons." ⁴⁹Moses did as the Lord had said and collected the redemption money for the firstborn that were more than the number of Levites. ⁵⁰He collected one thousand, three hundred and sixty-five pieces of silver ⁵¹and gave them to Aaron and his sons as the Lord had directed.

The Sons of Kohath

4 Again the Lord spoke to Moses, ²"Take a census of the Kohathites by families, ³and register all the men between the ages of thirty and fifty who are qualified to do their assigned work for the Sanctuary, ⁴including the work that needs to be done in connection with those things that are most holy. ⁵When it is time to break camp and move, Aaron and his sons are to go into the Most Holy Place, take down the entry curtain and use it to cover the Ark of the Covenant. ⁶They are to put a fine leather covering over it, spread a blue cloth over that and make sure the carrying poles are in place. ⁷They also are to go into the Holy Place and spread a blue cloth over the table of showbread with the bread still on it. On top of that, lay the plates, spoons, bowls and jars used for the drink offerings. ⁸Over all these things they must spread a bright red cloth. They must spread a fine leather cover over that and make sure the carrying poles are in place.

⁹Next they are to put out the lights of the seven-branched lampstand and cover it, the wick trimmers and trays with a blue cloth. All the jars used for oil in the lamps must also be covered. ¹⁰Then they must wrap everything in fine leather and place them on a carrying frame. ¹¹After that they are to spread a blue cloth over the altar of incense, put a fine leather cover over that and make sure the carrying poles are in place. ¹²They are to take all the utensils used for ministering in the Holy Place, wrap them in a blue cloth, cover them with fine leather and place them on a carrying frame. ¹³Outside the Sanctuary, in the courtyard, they are to remove the ashes from the altar of sacrifice and spread a purple cloth over it. ¹⁴Then they are to take all the utensils used for ministering at the altar, such as firepans, meat forks, shovels and basins, and lay them on the altar. Over this they must spread a fine leather covering and then make sure the carrying poles are in place. They are to do the same thing to the laver.

¹⁵When Aaron and his sons have done all this and all the items have an outer cover of leather, except the Ark that has an outer covering of blue, then break camp and move on. Only the Kohathites, the descendants of Levi, are to carry these things—no one else, or they will die. The Kohathites are to organize themselves into teams, so they can take turns carrying the Sanctuary to the next camp. ¹⁶Eleazar, the son of Aaron, is responsible to see that all of this is done right. He is also in charge of oil for the lamps, incense, grain offerings and anointing oil. He is to oversee all that is done for the entire Sanctuary and its contents."

¹⁷The Lord continued to speak to Moses and Aaron, saying, ¹⁸"Number all the men from the Kohathites from thirty to fifty years old who are qualified to do the work assigned to them and be sure to tell them not to touch any of the Sanctuary furniture, except for the carrying poles, or they will die. ¹⁹To keep them from losing their lives, Aaron and his sons are to take each carrying team into the Sanctuary and make sure that each man on the team knows what to do. ²⁰The Kohathites are not to enter the Sanctuary beforehand to watch the priests cover the furniture or they will die."

The Sons of Gershon

²¹Then the Lord said to Moses, ²²"Take a census of the Gershonites by families. ²³Register all men between the ages of thirty and fifty who are qualified to do their assigned work for the Sanctuary. ²⁴The Gershonites are responsible for carrying the following items: ²⁵the curtains of the Sanctuary, its tent coverings including the outer covering of fine leather, the curtain for the Holy Place, ²⁶the curtains for the courtyard, the ropes and all the things needed for ministering in the Sanctuary. ²⁷All this is to be done under the supervision of Aaron and his sons. They are to see to it that the Gershonites carry all the things assigned to them. ²⁸These responsibilities the Gershonites are to carry out under the direction of Ithamar, the son of Aaron.

The Sons of Merari

²⁹“Next, take a census of the Merarites by families. ³⁰Count all the men between the ages of thirty and fifty who are qualified to do their assigned work for the Sanctuary. ³¹They are to carry the frames of the Sanctuary, its crossbars, posts and bases, pegs and ropes, ³²the posts and bases for the courtyard with their pegs and ropes and all the things used with the poles of the courtyard. Each man is to be assigned the specific item he is to carry. ³³The Merarites also are to carry out these responsibilities under the direction of Ithamar, the son of Aaron.”

The Number of Levites

³⁴When Moses and Aaron with the help of the tribal leaders had counted the Kohathites with their families, ³⁵all the men from thirty to fifty years of age who were qualified to do their assigned work for the Sanctuary ³⁶numbered two thousand, seven hundred and fifty. ³⁷This was the total of the able-bodied Kohathite men assigned to the work of the Sanctuary, and they were registered by Moses and Aaron just as the Lord had told them.

³⁸When the Gershonites were counted with their families, ³⁹all the men from thirty to fifty years old who were qualified to do the work assigned them ⁴⁰numbered two thousand, six hundred and thirty. ⁴¹This was the total of the able-bodied Gershonite men assigned to the work of the Sanctuary, and they were registered by Moses and Aaron just like the others.

⁴²When the Merarites were counted by their families, ⁴³all the men from thirty to fifty years old who were qualified to do their assigned work for the Sanctuary ⁴⁴numbered three thousand, two hundred. ⁴⁵This was the total of the able-bodied Merarite men assigned to the work of the Sanctuary, and they also were registered by Moses and Aaron.

⁴⁶So together with the help of the tribal leaders, Moses and Aaron completed the census of all the descendants of Levi by their families, as the Lord had told them to do. ⁴⁷All men from thirty to fifty years old who were qualified to do their assigned work in the Sanctuary ⁴⁸numbered eight thousand, five hundred and eighty. ⁴⁹Moses and Aaron completed the census and assigned each man a specific task. Each one was told what to carry and how to do it. This was as the Lord had instructed them to do.

Unclean Persons

5 Then the Lord said to Moses, ²“The children of Israel are to send away from the camp anyone who has a contagious skin disease or a bodily discharge, and also anyone who is ritually unclean from contact with a corpse. ³This applies to both men and women. They must live outside the camp until they are clean, so as not to spread disease in the camp. And also because my presence is there.” ⁴So the Israelites sent all such persons away from the camp just as the Lord had asked them to do.

Confession and Restitution

⁵Again the Lord spoke to Moses, ⁶“When a man or a woman does something wrong against another person, he or she has sinned against the Lord and is guilty. ⁷The person is to confess his wrong, make full restitution plus twenty percent and give it all to the person he has wronged. ⁸If the person he wronged is dead and has no close relatives to whom the restitution can be paid, he is to take it to the Sanctuary and give it to the Lord for support of the priests. The priest must sacrifice a ram to remove that person’s guilt. ⁹All the contributions that the children of Israel bring to the Lord are sacred and are to be used for the support of the priests. ¹⁰Each person’s gift to the Lord is sacred and what he brings to the Sanctuary will belong to the priest to whom he gave it.”

Unfaithful Wives

¹¹Then the Lord said to Moses, ¹²“If among the children of Israel, a man suspects that his wife has been unfaithful to him, ¹³and he thinks she has slept with another man, but he isn’t sure because she denied it when he confronted her; if there is no witness to prove otherwise, ¹⁴yet he still suspects her of having done so and the feeling of jealousy will not leave him, ¹⁵he is to bring his wife to the Sanctuary to see the priest. He also is to bring with him the required offering of two pounds of barley flour, but he is not to pour the required olive oil or incense on the flour as is usually the case, because it is an offering brought by a suspecting husband to find out if she is guilty.

¹⁶“The priest is to ask the woman to come into the courtyard and stand before the Lord in front of the altar. ¹⁷He is to pour water from the laver into a clay jar and take some dust from the floor of the Holy Place and sprinkle it into the water. ¹⁸Then he is to ask the woman to loosen her hair and is to place in her hands the barley flour offering that her husband brought. While the priest is holding the clay jar with the water mixed with dust, ¹⁹he is to have the woman take an oath after he says to her, ‘If you have not slept with another man as you say, you will not be hurt by drinking this water, ²⁰but if you have been unfaithful to your husband and have slept with another man, ²¹the Lord will make you infertile. Your uterus will drop, you will miscarry and your abdomen will swell. When the people see this they will denounce you for what you have done. ²²As this water enters your body the Lord will bring all this upon you.’ The woman is to take an oath and agree to the conditions and say, ‘So be it.’

²³“Then the priest is to write the conditions down and when he has finished, he is to wash the writing off into the jar of water. ²⁴The woman is to get ready to drink this bitter mixture that will bring on the consequences that were written down by the priest. ²⁵The priest is to take the two pounds of barley flour he asked her to hold and raise it up before the Lord. ²⁶Then he is to take a handful of it and burn it on the altar as a token offering to the Lord. After this the woman is to drink the bitter water as she was asked to do. ²⁷If she has been unfaithful to her husband, the water she drinks will bring on the consequences. Her uterus will drop, she will miscarry and her abdomen will swell. She will always be infertile and the people will turn against her. ²⁸If she’s innocent, the water will not hurt her body. She will be cleared of guilt and will be able to bear children.

²⁹“This is the law for cases where a husband suspects his wife of having been unfaithful to him, ³⁰or when a man feels jealous and wants to make sure that his wife still belongs to him. In any of these cases, the priest is to have her come before the Lord and carry out the law. ³¹If the woman is guilty, she has brought the consequences on herself. Her husband is not to be held guilty of causing these consequences.”

The Nazarite Law

6 Again the Lord spoke to Moses, ²“Tell the children of Israel that if a man or a woman decides to take a vow of special dedication to the Lord and for a specified time to become a Nazarite, this is what he or she is to do: ³He is to abstain from all wine and alcoholic drinks and from any kind of drink with alcohol in it. Neither is he to drink unfermented wine, eat grapes or raisins, or drink anything that has grape juice in it. ⁴As long as he is under this vow he is not to eat anything produced from grapes, from its seeds or from its skin.

father, mother, brother or sister dies, he is not to touch them but is to stay ritually clean because he has set himself apart for God and is under a vow of special dedication. ⁸During this time he is holy to the Lord, because he has set himself apart.

⁹If someone next to him suddenly dies, he has become ritually unclean and is to wait seven days, then shave his head and beard. ¹⁰On the eighth day he is to bring two doves or two young pigeons to the Sanctuary. ¹¹The priest is to offer one of these as a sin offering and the other as a consecration offering to make atonement for him because the man became unclean by being in the presence of someone who died. On that day he is to rededicate himself to the Lord and begin to let his hair and beard grow again. ¹²His previous days under the vow were lost. He is to start his period of special dedication over again by bringing a one-year-old male lamb as a sin offering to the Lord.

¹³When the period of dedication is over, he is to come to the Sanctuary and present himself to the Lord. ¹⁴He is to bring with him three animals without defect, a one-year-old ram for a whole burnt offering, a one-year-old female lamb for a sin offering and a full-grown ram for a peace offering. ¹⁵He also is to bring a basket of unleavened bread made with flour mixed with olive oil and wafers brushed with olive oil. In addition he is to bring the regular grain and drink offering. ¹⁶The priest is to present all these to the Lord and offer up the sin offering and the whole burnt offering. ¹⁷He is to present the basket of bread and sacrifice the ram as a peace offering, presenting the grain and drink offerings with them. ¹⁸The one who has taken the vow of dedication is to perform the Nazarite ritual in the courtyard near the entrance of the Sanctuary. He is to shave his head and his beard and put the hair in the fire with the peace offering. ¹⁹After this the priest is to place in the hands of the man a boiled shoulder from the ram that was kept back from the fire and also bread and a wafer from the basket. ²⁰Then the priest is to take each piece and hold it up before the Lord as a special offering. Such offerings are holy and belong to the priest, in addition to those parts of the offering that normally belong to him. After that, the one having taken the Nazarite vow may again drink from the grape.

²¹"This is the law for those who wish to take the vow of special dedication. If such a person promises to bring additional offerings to the Lord beyond what was required, he is to keep his promise just as he made it."

The Priestly Blessing

²²Then the Lord said to Moses, ²³"Tell Aaron and his sons that they are to bless the children of Israel with this prayer: ²⁴The Lord bless you and keep you; ²⁵the Lord make His face shine upon you and be gracious to you; ²⁶the Lord look joyfully and lovingly on you and give you peace.

²⁷"Aaron and his sons are to bless the people this way, and I will bless them."

Offerings Brought by the Leaders

7 The same day that Moses finished setting up the Sanctuary, he anointed and dedicated all its furnishings, including the sacrificial altar in the courtyard and all its utensils. ²Then the leaders of the tribes who had been in charge of taking the census ³brought their gifts to the Lord. They brought six covered carts to carry parts of the Sanctuary and twelve oxen to pull them. Each leader gave one ox and every two leaders one cart, and they brought them to the Sanctuary. ⁴Then the Lord said to Moses, ⁵"Accept these gifts from the leaders to be used for the Sanctuary and give them to the Levites for the work they need to do."

⁶So Moses took the six carts and the twelve oxen to pull them and gave them to the Levites. ⁷He gave two carts and four oxen to the Gershonites ⁸and four carts and eight oxen to the Merarites, all of whom were under the supervision of Ithamar, the son of Aaron. ⁹But Moses did not give carts or oxen to the Kohathites because the holy things they were responsible for were to be carried on their shoulders. ¹⁰The twelve tribal leaders also brought special offerings to the Lord to be used for the dedication of the Sanctuary.

¹¹The Lord had said to Moses, "Each day for twelve days one tribal leader is to bring his gifts to the Lord including the offerings that are to be burned on the altar for the dedication of the Sanctuary."

¹²On the first day Nahshon, the son of Amminadab and leader of the tribe of Judah, brought his gifts. ¹³He brought one silver plate weighing three pounds and one silver bowl weighing two pounds, each holding a grain offering of fine flour mixed with olive oil, ¹⁴and one small bowl of solid gold weighing four ounces filled with incense. ¹⁵He also brought a young bull, a ram and a year-old lamb for a whole burnt offering, ¹⁶a goat for a sin offering, ¹⁷and two young bulls, five rams, five goats and five one-year-old lambs for a peace offering. These were the gifts and offerings of Nahshon.

¹⁸On the second day Nethanel, the son of Zuar and leader of the tribe of Issachar, brought his offerings and gifts. ¹⁹He brought one silver plate weighing three pounds and one silver bowl weighing two pounds, each holding a grain offering of fine flour mixed with olive oil, ²⁰and one small bowl of solid gold weighing four ounces filled with incense. ²¹He also brought a young bull, a ram and a one-year-old lamb for a whole burnt offering, ²²a goat for a sin offering, ²³and two young bulls, five rams, five goats and five one-year-old lambs for a peace offering. These were the gifts and offerings of Nethanel.

²⁴On the third day Eliab, the son of Helon and leader of the tribe of Zebulun, brought his offerings and gifts. ²⁵He brought one silver plate weighing three pounds and one silver bowl weighing two pounds, each holding a grain offering of fine flour mixed with olive oil, ²⁶and one small bowl of solid gold weighing four ounces filled with incense. ²⁷He also brought a young bull, a ram and a one-year-old lamb for a whole burnt offering, ²⁸a goat for a sin offering, ²⁹and two young bulls, five rams, five goats and five one-year-old lambs for a peace offering. These were the gifts and offerings of Eliab.

³⁰On the fourth day Elizur, the son of Shedeur and leader of the tribe of Reuben, brought his offerings and gifts. ³¹He brought one silver plate weighing three pounds and one silver bowl weighing two pounds, each holding a grain offering of fine flour mixed with olive oil, ³²and one small bowl of solid gold weighing four ounces filled with incense. ³³He also brought a young bull, a ram and a one-year-old lamb for a whole burnt offering, ³⁴a goat for a sin offering, ³⁵and two young bulls, five rams, five goats and five one-year-old lambs for a peace offering. These were the gifts and offerings of Elizur.

³⁶On the fifth day Shelumiel, the son of Zurishaddai and leader of the tribe of Simeon, brought his offerings and gifts. ³⁷He brought one silver plate weighing three pounds and one silver bowl weighing two pounds, each holding a grain offering of fine flour mixed with olive oil, ³⁸and one small bowl of solid gold weighing four ounces filled with incense. ³⁹He also brought a young bull, a ram and a one-year-old lamb for a whole burnt offering, ⁴⁰a goat for a sin offering, ⁴¹and two young bulls, five rams, five goats and five one-year-old lambs for a peace offering. These were the gifts and offerings of Shelumiel.

⁴⁸On the seventh day Elishama, the son of Ammihud and leader of the tribe of Ephraim, brought his offerings and gifts. ⁴⁹He brought one silver plate weighing three pounds and one silver bowl weighing two pounds, each holding a grain offering of fine flour mixed with olive oil, ⁵⁰and one small bowl of solid gold weighing four ounces filled with incense. ⁵¹He also brought a young bull, a ram and a one-year-old lamb for a whole burnt offering, ⁵²a goat for a sin offering, ⁵³and two young bulls, five rams, five goats and five one-year-old lambs for a peace offering. These were the gifts and offerings of Elishama.

⁵⁴On the eighth day Gamaliel, the son of Pedahzur and leader of the tribe of Manasseh, brought his offerings and gifts. ⁵⁵He brought one silver plate weighing three pounds and one silver bowl weighing two pounds, each holding a grain offering of fine flour mixed with olive oil, ⁵⁶and one small bowl of solid gold weighing four ounces filled with incense. ⁵⁷He also brought a young bull, a ram and a one-year-old lamb for a whole burnt offering, ⁵⁸a goat for a sin offering, ⁵⁹and two young bulls, five rams, five goats and five one-year-old lambs for a peace offering. These were the gifts and offerings of Gamaliel.

⁶⁰On the ninth day Abidan, the son of Gideoni and leader of the tribe of Benjamin, brought his offerings and gifts. ⁶¹He brought one silver plate weighing three pounds and one silver bowl weighing two pounds, each holding a grain offering of fine flour mixed with olive oil, ⁶²and one small bowl of solid gold weighing four ounces filled with incense. ⁶³He also brought a young bull, a ram and a one-year-old lamb for a whole burnt offering, ⁶⁴a goat for a sin offering, ⁶⁵and two young bulls, five rams, five goats and five one-year-old lambs for a peace offering. These were the gifts and offerings of Abidan.

⁶⁶On the tenth day Ahiezer, the son of Ammishaddai and leader of the tribe of Dan, brought his offerings and gifts. ⁶⁷He brought one silver plate weighing three pounds and one silver bowl weighing two pounds, each holding a grain offering of fine flour mixed with olive oil, ⁶⁸and one small bowl of solid gold weighing four ounces filled with incense. ⁶⁹He also brought a young bull, a ram and a year-old lamb for a whole burnt offering, ⁷⁰a goat for a sin offering, ⁷¹and two young bulls, five rams, five goats and five one-year-old lambs for a peace offering. These were the gifts and offerings of Ahiezer.

⁷²On the eleventh day Pagiel, the son of Ochran and leader of the tribe of Asher, brought his offerings and gifts. ⁷³He brought one silver plate weighing three pounds and one silver bowl weighing two pounds, each holding a grain offering of fine flour mixed with olive oil, ⁷⁴and one small bowl of solid gold weighing four ounces filled with incense. ⁷⁵He also brought a young bull, a ram and a one-year-old lamb for a whole burnt offering, ⁷⁶a goat for a sin offering, ⁷⁷and two young bulls, five rams, five goats and five one-year-old lambs for a peace offering. These were the gifts and offerings of Pagiel.

⁷⁸On the twelfth day Ahira, the son of Enan and leader of the tribe of Naphtali, brought his offerings and gifts. ⁷⁹He brought one silver plate weighing three pounds and one silver bowl weighing two pounds, each holding a grain offering of fine flour mixed with olive oil, ⁸⁰and one small bowl of solid gold weighing four ounces filled with incense. ⁸¹He also brought a young bull, a ram and a one-year-old lamb for a whole burnt offering, ⁸²a goat for a sin offering, ⁸³and two young bulls, five rams, five goats and five one-year-old lambs for a peace offering. These were the gifts and offerings of Ahira.

⁸⁴Such were the offerings of the twelve tribal leaders of Israel for the dedication of the Sanctuary and the sacrificial altar. This was after Moses had anointed the Sanctuary. They brought a total of twelve silver plates, twelve silver bowls and twelve small bowls of solid gold. ⁸⁵Each silver plate weighed three pounds and each silver bowl weighed two pounds. Altogether their gifts weighed sixty pounds, according to the weights and measures of the Sanctuary. ⁸⁶The twelve small gold bowls filled with incense weighed four ounces each. Altogether they weighed forty-eight ounces or three pounds, according to the weights and measures of the Sanctuary.

⁸⁷The total number of animals brought for consecration offerings was twelve young bulls, twelve rams and twelve one-year-old lambs, plus twelve grain offerings. Twelve goats were brought for sin offerings. ⁸⁸The total number of animals brought for peace offerings was twenty-four young bulls, sixty rams, sixty goats and sixty one-year-old lambs. These gifts and offerings were for the dedication of the Sanctuary and the sacrificial altar after Moses had already anointed everything.

⁸⁹When Moses went back into the Sanctuary to seek the Lord, he heard the Lord's voice coming from between the cherubim above the Ark of the Covenant. It was from there that the Lord spoke to him.

The Golden Lampstand

8 The Lord said to Moses, ²"Tell Aaron that when he puts the seven-branched lampstand in place, he is to set it against the wall so it will light the area in front of it." ³So Aaron set the lampstand against the wall just as he was told. ⁴The lampstand was one solid piece of gold hammered into shape from the bottom to the top, including its golden blossoms. It was made exactly like the pattern the Lord had shown Moses on the mountain.

The Levites Dedicated

dren of Israel and purify them so they will be ceremonially clean. ⁷First, sprinkle them with the water of purification, then have them shave their bodies and wash their clothes. After they have done this, they will be ceremonially clean. ⁸They are to bring a young bull as a consecration offering, as well as a grain offering of fine flour mixed with olive oil. They are to take a second young bull for a sin offering. ⁹Have the Levites come in groups into the courtyard of the Sanctuary by the entrance into the Holy Place and present them to the Lord. Then call the people together to witness the event.

¹⁰"The leaders of Israel are to come into the courtyard and place their hands on the heads of the Levites. ¹¹Then Aaron is to dedicate the Levites and present them to me as a special offering from the people. The Levites are to be set apart for the work of the Lord. ¹²After this the Levites are to file by and lay their hands on the heads of the two bulls. One is to be offered for a sin offering and the other for a consecration offering to make an atonement for them. ¹³Then let them stand in front of Aaron and his sons who are to present them as a living offering to the Lord.

¹⁴"This is how the Levites are to be set apart from the people, because they are mine. ¹⁵After they've been dedicated to me, they are to begin their assigned work at the Sanctuary. ¹⁶These are the sons of Israel that in a special way belong to me, because I have claimed them in place of the firstborn males. ¹⁷Every firstborn male who opened the womb, whether from man or animal, is mine. When I struck down the firstborn of Egypt, I saved the firstborn of Israel. That's why they're mine. ¹⁸But I have decided to take the Levites in place of these firstborn males. That's why they are being set apart. ¹⁹I have given them to Aaron and his sons as support staff to help in the work of the Sanctuary. They will serve on behalf of the people, and no harm will come to them as it would to others who might presume to serve there.”

²⁰So Moses, Aaron and the children of Israel set the Levites apart as the Lord had asked them to. ²¹The Levites purified themselves, washed their clothes, and Aaron presented them to the Lord as a special offering from the people and dedicated them to the Lord by making an atonement for them. ²²After this, the Levites began their work at the Sanctuary under the supervision of Aaron and his sons, who shared with them what the Lord had told them to do.

²³Then the Lord said to Moses, ²⁴“The Levites are to assume their responsibilities and to take part in the work of the Sanctuary beginning at the age of twenty-five. ²⁵At the age of fifty they are to retire from work at the Sanctuary and are freed from the responsibilities of service. ²⁶However, they may volunteer to help younger Levites with minor duties. But they are to do no heavy work such as lifting parts of animals or performing difficult services. This is how the responsibilities of the Levites are to be divided according to age.”

The Second Passover

9 The Lord spoke to Moses in the first month of the second year after the children of Israel had come out of Egypt, ²“Be sure to have the people keep the Passover at the appointed time. ³On the fourteenth day of this month beginning at sunset, the Israelites are to keep the Passover according to the instructions I have given you.” ⁴Then Moses told the people to prepare to keep the Passover.

⁵So while still in the wilderness of Sinai, on the fourteenth day of the first month of the second year, beginning at sunset, they kept the Passover according to the instructions of the Lord. ⁶But there were some who couldn't keep the Passover that day because they had touched a dead person and were ceremonially unclean. So they went to Moses and Aaron and said, ⁷“We understand that we are not fit to keep the Passover because we are ritually unclean from having touched a dead person, but why can't we at least present an offering to the Lord as the other people do?” ⁸Moses answered, “Let me ask the Lord about this.”

⁹Moses asked the Lord, and the Lord said, ¹⁰“Tell the children of Israel that when any one of them or their descendants are ceremonially unfit to keep the Passover because they have touched a dead body or because they've not returned home from a journey, they still can keep the Passover, but not at the regular time. ¹¹They need to make arrangements to keep it one month later, on the fourteenth day of the second month, beginning at sunset the evening before. ¹²They are not to break any of the lamb's bones, and the next day they are not to eat any of the leftovers. When they keep the Passover on their own like this, they are to follow all the instructions that go with it. ¹³If a man was ceremonially unclean and couldn't keep the Passover the first month, or if he was on a distant journey during that time, he is to keep the Passover on the fourteenth day of the second month. If he fails to do so, he is to be cut off from the people, because he did not bring the Passover offering to the Lord at the appointed time. He is responsible for the consequences of his own sin. ¹⁴If a foreigner who lives among you wants to keep the Passover, he is to be allowed to do so in harmony with all the instructions given to the children of Israel. The same law applies to everyone, whether he is born a Jew or not.”

A Cloud by Day and a Fire by Night

¹⁵The same day that Moses set up the Sanctuary, the cloud of the Lord covered it. At night the cloud looked as if it were on fire and continued so until morning. ¹⁶That's how it was every day; the cloud of the Lord rested over the Sanctuary by day, and at sunset it began to give light as if it were on fire. ¹⁷Whenever the cloud lifted, the people knew that it was time to break camp and move. When the cloud stopped they knew it was time to set up camp and erect the Sanctuary. ¹⁸So at the command of the Lord, the children of Israel moved on, and at His command they set up camp. As long as the Lord's cloud rested over the Sanctuary, they stayed where they were. ¹⁹Even if the cloud remained over the Sanctuary for days or weeks, they would stay right there.

²⁰At times the cloud remained over the Sanctuary for only a few days, but when it lifted, they would again break camp. ²¹Sometimes the cloud would light up a place for only one night, and when it lifted in the morning, they would move on. But whenever the cloud lifted they would start breaking camp and move on, whether it was day or night. ²²If the cloud stayed in a place for two days, a month or a whole year, the children of Israel would stay right there and not move, but as soon as it lifted, they would go on. ²³So at the Lord's command they stayed or moved. They followed all the instructions the Lord had given them through Moses.

The Silver Trumpets

10 Again the Lord spoke to Moses, ²"Make two trumpets out of silver and use them to call the people together for worship and for breaking camp. ³Give long blasts on both trumpets when calling the people together to meet you at the Sanctuary. ⁴Give long blasts on one trumpet when the leaders are to meet you at the Sanctuary. ⁵Give short blasts on both trumpets when it is time to break camp. The first set of short blasts will be the signal for the three tribes camped to the east of the Sanctuary to break camp. ⁶The second set of short blasts will be the signal for the three tribes camped to the south of the Sanctuary to break camp, and so on for the three tribes camped to the west and to the north of the Sanctuary. ⁷The signal to break camp is not the same as the one that calls the people to worship. ⁸Aaron's sons who are serving as priests are to blow the trumpets. This is to be a lasting ordinance for generations to come. ⁹When war comes to your land and you need to defend yourselves against an invading army, give the sounds of war on these same trumpets as a call to arms, and the Lord will hear and give you the victory. ¹⁰Also on joyful occasions, such as your religious festivals, you are to sound the trumpets as you present your consecration offerings and peace offerings to the Lord. This is to remind the people that I am the Lord their God."

Departure From Sinai

¹¹On the twentieth day of the second month in the second year after the children of Israel came out of Egypt, the Lord's cloud lifted from the Sanctuary, and the people broke camp. ¹²They left the Sinai wilderness and camped at different places until the Lord's cloud signaled for them to set up camp in the wilderness of Paran where they stayed for some time. ¹³So they began their journey under the leadership of Moses as directed by the Lord. ¹⁴Each time they broke camp the tribe of Judah would be the first to take its banner and move out under the leadership of Nahshon, the son of Amminadab. ¹⁵The tribe of Issachar followed under the leadership of Nethanel, the son of Zuar. ¹⁶Then came the tribe of Zebulun under the leadership of Eliab, the son of Helon.

¹⁷The Sanctuary would be quickly taken down and the Gershonites and Merarites would pack it up and follow. ¹⁸Next the tribe of Reuben would take its banner and move out under the leadership of Elizur, the son of Shedeur. ¹⁹The tribe of Simeon followed under the leadership of Shelumiel, the son of Zurishaddai. ²⁰Then came the tribe of Gad under the leadership of Eliasaph, the son of Deuel.

²¹After that came the Kohathites carrying the holy things of the Sanctuary. This way the Sanctuary could be set up by the time the last tribe arrived and got settled.

²²Next the tribe of Ephraim would take its banner and move out under the leadership of Elishama, the son of Ammihud. ²³The tribe of Manasseh followed under the leadership of Gamaliel, the son of Pedahzur. ²⁴Then came the tribe of Benjamin under the leadership of Abidan, the son of Gideoni.

²⁵The tribe of Dan brought up the rear guard and would take its banner and move out under the leadership of Ahiezer, the son of Ammishaddai. ²⁶The tribe of Asher followed under the leadership of Pagiel, the son of Ochran. ²⁷The last tribe was the tribe of Naphtali under the leadership of Ahira, the son of Enan. ²⁸This was the order of march for the tribes as they moved. There were three tribes, followed by wagons carrying the Sanctuary, then came three more tribes followed by the Levites carrying the holy furnishings, then six tribes brought up the rear.

²⁹It was at this time that Moses said to Hobab, his brother-in-law who was the son of Jethro, "We're setting out to go to the land which the Lord said He would give us. So why don't you come along and share in the good things the Lord promised to give us." ³⁰Hobab said, "Thank you, but I think not. I'll go back to my own land and my own people."

³¹Moses pleaded with him and said, "Please come along. You're an excellent guide. You know so much about wilderness camping, you can be our eyes.

³²We'll share with you all the blessings the Lord gives." Then Hobab changed his mind and agreed to go with Moses.

³³So the children of Israel set out from the mountain of the Lord at Sinai and traveled for three days. The Levites carried the Ark of the Covenant and the cloud of the Lord went ahead of them, guiding them to the next place to camp.

³⁴The Lord's cloud shielded the children of Israel from the rays of the sun by day and gave them light at night.

³⁵When the Levites lifted the Ark of the Covenant to set out, Moses would say, "Rise up, O Lord! Go before us and scatter our enemies! Put to flight those who would harm us." ³⁶And when the Ark was set down, he would say, "Return, O Lord, to the thousands upon thousands in Israel."

The People Dissatisfied

1 It wasn't long before the people complained to the Lord about their hardships, saying that He had brought them into the wilderness to die. The Lord heard them but was very displeased. One day as they were complaining, thunder sounded and lightning flashed from the cloud and the Lord struck down those on the fringes of the camp who were the most guilty. ²The children of Israel cried out to Moses for help. He pleaded with the Lord for the sake of the people, and the thunder and lightning stopped. ³So the Israelites called the place Taberah, which means Burning, because the fire of the Lord had burned there.

⁴Soon those who had intermarried with Egyptians complained again. Then others began to complain, "If only we had some meat to eat. ⁵The Egyptians said, "In Egypt we had all the fish we wanted and they were free. We also had plenty of cucumbers, melons, leeks, onions and garlic to eat. ⁶Now all we have to eat is this manna, and we don't have the appetite that we used to have when we were in Egypt."

⁷The white manna was the size of a tiny pea, crisp and delicate. ⁸Each morning the people would gather a fresh supply. Some would grind it or pound it into flour, others boiled it and ate it as cereal and still others baked it. When they ate it, it tasted like bread made with oil and honey. ⁹It always fell on the ground along with the dew while the people slept.

¹⁰When they were content in the Lord, the manna was welcome, but when they were dissatisfied with the Lord, the manna was repulsive. Soon the children of Israel complained to Moses, and whole families stood outside their tents crying. The Lord heard their cries and was so displeased that even Moses became frightened.

¹¹Then Moses also complained to the Lord, "Why did you let this happen? Don't I have enough troubles trying to take care of these people. What have I done to deserve all this?" ¹²Did I father all these people? Did I bring them out of Egypt? Am I supposed to be their nursemaid and carry them in my arms across the wilderness from Egypt to the land you promised? ¹³Where am I supposed to get enough meat to feed all these people? They stand in front of their tents crying, and when I pass by, they say, 'Give us meat! Give us meat!' ¹⁴I can't take this anymore. The burden of caring for these people is too much for me. ¹⁵Is this what you expect me to put up with all the way to the Promised Land? If so, I might as well die right here. Then my troubles will be over. Have mercy on me. Don't let me see my own misery."

The Seventy Elders

¹⁶The Lord said to Moses, "Why have you assumed the responsibility for feeding these people? Are you their father? I have heard your prayer and have decided to give you some help. Pick out seventy respected men whom the people recognize as honest, dependable leaders and have them come to the entrance of the Sanctuary to stand beside you. ¹⁷I will come down and speak with you and will take some of the power of the Holy Spirit that is resting on you and put it on them. They will lighten your load and help you care for the people so you won't feel that you are doing it alone. ¹⁸Also tell the people to get ready, because I have heard their complaints and their crying, 'If we only had meat! We were better off in Egypt because there we had all the meat we wanted!' So tomorrow they'll have all the meat they can eat. ¹⁹They'll not only have meat for one or two days, or for five, ten or twenty days, ²⁰but for a whole month until they get sick of it. I will give them what they want even though they've rejected me by saying that they would rather be back in Egypt and have their meat than to have a simple diet and be free."

²¹Moses answered, "Lord, there are more than six hundred thousand men, not counting women and children, and you say that they will have all the meat they can eat for a whole month? ²²We don't have enough cattle and sheep to feed so many people for a whole month even if we slaughtered every last animal we have. And if we were near a huge lake there wouldn't be enough fish in it to feed all these people for that length of time." ²³The Lord said to Moses, "Are you saying that there are some things the Lord can't do? Tomorrow you'll see that what I have told you will come true. Go to the people and tell them what I've said."

²⁴So Moses went and told the people what the Lord had said. He selected seventy honest men with leadership capabilities from the twelve tribes and called them together to meet the Lord at the entrance of the Sanctuary. ²⁵Then the Lord's cloud came down and hovered over Moses and the seventy leaders, and the Lord took some of the power of the Spirit from Moses and placed it on the seventy to fit them for the work they were called to do. When the power of the Spirit came on them, they saw the greatness of the Lord and began to prophesy. They never prophesied again, but the power of the Spirit continued to be with them.

²⁶Now two of the seventy leaders, Eldad and Medad, felt unworthy of so great a responsibility and didn't come to the Sanctuary but stayed in the camp. But the power of the Spirit still came on them, and they too saw the greatness of the Lord and began to prophesy and praise Him. ²⁷When one of the young men saw this he ran to Moses and said, "Eldad and Medad have received the power of the Holy Spirit! They look like they're in vision by the way they're praising the Lord!" ²⁸Joshua, who had served Moses since he was a young man, immediately said, "Sir, you need to stop them before this sort of thing gets out of hand and divides the camp!"

²⁹But Moses replied, "You don't have to protect my leadership. I wish that the Spirit would come on all our people and all of them could see the greatness of the Lord and praise Him like that." ³⁰Moses and the seventy leaders continued praising the Lord and then they returned to their tents.

The Lord Sends Quail

³¹Suddenly a strong wind came up and brought with it thousands of little quail from the direction of the sea. They flew in about three feet above the ground all around the camp in every direction as far as a person could see. ³²All that day and into the night the people caught them. The least that any one family caught was sixty bushels. Many people quickly stripped the quail of their feathers, cleaned them and ate them partially cooked. Some meat was put out in the sun to dry. They had enough to last an entire month. ³³Because of their gluttony, the Lord allowed a disease to come on them while the meat was in their mouths, and many of them died. ³⁴That's why they called the place Kibroth Hattaavah, meaning, The Graves of Their Lusting. Those who would rather have gone back to Egypt than to go without meat were buried there. ³⁵From Kibroth Hattaavah the people moved on to Hazeroth and camped there.

Aaron and Miriam

12 It was about this time that Miriam and her brother Aaron began to criticize Moses for having married a darker-skinned Midianite woman instead of an Israelite. They were jealous of his authority and blamed his wife for encouraging him to make decisions on his own without first consulting them. ²They said to each other, "Is the Lord working for the people only through Moses?

Hasn't the Lord also used us? Hasn't He also given us prophetic and priestly gifts?" And the Lord heard all this. ³Moses, though he had been given great authority, was a humble man, more humble and meek than any other man on the face of the earth. He heard all their criticism but said nothing about it to either Aaron or Miriam.

⁴So the Lord called Moses, Miriam and Aaron to come into the courtyard and stand by the entrance of the Sanctuary. ⁵The Lord's cloud came down and settled over the Sanctuary where the three of them stood, and He asked Miriam and Aaron to step forward.

⁶Then the Lord said to the two of them, "Listen to me. When I choose someone to be a prophet, I reveal myself to him in visions and speak to him in dreams. ⁷But my servant Moses is different. I have put him in charge of all the people and he has faithfully done what I have told him to do. ⁸I don't speak to him in visions and dreams that people can question, but talk with him plainly, as two men face each other to talk together. I've allowed him to see only my back and protected him so he wouldn't die when he saw me. On what basis, then, do you have a right to be jealous and feel neglected because there were times he didn't consult you before doing what I asked him to do? Why would you blame his wife for this?"

⁹The Lord was very displeased with them, particularly with Miriam who had started all this with her seditious whispering. Then the Lord's cloud lifted. ¹⁰When it did, Miriam was covered with a disease that looked like leprosy, and her whole body turned deathly white. When Aaron saw what had happened to his sister, he felt severely rebuked for listening to her and said to Moses, ¹¹"Please forgive us! Don't hold this sin against us! We have been fools and were led astray by jealousy. We admit we were wrong and that we have sinned against the Lord. ¹²Don't let Miriam's body look like a baby born dead, whose body is partially decomposed when it comes out of the womb!" ¹³Then Moses pleaded with the Lord, praying, "O Lord, please forgive her and heal her!"

¹⁴The Lord answered, "If her father had spit in her face to show his displeasure with her wickedness, as the custom is, would she not be shamed in the eyes of the people and have to live away from the camp for seven days? Let Miriam do the same now. Send her out of the camp for seven days. After that she can come back." Then the Lord healed her, and Moses asked her to move out of the camp as the Lord had said. ¹⁵Miriam stayed away for seven days according to the ritual of purification. The people did not leave until she returned. ¹⁶After this the children of Israel left Hazeroth and set up camp in the wilderness of Paran.

Twelve Spies

13 While the children of Israel were still camped in the Wilderness of Paran, the Lord said to Moses, ²"If that's what the people want, let each tribe choose one man to go and explore the land of Canaan which I promised to give to the children of Israel, and have them bring back a report of what they saw."

³So Moses let each tribe choose one man to be sent with the others into the land of Canaan. All twelve of them were leaders among the people. ⁴Their names were: Shammua, the son of Zaccur, from the tribe of Reuben; ⁵Shaphat, the son of Hori, from the tribe of Simeon; ⁶Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, the Kenizzite, to represent the tribe of Judah; ⁷Igal, the son of Joseph, from the tribe of Issachar; ⁸Joshua, the son of Nun, from the tribe of Ephraim; ⁹Palti, the son of Raphu, from the tribe of Benjamin; ¹⁰Gaddiel, the son of Sodi, from the tribe of Zebulun; ¹¹Gaddi, the son of Susi, from the tribe of Manasseh; ¹²Ammiel, the son of Gemalli, from the tribe of Dan; ¹³Sethur, the son of Michael, from the tribe of Asher; ¹⁴Nahbi, the son of Vophsi, from the tribe of Naphtali; ¹⁵and Geuel, the son of Machi, from the tribe of Gad. ¹⁶These were the men chosen by the people to explore the land of Canaan. Before they left, Moses changed the name of Hoshea, the son of Nun, to Joshua.

¹⁷He charged them, "Go from here northward into the southern part of the land, then into the mountains. ¹⁸Find out what the land is like, what kind of people live there, whether there are many or few and how strong they are. ¹⁹Find out what the country itself is like. What kind of towns do the people live in? Are they open cities or are their cities fortified? ²⁰What is the soil like? Is it fertile? How much of the land is wooded and how much is open field? And bring back some of the grapes that grow there."

²¹So the twelve men left the camp and went to explore the land all the way from the Wilderness of Zin in the south to the city of Rehob near the entrance to the Hamath Pass in the north. ²²First they went up through the Negeb until they came to Hebron, which had been built seven years before Zoan in Egypt was built. This was the land of the people of Ahiman, Sheshai and Talmi, all of whom were descendants of Anak the giant. ²³After they explored the land, they came to the Valley of Eshcol where they cut off a branch from a vine that had a huge cluster of grapes on it. This cluster was so heavy that it took two men to carry it hanging from a pole between them. They also took with them samples of pomegranates and figs. ²⁴The place was called The Valley of Eshcol meaning, Cluster of Grapes, because this was where the grapes were grown which the men brought back to camp with them.

²⁵The men explored the land for forty days and then returned home. ²⁶At this time Moses, Aaron and the children of Israel were camped near Kadesh in the Wilderness of Paran. The men showed everybody the fruit of the land and told them what they had seen. ²⁷They said to Moses, "We explored the land as you told us to and it's truly a land that is rich and fertile, a land with an abundance of fruit. ²⁸The only problem is that the people who live there are giants. They're a powerful people and their cities are large and protected with high walls. They're the descendants of Anak. ²⁹The Amalekites live in the south; the Hittites, Jebusites and Amorites live in the mountains to the north; and the original Canaanites are scattered along the Jordan River and on toward the Mediterranean Sea."

³⁰This report scared the children of Israel and they started complaining and criticizing Moses for taking them out of Egypt. Then Caleb and Joshua called for silence and said to the people, "Let's not be afraid to go up and take the land! Look at what God can do! Look at what He's done already! With His help we can do it!"

³¹But the other ten men said, "No! We can't take the land! The people there are giants! They're much bigger and stronger than we are! We'll never do it!" ³²Then the ten went among the people and frightened them even more with greatly exaggerated stories, saying, "Look, we're telling you the truth! The land can't produce enough food to feed the people who are there now, so what would happen if we went there? Besides, the place is full of giants! We'll never defeat them!" ³³They're descendants of Anak. We felt like grasshoppers in their presence, and that's the way they thought of us!"

Israel Refuses to Go Forward

14 The people believed the exaggerated reports of the ten and cried loudly all night about their misfortune for having left Egypt. ²The next morning they went to see Moses and Aaron, accusing them of deception. They said, "Would to God that we had stayed in Egypt and died there instead of coming all this way only to be killed by the Canaanites! It's even better to die and be buried out here in the wilderness than to be captured and mistreated by giants!" ³Why did the Lord do this to us? Why did

He tell us that He would give us the land of Canaan and then bring us all the way out here to be killed? If we fight these people, there's no way we can win. They'll take our wives and children from us and make them their playthings. The best thing to do is to head back to Egypt. Let's go! ⁴Let's choose another leader, one who will take us back home! What are we waiting for?"

⁵Then Moses and Aaron fell on their knees in the sight of the people and in great sorrow bowed with their faces to the ground. ⁶Joshua, the son of Nun, and Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, who also had explored the land of Canaan, tore their robes in grief and said to the people, ⁷"The land we saw is an excellent land! ⁸If the Lord wants us to have it, He will give it to us! It's a land with an abundance of fruit. ⁹Don't rebel against the Lord and accuse Him of deceiving us. He didn't bring us out here to kill us. Don't be afraid of the people living there. With the Lord's help we can easily take the land. Their gods are nothing. Our God is the God of heaven and earth! He can do anything!"

¹⁰But the people were so determined to go back to Egypt that they threatened to stone these two men. Suddenly the dazzling light of the presence of the Lord appeared above the Sanctuary.

Moses Pleads for the People

¹¹The Lord said to Moses, "How long will these people accuse me of deceiving them? How long will they refuse to trust me in the face of all the miraculous things I've done for them? ¹²I'll send a plague among them and destroy them all. Then I'll make a much larger and stronger nation from your descendants."

¹³Moses answered the Lord and said, "No, Lord! If you do this, the Egyptians will hear about it and see you as a God of death, not a God of freedom. ¹⁴The news will spread to other nations who have already heard about your goodness and what you have done for your people. Many already know that you're in our midst and that your cloud hovers over us and guides us by day and protects us by a pillar of fire at night. ¹⁵If you let this plague come on the people and they all die, the nations around us will hear about it and say, ¹⁶'Their God brought them out of Egypt, but He wasn't able to make good on His promise to bring them into Canaan, so He killed them and let their bodies rot in the wilderness.' ¹⁷O Lord, let these nations see your compassion and mercy, and let them see that you're the kind of God you told me you were when you said, ¹⁸'I, the Lord, am not an angry God, but I abound in love, forgiving sin and rebellion. However, I will not stop the consequences of the sins of the parents on their children and grandchildren down to the third and fourth generation.' ¹⁹So forgive the people their sin in harmony with your great love. Forgive them just as you have done so many times before, ever since we left Egypt."

²⁰The Lord answered, "I'll forgive them as you asked. ²¹But, as surely as I live and as surely as my presence fills the earth, ²²not one of these complaining people will enter the land of Canaan. They saw the light of my glory and the miraculous things I did for them in Egypt and in the wilderness, but they refused to believe that I love them and have tested my love ten times, and still they don't trust me. ²³Not one of them will enter the Promised Land. No one who accused me of deceiving them will ever see it. ²⁴But because my servants Caleb and Joshua have a different spirit and believe what I say, I will bring them into the very land they explored. ²⁵Their descendants will inherit the valleys of the Amalekites and Canaanites of which the people were so afraid. So tomorrow morning, break camp, turn and go into the wilderness toward the Red Sea."

Sentence on the Rebels

²⁶Then the Lord said to both Moses and Aaron, ²⁷"How much longer will these people treat me the way they do and not believe what I tell them? I've listened to their complaints time and time again. ²⁸So tell them that I will give them the very things they requested. ²⁹They will die in the desert just as they wanted to instead of going on to the land of Canaan. Everyone twenty years old and up who was counted in the first census and who didn't trust me will die and be buried in the wilderness. ³⁰Not one of them will enter the land of Canaan which I promised to give them when I spoke to their forefathers. The only exceptions will be Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua, the son of Nun. ³¹As for the people's children, the ones they were afraid would be captured and sold to become the playthings of giants, I will bring them safely into the land of Canaan to enjoy what their parents rejected. ³²But their parents will die in the wilderness and be buried there. ³³And their children will wander with them in the wilderness for the next forty years until all those who spoke out against me have died. ³⁴They will suffer the consequences of their sins for forty years, one year for each day the men explored the land, so they will know what it's like to be without my favor. ³⁵I, the Lord, have spoken and will discipline the people because they have not trusted my leadership and have united against me in spite of what I have done for them. They will live and die in the wilderness."

³⁶Then the men whom Moses sent to explore the land, who had given an exaggerated report of what they had seen and had made the people afraid to obey, ³⁷were struck with the plague and died. They died from the hand of the Lord because of the report they had given to the people. ³⁸Of the twelve men who went to explore the land, only Joshua the son of Nun and Caleb the son of Jephunneh lived to go into the land of Canaan.

A Futile Invasion

³⁹When Moses told the people the Lord's decision, they mourned bitterly. ⁴⁰Early the next morning the people decided to go ahead and take the land the Lord had promised to give them. They said, "We have sinned against the Lord, so we'll redeem ourselves in His eyes and He will bless us." ⁴¹But Moses stopped them and said, "Why are you disobeying the Lord? Without Him, you'll never do it! ⁴²Don't go! The Lord is not going with you. He doesn't want you to fight your way into the land. You'll be slaughtered just as you said you would be, because you'll be going there alone. ⁴³The Amalekites and Canaanites will attack you and hundreds of you will be killed. You didn't trust the Lord, so He will not protect you. He wants to bring you into the land His way, not by warfare, but the way He brought you out of Egypt."

⁴⁴But in their determination to redeem themselves, they presumed on the protection of the Lord. They went ahead in their own strength, without Moses and without the Ark of the Covenant. ⁴⁵The Amalekites and the Canaanites came down from the mountains where they lived, chasing the Israelites all the way to Hormah, slaughtering hundreds of them in the process.

Grain and Drink Offerings

15 After the people were defeated and humiliated by the Amalekites and Canaanites, the Lord said to Moses, ²"Talk to those who are young, who will not die in the wilderness, and say to them, 'When you come to the land I promised to give you, ³and bring to the Lord from your herds or flocks offerings to fulfill a special vow or simply as a freewill offering or a festival offering, ⁴you are to bring with it two pounds of flour mixed with one quart of olive oil. ⁵You are also to bring with it one quart of grape juice as a drink offering. When these offerings are given from the heart, they will greatly please the Lord. ⁶When a ram is offered it should be accompanied by four pounds of flour mixed with a quart and a half of olive oil, ⁷and with a quart and a half of grape juice as a drink offering. This will please the Lord. ⁸When a young bull is offered as a sacrifice to fulfill a vow or as a peace offering, ⁹it should be brought with six pounds of flour mixed with two quarts of olive oil, ¹⁰and two quarts of grape juice as a drink offering. This will please the Lord.

¹¹Prepare each offering of a young bull, a ram, a lamb or young goat this way. ¹²When more than one such animal is sacrificed, the grain and drink offerings are to be increased proportionately. ¹³Every Israelite who brings these offerings is to do it this way. These offerings with the smell of fire will please the Lord. ¹⁴These rules and regulations apply to your descendants throughout your generations and to the foreigners who live among you. If those who are not Israelites wish to please the Lord, they are to offer offerings the same way you Israelites do. ¹⁵These rules and regulations apply to the whole community, to those who are native-born Israelites and to those who are not. You and the foreigners living among you are the same before the Lord. ¹⁶All the rules and regulations that apply to you also apply to the foreigners who have come to live among you."

¹⁷The Lord said to Moses, ¹⁸"Speak to the young Israelites and say to them, 'When you come into the land I promised to give you, ¹⁹and begin to eat the produce grown there, you are not to forget the Lord. You are to bring a portion of the produce as an offering of thanksgiving to the Lord. ²⁰You are also to bake a loaf of bread from the first grain you harvest and bring it to the Lord. It, too, is an offering of thanksgiving. ²¹This is to be done throughout your generations whenever you bake bread from the grain of the new harvest. It is to be an offering of thanksgiving to the Lord for what He has done for you.

Unintentional Sin

²²If someone goes astray unintentionally and fails to comply with any of the Lord's commands, ²³or with any of the regulations and instruction previously given, his sin is to be acknowledged by bringing an offering to the Lord. ²⁴If this sin was committed by the community and was done unintentionally, then a sacrifice is to be offered for the whole community. The priest is to offer a young bull as a whole burnt offering along with the proper grain and drink offerings, plus a male goat as a sin offering. ²⁵He is to make atonement to purify the whole community and the people will be forgiven, because what they did was not intentional. They confessed their wrong and brought a sin offering to the Lord. ²⁶Both the Israelites and the foreigners living among them need to be forgiven because the nation is one and, as such, the people are responsible for what goes on in the community.

²⁷The person who went astray and sinned is to admit it publicly and bring a year-old female goat to the Lord for a sin offering. ²⁸The priest is to take the offering and make an atonement for the man's unintentional sin. After the atonement has been made for him, he will be forgiven. ²⁹The same law against sinning unintentionally applies to everyone who sins when he could have known better, whether he's an Israelite or a foreigner.

Presumptuous Sin

³⁰"But anyone who sins openly and defiantly, whether he is an Israelite or a foreigner, is guilty of showing public contempt for the Lord and is to be put to death. ³¹Because he has openly rejected what the Lord has said and has publicly defied Him, the man is responsible for his own death."

Penalty for Sabbathbreaking

³²While the children of Israel were camped in the wilderness, a man defied the Lord and went out to gather wood on the Sabbath when there was no need to do so. ³³Those who found him doing this brought him to Moses and Aaron to stand trial in front of the whole community. ³⁴They put him under guard because they were not sure what to do. ³⁵Then the Lord said to Moses, "The man is to be put to death. The whole community is to take him outside the camp and stone him." ³⁶So the people took him outside the camp as the Lord had said and stoned him to death.

Special Garments

³⁷Again the Lord said to Moses, ³⁸"Tell the children of Israel, 'You are to make tassels by sewing a number of blue threads together and hang them with short blue cords from the hems of your clothes. You are to wear these tassels from now on. ³⁹These tassels will remind you that you belong to me and are to keep my commandments. Do not follow the lusts of your own bodies and the desires of your own eyes. ⁴⁰Remember to obey and keep my commandments and do so from your heart, then you will continue to be my holy people. ⁴¹I'm the Lord who brought you out of Egypt and set you free to be your God. I am the Lord your God!'"

Rebellion

16 Now Korah, Dathan and Abiram started a rebellion. Korah was the son of Izhar, the grandson of Kohath and the great-grandson of Levi. He and his children were assigned to the ministry of music. Dathan and Abiram were brothers, the sons of Eliab. On, the son of Peleth, joined the rebellion. They were all descendants of Reuben, the firstborn son of Jacob. ²They were joined by two hundred and fifty other leaders who were well known and highly respected among the people of Israel. ³They confronted Moses and Aaron and said to them, "You two have taken too much authority to yourselves. All of God's people have been set apart and the Lord is with each of us. So why shouldn't we have more freedom and be allowed to also serve as leaders and priests in Israel?"

⁴When Moses heard this he fell on his knees and bowed with his face to the ground and earnestly prayed to the Lord, offering to give up his leadership if the Lord indicated. ⁵He rose to his feet and spoke to Korah and his group, "Tomorrow morning the Lord will show us who from the community was set apart by Him and who was not. We'll all go to the Sanctuary, and the one the Lord will call to come forward will be allowed to approach Him at the altar. ⁶Now this is what I want you and your followers to do: ⁷Each one of you is to come to the Sanctuary with a censer of hot coals and incense. The one the Lord asks to come forward to talk to Him will be the new leader of Israel, and the rest of you will assist him. But you Levites have actually taken too much authority on yourselves to lead out in this!"

⁸Then Moses spoke directly to Korah himself, "You and your Levites need to listen. ⁹Isn't it enough recognition that God has given you to set you apart from the rest of Israel and ask you to serve Him at the Sanctuary and minister to His people? ¹⁰He has given you and all the Levites this special honor and now you're asking for still more recognition by demanding to be priests. That privilege was given only to Aaron and his descendants, and you know that. ¹¹When you complain about Aaron and his sons, you're really rebelling against the way the Lord has set things up." ¹²Then Moses called Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, to come to the Sanctuary. ¹³They said, "No, we will not come! Isn't it enough that you brought us out of Egypt, a land of plenty, to let us die out here in the wilderness? Do you also have to lord it over us by treating us as your personal slaves? ¹⁴You haven't given us land with lush fields and vineyards as you promised. And yet you demand obedience!"

¹⁵Moses was deeply hurt. He thought he could talk them out of the rebellion. He said to the Lord, "Lord, don't accept the offerings these men might bring to you until they repent. You know I have not wronged them, nor have I taken so much as one donkey from them." ¹⁶Then he said to Korah, "Tomorrow morning you and your two hundred and fifty followers are to come before the Lord. I'll make sure that Aaron and his sons are there too. ¹⁷Each of you must bring a censer with hot coals and incense, and come stand before the Lord." ¹⁸So the next day, Korah and his followers came with their censers of hot coals and incense and stood together with Moses and Aaron before the Lord at the entrance of the Sanctuary. ¹⁹When Korah and his followers were assembled, suddenly the dazzling light of the Lord's presence appeared and it was seen throughout the camp.

²⁰The Lord said to Moses, ²¹"Move away from Korah and his followers for I will destroy them and those from among the people who have come out in support of them." ²²But Moses and Aaron fell on their knees, bowed their faces to the ground and cried out to the Lord, "Lord God of all life! Don't punish everyone here! It's only one man who's responsible for all this!" ²³The Lord answered, ²⁴"Tell those who have come out in support of Korah to move out of the way." While all this was going on, Korah went to get Dathan and Abiram.

²⁵Moses and Aaron got up from their knees and, together with the seventy elders, followed Korah back to camp. ²⁶As they came into camp they saw Korah standing by the tents of Dathan and Abiram, talking to them. Then Moses warned the people, "Move away from the tents of these men and don't touch anything that belongs to them or you will be destroyed with them!" ²⁷The people listened and moved away from the tents of Korah, Dathan and Abiram. As Moses came closer he could see Dathan and Abiram standing defiantly with their families by their tents. ²⁸He stopped and said to them from a distance, "This is how you will know whether giving the priesthood to my brother Aaron was my idea or the Lord's.²⁹ If nothing happens in the next few minutes and you and your families live, then Aaron was not the Lord's choice.³⁰ But if something happens that you've never seen before, and the earth opens up and swallows you and you fall into the earth alive, then you and all those standing here will know that you are the ones who started this rebellion."

³¹No sooner did Moses finish speaking when the ground under Korah, Dathan and Abiram opened up,³² and they were all swallowed up along with their families and all their goods.³³ They were buried alive, together with everything they owned. Then the earth closed up, and they were gone.³⁴ When the people nearby saw this, they ran and shouted, "Let's get away from here before we get swallowed up!"³⁵ Even though the followers of Korah, Dathan and Abiram saw them disappear, instead of repenting, they expressed sympathy for them and were angry with God for doing it. Then fire came out from the presence of the Lord and destroyed all two hundred and fifty of them.

³⁶The Lord said to Moses,³⁷ "Tell Eleazar, the son of Aaron, to go with his helpers among their bodies, collect the two hundred and fifty censers, take them out of the camp and scatter their hot coals on the ground. Then bring back the censers of the men who sinned at the cost of their lives, for these censers are now holy.³⁸ Take them and have them hammered into bronze sheets to overlay the bronze that's already on the altar. This will be a warning to the people against following men like that."

³⁹So Eleazar the priest and his helpers went and picked up the censers from among the dead, emptied them of the hot coals, then had them hammered into bronze sheets to overlay the altar as directed by Moses.⁴⁰ These sheets were a reminder to the children of Israel that no one except the descendants of Aaron should come into the Sanctuary to burn incense before the Lord or to perform any other priestly function. If anyone, including a Levite, did so, he, too, would die.

The People Blame Moses

⁴¹The next day the people of Israel blamed Moses and Aaron for killing Korah and his followers, as if they had opened the earth. The people had looked up to Korah and the others as God's appointed leaders and now they were gone.⁴² They formed themselves into a large delegation and went to Moses and Aaron to accuse them of killing their leaders. As they walked toward the Sanctuary they noticed the Lord's cloud hovering over it. Suddenly the dazzling light of His presence ignited the cloud.⁴³ Moses and Aaron also saw the dazzling light of the Lord's presence and quickly made their way to the Sanctuary.⁴⁴ When they got there the Lord said to Moses,⁴⁵ "Get out of the way so I can destroy these rebels who are coming to see you. In their hearts they are still supporting Korah." But Moses and Aaron fell on their knees and bowed with their faces to the ground in prayer.⁴⁶ When they stood up Moses said to Aaron, "Quick! Go get your censer, put some hot coals from the altar in it, put incense on them and hurry toward the people to make atonement for their rebellion. Hurry! I can see from here that the Lord's plague has already struck them!"

⁴⁷Aaron did as Moses said and ran to get his censer, filled it with hot coals from the altar, sprinkled incense on the coals and ran toward the people to atone for their sin and stop the plague.⁴⁸ So Aaron stood between the living and the dead, waving his censer to atone for their sin, and the plague stopped.⁴⁹ By the time it was all over, about fourteen thousand, seven hundred people had died, not counting the two hundred and fifty who had died the day before.⁵⁰ Then Aaron returned to Moses who was still at the entrance of the Sanctuary.

Aaron's Rod

17 The Lord said to Moses, ²"Tell the leaders of the twelve tribes of Israel to bring me twelve short walking sticks. Then write each man's name on his as he gives it to you. ³Write Aaron's name on the walking stick for the tribe of Levi. There should be only one stick for each tribe. ⁴Take the sticks into the Sanctuary and on into the Most Holy Place and lay them down in front of the Ark of the Covenant. Tomorrow morning I'll be there to meet you. ⁵The walking stick that belongs to the man I have chosen to serve me as priest will blossom by tomorrow morning. This will settle the question of the priesthood once and for all, and whether or not I called the two of you to lead these people." ⁶Moses spoke to the leaders of Israel and they brought him twelve walking sticks, one for each tribe, and Aaron's stick was one of them. ⁷Then Moses took the sticks into the Most Holy Place and laid them before the Lord.

⁸The next morning, when Moses went into the Most Holy Place to meet the Lord, he saw that Aaron's walking stick had budded, blossomed and even bore ripe almonds! ⁹He picked up all the sticks and brought them out to show the leaders. Each man picked out his stick and carefully looked at it to see if there were some buds on it, but there were none. Each stick looked just like it had before, except Aaron's. ¹⁰Then the Lord said to Moses, "Take Aaron's stick back into the Most Holy Place and put it inside the Ark of the Covenant as a reminder to all those who would question my leadership and my choice of priestly structure. This is to put an end to all future suspicions and complaints about who is to lead, so any who get the idea to rebel will stop before they die." ¹¹Moses did what the Lord had told him to do. He took Aaron's walking stick and put it inside the Ark of the Covenant.

¹²Then the leaders of the children of Israel said to Moses, "We will die! We are lost! All of us are lost! We, too, had thoughts of rebellion! ¹³If we come to the Sanctuary will we die too? Or will we die in front of our tents like Korah?" And they greatly feared the Lord.

Duties of Priests and Levites

18 Then the Lord said to Aaron, "You and your sons and the whole tribe of Levi are to bear the responsibility for any sins committed in connection with the services of the Sanctuary, but only you and your sons are to bear the responsibility of sins committed in connection with the priesthood. ²Use the Levites to help you and your sons with the services at the Sanctuary. They will do much of the work that needs to be done. ³As they carry out their duties at the Sanctuary, they are not to go into the Holy Place or touch any of its furnishings. Neither are they to come in contact with the altar in the courtyard, or they will die. ⁴They are to help you and be responsible for the Sanctuary work assigned to them, but they are not to assume the duties of the priesthood which belong to you and your sons. ⁵You and your sons are to carry out the priestly functions of the Sanctuary, so I won't have to discipline my people again. ⁶I've taken the Levites from among the tribes of Israel and given them as a gift to you to help you with your duties at the Sanctuary. ⁷But only you and your sons are to carry out the responsibilities of the priesthood in the courtyard, the Holy Place and the Most Holy Place."

Support of the Priests

⁸The Lord also said to Aaron, "I have personally chosen you to be in charge of the offerings that people bring to me, and I have given you and your sons a portion of what they bring. ⁹You and your sons are to have a portion of the most holy offerings, the ones that are not to be burned such as the grain offerings that accompany the sin offerings. ¹⁰You are to eat from these grain offerings in a place that is set apart. Any male from the priest's family may eat from them.

Respect these offerings, for they are holy. ¹¹In addition to these parts of the sin offering, any other special gifts that the people bring to me are to be yours. I am giving these things to you, to your sons and daughters for generations to come. Anyone in your family who is ritually clean can eat them. ¹²I'll accept only the best of the produce the people bring to me, such as their olive oil, unfermented wine and grain. In turn, I have given these to you. ¹³All firstfruits from the harvests that the people bring to me are to be yours, and anyone in your family who is ritually clean may eat them. ¹⁴Anything that the people dedicate to me belongs to you. ¹⁵Every firstborn son that opens the womb and every firstborn male of clean animals that opens the womb belongs to me, but I have given them to you. However, you must pay a substitution price for all firstborn sons and the firstborn males of unclean animals, for they cannot be offered. ¹⁶When such firstborn are a month old, they are to be redeemed by paying five pieces of silver according to the standard of the Sanctuary. ¹⁷The firstborn of animals that are ritually clean such as an ox, a sheep or a goat need not be bought back. They are to be sacrificed and their blood is to be sprinkled against the altar and their fat is to be burned. When these offerings are given from the heart they will greatly please the Lord. ¹⁸Their meat will belong to you, just as the breast and the right thigh of the regular offerings. ¹⁹I am giving these offerings to you and to your sons and daughters as a regular share for all generations to come. It is a covenant of salt, an everlasting Covenant, between me and you." ²⁰The Lord continued to speak to Aaron, "These offerings of mine are yours because you and your family will inherit no land, nor will you be allowed to own any property in Israel, for I am your land and your inheritance. Your first priority is to care for the spiritual welfare of the people, not your own temporal prosperity.

Tithes for the Levites

²¹"To the Levites I have given all the tithes in Israel for serving at the Sanctuary. That's why the Levites did not receive an inheritance. ²²No one except a Levite is to go near the Sanctuary to help with the services, or he will die. ²³Only the Levites are to assist the priests with the work at the Sanctuary and bear the responsibilities connected with it. This is a lasting ordinance throughout their generations. They are to inherit no land and own no property in Israel. ²⁴Instead I have given them the tithe that the people bring to the Sanctuary. This is their inheritance. That's why I told them that they will not be given an allotment of land."

Levites Pay Tithe

²⁵Then the Lord said to Moses, ²⁶"Tell the Levites, 'You will receive the tithes from the people as your inheritance, but you must give a tenth of that back to the Lord. ²⁷This will be in place of the required grain and grape offerings from the vineyards and the fields. ²⁸In this way you will have a grain and grape offering to bring me as the people do, only it will be from the tithes you receive from them. Give your tithe to Aaron, who represents the entire priesthood. ²⁹As the people bring their best to you, so you are to choose a tenth of the best of that and give it to Aaron, the high priest, as an offering to the Lord. ³⁰The rest is yours to keep, just as the people keep the rest of the grain and grapes for themselves. ³¹This portion is for you and your families wherever you live. It is your pay for serving at the Sanctuary. ³²You also may eat from special gifts the people bring to the Sanctuary, for they are not the sacrificial offerings but extra offerings. There is no guilt in eating from these. But you are to make sure that you give a tenth of what you receive to Aaron. If you do this, you will not be held guilty. You are not to treat holy things lightly or you will be put to death.'

Laws of Purification

19 Again the Lord said to Moses, ²“Speak to the children of Israel and say to them, ‘This is a perpetual ordinance. If a man fears that he has become ritually unclean, he is to bring to the Sanctuary a red calf without defect, one that has never been harnessed for work. ³He will give it to Eleazar the priest, the son of Aaron, who is to take it outside the camp. There the man who brought the animal shall kill it in his presence. ⁴Then Eleazar will dip his finger in some of the blood and sprinkle it seven times toward the Sanctuary. ⁵While the priest watches, the whole body of the young animal is to be burned, its skin, meat, blood and intestines. ⁶Then Eleazar shall take a piece of cedar wood, a twig of hyssop and a piece of scarlet wool and throw them into the fire in which the body of the animal is burning. ⁷After the sacrifice has been consumed, the priest will wash his body and his clothes before returning to camp, and he’ll be ritually unclean until sundown that same day. ⁸The one who burned the animal must also wash his body and his clothes before coming back to camp, and he, too, will be unclean until sundown. ⁹Then someone who is ritually clean is to be appointed to pick up the ashes of the animal and take them to a clean place outside the camp. There they are to be kept for use with water in a special ceremony to purify from sin. ¹⁰The man who picks up the ashes and moves them is to wash his body and his clothes, and he, too, will be ritually unclean until sundown. This is to be a perpetual law for all time both for the Israelites and for the foreigners who live among you.

¹¹‘Anyone who touches a corpse is ritually unclean for seven days. ¹²He is to purify himself with the water of purification on the third day and again on the seventh day. Only then will he be ritually clean. But if he does not purify himself on both the third and the seventh days, he will remain ritually unclean. ¹³Anyone who touches a corpse and does not purify himself and goes to the Sanctuary will defile it. He is to be cut off from the people.

¹⁴‘If a person dies in a tent, anyone who is in the tent or who enters it will be ritually unclean for seven days. ¹⁵An open jar or pot that has no lid fastened on it will be ritually unclean. ¹⁶Anyone who is out in the open and touches someone who has been killed or who has died a natural death, or anyone who touches a human bone or a human grave will be ritually unclean for seven days. ¹⁷To purify such a person, put into a pot some ashes from the red calf that was sacrificed to remove ritual uncleanness, and add some fresh water to it. ¹⁸Then a man who is ritually clean is to be appointed to take a twig of hyssop, dip it into the water and sprinkle it on the tent and everything in it, on the people who were there when the person died and on anyone who touched the corpse. This same ritual of purification is to be carried out for those who touch a human bone when they are out in the open field, or who touch either a grave or someone who has been killed or who has died a natural death. ¹⁹The man who is ritually clean is to sprinkle the unclean person on the third and seventh day to ritually purify him. Then the one who was sprinkled is to wash his body and his clothes and pour clean water over himself and at sundown of the seventh day he will be ritually clean.

²⁰‘But anyone who does not purify himself in this way will be cut off from the people. He has defiled the Sanctuary by refusing to be ritually cleansed through sprinkling with the water of ceremonial purification. ²¹This is to be a lasting ordinance. When the man who sprinkled the water of purification on others is finished, he is to wash his clothes and pour fresh water over himself. And anyone who touches the water of purification will be ritually unclean until sundown. ²²Anything a ritually unclean person touches will be unclean, and anyone who touches him will be unclean until sundown that same day.”

Moses' Sin

20 Then the children of Israel broke camp and moved on to the place called the Wilderness of Zin and set up camp not far from the city of Kadesh. It was here that Miriam, the sister of Moses, died and was buried.

²It was here also that the children of Israel complained to Moses and Aaron because there was no water. They said, ³“It would have been better for us to have died with Korah, Dathan and Abiram ⁴than to come out here in the wilderness and slowly die of thirst. Why have you brought us to this God-forsaken place if it isn't to punish us by letting us die? ⁵Why did you bring us to this terrible land? Why didn't you leave us in Egypt? Not only does this wilderness have no figs, grapes or pomegranates—it doesn't even have water to drink!”

¹⁰He and Aaron called the people together at the big rock outside the camp where the Lord's cloud hovered. Moses said to them, “Listen, you rebels! Do we have to bring water out of this rock to prove to you that the Lord is with us?” ¹¹Then he raised the shepherd's rod and angrily struck the rock twice. Instantly water gushed out of the rock, enough for all the people and their animals.

¹²Then the Lord said to Moses in Aaron's hearing, “Because you acted rashly and spoke passionately to the people, calling them rebels; because you struck the rock as you had previously done instead of speaking to it as I said; and because you told the people that you would give them water, as if you and Aaron were the ones who had brought them out of Egypt and fed them; therefore, I will not let you lead these people into Canaan. They need to know that what you said and did is not right. You have transferred their faith from me to you. I am the Lord.”

¹³All this happened near Kadesh at the place the people called Meribah, meaning The Place Where the People Quarreled With the Lord. It was here that He had shown them His holiness and mercy.

Passage Refused

¹⁴It was also from here that Moses sent messengers to the king of Edom, the land where the children of Esau had settled, saying, “The children of your brother Jacob whom God named Israel have a request to make. You know all about the hardships we have gone through. ¹⁵Our ancestors went down to Egypt and lived there many, many years and the Egyptians mistreated us. ¹⁶But we cried to the God of Israel and He heard our cries and sent His Angel, who brought us out of Egypt. Now we're camping not far from Kadesh, near your southern border. ¹⁷Please let us pass through your country on our way to the land of Canaan. We will not walk through any of your fields of grain or vineyards. We will not even stop to drink water from your wells. We will stay on the northern road called the King's Highway until we leave your country.” ¹⁸But the king of Edom said, “You may not pass through our country. If you try to, we'll come out and greet you with the sword.”

¹⁹Then Moses and the leaders sent back this answer, “We give you our word that we will travel only along the main road, and if any of our people or cattle drink your water, we will pay you for it. We only want to pass through your country on foot and nothing more.”²⁰The king of Edom sent another short message which said, “We will not let you pass!” Then he came out to the border with a large and powerful army.

²¹So the children of Israel changed their plans and took the long way around, because the Edomites refused to let them go through their country.

Death of Aaron

²²The Israelites broke camp and left Kadesh and made their way south along the border of Edom until they came to Mount Hor.²³After they set up camp, the Lord said to Moses and Aaron,²⁴“It is time for Aaron to die. He will not be allowed to enter the land of Canaan because the two of you misrepresented me at Meribah when I told you to speak to the rock and it would give you water.²⁵Get Eleazar, Aaron’s son, and the three of you come up to the top of Mount Hor.²⁶There take Aaron’s priestly garments and put them on Eleazar. Aaron will die there and sleep with his ancestors.”

²⁷Moses did what the Lord had said. He called Eleazar and, together with Aaron, the three of them went up to the top of Mount Hor in the sight of all the children of Israel.²⁸When they got there, Moses took the priestly garments from his brother Aaron and put them on Eleazar. Aaron died, and Moses and Eleazar buried him there. Then the two of them came back down the mountain.²⁹When the people were told what had happened, the entire community wept over Aaron and mourned for him for one whole month.

Canaanites Defeated

21 When the king of Arad, a Canaanite city on the border of the Wilderness of Judah, heard that the Israelites were coming by the way of Atharim, he attacked them and even captured some of them.²Then the Israelites made a vow to the Lord, saying, “We will counterattack, and if you will deliver the king and his people into our hands, we promise to totally destroy them and their city.”³The Lord listened to Israel’s plea and helped them. They counterattacked and defeated the Canaanites, completely destroying their city. They named the place Hormah, meaning Total Destruction.

The Bronze Serpent

⁴Then the children of Israel broke camp and from Mount Hor traveled along the road that led south through the barren region of Arabah to take the eastern road around Edom and from there up to Moab and on into Canaan. On the way, the people lost courage and began to complain.⁵They criticized the Lord again and said to Moses, “Why did you take us out of Egypt? You want us to die out here in the wilderness, don’t you? Admit it! There’s no food or water out here except that horrible food from heaven, and we’re tired of it!”⁶The Lord heard their complaints and decided to stop their criticisms by removing the restraint that He had placed on the poisonous snakes in that area. The snakes made their way into the camp, struck the Israelites and many of them died.⁷The people rushed to find Moses and said, “We have sinned by complaining and criticizing both you and the Lord. Please pray for us and ask the Lord to get rid of these poisonous snakes!”

⁸Moses prayed for the people and the Lord heard his prayer and said, “Make a bronze serpent and put it on a tall pole. Anyone who has been bitten by a snake can look at it and believe that I will heal them, and I will.”⁹Moses took a thin sheet of bronze metal and rolled it into the shape of a snake and wrapped it around a tall pole. Then he held the pole up as high as he could for the people to see. Those who looked toward it and turned to God in faith were healed, but some refused to do so, and their lack of faith was fatal.

From Mount Hor to Moab

¹⁰After this experience the Israelites broke camp and moved eastward around the southern part of Edom to the area of the Wilderness of Oboth and camped there. ¹¹From Oboth they moved straight north to Iye Abarim, the territory on the border of Moab. ¹²Then they moved on and set up camp in the Valley of Zered. ¹³From here they went to camp on the north side of the Arnon River in the wilderness that extends into the territory of the Amorites. The Arnon River ran east and west and marked the border between the Moabites and the Amorites.

¹⁴The war records of the battles of the Lord identify this place as, "The Waheb in the area of Suphah near the valleys by the Arnon River." ¹⁵These valleys extend to the city of Ar as one travels toward Moab. ¹⁶From here the children of Israel went on to camp at a place named Beer (also called The Place of Wells). It was here that the Lord said to Moses, "I want you to stop and camp here, even though there is no water. I will fill these dry wells for you." ¹⁷That was the place where the children of Israel burst into song and said, "The wells produced their water and we greeted the water with joy!" ¹⁸These wells were dug by princes and leaders. They were dug at the command of royal scepters and by the hands of the local people. They went dry, and it was the Lord our God who filled them for us." From here the Israelites moved on to Mattanah, ¹⁹from Mattanah to Nahaliel and on to Bamoth. ²⁰Then from Bamoth they moved to a valley in Moab near Mount Pisgah from whose summit one can look out over the wilderness.

King Sihon Defeated

saying, ²²"Do be so kind as to let us pass through your land. We promise not to go into your fields of grain and vineyards, nor will we let our cattle go there. We promise not to drink from your wells. We will take the main road and stay on the King's Highway until we have passed through your country." ²³But Sihon would not let the children of Israel pass through his land. He called up his troops and marched out to meet Israel. When he reached Jahaz, he ordered his men to attack. ²⁴Then Israel fought back and defeated Sihon and took over his land from the Arnon River northward to the Jabbok Brook and up to the Ammonite territory which had a well-fortified border. ²⁵Israel took all the cities of the Amorites, including Heshbon and its surrounding villages. ²⁶Heshbon was the capitol of the Amorites, and Sihon was the king who had defeated the Moabites who had first lived in this area. He had taken over this part of the country as far south as the Arnon River.

²⁷The Hebrew song writers wrote ballads about this, such as, "Come let us go to Heshbon and rebuild it! Let us restore this famous city!" ²⁸This was once the city of Sihon, king of the Amorites. It was from here that his army had gone out to devour his enemies as fire consumes dry wood. He destroyed the Moabite city of Ar and devoured the people living in the hills overlooking the Arnon River. ²⁹How terrible for the citizens of Moab! They worshiped Chemosh, but he did not help them and they were brought to ruin. He allowed the Moabite men to be destroyed and the Moabite women to be taken captive by Sihon, king of the Amorites. ³⁰But we have defeated Sihon's fiery army and have taken his land from Heshbon to Dibon. We left his cities in ruins from Nophah to Medeba."

³¹Some of the children of Israel decided to settle in the land that they had taken from the Amorites. ³²After Moses had sent spies to Jazer, the Israelites went out and took that city and its surrounding villages and destroyed the Amorites who lived there. This made their conquest of the Amorites complete.

King Og Defeated

³³The children of Israel broke camp and moved along the road to Bashan. Then Og, the king of Bashan, marched out against them with his entire army and met them at Edrei. ³⁴The Lord said to Moses, "Don't be afraid of Og, the king of Bashan, because I have given him and his entire army over to you. When the battle is over, his land will be yours. You are to do to him what you did to Sihon, the king of the Amorites, who ruled in Heshbon." ³⁵So the children of Israel met Og, king of Bashan, his sons and his people in battle and destroyed their entire army. No one was left alive. Some of the children of Israel decided to settle in that part of the land also .

Balak Sends for Balaam

22 Next the children of Israel broke camp and moved on to the plains of Moab. They camped east of the Jordan River across from the city of Jericho. ²When Balak, the king of Moab and son of Zippor, heard what the children of Israel had done to Sihon, king of the Amorites, and to Og, king of Bashan, ³and learned how many Israelites there were, he was afraid of them and of what they might do to him and to his people. ⁴So the Moabites sent word to their traditional enemies, the Midianites, saying, "This horde of people will take everything we have as easily as an ox eats up the grass of the field. We must stop them!" ⁵Balak, the son of Zippor, was the king of Moab at this time. He got together with the Midianite leaders and they decided to send messengers to Balaam, the son of Beor, for help. (At one time Balaam had been a faithful prophet of the Lord but had left Him and become more interested in making money, though he still professed to be faithful to God.) He lived in Pethor north of Moab near the Euphrates River. Balak wrote a letter to him which said, "A nation of people has left Egypt and has settled right next to me. They've already defeated the Amorites and the King of Bashan and are now camped on my borders. ⁶Come and curse these people for me so they won't invade my land, because they're a powerful people and there are too many of them for me to defeat. But if you curse them then I'll be able to defeat them and drive them back into the wilderness. I know that those you bless are blessed and those you curse are cursed."

⁷Then he sent a delegation of leaders from Moab and Midian to Balaam with the letter and an offer of money for his services. When they arrived, they told Balaam about the children of Israel and gave him Balak's letter. ⁸Balaam read the letter, then said to them, "Stay overnight and I'll ask the Lord what to do. In the morning I'll let you know what He says." So the men stayed overnight. ⁹That night the Lord tried to help Balaam see the problem by asking him, "Who are these men who came to visit you last night? Where did they come from and what did they want?" ¹⁰Balaam answered, "They came from Moab and brought me a letter from King Balak, the son of Zippor. ¹¹In this letter he said, 'A nation of people has left Egypt and there are so many of them that they cover the ground as far as your eye can see. Come and curse them for me, then I'll be able to defeat them.'"

¹²God said to Balaam, "Don't go with these men. You are not to curse these people for they are mine and I have blessed them." ¹³The next morning Balaam said to Balak's messengers, "You'd better go back home, because I can't help you. The Lord refuses to let me go with you." ¹⁴So the messengers went back to Balak and said, "Balaam refused to come."

¹⁵Then Balak sent another delegation of leaders to see Balaam, even more important and distinguished than before. ¹⁶They greeted Balaam and said, "King

Balak would like you to reconsider his request. He still wants you to come and curse these people. This is what he says, 'Don't let any consideration stand in your way and keep you from coming. ¹⁷I will pay you more than you can imagine and will make whatever preparations you ask for in order to assist you. But I do want you to come and curse these Israelites before they overrun my country.'" ¹⁸Balaam answered, "Even if King Balak gave me his palace full of silver and gold, I couldn't do what the Lord has told me not to do, whether it's big or little. ¹⁹But stay overnight and I'll again ask the Lord what He wants me to do. Maybe He's changed His mind." ²⁰That night the Lord said to Balaam, "Since the men want you to go with them and you're so eager to go with them, go ahead, but say only what I tell you to say."

²¹The next morning Balaam found that the messengers had gotten up early and left without him because they expected another refusal. So Balaam quickly saddled his donkey and headed for Moab, determined to catch up with them.

Balaam and the Donkey

²²When God saw how desperate Balaam was to go to Moab to accept Balak's offer, He was very displeased. He knew that Balaam was eager to curse Israel for money. So He sent an angel to stop Balaam and his two servants by blocking their way. ²³The Lord opened the eyes of Balaam's donkey and it saw an angel with a drawn sword in his hand standing in the middle of the road. The startled animal turned off the road into the field. Then Balaam beat his donkey and made it get back on the road. ²⁴The angel then stood where there was a stone fence on either side of the road to protect the vineyards. ²⁵When the donkey saw the angel, it tried to go around him and pressed against the stone fence, hurting Balaam's leg. He beat his donkey even more severely than before. ²⁶Then the angel went on ahead and stood in a much narrower place with no room for the donkey to go around him on either side.

²⁷This time when the donkey saw the angel, it stopped and laid down under Balaam. This made Balaam extremely angry. So he took his stick and beat his donkey unmercifully. ²⁸Then the Lord opened the donkey's mouth and it said to Balaam, "What have I done to you to deserve these three beatings?" ²⁹In his rage Balaam didn't even realize that it was his donkey speaking to him and he said, "Three times you slowed me down and made me look like a fool. If I had a sword, I'd kill you!" ³⁰The donkey said, "Am I not your very own donkey and have I not always taken you where you wanted to go? Have I ever done this to you before?" Balaam, still in a rage, said, "No, you haven't, but you've done it now!"

³¹Then the Lord let Balaam see the angel standing there with a drawn sword. Trembling with fear, Balaam fell on his knees in front of the angel and threw himself face down on the ground. ³²The angel said to him, "Why have you beaten your donkey these three times? I've been sent here to stop you from going to Moab. You're more determined to get rich by cursing Israel than to say what the Lord wants you to say. ³³The Lord opened the donkey's eyes and let it see me first. That's why it turned into the field, squeezed against the stone fence, then fell down in front of me. If your donkey hadn't done this, you would have been killed." ³⁴Then Balaam wept and said, "I have sinned against the Lord. I didn't know you were standing there in the road to keep me from going to Moab. If you think I should turn back, I will." ³⁵The angel said to Balaam, "Since you're so eager to catch up with the messengers and go to Moab, go ahead, but don't get any ideas about cursing Israel. You are to say only what the Lord tells you to say." The angel disappeared and Balaam mounted his donkey and went on his way.

³⁶When King Balak got word that Balaam was coming, he and his leaders went out to meet him. They met at Ar, a Moab city near the Arnon River that forms the border of Moab. ³⁷Balak greeted Balaam and said, "Why didn't you come when I first contacted you? Wasn't the money I offered you enough? Don't you know that I'm willing to pay you any amount you ask for?" ³⁸Balaam answered, "Well, I'm here, but I won't be able to say just anything. I'll have to say what the Lord wants me to say." ³⁹Then Balak took Balaam to the city of Kiriath Huzoth and on up to the high places where the Moabites worship the god Baal. From here he wanted to give Balaam a view of the large number of Israelites that were camped nearby, hoping he would change his mind and curse them. ⁴⁰Balak asked for young bulls and sheep, sacrificed them to Baal and then invited Balaam to join him and his officials for the sacrificial meal in honor of the power of Baal, which Balaam did.

⁴¹The next day Balak took Balaam to the heights of Bamoth Baal from which Balaam could get an even better look at Israel.

Balaam's First Prophecy

23 Balaam said to Balak, "Build me seven altars right here, and bring me seven of the best bulls and seven of the best rams you have." ²So Balak did just as Balaam asked him to do, and together they sacrificed one bull and one ram on each of the seven altars. ³Then Balaam said to the king, "Stay here by the offerings while I go aside to talk to the Lord to see whether or not He'll speak to me. If He does, I'll come back and tell you what He said." So Balaam climbed to the top of a nearby barren hill to talk to the Lord. ⁴He said to the Lord, "I have built seven altars and offered a prize bull and a prize ram on each. These offerings are better than any the Israelites can give you. What do you think, Lord?" ⁵The Lord answered Balaam by giving him, in vision, a quick glimpse of Israel's future greatness and of God's people to the end of time. Then He said, "Go back to Balak and I will tell you what to say."

⁶So Balaam went back to Balak and his leaders, who were standing by the offerings waiting for him, and gave them this message from the Lord: ⁷"The king of Moab brought me here from Aram in the eastern mountains and asked me to come and curse Israel. ⁸But how can I curse what God has blessed? How can I doom a people whom the God of heaven has made His own? ⁹From the high rocks I saw them, from the heights I saw their encampment. They're a different nation, a nation set apart. They don't think of themselves as just another people. ¹⁰Who can stand here and count them? They cover the ground like grains of sand. Even a fourth of them are too many for me to count. Let me die with the hope of this righteous nation! May my end be as theirs!"

¹¹When Balaam finished speaking, Balak said to him, "Do you know what you just did? I brought you here to curse Israel and you've turned around and blessed them!" ¹²Balaam said, "I intended to curse them, but I can only say what the Lord tells me to say!"

Balaam's Second Prophecy

¹³Then Balak said, "Come, let me take you to another place from where you can see only a part of Israel. Maybe you won't feel so intimidated and can curse them from there." ¹⁴So he took Balaam to an open area on top of Mount Pisgah called Zophim. Again he ordered seven altars built as Balaam had suggested and together they offered a prize bull and a prize ram on each. ¹⁵Then Balaam said to Balak, "Stay here by the offering while I go aside to talk to the Lord." ¹⁶Again the Lord told Balaam what to say and sent him back to Balak. ¹⁷When Balaam got back to the king and his leaders, they were standing by the offerings waiting for him. Balak said, "Well, what did the Lord say?"

¹⁸Then Balaam gave him this message: “Balak, son of Zippor, king of Moab, listen to what the Lord has told me to say to you: ¹⁹God is not a man, that He would lie, nor is He a mortal that can be persuaded to change His mind. Does He speak and not act? Does He promise and not fulfill? ²⁰He has told me to bless Israel. I can’t change that. ²¹Israel’s greatness is sure. Nothing can stop their onward march. Misfortune and trouble will not come against Israel as long as they follow Him. The Lord their God is with them. He is their King! ²²He brought them out of Egypt and is ready to fight for them like a wild bull. ²³No curse can stop them; no witchcraft can hurt them. Israel will prosper and people everywhere will say, ‘See what God has done for them!’ ²⁴Israel is like a mighty lion and will not rest until it has caught its prey, licked its blood and devoured its meat.”

²⁵When Balak heard that, he said to Balaam, “If you can’t curse Israel, at least don’t bless them!” ²⁶Balaam said, “Didn’t I tell you that I have to do what the Lord tells me to do?”

²⁷Then Balak said, “Come, let me take you to another place. Maybe God will change His mind and let you curse Israel from there.” ²⁸Balaam agreed, so the king took him to another place on the top of Mount Peor from which they could see Israel. ²⁹Then Balaam said, “Let’s build seven altars and sacrifice a prize bull and a prize ram on each.” ³⁰Balak ordered it done, and together they offered a prize bull and a prize ram on each altar.

Balaam’s Third Prophecy

24 Balaam finally realized that the Lord wanted him to bless Israel and that He would not change His mind. So he no longer tried to use sorcery to bring on a curse. Again he looked out over the wilderness and scanned the encampment of Israel. ²This time he noticed how orderly and clean their camp was and that each tribe had its own designated area around the Sanctuary.

As he admired the scene, the Holy Spirit took control of him and Balaam began to prophesy, ³“The message of Balaam, the son of Beor, who now sees things clearly, ⁴who has heard the words of God, who fell prostrate before the Almighty and while in vision saw with open eyes the greatness of Israel. ⁵The tents of Israel are most beautiful, her encampment is a joy to behold. ⁶They are like groves of palm trees, like gardens beside a river, like aloes planted by the Lord Himself and like cedars growing beside a lake. ⁷Israel will have plenty of rainfall wherever the people make their home. Their seed will grow and their fields will produce abundantly. Their first king will be greater than Agag, the king of the Amalekites, and his rule will be exalted among the nations. ⁸God brought them out of Egypt and is ready to fight for them like a wild bull. Israel will devour its enemies and break the backs of well-trained armies. With its arrows it will penetrate the defenses of its enemies and pierce the hearts of their warriors. ⁹Israel is like a mighty lion who lies asleep and no one should try to wake it up. Whoever blesses Israel will be blessed and whoever curses Israel will be cursed.”

¹⁰When Balak heard that, he clenched his fists in anger and said to Balaam, “I called you here to cast a spell on Israel and you’ve blessed them three times! ¹¹Get out of my sight! Go back to where you came from and forget about your reward! The God of Israel just kept you from getting rich!” ¹²Balaam answered, “I told your messengers what I could and couldn’t say. ¹³I told them that even if they gave me all the silver and gold in your palace, I couldn’t say anything good or bad about Israel except what the Lord told me to say. ¹⁴I’m going back home, but before I go I need to let you know what Israel will do to your people.”

Balaam’s Fourth Prophecy

¹⁵Then Balaam gave a message to Balak

from the God of Israel, saying, "This is the message of Balaam, the son of Beor, who now sees clearly, ¹⁶who has heard the words of God, who fell prostrate before the Almighty and while in vision saw with open eyes the greatness of Israel. ¹⁷I saw Him who is not yet born become the rightful King of Israel. I saw Him rise like a star from Jacob. I saw Him rescue His people, crush the leaders of Moab and smite the descendants of a proud and violent nation. ¹⁸Israel will conquer the land of Edom with its mountain fortresses. Israel will not be defeated but will be valiant and victorious. ¹⁹One with authority will come out of Jacob to become King over Israel, and He will destroy the remnant of the enemies of His people."

²⁰In that same vision Balaam saw the future of the Amalekites and said, "And Amalek, the first among powerful nations to attack Israel, will come to ruin and will never rise again." ²¹He also saw the future of the Kenites who turned their backs on God, and said, "You think you are secure, sitting like an eagle's nest high on the top of a mountain. ²²You will be destroyed by a different enemy. Assyria will come and take you captive and carry you away."

²³Then Balaam said, "Who can stand up against God when He does such things? ²⁴Ships will come from the direction of Cyprus against the nations from Assyria to Persia and they will be no more." ²⁵Then Balaam went home and Balak returned to his palace very discouraged.

The Moabite Women

25 Balaam was bitterly disappointed in not receiving his rewards, so he devised a scheme to entice Israel to sin. He knew that if they did, the Lord would withdraw His blessings from them. So he returned to Moab and suggested his plan to Balak. The king agreed and invited the Israelites camped among the acacia trees at the border of Moab to be his guests at a religious festival. Many Israelite men, including some of the leaders, accepted the invitation. ²They ate and drank with the Moabites and soon were having sex with the women as part of the pagan worship. ³That's how Balaam succeeded in getting Israel to worship Baal, and the Lord was extremely displeased with what the men of Israel had done. ⁴He said to Moses, "Take these leaders and others who have come back into camp and stone them. Then hang their bodies in the sun as punishment for their open sin that my justice might be restrained and not fully fall on Israel." ⁵Moses called for the judges and said to them, "Each of you must order the execution of those who went to Moab, got drunk and worshiped Baal by having sex with the Moabite women."

⁶As these leaders and the others who had sinned were brought to trial, the Lord sent a plague among the people. And as the people were weeping before the Lord over what had happened, one of the leaders staggered into camp with a Midianite princess and took her to his tent near the Sanctuary which was open on one side in full view of everyone. ⁷When Phinehas, the son of Eleazar and grandson of Aaron, saw this, he left the people who were weeping before the Lord at the Sanctuary, took a spear ⁸and went over to the open tent. When he got there and saw them lying in a sexual embrace, he drove his spear through both of them—through the Israelite and into the woman's body. Immediately the plague that the Lord had sent among the people stopped. ⁹Because of Israel's sin, twenty-four thousand people died, counting the one thousand who had been executed before.

¹⁰Then the Lord said to Moses, ¹¹"Because Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the grandson of Aaron, refused to stand by and tolerate such open defiance and was jealous to preserve my honor by not tolerating the worship of other gods, I decided to stop the plague. ¹²Tell him that I am making a covenant of peace with him and his family. ¹³He and his descendants will have a lasting part in the priesthood of Israel, because he did not allow any rival gods among the people, and I approve of what he did.”

¹⁴The name of the leader who was killed in his tent with the Midianite woman was Zimri, the son of Salu, the head of the family belonging to the tribe of Simeon. ¹⁵The name of the woman who was brought into the camp was Cozbi, the daughter of Zur, a tribal leader among the Midianites who had joined the Moabites to oppose Israel.

¹⁶The Lord spoke to Moses, saying, ¹⁷“The Midianites are your enemies just like the Moabites, so when you attack them, don’t leave any of them alive. ¹⁸They were foremost in deceiving you into taking part in the sexual rituals connected with the worship of Baal. You saw the boldness of their women in the case of Cozbi, the daughter of a Midianite leader, when she came with Zimri into the Israelite camp.”

The Second Census of Israel

26 After the plague had stopped, the Lord said to Moses and Eleazar, the son of Aaron, ²⁴“Count the children of Israel by ancestral families, all those who are twenty years old and up who are fit for military service.” ³So on the plains of Moab across the Jordan River from Jericho, Moses and Eleazar said to the people, ⁴“The Lord has asked us to take a census of all men twenty years old and up who are fit for military service.” When the census was over, this was the count of the men who were children of those who had come out of Egypt:

⁵The men descended from Reuben through Hanoch, Pallu, ⁶Hezron and Carmi ⁷numbered forty-three thousand, seven hundred and thirty. ⁸The son of Pallu was Eliab, ⁹and the sons of Eliab were Nemuel, Dathan and Abiram. The latter two led the children of Israel to turn against Moses and Aaron and were the most active of Korah’s followers in the rebellion he led against the Lord. ¹⁰The earth opened up and swallowed them and Korah alive, and fire from the Lord destroyed two hundred and fifty of their followers. ¹¹This stopped the rebellion, but the line of Korah did not die out.

¹²The men descended from Simeon through Nemuel, Jamin, Jakin or Jarib, ¹³Zerah and Shaul ¹⁴numbered twenty-two thousand, two hundred.

¹⁵The men descended from Gad through Zephon, Haggi, Shuni, ¹⁶Ozni, Eri, ¹⁷Arod and Areli ¹⁸numbered forty thousand, five hundred.

¹⁹Two of the sons of Judah, Er and Onan, died in the land of Canaan before the family of Jacob moved to Egypt. ²⁰The men descended from Judah through Shelah, Perez, Zerah, ²¹Hezron and Hamul ²²numbered seventy-six thousand, five hundred.

²³The men descended from Issachar through Tola, Puah, ²⁴Jashub and Shimron ²⁵numbered sixty-four thousand, three hundred.

²⁶The men descended from Zebulun through Sered, Elon and Jahleel ²⁷numbered sixty thousand, five hundred.

³⁵The men descended from Ephraim through Shuthelah, Beker, Tahan ³⁶and from Shuthelah through Eran who were fit for service, ³⁷numbered thirty-two thousand, five hundred. These were the male descendants from Joseph through Manasseh and Ephraim.

³⁸The men descended from Benjamin through Bela, Ashbel, Ahiram, ³⁹Shupham, Hupham, ⁴⁰Ard and Naaman ⁴¹numbered forty-five thousand, six hundred.

⁴²The men descended from Dan through Shuham ⁴³numbered sixty-four thousand, four hundred.

⁴⁴The men descended from Asher through Imnah, Ishvi, Beriah, ⁴⁵Heber, Malkiel, ⁴⁶(Asher had only one daughter and her name was Serah) ⁴⁷the men of Asher's family numbered fifty-three thousand, four hundred.

⁴⁸The men descended from Naphtali through Jahzeel, Guni, ⁴⁹Jezer and Shillem ⁵⁰numbered forty-five thousand, four hundred.

⁵²Then the Lord said to Moses, ⁵³"The land in Canaan is to be allotted to the tribes as their inheritance according to this census. ⁵⁴The larger tribes get the larger portions and the smaller tribes get the smaller portions based on the list of names you have. ⁵⁵The location of each tribe is to be determined by casting lots, but the size is to be based on the number of men in each tribe according to this census. ⁵⁶The location of each family within each tribe is to be determined by casting lots, but the size of the inheritance is to be based on the size of the family."

⁵⁷The men descended from Levi came through his sons Gershon, Kohath and Merari, ⁵⁸and their sons Libnah, Hebron, Mahali, Mushi and Kohath's grandson Korah. ⁵⁹Kohath was the father of Amram and Amram's wife was Jochebed, the daughter of Levi and the younger sister of Kohath, who was born while the children of Israel were still in Egypt. She gave Amram three children, Aaron, Moses and Miriam. ⁶⁰And Aaron was the father of Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. ⁶¹But Nadab and Abihu died when they came before the Lord partially drunk and used common fire instead of holy fire from the altar which was contrary to what they had been taught. ⁶²Those descended from Levi numbered twenty-three thousand, including the males from one month old and up. But the Levites were not considered part of this census because their inheritance was to serve the Lord.

⁶³So Moses and Eleazar finished taking the census while the children of Israel were still camped on the plains of Moab across the Jordan River east of Jericho just as the Lord had instructed them. ⁶⁴Except for Caleb and Joshua, not one of the men who first explored the land of Canaan was still alive who had been counted in the first census taken more than thirty-eight years before in the Sinai Desert, a year after the children of Israel had come out of Egypt. ⁶⁵The Lord had told the Israelites they would die and be buried in the wilderness because of their distrust of Him in the face of all that He had done for them. And not one of them was left except Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua, the son of Nun.

Laws of Inheritance

27 Now the daughters of Zelophehad, the son of Hephher, the son of Gilead, the son of Makir, the son of Manasse, who was the son of Joseph, were not on the list to receive an inheritance. Their names were: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah and Tirzah. ²They went to Moses at the entrance of the Sanctuary and met with him, Eleazar the high priest, and the leaders. They said, ³"Our father, Zelophehad, died in the wilderness with the previous generation, but not because he took part in the rebellion with Korah, Dathan and Abiram. He died there like all the others who listened to the men who explored the land of Canaan who said that the Lord could not take us in because the people there were too big and strong. He left us no brothers through whom we can have an inheritance and keep the family name alive. ⁴Why should our family name disappear from the tribe just because our father had no sons? Give us his inheritance so we don't have to depend on our relatives."

⁵So Moses took their case to the Lord. ⁶The Lord said, ⁷"Zelophehad's daughters have a legitimate request. You need to give them their father's inheritance so the family name will not disappear from the tribe and the daughters won't have to depend on their relatives. ⁸Tell the children of Israel that if a man dies and has no sons, his inheritance goes to his daughters. ⁹If he has no children at all, his inheritance goes to his brothers. ¹⁰If he has no brothers, the inheritance goes to his father's brothers. ¹¹If his father has no brothers, the inheritance is to go to the man's nearest male relative. This is to be the law of inheritance for all the children of Israel. I, the Lord, have spoken."

Joshua Leads Israel

¹²Some days later the Lord spoke to Moses again, "I want you to climb the mountain in the Abarim range that I will point out to you, and from there I will give you a view of the land of Canaan. ¹³After you have seen it, you will die, as your brother Aaron did. ¹⁴I need to do this because you disobeyed me at Meribah near Kadesh in the Wilderness of Zin when you dishonored me by becoming angry, striking the rock twice and taking credit for providing the water. You sinned against me in front of the people, so I must judge you in front of the people." ¹⁵Moses said to the Lord, ¹⁶"Lord, before I go, may the God of all flesh let me know who is to take my place. ¹⁷It needs to be someone who has the respect of the people, who can lead them and whom they will follow so they won't be as sheep without a shepherd." ¹⁸The Lord said, ¹⁹"Go and get Joshua, the son of Nun. He is humble and listens to me. He is someone through whom the Holy Spirit can work. He will be your successor. ²⁰You need to transfer your authority to him in front of the people, and they'll accept him as their new leader. ²¹Take him to Eleazar, the high priest, and in the presence of the people lay your hands on him to indicate the transfer of leadership. Tell the children of Israel that Joshua will receive directions from me through the two stones, the Urim and Thummim, that are on the garments of the high priest. One stone will light up to give a 'Yes' answer or the other one will cloud over to give a 'No' answer. Israel is to move at his command."

²²Moses obeyed and did what the Lord had asked him to do. He called for Joshua and had him stand in front of Eleazar, the high priest, in the sight of the children of Israel. ²³Then he laid his hands on Joshua and transferred the responsibilities of leadership and authority to him as the Lord had instructed him.

Daily Offerings

28 Before Moses died, God spoke to him, saying, ²"Tell the children of Israel that they are not to forget to bring the required food offerings at the appointed time, and if they bring it in the right spirit it will greatly please the Lord. ³Each day the priests are to bring two year-old male lambs without defect to the Lord. They constitute a single offering. ⁴One of the lambs is to be offered in the morning and the other in the evening. ⁵They are to be offered with a grain offering of two pounds of the best flour mixed with one quart of the best olive oil. ⁶This is the offering I first told you about at Sinai. It is an offering by fire to the Lord. ⁷Also to be offered with each lamb is one quart of pure grape juice as a drink offering. ⁸The evening sacrifice is to be done the same way as the morning sacrifice. It is to be accompanied by a grain offering, and a drink offering. If done in the right spirit, these daily offerings will greatly please the Lord.

Sabbath Offerings

⁹"On the Sabbath, bring four one-year-old male lambs to the Lord, two for the morning and two for the evening sacrifice, and double the amount for the grain and drink offering. ¹⁰These are the Sabbath offerings which are in addition to the regular morning and evening sacrifices with their grain and drink offerings.

Monthly Offerings

¹¹“At the beginning of each month bring an additional whole burnt offering of two young bulls, one ram and seven one-year-old male lambs, all without defects. ¹²With each young bull give a grain offering of six pounds of flour mixed with olive oil, with the ram four pounds of flour with oil, ¹³and with each lamb give two pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil. This will please the Lord. ¹⁴A drink offering of two quarts of the best grape juice is to be added to the offering of each young bull, a quart and a half to the offering of the ram and a quart to the offering of each lamb. These offerings are to be made monthly throughout the year in addition to the regular daily offerings. ¹⁵In addition to the regular morning and evening sacrifices, the priests are to bring one young male goat without defect as a monthly sin offering to the Lord.

Offerings at Passover

¹⁶“The Passover lamb is to be killed and eaten on the fourteenth day of the first month. ¹⁷On the fifteenth day the religious festival of Unleavened Bread is to begin. It is to last for one week, and during this time, only bread made without yeast is to be eaten. ¹⁸The fifteenth day of that month is to be a holy day like the Sabbath; no regular work is to be done. It is a day for worship and praise. ¹⁹On that day bring to the Lord a whole burnt offering of two young bulls, one ram and seven one-year-old male lambs, all without defects, plus the necessary grain offering. ²⁰With each bull a grain offering of six pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil is to be offered, with the ram four pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil, ²¹and with each of the seven lambs two pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil. ²²Also, one young male goat is to be offered as a sin offering. ²³All these offerings are to be in addition to the regular morning and evening sacrifices. ²⁴The grain and drink offerings are in addition to the daily grain and drink offerings. If this is done in the right spirit, it will greatly please the Lord. ²⁵The last day of this week-long festival is to be a holy day like the Sabbath: no regular work is to be done. It is a day for worship and praise.

Offerings at the Festival of Weeks

²⁶“Now fifty days after the Passover, on the sixth day of the third month, the people are to hold the Festival of Weeks (later called Pentecost). It is to be kept as a Sabbath, and the people are to bring to the Lord a sample of the new grain and praise Him for the harvest. No regular work is to be done. ²⁷The priests are to offer two young bulls, one ram and seven one-year-old male lambs, all without defect, to the Lord. ²⁸A grain offering of six pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil is to be added to the offering of each bull; four pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil for the ram; ²⁹and two pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil with each of the seven lambs. ³⁰Also a kid goat is to be offered as a sin offering. ³¹All these offerings, including the grain and drink offering, are in addition to the regular morning and evening public sacrifices.”

Offerings at the Festival of Trumpets

29 The Lord continued to speak to Moses, “On the first day of the seventh month, the beginning of your civil year, the people are to come together for the Festival of Trumpets. It is a holy convocation during which no regular work is to be done. ²The priests are to offer to the Lord, as a whole burnt offering, one young bull, one ram and seven one-year-old male lambs, all without defects. ³With the young bull they are to bring a grain offering of six pounds of the best flour mixed with the purest olive oil, four pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil with the ram, ⁴and two pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil with each of the seven lambs.⁵The priests also are to offer one young male goat for a sin offering.⁶These offerings are in addition to the daily and monthly offerings with their grain and drink offerings. If all these offerings are done properly and in the right spirit, it will greatly please the Lord.

Offerings on the Day of Atonement

⁷“On the tenth day of the seventh month you are to fast and do no work. It is like a Sabbath, a holy convocation. It is the Day of Atonement, a time to examine your hearts, to make things right with God and man and to enter into the spiritual significance that the day gives you.⁸So bring one young bull, one ram and seven one-year-old male lambs, all without defects, as whole burnt offerings to the Lord.⁹With the young bull offer six pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil; with the ram bring four pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil; ¹⁰and with each of the seven lambs offer two pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil.¹¹The priests are also to offer one young male goat for a sin offering, in addition to the sin offering of atonement and the regular morning and evening sacrifices with their grain and drink offerings.

Offerings at the Festival of Tabernacles

¹²“Five days later, on the fifteenth day of that same month you are to hold the Festival of Tabernacles. This is to last a whole week like the festival held at the beginning of the year in connection with the Passover. This week is to begin and end with a day as holy as the Sabbath, in which no regular work is to be done.¹³On the first day of this special week bring an offering to me of thirteen young bulls, two rams and fourteen one-year-old male lambs, all without defects.¹⁴Offer six pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil with each of the bulls, four pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil with each ram,¹⁵and two pounds of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil with each of the fourteen lambs.¹⁶In addition, the priest is to offer one young male goat as a sin offering. These offerings are to be in addition to the daily offerings with their grain and drink offerings.

²⁰“On the third day bring eleven young bulls, two rams and fourteen one-year-old male lambs, all without defects.²¹With the bulls, the rams and the lambs offer the specified amount of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil.²²Add one young male goat as a sin offering in addition to the regular morning and evening sacrifices with their grain and drink offerings.

²³“On the fourth day bring ten young bulls, two rams and fourteen one-year-old male lambs, all without defects.²⁴With the bulls, the rams and the lambs offer the specified amount of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil.²⁵Add one young male goat as a sin offering in addition to the regular morning and evening sacrifices with their grain and drink offerings.

²⁶“On the fifth day bring nine young bulls, two rams and fourteen one-year-old male lambs, all without defects.²⁷With the bulls, the rams and the lambs offer the specified amount of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil.²⁸Add one young male goat as a sin offering in addition to the regular morning and evening sacrifices with their grain and drink offerings.

²⁹“On the sixth day bring eight young bulls, two rams and fourteen one-year-old male lambs, all without defects.³⁰With

the bulls, the rams and the lambs offer the specified amount of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil. ³¹Add one young male goat as a sin offering in addition to the morning and evening sacrifices with their grain and drink offerings.

³²“On the seventh day bring seven young bulls, two rams and fourteen one-year-old male lambs, all without defects. ³³With the bulls, the rams and the lambs offer the specified amount of fine flour mixed with the purest olive oil. ³⁴Add one young male goat as a sin offering in addition to the morning and evening sacrifices with their grain and drink offerings.

⁴⁰Moses told the children of Israel everything the Lord had told him.

Vows Made to God

30 Then Moses told the children of Israel about the other laws which he had received from God. ²He said, “When a man promises the Lord that he will do something or not do something, or binds himself by a pledge, he must not break his word but is unconditionally bound to what he promised to do. ³When a young woman living at home promises the Lord that she will do something or pledges not to do something, or binds herself by a pledge, ⁴and her father hears about it but does not object, then what she vowed will stand. ⁵However, if her father hears about it and disapproves of her vow by which she obligated herself to the Lord, it will not stand. The Lord will release her from her vow because her father decided not to accept it.

¹⁶These are the laws that the Lord gave to Moses, which he in turn passed on to the children of Israel covering the relationship between a husband and his wife and between a father and his unmarried daughter living at home.

The Midianites Defeated

31 The Lord said to Moses, ²“The Moabites and the Midianites need to be punished for what they did to Israel. But for now you need to punish the Midianites because they were the most aggressive in tempting the men of Israel to sin by leading them into adultery and idolatry. After that you need to come up the mountain and prepare to die.” ³Then Moses said to the children of Israel, “Let us arm ourselves because we’ll be going against the Midianites to punish them for leading us to sin against our God. ⁴We only need a thousand men from each tribe. That will be enough.”

⁵So twelve thousand men were chosen and armed, one thousand from each tribe, and soon they were ready. ⁶The men were placed under the command of Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, who took the holy trumpets of the Sanctuary along with him to sound the charge. ⁷The children of Israel attacked the Midianites as the Lord had commanded and slew every man in the Midianite force. ⁸Among those killed were the five kings of Midian: Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur and Reba. The Israelites also killed Balaam, the son of Beor, who was with the Midianite army at the time. ⁹The Israelites took the women and children captive as well as the herds, flocks and goods of the Midianites as the rightful spoils of war. ¹⁰Before they left the land they burned down all the cities of the Midianites. ¹¹They took the people, herds of animals and countless spoils of war.

Return From the War

¹²Then they brought them home to present them to Moses, Eleazar and the people who were still camped in the plains of Moab east of the Jordan River across from Jericho. ¹³As they approached the camp, Moses, Eleazar and the tribal leaders all went out to meet them. ¹⁴When Moses saw the captives and the spoils of war he became angry with what the officers and commanders of hundreds and thousands had done. ¹⁵He said, “Why have you spared the women? Are you so attracted by them that you have to bring them home with you? Don’t you know that Midianite women dedicate their bodies to their gods? ¹⁶These women led Israel into adultery and then into the worship of Baal on the advice of Balaam! This is what brought the displeasure of the Lord on all of us at Peor where many of our people died. ¹⁷So execute every male of military age, even if he did not serve in the Midianite army, and every woman who has had sexual relations, because they have dedicated their bodies to Baal, ¹⁸but save the children and the young girls to live among you because they’re still virgins and have not yet given their bodies to their god. ¹⁹Now those of you who have killed someone, or have touched a dead body, must stay outside the camp with your young captives for one full week. On the third and seventh days you are to ritually purify yourselves and the young captives. ²⁰Every piece of clothing and everything made of leather, goat’s hair or wood is to be ritually cleansed.”

²¹Then Eleazar, the high priest, said to the troops, “These are the requirements for purification that the Lord gave to us: ²²Everything that will not burn, like gold, silver, bronze, iron, tin, lead ²³and anything else that can stand the heat of ordinary flames is to be passed through the fire and it will be considered clean. Everything else is to be made ritually clean with water specifically set aside for purification. ²⁴On the last day, after you have washed your clothes, you may come back to camp.”

Division of the Plunder

²⁵Then the Lord said to Moses, ²⁶“You, Eleazar and the leaders of the people are to count all the captured people, animals and goods that are with you. ²⁷Then divide these spoils of war equally between the soldiers who were chosen to go out to fight and the rest of the people. ²⁸From

the troops who went out to war, set aside for the Lord one out of every five hundred persons, cattle, donkeys, sheep or goats. ²⁹Give these to Eleazar to help support the priests who minister to the Lord at the Sanctuary. ³⁰From the spoils that go to those who stayed home, set aside one out of every fifty persons, cattle, donkeys, sheep or goats for the Levites who take care of the Sanctuary of the Lord." ³¹So Moses, Eleazar and the leaders of the people did what the Lord had asked them to do.

³²The total spoils of war that were taken were six hundred and seventy-five thousand sheep, ³³seventy-two thousand cattle, ³⁴sixty-one thousand donkeys ³⁵and thirty-two thousand young women and children who had not had sexual relations with a man. ³⁶The spoils that were given to those who went out to battle were three hundred and thirty-seven thousand, five hundred sheep, ³⁷of which six hundred and seventy-five were set aside for the Lord, ³⁸thirty-six thousand cattle, of which seventy-two were set aside for the Lord, ³⁹thirty thousand, five hundred donkeys, of which sixty-one were set aside for the Lord, ⁴⁰and sixteen thousand persons, of which thirty-two were set aside for the Lord. ⁴¹Moses gave all these to Eleazar to use for the priests as the Lord had instructed him.

⁴²Moses separated the peoples' half from the soldiers' half of the spoils. ⁴³There were three hundred and thirty-seven thousand, five hundred sheep, ⁴⁴thirty-six thousand cattle, ⁴⁵thirty thousand, five hundred donkeys, ⁴⁶and sixteen thousand persons. ⁴⁷From these Moses set aside one out of every fifty persons and animals as the Lord had said and gave them to the Levites who took care of the Sanctuary.

⁴⁸Then the officers who were in charge of the troops, those over hundreds and over thousands, went to Moses and said, ⁴⁹"We have counted the men under our individual commands and not one of them is missing! ⁵⁰So we decided to give to the Lord a portion of all the ornaments we collected, the armlets, bracelets, rings, earrings and necklaces, as a thank offering for protecting us." ⁵¹Moses and Eleazar accepted these gifts from the commanders and the troops on behalf of the Lord. ⁵²The gold that the commanders collected from their troops and gave to the Lord weighed over four hundred pounds. ⁵³Each man that had gone out to battle gave from the spoils of war that he had personally taken. ⁵⁴Then Moses and Eleazar took the gifts that they had received from the commanders and brought them into the Sanctuary as a memorial of what the Lord had done for His people.

The Tribes East of the Jordan

32 Now the tribes of Reuben and Gad had huge herds and flocks, and they noticed that the land of Jazer in Gilead was quite suitable for cattle. ²So they went to Moses, Eleazar and the other leaders of Israel and said, ³"The land of Gilead around Ataroth, Dibon, Jazer, Nimrah, Heshbon, Elealeh, Sebam, Nebo and Beon is an excellent place for cattle. ⁴The Lord helped the children of Israel to subdue this land and it must be part of the land that He wants His people to have. This would be a good place for our herds and flocks. ⁵So if it pleases you, let us have this part of the country for our inheritance. Don't make us cross the Jordan and settle on the other side with the rest of the tribes."

them. ¹⁰That's when the Lord took an oath and swore by His own name, saying, ¹¹'Because they did not listen to me or do what I asked them to do, but believed the exaggerated report of these men and let themselves be discouraged, none of the men twenty years old and up who came out of Egypt will live in the land that I promised to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. ¹²This includes all the men who explored the land except Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua, the son of Nun, because they believed in me and encouraged the children of Israel to go in and take the land.' ¹³So the Lord made us go back into the wilderness for almost forty years until all those who did not believe that the Lord could bring them into the land had died. ¹⁴Now here you are, a new generation, and if word gets out that you don't want to cross Jordan, you'll influence your brothers the same way those men did, and the Lord will really be displeased with us this time. ¹⁵If you don't go with us to subdue the land as the Lord has promised us, you will be responsible for our staying in the wilderness many more years."

¹⁶The leaders of Reuben and Gad answered, "We are ready to cross Jordan together with our brothers and help them subdue and occupy the land that the Lord promised us, but first we would like to build enclosures for our herds and flocks and houses for our women and children. ¹⁷We'll go to battle with our brothers until all the tribes have received their portion of the land. In the meantime our families and those men who are not fit for war can live in these fortified towns and feel safe. ¹⁸We will not return to our families until all the tribes have received their share of the new land. ¹⁹Also we're willing to forego any rights that we might have had to the land on the other side of Jordan, because we freely chose to take this part of the country instead."

over Jordan with us, and under God's command, help us secure the land by fighting alongside your brothers. ²²When the land has been secured for our other tribes and God's people are settled as He directs, then you'll be free from your obligation to the Lord and the rest of the tribes, and the land on this side of Jordan will be yours. ²³But if you fail to do this, you'll sin against the Lord and reap the consequences of your duplicity. You can be sure that you'll not be able to escape the consequences of your sins. ²⁴So go ahead and build enclosures for your animals, houses for your women and children, and make sure your towns and cities are walled in, but don't forget that you promised the Lord to help your brothers secure their inheritance." ²⁵Then the leaders of Reuben and Gad said, "We promise to obey the Lord. ²⁶While our women and children, as well as our flocks and herds, will stay here in Gilead, ²⁷we are ready to do as the Lord says and under His command, prepare for battle and cross over Jordan with our brothers to secure their inheritance."

²⁸Then Moses gave the following orders to Eleazar, Joshua and the other leaders of Israel, ²⁹"If the men from the tribe of Reuben and from the tribe of Gad arm themselves for battle and cross over Jordan and fight alongside of you to secure the land for you, then let them have Gilead for their inheritance. ³⁰But if they refuse to fight alongside you, then they are not to receive Gilead, but let them have land west of the Jordan." ³¹Again the leaders of Reuben and Gad pledged themselves to fight alongside their brothers and did so in the hearing of all the leaders of Israel. They said, "We will do what the Lord has asked us to do. ³²We will fight alongside our brothers under the Lord's command and cross over Jordan to do battle, but the land on this side of Jordan in Gilead will be ours."

³³Moses gave the people of Reuben, Gad and half the tribe of Manasseh with their flocks and herds the territory of Sihon, king of the Amorites, the territory of Og, king of Bashan, and all the territory that the children of Israel had just conquered, together with its cities. ³⁴So the tribe of Gad rebuilt the fortified cities and towns of Dibon, Ataroth, Aroer, ³⁵Atroth Shophan, Jazer, Jogbehah, ³⁶Beth Nimrah and Beth Haran. ³⁷The tribe of Reuben rebuilt the fortified cities and towns of Heshbon, Elealeh, Kiriathaim, ³⁸Nebo, Baal Meon and Sibmah. These were the original names of the cities and towns, some of which were later changed. ³⁹The descendants of Manasseh through Makir decided on the part of Gilead that had not yet been taken and went ahead and drove out any Amorites who still lived there. ⁴⁰Then Moses gave that part of Gilead to the descendants of Manasseh through his son Makir. ⁴¹Jair, one of the leaders of the descendants of Manasseh through Makir, renamed the group of villages he captured The Villages of Jair. ⁴²Nobah, another leader of the descendants of Manasseh through Makir, renamed the city of Kenath and its surrounding settlements Nobah, after himself.

Israel's Journey

33 Now the names of the various places the children of Israel camped as they made their way from Egypt to the land of Canaan under the leadership of Moses and Aaron were all recorded. ²The Lord had told Moses to record the name of each place where the people camped during their long journey of forty years. ³The children of Israel had left Egypt on the fifteenth day of the first month of the year, which was the day after the Passover. They left in full view of the Egyptians, ⁴who were still burying their firstborn sons who had died. The Lord had done this as a judgment on their gods and as payment for all the Israelite baby boys that Pharaoh had ordered killed.

⁵When the children of Israel left Rameses they first headed southeast to Soccoth, ⁶and from there north and east to Etham near the edge of the wilderness. ⁷Then they turned north to Pi Hahiroth by the mouth of the Egyptian canal, and from there east again toward the town of Baal Zephon where they set up camp, which was not far from the Egyptian border post of Migdol. ⁸That's where they crossed the Red Sea. Then they headed south through the Wilderness of Etham for three days and set up camp at Marah. ⁹From Marah they went on to Elim and camped there because it had twelve springs of water and seventy palm trees, which made it a good place to rest. ¹⁰Then they left Elim and camped near the lower end of the Red Sea.

¹¹Next they went and camped in the Desert of Sin, ¹²then at Dophkah, ¹³after Dophkah, at Alush, ¹⁴and then at Rephidim where they expected to find water but didn't. ¹⁵After Rephidim they continued to camp in the Wilderness of Sinai and on toward Mount Hor. ¹⁶Then they continued and camped at the following places: Kibroth Hattaavah, ¹⁷Hazereth, ¹⁸Rithmah, ¹⁹Rimmon Perez, ²⁰Libnah, ²¹Rissah, ²²Kehelethah, ²³Mount Shepher, ²⁴Haradah, ²⁵Makheleth, ²⁶Tahath, ²⁷Terah, ²⁸Mithkah, ²⁹Hashmonah, ³⁰Moseroth, ³¹Bene Jaakan, ³²Hor Haggidgad, ³³Jotbathah, ³⁴Abroah, ³⁵Ezion Geber, ³⁶Kadesh in the Wilderness of Zin ³⁷and finally at Mount Hor on the border of Edom.

⁴¹From Mount Hor the children of Israel traveled on to Zalmonah, ⁴²then to Punon, ⁴³Obboth, ⁴⁴Iye Abarim, ⁴⁵Dibon Gad, ⁴⁶Almon Diblathaim, ⁴⁷and from there to the Abarim mountain range, which includes Mount Nebo, where Moses later died and was buried. ⁴⁸After this they went on to camp in the plains of Moab by the Jordan River just across from Jericho. ⁴⁹Their campsites extended from Beth Jeshimoth on the south to Abel Shittim, the Acacia Valley, on the north.

The Conquest of Canaan

⁵⁰It was here on the plains of Moab that the Lord said to Moses, ⁵¹“Tell the children of Israel that when they cross Jordan into Canaan, ⁵²they are to drive out all the people who are living there, because there is plenty of land for those people to live elsewhere. Crush all their idols, destroy their carved images and demolish their places of worship. ⁵³Take possession of the land and settle there because this is the land I promised to give you. ⁵⁴The land should be divided according to families and the locations are to be chosen by drawing lots; only make sure that the larger sections of the country go to the larger tribes and the smaller sections go to the smaller tribes. Other than that, whatever location each family gets by drawing lots will be theirs, depending on their size. ⁵⁵If you don’t drive out the inhabitants of the land and if you allow some of them to live with you, they’ll cause you no end of trouble and will turn you away from me. They’ll be as irritating to you as a splinter in your eye and a thorn in your side. They’ll try to draw you into their way of life and will not hesitate to kill you. ⁵⁶If you don’t drive them out and you end up doing what they do, I will have to do to you the same thing I am going to do to them.”

The Boundaries of Canaan

34 The Lord said to Moses, ²“Tell the children of Israel that the area of Canaan that they will inherit will be defined by these boundaries: ³The southern border will run along the Wilderness of Zin. It will begin with the southernmost tip of the Dead Sea, ⁴run through the Akrabim Pass, also called Scorpion Pass, to Kadesh Barnea, from there to Hazar Addar, on to Azmon, ⁵touch the border of Egypt and then end at the Sea.

¹⁰“The eastern border will begin at Hazar Enan and extend to the Shepham, ¹¹from there to Riblah, on to the hills on the other side of the Lake of Galilee, then down along the Jordan River ending at the Dead Sea. ¹²These are the four borders of the land that I will give you. This will be your country.”

¹³Moses called the leaders of the children of Israel together, described the boundaries of their land to them, then said, “Go in and take the land and assign a portion of it to each tribe by drawing lots. The Lord has commanded that all of Canaan be given to the nine-and-a-half tribes, ¹⁴because the tribes of Reuben and Gad and one-half of the tribe of Manasseh have already claimed their inheritance. ¹⁵They chose to settle on this side of the Jordan River, across from Jericho.”

Leaders Divide the Land

¹⁶Then the Lord said to Moses, ¹⁷“The men I want to lead out in assigning the land will be Eleazar, the high priest, and Joshua, the son of Nun, ¹⁸together with the following men from the other tribes: ¹⁹Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, from Judah, ²⁰Shemuel, the son of Ammihud, from Simeon, ²¹Elidad, the son of Kislou, from Benjamin, ²²Bukki, the son of Jogli, from Dan, ²³Hanniel, the son of Ephod, from the other half of Manasseh, ²⁴Kemuel, the son of Shiphtan, from Ephraim, ²⁵Elizaphan, the son of Parnach, from Zebulun, ²⁶Paltiel, the son of Azzan, from Issachar, ²⁷Ahivud, the son of Shelomi, from Asher, ²⁸and Pedahel, the son of Ammihud, from Naphtali.” ²⁹These were the men the Lord chose to divide the land among the children of Israel.

Cities for the Levites

35 The Lord spoke to Moses on the plains of Moab by the Jordan River across from Jericho, before the children of Israel crossed over, saying, ²“Tell the people that when they receive their inheritance they are to give some of the cities and pasture lands around them to the Levites because they will receive no other inheritance. ³This way they, too, will have a place to call their own and will have some pasture land for their animals. ⁴The pasture lands are to extend fifteen hundred feet from the city walls. ⁵measure three thousand feet for each side—three thousand feet for the east side, the south side, the west side and the north side, making a huge square with the city in the middle. This will be the Levites’ pasture land. ⁶Six of the cities you give the Levites will be cities of refuge. If a man accidentally kills someone, he can escape to one of them so he won’t be killed by the dead man’s relatives. ⁷These six cities are to be in addition to the forty-two cities the Levites are to have, making a total of forty-eight cities that you are to give them. ⁸The number of cities in each tribal area is to be determined by the size of the population.”

Cities of Refuge

⁹The Lord continued to speak to Moses, ¹⁰“Tell the children of Israel that as soon as they cross over into Canaan and get settled, ¹¹they are to select these cities of refuge and give them to the Levites, so that a man who accidentally kills someone can run to one before an avenger can kill him. ¹²There he’ll be safe from the hostile relatives of the person who was killed, because they’ll try to take the law into their own hands. Anyone accused of murder is not to be executed without a proper public trial. ¹³These six cities are to be scattered throughout the land, ¹⁴with three of them this side of Jordan in the land of Gilead where the tribes of Reuben and

Gad with half the tribe of Manasseh have settled. The other three are to be on the other side of Jordan. ¹⁵They are to be cities of refuge for the children of Israel and for the foreigners living among them so anyone who has accidentally killed someone can have a place to run to for asylum and to feel safe.

²⁵The people are responsible for protecting the man who kills someone accidentally. They are to see to it that after the trial he is safely returned to the city of refuge, and he is to live there the rest of his life or until the death of the high priest under whose protection he had been placed. ²⁶If the man leaves the city of refuge and goes outside the city limits, ²⁷and the dead man's nearest relative finds him and kills him, the relative is not to be charged with murder. ²⁸The man is to stay in the city of refuge until the death of the high priest when what he did will be expunged from the records. Then he is free to return home.

²⁹"This is to be the law for the children of Israel throughout their generations, no matter where they live in the country. ³⁰Anyone who intentionally kills a person is to stand trial and be executed, but only on the testimony of two or three witnesses, not just the testimony of one witness or the decision of the judge. ³¹You are not to accept payment for the life of a murderer, because he cannot be ransomed no matter what price is offered to have the death sentence waived. ³²You are not to accept a ransom for the release of someone who was careless and accidentally killed someone, then ran to the city of refuge for asylum. You are not to let him go free for any price or any reason while the high priest is still alive. It will be a life for a life. ³³Do not let the people defile the country I have given them by murdering and killing each other. Bloodshed of any kind pollutes the land and it can be purified only as those who kill are brought to trial and executed for what they have done. ³⁴Do not allow murderers to live or those who are careless with other people's lives to go free and roam the country at will. I am the Lord, I am holy and I live in that land with you. Do not defile it with murder."

Female Heirs

36 The leaders of Gilead's family group went to talk to Moses. (Gilead was the son of Makir, who was the son of Manasseh, who was the son of Joseph.) They said to him, ²"When the Lord asked you to divide the land among the families of Israel by drawing lots, the Lord also said to give a portion to our brother Zelophehad's daughters because he had no sons. ³Now suppose they marry men from others tribes. Their land will be taken from us and will go with them to the men from those tribes. ⁴Then during the Year of Jubilee when all properties go back to their original owners, the inheritance of these women will be permanently assigned to the descendants of their husbands. So our inheritance will be taken away from us."

⁵The Lord said to Moses, "The descendants of Joseph are right in having this concern. ⁶Tell them that the daughters of Zelophehad may marry whom they please as long as it is someone from their own tribe. The property of each tribe is to stay within that tribe. That way no woman will be forced to marry someone who pretends to love her so he can get the rights to property belonging to another tribe. ⁷No land is to pass from one tribe to another. Each inheritance is to stay with the family to which it was originally assigned. ⁸Every daughter who inherits land is to marry someone within her tribe so that no inheritance can pass to another tribe by marriage. ⁹Land is not to pass from tribe to tribe. The land assigned to each tribe is to be theirs forever."

¹⁰So Zelophehad's daughters did as the Lord said, ¹¹and Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah and Tirzah all married their cousins. ¹²They married within the tribe of Manasseh, the son of Joseph, and their inheritance stayed within that tribe.

¹³These then are the laws that the Lord gave to Israel through Moses on the plains of Moab west of Jordan, near Jericho.

DEUTERONOMY

Moses' Farewell Address

1 These are the words Moses spoke to the children of Israel shortly before he died while they were on the east side of the Jordan River ready to cross over into Canaan. Their camp was located near Suph, between Paran on one side and Tophel, Laban, Hazeroth and Dizahab on the other side. ²It would have taken them only eleven days to go from Sinai to Kadesh Barnea on the road around the southern border of Canaan. ³But now it had been forty years since they had left Egypt, because they had rebelled against the Lord. So on the first day of the eleventh month in the last year of their journey, Moses spoke to them one final time. ⁴This was after he had defeated Sihon, king of the Amorites who had ruled from Heshbon, and Og, the king of Bashan who had ruled from Ashteroth and Edrei. ⁵It was here on the plains of Moab that Moses explained to the children of Israel the laws and teachings of God. He began by recalling their history as follows:

⁶“After camping at the foot of Mount Sinai for almost a year, the Lord our God said to us, ‘You have been at the foot of this mountain long enough. ⁷Break camp and move on. I want you to make your way up into the mountains of the Amorites, then on into the plains and valleys of the surrounding regions. From there I want you to go into the Negeb, up the Jordan Valley, and into the land of the Canaanites. Then, I want you to go all the way to the Mediterranean coast and follow it into Lebanon, as far north as the Euphrates River. ⁸You see, this is the land which I promised to give to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and to their descendants. So go in and take possession of the land—it’s now yours.’

Leaders Appointed

⁹“At that time I said to you, ‘The responsibility for all of you is too much for me. I can’t carry it by myself. ¹⁰The Lord God has blessed us so much that it’s as hard to count all of you as it is to count the stars in the sky. ¹¹I pray that the Lord will continue to bless you and increase your descendants a thousandfold just as He has promised. ¹²But as you multiply in numbers, how can I continue to solve your problems and settle your differences all by myself? ¹³Select some men of experience with wisdom and understanding, one from each tribe, and they can help me solve many of your problems and settle your differences.’

¹⁴“You agreed that the proposal I had made was good. ¹⁵So I took the men whom you had chosen from your tribes, wise and reputable men, and appointed them to share in leadership. I put some in charge of thousands, others in charge of hundreds and still others in charge of fifties and tens. They were to serve you as judges, helping me in my work. ¹⁶I told them to listen to your disputes and quarrels and always to judge rightly, whether it had to do with you or with the foreigners who lived among you. ¹⁷These judges were to show no partiality but to judge everyone on the same basis no matter who they were. They were not to let themselves be intimidated by anyone, because they must do what is right. I told them that all judgment belongs to the Lord and that He knows whether they’re doing what’s right or not. I also told them to bring the hard cases to me. ¹⁸It was during that same time that I told you what your responsibilities were.

Israel's Refusal to Enter Canaan

¹⁹“Then we broke camp and set out in the direction the Lord told us to go. We left Mount Sinai, crossed the vast and dangerous desert and headed toward the mountains of the Amorites until we reached Kadesh Barnea. ²⁰It was there that I encouraged you by saying, ‘We have reached the mountains of the Amorites and are on the borders of the land which the Lord our God has promised to give us. ²¹Let's go in and take the land as the Lord told us to do. Don't be afraid of the inhabitants, and don't let the things you see there discourage you.' ²²You came to me and said, 'Let's first send some men ahead of us to see what's there and bring back a report. Let them find out the best route to take and how fortified the cities are, then we'll be ready to go.' ²³This seemed like a good idea, so I let you choose twelve men, one from each tribe and sent them on their way. ²⁴First, they explored the mountains and then the Valley of Eshcol. ²⁵When they came back, they even brought some fruit with them and told us what a good land it was to which we were going, that it was just as the Lord had said it would be.

²⁶"But you were afraid and didn't think the Lord could give us the land, so you rebelled against Him and refused to trust in what He could do for us. ²⁷You grumbled and said, 'The Lord brought us out here to die! He wants to turn us over to the Amorites to destroy us!' ²⁸Where do we go now? The men who explored the land told us how huge and strong the Amorites were, that their cities were fortified with walls so high they looked as if they were touching the sky, and that the Anakites who lived there were giants! We doubt if we can ever go in and possess the land.' ²⁹I begged you at the time not to be discouraged or terrified by what you had heard, but to obey the Lord and step out in faith. ³⁰I reminded you of what the Lord had done for you in Egypt and in the desert. You had seen how He fought for you there. ³¹I pointed out to you what He had done for you in the wilderness and that He had protected you as a loving father cares for his only son. ³²But in spite of all this, you refused to believe that the Lord would do it, ³³even though you knew He had led you in a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night and had showed you the way to go and where to camp.

The Penalty for Rebellion

³⁴"When the Lord saw your lack of faith in Him, He was extremely displeased with you and said, ³⁵'Not a single man from this generation will inhabit the land which I promised to give them, ³⁶except Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua, the son of Nun. They will see it, and I will give them and their descendants the very land which they explored for you.' ³⁷The Lord would not even let me go in and see the land, because I became angry with you later at the waters of Meribah near Kadesh Barnea and took credit for bringing you out of Egypt when actually the Lord had done it all. ³⁸That was when the Lord told me that Joshua, the son of Nun, would take the people into the land of Canaan, because years before he and Caleb believed wholeheartedly that the Lord could do what He had said, and they were ready to go. So Joshua is the one who will lead you into the Promised Land. ³⁹After you had accepted the negative report of the men and rebelled against the Lord, He said, 'As for your little ones, those who today don't know right from wrong, the ones you're so afraid will be taken from you by the inhabitants of the land, they will go in and possess the land that I promised to give you as an inheritance. ⁴⁰But as for you, I want you to turn around and head back into the wilderness along the road by the Red Sea.'

⁴¹"Then you said, 'We have sinned! We were wrong in giving in to our feelings the way we did! We'll now make up for it by doing what the Lord wants us to do. We will go in and fight for the land that He has given us.' And you gathered your weapons together. ⁴²Then the Lord said to me, 'Tell the children of Israel not to react and go up to take the land by force, because I will not go with them, and without me they'll be defeated.' ⁴³I told you all of this, but again, you wouldn't listen. You rebelled against the Lord's discipline, and in self-confidence and pride, you marched up into the mountains to fight the Amorites. ⁴⁴And the Amorites came out against you like a swarm of bees and you ran. They chased you for miles, all the way from the region of Seir to Hormah, where they slaughtered you. ⁴⁵You came back into camp and wept before the Lord, but He turned a deaf ear to your tale of woe and didn't listen to your prayers of self-pity. ⁴⁶So we camped near Kadesh Barnea for a long time until you were willing to go back into the wilderness as the Lord had asked us to do."

The Desert Years

2"When you were ready to obey the Lord, we turned and went back into the wilderness and took the road going toward the Red Sea which we had crossed the year before when we first came out of Egypt. This is the road the Lord had told us to take, and we skirted the mountains of Edom for many days. ²Then the Lord said to me, ³'You've been skirting the mountains long enough. I want you to turn north. ⁴Tell the children of Israel it's time to head toward Edom. You'll be going through a section of the mountains that belong to the descendants of your relative Esau, the brother of Jacob. The people who live there are afraid of you and are watching your every move, ⁵so be careful not to start anything and end up in a war with them. Their land is not included in the land I promised to give you. I have given this land to Esau and to his descendants. ⁶Whatever food and water you need, you are to buy it from them and pay them in silver.' ⁷That's how the Lord directed us for nearly forty years, and we went wherever He told us to go. And the Lord watched over us and blessed us and gave us everything we needed. ⁸After the descendants of Esau refused to let us go through their country, we left and turned off the Arabah road. This is the road that goes from the twin cities of Elath and Ezion Geber on the Gulf of Aqabah in the south to the Dead Sea in the north.

"So we took the desert road that goes northeast toward Moab. ⁹Then the Lord said to me, 'Don't do anything to stir up the Moabites against you or start a war because I have given their land and cities such as Ar to the descendants of Lot, Abraham's nephew, for their possession.' ¹⁰The Emites used to live in the city of Ar and in the surrounding area. They were another race of giants like the Anakites. ¹¹The people also called them Rephaites, which simply means Giants. But the Moabites called them Emites, meaning The Fighting Men. ¹²In those days the Horites (also known as the Hurrians) lived in the mountains around Mount Seir until the descendants of Esau drove them out. That's what the Lord wants us to do with the Canaanites. ¹³The Lord told us to break camp and cross the Zered valley, and after that He would tell us where to go next. So we did. ¹⁴By this time thirty-eight years had gone by since we left Kadesh Barnea (where we had sent out men to explore the land) until we crossed the Zered river valley on the borders of Moab. Nearly forty years had passed since we left Egypt. By then that whole generation of fighting men had died in the wilderness as the Lord had said they would. ¹⁵The Lord had been against them going into Canaan so He waited until they all died.

¹⁶"When the last of them had died, ¹⁷the Lord said to me, ¹⁸'Now it's time for you to cross over into Moab by the border city of Ar. ¹⁹As you go, you'll come to the land of the Ammonites. These also are descendants of Abraham's nephew, Lot, so don't do anything to stir them up against you or start a war. I will not give you their land for I have given it to them as their possession.' ²⁰That territory also once belonged to the Rephaites whom the Ammonites called Zamzummites, meaning The Strong People. ²¹They, too, were a race of giants, tall and strong like the Anakites. The Lord helped the Ammonites to drive them out and settle in the land. ²²The Lord did the same thing for the descendants of Esau when He helped them drive out the Horites in the hill country of Seir. ²³There was also a change in population along the Mediterranean coast by Gaza where the Avvites once lived. The Caphtorites from the island of Crete came in, drove the inhabitants out and settled there. ²⁴So after we had passed through Moab, the Lord said to me, 'Keep going and cross the Arnon River. I will give you power to defeat Sihon, king of the Amorites living in Heshbon. He will not let you pass peacefully through his land, but I have given this land to you. Go ahead and begin to take it. ²⁵From now on I will make all the nations in the area afraid of you. They will shake with fear when they hear your name.'

King Sihon Defeated

²⁶'So from where we were camped at Kedemoth, I sent a message to Sihon, who lived in Heshbon, offering him peace. ²⁷I said to him, 'Let us pass through your country on our way to Canaan. We will stay on the main road all the way and promise not to get off. ²⁸We'll buy our food and water from you with silver. Just let us pass through your land. We promise to do so peacefully. ²⁹We did not start a war with the descendants of Esau in Edom, nor with the Moabites, the descendants of Lot, who lived in Ar as we approached their territories. We want to cross the Jordan River into the land God has given us.' ³⁰But Sihon sent our messengers back and refused to let us pass. He was just as stubborn as Pharaoh had been years before. The Lord knew that Sihon would harden his heart as Pharaoh had, and that's why He told us not to be afraid. He said that He would be with us and give King Sihon into our hands, which He did. And now Sihon's land is ours. ³¹The Lord encouraged us to do this by saying to me, 'In addition to the land of Canaan, I have given you Sihon's land. It's yours, so go in and take it.' ³²Then Sihon and his army came out and fought us at the battle of Jahaz.

³³'The Lord kept His promise and delivered Sihon into our hands, and we defeated him, his sons and his whole army. ³⁴We also destroyed all his cities and left no one in them alive, neither men, women, nor children. ³⁵But we did keep the livestock and the other things of value we had taken from the cities. ³⁶We captured all the cities from Aroer on the edge of the Arnon Valley, including the city in the middle of that valley, as far north as Gilead. The Lord was with us, and there were no cities too strong for us. ³⁷We were careful to keep the Lord's command and did not go near the land of the Ammonites, who are descendants of Lot, or along the Jabbok River or any of the mountain cities which the Lord had told us to leave alone.'

King Og Defeated

3'Then we made our way up to Bashan, and King Og came against us with his army near the city of Edrei. ²The Lord said to me, 'Don't be afraid of him because I will give him and his army into your hands, and his land will be yours. Do the same thing to him that you did to Sihon, king of the Amorites, who ruled in Heshbon.' ³So the Lord helped us gain the victory over King Og and his men as He promised. We defeated them and when it was all over, not one of them survived. ⁴We also captured every one of his sixty cities. There was not a city that we did not take from him. The whole area of Argob, which made up the kingdom of Og in Bashan, was now ours. ⁵Every city we took was heavily fortified with high walls and strong gates, though many of the villages were not. ⁶We completely destroyed the cities of Bashan just as we had destroyed the cities of the kingdom of Sihon. We destroyed everyone who lived there, men, women and children. ⁷We did keep the livestock and the valuables for ourselves.

⁸'We took from these two Amorite kings all the land east of the Jordan River from the Arnon River in the south to Mount Hermon in the north. ⁹Mount Hermon is also called Sirion by the Sidonians and Senir by the Amorites. ¹⁰The territory we took from King Og included all the cities on the plateau, all of Gilead and all the territory as far east as the towns of Salecah and Edrei where we first engaged him in battle. ¹¹King Og was the last king of the great race of men we defeated. He himself was a giant of a man. His bed was made out of iron which is very scarce. It was over thirteen feet long and six feet wide and is still on display in the Ammonite city of Rabbah.

The Land East of the Jordan

¹²“So after we had taken the kingdom of Og east of Jordan, I gave it to the tribes of Reuben and Gad. It included all the territory north of the Arnon River and half of the mountainous country of Gilead and all of the cities and towns in it. ¹³The other half of Gilead and all of Bashan, which was ruled by King Og, I gave to half the tribe of Manasseh. This whole area was once known as the land of giants. ¹⁴Then Jair, the leader of half the tribe of Manasseh, had his people take the territory as far north as the borders of Geshur and Maacah. He named that whole region after himself, calling it Havvoth Jair meaning The Villages of Jair. ¹⁵So that half of Gilead was the inheritance of the descendants of Makir, the firstborn son of Manasseh who was the son of Joseph. ¹⁶I gave all the territory south of there to the Arnon River to the tribes of Reuben and Gad. The middle of the river was their southern border and the middle of the Jabbok River was their northern border, which also served as a border for the Ammonites. ¹⁷The western boundary of the territory for these tribes was the Jordan River, which flows from the Lake of Galilee down to the Dead Sea, with the lower slopes of Mount Pisgah on the east.

¹⁸“At that time I said to these tribes, ‘The Lord our God has given you this land east of Jordan on the condition that you go with your brothers westward into Canaan and be ready to do battle for the land the Lord promised to give them. ¹⁹You may let your families stay in the cities this side of Jordan and you may leave your flocks and herds here too. ²⁰But you are to stay by your brothers and help them get their inheritance just as they helped you get yours. Only then may you go back to the land the Lord our God has given you.’ ²¹It was then that I said to Joshua, ‘You have been with me from the beginning and you have seen all that the Lord has done for His people and what He has done to Sihon and Og, those two giant kings. The Lord will do the same to any other king who will oppose you. ²²So don’t be afraid to push forward. The Lord our God will be with you.’

Moses Forbidden to Enter Canaan

²³“I also pleaded with the Lord, ²⁴“O Sovereign Lord, I know that you have let me see only the beginning of the great things that you have in mind to do for your people. There is no idol or god that can do the things that you have done. ²⁵Please let me cross Jordan and at least set foot in the land of promise. Let me see that fertile land with my own eyes and look at those beautiful mountains of Lebanon that you told us about.’ ²⁶But the Lord said, ‘That’s enough! I don’t want to hear any more about it. You know how much I would like to answer your prayer. But you took credit to yourself for leading the people out of Egypt and didn’t listen to me. I also told you to speak to the rock but you struck it. As much as I would like to, I cannot let you go in.

²⁷“‘However, I will let you see the land from a distance. Go to the top of Mount Pisgah and take a good look. Look in all directions—west, north, south and east. I will give you special vision so you can feast your eyes on the whole land, but I cannot let you go in. ²⁸After you have looked at it, appoint Joshua to take your place. He will be the one to lead the children of Israel into Canaan. Encourage him and give him moral support as he takes on the responsibility of leadership and goes in to possess the land.' ²⁹As you know, we stayed in the valley opposite Beth Peor for some time."

The Importance of Obedience

4 Then Moses said to the people, "Now listen to me before you cross over Jordan. Obey the Lord your God and make Him first in your lives. Follow His instructions so that you may live and occupy the land which He promised to our ancestors, which He's now ready to give you. ²Don't add anything or take anything away from His instructions, but stay with what the law says and obey the commandments as I have given them to you. ³You saw with your own eyes what the Lord did at Baal Peor to those who disobeyed. He destroyed all who took part in Baal worship and participated in the disgusting sexual rituals that go along with it.

⁴But those of you who obeyed and were faithful to the Lord are still alive. ⁵I gave you all the laws that the Lord our God gave to me, and I want you to continue obeying them even after you've settled in the land of Canaan. ⁶If you keep these laws faithfully, soon the neighboring nations will see what these laws can do for people. They'll say to themselves, 'What wisdom and understanding these newcomers have.' Then they'll come to visit your country and you can talk to them about our God. ⁷Tell me, what other people have gods as near to them as our God is to us? Our God hears our prayers and answers them. He is there whenever we call on Him for help, and He answers our prayers in the best way for our own good. ⁸What other nation is governed by such righteous laws and teachings as we have? The Lord is the One who gave these laws to us. He gave them to me to give to you.

⁹"Make sure that you don't forget the things your eyes have seen and your ears have heard. Don't let them slip from your hearts or you'll lose your love for the Lord and your appreciation for what He has done for you. Teach these things to your children and grandchildren and share your experiences with them so they, too, will love the Lord. ¹⁰Remember the day when you stood before the Lord your God at the foot of Mount Sinai? Remember how He said to me, 'Call the people together because I want them to know what to do when I ask them to obey me. I not only want them to respect me, but I want them to know that I love them and that they can depend on me as long as they live. I want them to teach this to their children and to their children's children.'

¹¹"So tell your children what the Lord said that day as you stood at the foot of Mount Sinai. Tell them how the lower part of the mountain was wrapped in total darkness while the top of it was ablaze with fire. ¹²The Lord Himself spoke to you from the midst of the fire, and even though you couldn't see Him, you could hear Him speaking. ¹³He told you what to do to keep the covenant He made with you. He told you to keep the Ten Commandments He wrote on the two tablets of stone which are now in the Sanctuary. ¹⁴On that mountain the Lord told me to explain to you all His laws and commandments. He wanted me to do this before you went in to possess the land He promised you so you would know what was required of you.

Warning Against Idolatry

¹⁵"Remember how, when the Lord spoke to you that day from the midst of the fire, He didn't let you see Him? ¹⁶He did this for your own good so you wouldn't be tempted to make an idol to look like Him, then turn it into your god. Don't sin by making idols that look human. You are not to make an idol of anyone, male or female, and worship it. ¹⁷Don't make statues of any animals or birds ¹⁸or creatures that creep, slither on the ground, or swim, and turn them into idols. ¹⁹When you're fascinated by the sun, moon, stars and constellations, don't worship them, because they're only lifeless objects. They can't influence your life, much less determine what happens to you.

²¹He doesn't want you to belong to someone else. That's why He wasn't pleased when I gave you the impression that I was the one who had led you out of Egypt and given you water. That's why He told me that I could not go with you into Canaan. ²²So I will have to die and be buried this side of Jordan. But He will take you into the land just as He promised. ²³So don't forget who your Leader is and the covenant He has made with you. Don't make idols for yourselves of things you see or of things you imagine, not even of the Lord. The Lord Himself has told you not to do that. ²⁴The Lord is not only a God of love but also a consuming fire, and for your sake He tolerates no worship of other gods.

²⁵"After the Lord brings you into the land He promised to give you, and you settle down and have children and grandchildren, don't do evil by making idols for yourselves. If you do, the Lord will be extremely displeased. He will have to discipline you, as He has done before. ²⁶I call on heaven and earth as my witness. If you disobey the Lord, you'll not only lose the land the Lord wants to give you, but your enemies will come and destroy you. ²⁷The Lord will let them capture you and the few of you who survive will be scattered among the nations. ²⁸There you'll be made to serve gods of wood and stone which can't see, hear, smell, eat or talk. ²⁹But even there, if you look to the Lord your God and search for Him with all your heart and soul, you will find Him. ³⁰Even after these dreadful things happen to you, if, in the days that follow, you find the Lord again, then you'll gladly listen to Him and obey Him. ³¹The Lord your God is a loving and merciful God. He will never abandon you. He will not break the covenant which He made with your ancestors and confirmed by an oath.

³²"Stop and ask yourself: Has anything like this happened before? Study the past, go back before you were born. Go way back to the beginning when God created man. Search from one end of the earth to the other and see if anyone has heard of anything like this, and you'll find that no such thing has ever been heard of. ³³Have any other people heard the voice of God speak to them from the midst of blazing fire and lived to tell about it? ³⁴Have any idols ever gone into the middle of another nation and taken out a people for themselves by plagues, miracles, signs in the sky, awesome deeds of wonder and victories in war as the Lord your God has done for you? ³⁵The Lord did this for your sakes to prove to you that He alone is God and that there are no other gods beside Him.

³⁶"He also spoke to you from the midst of a cloud in the sky, teaching you things for your own good. He spoke to you from the midst of a pillar of fire right here on this earth and let you see His burning presence. ³⁷He did all this because He loved your ancestors and claimed them and their descendants as His own. He brought you out of Egypt with a mighty hand. ³⁸He forced bigger and stronger nations than you out of the land and gave the land to you as an inheritance. It is yours. ³⁹Remember all this and take it to heart. The Lord our God is the God of heaven and earth. Don't ever forget it. There is no other God! ⁴⁰Keep His commandments and laws and all will go well with you and your children after you, and you'll continue to live in this land which the Lord your God is giving you forever."

Cities of Refuge East of the Jordan

⁴¹Then Moses designated three cities of refuge east of Jordan, as the Lord had instructed him. ⁴²These cities were set aside so that a man who unintentionally killed someone without malice or forethought could escape to them and be safe. That way he wouldn't have to live in fear that the dead man's relatives would pursue and kill him. ⁴³The three cities that Moses set aside were: Bezer on the plateau where the tribe of Reuben settled, Ramoth in Gilead where the tribe of Gad was, and Golan in Bashan where half the tribe of Manasseh decided to live.

God's Law

⁴⁴These are God's instructions which Moses gave the Israelites. ⁴⁵These rules, commands and laws were given to the children of Israel by Moses after they had come out of Egypt ⁴⁶while they were still camped in the valley opposite Beth Peor east of Jordan. This whole area had belonged to Sihon, king of the Amorites, who had his capitol in Heshbon, but he was defeated by Moses and the children of Israel as they came out of Egypt. ⁴⁷Under the leadership of Moses they also had defeated Og, king of Bashan, and took over his land. Both these Amorite kings had ruled the land east of Jordan. ⁴⁸Their territory extended from the city of Aroer on the banks of the Arnon River in the south, all the way to Mount Hermon in the north. ⁴⁹Their western boundary ran from Mount Hermon all along the Jordan River as far south as the upper end of the Dead Sea, near the lower slopes of Mount Pisgah. On the east their territory extended all the way to the Arabian Desert.

The Ten Commandments Repeated

5 Again Moses called the children of Israel together and said to them, "People of Israel, I want you to listen. Listen carefully to the meaning of the laws that the Lord has given us. These are His laws, so you need to learn them and carefully obey them. ²Remember how the Lord spoke to us at Mount Sinai and made a covenant with us? ³It wasn't with our ancestors that He made a written covenant, but with us and with all who are alive today. ⁴The Lord spoke to you as a people face to face from the midst of the flames of fire. He spoke so clearly that you felt you could almost see Him. ⁵I stood between you and the Lord and told you what He was saying because you were afraid of the fire surrounding Him and stood away from the mountain.

⁶"When the Lord spoke from the top of Mount Sinai, He said, 'I am the Lord your God who brought you out of Egypt and set you free. If you want to be like me, there are certain behaviors you must observe:

⁷"Do not love any other gods besides me.

⁸"Do not make idols for yourselves or carve images to resemble anything in the heavens, on earth or in the seas. ⁹Don't bow down and worship such carved idols for I will tolerate no rivals. Influences from such worship will extend to the grandchildren and great-grandchildren of those who turn away from me, and I will not prevent such consequences. ¹⁰But I will show special kindness to thousands who love me and keep my commandments.

¹¹"Do not use my name irreverently for I will not tolerate such abuse.

¹²"Remember to honor the Sabbath and keep it holy as the Lord your God commanded you, because I, the Lord, have given you this day and have set it aside for you and me. ¹³There are six days for you to do all your work, ¹⁴but the seventh day of the week is the Sabbath and belongs to the Lord your God. On that day you are to do no regular work, you, nor your family, your servants, your animals or the foreigners living among you, because they have the same privileges that you do. ¹⁵Don't forget that you were slaves in a foreign land, but I brought you out of there with my power and strength so you could be free to keep the Sabbath as I, the Lord your God, have commanded you.

¹⁶"Honor your parents. Show respect to them, and I will bless you with long life, and things will go well for you in the land I have promised to give you.

17“Do not commit murder.

18“Do not commit adultery.

19“Do not steal.

20“Do not lie or make false accusations.

21“Do not desire another man’s wife, his house, his land, his servants, his cattle or anything else that he owns, because all such selfishness is sin.’

22“These are the laws the Lord gave us when He spoke to us out of the midst of the fire and the cloud of deep darkness. After the Lord had spoken these ten laws, He added no more. Then He wrote them on two tablets of stone and gave them to me.

The People Afraid of God

23“When you heard God’s voice speaking to you from the midst of the fire, your older leaders and heads of tribes came to me and said, 24“‘The Lord our God has shown us His glory and how great He is, and we have heard His voice from the midst of the fire for ourselves. Now we know that men can hear God’s voice and still live. 25But how can we be sure that the fire will not consume us if God speaks to us another time? 26When has a man heard the voice of the living God speaking to him from the midst of a blazing fire and lived to tell about it? 27We don’t want to take a chance and have the Lord speak to us again. We’re afraid to hear His voice a second time because of what might happen to us. Ask Him not to speak to us again, but to speak to you. You go up and listen to what He has to say, then come back and tell us. We will do whatever the Lord wants us to do.’

28“‘The Lord heard this and when I went up to the top of the mountain He said to me, ‘I have listened to what the leaders and elders of Israel had to say to you, and what they asked you to do is right. 29It’s good that they have respect for me and want me to talk to you instead of to them. If they continue to respect me and love me with all their hearts and obey my commandments, all will go well with them and their children. 30Go back down and tell the leaders and elders of Israel to return to their tents and be at peace, for I have heard their requests. From now on I will speak to you instead. 31Then I want you to come back up here and I will give you additional instructions. You can teach them to the people so they’ll know what to do when they get to the land I will be giving them.’ 32This is what the Lord told me. So I want you to listen carefully to what I have to say, because I want you to follow the Lord’s commands and do exactly what He says. 33Live the way the Lord has instructed you so that you may live a long life and it may go well with you and your children in the land to which you’re going.”

The Greatest Commandment

6 Moses continued, “These are the laws and decrees that the Lord our God has asked me to teach you so you can understand them and obey Him in the land where you are about to go. 2You are to respect the Lord your God and show it by obeying Him. Then things will go well with you and with your children in the land where you’re going and you’ll enjoy a long, happy life. 3So listen to what I have to say, and do what the Lord has asked you to do. Then all His blessings will be yours, and you will become a mighty nation with fertile fields and rich harvests just as the God of our fathers promised you.

4“Listen to me, Israel! The Lord our God is one God! 5So love the Lord your God with all your heart, your soul, your mind and your strength. 6Remember these commands of the Lord as long as you live. Keep them because you love your God. 7Teach your children to love the Lord by obeying Him. Talk to them about Him whether you’re at home or traveling with them, in the morning and in the evening. 8Do whatever you need to do so as not to forget what the Lord has said, even if you have to write it on the backs of your hands or on your forehead,⁹ on the doors of your houses or on your fence posts and gates.

Warning Against Disobedience

¹⁰“The Lord will bring you into the land He promised to give to your fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and it will be a land of flourishing cities which you didn’t even have to build. ¹¹The houses will be full of good things you did not buy; there will be wells of water that you did not dig and vineyards and olive groves that you did not plant. ¹²So when you have eaten and feel satisfied, don’t forget the Lord your God who brought you out of Egypt and slavery. ¹³Never lose your reverence and respect for the Lord. He is your God. Serve only Him. If you ever have to take an oath, take it only in His name. ¹⁴Don’t get caught up in worshiping the gods and things that the people around you worship. ¹⁵The Lord your God is a jealous God; He is jealous for your good. So He will discipline you when necessary. If nothing else works, He will let your enemies conquer you and almost totally destroy you.

¹⁶“Don’t test Him to see how far you can go or what you can get away with. Don’t do as you did at Massah where you doubted His presence when you needed water. ¹⁷Be sure to faithfully obey the commandments of the Lord and pay attention to the instructions He has given you. ¹⁸Do what is right and good in the Lord’s sight and all will go well with you. You will be able to go in and possess the land that the Lord promised you. ¹⁹You’ll defeat your enemies as the Lord has said you would.

²⁰“In the years to come when your children ask you, ‘Why did the Lord give us all these laws?’ ²¹Say to them, ‘We were once slaves in Egypt under the harsh treatment of Pharaoh, but the Lord set us free and brought us out with a demonstration of great power. ²²We saw Him work mighty miracles that terrified Pharaoh and his people until they let us go. ²³After He freed us and brought us out of Egypt, He gave us the land He had promised our ancestors. ²⁴He also gave us these commandments and laws and asked us to keep them and reverence Him because He doesn’t want us to lose His protection. When you look around you can see how He has prospered us. He has kept His word. ²⁵So the right thing for us to do is to faithfully obey Him and do what He asks us to do. He loves us and wants our nation to prosper. That’s why He has given us these laws.’”

A Chosen People

7“The Lord your God will bring you into the land just as He has promised. He will help you drive out the Hittites, Girgashites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites—seven nations much bigger and stronger than you. ²So when the Lord delivers these people into your hands and you have defeated them, you are not to allow any of them to live. Make no peace treaties with them, but utterly destroy them, showing no mercy. ³You are not to marry any of them nor are you to give your daughters in marriage to their sons or to agree to have their daughters marry your sons. ⁴If you do this, their influence will turn your young people away from the Lord to follow other gods, and the Lord will be greatly displeased and will have to destroy you. ⁵You are to tear down their altars, break up their sacred stone pillars, cut to pieces the wooden images of the goddess Asherah and burn these idols in the fire.

⁶“You are a people set apart, and the Lord your God wants you to be holy and pure. He has chosen you out of all the people in the whole world to be His special people, to be a witness of His greatness and love. ⁷The Lord did not love you or choose you because you were so numerous, for you were comparatively few in number. ⁸But He loved you and chose you as His own because of the covenant He made with Abraham. That’s why He stepped in and brought you out of slavery and delivered you by His great power from the hand of Pharaoh. ⁹This is what makes Him our God, because of what He has done for us. He keeps His word and holds to what He has said. He's loyal to His covenant promise through endless generations of those who love Him and blesses those who keep His commandments. ¹⁰But He will discipline those who merely say they love Him, but turn from Him and do wickedly. He will confront them with their duplicity and repay them accordingly. ¹¹Listen to Him, because He loves you. Do what He has asked you to do. It's your happiness that He's interested in.

Blessings of Obedience

¹²“So if you pay attention to His laws and keep His commandments and obey Him, then He'll keep His word and shower you with His love as He has promised. ¹³He will love you and bless you as a nation, and you will continue to prosper and grow. He will bless all your crops, your grain, grapes and oil; He will bless your herds of cattle, your flocks of sheep and your other animals just as He promised your forefathers He would do. ¹⁴There will be no other people in the whole world as blessed as you. Not one of your women will be childless, and not one animal from your herds and flocks will be without offspring. ¹⁵You will be healthy because the Lord will protect you from those dreadful diseases that you had when you were in Egypt, but He will not take them away from those who hate you. ¹⁶You will drive out every nation that the Lord gives into your hands. Don't be swayed with pity and let them stay and live with you, because they will seduce you into worshipping their gods as they did when we were on the borders of Moab.

¹⁷“Don't tell yourselves, ‘These nations are much stronger than we are. We can never hope to drive them out of the land.’ ¹⁸Remember what the Lord did to Pharaoh and the Egyptians. There is no need for you to be afraid. ¹⁹You know what the Lord did for you. You saw it with your own eyes. You saw the miracles and other wonders He did to bring you out of Egypt. He will do great things for you again. So there's no need for you to be afraid. ²⁰The Lord will send hornets ahead of you to drive out every man, woman and child, even if they hide in places where they think you won't find them. ²¹So don't be afraid. The Lord your God is a great and awesome God.

²²“Little by little He will drive out the nations that now occupy the land. He will not drive them out all at once, but only as you grow and are ready to take over. Otherwise, wild animals will come and take over those sections of the country that have been left vacant. ²³So the Lord will drive these nations out before you rather slowly, but He will do so through you until all are gone. ²⁴He will give all these kings into your hands, and if they refuse to leave, and they fight against you, you are to make war with them and wipe out their names from under heaven. They will not be able to stand up against you, and you will be victorious over them and destroy them.

²⁵“You are to crush their idols and burn them. Don't take any of the silver or gold from these idols because it will remind you of them and be a snare to you, turning you from the Lord your God. ²⁶Don't bring any of these idols into your homes as war trophies or souvenirs, no matter how small they are, for they will be a curse to you just as they were to the Canaanites. You are to hate anything that has to do with idolatry, because it will take you away from the Lord. Such things are to be totally destroyed.”

Don't Forget the Lord Your God

8 “Be sure to keep all the laws and commandments I have given you so that you may enter the land of promise and live there in peace, as you prosper and multiply. ²Remember what the Lord has done for you these past forty years. He was with you in the wilderness and humbled and tested you so that you would know what was in your own heart, whether you really loved Him or not. ³He humbled you by letting you get hungry, then He fed you with manna, which no one had ever heard of, to teach you that man is not sustained by bread alone but by feeding on the word that comes from God. ⁴He also blessed you in other ways. During all those years your clothes didn't wear out, and your feet didn't swell from all the walking you had to do. ⁵I want you to know that the Lord disciplined you just as a loving father disciplines his son. ⁶So keep the commandments and laws of the Lord, walk in His ways and give Him the respect that is due Him.

¹¹"But be careful not to forget the Lord your God. Show Him that you love Him by keeping His commandments and His laws that I have passed on to you. ¹²Once you have settled down and built yourselves fine houses and have all you want to eat; ¹³after your herds and flocks have grown, your silver and gold has multiplied and you are rich and increased with goods, it will be easy to forget the Lord your God. ¹⁴You'll begin to focus on yourselves and will slowly slip into forgetting what the Lord has done for you and how He brought you out of slavery from the land of Egypt. ¹⁵He led you through the harsh wilderness, gave you water out of solid rock and protected you and your children from wild animals, snakes and scorpions. ¹⁶He fed you with bread from heaven for many years, which was something even your forefathers had never heard of. He humbled and tested you so you would know what was in your own hearts—all for your own good.

¹⁷"You'll be tempted to forget all this and think it was what you did that brought you all this wealth and success. ¹⁸But don't forget it is the Lord your God who gives you energy and ability to get wealth and to be successful. He does this because He loves you and because of the covenant He made with your fathers. ¹⁹If you forget what the Lord your God did for you and begin to worship other gods or your own abilities, the Lord God of heaven will discipline you, even if He has to allow your nation to be destroyed. ²⁰He has done this to other nations before you came on the scene of action, and He will do it to you if you don't listen to what He has said."

Israel's Rebellions Reviewed

9"Israel, listen to me! You're about to cross the Jordan River to go in and possess the land the Lord promised to give you. It's a land occupied by nations much bigger and more powerful than you, and they have large fortified cities surrounded by walls so high that when you stand at the bottom and look up, it seems as if they're touching the sky. ²The people who live there are tall and strong, and some of them are the descendants of Anak, the father of giants. You've heard the saying, 'Who can stand against the Anakites?' ³But the Lord your God will go ahead of you like a raging fire. You will see with your own eyes what a mighty God your God is. He will subdue the people before you so you'll be able to force them out and, if they fight you, destroy them, just as the Lord tells you to do.

people are so wicked and beyond help that the Lord will drive them out and destroy them. ⁵It's not because you're so righteous that the Lord will go before you and drive out the people living there, but because of the awful wickedness of the people now living there that He will drive them out. This is the land that He promised Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

⁶“So let it be clear in your own mind that it is not because you're righteous or deserve this land that the Lord is giving it to you. You're a very strong-willed people, and you can be very stubborn. ⁷Just think back and you'll remember how you gave the Lord a hard time from the day you left Egypt even until now. ⁸At Sinai you worshipped the golden calf and turned against the Lord with such anger that He would have been justified in destroying you. ⁹When the Lord asked me to come up to the top of the mountain to get the two tablets of stone on which He had written the Ten Commandments, I was up there forty days and forty nights. He wanted these commandments to be the basis of the covenant that He had just made with you. While I was there, the Lord kept me alive because I had nothing to eat or drink. ¹⁰Then the Lord handed me the two tablets of stone on which He had written His law, burning the words into the stone with his own finger. These were the same commandments that you heard Him speak from the top of the mountain when it was on fire and you were so afraid. ¹¹At the end of the forty days He handed me the two tablets of stone and told me that they were the basis of the covenant He had just made with you. ¹²He said to me, ‘You had better go back down the mountain because the people you led out of Egypt have gone mad. They've made themselves a golden calf to represent me and are going through the same filthy sexual rituals the pagans do when they worship their gods.’

I'm going to destroy them and blot out their name from under heaven and no one will remember that there ever were such people. Then I'll make you the father of a new nation, one much bigger and stronger than they would ever be.’

¹⁵“So I went down the mountain while the top of it was still on fire, and I had in my hand the two tablets of stone that the Lord had given me. ¹⁶When I looked at the camp, I couldn't believe what I saw. You had turned away from the Lord your God and had made for yourselves an idol in the shape of a young bull. This was one of the things the Lord had just told us not to do. ¹⁷I was so angry with what you had done that I threw down the tablets of stone so hard that they broke into pieces. This should have made you realize that you had already broken the covenant which the Lord had made with you only days before and which you had agreed to keep. ¹⁸Then once more I went up the mountain, and there I pleaded with the Lord for you. I prayed for another forty days and nights without anything to eat or drink, asking the Lord to forgive you for all you had done to hurt Him, and for worshiping that golden calf. ¹⁹I was fearful for you because you were so determined to do your own thing that even the Lord decided you were beyond help, and He was ready to destroy you. ²⁰The Lord was very angry with Aaron and was ready to destroy him, so I prayed for him too. ²¹Before I went back up the mountain, remember how I took that golden idol, ordered you to melt it down and grind it into powder, which I threw into the mountain stream and made you drink from it?

²²“Later you rebelled against the Lord at Taberah, Massah and Kibroth Hattaavah. ²³And at Kadesh Barnea when the Lord told you to go in and take possession of the land that He had promised to give you, you rebelled again. You didn't trust Him, so you didn't obey Him. ²⁴You have been a stubborn and rebellious people ever since I have known you.

²⁵“But when I was up on the mountain for the second forty days and nights I prayed for you that the Lord would not destroy you. ²⁶I prayed and said, ‘Lord, please don’t destroy your people, even though they deserve it. They’re your own inheritance. You redeemed them from Egypt and brought them out of slavery with a great show of power for everyone to see. ²⁷Remember your servants Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, the ancestors of these people, and how much those men loved you and trusted you. Don’t look at the rebellious nature of these people and what they’ve just done. ²⁸If you should destroy them, the Egyptians will say that you couldn’t take care of them, that you really didn’t love them but hated them and brought them out here in the wilderness to kill them. ²⁹Besides, they are your own people. You made them your own by bringing them out of Egypt with such a show of power that no one doubts that they’re yours!’”

The Second Pair of Stone Tablets

10“The Lord said to me, ‘Go back down the mountain and chisel out two tablets of stone like the first ones. Also make a wooden chest to put them in. ²Then come back up and I will write on your tablets the same words I wrote on the tablets of stone I gave you before. The tablets can then be kept in the chest.’ ³So I went down the mountain and chiseled out two tablets of stone like the ones the Lord had given me and made a chest from acacia wood and went back up the mountain. ⁴Then the Lord wrote the same words on this set that He had written on the first set, the same Ten Commandments that He spoke to you from the midst of the flames on top of the mountain while you stood below and listened. ⁵So the Lord gave me back the two tablets of stone that I had chiseled out for Him, and I came down the mountain. After we built the Sanctuary, I put them in the Ark of the Covenant as He told me to, and they’ve been there ever since.

⁶“From Sinai we traveled on and eventually reached the place called the Wells of Bene Jaakan. Then we went on to Moserah. It was there that Aaron died and was buried, and Eleazar his son took his place as priest. ⁷From there we went on to Gudgodah and Jotbathah, places flowing with streams of water. ⁸At Sinai the Lord set aside the Levites to be in charge of the Sanctuary. They were the only ones allowed to carry the Ark of the Covenant, to minister before the Lord with the priests and to pronounce blessings in the Lord’s name. ⁹That’s why the tribe of Levi didn’t receive a promise of land as the other tribes did. Their inheritance is the privilege of serving the Lord.

¹⁰“As I said before, at Sinai I stayed on the mountain for forty days and forty nights a second time. That’s when the Lord answered my prayer and didn’t destroy you, because in His heart He really wanted to bless you. ¹¹So He told me to go back down the mountain and lead you to the Promised Land as He would direct. Again He promised that the land would be ours just as He had told our forefathers.

The Heart of the Law

¹²“Now listen! What does the Lord ask of you? All He asks is that you respect Him, love Him and serve Him with all your heart, soul and mind. ¹³He wants you to obey Him and to keep His commandments and laws that I have given to you for your own good. ¹⁴All things belong to the Lord from the heavens above to the earth beneath, including everything on it. ¹⁵He is such a powerful God and yet He set His great heart of love on your ancestors and chose you above all other people in the world to be His own. That’s how it is today. ¹⁶So circumcise your hearts and minds by being a humble and grateful people, and stop being so strong-willed and stubborn.

brided by anyone. ¹⁸He is on the side of the widows and orphans, and longs to have foreigners come and live with His people. He provides them with food and clothing and wants to use you as instruments of kindness to help them. ¹⁹He wants you to love and accept the foreigners who come to live among you as if they were your own people. You were once foreigners yourselves and know what it's like not to be accepted. ²⁰So love the Lord your God and serve Him with your whole heart and soul and mind. Be loyal to Him and keep the promises you make to Him just as He keeps the promises He makes to you. ²¹He should be your joy and praise. You saw what great things He did for you when, as little children, you came with your parents out of Egypt. Your God is the One who did all this. ²²Years ago, when your ancestors went down to Egypt to escape the famine in the land there were only seventy of them, but look at you now. The Lord God has blessed you and there are so many that you look as numerous as the stars in the sky."

Obedience Rewarded

11 "So love the Lord your God, keep His commandments and His laws, and always listen to what He says. ²Don't forget the experiences you've had with the Lord and what you've learned about Him and about yourselves. You—not your little ones—saw the majesty and power of the Lord and the great things He has done, so you need to listen to what I'm trying to tell you. ³You saw what the Lord did to Pharaoh and to the land of Egypt. ⁴You saw what he did to the Egyptians, to their horses and chariots—how they got stuck in the Red Sea and drowned when they came after you to take you back to Egypt. ⁵You're the ones who saw all these things, not your children. You saw what the Lord did for you in the wilderness all along the way to this very day. ⁶You saw what He did to Korah from the tribe of Levi and to Dathan and Abiram, sons of Eliab from the tribe of Reuben, when in the sight of all the people the earth suddenly opened and swallowed them up. ⁷You saw all these things with your own eyes.

⁸"So listen to me and do what I'm telling you so you'll be able to cross Jordan and go in and take the land the Lord has promised to give you. ⁹Only then will you live a long and happy life and be able to enjoy this good land the Lord promised your ancestors. It's a rich and fertile land, and it will be yours forever. ¹⁰This land is not like the land of Egypt where you planted the seed, then had to irrigate whole fields by hand as you would a vegetable garden. ¹¹But the land that you're going to is a land of mountains and valleys, richly watered by streams and rain. ¹²It's a land that the Lord of heaven waters and cares for. His eyes are on it the year around.

¹³"Be grateful and love the Lord your God with all your heart and soul and mind. Serve Him faithfully and do the things He's asking you to do. ¹⁴Then the Lord will continue to water your fields for you and send His rain in the fall when you plant and in the spring when you look for the grain to ripen. Your olive trees and grape vines will flourish. ¹⁵There will be plenty of grass for your cattle and sheep. You'll have all the food you want and more. ¹⁶So when you're settled and satisfied, you need to be careful not to be enticed to worship other gods, especially the pleasure gods of your neighbors. ¹⁷If you do, the Lord will have to discipline you. He will close up the heavens so it won't rain, and your seeds will not sprout, your crops will not grow and even this precious land will dry up. Then you and your little ones will suffer and die in the very land that the Lord has given you.

¹⁸"So fix in your minds and in your hearts these things that I'm telling. If you have to, write them on the backs of your hands or on your foreheads so you won't forget what I've said. ¹⁹Pass these things on to your children and teach them what they all mean. Tell them why these things are important. Don't take for granted that they'll pick up the reason for all this. Every chance you have to help them understand, whether it's at home, along the road, when they get up or before they go to bed, take advantage of it. ²⁰If you have to, write them down and nail them on the doors of your houses and on the gate posts of your yards so you won't forget what I've told you.

²¹"If you stay close to the Lord and obey Him, you'll live a long and happy life and so will your children. You'll live in this good land as long as there's a heaven above the earth. ²²If you put the Lord first in all you do, keep His commandments, walk in His ways and love Him with all your heart, ²³then He'll drive out all the people who now live in this land, people much bigger and stronger than you are. ²⁴The whole land will be yours, from the wilderness in the south to the mountains of Lebanon in the north, from the Euphrates in the east to the Mediterranean in the west. ²⁵The Lord will put fear of you in the hearts of all your enemies, and no nation will be able to stand up against you.

²⁶"I'm telling you all this to give you a choice—you can choose to reap a blessing or a curse. ²⁷If you love the Lord your God and obey Him, He will bless you. ²⁸If you ignore the Lord and disobey Him, going your own way and doing your own thing, not walking in His way, but worshiping other gods, He'll withhold His blessings and your land will become as one that is cursed. ²⁹One of the first things I want you to do when you enter the land is to recite from Mount Gerizim the blessings that will be yours for obedience, and from Mount Ebal the consequences that will be a curse to you for disobedience. ³⁰These two mountains are on the other side of Jordan in the land of the Canaanites. A short distance to the west are the giant oaks. ³¹Soon you'll cross Jordan and take possession of the land the Lord promised to give you.

When you take it over and settle there, ³²be sure not to forget what I've just told you and the laws that I've given you."

The One Place of Worship

12 "Listen! I want to make some things a bit clearer so you'll understand God's laws and requirements, which you are to follow even after you enter the land the Lord is about to give you. ²You must completely destroy all places where these people worship and serve their gods, whether on the hill-sides, high on the mountains or in groves of trees. ³Destroy their altars and their stone idols and burn the statues of Asherah, their mother goddess, in the fire. Chop down all the wooden poles that they've turned into idols and throw them into the fire so the land will be cleansed and these filthy places of worship will be gone forever. ⁴Never worship the Lord your God in the same way these people worship their idol gods. That's an abomination!

⁵"The Lord will decide the place where He is to be worshiped and where He will put His name. Go there to worship Him. ⁶That's where you will bring your tithes, your various offerings, and the firstborn from your flocks and herds. ⁷That's the place to worship and praise the Lord for all that He has done for you. There you are to sit down in the presence of the Lord and eat and be happy over what you were able to accomplish under His blessings. ⁸You are not to think that you can decide to worship the Lord wherever you choose just because you wandered from place to place in the wilderness. You did the best you could then. ⁹You have not yet settled in the land the Lord promised to give you.

¹⁰"But once you cross Jordan and settle in the land the Lord has chosen to give you as your inheritance and begin to live there in peace under the protection of the Lord your God, ¹¹then He will choose a place where He is to be worshiped. That's the place where you are to bring your burnt offerings, your tithes, your sacrifices, your gifts and all the things you promised to give Him.

¹²That's where you are to come to worship Him and to rejoice in His presence. That includes you, your sons and daughters, the men and women who work for you and the Levites living in your home towns who have no land of their own. ¹³Don't sacrifice your burnt offerings at any place of worship you happen to see, or as you please, ¹⁴but offer them only at the place that the Lord has chosen. That's where you are to bring your offerings and carry out all the sacred rituals I have told you about.

¹⁵At home, you may kill any animal from your herds and flocks and eat its meat, whether you are ritually clean or not, just as you're allowed to eat a wild deer or gazelle. ¹⁶But do not eat the meat while it's still red with blood, and don't drink blood or eat it baked as a pudding as some do. You are to drain all the blood out on the ground and cook the meat well. ¹⁷You are not to use the tithe of grapes and grain or have a festival to the Lord in your home towns, nor are you to slaughter the firstborn of your herds and flocks for such a festival, or use any other offerings that are set aside for the Lord in any place and for whatever occasion you choose. ¹⁸You are to come to the place of worship that the Lord will pick out for you. That's where you, your sons and daughters, the men and women who work for you and the Levites from your cities are to come and hold the Lord's festivals and rejoice together in all that He has done for you. ¹⁹As long as you live, do not neglect the Levites who live among you.

²⁰So when the Lord brings you into the land and increases your territory, you can eat all the meat you want and you can eat it where you please, all except the Lord's offerings. ²¹Now what happens when you live too far from the place where the Lord chooses for you to come? Only then can you keep the Lord's festivals in your home towns. Take animals from your herds or sheep from your flocks, slaughter them there, and eat as much as you want, praising the Lord for what He has done for you. ²²You can eat these animals just as you would eat a wild deer or gazelle, except for those animals that belong to the Lord. Both the people who are ritually clean and unclean may eat this meat.

²³Just don't eat the meat while it's still red with blood, because blood is a symbol of life and shed blood means death. ²⁴So drain out all of the blood and pour it on the ground. ²⁵Do not eat it. If you're careful and follow these directions, it will go well with you, your children and your grandchildren because you will be doing what the Lord has asked you to do. ²⁶But when you can, bring the animals you decide to offer to the Lord as a required sacrifice to the place of worship the Lord has chosen, including any extra sacrifices you promised to give Him. ²⁷There at the Lord's place of worship, have the priest burn your sacrifices on the altar, both the meat and the blood, but the meat from your other sacrifices whose blood the priest will pour out beside the altar will be yours. ²⁸Follow the instructions that I've given you and all will go well with you, your children and your grandchildren, because in the eyes of the Lord you'll be doing what you know is right.

Warning Against False Gods

²⁹As you cross Jordan and enter the land the Lord promised to give you, He will drive out the nations ahead of you. Then you can settle down and make the land your own. ³⁰After you're settled, be sure that you don't start asking about the local gods who supposedly made these nations great, or you'll end up worshipping them. ³¹You are not to worship the Lord your God in the same way that these nations worship their gods, because their way of worship is disgusting and wicked. They not only do strange things, but even sacrifice their newborn sons and daughters to their idols. This is satanic and not from the God of Israel.

³²“So be careful to do what I have asked you to do. Don’t add to what I have said or take anything away from it.”

False Prophets and False Worship

13 “Now let me warn you about idol worship. If someone claims to be a prophet of the Lord and tells you that the Lord has spoken to him in a vision or dream, then performs a miracle to confirm his message, ²and he makes a prediction which comes true, but he also tells you to include other gods in your worship, ³you are not to listen to him. The Lord your God has let this happen to test your loyalty and obedience and will let you see for yourselves whether or not you love Him as much as you say you do. ⁴Be loyal to the Lord your God and stay with Him. Don’t share your love for Him with any other god, or for that matter, with anything else. Our God is the only One to hold to. Listen to Him, follow Him, serve Him and keep His commandments. Don’t listen to anyone else. ⁵And that self-appointed prophet who claims to have visions and dreams from the Lord is to be put to death because he will be a thorn in your side the rest of his days. He will turn you against the Lord your God who brought you out of Egypt and out of slavery. You are to put him to death to rid yourselves of his influence.

⁶“Even if your own brother, your son or daughter, the wife you love or your close friend secretly encourages you to worship other gods, whether its a god you’ve heard of or a new, strange god, ⁷and your family members want you to join them in worshipping gods that the nations around you are worshipping, ⁸don’t give in to them or listen to them. Don’t be tempted to cover up what they’re doing. ⁹Those who entice you are to be put to death for the same reason a false prophet is to be put to death, so their influence will not spread through your ranks like a plague. The witnesses against him are to lead out in the act of stoning, followed by the people. ¹⁰False prophets like this are to be put to death by stoning because they turn your hearts away from the Lord your God who brought you out of Egypt and set you free. ¹¹When you do this, people throughout your country will hear about it and it will keep others from getting the idea to include false gods in their worship. After that, no one will suggest that again.

¹²“If you hear about a city within your own borders ¹³where evil men have moved in and taught the people to worship strange gods, ¹⁴you are not to go on a rumor, but thoroughly investigate it. If it’s true and it has been proven beyond a shadow of a doubt that the town is full of such wickedness, ¹⁵then you are to take your swords, go to that town and put to death all those who live there, including their herds and flocks, so that nothing will be left to remind you of their worship. ¹⁶Take everything these people had, bring it to the city square, pile it up, set it on fire and burn it up as you would a whole burnt offering. Then set the city itself on fire. It is never to be rebuilt, and its ruins are to serve as a perpetual reminder of what has happened. ¹⁷You are not to take one thing out of that city, not even a gift for your family or a souvenir for yourselves. If you obey the Lord in this, He will continue to bless you and be merciful to you. He will make you into a great nation just as He promised your ancestors He would. ¹⁸If you love Him and keep His commandments and laws as I’ve given them to you and do what is right, He’ll continue to bless you.”

Mourning

14 “Remember that you are the children of God. So don’t show grief over the loss of one of your loved ones as the nations around you do by cutting your bodies or by shaving the sides of your heads. ²You belong to the Lord and are set apart to be His very own. Out of all the people of the world, He has chosen you to be His treasured possession.

Clean and Unclean Meat

⁹“You may eat all kinds of fish as long as they have fins and scales. ¹⁰They must have both fins and scales. If they don’t, you are not to eat them.

¹¹“You may eat any kind of fowl as long as it is clean. ¹²Some of those you are not to eat are: eagles, vultures, ¹³falcons, buzzards, ¹⁴crows, ravens, ¹⁵hawks, sea gulls, ¹⁶owls, ostriches, ¹⁷pelicans, ospreys, ¹⁸storks, herons and bats. ¹⁹All flying insects that swarm are unclean to you. Don’t eat them. ²⁰The flying creatures that are clean, you may eat. I listed them for you before.

²¹“Don’t eat the meat of animals that die a natural death, because you don’t know what was wrong with them or why they died. The foreigners who live among you might eat such meat, but you can’t. If one of your cattle or an animal from your flock dies, and the foreigners who live among you want to buy it, you may sell it to them. But you belong to the Lord and are not to eat the meat of any animal that dies a natural death. You are not to kill a young sheep or goat for food, then cook its meat in its own mother’s milk. It’s a demonic ritual, so you are not to do it.

²²“Remember that in addition to the Lord’s tithe you are to set aside for yourselves a tenth of all that your fields produce. This second tithe is to be used for the cost of your attendance and religious activities at the festivals of the Lord. ²³When the time comes for these festivals, go to the place of worship that the Lord has chosen for Himself and praise Him for what He has done for you. Be happy in His presence as you eat from your tenth of the grain, grapes, olives and meat of the firstborn animals from your flocks and herds. If you do this, you will learn to love and respect the Lord your God and appreciate what He has done for you.

²⁴“If you live too far from the place of worship that the Lord has chosen for Himself, and you can’t take along a second tithe of all the animals and goods the Lord has blessed you with, ²⁵then sell them, take the money and go to the place of worship the Lord has chosen for Himself. ²⁶When you get there, buy what you want to eat and drink, whether it’s beef, lamb, sweet wine, or anything else that the Lord approves. Take your family and sit down with them to eat and drink with your heart full of gratitude for what the Lord has done for you. Enjoy yourselves and fellowship with your brothers and sisters from other parts of the country and be happy in the presence of the Lord your God. ²⁷Don’t forget that the Levites who live in your cities didn’t get an inheritance like you did.

²⁸“Every third year take a third tithe and set it aside for those in need. Store this tithe in your cities and towns to feed the poor and those who have no land. ²⁹This way the Levites, who were given no inheritance, and the aliens, orphans and widows who live in your cities and towns can come with you and also have a sacred feast and rejoice before the Lord. If you do this, the Lord your God will bless you in everything you do.”

Debts Canceled

15 “The seventh year there will be no harvesting, because the land must also keep a Sabbath. This will be the year when you are to cancel all the debts of those who owe you something, whether it’s money or anything else. ²Everyone who has loaned money to a fellow Israelite is to cancel the debt owed him. He is not to force his fellow Israelite to pay because this is the year that the Lord has chosen to cancel what His people owe. ³You can demand payment from foreigners, but you are not to demand payment from your brother. ⁴There is no need for anyone to stay poor. The Lord has blessed you and brought you into a rich land and given each of you an inheritance that is yours forever. ⁵Everything will go well with you as long as you obey the Lord your God and keep His commandments and laws as I have given them to you. ⁶The Lord will not only bless each of you individually, but He will bless you as a nation. You will lend money to other nations but will not have to borrow from them. This way you’ll be able to have a good influence on other nations, but none of them will rule over you or control your economy.

Generosity

⁷“If there is a poor Israelite living in your home town, no matter what tribe he’s from, if he comes to you for help, don’t be so self-centered as to refuse to help him. ⁸Open your hand wide and be generous and lend him whatever he needs to get on his feet. ⁹Don’t tell yourself that it’s too close to the seventh year to loan him money because that’s when all his debts will be canceled, and refuse to help him. Such selfish thinking is evil in the sight of the Lord. When that man prays to the Lord and asks for help, the Lord will hear him and will hold you responsible for not helping your fellow Israelite. ¹⁰So lend the man what he needs, and do so willingly and generously, not grudgingly. Then the Lord will bless you in everything you do. ¹¹However, there will always be some in the country who are poor. Unexpected things happen, so be kind and help them just as you would want them to help you if things went badly for you.

Bond Servants

¹²“If a fellow Israelite, whether a man or a woman, offers to sell himself to you as a slave, and you buy him, if he faithfully serves you for six years, the seventh year you are to let him go free. ¹³When you let him go, don’t send him away empty-handed. ¹⁴Give him generously from your grain, your grapes and your flocks and herds that the Lord has given to you. ¹⁵Never forget that you were once slaves in Egypt and the Lord your God set you free and took care of your needs. So you are to be as generous to your fellow Israelites as the Lord was to you. ¹⁶If your Israelite slave says to you, ‘I like working for you and want to stay,’ and he says so because he loves you and your family and is happy, then keep him. ¹⁷Stand him by the doorpost of your house, hold his ear against the post and pierce his ear lobe. He now belongs to you and your family for the rest of his life. This is to be the same for both men and women. ¹⁸Now don’t feel bad about having to let a slave go free at the beginning of the seventh year if he chooses to do so, because he has served you faithfully for six years at much less than it would have cost you to hire someone else to do the work. Be kind and generous with him as you let him go and the Lord your God will bless you in everything you do.

Firstborn Animals

¹⁹“Set aside every firstborn male from your herds and flocks for the Lord. Don’t use such firstborn of your oxen for work and don’t shear the firstborn of your sheep. ²⁰You and your family are to eat their meat as a sacred meal before the Lord. You are to do this at the place the Lord has chosen. ²¹The animals that you bring are to be without defects. They are not to be lame, blind or have any other physical deformities. ²²If the place of worship is too far from you, you may slaughter the animals at home and invite the Levites, the aliens, the orphans and the widows to eat the sacred meal with you. You may slaughter and eat the meat of these animals, whether you've been ritually purified by a priest or not, just as you would eat the meat of a deer or a gazelle you had killed. ²³But you are not to eat meat with blood in it. You are to drain the blood out on the ground."

The Passover

16 "You are to keep the Passover of the Lord in the month of Abib, the first month of your religious year, because it was in that month that the Lord brought you out of the land of Egypt at night. ²That is the month in which you are to observe the Passover and go to the place that the Lord your God has chosen and there let the priest sacrifice the animal that you have brought. ³Do not eat bread made with yeast at the Passover meal or during the Festival of Unleavened Bread that is to follow. You are to do this as long as you live to remind yourselves that when you left Egypt you left in a hurry and had to have bread that wouldn't spoil. ⁴During the seven days there is to be no leavened bread anywhere in all the land. The Passover lamb is to be killed and eaten that first night. Any meat left over is to be destroyed; it is not to be kept until the next morning.

⁵"You are not to sacrifice the Passover lamb in any of your cities or anywhere else in the land. ⁶You are to offer it only in the place where the Lord will choose to be worshiped and do it at sunset, which is the time you left Egypt. ⁷Roast the lamb and eat the Passover meal only in the place the Lord your God will choose. The next morning you are to return to your homes. ⁸For the next six days you are to eat only unleavened bread. On the seventh day you are to come together to worship the Lord your God. You are to do no regular work on that day, no matter what day of the week it falls on.

The Festival of Weeks

⁹"Also, from the time you begin to harvest the grain, count off seven weeks, ¹⁰then hold the Festival of Weeks (also called the Harvest Festival and later called Pentecost). Give thanks to the Lord for what He has done for you by bringing Him an offering in proportion to how much He has blessed you. ¹¹Then rejoice before the Lord your God, you, your sons and daughters, your male and female servants, the Levites from your cities, the aliens who live among you and the widows and orphans. Do this in the place the Lord will choose to put His name. ¹²Never forget that you were once slaves in Egypt and that the Lord your God delivered you from slavery and set you free. So love the Lord your God and faithfully keep His commandments and His laws.

The Festival of Tabernacles

¹³"After you have threshed all the grain and pressed all the grapes that you have harvested, you are to keep the Festival of Tabernacles (also called the Festival of Shelters or Booths) for one whole week. ¹⁴Then you, your sons and daughters, your male and female servants, the Levites, the aliens who live among you and the widows and orphans are all to enjoy themselves. ¹⁵For seven days you are to keep this festival to the Lord in the place that He will choose. Remember, it is the Lord who has blessed you and given you an abundant harvest, so be happy in His love and He will continue to bless you.

¹⁶"Three times a year all your men are to come before the Lord to worship Him in the place that He will choose. They are to come for the Passover with its Festival of Unleavened Bread, the Harvest Festival and the Festival of Tabernacles. No one should come to these festivals empty-handed. ¹⁷Each man is to bring a gift in proportion to how much the Lord has blessed him.

Justice

¹⁸You also need to appoint judges and other officials for each of your tribes to administer the affairs in your cities and towns and to judge the cases of the people equitably. ¹⁹You are not to pressure these men to judge in your favor by trying to bribe them. If you do this, it will blind their eyes and they will twist the words of those who are right and end up giving an unjust verdict. ²⁰The law must be administered honorably and justly; only then can the Lord bless you and the land He has given you.

²¹“Never plant a tree or place a wooden idol in honor of a fertility god or goddess next to an altar you set up for the Lord. ²²And do not set up a sacred stone pillar or a sculptured idol of a fertility god next to that altar. Such things are detestable to Him.”

17“Don’t ever bring to the Lord an ox or a sheep that is defective, for this would be an insult to the Lord and is totally unacceptable.

²Now if you hear that someone in one of your cities has violated the covenant you made with the Lord to love Him and Him alone, ³and you’re told that he worships other gods in addition to the Lord or he worships things in the heavens such as the sun, moon and stars which the Lord has commanded not to do, ⁴carefully investigate it. If you find that it’s true, a terrible thing has happened in Israel. It’s an abomination to the Lord. ⁵You are to take that man or woman outside the city gate and stone that person to death. ⁶But this should not be done on the testimony of just one witness, but on the testimony of at least two or three witnesses. ⁷These witnesses are to throw the first stones, followed by the people from the convicted person’s hometown. This is the only way you’ll be able to stop this kind of evil from taking root among you. Now if you thoroughly investigate the matter and find that the witnesses who told you about it have falsely accused the person, they are to be stoned to death.

⁸If a case comes to your local judges that’s too hard for them to decide, such as who caused bodily harm to whom, or who violated whose property rights, or whether a person was killed by someone intentionally or accidentally, take the case to the Lord at His chosen dwelling place. ⁹Go to the priests who are working that day and the judge appointed to hear your case. Let them sit as a higher court and decide the case for you. ¹⁰Then you are to accept the decision of this higher court, whether you agree with it or not. Don’t go contrary to the decision of this court or you’ll bring confusion into your land. Do whatever the court decides. ¹¹Accept its decision as the law of the land. Don’t try to get around it by favoring either one side or the other, but do exactly as they say. ¹²Anyone who shows contempt for any decision handed down by the higher court, made up of at least one priest who is ministering before me at the Sanctuary and the appointed judge, that person is to be stoned to death. This is the only way you’ll be able to have an orderly society. ¹³People will hear about what happened and will decide to keep the law and not show open contempt for the decision that was handed down.

Checks and Balances to Guide Kings

¹⁴“When you come into the land the Lord your God has given you and settle down, and you want to have a king over you as other nations have, be sure to first check with the Lord. ¹⁵If He agrees for you to have a king, then ask the Lord’s approval when you choose someone. Whoever is chosen must be one of your own, a fellow Israelite, not a foreigner who lives with you. ¹⁶You are to establish checks and balances to make sure your king does things right, for he is a model for the people. He is not to acquire a large number of battle horses for a private army. He is not to send people to Egypt to fetch horses, because no Israelite is ever to be sent back there, no matter what the reason. ¹⁷You are not to let him follow the polygamous practices of other kings nor are you to allow him to make political alliances with them by marrying the women they offer you. Any king who does this will lose his hold on the Lord. He is not to selfishly fill his treasury with silver and gold taken from the people by excessive taxation.

¹⁸When he becomes king he is to write out for himself a copy of the laws that the Lord has given you. ¹⁹He is to study these laws all the days of his life so that he'll remain close to the Lord and do everything we've been told. ²⁰The king is not to think that he is better than anyone else, nor that he is above the law. Then he and his descendants will rule Israel for a long time to come."

No Land Given to the Priests and Levites

18 "As you know, the priests are chosen from the tribe of Levi. They and that entire tribe are to receive no share of the land that will be given to the other tribes. They are to live off the offerings and sacrifices that you bring to the Lord. ²They are to be given no land as an inheritance to support themselves and their families because the Lord is their inheritance. ³In addition to the priests' regular allotment from the offerings, they are to be given the meat from the shoulder, the two cheeks and some of the inside of every sheep and bull that you bring to the Lord. ⁴They are to be given the firstfruits of your grain, your grapes, your olive oil and a portion of the first wool that you shear from your sheep. ⁵The Lord has chosen them and their descendants from all the tribes in Israel to stand before the Lord and to minister to Him.

⁶"Any Levite, no matter where he lives in Israel, has the right to come to the place that the Lord will choose for Himself. He can come whenever he wishes. ⁷He has the right to minister before the Lord just like the other Levites who live nearby. ⁸He is to do his share of the work and receive an equal portion of the offerings and sacrifices even though he might have other income, such as receiving money from a house or from the sale of family possessions.

Warning Against Wicked Customs

⁹"When you cross Jordan and enter the land the Lord your God has given you, you are not to adopt the disgusting habits of the people now living there. ¹⁰You are not to get involved in magic, witchcraft, sorcery, divination, casting spells on people, interpreting signs, making your little ones walk through a bed of burning coals or sacrificing your infants to some local god. ¹¹You are not to consult spirit guides or try to communicate with your dead relatives, or with someone who supposedly lived a long time ago to get some message or spiritual insight from them. ¹²The Lord your God hates this kind of thing because of what it does to people. These are the demonic practices that will cause the Lord to force these people out of the land and give their land to you. ¹³Stay away from these things. Be totally loyal to the Lord your God. ¹⁴The people now living in the land are constantly going to witches and to those who channel demonic messages. You can see what this has done to them. So stay away from this sort of thing.

A New Prophet

¹⁵"The time will come when the Lord your God will send you a Prophet who's somewhat like me and yet totally different. He will grow up among you and be one of you. He's the One you will need to listen to. ¹⁶This is what you asked the Lord for when you stood at the foot of Mount Sinai and begged Him not to speak to you again from the midst of the fire because you were afraid that if He did, you would die. ¹⁷You asked Him for a go-between, and the Lord told me that what you said was good and the time would come when He would send you Someone. ¹⁸He said to me, 'I will send them a special Prophet. He will grow up among them and speak to them in my place. I will put my words in His mouth and He will speak what I tell Him to say. He will make plain to my people what I expect of them. ¹⁹If anyone does not listen to what He says and does not obey Him, I will call that person to account. ²⁰If anyone presumes to take that Prophet's place or dares to say that he, too, is a prophet speaking for the Lord when I have not sent him, or if he speaks in the name of some local god or by his own authority, he is to be put to death.'

²¹"You might ask how you'll be able to tell whether someone like that is speaking for himself or whether he's a true prophet and is speaking for the Lord. ²²If a man or woman who claims to be a prophet predicts something in the name of the Lord, and whatever he or she said does not happen, then that message was not from the Lord. Whatever that person said was his or her own idea. You are not to be afraid of what such people say, neither are you to give them a prophet's respect."

Cities of Refuge

19 "After the Lord your God has driven out the nations and given you the land He promised to give you, and you have settled into their houses and cities, ²then pick out three cities spread an equal distance throughout the land. ³Build roads to them so that a man who kills someone can quickly reach one of these cities and be safe from the hasty revenge of the dead person's relatives.

⁴"If a man kills someone without malice or forethought and runs to one of these cities of refuge to save his life, he is to be given the full protection of the law. ⁵For example, if two men were to go into the forest to cut wood, and while cutting down a tree, one man swung his ax and the head flew off and hit the other man and killed him, the man who did it can run to one of these cities and be safe. ⁶That's why I'm asking you to set aside three cities of refuge, because if you set aside only one such city it might take the man too long to get there. He might not make it before one of the dead man's relatives overtook him and killed him in his thirst for revenge even though the man is innocent.

⁷"So three cities are what you need, spread an equal distance throughout the land with good roads going to each of them. The tribes on this side of Jordan will also have three cities of refuge like this. ⁸When the Lord enlarges your borders as He promised your forefathers He would do, ⁹then you are to pick out three more cities and set them aside for the same reason—because you love the Lord your God and are walking in His ways. ¹⁰These cities of refuge are necessary so people won't take the law into their own hands, and you won't be held guilty for letting innocent people be killed.

¹¹"If a man hates his neighbor and waits for a chance to kill him and does so in cold blood, then quickly makes his way to one of these cities for protection, ¹²the leaders of his own city are to send for him to stand trial. After they bring him back and investigate the matter and find out that what he did was not an accident, they are to hand him over to the dead man's relatives for stoning. ¹³He is to be given no mercy but will give his life for the life of the one he killed. This is the only way you'll be able to maintain law and order in the land and protect innocent people.

Property Lines

¹⁴"Don't let anyone get by with moving a property line. Once the land has been divided and given to each family according to their inheritance, the property lines are to stay that way, because the land is the people's security.

The Testimony of Witnesses

¹⁵“One witness is not enough to convict a man of a crime or sin. You need to have a minimum of two or three witnesses who testify that he is guilty. ¹⁶If a witness lies by falsely accusing him of a crime, ¹⁷he and the one he’s accusing are to see the judge or the priest on duty. The one chosen to hear the case is not to take the side of the accuser but the side of the accused. ¹⁸The judge is to thoroughly investigate the case and if the accuser is found to be a liar, having brought false witness against the man, ¹⁹he is to receive the sentence for the crime or offense he has accused his neighbor of, even if it means death by stoning. This is the only way you’ll be able to keep this evil out of the courts. ²⁰Word will get around and people will be afraid to falsely accuse anyone, and this kind of wickedness will soon stop. ²¹In cases like these you are to show no pity. The law is a law of equality, an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, a hand for a hand and a foot for a foot.”

Rules of War

20 “When you go to war against your enemies and the attacking army is greater than yours, even though the enemy troops come at you with horses and chariots, don’t be afraid of them because the Lord your God who brought you out of Egypt will fight for you. ²Before you go to battle, a priest is to come out and pray for the troops and say to them, ³Men of Israel, today you’re going into battle to meet your enemies. Don’t lose courage and don’t panic, ⁴because the Lord your God will go with you. He will fight for you and give you victory.’

⁵“After that, your officers are to speak to the men and say, ‘Is there any man here who has just finished building a new house and hasn’t dedicated it to the Lord or enjoyed living in it? He may die in battle. He needs to go back home and dedicate it lest someone else enjoys living in it. ⁶Is there any man here who has planted a vineyard and not tasted its fruit? He may die in battle. He needs to go back home lest someone else enjoys its fruit. ⁷Is there any man here who’s engaged to be married? He may die in battle. He needs to go back home and get married before someone else takes her. ⁸Is there any man here who’s afraid? He needs to go back home. He’ll only discourage those around him and lower the morale of his whole unit.’ ⁹Then after the ranks of your troops have thinned out, the officers are to pick leaders for each of the units.

¹⁰“When you surround a city, you are first to offer them peace and give the people a chance to surrender. ¹¹If they accept your offer and open their gates, you are to spare their lives, but they are to be your servants and work for you. ¹²But if they refuse your offer of peace and decide to fight, you are to surround the city and cut off all traffic going in and out. ¹³When the Lord finally gives the city into your hands and lets you take it, you are to put all fighting men to the sword. Don’t let any of them live, or they will rally and in their idolatry again fight against you. ¹⁴You are not to harm the women and children, the animals, or anything else in the city, but you may take and enjoy whatever you want as the spoils of war. It is a city which the Lord your God has given you.

¹⁵“That is what you are to do to all distant cities, but you are not to do it to those cities that are in the land the Lord your God has given you as an inheritance. ¹⁶When you capture those cities, you are to destroy every living thing in them. No one is to be kept alive, and nothing of a religious nature is to be left standing to tempt you to worship other gods. ¹⁷You are to make no difference between Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites. You are to treat them all alike. ¹⁸If you don’t destroy these people, they will turn your hearts away from the Lord your God, and you will end up worshipping their gods and doing the most disgusting things imaginable.

¹⁹“When you surround a city in the land to which you are going and the siege is taking a long time, don’t cut down the fruit trees and use them for devices to attack the city walls. The fruit trees are not your enemies; they’re there to feed you. ²⁰If you need to, cut down other trees and use them for your siege-works, not the fruit trees.”

An Unsolved Murder

21“Now suppose you find a man’s body lying in a field in the land the Lord your God has given you, and you don’t know who killed him. ²Your judges are to go out and measure the distance from where his body was found to the surrounding cities. ³Then the officials of the nearest city are to take a young heifer that has never been harnessed to work in the field, ⁴and lead the young heifer to a stream in an uncultivated valley and there quickly break its neck. ⁵The priests are to go with you to observe the proceedings, because the Lord wants them to be there, not only to pray for the people but also to be involved in settling cases of violence. Their judgment on such cases is to be final. ⁶Then the city officials from the nearest town to where the body was found are to wash their hands over the young heifer whose neck was just broken, ⁷and say, ‘Lord, we are innocent of this man’s blood. We did not kill him and we don’t know who did. ⁸Accept this offering from us, O Lord, and do not hold us or our city responsible for this crime.’ When your city officials do this you will be forgiven and Israel will remain innocent. ⁹Do everything the Lord has told you to do for deterring crime and handling unsolved cases, and you will not be held guilty for killing innocent people.

Women Prisoners of War

¹⁰“When you go to war, the Lord will help you defeat and capture your enemies. ¹¹You may see a beautiful woman among them and become attracted to her and want to marry her. ¹²Ask her to be your wife, and if she agrees, you are to bring her to your house. Then she is to shave off her hair and cut her nails. ¹³She is to throw away the clothes she wore before and put on the clothes of an Israelite. She may mourn for her people and her father’s house for one month, and after that, you may marry her. ¹⁴If after you marry her, neither of you are happy, you may let her return to her people, or she may stay in Israel should she choose to do so. But you are not to sell her to another man or keep her as your slave because you have taken away the honor of her virginity.

Inheritance Rights

¹⁵“Suppose a man has had two wives, both of whom gave birth to sons, but the firstborn was not the son of his favorite wife. ¹⁶When it comes time for the man to make out his will, he is to give the rights of the firstborn to the oldest son, even though he belongs to the wife he favors least. ¹⁷He is to give him all the rights and privileges of the firstborn, which is a double share of everything he has, because he is the firstfruit of his father’s manhood and is to be honored as such.

A Rebellious Son

¹⁸“If a man has a stubborn and rebellious son who refuses to listen to him even after he disciplines him, ¹⁹both the father and mother are to take him before the city fathers and the judge in office to stand trial for his behavior. ²⁰The parents are to tell the judge just how things are and say to him, ‘Our son is stubborn and rebellious. He no longer listens to us and is in a continual state of drunkenness, and he’ll do anything to support his habit.’ ²¹The judge should thoroughly investigate the matter, and if he finds the parents’ story to be true, he is to pronounce the son guilty and order him to be stoned to death. This is the only way you will be able to put a stop to this sort of thing. Everyone will hear about it and will make sure they don't end up like this young man did.

Death by Hanging

²²"If a man has been convicted of a crime and the judge sentences him to death by hanging, ²³do not leave his body hanging overnight. Take it down and bury it that very day, or you will pollute the land which the Lord your God has given you for your inheritance. Not only is it an awful sight, but it's also symbolic of a man cursed of God. You are not to glory in a man's body hanging from a tree."

22 "If you see your brother's ox running loose or his sheep going astray, you are not to ignore it, but take it back to him. ²If the owner lives some distance away and it's hard for you to take the animal all the way back to him, or maybe you don't even know who the owner is, then take the animal home and feed it, and when the owner comes looking for it, then give it back to him. ³Do the same thing if you find a donkey or someone's coat or anything else that might belong to your brother. Give it back to him. Don't pretend you didn't see it. ⁴If you notice that an ox or a donkey has fallen in the street and your brother needs help getting his animal back up on its feet, don't ignore it, but help it get up.

⁶"If you're walking along and see a mother bird sitting on her nest beside the road or in a branch of a tree, do not hurt her or try to catch her. ⁷You may take her young, but do not touch the mother; let her go free. Then the Lord will bless you with a long and prosperous life.

¹²"You are to sew tassels on the four corners of your cloaks to remind yourselves that you are a distinct people.

¹³"If a man gets married and later decides he doesn't want the woman he's married to, ¹⁴and he tries to ruin her standing in the community by telling people that she was not a virgin as he had been told, ¹⁵then the parents of the girl are to request a meeting with the city fathers and the judge in office. They are to bring the blood-spotted wedding cloth as proof of their daughter's virginity.

¹⁶The father is to say to them, 'I gave this man my daughter as a virgin and now he's circulating these lies about her because he doesn't want her anymore. ¹⁷He's telling people that she wasn't a virgin when he married her, which isn't true! But here is the proof of her virginity!' Then the judge and the city fathers are to examine the wedding cloth, ¹⁸and after they're satisfied and have accepted the father's evidence, they are to order the man to be publicly whipped. ¹⁹They are to fine him a hundred pieces of silver and give the money to the girl's father, because the man has publicly disgraced an Israelite woman. She must continue to be the man's wife as long as they both live. He is not to divorce her.

²⁰“On the other hand, if the charges against the man’s wife are true and there is no evidence of her virginity, ²¹she is to be taken back to her father’s house and stoned to death in her parents’ front yard. She has lied to the judge, to the priests and to her husband and has disgraced her family, her parents and all the women in Israel by having intercourse before she was married. This is the only way to stop this kind of wickedness.

²²“If a man has had sex with another man’s wife and they are discovered, both the man and the woman are to be stoned to death to stop this kind of wickedness.

²⁵“If a man has sex with an engaged girl out in the country and no one was there to hear her cry out, then only the man is to be stoned to death because there’s no way to prove whether she was willing or not. ²⁶You are to do nothing to the girl because there’s no evidence against her. Her case is the same as that of an innocent victim who cries for help before being killed and no one is around to hear. ²⁷So the girl is innocent because when the man found her in the field she might have cried out for help but there was no one there to hear her.

²⁸“If a man forces himself on a girl who is still a virgin, but not yet engaged to be married, and he’s found out, ²⁹he is to pay the girl’s father fifty pieces of silver and then marry the girl. She is to be his wife as long as he lives. He has no right to divorce her.

Excluded From the Congregation

23 “No one who has decided to be castrated or to have his sex organs mutilated to show his devotion to the Lord as some pagans do for their god should be allowed to enter the Sanctuary courtyard.

²“No one born of sexual relations with pagans, nor any of his descendants for ten generations, is to come into the Sanctuary courtyard.

⁷“Don’t turn your back on an Edomite, because he is a descendant of Esau, Jacob’s brother and your relative. Don’t turn your back on an Egyptian, because his ancestors fed you when your father Jacob went down to Egypt for food and met Joseph there. ⁸After the third generation, an Edomite or an Egyptian who is circumcised and living among you may come into the Sanctuary courtyard with his sacrifice and worship the Lord.

Cleanliness

⁹“When you are facing your enemies in war, stay away from anything that will make you ritually unclean.

¹²“Select a place outside the camp where the troops can relieve themselves.

¹³Each man is to carry a sharp instrument with him so he can dig a small hole when he needs to relieve himself, and when he's through, he should cover it up. ¹⁴The reason for this is that the Lord your God is living among you. Your camp must be holy. There should be nothing unclean among you or He will turn from you.

Additional Laws

¹⁵"If a slave has run away from his owner and comes to you for protection, do not return him to his master. ¹⁶Let him stay with you or live in any city in Israel he chooses. Treat him as one of the family.

¹⁹"Don't charge a fellow Israelite interest on the money you loan him, or on the value of food you give him or on anything else that people charge interest on. ²⁰You can charge a stranger interest, but not a fellow Israelite. Then the Lord your God will bless you in everything you do in the land you're about to enter and possess.

²¹"If you vow to give something to the Lord, don't put off giving it. The Lord takes you at your word and expects it from you. If you don't pay it, you'll be guilty of stealing from Him. ²²When you want to give something to the Lord, you don't need to confirm it with a vow. This way, if you find you can't give what you had in mind, you're not guilty of stealing from Him. ²³But whenever you vow to do something for the Lord or to give Him something, you are to keep your word, because no one forced you to make the vow. You made it of your own free will.

²⁴"If you're hungry when passing through your neighbor's vineyard, you may eat all the grapes you want, but do not carry any home with you. ²⁵When passing through your neighbor's wheat field, you may pick the kernels and eat them to satisfy your hunger, but you are not to cut any of the grain with a sickle and take it home."

Divorce

24"If a man marries and learns that his wife publicly dishonored him because of her indecent behavior, and he decides that he no longer wants her to be his wife, he is to fill out the necessary divorce papers and send her from his house. ²Suppose that after he divorces her, she marries someone else. ³Then suppose the same thing happens again. Her second husband discovers she has publicly dishonored him because of her indecent behavior. He is to fill out the necessary divorce papers and send her away. ⁴The first husband is not to take her back and remarry her. This is like exchanging wives and is an abomination to the Lord. Do not bring such sin into the land that the Lord your God is giving you.

More Laws

⁵"If a man has recently married, he is not to be called to go to war or to have any other duty placed on him. He is to be exempt for one whole year. He is to stay home and make his new wife happy.

⁶"When you loan someone something, don't accept as security the two millstones that he uses to grind his grain—not even one millstone—because he needs them to grind his wheat so he can feed his family.

⁷"If anyone kidnaps a fellow Israelite, then sells him, or keeps him as his slave, the kidnapper is to be put to death. This is the only way you'll be able to stop this kind of wickedness.

left Egypt? She, too, had to follow the instructions of the Lord before she could come back into the camp.

¹⁰“When your neighbor asks you for a loan and you agree to help him, don’t insist that he allow you into his house to pick out something as security for your loan. ¹¹Wait outside his house and let him pick what to give you as security. ¹²If the man is very poor and offers you his only blanket for security, and you take it, do not keep it overnight. ¹³Give it back to him that evening because he needs it to sleep with. He’ll thank you for your kindness and be forever grateful for what you have done for him, and the Lord your God will be pleased.

¹⁷“Do not deprive aliens and orphans of their legal rights. Don’t take the last thing a widow has as security for a loan. ¹⁸Don’t forget that you were once slaves in Egypt, and you didn’t like the way you were treated. The Lord was kind to you and delivered you. That’s what He’s asking you to do. Be kind to others and help them.

¹⁹“When you harvest your crops and by mistake leave a bundle of wheat in the field, don’t go back to get it. Leave it for the alien, the orphan and the widow. Then the Lord your God will bless you in all that you do. ²⁰When you knock the olives off your trees, don’t go around and do it a second time. Leave what you didn’t get the first time for the alien, the orphan and the widow. ²¹When you harvest your grapes, don’t go over the vines a second time. Leave the grapes you didn’t pick for the alien, the orphan and the widow. ²²Don’t forget that you were once slaves in Egypt and how it felt when you didn’t have enough to eat. The Lord doesn’t want anyone to go hungry. That’s why He’s asking you to do this.”

25 “Suppose two Israelites have a dispute about something and can’t settle it between themselves. They are to go to court and let the judge decide the case. ²If one of them is found guilty and is sentenced to be whipped, he is to lie face down and be whipped in the presence of the judge. The number of lashes is to match the crime. ³Never is a man to be sentenced to receive more than forty lashes. If he’s given more lashes than he deserves, it would disgrace your brother.

⁴“Do not muzzle an ox when you’re using him to thresh out your grain. He has a right to eat while he’s working.

Duty to a Dead Brother

⁵“If two brothers own property jointly and live there, and one of them dies and leaves no male heir, his widow is not to marry a stranger outside the family. Her husband’s unmarried brother or relative shall marry her, raise up an heir and manage her share of the property to keep it in the family. ⁶The first son she has is to inherit her dead husband’s share of the property. This way his name will not be forgotten. ⁷If the brother-in-law does not want to marry his brother’s wife and provide her with a male heir, she is to go to court and stand before the city fathers and the judge and say to them, ‘My brother-in-law refuses to assume the responsibility for my husband’s property to preserve his name in Israel.’ ⁸Then the judge is to order him to appear in court and the city fathers are to talk to him. If he insists on not marrying his brother’s widow, ⁹she is to pull off one of his sandals in the presence of the judge and the city fathers to humble him. Then she is to spit on the ground before his face and say, 'This is what the man deserves who refuses to take care of his brother's share of the property to preserve his name among the families in Israel.' ¹⁰The family of that man will afterward be known as The Family of the Man Whose Sandal Was Pulled Off, and his name will be dishonored throughout Israel.

Other Laws

¹¹"Now if two men are wrestling with each other and the wife of one reaches out and violently takes hold of the other man's genitals so as to permanently injure him, ¹²she is to be taken to the judge and have her hand cut off. You are to show her no mercy because the man has lost his ability to father any more children.

¹³"Don't use two sets of weights for your scales when you do business, a somewhat lighter one for selling and a little heavier one when you weigh out what you're buying. ¹⁴Don't use two different sets of weights and measures at home for any transactions you might have there. It's still dishonest. ¹⁵You are to use accurate weights and measures, for then the Lord your God can bless you and you will live a long and happy life in the land He is to give you. ¹⁶The Lord is not pleased when you cheat people. He hates dishonesty no matter what kind it is.

Destroy the Amalekites

¹⁷"Don't forget what the Amalekites did to you along the way when you came out of Egypt. ¹⁸When you were tired and worn out, their armies attacked you from the rear and killed all those lagging behind, no matter what their age or who they were. They had no respect for anyone, nor did they have respect for your God. ¹⁹So when you settle in the land the Lord your God has promised to give you, be sure to destroy them. Don't forget to do this!"

Firstfruits and Tithes

26 "When you have taken possession of the land the Lord your God has promised to give you and have settled down, ²then take a small sample of your crops that ripen first and put them all in a basket. They are the firstfruits of your harvest, a sample of what the land has produced for you. Then take them to the place the Lord your God will choose for Himself as His place of worship. ³Go to the priest and say, 'I acknowledge before the Lord our God that He has given us the land that He promised to our ancestors.'

⁴"As the priest takes the basket of firstfruits from you and waves it before the altar of the Lord, ⁵you are to say, 'Our ancestors were wandering shepherds who came from Mesopotamia and went down to Egypt for food. There were only a few of them but they multiplied and grew so numerous that they became a nation. ⁶That's when the Egyptians began to treat us harshly. They made us their slaves and assigned us to a life of hard labor. ⁷We cried to the Lord God of our fathers and the Lord heard our prayers, saw our misery and delivered us from hard labor and oppression. ⁸By His great power and His outstretched arm He worked mighty miracles, and with great signs and wonders He delivered us from slavery. ⁹He brought us out of Egypt to the land He promised our ancestors, a land rich and fertile, overflowing with an abundance of good food. ¹⁰So now, Lord, I bring to you a sample of the firstfruits of the land that you have given us.' This will commemorate our deliverance from Egypt and the saving of our firstborn. After that, the priest is to set your basket in front of the altar of the Lord and you are to bow down and worship Him. ¹¹Then rejoice and be grateful to the Lord your God for all He has done for you and your family. Share your blessings with the Levites, the orphans, the widows and the aliens who live among you so they, too, can rejoice in the Lord.

¹²"Every third year set aside an extra tithe of produce to be used for the local poor and for the Levites, aliens, orphans and widows who live in your cities. This way they won't have to go hungry and there will be enough for them to also enjoy the festivals of the Lord with you. ¹³When you set aside this additional tithe say, 'Lord, I have not held back any part of the tithe that is yours or kept it in my house. I have given this additional tithe of the third year to feed the local poor, the Levites, aliens, orphans and widows as you have asked me to do. I have not forgotten that all the tithes are yours, the regular tithe and this special tithe, just as you said. ¹⁴I have not eaten from it nor have I touched it when I was ritually unclean, neither have I used any of it for myself or for burying the dead. I have honored it as your tithe according to your commandment. ¹⁵Look down from your holy dwelling in the heavens and bless your people. Continue to bless this rich and fertile land, the very land you promised to give to our ancestors.'

A Special People

¹⁶"The Lord your God wants to make sure that you keep His commandments and His laws because He loves you. So obey them with your whole being, your heart and soul and mind. ¹⁷You've accepted the covenant of the Lord your God and openly promised to obey Him and to keep His commandments, His ordinances and His laws. ¹⁸The Lord God has said to all the world that you are His people, a treasured possession, chosen by Him to keep His commandments. ¹⁹He has promised to make you greater in every way than any other nation. You are to be a holy people, set apart to be His very own."

The Law Written on a Pillar of Stone

27 Then Moses and the leaders of Israel called the people together and Moses gave them some of his final instructions, saying, "Keep all the laws that I have explained to you these last few days. ²Soon you will cross the Jordan River and set foot on the land the Lord has promised to give you. On that day, set up a pillar and cover it with plaster made from lime which will harden. ³Write on it the Ten Commandments and a reminder of all the words of this law. Then settle in that fertile land the Lord promised your ancestors. ⁴As I've said, set up the pillar on Mount Ebal and cover it with plaster. ⁵Beside it, build an altar for the Lord your God with unhewn stones. Do not use any iron tools to make the stones fit. ⁶After you have built this altar, then bring your burnt offerings to the Lord and sacrifice them there. ⁷Also offer peace offerings and thank offerings on it. Then sit down and eat together and rejoice in the Lord and be grateful for what He has done for you. ⁸When you have finished your sacrifices, then write on the plastered pillar the laws and judgments of your God."

⁹As Moses spoke to the people, the priests stood at various points in the crowd to pass on what he said. He continued, "Be quiet and listen carefully. You are God's special people. As you enter the Promised Land, He wants to remind you of the covenant He made with you. ¹⁰Obey the Lord your God and keep His commandments and His laws that I have given you these last few days.

Blessings and Curses

curses that I have given to Joshua. The acoustics of the valley will make it possible for all to hear. Then the two sets of tribes are to affirm each blessing and curse as it is read by shouting 'Amen!'

¹⁵"These are the curses of sin that I will give Joshua to read: 'Cursed is the man who makes a god for himself out of wood, stone or metal and then worships it, for such a thing is abhorrent to the Lord.

¹⁶"Cursed is the man who dishonors his father or his mother.

¹⁷"Cursed is the man who moves his neighbor's property line.

¹⁸"Cursed is the man who plays a trick on a blind man and leads him in the wrong direction.

¹⁹"Cursed is the man who deprives aliens, orphans and widows of their rights.

²⁰"Cursed is the man who goes to bed with his stepmother, for by doing so, he has dishonored his own family.

²¹"Cursed is the man who has sex with an animal.

²²"Cursed is the man who goes to bed with his sister or half-sister.

²³"Cursed is the man who goes to bed with his mother-in-law.

²⁴"Cursed is the man who secretly kills someone and runs from the scene of the crime.

²⁵"Cursed is the man who accepts money for killing someone.

²⁶"Cursed is the man who refuses to obey all the words of this law.' After every curse, all the people are to shout, 'Amen!'"

Blessings on Obedience

28 Moses continued, "If you obey the Lord your God and keep His laws that I have given you these last few days, the Lord will bless you and make you greater than any other nation on earth. ²Here are the blessings that will come to you if you obey the Lord your God:

³"He will bless you in the city and in the country. ⁴The Lord will bless you with healthy children and many descendants, and your herds and flocks will overflow with calves and lambs. ⁵The Lord will bless your vineyards and fields, and your baskets, kneading bowls and store rooms will be full. ⁶The Lord will bless you in your travels.

⁷"The Lord will protect you from your enemies. If they attack you from one direction, He will scatter them and they will run in many directions. ⁸The Lord will bless your work and fill your barns. He will bless you in everything you do. He will bless the land of Israel. ⁹The Lord will bless you and make Israel into a holy nation as He promised He would, provided you keep His commandments and walk in His ways. ¹⁰The nations of the earth will notice how blessed you are. They will acknowledge that you are God's own people and will be afraid to do anything to harm you. ¹¹The Lord will bless your land with prosperity. You will have large families, much livestock and rich harvests just as He promised. ¹²The Lord will open the windows of heaven for you and send you just the right amount of rain to sprout your seeds and ripen your harvest. He will bless the work of your hands so that you will be able to lend to many nations without having to borrow from them. ¹³The Lord will bless you so that you will become the leading nation in the world, if you pay attention to what He has said and faithfully keep the commandments and laws that He has given you. ¹⁴The Lord will bless you if you don't turn to the right or to the left and worship gods of your own making.

Curses on Disobedience

¹⁵"If you disobey the Lord and ignore the commandments and laws that He has given which I have passed on to you, then the following curses will come upon you: ¹⁶You will be cursed in the city and in the country. ¹⁷Your vineyards and your fields will be cursed. ¹⁸Your families, your cattle and your sheep will feel the curse. ¹⁹You will be cursed in your travels no matter where you go.

and confusion in everything you do until your country is brought to ruin, because of the wicked thing you have done in leaving the Lord. ²¹You will be cursed with diseases of all kinds until you are weak and driven out of the land. ²²You will be cursed with sickness, fever, infections, scorching heat, drought, blight and mildew until your nation disintegrates. ²³The sky over your head will seem to be made of bronze, and the ground under your feet will feel like iron. ²⁴Your soil will turn into powder, and dust storms and sand storms will bring your country to ruin.

²⁵Your enemies will attack you, and when you unite and counterattack in one direction, they will scatter you in many directions. You will be hated by all nations. You will become an object of fear because of the curses that have come upon you. ²⁶The bodies of your troops will be a vulture's paradise; wild animals will have a feast, and no one will be there to scare them off. ²⁷Your bodies will be full of tumors, boils and sores like the Egyptians had, and you will have the itch and will find no cure. ²⁸You will suffer from blindness, madness and lack of a sound mind. ²⁹You will be so confused over things that you'll grope like a blind man trying to find which way to go. You will be mugged and robbed, and no one will care. ³⁰You will ask a girl to marry you, but someone else will come, snatch her from you and rape her. You will build a house, and when you finish it, someone else will move in. You will plant a vineyard but never taste its grapes. ³¹Your cattle will be slaughtered before your eyes, but you will get none of the meat. Your donkeys will be taken from you, and you'll never see them again. Your sheep will be taken away by your enemies, and you won't be able to do a thing about it.

³²Your sons and daughters will be carried away to other countries. Every day you'll wait for them to return home, but you'll never see them again.

³³Nations that do not yet exist and those you have never even heard of will invade your land, eat your crops and give you nothing but oppression. ³⁴These conditions will drive you out of your mind. ³⁵Your knees and legs will break out with boils and sores from the soles of your feet to the tops of your heads.

³⁶The Lord will allow your enemies to come and take away your king and you to a foreign land that neither you nor your fathers have known. There you will call on gods made of wood and stone who can't hear, talk or help you. ³⁷The Lord will scatter you among the nations and they will hate you. They will be shocked at what has happened to you and will ridicule you. ³⁸You will sow a large crop, but the locusts will eat it. ³⁹You will plant a vineyard, but worms will destroy your vines. ⁴⁰You will have olive trees but you will not have olive oil because the olives will drop off before they're ripe. ⁴¹You will have large families, but your children will be taken away from you to other countries. ⁴²Insects will destroy your trees and crops.

⁴³The aliens who live among you will succeed where you fail. They will become more and more influential and you will become less and less important, even in your own country. ⁴⁴They will be the ones who will loan you money, not the other way around. They will be the head and you will be the tail. ⁴⁵All of these curses will come upon you. Foreign armies will invade your country and fight against you until some of your tribes disappear. This will happen to you because you didn't listen to the Lord your God and live by the laws He gave you. ⁴⁶These curses that will come upon you will be a sign to you and your descendants forever that the Lord was displeased with you.

⁴⁷This will happen to you because you didn't serve the Lord with gladness of heart and were not grateful for what He has done for you. ⁴⁸So the Lord will let your enemies come against you and take you captive. You will be hungry, thirsty, miserable, poor and half-naked, and they won't care. Your servitude will be like an iron collar around your neck and you will work until you're destroyed. ⁴⁹The Lord will bring a nation against you from another land. It will swoop down on you like an eagle. It will be a nation whose language you don't understand. ⁵⁰It will be a fierce nation and will have no pity on the young or the old. ⁵¹It will slaughter your cattle and destroy your crops. You will be left without grain, grapes, oil, calves or lambs. ⁵²It will attack every city and town in the land, and the fortified walls you trusted in will all come down.

⁵³During the siege of your protected cities you will suffer so much hunger that you will even cook and eat your newborn. ⁵⁴The most refined gentleman among you will be so desperate for food that he will eat his own offspring and will fight rather than share his food with his brother, his wife or his remaining children. ⁵⁵He will not share his roasted infant with them even if they starve to death. That's how terrible the suffering will be during the siege and how insensitive your men will become. ⁵⁶The most gentle and kind woman among you, who wouldn't think of setting her bare feet on the ground, will act the same way. She will not share any of her food with her husband or her children. ⁵⁷She will hide her newborn, secretly roast it and eat it, including its afterbirth. She will not share it with her husband or the last of her children, even if they starve to death. That's how terrible the suffering will be during the siege.

⁵⁸So if you choose not to serve the Lord by keeping all the words of the law written in this book and you no longer respect His glorious and awesome name or what He has said, ⁵⁹He will discipline you and your descendants with incurable diseases and epidemics that cannot be stopped until they have run their course. ⁶⁰He will discipline you with all the dreadful diseases of Egypt, and you won't recover from them. ⁶¹The Lord will permit terrible illnesses to come upon you, some of which I haven't even written down in this book. He will do this until you feel completely helpless. ⁶²Though there are so many of you that you're as difficult to number as the stars, relatively few of you will survive because you refused to listen. ⁶³Just as the Lord prospered you and made you great, so He will humble you and bring you to ruin. He will uproot you from the very land He is giving you. ⁶⁴The Lord will scatter you among the nations from one end of the earth to the other. There you will serve gods made out of wood and stone which your fathers never even heard of. ⁶⁵You will find no peace wherever you live. Your life will be filled with worry, hopelessness and despair. ⁶⁶You will live in fear and never be sure of your life, day or night. ⁶⁷The terror you see on every hand will fill you with fear. In the morning you will long for the evening and in the evening you will long for morning. ⁶⁸The Lord will allow you to be taken to Egypt in ships, even though He never wanted you to go back there again. They will offer you and your sons and daughters for sale as slaves, but no one will want to buy you."

The Covenant Renewed

29 What follows are the terms of the covenant that the Lord made with the children of Israel through Moses in the land of Moab just before they crossed the Jordan River to go into the Promised Land. These are in addition to the terms that were previously given to their fathers at Sinai.

²Moses called all the people together and said to them: "When you left Egypt with your parents, you saw what the Lord did to Pharaoh, to his officials and to the land of Egypt. ³With your own eyes you saw the plagues, the miracles and all the other unbelievable things the Lord did to make you a free people. ⁴But now, forty years later, you still don't understand the meaning of all this. You see and hear but it doesn't seem to get through to you what this is all about.

⁵During these past forty years that we spent camping in various places in the wilderness, your clothes and your sandals have never worn out. ⁶You ate no bread except the manna God provided. You drank no wine or strong drink. Yet you got along fine because the Lord took care of you. ⁷When we finally got here, Sihon, the king of the Amorites from Heshbon, attacked us and then Og, the king of Bashan, but with the Lord on our side, we defeated them both. ⁸We took possession of their land and gave it to the tribes of Reuben, Gad and half of the tribe of Manasseh. ⁹So continue to live by the terms of the Lord's covenant and He will continue to bless you and be with you in everything you do.

¹⁰Today we are all standing in the presence of God. Your leaders, judges, tribal officials, elders, heads of extended families, ¹¹wives, children and the foreigners who chop your wood and carry your water are all here. ¹²We are here to recommit ourselves to the Lord and accept the terms of His covenant which He made with us at Sinai. He is making this agreement with us today and confirming it with an oath. ¹³This is what the Lord did when He spoke to our forefathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and promised to be their God and confirmed it with an oath. ¹⁴You are not the only ones with whom the Lord is making this covenant. ¹⁵He is making it also with your descendants and any others who are willing to obey Him, though they are not standing here with us today.

¹⁶You remember what life was like in Egypt and what it was like to go through the wilderness and the unfriendly nations. ¹⁷You hated their grotesque idols made of wood, stone, silver or gold, standing there as lifeless figures of man's imagination. ¹⁸So make sure that no man, woman, family or tribe serves any of the gods of other nations. Once this sort of thing gets started it will root itself in your consciousness and act like a poison in your system that will kill your love for the Lord. ¹⁹When a person recommits himself to the Lord and takes this covenant oath, let him not think that he is now secure in the Lord and can do whatever he wants and nothing can touch him. That would be wrong, because it would hurt everyone, good and bad alike, and would destroy you as a people.

²⁰The Lord cannot overlook and forgive those who do things their way and then think they are still God's people. He will discipline them, and all the curses written in this book will come upon them and on their descendants until their family's name disappears and is forgotten. ²¹The Lord will single them out from the rest of the tribe so the people can see that the curses written in this book will come on the whole tribe if they do the same thing. ²²Your children and grandchildren, as well as the foreigners who pass through your country, will see the results of your sin and that the Lord did not spare you, even though you are His people. ²³Your country will turn into a wasteland—nothing will grow. There will be areas in your country like the salty and sulfurous areas around Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboiim after these cities were destroyed by the Lord. ²⁴The nations around you will say, 'Why did the Lord do this to His own people? Why did He let this happen to this rich, fertile land? There must be a reason for all of this!' ²⁵They will answer their own question and say to themselves, 'It's because the people forsook their God and broke the covenant He made with them to love Him with all their hearts and souls and minds. These were the terms He first made with them when He brought them out of Egypt. ²⁶But they did not obey Him and went ahead and did as they pleased. They worshiped all kinds of gods which the Lord never allowed. ²⁷That's why He brought on the land all these curses which are written for them in the book. ²⁸The Lord was very displeased with them and uprooted His own people from the land. He let them be conquered and carried away where they are today.'

²⁹"There are things which the Lord has not revealed to us, but there are things which the Lord has made very plain. He gave them to us, and they are for us and our children and grandchildren. They are part of our heritage forever."

Circumcision of the Heart

30 Moses continued, "The blessings and curses I just told you about will come on you, depending on whether you serve the Lord your God or gods of your own making. When the curses come on you and you're scattered among the nations, don't forget that it was your own disobedience that brought it all about. ²But if you and your children turn to the Lord with all your hearts and obey Him, ³then the Lord will hear and have compassion on you and will bring you back home. He will gather you from all the nations to which you were taken and give you your inheritance. ⁴Even if you live in the ends of the earth, the Lord knows where you are, and He'll bring you home again. ⁵He'll bring you back to the same land that belonged to your ancestors. He'll make you even more prosperous and numerous than they were. ⁶Then the Lord will make your consciences tender and will circumcise your hearts and the hearts of your children. He will help each one of you to love Him with all your heart and soul and mind. He will also help you keep His commandments, because He loves you and wants you to live and not die. ⁷The Lord will let all these curses fall on those who hate you and persecute you.

⁸"So turn to Him wholeheartedly and keep His commandments and His laws that I have given you. ⁹Then the Lord will prosper you in all that you do. He will bless you with large families and much cattle. Your fields will overflow with abundant harvests. The Lord will enjoy blessing you just as He enjoyed blessing your ancestors. ¹⁰But His blessings will be dependent on your obedience, on your keeping His commandments and laws that are written in this book and on your loving the Lord your God with all your heart.

The Choice Between Life and Death

¹¹"What the Lord is asking you to do isn't hard. He's not asking you to do something impossible. That's not like God. ¹²He's not asking you to send someone up to heaven to get the answer about what to do and then come back and share it with you. ¹³The answer is not across the ocean. You don't have to send someone over there to find out what to do. ¹⁴No, all that you need to know is right here. I've told you what is required and written it down in a book for you. You've heard it and taken it to heart. So now do it.

¹⁵"You have a choice between life and death, between blessings and curses. It's up to you. ¹⁶If you will love the Lord your God with all your heart and keep His commandments, He will bless you, and you will live and prosper in the land that He has given you. ¹⁷If you forsake the Lord and turn against Him and give your love to other things and to other gods and don't keep His commandments, ¹⁸then you won't stay very long in the land the Lord is giving you. You'll be overrun by your enemies who will kill you, and you'll die in your sins. ¹⁹Today I'm calling heaven and earth as my witnesses that I have given you a choice between life and death, blessings and curses. Choose life, so that you and your families may be blessed and live. ²⁰Give yourselves to the Lord your God and to Him alone. Listen to Him. Hold on to Him and don't let go, because the Lord is your life and He's the only One who can bless you and make you truly happy. He'll give you many prosperous years in the land He promised your forefathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob."

Joshua the New Leader

31 Then Moses said, "I am now a hundred and twenty years old and am not able to be your leader anymore. ²Besides, the Lord told me that I am not to cross Jordan and go into the land of Canaan with you. ³But He will go with you. He will go ahead of you and drive out the nations living there and give the land to you. Joshua will take my place. The Lord has chosen him to be your new leader. ⁴The Lord will fight for you and do to these nations the same thing He did to Sihon and Og. They were the kings of the Amorites, whose countries we took. ⁵The Lord will give these nations into your hand. Just do as I have told you. ⁶Be strong and of good courage and exercise your faith in the Lord. Don't be afraid of these people. The Lord is with you. He won't forsake you."

⁷Then Moses called Joshua and asked him to stand next to him in front of all the people. Moses said to Joshua, "Be strong and courageous. The Lord has chosen you to lead these people into the land which He promised our forefathers. You need to go in and possess the land, then divide it among the tribes and give it to them for their inheritance. ⁸The Lord will go with you. He will not forsake you. Don't be afraid or become discouraged."

God's Law to Be Read Aloud

⁹Then Moses wrote all the laws he had given to the people and the things he told them in a book. In the presence of the leaders of Israel, he gave this book to the Levites in charge of the Ark of the Covenant. ¹⁰He said to them, "At the end of every seven years, in the Sabbatical year when all the debts are canceled, read these things to the people during the Festival of Shelters. ¹¹When they come to worship the Lord in the place that He will choose for Himself, call them together and read this to them because many of them can't read and fewer still can write. I don't want them to forget what I have said. ¹²You are to call everyone together, men, women, children and foreigners living among you. Everyone needs to hear what the Lord has to say so they know what to do. ¹³Some will never have heard the law read to them. They must hear it so they will respect the Lord and learn to love Him with all their hearts. They need to know that they are part of God's people and are living in the land that the Lord has given them."

The Lord's Final Instructions to Moses

¹⁴Then the Lord said to Moses, "The time has come. You have only a few more days to live. Call Joshua, then come with him to the Sanctuary that I may commission him." ¹⁵So Moses called Joshua, and together they stood before the Lord at the entrance of the Sanctuary where the Lord appeared in the pillar of cloud.

¹⁶He said to Moses, "Listen carefully. You're about to sleep with your forefathers. Only a few generations from now the people will forget all about the covenant I made with them. They'll give their love to other gods in the land where they're going. ¹⁷When they do this, I will have to withdraw my protection from them and leave them at the mercy of their enemies. Many terrible things will happen to them, and they'll say to themselves, 'All these disasters and sicknesses have come on us because we have turned against the Lord our God, so He's not with us any more.' ¹⁸I will not help them because their repentance will not be genuine. They'll be sorrowful because of what's happened to them, not because they've been disobedient and brought me pain.

¹⁹"I want you to write down a song and teach it to the people before you die so these things will be on their tongues and in their minds as a witness for me against them. ²⁰Because after I bring them into this rich and fertile land that I promised on oath to their forefathers and they've settled down, become successful and have plenty to eat, they will turn to other gods. They will forget all about the covenant I made with them and will turn against me. ²¹When tragedy strikes, this song will remind them of what I said. They and their children will sing this song no matter where they live. I know what they're going to do even before I bring them into the land I'm giving them." ²²So Moses wrote down the song the Lord gave him and taught it to the children of Israel as the Lord had told him to.

²³Then the Lord said to Joshua, the son of Nun, "Be strong and of good courage because you'll be leading the Israelites into the land I promised them and I'll go with you."

²⁴When Moses had finished writing everything in a book, including the laws he had given the people and the song, ²⁵he gave it to the Levites, who were in charge of carrying the Ark, and said, ²⁶"Take this book and put it beside the Ark of the Covenant. Keep it there as a witness for the Lord against the people. ²⁷I know how stubborn and rebellious they are and how determined they can be once they make up their minds to do things their way. If they rebelled against the Lord when I was still with them, how much more will they turn against Him when I'm gone?"

²⁸"Call together the tribal leaders and all the other officials in Israel so I can tell them about these things one last time. I will call heaven and earth as my witness that I am against anything that will take the people away from God. ²⁹I know that after I'm gone the people will turn against the Lord and ignore His laws. They'll corrupt themselves with other gods and do evil in the sight of the Lord. They'll bring on themselves all kinds of disasters because they'll do the very things they were told not to do."

³⁰Then Moses talked with the tribal leaders and the other officials in Israel one last time. When he had finished, he called the people together and read the words of the song the Lord had told him to write:

The Song of Moses

32"Listen, O heavens, and I will speak. Listen, O earth, to what I have to say. ²My words will fall like drops of needed rain and will cover you like the morning dew. They will be like showers of rain on young grass and like gentle rain on new plants. ³I will proclaim the name of the Lord. I will praise the greatness of our God.

⁴"He is our Rock. Perfect and just are His ways. Our God is faithful and true. He does no wrong. He does only what is just and right. ⁵But His people acted corruptly toward Him. They are unworthy to be called by His name. Their human nature is warped and twisted. They do things to their own shame. ⁶Is this the way the people of the Lord should repay their God? How foolish can they be to ignore His goodness? Is He not their Father and their Creator? ⁷Remember the past. Think about the people who lived long ago. Ask your father and mother—they will tell you. Ask the elders—they will explain things to you. ⁸Long ago, the Lord divided up the human race and decided where the people should live. He counted the Israelites and determined their tribal boundaries according to the number in each tribe. ⁹The Lord's portion is His people. The descendants of Jacob are His heritage.

the herds and gave them fattened lambs and goats with magnificent rams from Bashan. He gave them the finest wheat and the choicest grapes.

¹⁹“The Lord saw all this and turned away from them. He could no longer treat them as loyal sons and daughters. ²⁰The Lord said, ‘I will hide my face from them and let them see what their end will be. They are a stubborn lot, an ungrateful and untrustworthy people. ²¹They have provoked me by worshiping worthless idols and by their unrighteous acts. Now I will provoke them to jealousy by pouring my blessings on people who don’t even know me. In this way I will make my people once again long for my love. ²²The time will come when my anger against sin will become a consuming fire. It will burn up everything in its path. It will reach into the grave and burn up the dead. It will destroy the harvest of the earth and set the foundations of the mountains on fire.

²³“I will discipline my people. I will send them arrows of disaster, ²⁴devastating famine, incurable disease and deadly pestilence. I will send wild animals against my people in the field and poisonous snakes that will attack and kill. ²⁵War will come into their streets and their children will be pierced by the sword. Terror will reign in their homes. Their sons and daughters will be slaughtered; their infants and elderly will not be spared. ²⁶ I could destroy them from the face of the earth and blot out the memory of them from under heaven, ²⁷but that would please their enemies and they would think they had done it when I was the One who allowed it to happen.’

²⁸“Israel has listened to bad counsel. They have no understanding of what is truth. ²⁹If only they were wise they would understand and see the end result of what they’re doing. ³⁰Can one man chase a thousand or two men send ten thousand running? Their enemies will be able to do this to them because the Lord, the Rock of their salvation, is no longer on their side. ³¹The rock of their enemies is not like their Rock. Even their enemies admit that the Rock of Israel cannot be defeated. ³²Israel’s enemies are as corrupt as the people of Sodom and Gomorrah. They are like grapes full of poison and clusters of grapes filled with bitterness. ³³Their wine is like the venom of a serpent, the deadly poison of a cobra.

³⁴“The Lord will not forget what Israel’s enemies have done to His people. He will keep His weapons in reserve until the day comes for Him to use them. ³⁵The Lord said, ‘Vengeance is mine; I will repay. In due time the feet of Israel’s enemies will slip. Their day of trouble will come. Their doom is sure.’ ³⁶The Lord is the judge who defends His people. He will have compassion on those who love and serve Him. He knows the limits of their strength. He sees how helpless they are. He will rescue them wherever they are, whether they are free or still in captivity. ³⁷He will say to His people, ‘Where are the gods that you worshiped? Where is the rock in whom you trusted? ³⁸Where are those gods to whom you gave your best lambs and your best grapes? Where are those gods to whom you sacrificed your infants? Let them come and help you! Let them rescue you!’

³⁹“‘Can’t you see that there is no living god beside me? I am the only One! I can give life or I can take it away. I can wound, or I can heal, and no one can stop me. ⁴⁰I will lift up my hand to heaven and swear by myself, since I am the only One who never dies. ⁴¹I will sharpen my sword and see to it that justice is done. I will confront my enemies and repay all those who fought against me. ⁴²My arrows will drink their blood. My sword will devour their flesh. I will spare no one who fights against me. I will spare neither captain nor captive.'

⁴³"Therefore, let all the angels in heaven rejoice with God's people. Let all those in heaven and earth bow down and worship the Lord. The Lord will vanquish His enemies and forgive the sins of His people. He forgives all who love Him."

⁴⁴This was the song that Moses spoke to the children of Israel as Joshua, the son of Nun, stood at his side. ⁴⁵When Moses finished reciting these words, he said to the people, ⁴⁶"Take all these things to heart and don't forget them. Listen to what I have told you and repeat them to your children and grandchildren so they, too, can keep all the words of these teachings. ⁴⁷These are not just idle words that I have given you these last few days. They're your very life. You are to live by them, and only then will you be allowed to remain in the land that the Lord is giving you."

Time for Moses to Die

⁴⁸That same day the Lord said to Moses, ⁴⁹"Go up the Abarim Mountains in the land of Moab and climb to the top of Mount Nebo on the side toward Jericho. There you can get a good look at the land of Canaan, the land that I am about to give to the children of Israel. ⁵⁰I will not only give you a view of the whole land, but because of your faith you will also see the future of my people until the end of time. In vision you will see the earth made new, the New Canaan, which will be the eternal home of my people. Then I will lay you to rest and you will sleep with your forefathers as Aaron does on top of Mount Hor. ⁵¹It was not in my plan to do this. But both of you disobeyed me in front of all the people at the waters of Meribah, near Kadesh in the wilderness of Zin, when you took to yourselves the credit of leadership and of bringing water out of the rock instead of directing the people's attention to me. To overlook this would make them question my leadership and doubt that I mean what I say. ⁵²That's why I can only let you see Canaan from a distance. I will not let you go with the children of Israel into the land that I promised to give them."

Moses' Final Blessing

33 Then Moses, that man of God, blessed the children of Israel one last time. He began by recalling his experience with the Lord on the mountain.

²He said, "The Lord came to Mount Sinai and His glory shone all the way to Mount Paran and over the land of Edom like the brilliant morning sun. Ten thousand angels were at His right hand and a flaming fire surrounded Him. ³The Lord truly loves and guards His people. He watches over His own and holds them in His hand so no one can take them from Him. They bow at His feet and obey Him because they love Him. ⁴He gave His law to the children of Jacob through me, His servant. What is written down now belongs to you and to your children forever. ⁵The Lord proclaimed Himself King of Israel in the presence of all the leaders and the people."

⁶Then Moses prayed for the tribe of Reuben, "Lord, let the tribe of Reuben live and not die out, even though they are few in number."

⁷For the tribe of Judah which had absorbed the Simeonites, he prayed, "Lord, hear the cry of Judah. Help them to fight against their enemies."

⁸For the tribe of Levi, he prayed, "Lord, speak through Levi by the Urim and Thummim. You tested his loyalty at Sinai and confronted him at the water of Meribah. ⁹Levi showed greater love for you than he did for his own father and mother. He did not honor his brothers or his own family above you. He watched over your word and was faithful to your covenant. ¹⁰His descendants teach your people to keep the commandments and to obey your laws. They offer sacrifices on your altar, minister in your presence and offer incense before you as they pray for the people. ¹¹Bless them abundantly and give them skill to carry on your work. Strengthen their hands and help their influence to grow for your glory. Strike down those who rise up against them until they never rise again.”

¹²For the tribe of Benjamin, he prayed, “Lord, this is the son of Jacob whom he particularly loved. He’s the one you carried on your shoulders. Protect this tribe and watch over them.”

¹³For the descendants of Joseph, he prayed, “Lord, bless their land. Give abundant rain for their crops and springs to water their land. ¹⁴Let the sun ripen their fruit and give them the richest harvest the land can yield. ¹⁵Cover their hills with the choicest vineyards and may the sides of the mountains be fruitful. ¹⁶Fill their land with all that is good. May the blessings of the One who spoke from the burning bush be with them. Joseph was ill-treated by his brothers and yet he was a prince among them. ¹⁷He had the strength of a young bull and the horns of an ox born in the wild. The strength of his two horns are seen in the power of his two sons, the ten thousands of Ephraim and the thousands of Manasseh. These two tribes are not afraid to confront any people.”

¹⁸For the tribes of Zebulun and Issachar, he prayed, “Lord, bless them both. Bless their business as they trade on the sea or on the land, as they go out and as they come in. ¹⁹They graciously invite people to their mountain homes and offer sacrifices of righteousness. They get their wealth from the sea and from the treasures hidden in the earth.”

²⁰For the tribe of Gad, he prayed, “Lord, enlarge the territory of this tribe which so willingly fought to help their brothers obtain their land. Like lions, they crouched and attacked, tearing at arm or head. ²¹They selected the best land this side of Jordan they could find, but they were faithful in keeping their word and obeying your commands.”

²²For the tribe of Dan, he prayed, “Lord, bless them. They are like young lions that hide in the bushes of Bashan and jump on anyone going by. They need your guidance.”

²³For the tribe of Naphtali, he prayed, “Lord, you have richly blessed them. Your favor rests on them already. Their land reaches south all the way to the Lake of Galilee.”

²⁴And for the tribe of Asher, he prayed, “Lord, of all the sons, Asher has been most blessed. Help his brothers not to be jealous of him. Bless his land and make it rich with olive trees. ²⁵Watch over his people and protect them as iron and bronze gates protect a city. May they feel secure because of your presence. As their days, so shall their strength be.”

²⁶Then Moses said, “There is no God like the God of Israel, who rides through the heavens in majesty and yet comes to aid us when we need Him. ²⁷The eternal God is your dwelling place, and His everlasting arms will hold you up forever. He will drive out your enemies before you and destroy them. ²⁸Because of Him, Jacob’s sons will live in peace. They will be secure in His presence. Their land will be full of grain and grapes, and every morning the ground will be watered with dew. ²⁹O Israel, how blessed you are! There is no other nation like you, a people saved by the Lord. He is your shield and your defense. He is your glorious sword. He will help you defeat your enemies. You will overrun their high places until they plead for mercy.”

The Death of Moses

34 After Moses had blessed Israel, he climbed silently and alone to the top of Mount Nebo in the plains of Moab just east of Jericho and Jordan, where he could look out over the land of Canaan. The Lord strengthened his eyes so he could see the whole country from the land of Gilead to the northernmost city of Dan. ²He could see all of Naphtali and the territories of Ephraim and Manasseh as far west as the Mediterranean Sea. ³He could see all of Judah, the Jordan Valley, the beautiful plain of Jericho, the city of Palms and the land south of the Dead Sea.

⁴Then the Lord said to him, "This is the land I promised by an oath to give to the descendants of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. I have let you see it, but you may not go in." ⁵So Moses, the servant of God, died in the land of Moab on top of Mount Nebo as the Lord had told him he would. ⁶The angels of the Lord buried him on top of the mountain in the land of Moab, opposite Beth Peor. But no one knows where his grave is, because soon after he was buried the Lord came down and raised him from the dead and took him to heaven. ⁷Moses was one hundred and twenty years old when he died, yet his eyesight was still good, and he was still strong. ⁸The children of Israel mourned for Moses for thirty days while they were in the plains of Moab before they crossed Jordan to go into the Promised Land.

⁹Joshua, the son of Nun, took Moses' place and was filled with the Spirit and much wisdom. Moses had laid his hands on him as his successor, and the people accepted Joshua's leadership and obeyed him, doing whatever the Lord asked them to do. ¹⁰But there has never been a leader and prophet like Moses to whom the Lord spoke personally. ¹¹No one ever performed such miracles and wonders as Moses did when the Lord sent him against the king of Egypt, his officials and his land. ¹²No other prophet has ever been able to do such awesome deeds as Moses did in the sight of Israel.

JOSHUA

Joshua's Commission

1 After the death of Moses, the Lord said to Joshua, the son of Nun, ²“My servant Moses is dead. Now I want you to take the children of Israel across the Jordan River into the land that I promised them. ³I told Moses I would give the Israelites the land that I promised to their forefathers. Whatever land the people set their feet on will be theirs. ⁴The borders will reach from the wilderness in the south to the Lebanese mountains in the north, from the Euphrates River in the east to the Mediterranean Sea in the west. ⁵No one will be able to stand up against you in battle all the days of your life. As I was with Moses, so I will be with you. I will never fail you or forsake you. ⁶Be strong and courageous, because I will be right beside you. Now is the time to lead the children of Israel into the land that I promised to give them. ⁷Be strong and courageous. Listen to me and keep my commandments and laws that Moses gave you. Don't turn to the left or to the right, and I will help you to succeed in whatever you do. ⁸Don't forget to read and meditate on the book of the law that Moses wrote. Keep reading it morning and night so you don't forget what I want you to do. If you keep your eyes on me and desire me with all your heart, I will be right beside you and will bless you with success. ⁹What have I told you to do? I have told you to be strong and full of courage. Don't be afraid. Don't become discouraged or give up, because you don't have to do all this alone. The Lord your God will be with you every step of the way.”

Preparing to Cross Jordan

¹⁰Then Joshua called for the officers of the people and said to them, ¹¹“Go through the camp and tell the children of Israel to pack up. Tell them to get everything ready to go because in three days we will cross Jordan and enter the Promised Land.”

¹²Joshua spoke to the leaders of the tribes of Reuben and Gad and half the tribe of Manasseh and said, ¹³“Remember what Moses, the servant of the Lord, told you? He said, ‘The Lord your God will give you a place of your own, a place where you can rest.’ ¹⁴The Lord has kept His promise and given you this land east of the Jordan River. Your families and your animals may stay here, but your fighting men must arm themselves and cross the Jordan to help your brothers take the land over there. ¹⁵You are to fight alongside your brothers until they take possession of their inheritance and settle down in peace; then you can come back to your families and to the land the Lord has allowed you to have this side of Jordan.”

¹⁶The leaders answered Joshua, “Whatever you ask, we will do. ¹⁷We will be just as faithful to you as we were to Moses. The Lord our God will be with you as He was with him. ¹⁸Anyone from our tribes caught disobeying your commands or questioning your leadership will be put to death. So be strong and courageous as you lead us into the Promised Land.”

Rahab and the Spies

2 Then Joshua decided to send two spies from the meadow of acacia called Shittim, where Israel was camped, across Jordan to explore the land of Canaan and to check out the defenses of the city of Jericho. The spies made their way to Jericho, slipped into the city and to be less conspicuous stopped at a house belonging to a prostitute named Rahab. ²The next day someone told the king of Jericho that just before dark two Israelites had gone into Rahab's house and that they must be spies. ³Immediately the king sent some armed guards to Rahab to arrest the two men. When the guards got there, they didn't want to search the place, so they quietly asked Rahab to have the two strangers come out because they were under arrest for spying.

⁴Rahab went upstairs and quickly hid the two Israelites. Then she came downstairs and said to the guards, "They're gone! I don't know what happened. They checked in last night but didn't tell me how long they would stay or where they had come from. ⁵They must have slipped out of the city gate just before the king ordered it closed. I have no idea which way they went, but if you hurry you might catch them."

⁶But Rahab knew where the two Israelites were because she had hidden them under a pile of flax that was drying on the flat roof of her house. ⁷So the king's guards left the city to hunt for the spies, warning the gatekeepers to close the gates behind them, which they did. The guards searched all the way to the crossing at the Jordan River, but never did find the two spies.

⁸Before the two Israelites retired for the night, Rahab went up on the roof and gave them a report of what had happened. She said to them, ⁹"I know that the Lord your God has given your people this land and everyone in the city knows it. The people here are afraid of what will happen to them. ¹⁰We heard what the Lord your God did for you when He brought you out of Egypt and how He even parted the Red Sea for you so you could walk across on dry ground. We also heard what He did for you on the other side of Jordan when you defeated the two great Amorite kings, Sihon and Og. ¹¹When we heard all that, our hearts sank, and we lost all hope of defeating you. We know that the Lord your God is the Lord of heaven and earth. ¹²So please be kind to me and to my family and promise that you won't hurt us when you attack our city. I believe in your God, and I have been kind to you. ¹³Please give me a sign that you will keep your promise and spare my life and also the lives of my parents and brothers and sisters and their families."

¹⁴The two Israelites said, "May God take our lives if we don't spare your life and the lives of your loved ones, as long as you don't tell anyone what we were here for. If you keep your tongue, we promise that when the Lord God gives us this city we will see to it that you and your family are treated well."

¹⁵Then she let them down through a window with a rope and helped them escape, for her house was built on the massive city wall with windows facing both directions. ¹⁶Before they left, she said to them, "Don't go straight home, but head for the hill country and stay there for at least three days, because tomorrow morning the king's men will go out looking for you again and they won't give up easily. But after a few days, you can go on home."

¹⁷The men said, "Here is a sign of our promise. Take this red cord and tie it to your window. ¹⁸When our troops approach the city, they'll know which house is yours. Then bring your parents, brothers and sisters and their families into your house so they will be safe from the attack on the wall. ¹⁹Anyone who leaves your house and goes out into the street will be killed. So don't hold us responsible for their foolishness. ²⁰Remember, if we hear that you told anyone about our being here, we will not keep our promise." ²¹Rahab agreed, and after the two Israelites had repelled down the wall, she pulled the rope back in and immediately tied the red cord to her window.

²²As soon as the two men touched the ground they ran toward the hills as Rahab had told them to do. They stayed there for the next three days ²³and then made their way down out of the hills, crossed the Jordan and arrived safely back at camp where they gave Joshua a report. ²⁴They told him everything that had happened and said, "We know that the Lord has given us this land because the people there are terrified of us."

Crossing the Jordan

3 Early the next morning the children of Israel broke camp and under Joshua's leadership made their way toward the Jordan River. When they got there they set up a temporary camp before crossing over. ²For the next two days they got things ready for the big event. On the third day the leaders went through the camp and said to the people, ³"When you see the priests instead of the Levites pick up the Ark of the Lord and lead the way, you need to get in line to march according to your tribes. ⁴We will be going into new territory, so we need to stay together. The priests with the Ark will go first and we'll follow about a half-mile behind them. Don't let anyone run ahead and get closer to the Ark than that."

⁵Joshua also spoke to the people, "Commit yourselves and your families to the Lord anew, because tomorrow morning He will lead us into the Promised Land and the next few days you will see some amazing events." ⁶The next morning, after the people were ready to go, Joshua said to the priests, "We're ready! Let's pick up the Ark and move out to cross the Jordan!" They picked up the Ark and carried it toward the Jordan ahead of the people.

⁷The Lord said to Joshua, "Today I will confirm your leadership in the eyes of the people and they will see that I am with you as I was with Moses. ⁸Tell the priests to carry the Ark into the swollen river. As they put their feet into the water, the river will begin to part. They should slowly move ahead to the middle of the river and stop, then take turns holding the Ark on their shoulders until all the tribes, together with their animals, have crossed over."

⁹Joshua then said to the people, "Listen! Let me share with you the instructions the Lord gave me. ¹⁰You will see the Jordan River part in front of you, and this will confirm God's promise that He will drive out the Canaanites, Hittites, Hivites, Perizzites, Girgashites, Amorites and Jebusites for you just as easily as He will part this swollen river. ¹¹The Ark of the Lord will be carried ahead of you into the Jordan River. ¹²Pick out twelve men, one from each tribe; later I'll tell them what to do. ¹³As soon as the priests set foot in the water, the river will stop flowing so you can cross on dry ground. The water will pile up, but the Lord will hold it back for you so you don't need to worry. It won't touch you."

¹⁴So the people made their way toward the river, with the priests and the Ark of the Lord leading the way. ¹⁵It was the time of year when spring rains and melting snow from the mountains caused rivers to overflow. But though the Jordan was at flood stage, as soon as the priests touched the water with their feet, the river began to part. ¹⁶The water coming down piled up in a great heap, backing up beginning at the village of Adam in the vicinity of Zarethan. The water normally flowing into the Dead Sea was completely cut off, leaving a twenty-mile wide strip for the children of Israel to cross over. So the people crossed over the Jordan on dry ground not far from the city of Jericho. ¹⁷The priests with the Ark remained in the middle of the river until all the tribes had crossed.

Memorial Stones

4 After all the tribes had safely crossed the Jordan River, the Lord spoke to Joshua, ²"Call the twelve men, one from each tribe, and bring them together. ³I want them to go to the middle of the river where the priests still are, pick up twelve rocks and carry them to the place where you'll pitch camp for the night."

⁴So the twelve men came to Joshua and he said to them, ⁵"Go to the middle of the river where the priests are and each of you find a rock, pick it up and carry it out. Altogether there should be twelve rocks, one for each tribe. ⁶Then carry these rocks with you to our next campsite where we'll set them up to remind us of what the Lord has just done for us. When our children say to us, 'What are these rocks for? What do they mean? Why are they here?' ⁷we can tell them what the Lord did for us. We can tell them how the Jordan stopped flowing so we could walk across on dry ground, and how these rocks were taken from the middle of the river where the priests stood holding the Ark until all the tribes had safely crossed."

⁸The men did what Joshua asked them to do. They picked up twelve rocks from the middle of the river where the priests stood, one rock for each tribe, and carried them to the campsite and gave them to Joshua. ⁹Then Joshua took the twelve rocks and set them up as a memorial to what the Lord had done. Years later those rocks were still there. ¹⁰The priests carrying the Ark obeyed Joshua as they had obeyed Moses and stayed in the middle of the river until the people had passed and the twelve rocks were picked up by the twelve men.

¹¹As soon as the children of Israel were all across, the priests carried the Ark to the other side. The people stood and watched as the waters of the Jordan which had piled up began to flow again. ¹²The tribes of Reuben, Gad and half the tribe of Manasseh had joined the other tribes and now led the way into the Promised Land, armed as Moses had instructed them. ¹³There were about forty thousand armed men from these two-and-a-half tribes who had crossed over Jordan with their brothers to help them fight on the plains of Jericho. ¹⁴What the Lord did for the children of Israel that day caused them to respect Joshua as a great leader just as they had respected Moses.

¹⁵After they had safely crossed, the Lord said to Joshua, ¹⁶"Now you can tell the priests to come out of the river." ¹⁷Joshua then told the priests to come out of the river as the Lord had said. ¹⁸The priests obeyed and came up out of the river carrying the Ark of the Lord. As soon as their feet touched the other side, the river began flowing again and flooded the whole area where the children of Israel had just crossed.

¹⁹This happened on the tenth day of the first month, just four days before the Passover. That night the people camped at Gilgal east of Jericho ²⁰where Joshua set up the twelve rocks that the men had taken from the middle of the river. ²¹Then he said to the children of Israel, "In the future if anyone asks you what these stones mean, ²²tell them that they came from the middle of the Jordan when the river was at flood stage, but that you walked over on dry ground. ²³Tell them how it happened and what the Lord did for you. Tell them how He dried up the swollen river until all the tribes had crossed over. This was just like the miracle He did for your fathers when they came out of Egypt and He opened the Red Sea so they could walk across on dry ground. ²⁴Tell them that the Lord did this so everyone will know how great He is and will always respect Him."

Circumcision Near Jericho

5 When the Amorite kings this side of Jordan and the Canaanite kings along the Mediterranean heard what the Lord had done and how He had opened the Jordan River to let the children of Israel walk across on dry ground, their hearts sank and they lost all courage to fight the Israelites.

²The Lord said to Joshua, "Tell the people to make flint knives and circumcise all those who have not been circumcised."

³Joshua did what the Lord said. All the people made knives from flintstones and circumcised all Israelites who needed to be. That's why the place is called Gibeath Haaraloth, meaning The Hill of Foreskins. ⁴All the men who had come out of Egypt had been circumcised soon after they left Egypt when the Lord made His covenant with them, but they had died in their journey through the wilderness. ⁵Though the men had been circumcised when they left Egypt, those who had been born in the wilderness needed also to be circumcised as a sign of their covenant with God. ⁶The children of Israel had camped at various places in the wilderness for forty years until all men who were of military age and over when they left Egypt had died. They had disobeyed the Lord by refusing to go into Canaan, so the Lord told them since they did not want to go into the land He had promised their forefathers, He would grant them their wish. ⁷Now the sons of these men were circumcised because they had been born in the wilderness since the days of Sinai.

⁸After they were all circumcised, they stayed in the camp until they were healed. ⁹Then the Lord spoke to Joshua, "This day I have rolled away the reproach of the heathen that fell on me and my people because I did not bring them into the land of Canaan when I first brought them out of Egypt. But I will now bring them into the land, as I said I would." So the place was called Gilgal, meaning Rolled Away.

¹⁰While the children of Israel were camped near Jericho, they kept the Passover on the fourteenth day of the first month, remembering what the Lord did for them in Egypt. ¹¹The day after the Passover, for the first time they ate food that had been grown in the Promised Land—roasted grain and bread made without yeast. ¹²The day they crossed the river Jordan the manna that the Lord had given to them for the past forty years stopped. That year they began to eat the food that grew in Canaan.

The Commander of God's People

¹³Joshua started making plans to attack Jericho. One morning as he left camp to pray, a huge soldier appeared in the valley, facing him with a drawn sword. Joshua walked closer and called out, "Are you for us or against us?"

¹⁴The man answered, "I'm not here to join your forces but to lead them. I'm the One in charge of the Lord's army, the Commander of God's people." Joshua fell on his knees and bowed his face to the ground and worshiped Him. He knew it was the Lord Himself who had come to lead His people. Then he said, "What is it that my Lord wants me to do?"

¹⁵The Lord said, "Take off your sandals; you're standing on holy ground." Joshua did as he was told just as Moses had done when he stood near the burning bush.

The Fall of Jericho

6 In the meantime, the people of Jericho had shut the gates of the city and everything was tightly guarded so no one could go out or come in. ²The Lord spoke to Joshua, "I have given the city of Jericho into your hands, including its king and all its men of valor. ³I want you to march around the city with your troops, once each day for six days. ⁴The special fighting units shall go first, followed by seven priests with rams' horns, and after them, the Ark of the Covenant and Israel's rear guard. The only sound will be the marching of the men and an occasional blast of the rams' horns. ⁵On the seventh day, you are to march around the city seven times. Then the priests should give a long blast on the rams' horns, followed by a loud shout from the troops, and the walls of the city will collapse. As soon as they do, the men are to storm the city from all directions."

⁶Joshua called the priests together and said to them, "I need some of you to carry the Ark of the Lord and seven of you to handle the rams' horn trumpets." ⁷Then he called his officers and men together and ordered them to line up and get ready to march around the city ahead of the Ark.

⁸After everyone knew what to do, the priests with the seven rams' horns lined up first, those who carried the Ark next; ⁹then special warriors lined up and marched past the priests who, with the rams' horns and the Ark, fell in behind, followed by a sample of the army as a rear guard. There was no sound except marching and occasional blowing of horns. ¹⁰Joshua had told the men that none of them should give out a war cry nor should they talk to each other as they marched around the city. He would tell them when they could do this and then they should shout with all their might. ¹¹So the troops, the priests with rams' horns and the priests carrying the Ark marched around the city just once. Then they all went back and spent the rest of that day and night in camp.

¹²Early the next morning, Joshua got up and had the priests carry the Ark around the city again. ¹³The special fighting units went first. Then came the seven priests with their rams' horns, followed by the priests carrying the Ark. After them came a sample of the army as a rear guard. They all marched around the city as they had done the day before, with occasional blowing of the rams' horns. ¹⁴On the third day they marched around Jericho again, with the priests blowing the rams' horns. Then they returned to camp. They did this each day for six days.

¹⁵On the seventh day, they got up at sunrise and started marching around the city seven times. ¹⁶Before they began their march, Joshua said to them, "At the end of the seventh time around. I want the priests to give a long blast on their rams' horns and the troops to give a loud shout, because today the Lord will give us the city. ¹⁷God wants everyone and everything in the city to be destroyed, because these people have gone beyond repentance. They are so caught up in idol worship and witchcraft that they even sacrifice their own children to demons. But Rahab and her relatives are an exception. They are to be saved because she believed in our God and hid our spies at the risk of her own life. ¹⁸Nothing devoted to their demonic gods is to be taken out of the city, no matter how beneficial it would be to you. If anyone does this, it will bring trouble on all Israel. ¹⁹The only things you are allowed to carry out are the things made of silver, gold, bronze or iron, and these are to be gifts to the Lord for His treasury."

²⁰So after the troops and the priests had marched around the city seven times, at Joshua's command they all stopped and turned to face the city wall. Then the priests gave a long blast of the rams' horns, the troops gave a loud shout, and the walls of Jericho shook and huge sections collapsed, but Rahab's house was spared. Then the men stormed into the city from all directions and took it. ²¹They killed everyone in the city, men, women, children, cattle, sheep and donkeys.

²²Joshua spoke to the two men who had spied on the city and said, "Quick, go and find Rahab and bring her and her family and everything she owns out of the city as you promised her you would."

²³The two men went quickly, found Rahab and brought her and her loved ones out of the city. They made a place for them near the camp of Israel. ²⁴Then they set the city on fire and burned everything in it, except the silver, gold, bronze and iron which they gave as gifts to the Lord. ²⁵But Rahab and her family and those with her were spared because she accepted the Lord as her God and risked her life to save the spies. While God did not condone her lie, He blessed her for her faith and kindness. She stayed with God's people and married Salmon and became the mother of Boaz, who was the father of Obed, who was the father of Jesse, who was the father of David.

²⁶Then Joshua said, "Cursed be the man who tries to rebuild this city and its walls. He will lay the foundation at the cost of his firstborn and put in the gates at the cost of his youngest."

²⁷So the Lord was with Joshua as He had been with Moses, and the fear of the Lord and the fame of Joshua spread throughout the land.

Defeated at Ai

7 But some among the children of Israel didn't listen to the Lord and acted unfaithfully. Achan, the son of Carmi and grandson of Zabdi (also known as Zimri), from the clan of Zerah from the tribe of Judah, kept some silver and gold for himself, plus a Babylonian robe, and brought them into the camp. The Lord was greatly displeased with what Achan had done and withdrew His blessing from all Israel.

²Meanwhile, Joshua decided to send some of his men from Jericho to the city of Ai on the road to Bethel in the wilderness of Bethaven. He said to them, "Go and spy out the territory, then come back and give me a report." ³After they had spied out the land they returned and said to Joshua, "Not all our troops will be needed to take the city. Two or three thousand should do it. There's no sense in marching the whole army up there. These men can do the job, because the city is small and doesn't have a large fighting force." ⁴Without asking the Lord what to do, Joshua sent three thousand men to take Ai, and the men of Ai came out and attacked the Israelites. ⁵They chased Joshua's men all the way down the slope as far as the stone quarries at Shebarim, killing thirty-six of them in the process. When the battered troops got home and the people saw them, their hearts sank.

⁶Joshua and the tribal leaders tore their robes in anguish at the sight and threw themselves on the ground in front of the Ark and wept. They stayed there until late that afternoon, praying, with dust on their heads and grief in their hearts, asking the reason for what had happened. ⁷Joshua said, "O Sovereign Lord, why did you let this happen? The Amorites were afraid of us, but now they've defeated us. This will only stiffen their resistance. I know you didn't bring us all the way from Egypt to have us slaughtered by the Amorites. Maybe we should have stayed on the other side of Jordan. ⁸O Lord, what can I say? How can I encourage the men to fight now that they've been defeated? ⁹The Canaanites and others will hear about this and attack us from all directions and wipe us out. Then what will happen to your reputation as a great God?"

Achan's Disobedience

¹⁰The Lord answered Joshua, "Stand up! Why do you have your face down to the ground like this? ¹¹Israel has sinned and broken my covenant. They took things from Jericho they were not supposed to take and brought them into the camp, which I told them not to do. ¹²That's why your troops were defeated. The men of Ai came at you with courage, and your men turned and ran. I will not go with you into battle until you get rid of those demonic things that one of your men has brought back from Jericho and hidden under his tent. ¹³Call the people together and tell them to get ready to present themselves to the Lord first thing tomorrow morning. Also tell them that someone took things from Jericho that I told them not to take. He brought them into the camp, and that's why the troops were defeated at Ai.

¹⁴"Tomorrow morning I will ask them to come forward tribe by tribe, and I will pick out the guilty tribe. Then they will come forward clan by clan, and I will pick out the guilty clan. Next I will ask them to come forward family by family, and I will pick out the guilty family. Finally, they will come forward man by man, and I will pick out the guilty one. ¹⁵This will give the man and his family a chance to repent. If they do not repent and come forward on their own, they are to be executed. He has gone against what I plainly told everyone and has brought on the defeat of Israel's troops at Ai. The one who has taken the things will have to be stoned to death and his body burned, together with everything he has."

¹⁶So early the next morning, Joshua had the people come forward by tribes, and the Lord picked out the tribe of Judah. ¹⁷Then he brought the tribe of Judah forward by clans, and the Lord picked out the clan of Zerah. Next, he brought the clan of Zerah forward by families, and the Lord picked out the family of Zabdi. ¹⁸Finally, he had the family of Zabdi come forward man by man, and the Lord picked out Achan, the son of Carmi and grandson of Zabdi, from the clan of Zerah of the tribe of Judah.

¹⁹Joshua said to Achan, "Son, now tell me what you have done to bring all this trouble on us. I charge you before the Lord to confess your sin and tell us what you have done. Don't try to hide it from me." But Achan was silent and refused to speak.

²⁰When Achan realized he could no longer hide his sin, he said without remorse, "I have disobeyed and sinned against the Lord. I admit it. ²¹But when I saw a richly embroidered Babylonian robe, five pounds of silver and a small bar of gold, I couldn't resist so I took them. They are buried in the ground inside my tent. The robe is on top of the silver and gold."

²⁵Joshua spoke to Achan and his family one last time. "Why did you bring all this trouble on Israel and on the Lord? You knew the consequences, but none of you have shown remorse. So the Lord's sentence must be carried out." Then because Achan had brought disaster on all Israel, they stoned him and his family, killed his cattle and burned everything he owned. ²⁶They buried him and his family and piled rocks over them which stayed there for years as a reminder of what he had done. That's why some called the place The Valley of Troubles. Then the Lord again blessed Israel as He had before.

The Fall of Ai

8 That same day the Lord said to Joshua, "Don't be discouraged over what has happened and don't be afraid to go up against Ai. Take your troops and attack the city and I will deliver the king and his people into your hands. ²You are to do to Ai what you did to Jericho, except that this time you may keep the goods and the cattle. I claimed the silver and gold of Jericho because the first-fruits of all you accomplish are mine. So the spoils of war from Ai will be yours. This time I want you to attack the city from the other direction."

³So Joshua got his men ready for the attack. He picked thirty thousand of his best troops and sent five thousand out that night ahead of him. Before they left he said to them, ⁴"Listen carefully. I want you to go on ahead while it's still dark because I want you to go to the far side of the city, slightly to the west, and hide there. Don't go too far away because I want you near enough for a quick attack. Be on the alert for my signal. ⁵In the morning I'll take the rest of the troops and head for the city. The men of Ai will see us and come out for the attack. When they do, I'll sound a retreat and they'll come after us as they did before. ⁶The plan is to lure them away from the city and for you to attack while they're chasing us. They'll come after us because they'll be as sure of their victory over our larger fighting force as they were over our smaller one. ⁷But after we've lured them away from the city, you are to attack it. You should have no difficulty in taking it. This is what the Lord wants you to do, and He'll be with you. ⁸After you've taken it, set it on fire. Do what the Lord commanded. You have your orders. I want you to march out tonight." ⁹So Joshua sent them marching into the night to wait in ambush west of Ai toward Bethel. But Joshua and the other troops spent the night in the camp of Israel.

¹⁰Early the next morning Joshua called his men together and he and the tribal leaders marched ahead of them to Ai. ¹¹They marched in full view of the people of Ai and made their way to the north side of the city where they set up camp. They were north of the city with a little valley between them and Ai. ¹²The five thousand were waiting in ambush between Ai and Bethel, west of the city. ¹³With the two groups in place, twenty-five thousand to the north and five thousand waiting in ambush to the west, Joshua decided to scout out the valley that night. ¹⁴When the king of Ai saw that the Israelites had come back to attack his city with more men than before, he rounded up every man he could. Early the next morning, he attacked the Israelites, and they battled in the little valley that opened up into the plain of Arabah. But the king didn't know about the ambush. ¹⁵When the king attacked, the Israelites ran as they had done before, and the men of Ai started after them. ¹⁶The king had called on all men in Ai and Bethel to fight the Israelites, and they pursued Joshua's men, going farther and farther away from the city. ¹⁷Not one man stayed in Ai, and the city gates were left wide open. (The capture of Bethel was postponed until later.)

¹⁸The Lord said to Joshua, "Now is the time to raise your javelin and hold it high over your head pointing it toward Ai, for I have given the city into your hands." Joshua raised his javelin and held it high in the air pointing it toward the city. ¹⁹This was the signal for the men waiting in ambush to attack Ai. As soon as they saw Joshua do this they rushed toward the city. They ran through the open gates without meeting any resistance, took the city and set it on fire. ²⁰When the men of Ai chasing Joshua's forces noticed smoke in the sky, they looked back and saw their city on fire. Then the forces of Israel stopped running, turned around and attacked. ²¹Joshua's men had seen the smoke too, and knew that the men in ambush had taken the city and set it on fire. That was their signal to stop running, turn around and attack the men of Ai. ²²Then the troops who had taken the city and set it on fire left a few men behind to guard the gates and rushed out to attack the men of Ai from the rear. So the king and his troops were caught in the middle, and the Israelites slaughtered them until not one was left. ²³However, they didn't kill the king, but captured him and brought him to Joshua.

²⁴After the Israelites had killed all the men of Ai in the fields and in the barren countryside wherever they had chased them, they returned to Ai and killed all remaining inhabitants because of their idol worship and demonic activities. ²⁵Twelve thousand people died that day. In fact, the whole city was wiped out. ²⁶Joshua did not signal with his javelin to stop until the job was done and all the inhabitants had been destroyed. ²⁷The troops took the cattle and the other valuable things for themselves as spoils of war, just as the Lord had told them to. ²⁸So Joshua left the city in ruins and that's how it remained. It was never rebuilt. ²⁹He then sentenced the king of Ai to death by hanging from a nearby tree, and he didn't take the body down until after his troops had a chance to see it. At sunset he ordered it taken down and thrown at the entrance of the main city gate, where they covered it with a huge pile of rocks which stayed there for many years.

The Covenant Renewed

³⁰Then to renew Israel's covenant with the Lord, Joshua built an altar on top of Mount Ebal and a monument next to it as

Moses had told him to.³¹ He built both of them out of stones untouched by tools, as he had been told to do. He covered the monument with plaster. Then he had the priests offer whole burnt sacrifices on the altar of the Lord, as well as peace offerings.³² With the people looking on, Joshua inscribed on the stone monument the Ten Commandments and the final words of Moses.³³ He then ordered the people to divide themselves, half of them on Mount Gerizim and the other half on Mount Ebal. Then all Israel, citizens and foreigners alike, tribal leaders, officials and judges, stood facing each other across the little valley. The priests and the Levites stood in the middle with the Ark just as Moses had told them to do when he gave his final address before he blessed them for the last time.³⁴ Joshua read the Ten Commandments and the final words of Moses with the blessings for obedience and the curses for disobedience, exactly as they were written.³⁵ He did not leave out one word of what Moses had written. He read it all for everyone to hear, including the women and children, whether they were citizens or foreigners.

Friendship Treaty With the Gibeonites

9 When the kings to the west of Jordan heard about Jericho and Ai, they decided to band together against Israel. This included all the city kings from the Jordan River throughout the foothills and mountains all the way to the Mediterranean coast and north as far as Lebanon. These kings were over the Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites.² They all joined forces and planned to attack Israel.

³ When the news about Jericho and Ai reached the nearby people of the land of Gibeon, they decided to deceive the newly-arrived Israelites into making a friendship treaty with them.⁴ The different cities of the Gibeonites selected a delegation to go to Joshua and loaded their donkeys with used household goods, worn-out saddlebags and torn and mended leather water bags.⁵ They wore patched sandals and clothes that looked old and worn. The bread they took with them was moldy.⁶ They made their way to see Joshua who was camped with the children of Israel at Gilgal near Jericho. When they got there, they said to him and to the other tribal leaders, "We have come a long way from a far country and have been traveling many days. We would like to make a treaty with you."

⁷ The leaders of Israel said, "Why should we make a treaty with you? How do we know that you're not lying and that you don't actually live nearby?"

⁸ The Gibeonites turned to Joshua and said, "We are here to serve you, not to fight you." Joshua asked, "But who are you and where do you come from?"

⁹ They answered, "We are your servants and have come a long way from a far country to make a treaty with you because we have heard about the kind of God you have and what He has done to bring you out of Egypt. We want to accept Him as our God."¹⁰ We have also heard what He did to the two powerful Amorite kings on the other side of Jordan, Sihon the king of Heshbon, and Og the king of Bashan who lived in Ashtaroth near Karnaim.¹¹ So our leaders and people told us to go and make a treaty with you. They told us to say, 'We're ready to be your servants. Please make a treaty with us.'¹² The bread we have with us was freshly baked when we left, but look at it—it's all moldy.¹³ Our leather water bags were new when we left, but look at them—almost all of them are cracked. Our sandals and clothes were new when we left. But just look at them—see how worn they are!"¹⁴ The leaders of Israel examined their bread, their water bags, their sandals and clothes and were convinced that the men were telling the truth. But they didn't ask the Lord about it.¹⁵ So they agreed to make a friendship treaty with them not to attack their people, and Joshua and the leaders took an oath to confirm it.

¹⁶Three days later, after the delegation returned home, the Israelites heard that the men were from nearby Gibeon. ¹⁷Joshua then sent a large fighting force to find out the truth. The troops split into four groups and left camp. On the third day they came to the cities of Gibeon, Chephirah, Beeroth and Kiriath Jearim. ¹⁸When they verified that these people had deceived Israel, they did not attack because of the oath that Joshua and the leaders had taken when they swore to the Lord to accept them as friends. The troops returned home and told Joshua and the leaders what they had found. When the Israelites heard it, they were very upset with what their leaders had done. ¹⁹The leaders tried to defend themselves, saying, "We have taken an oath and promised the Lord to accept these people as our friends. So we can't attack them. If we did, our word would mean nothing to anyone, and the trustworthiness of our God would be called into question. ²⁰We admit we didn't ask the Lord, but we can't break the oath we took or destroy people who renounce idolatry and accept the Lord. ²¹Even though they lied, the best thing we can do is to make them our servants. They can cut our wood and carry our water, including the wood and water needed for the Sanctuary." So Joshua and the leaders kept their word and did not break the oath they had taken.

²²Then Joshua called for the Gibeonite leaders and when they came, he said to them, "Why did you lie to us, telling us that you came from a far country when you actually live nearby? ²³Because of this, you will serve our people as you wanted to, but you will not have the same privileges that other foreigners do who have joined us. You and your descendants will cut wood and carry water for the house of our God." ²⁴They replied, "We were told how the Lord your God promised to give Moses the whole land and to drive out the inhabitants. Our people were frightened, and that's why we did what we did. ²⁵We're now in your hands. Do with us whatever you think best." ²⁶Joshua accepted the Gibeonites and did not let Israel attack them or in any way abuse them. ²⁷So throughout their generations they worked for Israel as servants, cutting wood and carrying water for the priests and Levites at the Sanctuary.

The Sun Stands Still

10 King Adoni-Zedek of the city of Jebus (later renamed Jerusalem) heard that Joshua had captured Jericho and Ai and that he had killed all the people including their king. He also heard that the Israelites had made a friendship treaty with the Gibeonites and that they agreed among themselves to become Israel's servants. ²That frightened him because Gibeon was a strong and important city. It was much bigger than Ai. It was large enough to have its own king and an excellent fighting force. ³So Adoni-Zedek called together King Hoham of Hebron, King Piram of Jarmuth, King Japhia of Lachish and King Debir of Eglon and said to them, ⁴"Help me attack the Gibeonites and wipe them out because they have made a friendship treaty with Israel." ⁵So the five Amorite kings who ruled over Jebus, Hebron, Jarmuth, Lachish and Eglon joined forces, marched their troops over to Gibeon and set up their attack positions.

⁸The Lord spoke to Joshua, "Don't be afraid of these five kings because I have given them into your hands. They will not be able to stand against you.”⁹After an all-night march to Gibeon, Joshua ordered his men to attack in the early hours of the morning and took the five kings totally by surprise.¹⁰The Lord threw the armies of the five kings into confusion and Israel had no trouble defeating them. The Lord gave them a great victory. Joshua’s men killed enemy troops all along the road from Gibeon to Beth Horon and on to Azekah and Makkedah.¹¹As the enemy troops ran along the road connecting Beth Horon with Azekah, the Lord sent huge hailstones on them so that more troops died from hailstones than from the swords of the Israelites.

¹²The Lord gave Israel total victory over all five kings. That day Joshua said in the hearing of his men, “O Lord, make the sun stand still over Gibeon and the moon over the Valley of Aijalon.”¹³The Lord heard Joshua’s prayer. He made the sun and the moon stand still until Israel had totally defeated all five armies. All this is recorded in the Book of Jashar where it says, “The sun stopped in the middle of the sky giving Joshua an extra long day.”¹⁴Never in the history of man has there been a day like this, when the God of heaven listened to a man and slowed the rotation of the earth to help His people defeat their enemies. There was no doubt in any man’s mind who the God of heaven was and that He was on the side of Israel.

¹⁵After letting his troops rest, Joshua marched them back to Gilgal.

Amorite Kings Caught in a Cave

¹⁶When the five kings saw that their armies had been defeated, they fled and hid in a cave near Makkedah to keep from being killed.¹⁷Someone saw the five kings escape and hide in this cave and told Joshua. Immediately he called together some of his men and said to them,¹⁸“Go to the cave near Makkedah and roll some big stones in front of the mouth of the cave to close its entrance, then station some men there.¹⁹The rest of you keep on chasing the enemy. Continue attacking them from the rear and don’t let them escape. The Lord will give them into your hands.”²⁰Joshua and his troops killed every one of the enemy, except for a few who escaped and made it back to their walled cities.²¹Then the whole army returned to Joshua who was camped near Makkedah. After this victory no one dared make fun of Israel and its God.

²²Joshua did not forget about the five kings hiding in the cave. By the end of the day he said to his troops, “Take away the stones from the mouth of the cave, go in and bring out those five kings.”²³The men went, took away the stones from the mouth of the cave and brought out the kings of Jebus (or Jerusalem), Hebron, Jarmuth, Lachish and Eglon.²⁴They brought them to Joshua and he called together all the Israelite warriors and ordered the kings to lie down. Then he said to the commanders, “Come here! Put your feet on their necks as a sign of our victory.”²⁵Next, he turned to his troops and said, “Don’t ever be afraid of any king’s army. Don’t ever become discouraged and give up the fight, because this is what the Lord will do to all those who fight against you.”²⁶Then Joshua took the sword and thrust it through each of the five kings and ordered their bodies to be hung on five trees. He let them hang there until that evening to let everyone see them.²⁷Just before sunset he ordered the bodies taken down and thrown into the cave where he had found the kings hiding. He also ordered large rocks to be piled up at the entrance of the cave, which stayed there for many years.

The Southland

²⁸Earlier that same day Joshua had ordered his troops to take the city of Makkedah. After they had taken it, he put the king of the city to death and ordered everyone killed. He did to the king of Makkedah what he had done to the king of Jericho.

²⁹After the troops rested for a day, Joshua ordered his men to march over to Libnah and take it. ³⁰The Lord also gave that city and its king into their hands. No one was spared. Joshua did the same thing to that king as he had done to the king of Jericho.

³³During the first day of fighting, while Joshua's men were taking up their positions, Horam the king of Gezer took his troops and raced to the defense of Lachish. But Joshua defeated him and his army until no one was left. The next day Joshua took the city of Lachish.

³⁴From here they moved on to Eglon, took up their positions, attacked it and took it. ³⁵They killed everyone in the city, just as they had done at Lachish.

³⁶From Eglon, they marched over to Hebron and attacked that city. ³⁷They took it and killed everyone there, including its new king and all the people in the surrounding villages. They totally destroyed the city and left no survivors, just as they had done at Eglon.

³⁸From there, Joshua and his troops turned back to Debir and attacked it. ³⁹They took it and killed everyone in it, including its king and all the people in the surrounding villages. They did to the king what they had done to the kings of Libnah, Hebron and Jericho.

⁴⁰So Joshua conquered all the cities in the mountainous region to the south called the Negeb. He killed all the kings and left no one alive, as the Lord had asked him to do. ⁴¹Joshua's campaign took him from Kadesh Barnea in the south to Gaza on the coast to the north, the whole inland area called Goshen as far north as Gibeon. ⁴²This part of Canaan was taken in one great military thrust only because the Lord God of Israel went before them. ⁴³Then Joshua and all the men returned to Gilgal where the children of Israel were camped.

The Northern Conquest

11 When the news of Israel's victory over the five kings spread, Jabin the king of Hazor, sent word to Jobab the king of Madon, and to the kings of Shimron and Achshaph, ²to the kings in the northern mountains, in the Jordan Valley, south of the Lake of Galilee called the Arabah, in the lowlands, and in the heights of Dor just south of Mount Carmel by the Mediterranean Sea. ³Jabin also sent messages to the Canaanite kings to the east and west of Jordan, to the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites and Jebusites, who lived in the mountains, and to the Hivites, who lived at the foot of Mount Hermon in the land of Mizpah, to come and help him fight against Joshua. ⁴They all agreed and formed a large coalition, with a huge army as difficult to number as sand on a beach. ⁵They joined forces by the waters of Merom and positioned themselves for an attack on Israel.

⁶The Lord spoke to Joshua, "Don't be afraid, because this time tomorrow I'll give all of these kings into your hand. You are not to capture their horses and chariots and use them to fight other kings or you'll end up putting your trust in them. You need to put your trust in me. So after you capture them, I want you to cut the tendon of each of their horses just above their rear hooves to make them unfit for war, and I want you to burn their chariots." ⁷Then Joshua quickly got his men ready for the attack and, against overwhelming odds, made a surprise move at the waters of Merom. ⁸The Lord fought for Israel and delivered these kings into the hands of Joshua, who defeated them and pursued them as far as Sidon and Misrephoth Maim to the north and as far as the Valley of Mizpah to the east, until no enemy troops were left. ⁹Joshua also ordered his men to cut the tendons of all the horses and to set fire to all the chariots that they had captured, just as the Lord had told him to do.

¹⁰Then Joshua went back to attack the city of Hazor. He captured it and executed Jabin the king, who had started this confederacy against Israel and who was one of the few who had made it back home after the battle. ¹¹Everyone in the city was killed and the city was set on fire. ¹²Then Joshua went on and captured the cities of all these kings and killed all the people living there, just as Moses, the servant of the Lord, had told him to do. ¹³But he did not set any of these cities on fire as he had done at Hazor. ¹⁴The Israelites were allowed to help themselves to all the valuables and cattle that had belonged to the people in these cities, but not one who had lived there came out alive. ¹⁵This is what the Lord had told Moses to do, and he had passed the word on to Joshua. Joshua did everything he was asked to do.

Joshua's Conquests

¹⁶Joshua captured the mountainous regions to the north, the southern part of Canaan called the Negeb, the whole area of Goshen and the western foothills of the Jordan Valley. He also controlled the territory around the Lake of Galilee, the Arabah south of there and the mountains around the city of Jebus, later called Jerusalem. ¹⁷He also took all the land from Mount Halak west of Edom, as far as Baal Gad in the Valley of Lebanon below Mount Hermon. He captured all these kings and executed them. ¹⁸It took him more than six years to capture all this territory with its cities and kings. ¹⁹The only city that he did not take was the city of Gibeon and the surrounding villages, because he had made a friendship treaty with the people. He also captured all the other cities in the territory. ²⁰The people of Canaan had so hardened their hearts against the God of heaven that they had lost all desire to repent and change their ways. They decided to go to war against the Lord by killing His people. That's why

God had told Moses to destroy all their cities without mercy.

²¹It was during this time that Joshua defeated the race of giants who had been a terror to the spies forty years earlier. They lived in Hebron, Debir and Anab in the mountains of Judah and in various parts of Israel. Joshua totally destroyed these giants and their cities. ²²Not one of the Anakite giants survived, except those who escaped to Gaza, Gath, Ashdod and some of the cities along the Mediterranean coast where a few of them still lived. ²³Joshua took the land as the Lord through Moses had told him to do. Then he divided it and gave it to the tribes for their inheritance. So in the seventh year the land was quiet from war.

Kings Conquered by Moses

12 The Israelites had taken a lot of territory east of Jordan even before they came into the land the Lord promised them. It went all the way from the Arnon Gorge in the south, up the Jordan Valley to Mount Hermon in the north, including all the Arabah to the east. The kings they had defeated were as follows: ²Sihon, king of the Amorites who ruled from Heshbon, had territory extending from Aroer on the edge of the Arnon Gorge to the Jabbok River, which was the border between him and the Ammonites. This covered the whole southern half of the land of Gilead. ³He had also ruled over the eastern section of the Arabah from the Lake of Galilee south to Beth Jeshimoth east of the Dead Sea and on south to the foothills of Mount Pisgah. ⁴Then there was Og, king of Bashan, one of the last of the giants called Rephaim. He ruled from Ashteroth and Edrei. ⁵His territory included Mount Hermon in the north, Selecah, all of Bashan, as well as Geshur and Maacah to the south all the way to the border of the land ruled by Sihon, whose capital was Heshbon. Og's territory covered the whole northern half of Gilead. ⁶These two kings were conquered under the leadership of Moses before Israel crossed Jordan and entered the Promised Land. Their territory was given to the tribe of Reuben, Gad and half the tribe of Manasseh.

Kings Conquered by Joshua

⁷The following are the kings that Israel conquered west of the Jordan River inside the Promised Land under the leadership of Joshua. Their territory extended all the way from Baal Gad in the Valley of Lebanon to the north, to Mount Halak near the land of Edom in the south. This was the land that Joshua divided among the tribes. ⁸It included the mountains in the west, the foothills, the Jordan Valley, the eastern slopes, the wilderness and the southern part of Canaan, all of which had belonged to the Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites.

⁹Following are the names of the cities that Joshua took from the local kings: Jericho, Ai near Bethel, ¹⁰Jebus also called Jerusalem, Hebron, ¹¹Jarmuth, Lachish, ¹²Eglon, Gezer, ¹³Debir, Geder, ¹⁴Hormah, Arad, ¹⁵Libnah, Adullam, ¹⁶Makkedah, Bethel, ¹⁷Tappuah, Hopher, ¹⁸Aphek, Lasharon, ¹⁹Madon, Hazor, ²⁰Shimron Meron, Achshaph, ²¹Taanach, Megiddo, ²²Kedesh, Jokneam in Carmel, ²³Dor on the coast, Goyim in Galilee ²⁴and Tirzah. This made thirty-one cities and kings that Joshua took, not counting the small towns and villages that surrounded these major cities.

Land Still to Be Conquered

13 By now Joshua was very old. One day the Lord spoke to him, "There's still a large part of Canaan to be taken and settled, but you are too old to continue to lead out in these ambitious conquests. ²There is still the land belonging to the Philistines and Geshurites, ³which goes from the Shihor River just east of Egypt, on north to Ekron. This part of the Canaanite territory is controlled by five Philistine kings with headquarters in Gaza, Ashdod, Ashkelon, Gath and Ekron. ⁴Then there is the Canaanite territory from the cave of Mearah near Sidon in the north, to Aphek near Mount Carmel further south which is directly west of the old Amorite border with Bashan. ⁵There is also the land of the Gebalites and all of Lebanon from Baal Gad just below Mount Hermon in the south to the entrance of the Hamath Pass in the north. ⁶This includes all the land now occupied by the Sidonians between the Lebanese mountains and Misrephoth Maim on the coast. I will drive out all these people to make room for Israel just as I have done so far. This entire land is to be given to the tribes and divided as I have said before. ⁷The land is to be divided among the nine tribes and half the tribe of Manasseh, which crossed Jordan to come west into the land of Canaan. It is to be given to them as their inheritance."

The Land East of the Jordan

⁸The tribes of Reuben, Gad and half the tribe of Manasseh had received their inheritance east of Jordan before Israel crossed over into the Promised Land. This was the territory given to them by Moses at their request. ⁹Their territory extended from Aroer on the edge of the Arnon River, including the city in the middle of the valley and all the plain from Medeba as far as Dibon. ¹⁰It went as far north as the border of Ammon and included all the cities in the Amorite territory once ruled by Sihon whose capital was Heshbon. ¹¹It also included the land of Gilead, the region around Geshur in Maacah, all of Mount Hermon and all of Bashan as far north as Salecah. ¹²Their territory also took in the old kingdom of Og, who was the last of the giants known as the Rephaim. He ruled his territory from the cities of Ashteroth and Edrei. It was under the leadership of Moses that the children of Israel defeated the people of Geshur and took the region of Maacah. ¹³But the Israelites did not clear the land of all its inhabitants as the Lord had told them to do and some of the people of Geshur and Maacah continued to live within the territory of Israel.

¹⁴Of all the tribes, the Levites were the only ones who did not receive an inheritance of land. The Lord had told Moses that their inheritance would be a share in the sacrifices the people brought to the Lord.

The Land of Reuben

¹⁵Moses had taken the territory east of Jordan and divided it up among the tribes of Reuben, Gad and half of Manasseh. He gave the Reubenites land according to their family groups. ¹⁶Their territory extended from Aroer on the edge of the Arnon River in the south, including the city in the middle of the valley and all the plain of Medeba. ¹⁷It included the city of Heshbon and all the cities on that tableland such as Dibon, Bamoth Baal, Baal Meon, ¹⁸Jahaz, Kedemoth, Mephaath, ¹⁹Kiriathaim, Sibmah, Zereth Shahar on the hill in the valley, ²⁰Beth Peor on the slopes of Mount Pisgah and Beth Jeshimoth. ²¹These were the cities of the plain and those that made up the kingdom of Sihon, the Amorite king who had ruled out of Heshbon. Under the leadership of Moses, the children of Israel had defeated Sihon and all the local kings who ruled under him over such places as Midian, Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur and Reba. ²²The Israelites captured and killed many people, including Balaam, the one whom Balak called to curse Israel. ²³These were the names of the major cities and towns that were given to the Reubenites for their inheritance, and the Jordan River and the Dead Sea made the western boundary of their territory.

The Land of Gad

²⁴The land assigned by Moses to the Gadites according to family groups ²⁵included the city of Jazer south of the Brook Jabbok, all the cities of Gilead and half the land of the Ammonites as far as the city of Aroer, east of Rabbah. ²⁶So their territory went from the area of Heshbon in the south to Betonim Mizpah, and Mahanaim in the north to Lo Debar on the border of Gad and Manasseh in the west. ²⁷In the Jordan Valley, it included Beth Haram, Beth Nimrah, Succoth and Zaphon, which had made up the rest of Sihon's kingdom. The western border of the territory was the Jordan River northward to just south of the Lake of Galilee. ²⁸These were the major cities and towns that Moses gave to the Gadites for their inheritance.

Half the Tribe of Manasseh Settles East

²⁹Moses also assigned part of the land east of Jordan to half the tribe of Manasseh and its family groups. ³⁰Their territory included all the land of Bashan and the sixty towns and villages of Jair all of which were once ruled by King Og, who was known as the King of Bashan. ³¹The territory also included half of the land of Gilead and the cities of Ashteroth and Edrei which were the royal cities of Bashan. All this was given to half the descendants of Makir, the son of Manasseh.

³²This is how Moses divided the land east of Jericho on this side of the Jordan River before the children of Israel crossed over into the Promised Land while they were still camped in the plains of Moab. ³³Moses did not assign any land to the tribe of Levi because their inheritance was to be a share in the sacrifices the people brought to the Lord.

The Land West of the Jordan

14 The land west of Jordan was divided among the tribes by Joshua the son of Nun and by Eleazar the high priest, together with the tribal leaders. They were the ones who assigned the land to the various tribes and clans of Israel. ²Moses had told them to divide the land among the nine-and-a-half tribes by drawing lots. ³He had already assigned land on the eastern side of Jordan to two-and-a-half tribes. ⁴The two sons of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, were each counted as a tribe and received land with the rest while the tribe of Levi was left out. The Levites were given cities to live in with surrounding fields for their cattle, but no tribal territory. So there were still twelve tribes that received land. ⁵The people of Israel divided the land west of Jordan just as Moses had told them to do.

Caleb Receives Hebron as His Inheritance

⁶While the children of Israel were still camped at Gilgal, some men from the tribe of Judah came to Joshua to talk to him about their inheritance. One of them was Caleb, the son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite. Under the direction of Moses, he had spied out the land with Joshua and ten others years before. He said to Joshua, "Do you remember what Moses, that man of God, said to you and me years ago at Kadesh Barnea? ⁷I was forty years old when Moses sent us to spy out the land. You and I gave Moses an honest report and told him what we believed could be done under the power of God. ⁸The others who went with us gave their report in such a way as to scare the people. But we gave our report with faith, hope and courage in what the Lord could do. ⁹Because of this, Moses promised to reward us. He told me and my children that we would receive the very land that you and I walked over as our inheritance. ¹⁰That was forty-five years ago when we were making our way through the wilderness. All these years the Lord has kept me alive and blessed me with good health. I'm now eighty-five years old and as strong as ever. ¹¹I'm just as full of energy as I was when Moses sent me to spy out the land. I can still go to war and fight side by side with those half my age. ¹²So give me that mountain that we walked over, that the Lord promised me after we had given our report and urged the people to move forward by faith. You were there and heard what I said about the giants called Anakim, the great walled cities and how with the Lord's help we could defeat them and drive them out."

¹³Then Joshua blessed Caleb for his faithfulness and gave him the city of Hebron and the surrounding mountainous area for his inheritance. ¹⁴So Hebron became the possession of Caleb, the son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite and his descendants, because he believed the Lord God of Israel with all his heart and was ready to follow Him anywhere. ¹⁵Hebron was originally called Kiriath Arba, named after Arba the biggest giant of the Anakim people. After the land was divided among the tribes, the children of Israel settled down and the whole country rested from war.

The Land of Judah

15 The tribe of Judah was given the following land, which was divided among their family groups: Its eastern border ran from the northern end of the Dead Sea southward along its coast, along the Edomite border and on into the Desert of Zin. ²Its southern border joined its western border at the southern end of the Dead Sea. ³Going southwest along the Edomite border, it ran along the Akrabbim Pass, into the Desert of Zin and on over to Kadesh Barnea. From there it ran past Hebron, up to Addar, on to Karkaa s, ⁴then to Azmon and along the river of Egypt to the Mediterranean Sea. This was Judah's southern border.

⁵The eastern end of the northern border of Judah began where the Jordan emptied into the Dead Sea. ⁶From there, it ran northwest toward Beth Hoglah, to Beth Arabah, to the huge Bohan Rock named after Reuben's son, ⁷to the Valley of Achor which is south of Jericho, to Debir, north to Gilgal and on to the Adummim Pass. Then the border ran to the waters of En Shemech and came out at En Rogel. ⁸From there it ran up the Valley of Ben Hinnom on the southern slope of the hill later called Mount Zion on which the city of Jebus (Jerusalem) sat. Then the border ran up the hill just west of the Hinnom Valley to the northern tip of the Valley of Rephaim (also called the Valley of Giants).

⁹From there the border continued to the Springs of Nephtoah, coming out at the villages at the foot of Mount Ephron, then on toward Baalah (also known as Kiriath Jearim and later renamed Emmaus). ¹⁰Then it curved west toward the hill country of Mount Seir and ran along the northern slope of Mount Jearim also known as Chesalon, to Beth Shemesh and over to Timnah. ¹¹It continued on to the hill just north of Ekron, then turned toward Shikkeron, passing along to Mount Baalah, on to Jabneel or Jabneh (later called Jamnia), and from there west to the Mediterranean Sea. ¹²This was the western boundary of the land given to the people of Judah as their inheritance.

Caleb Takes Hebron

¹³In harmony with the Lord's command, Joshua gave Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, his inheritance within the land of Judah. He gave him the city of Hebron also known as Kiriath Arba, which had been named after Arba, the ancestor of Anak. ¹⁴Caleb was foremost in driving out the descendants of the three sons of Anak: Sheshai, Ahiman and Talmi. ¹⁵After Caleb took Hebron, he went on to the city Debir (also known as Kiriath Sepher). ¹⁶When he got there, he said, "I will give my daughter Achsah in marriage to the man who succeeds in taking this city."

¹⁷Othniel, the son of Caleb's brother Kenaz, accepted the challenge, and with his men took the city. So Caleb gave him his daughter, Achsah, in marriage as he had promised. ¹⁸On their wedding day, she asked Othniel for permission to ask her father for the field with springs as an additional wedding gift. A few days later, she got on a donkey to go visit her father. As she slid off the donkey, her father saw her and went out to greet her. He asked what he could do for her. ¹⁹She said, "Father, please let me have the springs that are next to the land you already gave me so I can water my cattle." Her father not only gave her the field with springs below her land but also the field with springs above her land. He gave her two fields.

The Cities of Judah

³³The cities in the western foothills were: Eshtaol, Zorah, Ashnah, ³⁴Zanoah, En Gannim, Tappuah, Enam, ³⁵Jarmuth, Adullam, Socoh, Azekah, ³⁶Shaaraim, Adithaim and Gederah also called Gederothaim. Altogether there were fourteen cities with their surrounding villages.

³⁷Farther west were the cities of Zenan, Hadashah, Migdal Gad, ³⁸Dilean, Mizpah, Joktheel, ³⁹Lachish, Bozkath, Eglon, ⁴⁰Cabbon, Lahmas, Kithlish, ⁴¹Gederoth, Beth Dagon, Naamah and Makkedah. Altogether there were sixteen cities with their villages.

⁴²In the northwest there were the cities of Libnah, Ether, Ashan, ⁴³Iphthah, Ashnah, Nezib, ⁴⁴Keilah, Achzib and Mareshah. Altogether there were nine cities with their surrounding villages.

⁴⁵Then near the coast going from north to south there was Ekron with its villages, ⁴⁶which included all the villages on the way to Ashdod.

⁴⁷Then there was Ashdod with its surrounding villages, and farther along the coast there was Gaza with its surrounding villages which extended as far south as the River of Egypt.

⁴⁸In the mountains there were the cites and towns of Shamir, Jattir, Socoh, ⁴⁹Dannah, Kiriath Sannah (also known as Kiriath Sepher or Debir), ⁵⁰Anab, Esh-temoth, Anim, ⁵¹Goshen, Holon and Giloh. Altogether there were eleven cities with their surrounding villages.

⁵²In another section of the mountains there were the cities of Arab, Dumah, Eshan, ⁵³Janum, Beth Tappuah, Aphekah, ⁵⁴Humtah, Kiriath Arba also known as Hebron, and Zior. In this group there were nine cities with their villages.

⁵⁵In another section of the mountains were the cities of Maon, Carmel, Ziph, Juttah, ⁵⁶Jezreel, Jokdeam, Zanoah, ⁵⁷Kain, Gibeah and Timnah. In this group there were ten cities with their surrounding villages.

⁵⁸In still another section of the mountains there were the cities of Halhul, Beth Zur, Gedor, ⁵⁹Maarath, Beth Anoth and Eltekon. In this group there were six cities with their surrounding villages.

⁶⁰Then there were the two cities of Kiriath Baal also called Kiriath Jearim and Rabbah, with their villages.

⁶¹In the wilderness there were the cities of Beth Arabah, Middin, Secacah, ⁶²Nibshan, Salt City, and Engedi. Altogether there were six cities with their surrounding villages.

⁶³But the people of Judah did not drive out the Jebusites from their city, later called Jerusalem, so they continued to live in the land among the children of Israel.

Ephraim and the Other Half of the Tribe of Manasseh

16 The southern border of the land assigned to Ephraim and half the tribe of Manasseh, the descendants of Joseph, began on the west side of the Jordan River at the springs of Jericho just north of the city, then toward the mountains and on to Bethel. ²From Bethel the border continued west to Luz and from there to Ataroth Addar near the land of the Archites. ³Then it went on to the territory of the Jephthites, to Lower Beth Horon and on to Gezer, turning north just before the Mediterranean thus forming the western boundary of the tribe of Ephraim.

⁴This land was given to the descendants of Ephraim and Manasseh, the two sons of Joseph.

The Land of Ephraim

⁵Ephraim's southern border ran from Ataroth Addar in a southwesterly direction, taking in both Upper and Lower Beth Horon, ⁶and continued to the Mediterranean. Ephraim's eastern border began in the north with Michmethath, ran southeast toward Taanath Shiloh and on to Janoah. ⁷From Janoah it continued down to Ataroth and Naarah, ending just north of Jericho near Jordan. ⁸The northern boundary began with Tappuah and from there ran west to the Kanah Ravine and on toward the Mediterranean, connecting with Ephraim's western border. This was the land inherited by the descendants of Ephraim. ⁹There were some cities and villages that were within the rightful borders of Manasseh but were counted as belonging to Ephraim. ¹⁰The children of Ephraim did not drive out the Canaanites from Gezer, but employed them as house servants and day laborers. The Ephraimites were later led into idolatry by them.

The Western Half Tribe of Manasseh

17 Now the half tribe of Manasseh (descendants from Manasseh's son Makir, the father of Gilead) had been given land east of Jordan before the children of Israel crossed over into the Promised Land. They received the land of Gilead and Bashan as their inheritance because they had fought so bravely. The other half of the tribe of Manasseh (descended from Joseph's oldest son) had been given land west of Jordan, as were the descendants of Ephraim. ²The half tribe of Manasseh that crossed the Jordan and settled in the Promised Land was arranged under the ancestral houses of Abiezer, Helek, Asriel, Shechem, Hopher and Shemida, the male descendants of Manasseh, the son of Joseph.

³Zelophead, the son of Hopher, the son of Gilead, the son of Makir, the son of Manasseh had no sons, only daughters. Their names were: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah and Tirzah. ⁴They went to see Eleazar, the high priest and son of Aaron, Joshua the son of Nun, and the tribal leaders. and said to them, "Our father died in the wilderness and left no male heirs, so the Lord told Moses to give us an inheritance along with our male relatives." ⁵The descendants of Manasseh got the land of Gilead and Bashan east of Jordan and ten shares of land west of Jordan through the five great-grandsons of Manasseh and the five daughters of Zelophead, who was the son of Hopher, the other great-grandson of Manasseh. ⁶So Zelophead's five daughters got equal shares west of the Jordan as their male relatives did, from half the tribe of Manasseh that settled in Gilead and Bashan.

⁷The southern border of half the tribe of Manasseh west of Jordan went from the city of Asher to Michmethath and from there west to Shechem. Then the border ran southward to include the En Tappuah area. ⁸While the land of En Tappuah belonged to Manasseh, the town of Tappuah on the border belonged to Ephraim. ⁹From there the border continued to run south to the Kanah Ravine. The cities south of the ravine belonged to Ephraim, but there were some cities north of the ravine that Manasseh agreed to give to Ephraim. The ravine was the southernmost border of Manasseh all the way to the Mediterranean. ¹⁰To the north Manasseh bordered on the territory of the tribes of Asher, Zebulun and Issachar. ¹¹These tribes agreed that Manasseh could have some of their cities such as Beth Shan, Ibleam, Dor, Endor, Taanach and Megiddo with their surrounding villages. ¹²But Manasseh did not take over these cities, so the Canaanites continued to live in the land. ¹³It was only later, when the Israelites had grown stronger that they conquered these cities, but they only subjected the people, they did not drive them out.

Ephraim and Manasseh Demand More Land

¹⁴The descendants of Ephraim and Manasseh, the sons of Joseph, came to Joshua and said, "Our tribes have each been given a portion of the Promised Land just like the other tribes, but that's not enough for us. We're much larger than the other tribes and really need two portions each. God has blessed us and we have become a numerous people. We need more of the land that has already been conquered." ¹⁵Joshua said, "If you claim to be such great tribes and say that your share of the land is too small for you, then go and fight for what you need. Go and take the hill country where the Perizzites and Rephaim live." ¹⁶The people said, "That hill country alone isn't enough; besides, the Canaanites who live in the plain have iron chariots, both in Beth Shan, as well as in the Valley of Jezreel." ¹⁷Joshua sensed their lack of faith and said, "If you're as numerous as you say you are, I will give you the extra land you want. ¹⁸That entire hill country over there is yours. Show your faith and take it to its farthest limits. Even though the Canaanites have iron chariots and are very powerful, with the Lord's help you can drive them out."

The Remainder of the Land

18 After Joshua conquered large portions of Canaan and there was peace in the land, the people of Israel assembled at Shiloh and set up the Sanctuary.

²But there were still seven tribes

which had not received their share of the land. ³Joshua said to them, "How long are you going to wait before you take over the rest of the land the Lord has given you?" ⁴Choose three men from each of your tribes and we'll send them through the country to map out areas that they think your tribes would like. When they come back they can give me a report. ⁵However, Judah will stay south of here and the tribe of Ephraim and half the tribe of Manasseh will stay north of Judah, both this side of Jordan. ⁶After these men get back and give me descriptions of the different areas of the country, we'll draw lots in the presence of the Lord to see what each tribe gets. ⁷The Levites will not be included in this because their work is to serve the Lord. And Reuben, Gad and half the tribe of Manasseh already have their inheritance on the other side of Jordan, which was given to them by Moses."

⁸Before the men left, Joshua said to them, "Go and look over the land and map it out for me, then come back and give me a report. I'll look it over and then we'll draw lots before the Lord here at Shiloh to see which tribe gets what."

⁹So the men left and went through the land, listing all the cities and towns and writing down their suggestions on how to divide the land in seven parts acceptable to the tribes. When they came back they gave their recommendations to Joshua. ¹⁰He carefully listened to them and was satisfied with what they had done. Then he drew lots in the presence of the Lord by the Sanctuary and assigned an area of the country to each of the seven tribes accordingly.

The Land of Benjamin

¹¹The first lot that Joshua drew was for the tribe of Benjamin. Its small territory lay between Judah to the south and Ephraim and Manasseh to the north. ¹²Benjamin's northern border began in the east at Jordan near Jericho and went west into the mountains all the way to Beth Aven. ¹³Then it ran south of Luz near Bethel and on to Ataroth Addar on the mountain south of Lower Beth Horon. ¹⁴From there the border headed straight south coming out at Kiriath Baal (also called Kiriath Jearim) which belonged to Judah. This was Benjamin's western border. ¹⁵The southern border began at Kiriath Jearim and headed on west to Ephron and to the Springs of Nephtoa. ¹⁶From there it turned east to the foot of the mountain that overlooks the Valley of Hinnom at the north end of the Valley of Rephaim. Then it continued on down the Valley of Hinnom south of the city of Jebus, later called Jerusalem, and from there on to En Rogel. ¹⁷Then the border curved slightly north to En Shemesh and continued on to Geliloth, which faces the Adummim Pass. From there it went to the Stone of Bohan, named after Reuben's son, ¹⁸and continued to the northern slope of Beth Arabah, then down into the Jordan valley. ¹⁹Next it ran to the north of the slope of Beth Hoglah, then to the northern end of the Dead Sea where the Jordan empties into it. This was Benjamin's southern border. ²⁰Its eastern border was the Jordan River. So these were the boundaries of the tribe of Benjamin on all sides.

²¹The cities and towns in Benjamin's territory were Jericho, Beth Hoglah, Emek Keziz, ²²Beth Arabah, Zemaraim, Bethel, ²³Avvim, Parah, Ophrah, ²⁴Chephar Ammoni, Ophni and Geba. Altogether there were twelve cities with their surrounding villages. ²⁵Benjamin's territory also included Gibeon, Ramah, Beeroth, ²⁶Mizpah, Chephirah, Mozah, ²⁷Rekem, Irpeel, Taralah, ²⁸Zela, Haeleph, Jebus (Jerusalem), Gibeah and Kiriath Jearim. Altogether there were fourteen cities and towns with their surrounding villages.

Simeon's Inheritance With Judah

19 The next lot that Joshua drew was for the tribe of Simeon. Its territory lay south of Judah, but it also extended up into a part of Judah that had not yet been settled. ²The cities assigned to Simeon were: Beersheba or Sheba, Moladah, ³Hazar Shual, Balah, Ezem, ⁴Eltolad, Bethul, Hormah, ⁵Ziklag, Beth Marcaboth, Hazar Susah, ⁶Beth Lebaoth also called Beth Biri, and Sharuhem. Altogether there were thirteen cities with their surrounding villages. ⁷Then there were the cities of Ain, Rimmon, Ether and Ashan—altogether four cities with their villages. ⁸All these cities with their surrounding villages belonged to the families of Simeon as far south as Bealoth or Baalath Beer (also known as Ramah). This was the area assigned to the tribe of Simeon. ⁹Part of their territory came from Judah because the children of Judah had more land than they needed. That's why Simeon's territory extended up into Judah.

The Land of Zebulun

¹⁰The third lot that Joshua drew fell to the tribe of Zebulun. Its territory lay to the north beginning with the city of Sarid. ¹¹The boundary that went west from Sarid extended to Maralah, Dabbesheth and to the ravine this side of Jokneam. ¹²The boundary that went east from Sarid went to Chisloth Tabor, Daberath and Japhia. ¹³It continued eastward to Gath Hepher and Eth Kazin and came out at Rimmon where it turned toward Neah. ¹⁴There the border went north of Neah and on to Hannathon and ended at the Valley of Iphtah El. ¹⁵The territory of Zebulun included the cities and towns of Kattath, Nahalal, Shimron, Idalah and Bethlehem. There were twelve cities with their surrounding villages, including some border cities. ¹⁶All these were given to the families of Zebulun for their inheritance.

The Land of Issachar

¹⁷The fourth lot that Joshua drew was for the tribe of Issachar. ¹⁸Its territory lay southeast of Zebulun and north of Manasseh. It included the cities of Jezreel, Chesulloth, Shunem, ¹⁹Hapharaim, Shion, Anaharath, ²⁰Rabbith, Kishion, Ebez, ²¹Remeth, En Gannim, En Haddah and Beth Pазzez. ²²The border also took in the cities of Tabor, Shahazumah and Beth Shemesh ending at the Jordan River. Altogether there were sixteen cities with their surrounding villages. ²³All these were given to the families of Issachar for their inheritance.

The Land of Asher

²⁴The fifth lot that was drawn was for the tribe of Asher. ²⁵Its territory was west of Zebulun all along the Mediterranean coast from south of Dor all the way to the north of Tyre. It included the cities of Helkath, Hali, Beten, Achshaph, ²⁶Allammelech, Amad and Mishal with their villages. The western part of the country also included Carmel and Shihor Libnath. ²⁷The eastern border took in Beth Dagon, touched the land of Zebulun by the Valley of Iphtah El and went north to Beth Emek, to Neiel and on to Cabul. ²⁸From there it went to Abdon, Rehob, Hammon, Kanah and north to the city of Sidon. ²⁹The border then went to Ramah and on to the fortified city of Tyre where it turned toward Hosah and came out at the Mediterranean Sea. It included Mahalab, Achzib, ³⁰Ummah, Aphek and Rehob. There were twenty-two cities with surrounding villages, including some border cities. ³¹All these were given to the families of Asher for their inheritance.

The Land of Naphtali

³²The sixth lot that Joshua drew was from the tribe of Naphtali. ³³Its territory was east of Asher and north of Zebulun and Issachar. The border that began at Heleph went from there to the huge oak at Zaanannim, then to Adami Nekeb and Jabneel later called Yemma, Lakkum and the Jordan River. ³⁴From there the boundary ran west to Aznoth Tabor and on to Hukkok. Then it ran along the border of Zebulun to the south, Asher to the west and the Jordan River to the east. The territory to the north belonged to the Phoenicians. ³⁵The land of Naphtali included the cities of Ziddim, Zer, Hammath, Rakkath, Chinnereth (later called Gennesaret), ³⁶Adamah, Ramah, Hazor, ³⁷Kadesh, Edrei, En Hazor, ³⁸Iron, Migdal El, Horem, Beth Anath and Beth Shemesh. There were nineteen cities with their surrounding villages, not counting some border cities. ³⁹All these were given to the families of Naphtali for their inheritance.

The Land of Dan

⁴⁰The seventh and last lot that Joshua drew was for the tribe of Dan. ⁴¹Its territory was south and west of Ephraim and ran northward along the Mediterranean Sea to the border of Manasseh. It included the cities of Zorah, Eshtaol, Ir Shemesh (also known as Beth Shemesh), ⁴²Shaalabbin, Aijalon, Ithlah, ⁴³Elon, Timnah, Ekron, ⁴⁴Eltekeh, Gibbethon, Baalath, ⁴⁵Jehud, Bene Berak, Gath Rimmon, ⁴⁶Me Jarkon and Rakkon, including the area near Joppa. Altogether there were seventeen cities with their surrounding villages. ⁴⁷The people of Dan faced fierce opposition in taking the land. They did not rely on the Lord, so the powerful Amorites forced them back into the mountains. Later the Danites attacked the city of Leshem (also called Laish) north of Naphtali, captured it, put the people to the sword and claimed it for their own. Then they called the city Dan in honor of their ancestor. ⁴⁸These were the cities that were given to the families of Dan for their inheritance.

Joshua Settles Near Shiloh

⁴⁹When Joshua finished dividing up the land, the people of Israel wanted him to have an extra large inheritance, any one of his choice. ⁵⁰He thanked them but asked only for the city of Timnath Serah (also called Timnath Herez, meaning The Portion That Remains) located in the mountains with his own tribe of Ephraim. It was not the best location, but he chose it to be near Shiloh where the Lord's Sanctuary was located. The Lord agreed to this, so Joshua rebuilt the city and settled there. ⁵¹These were the territories that Eleazar the high priest, Joshua the son of Nun, and the leaders of Israel assigned to the tribes by drawing lots in the presence of the Lord at Shiloh. Thus they finished dividing up the land among all the tribes of Israel.

Cities of Refuge

20 Then the Lord spoke to Joshua, ²“Tell the people of Israel to pick out six cities as cities of refuge as I told them to do through my servant Moses. ³These cities are for anyone who kills somebody unintentionally, so he can quickly go there and escape from the victim's relatives. ⁴When a man who did something like that gets to one of these cities, he is to stand before the elders at the city gate and state his case. They are to allow him to stay and also give him a place to live. ⁵If any of the victim's relatives come after him, the elders are not to turn the accused over to them, because what he did was done unintentionally. ⁶His case is to be heard before the appointed assembly. If they agree that it wasn't a case of murder, they are to issue an order for him to stay in the city until the death of the high priest. His passing will symbolically atone for the man's guilt, after which the man is free to go home. If they find that he's guilty of murder, they are to turn him loose and the victim's relative who is seeking revenge may put him to death.”

⁷So west of Jordan the people of Israel selected the city of Kedesh in Galilee in the territory of Naphtali, Shechem in the mountains of Ephraim, and Kiriath Arba (also called Hebron) in the territory of Judah. ⁸On the east side of the Jordan River they picked out Bezer in the territory of Reuben, Ramoth in Gilead in the territory of Gad, and Golan in Bashan in the territory of Manasseh. ⁹These were the cities that the children of Israel selected for their people and for the aliens living among them to run to if they killed someone unintentionally. This way they could escape from the dead man's relatives and stand trial before an impartial assembly.

Cities for the Levites

21 The Levites voiced concern about their inheritance, and the heads of the families went to talk to Eleazar the high priest, Joshua the son of Nun and the leaders of Israel there at Shiloh. ²The Levites said to them, "The Lord told Moses that once we got to the Promised Land, you would give us cities to live in and pasturelands around them for our livestock." ³So the people of Israel gave the Levites cities and pasturelands from their own territories just as the Lord had promised.

⁵The rest of the descendants of Levi through Kohath were given ten cities from the tribes of Ephraim, Dan and the half-tribe of Manasseh that was this side of Jordan.

⁷The descendants of Levi through his son Merari were given twelve cities from the tribes of Reuben, Gad and Zebulun.

⁸Altogether the children of Israel gave the descendants of Levi forty-eight cities with pasturelands. This was as the Lord had instructed them, so as to scatter them among the various tribes.

⁹The children of Judah and Simeon were the first to give cities to the descendants of Levi through Kohath, ¹⁰because they were the descendants of Aaron who served as priests. ¹¹They gave them the city of Kiriath Arba (also called Hebron) with its pasturelands. The city was situated in the mountains of Judah and was named after Arba, the forefather of Anak, who was the father of giants. ¹²But the surrounding villages with their pasturelands belonged to Caleb, the son of Jephunneh.

¹³In addition to the city of Hebron, which also was a city of refuge, the children of Judah and Simeon gave the descendants of Aaron the cities of Libnah, ¹⁴Jattir, Eshtemoa, ¹⁵Holon, Debir, ¹⁶Ain, Juttah and Beth Shemesh with their pasturelands. Altogether there were nine cities from the tribes of Judah and Simeon. ¹⁷From the tribe of Benjamin the descendants of Levi through Kohath and through Aaron received Gibeon, Geba, ¹⁸Anathoth and Almon with their pasturelands. So there were four cities from Benjamin. ¹⁹Altogether there were thirteen cities with pasturelands that were given to the descendants of Aaron.

²⁷The other half-tribe of Manasseh gave to the descendants of Levi through his son Gershon, Golan in Bashan, which also was a city of refuge, and Be Eshtarah with their pasturelands. This gave them two cities. ²⁸The tribe of Issachar gave them Kishon, Daberath, ²⁹Jarmuth and En Gannim with their pasturelands. This gave them four additional cities. ³⁰The tribe of Asher gave them Mishal, Abdon,³¹ Helkath and Rehob with their pasturelands. This gave them four more cities.³² The tribe of Naphtali gave them Kedesh in Galilee, a city of refuge, and Hammoth Dor and Kartan with their pasturelands. This gave them three more cities.³³ Altogether the descendants of Levi through Gershon received thirteen cities with pasturelands.

³⁴The tribe of Zebulun gave the descendants of Levi through his son Merari, Jokneam, Kartah,³⁵ Dimnah and Nahalal with their pasturelands—a total of four cities.³⁶ The tribe of Reuben gave them Bezer, a city of refuge, Jahaz,³⁷ Kedemoth and Mephaath with their pasturelands. This gave them four more cities.³⁸ The tribe of Gad gave them Ramoth in Gilead, a city of refuge, and Mahanaim,³⁹ Heshbon and Jazer with their pasturelands. This gave them an additional four cities.⁴⁰ Altogether there were twelve cities which were given to the descendants of Levi through Merari.

⁴¹This made a total of forty-eight cities that were given to the tribe of Levi for their inheritance.⁴² Each of these cities and towns had pasturelands for the livestock of the Levites.

Peace on All Sides

⁴³So the Lord brought the children of Israel into the land He had promised them through their forefathers, and they took possession of it and settled there.⁴⁴ The Lord also gave them peace on all sides just as He had promised He would. Not one of their enemies attacked them because of all the victories He had given the children of Israel.⁴⁵ The Lord kept every one of His promises that He had made. Not one of them failed.

Eastern Tribes Return Home

22 Then Joshua called together the men of Reuben, Gad and the half-tribe of Manasseh and said to them,² “You have done everything that Moses the servant of the Lord asked you to do and you have carried out all my orders.³ You’ve been away from home for a long time and haven’t deserted your brothers but have helped them possess the land just as the Lord asked you to do.⁴ Now that the tribes have settled in the land that the Lord promised to give them, you are free to go. You’re released from your obligation. Go back home to your families and to the land on the other side of Jordan that Moses gave you as your inheritance.⁵ But be careful to keep the commandments of the Lord that Moses the servant of God gave us. This means to love the Lord your God with all your heart and soul, to walk in His ways, to obey Him and to hold on to Him and serve Him with all your mind and strength.”⁶ Then Joshua blessed them and sent them home. So they went back to their families and their land and lived in peace.

⁷The tribe of Manasseh had been divided, with only half of this tribe living east of Jordan and the other half living west of Jordan. So it was only the men from half of this tribe living east of Jordan in Bashan that were included with the others in this farewell address. Joshua blessed all the men, and said,⁸ “You’re going back home with large herds of livestock, with lots of gold, silver, bronze and iron, and with huge quantities of cloth and clothing. Share these things with your brothers back home who couldn’t come and fight beside you. They, too, deserve a share of what you took from our enemies.”⁹ So the men of Reuben, Gad and half the tribe of Manasseh left their brothers at Shiloh and returned home to the land that was given to them in Gilead by the Lord through Moses.

The Altar at Jordan

¹⁰When the men got to Gilgal and had crossed Jordan, they stopped and built an altar to the Lord like the one at Shiloh, near the place where the Lord had opened the river to bring them into Canaan. ¹¹When the other tribes heard about this altar that had been built on the other side of the Jordan River, ¹²they met at Shiloh, ready to go to war against their brothers, because building another altar was forbidden by God.

¹³But before they did so, they sent Phinehas the priest, the son of Eleazar, to the land of Gilead to talk to the leaders of Reuben, Gad and half of Manasseh to find out what this was all about. ¹⁴They also sent with him ten leading men, one from each tribe, each man the head of a division in his tribe. ¹⁵They crossed Jordan and went into the land of Gilead to talk to the leaders of the three tribes and said to them, ¹⁶“How could you do such a wicked thing against the God of Israel by building an altar for yourselves? This sort of thing destroys Israel’s unity and it’s nothing short of rebellion against God! ¹⁷Have you forgotten our sin at Peor when the Moabite women tempted some of us to worship their gods and how the Lord sent a plague on us? Some of our families are still suffering today from the shame and loss of our loved ones there. Have you forgotten the discipline of the Lord? ¹⁸Are you now doing the same thing? If you turn against the Lord, we’ll all suffer the consequences. ¹⁹Do you feel that your land is not blessed because the Lord’s Sanctuary isn’t here? If so, why did you choose to settle over here? If you are unhappy, why not come and live with us where the Lord’s Sanctuary is, and we’ll be glad to have you. But whatever you do, don’t rebel against the rest of us and the Lord by building a copy of His altar just for yourselves. ²⁰When Achan, the son of Zerah, disobeyed the Lord and took those things out of Jericho and hid them in his tent, the Lord disciplined all of us. Achan wasn’t the only one who was killed that day but also a number of our fighting men who had attacked the city of Ai.”

²¹Then the leaders of the three tribes answered their brothers, ²²“The Lord God is the only God! He is the God of gods! He knows why we built this altar, and we’ll be glad to tell you. If what we did was an act of rebellion and disobedience, then we deserve to die. ²³If we built that altar for ourselves to offer our sacrifices on or for our grain and fellowship offerings, may the Lord do with us as He sees fit. ²⁴No! That wasn’t the reason for this altar. We were afraid that someday your descendants wouldn’t accept us as a part of Israel or let us worship with you. We did it as a witness to everyone who passes by to let them know that we are one people so no one can say that Reuben, Gad and Manasseh have nothing to do with Israel. ²⁵They might think that the Jordan River is a natural boundary between us. If that happens, your descendants might keep our descendants from worshiping the Lord with them. ²⁶So we decided to build a copy of the Lord’s altar that’s at Shiloh, not in order to have our own place of worship for our offerings and sacrifices. ²⁷Our idea was just the opposite. We built the altar as a witness that we are one people and that we have one faith. We built it for our descendants to let them know that no river can separate us from you and that we will bring our sacrifices and offerings to the Lord at His Sanctuary. This way your children can never say to our children that they are not part of Israel and don’t belong to the Lord. ²⁸If anyone ever brings up the idea of separation, we’ll be able to say to him, ‘Look at that altar. What does it tell you? It’s a copy of the Lord’s altar to let you know that we belong to Him. It’s not a separate place of worship!’ ²⁹God forbid that we should rebel against Him! We want to continue serving our God. We have no intention of having our own altar for our offerings and sacrifices. We plan to worship the Lord at His Sanctuary. We didn’t build the altar as an act of defiance and separateness, neither did we build it to say that now that we’ve helped you win your land, we’ll have nothing more to do with you.”

³⁰When Phinehas the priest and the leaders of the ten tribes heard what the people of Reuben, Gad and Manasseh had in mind when they built a copy of the Lord's altar, they were very pleased. ³¹Then Phinehas said to the leaders of Reuben, Gad and Manasseh, "Now we know that the Lord is still with us and that we are still one people. We were afraid that the Lord might have left us because of your disobedience. But you have not rebelled against the Lord and opened the way for Him to discipline us as we had thought."

³²So Phinehas, the son of Eleazar the high priest, and the other leading men went back home and told the people about the meeting they had had with the leaders of the three tribes in the land of Gilead. ³³When the people heard the report, they were glad. They praised the Lord for the faithfulness of their brothers across the Jordan and never again talked of going to war against them and destroying the land in which Reuben, Gad and Manasseh had settled. ³⁴Then the people of Reuben, Gad and Manasseh named the altar they had built The Witness. And they inscribed on it, "This altar is a witness to our common faith that the Lord is God."

Joshua's Farewell Address

23 Some years after the Lord had brought Israel into the Promised Land and given them peace, Joshua, who was very old, ²called together the elders, leaders, judges and officials of the people and said to them, "I'm now old. ³You have seen what the Lord our God has done for us in defeating our enemies. He has done this for our sake. He is the One who fought for us and gave us the victory. ⁴I have divided the land among all the tribes, that which was taken, as well as the land that still needs to be taken. You've been given a land that goes all the way from the Jordan River in the east to the Mediterranean Sea in the west. ⁵The Lord will help you gain control over the rest of the nations that are left. He will drive them out ahead of you as you advance. This is what He has done in the past and what He promises to do again. ⁶So be strong and of good courage and carefully do what is written in the book of the law given us by the Lord through His servant Moses. Don't turn away from it either to the right or to the left.

⁷"Don't develop friendships with the nations that remain among you. There's danger in that. Don't get involved in worshipping their gods or in using their demonic powers to help you accomplish something. You are not to mention the name of their gods in conversation, bow down to them, swear by them or serve them. ⁸You need to hold on to the Lord your God and do what He asks you to do, just as you're doing now. ⁹The Lord has helped you to defeat some powerful people, and no army has been able to stand up against you. ¹⁰The reason that just a few of you can chase and defeat a thousand is because of the Lord, not because of your strength. It's the Lord who's fighting for you. ¹¹So be sure to hold on to the Lord your God and love Him. ¹²If you turn away from Him and begin to worship the gods of these nations and befriend their people and marry their sons and daughters, ¹³you can be sure that the Lord will no longer fight for you. He will not help you drive out the remaining nations. These people will become like a trap and a snare to you. Their wicked practices will be as whips driving you toward more wickedness, and as thorns in your eyes so that you can't see what's wrong. Little by little they'll take back the land the Lord has given you.

¹⁴"My time has come to die, but before I go, I want to remind you that not one of God's promises has failed. He did for us everything He said He would and more. ¹⁵Just as every good promise of the Lord has come true, so will His prediction of coming evil if you turn to other gods. He will not hesitate to allow you to be taken over by your enemies and dispossessed of the land He has given you. ¹⁶If you break the covenant of the Lord which He made with you, and serve other gods and worship them, the Lord will have to turn away from you and allow you to be driven from the land."

The Covenant Repeated

24 Then Joshua had all the tribes of Israel come to Shechem. He also had the Ark brought there for the occasion, because it was here that God had first made his covenant with Abraham about the land. When all the tribes were there, Joshua asked the elders, leaders, judges and officials of Israel to come up and present themselves before the Lord. He said to the people, ²"The Lord God of Israel has given me a message for you. This is what He said: 'Long ago your forefathers lived on the other side of the Euphrates River. The family of Terah, the father of Abraham and Nahor, began to yield to the influence of idolatry. ³So I decided to call Abraham out from there and he obeyed. I took him from the other side of the Euphrates and brought him into Canaan which was then under Egyptian control and gave him a son and many descendants. I gave him Isaac. ⁴To Isaac I gave two sons, Jacob and Esau. I gave Esau the mountains around Edom, but I sent Jacob and his family to Egypt. ⁵The Egyptians afflicted them. So I raised up Moses and Aaron to bring Jacob's descendants out of Egypt. I used plagues until Pharaoh let them go. ⁶When I brought your fathers out of Egypt, you came to the Red Sea. Pharaoh and his army went after your fathers with chariots and horses to take them back. ⁷Then they cried for help, so I put darkness between you and the Egyptians. I opened the Red Sea for you and then closed the waters over the heads of the Egyptians. Although many of you were young, you saw all this with your own eyes. Then I led you to Sinai and on through the wilderness. ⁸I brought you to the land of the Amorites, east of Jordan. They fought against you but I delivered you and gave them into your hands. I fought against them so you could safely take possession of their land. ⁹When Balak, the son of Zippor and king of Moab, decided to stand his ground and not let you pass, he sent for Balaam, the son of Beor, to come and curse you. ¹⁰But I didn't listen to Balaam and instead made him bless you. This put fear in the heart of the king and you defeated him. ¹¹Then you crossed over Jordan and came to Jericho. The men of Jericho decided to fight against you, as did the Amorites, Perizzites, Canaanites, Hittites, Girgashites, Hivites and Jebusites, but I gave all of them into your hands. ¹²I sent hornets ahead of you to drive the people out. This drove the Amorite kings into a panic and you were able to take possession of the land. You didn't do all this by yourselves with your swords and bows. ¹³I gave you the land as I promised. You never worked for it or bought it. The cities you live in you never built, and you eat from vineyards and olive groves that you never planted."

¹⁴Then Joshua said, "So be grateful to the Lord for what He has done for you. Respect Him and serve Him with all your heart and soul and mind. Don't worship false gods as your fathers did on the other side of the Euphrates and in Egypt. Serve the Lord. ¹⁵If you can't serve Him and Him alone, then make up your minds whom you will serve. Will it be the gods from beyond the Euphrates, the gods of Egypt or the gods of the Amorites where you live? Make up your minds once and for all. As for me and my family, we've made up our minds. We will serve the Lord!"

¹⁶Then the people said, "We will not leave the Lord nor serve other gods! ¹⁷It was the Lord who brought us out of Egypt, out of the house of bondage, and did all these great things to free us. He was the One who led us safely through the wilderness and kept us from being wiped out by our enemies who were all around us. ¹⁸He was the One who brought us to the Promised Land. So we also have made up our minds that we and our families will serve the Lord. He is our God!"

¹⁹Joshua said, "But you're not capable of serving the Lord in your own strength. You need to recognize how unable you are to do this. God is holy and will accept no other gods. If you disobey Him and rebel, He will not forgive you until you confess your sins and change. ²⁰If you turn to other gods, He will bring disasters on you in the hope of turning you around. Then if you continue in your disobedience and rebellion, He will bring an end to you as His people, even after He has done all this for you." ²¹When the people heard this they said, "No! This will never happen! We have made up our minds to serve the Lord!"

²²Then Joshua said, "You're your own witnesses as to what you just said, that you will serve the Lord and Him only." The people answered, "We are our own witnesses." ²³"If that's so," Joshua responded, "then get rid of those foreign gods you're still carrying around and give yourselves totally to the Lord." ²⁴The people answered, "We promise to give ourselves totally to the Lord and to worship Him and Him alone. We promise to always serve and obey Him." ²⁵Then Joshua made a covenant with the people that day at Shechem and gave them laws that would help them stay close to the Lord. ²⁶He wrote all these down in a book, then took a large stone that was nearby and set it at the foot of a huge oak tree close to where the priest had set the Ark of the Lord. ²⁷He said, "Take a good look. This stone is our witness. It heard what the Lord said and everything that we said. It will stay here as a witness to keep you from going against your word and turning away from the Lord." ²⁸Then Joshua blessed the people and sent them home, each to his own land.

Joshua Dies and Is Buried in Ephraim

²⁹Soon afterward, Joshua, the son of Nun and servant of the Lord, died. He was one hundred and ten years old. ³⁰The people buried him on his own land at Timnath Serah which is in the mountains of Ephraim just north of Mount Gaash.

³¹The Israelites faithfully served the Lord all the days of Joshua and all the days of the older leaders who were with him and who had seen all the things the Lord had done for His people.

³²Now the body of Joseph, which the children of Israel had brought with them out of Egypt and had carried with them all these years, was finally buried. They buried it at Shechem on the land that Jacob had bought years before from the sons of Hamor, father of Shechem, for a hundred pieces of silver. This was the land that was part of the inheritance of the sons of Joseph.

³³Soon after this, Eleazar, the high priest and son of Aaron, also died. They buried him at Gibeah, on the land near the city where his son Phinehas lived, in the mountains of Ephraim.

JUDGES

The Conquest of Canaan Continues

1 After the death of Joshua, the children of Israel said to the Lord, "Which tribe should be the first to go and fight for us against the Canaanites?" ²The Lord answered, "Judah should go first. I will go with them and give the land into their hands." ³Then the men of Judah talked to the people of Simeon, who lived just south of them and said, "Come and help us fight our enemies. With your help we'll be better able to take possession of our territory. Then when it's your turn to fight, we'll help you conquer your territory."

⁴So Judah and Simeon joined forces and went into battle, and the Lord gave the Canaanites and Perizzites into their hands, and they defeated ten thousand men at the battle of Bezek. ⁵During the engagement, Adoni Bezek, the king of Bezek, personally led his men into battle, but he was still defeated. ⁶When he saw that he had lost, he tried to get away, but the Israelites caught him and cut off his thumbs and his big toes so that he couldn't hold a sword or run. ⁷Then Adoni Bezek said, "I've defeated seventy kings in my life and cut off their thumbs and big toes and then watched as they tried to pick up the food I threw to them under my table. Now the Lord has done to me as I have done to them." They brought him to the city of Jebus (later called Jerusalem) where he lived until his death.

⁸It was after the battle of Bezek that the men of Judah attacked the city of Jebus, killed many of its people, then set a part of the city on fire and left. ⁹Then the men of Judah turned and fought the Canaanites in the mountains, in the foothills and in the Negeb, the dry and arid land in the south. ¹⁰They fought the Canaanites who lived in Hebron, formerly called Kiriath Arba, and defeated the people of Sheshai, Ahiman and Talmai, the descendants of three families of giants.

¹¹Caleb and his men fought the people of Debir, formerly Kiriath Sepher. ¹²The city was difficult to take, so Caleb said, "The one who breaks through the defenses and leads his men to take the city, I will offer him my daughter Achsah in marriage." ¹³Then Othniel, the son of Caleb's younger brother Kenaz, broke through the defenses and led his men to take the city. So Caleb offered his youngest daughter to him in marriage and she agreed. ¹⁴Now Achsah had asked Othniel for permission to ask her father for a certain field as an additional wedding gift. A few days later she got on her donkey and went to visit her father. He came out to meet her and said, "What can I do for you?" ¹⁵She said, "Father, as my inheritance, you have given me some land in the south where it's dry and arid. If you want to give me an additional wedding present, give me some springs of water to irrigate my fields." So Caleb gave his daughter Achsah two fields with springs, one above the dry land and one below.

¹⁶About this time the descendants of Moses's father-in-law decided to leave the city of Jericho with its palm trees and move south to the arid part of Judah near the city of Arad and live among the Amalekites. ¹⁷The troops of Judah and Simeon continued their campaign and attacked the Canaanite city of Zephath and totally destroyed it. They renamed it Hormah, meaning Devoted to Destruction.

¹⁸The men of Judah continued on alone and headed north along the coast of the Mediterranean, taking the cities of Gaza, Ashkelon and Ekron with their surrounding villages. ¹⁹The Lord was with the men of Judah as they took the land in the mountains and some of the cities along the coast. After that, they headed for the cities of the plains but they could not drive the people out because the people defended themselves with chariots of iron. The men of Judah had preserved the altars of Baal, so the Lord left them to their own devices and they were unable to defeat the people of the plains. ²⁰As Moses had promised over forty years before, the city of Hebron was given to Caleb, who defeated the descendants of three families of giants. ²¹In the meantime the men of Benjamin failed to dislodge the people left in the city of Jebus because they, too, had preserved the altars of Baal, and the Lord did not help them.

²²When the troops of Ephraim and Manasseh, the descendants of Joseph, attacked Bethel, the Lord went with them and they took the city. ²³Before their attack, they sent some of their men to spy out the fortifications of Bethel, formerly called Luz. ²⁴When the men saw someone coming out of the city, they took hold of him and said, "Tell us how to get past these heavy fortifications and we'll be kind to you." ²⁵So he told them. Then they attacked the city and spared no one except the man who had helped them and his family. ²⁶He and his family moved to the land of the Hittites and built a city there. They called it Luz and its name was never changed.

Conquest Not Completed

²⁷But Manasseh did not take the cities of Beth Shan, Taanach, Dor, Ibleam, Meggido and the surrounding villages. So the Canaanites continued to live there. ²⁸Even after the children of Israel became strong, they did not drive out the Canaanites from the land but used them as cheap labor and forced these people to work for them. ²⁹Nor did Ephraim take the city of Gezer, so the Canaanites continued to live there too.

³⁰Neither did Zebulun take the cities of Kitron or Nahalol, so the Canaanites continued to live there and were forced to work for Zebulun. ³¹The tribe of Asher did the same thing. They couldn't conquer the cities of Acco, Sidon, Ahlab, Achzib, Helbah, Aphek or Rehob. ³²So the descendants of Asher lived among the Canaanites and there were so many of them that the people of Asher couldn't force anyone to work for them.

³³The people of Naphtali couldn't take the cities of Beth Shemesh or Beth Anath so they, too, had to live among a large population of Canaanites, but they succeeded in forcing some of them to be their servants. ³⁴The children of Dan tried to take the plains, but the Amorites who lived there drove them back into the hills. ³⁵So the Amorites continued to live in the cities of Aijalon, Shaalbim and Mount Heres. But when the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh grew stronger, they did force some of the Amorites to work for them. ³⁶The original territory of the Amorites had extended south, all the way to the huge rock by the Akrabbim or Scorpion Pass and on to Sela beyond the Dead Sea.

Israel's Disobedience

2 The Angel of the Lord, who had been with the children of Israel in Gilgal, appeared to them in Bochim and said to the leaders, "I am the One who brought you out of Egypt and into the land I promised to your forefathers. I told them I would always be merciful to you and would never break my covenant. ²I made this same agreement with you. You were not to enter into any kind of treaty or agreement with the people of the land. You were not to worship their gods but to break down all their altars and destroy them. But you did not listen. You have disobeyed me. How could you do this? ³That's the reason I could not help you drive out the rest of the Canaanites. They will be a constant thorn in your flesh. You will not be able to escape the enticement of their worship. Your love for their gods will increase and you'll be drawn to them even more than you are now."

⁴When the children of Israel heard what the Angel of the Lord said, they wept. ⁵That's why they called the place Bochim, meaning The Place Of Weeping. They also offered sacrifices to the Lord and repented of their sins. ⁶After Joshua had led the people in renewing the covenant, he sent them away so they could finish taking possession of the land.

After the Death of Joshua

⁷And the people served the Lord as long as Joshua and the older men lived who had seen what the Lord had done for Israel. ⁸Joshua, the son of Nun and servant of the Lord, was one hundred and ten years old when he died. ⁹They buried him at Timnath Heres in the mountains of Ephraim, north of Mount Gaash, on the land that was his.

Israel's Unfaithfulness

¹⁰After all the elders and leaders who had been with Joshua died, a generation grew up who forgot all about the kindness of the Lord and didn't appreciate the things He had done for Israel. ¹¹They began to worship Baal throughout the land of Israel, committing great wickedness against the Lord. ¹²Soon they turned away from the Lord altogether and in their hearts forgot how the God of their fathers had brought them out of the land of Egypt, and worshiped many gods which they learned about from the people. ¹³They not only worshiped Baal, the god whom they believed could make their fields more fertile, but also Ashtoreth, the nude goddess of love and war.

¹⁴So the Lord removed His protection from Israel, allowed robbers to attack their villages and take their possessions, and permitted their enemies to attack and destroy their cities. Whenever Israel attempted to retaliate, the Lord did not help them. So they were unable to stand up against any of their enemies. ¹⁵When the people did gather enough courage to fight, they lost, because the Lord was not on their side, just as He had said. But the children of Israel wouldn't listen and suffered greatly.

¹⁶Occasionally the Lord would raise up leaders from among the people who were His champions. They were called judges and would save Israel from their attackers. ¹⁷But the people refused to accept these victories as reminders of what the Lord could do for them. They continued to lust after other gods and worship them. They would not listen to the leaders the Lord sent them. Their forefathers under Joshua had obeyed the Lord, but they refused and went their own way.

¹⁸Sometimes the Lord would raise up a judge for them and the people would turn to the Lord and serve Him throughout the lifetime of that judge. Then the Lord would reach out to His people in compassion and deliver them from their oppression. ¹⁹But when the judge died, the people would return to idol worship and the next generation would become even more corrupt than their parents had been, adding even more gods and goddesses. They would stubbornly cling to their ways no matter what the Lord did to get their attention.

²⁰The Lord was very displeased and said to them, "Because my people insist on having their own way, breaking the covenant that I made with their ancestors and refusing to listen to me, ²¹I will not drive out any of the local inhabitants that Joshua left in the land when he died. ²²I will let these local people test Israel's love for me to see whether they will obey me as their fathers did when they first settled here."

²³So the Lord permitted the people whom Joshua had not driven out to remain in the land, for the children of Israel did not put their faith in Him to help them in their troubles. Because of their disobedience, He could not give Israel the victories He had planned for them.

Canaanites Not Driven Out

3 So the Lord left some of the original people in the land to test the faith of Israel, particularly the faith of those who had not been through the early wars of Canaan. ²He gave this new generation a taste of war and hardship so they would appreciate the peace and prosperity He had given them before. ³The people who were left in the land after Joshua's death were five Philistine rulers and their people, the various pockets of Canaanites, the Sidonians and the Hivites living in the Lebanese mountains from Mount Baal Hermon in the south to the Hamath Pass in the north. ⁴These people continually tested Israel's faith in the Lord to find out if they loved Him and would obey Him by keeping the commandments He had given them. ⁵So it was that the Israelites lived among the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites. ⁶They worshiped their gods, married their women and gave their own daughters in marriage to their sons.

Othniel's Leadership

⁷The Israelites continued to do evil in the sight of the Lord. They forgot all about Him and eagerly served the wooden poles of Baal or his counterpart Asherah. ⁸The Lord was deeply hurt over Israel's idolatry. So He decided to discipline them and wake them up to what they were doing. He allowed Cushan the Terrible, from upper Mesopotamia, to conquer part of Israel and subjugate the people for eight years. ⁹When these Israelites cried to the Lord for help, the Lord heard their prayers and raised up Othniel, the son of Caleb's younger brother Kenaz, to free the Israelites. ¹⁰The Spirit of the Lord came upon him and gave him wisdom, and he became the people's judge and leader. He raised up an army to fight against Cushan, and the Lord gave him the victory. ¹¹So that part of Israel was free again and all of Israel had peace for the next forty years until Othniel died.

Ehud's Leadership

¹²Then the Israelites again did what was evil in the sight of the Lord. So the Lord allowed Eglon, king of the Moabites, to subjugate another part of Israel. ¹³Eglon joined forces with the Ammonites and the Amalekites, and together they defeated the Israelites and took possession of Jericho, the City of Palms. ¹⁴Eglon, the king of Moab, subjugated that part of Israel for eighteen years.

¹⁵Again the children of Israel cried to the Lord for help and the Lord heard their prayers. He raised up Ehud, the son of Gera, a left-handed man from the tribe of Benjamin, to be their leader. The people asked him to go to Eglon with the tax money the king had demanded. ¹⁶Ehud had made a double-edged sword about eighteen inches long, which he strapped to his right upper leg under his robe. ¹⁷He insisted on giving the tax money to Eglon personally, who was a very fat man. ¹⁸As soon as the tax monies were brought in, Ehud sent the men home who had helped him carry it. Then he also left.

¹⁹But at the boundary stones near the city of Gilgal, he turned back to give Eglon a message. He was ushered into Eglon's presence and said, "I have a personal message from the Lord for the king, but it is a private message." Then the king shouted, "Quiet!" and told everyone to leave the room. ²⁰So the two men were alone in the summer room on the palace roof. As the king stood up, Ehud quietly said, "I have a message from the Lord." ²¹As he said this he stepped forward and with his left hand reached under his robe to his right thigh, which caused no suspicion on the part of the king for he thought that Ehud was reaching for the message. But Ehud pulled out his sword and with one quick thrust plunged it into the king's abdomen. ²²It went in so deep that the fat closed over the handle, and the blade came out the king's back. Since Ehud couldn't draw the sword out he just left it there. ²³Then he quickly stepped outside, locked the double doors of the upper room behind him and escaped.

²⁴A short time later the king's attendants went up to his room and found the doors still locked. They said to themselves, "The king must be taking care of his bodily needs, and that's why he's locked the doors." ²⁵They waited until they were embarrassed to be away from the king for so long. Then they took the key, quietly unlocked the doors, went in and saw the king lying dead on the floor.

²⁶While they had waited, Ehud escaped. He left the city, passing by the boundary stones, and headed for Seirah. ²⁷When he got to the mountains of Ephraim, he sounded the ram's horn. Then the Israelites came down from the hills with Ehud leading them into battle. ²⁸"Follow me!" he shouted, "The Lord has given the Moabites into our hands." So the men of Israel followed him and captured the places where the Jordan River could be easily crossed to prevent the Moabites from escaping. ²⁹They attacked the Moabites, and that day they killed ten thousand men, all very strong, hand-picked troops. ³⁰So Israel broke the power of the Moabites over them and there was peace in the land for the next eighty years.

Shamgar's Valor

³¹After Ehud died, Shamgar, the son of Anath, took over the leadership of Israel. He single-handedly killed six hundred Philistines in a narrow gorge with a sharp eight-foot long ox prod and freed a portion of Israel from their enemies.

Deborah Leads Out

4 After both Ehud and Shamgar had died, the children of Israel again forgot about the Lord and did evil in His sight. ²So the Lord let Jabin, one of the Canaanite kings who ruled from Hazor, subjugate part of Israel. The officer in charge of Jabin's troops was Sisera, who lived in the city of Harosheth Haggoiim, not far from Megiddo. ³Sisera had nine hundred iron chariots under his command, so he was able to take over that whole area of Israel and bring it under the control of Jabin. And Jabin, the Canaanite, was very cruel to the children of Israel and oppressed them for the next twenty years. So they cried for help.

⁴During this time Deborah, the prophetess, the wife of Lappidoth, governed Israel. ⁵She lived in the mountains of Ephraim and usually held court out in the open under a huge palm tree between the cities of Ramah and Bethel. The people called this tree The Palm of Deborah. ⁶Deborah sent for Barak, the son of Abinoam, who lived in Kedesh, in the land of Naphtali, part of the territory of Israel that Jabin the Canaanite took. When Barak came, she said to him, "This is what the Lord God of Israel said, 'I want you to call ten thousand men from Naphtali and Zebulun to meet you at Mount Tabor in the land of Issachar. ⁷I will see to it that Sisera takes his chariots and troops down the dry bed of the Kishon River to get ready to attack you. But I will deliver him into your hands.'"

⁸Barak said to her, "If you go with me, then I'll have victory just as Moses and the Israelites had victory when the Ark was with them in the past. But if you don't go, then I won't go." ⁹Then Deborah said, "All right, I'll go with you. But because of your lack of faith in the words of the Lord, the credit of killing Sisera will go to a woman and not to you." So Deborah went with him to Kadesh. ¹⁰From there Barak sent out a call for ten thousand men from Zebulun and Naphtali to fight Sisera. They followed him to Mount Tabor and Deborah went with them.

¹¹A man named Heber decided to leave Judah and move north to settle in Naphtali. He was a descendant of Hobab, Moses' brother-in-law, who along with other relatives of Moses had first settled in Judah. He pitched his tents near the great oak tree at Zaanannim, which is not far from the city of Kadesh.

¹²When Sisera heard that Barak, the son of Abinoam, had gathered ten thousand troops at Mount Tabor, ¹³he took his nine hundred chariots and his entire army and marched from Harosheth Haggoiim to the Kishon River.

¹⁴Then Deborah said to Barak, "Go! This day the Lord will give you the victory over Sisera. Our God has already gone ahead of you." So Barak left Mount Tabor, took his ten thousand men and marched out to battle. ¹⁵They attacked Sisera and the Lord helped them throw Sisera's chariots and army into total confusion. When Sisera saw that he had lost the battle, he left his chariot and fled on foot into the nearby mountains. ¹⁶Barak pursued the chariots and the army all the way back to Harosheth Haggoyim. All of Sisera's men were killed by the sword. Not one was left alive.

¹⁷Sisera escaped and headed north for about thirty miles until he came to the tent of Heber and his wife Jael. The family had been on good terms with the king of Hazor. ¹⁸Jael welcomed Sisera and said to him, "Sir, come on in. Don't be afraid. I'm alone." So he went in, found a corner and laid down, exhausted. She went over and covered him with a rug. ¹⁹He said to her, "I'm very thirsty. Could I have a drink of water?" So she opened a leather bag of milk and gave him a drink. This made him feel welcome and she covered him again. ²⁰Before he went to sleep, he quietly said to her, "Don't go away. Stay in the doorway of the tent and if anyone comes and asks you if someone is hiding here, tell him, 'No.'" ²¹When Jael, Heber's wife, was sure that Sisera was asleep, she took one of the tent stakes and a hammer and quietly approached him. He was totally exhausted and slept soundly. As he lay on his side, she gently positioned the tent stake on his temple and with one quick blow drove it through his head. Then she struck it again and drove it into the ground, and Sisera died.

²²A short time later, Barak came by in hot pursuit of Sisera. Jael was glad to see him and said, "Come, let me show you the man you're looking for." Barak went into the tent and Jael uncovered the body of Sisera who lay there dead, nailed to the ground with a tent stake in his head.

²³So the Lord gave Barak victory over Jabin, king of Hazor, and Sisera, his commander. ²⁴The Israelites continued to bear down on Jabin until they completely destroyed him and were free from his oppression.

The Song of Deborah

5 That day Deborah, the prophetess, and Barak, the son of Abinoam, praised the Lord and sang this victory song: ²"When the leaders in Israel took the lead, the people gladly gave of themselves. Praise the Lord!

³"Listen all you kings! Give us your attention all you rulers! We will sing to the Lord. We will play music to the God of Israel.

⁴"The Lord went before us as He did in the mountainous region of Sinai when our fathers came out of Egypt. He marched ahead of us as He did when we came into the region of Edom. He shook Mount Tabor. He sent mighty rains from heaven. ⁵Just as the mountains shook before the Lord at Sinai, so the earth shook at the presence of the God of Israel against Sisera.

⁶"In the days of Shamgar, the son and warrior of Anath, and in the days of Jael, the streets in Israel were empty. Merchants no longer came through the land and travelers took the back roads home. ⁷Life in the villages disappeared. The people were plundered and fled to the fortified cities for protection. Then the Lord raised up Deborah, a prophetess, who was like a loving mother to Israel.

⁸War had come to the land because Israel had gone after other gods. Cities came under siege and there was fighting in the gates. Not a spear or a shield was found among forty thousand men in Israel. They were forbidden to make weapons of war. ⁹Our hearts are with the men who risked their lives and willingly followed their commanders. Praise the Lord for their faith and courage!

Israel. They tell each other about the victories of the Lord and the courage of their men in battle.

¹²They say, 'Deborah gave us a new song and Barak led our armies to victory!' ¹³Then the faithful ones gathered around our leaders. The people of Israel came to Barak ready to go to war. ¹⁴Men of courage came from Ephraim and Benjamin. Captains came from Manasseh, and commanders came from Zebulun. ¹⁵The leaders in Issachar listened to Deborah and the men of Issachar rallied around Barak. But the people of Reuben were divided; they couldn't make up their minds. ¹⁶Why did the men of Reuben stay home with the sheep? Why did Reuben's leaders sit around their campfires talking about whether to come or not? ¹⁷The tribe of Gad stayed on the other side of Jordan. And Dan joined the Phoenicians in sailing the seas. Asher stayed at home to enjoy life on the coast. ¹⁸But the people of Zebulun were ready to lay down their lives to be free, and the men of Naphtali were ready to fight to throw off the yoke.

²⁴Blessed be Jael, the wife of Heber, the Kenite, the most courageous of women who live in tents. ²⁵Sisera asked for water and she gave him milk. She served him with a bowl fit for nobles.

²⁶She was not afraid, but used a tent stake and hammer to strike down Sisera. She pierced his temples and nailed him to the ground. ²⁷He struggled to free himself, but could not get up. Then he sank down in front of her and died. He lay dead at her feet.

²⁸'At home, his mother waited for him. She looked out the window and wondered why his chariot was delayed, why his horses were so slow in coming. ²⁹Her wisest ladies tried to comfort her. She believed them and said to herself, ³⁰'He'll be coming soon. He has found more villages to plunder and more spoils to take. He has found a girl or two for each of his trusted men. He has taken rich cloth for himself and embroidered dresses for me that are fit for a queen.'

³¹'Lord, may all your enemies perish like Sisera. But may those who love you shine as the rising sun.' So there was peace in Israel for the next forty years.

Gideon and the Midianites

6 Again the children of Israel forgot what the Lord had done for them and did evil in His sight. So the Lord allowed the Midianites to overrun a large part of the country and oppress the children of Israel for seven years. ²The Midianites were so cruel and oppressive that many Israelites went to live in caves and mountain hideouts. ³When the children of Israel planted their crops, the Midianites, who never settled in one place, would ask the Amalekites and other desert tribes to join them in plundering Israelite villages. ⁴They would set up camp and destroy the produce of the land all the way from Gaza in the south past the Sea of Galilee in the north. They left nothing untouched, killing all the sheep, donkeys and cattle they could find. ⁵They would swarm over the land like locusts, leaving it stripped. There were so many of them it was impossible to count them. They came with their camels and tents and ruined the land wherever they went. ⁶Israel was helpless against such numbers. So they turned to the Lord and cried for help.

⁷The Lord answered their prayers because they were terribly oppressed by the Midianites. ⁸Through a prophet He sent them this message: The God of Israel says, "I brought you up out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. ⁹I not only took you out of the hands of the Egyptians, but also gave you victory over the people who fought you in the land of Canaan. I drove them out before you and gave you their land as an inheritance. ¹⁰I told you that I am the Lord your God and that you should not worship other gods, but you didn't listen to me."

Gideon and the Angel of the Lord

¹¹Early one morning, the Angel of the Lord took on the appearance of a man and sat on a rock under an oak tree on the property belonging to Joash the Abiezrite. Nearby, his son Gideon was threshing grain inside an old dug-out winepress to keep from being detected by the Midianites. ¹²The Angel of the Lord said, "Gideon, the Lord is with you. You're a brave and mighty man."

¹³Gideon was startled but saw what looked like a fellow Israelite. So he said, "If the Lord is with us, then why has He let the Midianites overrun our country? Where are all His mighty acts that our fathers told us about? The Lord isn't with us. He's left us. That's why we're being overrun by these Midianites."

¹⁴The Angel of the Lord answered, "Go and save the children of Israel from the Midianites. Am I not the One who is sending you?"

¹⁵"But Sir," Gideon said, "how can I save Israel? My family is the smallest one in Manasseh. No one listens to us. Besides that, I'm the one that's least thought of among all my relatives." ¹⁶The Angel of the Lord said, "I'll go with you and you'll strike down every one of the Midianites as if they were one man." ¹⁷Gideon spoke up, "Are you really an angel of the Lord? Give me a sign so I can know who you are.

¹⁸Stay right there until I come back with an offering." He answered, "I'll stay here. Go and get your offering."

¹⁹So Gideon got a young goat, killed it, cooked its meat and also took flour and baked some unleavened bread. It was some time before everything was ready. Then he put some of the meat and bread in a basket and some of the broth in a pot and took them to the visitor. ²⁰The Angel said, "Take the meat and the bread and lay them on this rock and pour the broth over them." Gideon did as he was told. ²¹Then the Angel of the Lord touched the meat and bread with the stick in His hand, and fire came out of the rock and consumed them. Then He disappeared. ²²Gideon was convinced. He now knew that the Man he had been talking to was the Lord. He fell on his knees and said, "O Sovereign Lord! I have seen the Angel of the Lord face to face and I'm still alive! How can this be?"

²³Then the Lord spoke to Gideon, "Don't be afraid. I'm still here. You're not going to die." ²⁴That same day Gideon built a small altar there and called it The Altar of the Lord of Peace. For years the altar stood there, not far from the town of Ophrah in the land belonging to the descendants of Abiezer.

²⁵That night the Lord spoke to Gideon again, "Take your father's second bull, the one that's seven years old. Pull down the altar to Baal that belongs to your father and the wooden pole next to it that honors the fertility goddess Asherah. ²⁶Build an altar for me on that same hill with layers of natural stone. Use the wood from the Asherah pole to make a fire and then offer the bull as an offering to me." So the next morning Gideon told his father what the Lord wanted him to do, and his father agreed. ²⁷That night Gideon took ten of their farmhands and did exactly what the Lord had told him. He was afraid to do it during the day because the rest of the family and the townspeople might try to stop him.

Gideon Destroys the Altar Built for Baal

²⁸The next morning when the people got up, they saw that Baal's altar was gone, as was the pole of the goddess Asherah. They also noticed that a new altar had been built and that a bull had been offered on it. ²⁹They said to each other, "Who did this?" When they checked it out, they found that Gideon, the son of Joash, had done it. ³⁰So the men of the town went to Joash and said to him, "Tell your son Gideon to come out. He needs to die for what he has done. He pulled down the altar we built to Baal and cut down the pole we put up for the goddess Asherah."

³¹But Joash believed that the Lord had visited his son Gideon, so he stood up for him and said, "Why are you defending Baal? If Baal is a true god, he should be able to defend himself. Are you trying to save him? Let's wait until tomorrow morning. If by then Baal can't defend himself, then he's not a real god. And anyone who fights for him will be put to death." ³²That day the people called Gideon, Jerub Baal, meaning The Man Who Challenged Baal to Defend Himself, because of what his father Joash had said.

³³In the meantime, the Midianites, the Amalekites and some other desert tribes decided to join forces and make another raid on Israel. They crossed the Jordan River and camped in the Valley of Jezreel. ³⁴The Spirit of the Lord came upon Gideon. He blew the ram's horn and called together the men of Abiezer for battle. ³⁵He also sent messengers throughout the tribe of Manasseh, inviting their men to join him. Then he called on the tribes of Asher, Zebulun and Naphtali asking their men to come and fight the Midianites.

The Fleece

³⁶Gideon still had doubts in his mind and said to the Lord, "Lord, how can I fight against these well-armed Midianites? I'm not strong enough to save Israel. How do I know you'll be with me?"

³⁷Tonight I'm going to lay this piece of wool outside on the threshing floor. If by tomorrow morning the wool is wet and the ground around it is dry, then I'll know that you'll be with me."

³⁸The next morning Gideon got up and went out to see if the piece of wool was wet or dry. He noticed that the ground of the threshing floor was dry, but when he picked up the piece of wool and squeezed it, he got enough water from it to fill a small bowl. ³⁹As he thought about this, he decided that it wasn't a good test because wool always absorbs moisture. So he said, "Lord, please don't be upset with me. Let me ask for one more sign. This time make the ground around the wool wet and the piece of wool totally dry." ⁴⁰So that's what happened. The next morning the ground was wet with heavy dew and the piece of wool was totally dry.

Gideon's Force Reduced to Three Hundred

7 Early in the morning, Gideon, together with volunteers from different tribes, pitched camp at Harod's Spring. The Midianites were camped north of them in the valley below a hill called Moreh.

²Then the Lord said to Gideon, "You have too many men for me to use in defeating the Midianites. If I give you the victory with this many men, the people of Israel will think that they have done it. ³Say to the men, 'Anyone who is afraid and thinks we can't defeat the Midianites can go home now.'" About twenty-two thousand men left and about ten thousand stayed.

⁴The Lord spoke to Gideon again, "You still have too many men. March them down across the brook, and I'll sift them out for you. I'll tell you which ones should go with you and which ones should go home." ⁵So Gideon marched his men down to the brook, and the Lord said to him, "Stop and watch how the men drink. Some will hastily scoop up water with cupped hands like a dog lapping water with its tongue, all the time watching for the enemy. Others will get down on their knees, put their mouths to the water and leisurely drink.”⁶At the brook only three hundred men drank from cupped hands. All the rest got down on their knees to drink.⁷Then the Lord said to Gideon, “To save Israel I’ll use the three hundred who drank water in cupped hands. Send the rest of the men home.”⁸So Gideon ordered all the men who had gotten down on their knees to drink to leave their food supplies and their rams’ horns and go home. With the three hundred, he climbed the hill close to the Midianites who were camped in the valley.

⁹That night the Lord said to Gideon, “Get up and attack the Midianites. I will give them into your hands.”¹⁰But if you’re still afraid, then go down to their camp with Purah, your servant, and listen to what they are saying.¹¹What you’ll hear will give you courage.” So Gideon and Purah made their way down the valley to the edge of the enemy camp.

¹⁵When Gideon and his servant heard the dream and the meaning given to it by the Midianite, they bowed their heads to the ground and worshiped the God of Israel. Then they returned to camp. Gideon quietly woke his men and said, “Get up! The Lord is about to give the Midianites into our hands.”¹⁶He divided them into three groups of one hundred each and had each man take a ram’s horn and a clay jar with a smoldering torch inside.¹⁷He said to them, “We’ll quietly make our way to the edge of the enemy camp, and when we get there, watch me and my men and do what we do.”¹⁸We’ll surround the camp from three sides. When we blow our rams’ horns, then you blow yours so the sound will come from three directions at once, and then shout, “For the Lord! For Gideon!”

¹⁹So Gideon and his one hundred quietly made their way across the valley to the edge of the Midianite camp. It was about midnight when they got there, just after the changing of the guards. Then Gideon gave the signal and his men blew their rams’ horns, smashed their jars and waved their smoldering torches in the air which then burst into flames.²⁰As soon as the other two groups heard Gideon blow his ram’s horn, they blew theirs, broke their jars and waved their torches in the air, which also burst into flames. They held their flaming torches high with their left hands and had their rams’ horns in their right hands. Then they shouted, “A sword for the Lord! A sword for Gideon!”²¹All of Gideon’s men held their position, but the Midianites and the others broke into a panic, yelling and screaming as they ran.²²Then the Lord caused many of the Midianites and their allies to turn on each other, because they thought they were being attacked by Gideon. The rest of the Midianites ran in the direction of Beth Shittah toward Zererah. They ran as far as the border city Abel Meholah near Tabbath.²³Men from Naphtali, Asher and Manasseh were called to help go after the Midianites.

²⁴Gideon also sent messengers to the men of Ephraim, saying, “Come quickly and help us attack the Midianites! Cover the southern fords in the Jordan River up to Beth Barah." The men from the mountains of Ephraim responded to Gideon's order and hurried to help him. ²⁵They stopped a large number of the Midianites at the Jordan before they could cross, and in the process captured two Midianite generals, Oreb and Zeeb, also known as Raven and Wolf. They executed them on the spot, one by a huge rock, later called Raven's Rock, and the other by a winepress, later called Wolf's Winepress. The Ephraimites sent the severed heads of the two generals to Gideon, who by now was already on the other side of the Jordan River.

Gideon Frees Israel From the Midianites

8 The Ephraimites said to Gideon, "Why didn't you ask us to help you when you first went out to fight the Midianites? Why did you wait to call on us?" They were very angry with him. ²Gideon answered, "What I did in this battle was nothing compared to what you did. The last part of the battle was much more important, just as grapes grown in Ephraim are much better than the grapes my family can grow. ³God gave Oreb and Zeeb, the two Midianite generals into your hands, not into mine." When the Ephraimites heard Gideon's response, their anger dissolved and they were satisfied.

⁴Gideon and his three hundred men were already exhausted when they came to the Jordan River, yet they crossed over and continued to chase the Midianites. ⁵At Succoth Gideon said to the city fathers, "Please give my men some bread. They're exhausted but we need to go after the two Midianite kings, Zebah and Zalmunna." ⁶But the city fathers said, "You haven't captured them yet. How do we know that you can catch Zebah and Zalmunna? Why should we feed your troops and endanger our relationship with the two kings?"

⁷Gideon said, "After all you saw the Lord do for us, you still doubt? You just saw fifteen thousand Midianites on the run! If that's how you feel, we'll go on, but after the Lord gives Zebah and Zalmunna into our hands, we'll be back and I'll have all of you whipped with branches from your own thorn trees." ⁸Then Gideon and his weary men pushed on ahead to Penuel, several miles up the Jabbok Brook. He asked the city fathers there for bread, but they gave him the same answer as the people of Succoth. They also ridiculed them. ⁹Gideon said to them, "After the Lord gives us victory over the Midianites, we'll come back and tear down this fortified tower that you put so much trust in."

¹⁰Now Zebah and Zalmunna with their force of fifteen thousand were hiding out at Karkor on the edge of the desert. That's all who were left because the one hundred twenty thousand men who had made up the Midianite coalition had already been killed. ¹¹Gideon decided not to attack the two princes head-on, but made a wide circle around their camp following the trade route east of Nobah and Jogbehah, and then launched a surprise attack. ¹²Zeba and Zalmunna, the two kings, tried to get away, but Gideon and his men went after them and captured them. Then the Midianites panicked. Those who did fight were killed. The rest scattered in all directions.

¹³The Lord had given Gideon's men extra strength that day, but now they were totally exhausted. So after they had eaten from the supplies of the Midianites and rested, they returned with the two kings to Succoth by way of Heres Pass. ¹⁴On their way to Succoth, Gideon captured a young man from there and questioned him. He listed for Gideon seventy-seven officials of Succoth. ¹⁵When Gideon and his men got to Succoth, he said to the city fathers, "You wanted to see us capture Zebah and Zalmunna before you would give us something to eat. Well here they are!" ¹⁶Then he ordered the city fathers stripped to the waist and whipped with branches from their thorn trees just as he had said he would. He hoped this would teach them a lesson not to doubt what the Lord could do for the Israelites. ¹⁷But first Gideon and his men stopped at Penuel where his men had been ridiculed, and they tore down the fortified tower. Because the men of Penuel tried to defend the city, Gideon ordered his troops to kill all the men who were against him.

¹⁸After letting the people of Succoth see Zebah and Zalmunna, Gideon said to the two kings, "When you overran the land around Mount Tabor, what did the men you killed look like?" They said, "They looked like you. Everyone we captured and killed stood in front of us like a prince." ¹⁹Gideon said, "Those were my brothers. We all had the same mother. As the Lord lives, if you had not killed them, I wouldn't kill you." ²⁰Then he said to his son Jether, "Pull out your sword and kill these two kings." But Jether hesitated because he was still very young and had never killed anyone before. ²¹Then Zebah and Zalmunna said to Gideon, "This is a man's job. Why don't you do it yourself." So Gideon pulled out his sword and killed them. Then he took the gold ornaments from the necks of their camels and left the animals with the people of Succoth.

Gideon's Mistake

²²Gideon's men admired him for the leadership he had provided Israel, and they said to him, "You have saved us from the Midianites, so we want you and your descendants to be our leaders." ²³But Gideon said, "I will not be your ruler, neither will my sons or grandsons. The Lord is our ruler." ²⁴Then he said, "I do have one request. I would like each of you to give me one gold earring from your war booty before you leave." It was the custom of the Midianite and Ishmaelite troops to wear such earrings. ²⁵They said, "We'll gladly give you these earrings." So they spread out a cloth and everyone threw in the most valuable earring from their booty. ²⁶The earrings the men gave Gideon weighed forty-three pounds. They also gave him ornaments taken from the Midianites, including gold chains from the necks of their camels.

²⁷Gideon praised his men and dismissed them. When he got home, he made a vest and a breastpiece from his war booty like the one the high priest wore. Then he hung them up in his hometown as a reminder of what the Lord had done for Israel. He also erected an altar there to God, but he didn't ask the Lord about any of these things, and they became a spiritual snare to Gideon and his family. The people of Israel abandoned the program of worship Gideon reinstated for the Lord and instead, worshiped and offered sacrifices to the vest with its breast-piece, as if it were an idol. ²⁸But the Midianites had been defeated by the Israelites, and the land had peace for the next forty years.

²⁹Gideon stayed in Ophrah where he had grown up, and lived there the rest of his life. ³⁰He had a harem of many wives, and over the years, he had seventy sons. ³¹He also had a Canaanite servant woman who lived in Shechem and she bore him a son whom he named Abimelech. ³²Gideon lived for many years. They buried him in the family tomb where his father Joash was buried, which was in Ophrah in the land of the descendants of Abiezer.

³³No sooner had Gideon died than the children of Israel again returned to the worship of Baal. They renewed their agreement with the Canaanites to have a common worship as a sign of peace and reopened the temple of Baal in Shechem. ³⁴They forgot all about the Lord and what He had done for them and how He had rescued them from the oppressive hands of the Midianites. ³⁵They also forgot all about what Gideon and his family had done for Israel.

Abimelech Kills His Brothers

9 Now Abimelech, the son of Gideon from the Canaanite woman in Shechem, went to his mother's relatives who lived there and said to them, ²"Go and ask the townspeople whether they want the seventy sons of Gideon to continue to govern them, or just one man, one of their own." ³His uncles went to the city fathers and talked to them about this, and they decided that Abimelech should be the man to govern them because he was not only Gideon's son, but their relative through his mother. ⁴To help him get set up, they gave him seventy pieces of silver which they took from the temple of Baal. He used the money to hire seventy blood-thirsty men as bodyguards. ⁵He took these men with him to Ophrah, his father's hometown, and asked his seventy half-brothers to meet him by the altar of the Lord that his father Gideon had built. When they came, he had his bodyguards kill them as human sacrifices. Gideon's youngest son, Jotham, was able to escape and went and hid. ⁶When Abimelech and his men returned home, the city fathers of Shechem and Beth Millo got together under the great tree by the stone pillar that Joshua had set up years before as a witness to what the Lord had done for Israel, and they made Abimelech their king.

The Parable of the Trees

⁷When Jotham heard that a festival was being planned at Shechem, he climbed Mount Gerizim nearby and shouted down to the people who had come for the celebration, "Listen to me! Listen to me, so God may listen to you!" ⁸One day the trees decided to pick a king. They said to the olive tree, 'You be our king.' ⁹But the olive tree said, 'Should I stop producing my rich oil which is used to honor gods and men, and do nothing but sway over other trees?' ¹⁰So they went to the fig tree and said, 'Come be our king.' ¹¹But the fig tree said, 'Should I give up producing sweet, delicious figs and do nothing but sway over trees?' ¹²Then the trees went to the vine and said, 'Come be our king.' ¹³But the vine said, 'Should I give up growing grapes used for offerings to God and for juice to cheer the hearts of men, and do nothing but sway over other trees?' ¹⁴Finally, the trees decided to go to the scraggly thornbush. They said, 'We want you to be our king.' ¹⁵The thornbush said, 'If you want me to be your king, then come and take refuge in my shadow. If you don't do this, then let fire come out from my branches and consume all of you, including the giant cedars of Lebanon.'

¹⁶Jotham continued, "Are you being honest with yourselves? Are you making Abimelech king because he really deserves it? Have you been fair to the house of Gideon? Have you honored him as he deserves? ¹⁷Have you forgotten that he risked his life for you? Have you forgotten that he freed you from the oppression of the Midianites? ¹⁸Today you have insulted him. You have killed all his sons except me. You have honored Abimelech because he's your relative. You have made the son of my father's servant woman your king. ¹⁹If you have done right, if you have honored Gideon in this, may you be happy with Abimelech and he with you! ²⁰But if not, may fire come from him and destroy Shechem and Beth Millo, and may fire come from you and destroy Abimelech!" ²¹Then Jotham ran to the city of Beer and lived there because he was afraid that Abimelech would kill him.

Downfall of Abimelech

²²After Abimelech had been king for three years, ²³God allowed Abimelech and the people of Shechem to become disenchanted with each other. The people rebelled against Abimelech and, in turn, he hated them. ²⁴So they ended up paying for the evil they had committed against Gideon when they had encouraged Abimelech to kill Gideon's seventy sons. ²⁵Then the men of Shechem laid a trap for Abimelech. They went up on a nearby hill and robbed everyone who came along the road to Shechem. Abimelech heard about this and realized it would endanger his popularity as a leader unless he went after these men.

²⁶A man named Gaal, the son of Ebed, moved with his brothers from beyond Jordan to Shechem. Soon the people looked to him as their leader. ²⁷During harvest time they went into the vineyards to pick grapes, crushed them and let the juice ferment. Then they held a festival in the temple of Baal. While they were eating and drinking, they began to curse Abimelech. ²⁸Gaal sneered, "Who is Abimelech anyway? Why should we serve him? Isn't he the son of Gideon? Isn't it better to have a pure Canaanite rule over us than a half-breed? Isn't it better to be ruled by a descendant of Hamor, the first king of Shechem? Why should we listen to Abimelech and Zebul his appointed governor? ²⁹If you would make me your leader, I'd get rid of both of them for you. I'm ready to challenge Abimelech's whole army."

³⁰Zebul attended the festival and heard this, and he became very angry. ³¹Under the cover of night he sent messengers to Abimelech who was at his other palace in nearby Arumah, saying, "Gaal, the son of Ehed, and his kinfolk are stirring up the people of Shechem against you. ³²So you and your men should go there at night and wait in the fields outside the city. ³³At sunrise, attack the city. When Gaal and his men come out to fight, go at them with all the force you have."

³⁴Abimelech followed Zebul's advice, took his men and under the cover of darkness marched to Shechem. Then he divided them into four companies and had them hide in different spots some distance from the city. ³⁵Gaal got up early that morning and went to the city gate to stand next to Zebul, who was there conducting the city's business.

Gaal spotted Abimelech's men in the distance and got nervous. ³⁶He turned to Zebul and said, "Look! There are men in the field and on the hillside! They look like Abimelech's men!" Zebul said, "You're seeing things. Those are the shadows of swaying trees on the mountains. Relax." ³⁷But Gaal spoke up, "Look! Men are coming down the slopes! Others are coming along the road over there by the fortune-teller's tree." ³⁸Zebul said, "Sure enough. Those are Abimelech's men. Why aren't you bragging now? Aren't these the men you challenged to a fight? Here's your chance!" ³⁹Then Gaal ran back into the city and called the men together and went out to fight Abimelech. ⁴⁰Abimelech attacked Gaal and his men from four directions at once, killing many of them before they reached the city gates. ⁴¹Then Abimelech went back to Arumah, and Zebul and his men drove Gaal and his brothers out of the city back across Jordan.

⁴²The next day Abimelech got word that the people of Shechem were going out into the field to finish harvesting their grapes. ⁴³So he divided his men into three groups and had them hide in the vineyards. When the people came out to harvest, he ordered his men to attack and kill them. ⁴⁴Abimelech took one of the groups and positioned himself by the city gates. The other two groups attacked the people in the fields. ⁴⁵That whole day Abimelech fought the men of Shechem. Eventually he took the city, killed everyone in it, set fire to it and then in a symbolic gesture of hate, scattered salt over the city's ashes as a sign that nothing should ever grow there.

⁴⁶Some of the leading men of the city and their families escaped and found safety in one of the nearby temples of Baal. ⁴⁷Abimelech heard that they were hiding there, ⁴⁸so he took some of his men and went after them to the top of Mount Zalmon. When he got there he took an ax, chopped large branches off some trees nearby, put them on his shoulders and ordered his men to do the same. ⁴⁹So they followed his example and carried the branches to the temple gate, piled them up and set them on fire. Soon the whole temple was on fire, and a thousand people died in the flames.

⁵⁰Then Abimelech decided to march over to Thebez and besiege it, because they had joined Shechem in its revolt against him. He attacked and soon took it. ⁵¹Many of the townspeople ran to the huge fortification tower in the center of the city and locked themselves in. ⁵²As Abimelech marched into the city, he realized what had happened and decided to set the tower on fire, which he had done to the temple of Baal. As he walked up to the tower door, ⁵³one of the women watching him from above threw a millstone down on his head, and it hit him and cracked his skull. ⁵⁴As he lay there, he called to his armor bearer, "Take your sword and kill me. I don't want anyone to say that a woman killed me." So the young man pulled out his sword and ran it through Abimelech, and he died.

⁵⁵When his men saw that Abimelech was dead, they all returned home. ⁵⁶This is what God allowed to come on Abimelech for his crimes against his own father and his seventy half-brothers. ⁵⁷And this is what happened to the people of Shechem who encouraged Abimelech to do it. The curse of Jotham, the one remaining son of Gideon was fulfilled.

Tola's Leadership

10 After the death of Abimelech, the Lord raised up Tola, the son of Puah and the grandson of Dodo, to defend Israel. He was from the tribe of Issachar and lived in Shamir in the hill country of Ephraim. ²He governed Israel for twenty-three years. He died and was buried in his hometown of Shamir.

Jair's Leadership

³After Tola came Jair. He was from the mountainous region of Gilead and governed Israel for twenty-two years. ⁴He had thirty sons who governed thirty cities and they rode on donkeys because there were no horses in Israel. The people called that part of the country The Settlements of Jair. ⁵When Jair died, they buried him in the city of Kamon.

Enemies of Israel Raid the Land

⁶The Israelites again did evil in the eyes of the Lord. This time they not only worshiped Baal and the nude goddess Ashtoroth, but also the gods of Aram, Sidon, Moab and the gods of the Ammonites and Philistines. They forgot about God and stopped serving Him altogether. ⁷The Lord was very displeased with what they were doing, so He allowed the Ammonites and the Philistines to invade their country. ⁸For eighteen years they mistreated the Israelites, oppressed them with heavy taxes and crushed any resistance that surfaced. The Ammonites controlled all the territory of Gilead east of Jordan that had once belonged to the Amorites. ⁹They even crossed Jordan and came west and raided the people of Judah, Benjamin and Ephraim. This made the children of Israel suffer terribly.

¹⁰Then the people cried to the Lord, "We have sinned against you, O Lord. We have turned away from you and worshiped and served Baal and all these other gods." ¹¹The Lord heard their cry and said, "When the Egyptians, the Amorites, the Ammonites, the Philistines, ¹²the Sidonians, the Amalekites and the Midianites fought against you and oppressed you before, and you cried to me for help, didn't I save you? ¹³But after all I did for you, you again turned away from me and worshipped Baal, adding even more gods. So this time, I'm not going to help you. ¹⁴Go to your gods and let them help you. Let them free you from your oppression." ¹⁵The children of Israel said to the Lord, "We have sinned and deserve to live with the consequences. So do with us what you want, but please deliver us from these people before they wipe us out!" ¹⁶So the people put away their gods and again gave their hearts to the Lord and listened to Him. The Lord had pity on His people and couldn't stand by and see them suffer any longer.

¹⁷The next time the Ammonites gathered for war and set up camp in Gilead, the Israelites set up camp at Mizpah. This was the time of year when the Ammonites were getting ready to make their annual raid into Israel to carry off the crops and collect taxes. ¹⁸Then the Israelites said to each other, "Whoever has the courage to lead out and attack the Ammonites will be our leader."

Jephthah's Leadership

11 Now Jephthah the Gileadite was a powerful warrior. He was the son of a man named Gilead and a prostitute. ²Gilead had other sons, but none of them accepted Jephthah as part of the family. They forced him to leave home because his mother was a prostitute. They said to him, "There's no reason for you to stay here, because you're not included in the family inheritance. You need to leave and find a place of your own." ³So Jephthah left and went to the town of Tob. There he signed up with a group of mercenaries and soon became their leader.

⁴Some time later, the Ammonites made war on Israel. ⁵The elders of Gilead had heard about Jephthah's mercenaries and sent this message to him, ⁶"Come and lead our men into battle against the Ammonites." ⁷Jephthah sent a message back which said, "Didn't you support my brothers when they forced me to leave my father's house? So why do you come to me?" ⁸The city fathers sent messengers back, saying, "We're turning to you because we need someone to lead our men against the Ammonites, and we want you to be our territorial governor." ⁹Jephthah returned this message with them, "Are you sure? If I come back and lead your men against the Ammonites and the Lord helps me win, how do I know you'll follow through on your promise?" ¹⁰The city fathers answered him, "The Lord be our witness. We have taken an oath to do what we said."

¹¹Jephthah decided to accept their offer and left the city of Tob and went to Gilead, and the people made him their commander and territorial governor as they had promised. Next he went to Mizpah and there he promised the Lord that he would defend Israel.

¹²He sent a message to the Ammonite king and asked, "What do you have against us that you keep making raids into our territory?" ¹³The king answered, "When the children of Israel came up out of Egypt, they took our land from the Arnon River in the south to the Jabbok in the north, all the way west to the Jordan. Now we want it back."

¹⁴Jephthah sent his messengers back to the Ammonite king and said, ¹⁵"What you're saying is not true. This land didn't belong to you. ¹⁶When Israel came out of Egypt, they first passed through the Red Sea, made their way through the wilderness and then came to Kadesh. ¹⁷Then Israel sent messengers to the king of Edom asking him for permission to pass through his country, but he refused. Israel then sent messengers to the king of Moab asking the same thing, and he, too, refused. So Israel camped at Kadesh for some time. ¹⁸The Lord had told them not to attack, so they took the eastern route around these countries and camped south of the Arnon River. ¹⁹Israel sent messengers to Sihon, king of the Amorites, who first ruled all this territory between the Arnon and the Jabbok from his capital at Heshbon. The messengers asked him for permission to pass through his country but he refused. ²⁰In fact, he called out his troops and camped at Jahaz just the other side of the Arnon River ready to attack Israel. ²¹That's when the Lord told Israel to attack and gave Sihon and all his men into their hands and they defeated him. So Israel took over the land from the Amorites. ²²Therefore, the land between the Arnon River in the south and the Jabbok in the north did not belong to you. It belonged to the Amorites. ²³The God of Israel fought for His people and defeated the Amorites. What gives you the right to claim this territory? ²⁴Wouldn't you hold on to what your god Chemosh gave you? It's the same with us. What our God has given us we are not about to let go. ²⁵Do you think you're more powerful than Balak, the king of Moab, was in his day? He never challenged Israel as you're doing, because his people, like yours, are distant relatives of Israel through Abraham's nephew Lot. ²⁶For the last three hundred years Israel has had this land, including such cities as Heshbon and Aroer with their surrounding villages and all the cities along the Arnon River. Why haven't you taken those cities back in all that time? Why do you keep making raids into Gilead? ²⁷What have we done to you? Have we wronged you in any way? You're harming our people by making these raids into our territory. They're suffering terribly and that's not right. So let the Lord God of Israel be our judge. Let Him decide whether this territory belongs to you or to Israel." ²⁸But the king of Ammon paid no attention to Jephthah's reasoned approach.

Jephthah's Vow

²⁹Then the Spirit of the Lord came upon Jephthah, and he went all through Gilead recruiting men to fight the Ammonites. He also sent word to some of the tribes asking them for help, but only Gad and Manasseh responded. He had the volunteers meet him at Mizpah, and when they came, he organized them into companies and marched against the Ammonites. ³⁰As they advanced, Jephthah made a vow to the Lord. He promised, "If you help me fight the Ammonites and win, ³¹when I get back home, I'll give you whatever comes running out to meet me. If it's a prize animal, I'll sacrifice it, or if it's someone from my household, he will serve you for the rest of his life." ³²Then Jephthah attacked the Ammonites and the Lord gave him the victory. ³³He inflicted a massive defeat on them and captured twenty cities and towns from Aroer to Minnith and as far as Abel Keramim. So the Ammonites were defeated and subdued before the men of Israel.

Jephthah's Daughter

³⁴When Jephthah got home, his daughter was the first to come running to meet him with a tambourine and with dancing and singing. She was his only child. ³⁵When he saw her, he stopped, tore his robe in grief and cried out, "Not my daughter! Sweetheart, you just broke your father's heart! Why does it have to be you? I promised the Lord that if He gave me the victory over the Ammonites, I would give to Him the first person or animal that came running out to meet me. I made this promise under oath, and I can't back out." ³⁶His daughter said, "Don't worry, Father. I'll gladly serve the Lord for the rest of my life. He gave you the victory over the Ammonites and Israel is free again. That's all that matters. ³⁷Just let me spend two months visiting my girl friends and saying good-bye to them. We'll all have a good cry, because I'll never get married or have a family and leave a legacy in Israel as they will."

³⁸Jephthah said, "Yes, you may go." So she visited her girl friends and they spent the next two months in a place in the mountains and wept together. ³⁹At the end of two months Jephthah gave her to the Lord, and she served Him as a virgin for the rest of her life. ⁴⁰This started the custom among the virgins of Israel to meet together once a year for four days, to commemorate the dedication and willingness of the beautiful daughter of Jephthah to remain unmarried in order to keep her father's vow to the Lord.

Civil War

12 When the Ephraimites heard about Jephthah's victory over the

Ammonites, they called their men together, crossed the Jordan, marched over to Zaphon where Jephthah now lived and said to him, "Why did you fight the Ammonites without us? Why didn't you give us a chance to have part in this victory? Speak up, or we'll burn your house down!"

²Jephthah answered, "My people had a real problem on their hands because the Ammonites kept raiding their land. When I called for volunteers, only Gad and Manasseh responded. I don't know of one man who came to help us from Ephraim. ³So when I saw that the other tribes I contacted didn't respond, I decided to go ahead with my men and those from Gad and Manasseh. I took my life in my hands to fight the Ammonites, but the Lord gave me the victory. Why does this upset you so much?"

⁴Then civil war broke out between the people of Gilead and the Ephraimites. Jephthah called his men together and they fought against the men of Ephraim and defeated them. They were angry because the men of Ephraim had called them names, saying, "You Gileadites are nothing but the scum of Manasseh who refused to cross Jordan and settle with the rest of your tribe in the land of Canaan. You're a disgrace to Israel, and we're going to wipe you out."

⁵The Gileadites not only defeated the Ephraimites but also captured the various crossings of Jordan that the Ephraimites needed to get back home. They would ask anyone wanting to cross, "Are you an Ephraimite?" If the man said, "No," ⁶they would say, "All right, say the word, 'Shibboleth.'" The Ephraimites couldn't pronounce it correctly. If the man said "Sibboleth" instead, they would grab him and kill him. When the fighting was finally over, forty-two thousand Ephraimites had lost their lives in that war.

⁷Jephthah governed Israel for six years. When he died they buried him in his hometown in Gilead.

Ibzan, Elon, and Abdon Govern Israel

⁸After him, Ibzan from Bethlehem governed Israel. ⁹He had sixty children, thirty sons and thirty daughters. He gave his daughters in marriage to those outside his tribe and brought in thirty young women from other tribes for his sons. This way he was able to build friendships with the other tribes. He governed Israel for seven years. ¹⁰When Ibzan died, they buried him in the land of Judah, in his hometown of Bethlehem.

¹¹After that, Elon, the Zebulunite, governed Israel for ten years. ¹²When he died, they buried him in Aijalon, in the land of Zebulun.

¹³Then Abdon, the son of Hillel, from Pirathon in Ephraim governed Israel. ¹⁴He had forty sons and thirty grandsons. He was wealthy enough to buy seventy donkeys for them to ride. He governed Israel for eight years. ¹⁵When he died, they buried him in his hometown of Pirathon in Ephraim. This was in the mountains that once belonged to the Amalekites.

The Birth of Samson

13 Again the Israelites turned away from the Lord, so He let the Philistines oppress them for forty years.

²During this time there was a man living in Zorah in the territory of Dan named Manoah. His wife was not able to have children. ³One day the Angel of the Lord who had led the children of Israel out of Egypt appeared to her and said, "I know you haven't been able to have children, but soon you'll become pregnant and have a son. ⁴I don't want you to drink any alcoholic beverages, not even unfermented wine. Nor do I want you to eat any unclean food because that will affect the development of your baby before he's born. ⁵As he grows up, I don't want you to cut his hair. No knife or razor is to touch his head. He is to be set apart for the Lord from the day he's born. The boy is to be a Nazarite. He is not to drink of the fruit of the vine, nor eat its products, fresh or dried. Nor is he to touch a dead body. I have chosen him to deliver Israel from the oppression of the Philistines.”

⁶Manoah’s wife quickly found her husband and told him all about it, saying, “A man of God appeared to me. He looked awesome, like the Angel of the Lord. I didn’t ask him where he came from and he didn’t give me his name. ⁷But he said to me, ‘You’ll soon get pregnant and give birth to a son. I don’t want you to drink any alcoholic beverages, not even unfermented wine. Nor do I want you to eat unclean foods, because the boy is to be set apart for the Lord from the day he’s born. He is to be a Nazarite all his life.’”

⁸Then Manoah prayed to the God of Israel, “Lord, let this man of God who spoke to my wife come back again to let us know how to raise this boy. I believe you that we’ll have a son, but knowing how to bring him up as you want us to won’t be easy. We need your help.” ⁹The Lord heard Manoah’s prayer and the Angel of the Lord came and talked to his wife again. This time it happened when she was alone in the field. ¹⁰She hurried home to get her husband and said, “He’s here! That man of God who appeared to me the other day is back again! Come and talk to him!”

¹¹Manoah ran out to the field with his wife and said to the man of God, “Are you the man who talked with my wife the first time?” He said, “I am.” ¹²Manoah said, “When your prediction comes true and our boy is born, how should we raise him? What guidelines should we follow to get him ready for his life’s work?” ¹³The Angel of the Lord said, “Your wife is to do everything I told her to do. ¹⁴She is to stay away from everything that comes from the vine, including unfermented wine, and she is not to eat anything unclean. She needs to be very careful about this and do everything I say. The boy is to be trained to do the same.”

¹⁵Manoah said, “Please don’t go away. Stay just a little longer until we can kill a young goat and get you something to eat.” ¹⁶The Angel said, “I’ll stay a little longer, but I won’t eat. So go ahead, get the young goat and bring it here and offer it to the Lord.” Up to this point Manoah didn’t know that the Angel was the Lord. ¹⁷So he asked, “What is your name? We would like to know so we can tell others that you were the one who told us that we would have a son and that you also told us how to raise him.” ¹⁸The Angel said, “What’s the real reason you want to know my name? It’s a name too wonderful for you to fully understand.” ¹⁹That’s when Manoah realized that the Man of God he was talking to was the Lord. He fell on his knees, bowed to the ground and then ran and got the young goat. He also brought grain with him and then offered both of them on a nearby rock to the Lord. What Manoah and his wife saw next left them amazed. ²⁰The Angel of the Lord set the offering and the rock on fire, and then He ascended in the middle of the flames. When Manoah and his wife saw this, they fell on their knees and bowed with their faces to the ground.

²¹They stayed on their knees until they were sure that the Angel was gone. He never came back. ²²Then Manoah said to his wife, “We’re surely going to die because God Himself has visited us.” ²³But his wife said, “If we are doomed to die, how can we have a baby and raise it? If the Lord had wanted to kill us, why would He accept our offering and tell us what to do?”

²⁴Soon afterward Manoah’s wife became pregnant and later gave birth to a son. They called him Samson. The Lord was with the boy as he grew up and blessed him in extraordinary ways. ²⁵One day while he was still a young man, he went to visit the city of Mahaneh Dan, occupied by the Philistines and located between the cities of Zorah and Eshtaol. While he was there he saw how harshly they treated his people. That’s when the Spirit of the Lord began to come upon him.

Samson's Marriage

14 After he was grown, Samson went down to the city of Timnah. While he was there he was befriended by a beautiful Philistine young woman and immediately fell in love with her. ²He decided to marry her, so he went back home and said to his parents, "I met a beautiful woman in Timnah, and I want to marry her." ³His parents said, "Doesn't Israel have beautiful young women? Why do you have to marry an idol-worshiping Philistine?" But Samson would not listen to reason and said, "I fell in love with her, and I'm going to marry her. So please make arrangements for our wedding."

⁴He could not be convinced otherwise, so God used the occasion to confront the Philistines who controlled this whole area of Israel.

⁵Samson's parents agreed to go to Timnah to make arrangements for the wedding. Samson went ahead and as he passed by some vineyards, a young lion that had been hiding there roared and then attacked him. ⁶The Spirit of the Lord came on him; he caught the lion, threw it to the ground and tore its hind legs apart as easily as a baby goat's. He decided not to frighten his parents by telling them. ⁷Then he went on his way to tell the woman that he wanted her to be his wife and that his parents were coming to meet her. ⁸She met them and agreed to the marriage. During the next few months it was easy for Samson to go back and forth to see her because Timnah was only a few miles down the road from where he lived. One day he decided to go past the vineyards where he had killed the young lion. When he got there he noticed that a swarm of bees had made their nest inside the lion's skeleton. ⁹He reached down and scooped up some of the honey and ate it. When he rejoined his parents, he gave them some and they ate it, but he didn't tell them that he'd gotten it from a beehive in a lion's skeleton which made it unclean.

¹⁰Now it was customary that before the wedding, the parents of the groom would sponsor a seven-day wedding feast for their son and his friends. Samson's father had made arrangements in the young woman's hometown for the wedding feast and the time had come for the festivities.

¹¹When Samson got there, he found that the Philistines had sent thirty young men to make sure that Samson and his Hebrew friends would behave themselves and not cause trouble. ¹²As was their custom, the groom and his guests played the game of riddles. Samson challenged the thirty Philistines by saying, "If you can solve this riddle before the week is over, I'll give you thirty linen garments and thirty festal robes. ¹³If you can't solve the riddle, then you have to give me thirty linen garments and thirty festal robes." The Philistines agreed and said, "Tell us the riddle." ¹⁴Samson said, "Out of the eater came something to eat. Out of the strong came something sweet." Three days went by and they still couldn't solve the riddle.

¹⁵On the fourth day of the feast, they went to see his bride and said to her, "We want you to find a way to get Samson to tell you the answer to his riddle. If you don't find out, we'll set your parents' house on fire with you inside. You don't think that we came here to be made into fools or to be robbed of what he promised, do you?" ¹⁶So Samson's wife went to Samson with tears in her eyes and said, "How do I know that you really love me if you won't even tell me the answer to your riddle?" Samson said, "I haven't even told my father and mother. I have no reason to tell them and no reason to share it with you." ¹⁷Every day for the rest of the week she went to see Samson with tears in her eyes and pleaded with him to give her the answer to his riddle as proof that he loved her. On the last day he finally gave in and told her. Then she turned around and told it to the thirty Philistines. ¹⁸Just as the feast was coming to an end, the Philistines came to Samson and said, "We have the answer to your riddle: What is sweeter to eat than honey? Who is stronger than a lion?" Samson immediately knew where they had gotten the answer and said, "If you had not pressured my wife you never would have solved my riddle."

¹⁹Then Samson left and went to the Philistine city of Ashkelon, about twenty-five miles away. While at a party, he killed thirty well-dressed young men who had challenged him to a fight, took everything they had and headed back to Timnah to give their belongings and robes to the men who had answered his riddle. When he got there, he found out that they had threatened to kill his wife unless she gave them the answer to his riddle. He became very angry, not only at the Philistines but also at his wife, so he left and returned to his parents' home in Zoar. ²⁰The Philistines thought he had gone for good, so the young woman's father promised her to the best man at the wedding, the leader of the thirty men.

Samson Defeats the Philistines

15 Not long afterward Samson decided to see his wife who was still at home with her parents. He took a baby goat with him as a present to her father. This happened at the time of the wheat harvest. When he got there he gave his father-in-law the baby goat and said, "I would like to see my wife. I understand that she's here." But the father would not let him in. ²He said to Samson, "I thought you had left her for good, so I promised her to your friend who was best man at your wedding. But her younger sister is even more beautiful, so why don't you take her?"

³Samson said to his father-in-law, "This time I'm going to get even with you Philistines. You just wait and see." ⁴So he went out and caught three hundred jackals. He tied pairs together by their tails with a long rope, attached a torch to the middle of the rope holding each pair, lit the torch and then let them go. ⁵The jackals took off, dragging the flaming torch behind them. So Samson got even with the Philistines for what they had done to him, burning down large fields of wheat as well as a number of vineyards and olive groves. ⁶The Philistine leaders asked around to find out who had done this. They learned that Samson had done it because his father-in-law had given away his wife. So they went to Timnah, tied up the whole family and set their house on fire with them in it. ⁷When Samson heard that they had killed his wife and his in-laws, he sent this message to the Philistines: "If that's the kind of people you are, I swear I won't stop until I've paid you back." ⁸Then he single-handedly attacked part of their army and killed many of their men. After that he went to live in a cave in a large rocky cliff near Etam to protect himself.

⁹The Philistines decided to go after him. They took over a thousand men, marched into the territory of Judah and surrounded the area where Samson was, which was later called Lehi, meaning The Place of the Jawbone. ¹⁰When the Philistines came, the people of Judah said to them, "Why are you marching into our territory? What have we done?" The Philistines said, "We're not here to pick a fight. All we want is to get a man from Dan named Samson who is hiding here, because of what he has done to us."

¹¹The men from Judah said, "Let us handle it for you." So three thousand troops from Judah went over to the rocky cliff near Etam and said to Samson, "Don't you know that the Philistines are our masters? Look what you've done to us!" He said, "I only did to them what they did to me."

¹²They said, "We've come to tie you up and hand you over to the Philistines so they'll leave us alone. That's the only way things can be settled now." Samson said, "All right, I'll let you come and tie me up, but promise that your men won't attack me." ¹³They said, "We give you our word. We'll just tie you up and hand you over to the Philistines. We won't let our men harm you." So Samson came out of his cave and they tied him up with two new ropes and led him away.

¹⁴When they reached Lehi, the Philistines saw him and let out a war cry. Then they headed straight for Samson. That's when the Spirit of the Lord came on him and he snapped the new ropes from around his upper body and his arms and hands as if they had been burnt strings. ¹⁵Then he picked up a jawbone from a donkey's skeleton that was lying nearby and killed a thousand men. ¹⁶When it was all over he said, "With a donkey's jawbone I made donkeys out of them all. With only a jawbone I killed a thousand men." ¹⁷Then he threw the jawbone down, and from that day on, the people called the place Ramath Lehi, or Jawbone Hill.

¹⁸Because of the length of the battle and the heat, Samson was exhausted and very thirsty. He prayed to the Lord, "Lord, you've given me a great victory; now don't let me die of thirst. Don't let the Philistines find me half dead or they'll torture me until I'm gone." ¹⁹The Lord heard Samson's prayer and carved out a low spot in the rocks right there at Lehi and filled it with water from a spring. Samson drank from it, and his strength came back and his spirit revived. So the spring was called En Hakkore, The Spring of Prayer. ²⁰The people of Israel did not follow up on Samson's victory to rid themselves of the Philistines. So they were oppressed by them for another twenty years. It was during this time that the people in Samson's local area decided to make him their leader and judge.

Samson and Delilah

16 During the time that Samson was the leader of his people, he was able to travel throughout the Philistine territory without the threat of being harmed. One day he decided to make a trip to the city of Gaza on the Mediterranean coast, which was about thirty miles from his hometown. While there he met a prostitute and spent the night with her. ²When the people of Gaza learned that Samson was in town, the men of the city armed themselves and quietly surrounded her house while others waited for Samson at the city gate. They stayed there all night and said to themselves, "We'll keep an eye on the place just in case he leaves while it's still dark, but most likely he'll leave early in the morning. Then we'll jump him at the city gate and kill him."

³About midnight, Samson's conscience bothered him so he decided to leave for home. When he got to the city gate and found it locked, he took hold of it and pulled the bars, posts and all, out of the ground, put them on his shoulders and carried them to the top of a hill on the way to Hebron. The men of Gaza were stunned by what they saw and too scared to do anything about it.

⁴Some time later, Samson fell in love with a woman named Delilah from Sorek near his hometown. ⁵The five rulers of the Philistines came to bargain with her. "Get Samson to tell you the secret of his strength," they said, "so we can capture him. We won't kill him; we'll just make him work for us. Each of us will give you eleven hundred pieces of silver." ⁶Delilah agreed, as long as they promised not to kill him. So the next time Samson came to see her, she said, "Tell me the secret of your great strength. What would someone have to do to make you only as strong as other men?"

⁷Samson said, "If someone tied me up with seven new bowstrings that are not yet dried out enough to be strung on bows, then I would be no stronger than any other man." ⁸Delilah told this to the Philistines and they brought her seven new bowstrings that had not yet been dried. So the next time Samson came to see her she waited until he was sound asleep, then tied his hands together with the seven bowstrings. ⁹One of the Philistines was hiding in the other room and as soon as he saw that Samson's hands were tied, he gave the signal to the troops outside and Delilah cried,

"Samson! The Philistines are here!" Samson woke up and snapped the seven bowstrings as easily as someone snaps a burning string. When the Philistines saw this, they ran as fast as they could.

¹⁰But Samson didn't learn his lesson, and he visited Delilah again. She said to him, "Last time you were here you lied to me. How do I know that you really love me? Now tell me the secret of your strength." ¹¹He said, "I'm sorry. The truth is, if you tie me with new ropes that have never been used, then I'll be no stronger than any other man." ¹²Again Delilah told this to the Philistines, and they brought her some new ropes. The next time Samson came to see her, she waited until he was sound asleep and tied his hands together as she had done before. As soon as the Philistine in the other room saw this, he signaled to the men outside, and Delilah cried, "Samson! The Philistines are here!" Samson woke up and snapped those new ropes as if they had been threads. When the Philistines saw this, they ran as fast as they could.

¹³Samson still had not learned his lesson. The next time he visited Delilah, she said to him, "You lied to me again! Yet you keep telling me that you love me. How am I to believe you? Tell me the secret of your strength." He said, "I'm sorry. I'll tell you. If you weave my hair tightly into that new piece of cloth coming from your loom over there, then I'll be no stronger than any other man."

¹⁴When he was sound asleep, she pulled the loom closer, gently wove his long hair into the cloth and fastened it with a pin. Then Delilah cried, "Samson! The Philistines are here!" Samson woke up, and with his hair tied to the end of the fabric, he pulled up the whole loom and everything with it. When the Philistines saw this, they ran as fast as they could.

¹⁵Samson ignored Delilah's deceptions and visited her again. She said to him, "You've lied to me three times now. You say you're sorry, but you keep right on lying. You keep telling me that you love me, but I don't believe you anymore. The only way I'll believe you is if you tell me the source of your strength."

¹⁶She kept after him until he grew tired of her nagging and told her the truth. ¹⁷He said to her, "I've been set apart to serve God in a special way from the day I was born. My long hair is sign of being under the Nazarite vow for the rest of my life. I was told never to cut my hair or the Lord would leave me, and I would be no stronger than any other man. And that's the truth."

¹⁸Delilah told this to the Philistines and said, "Come back just one more time and bring the money with you. I really believe that Samson has told me the truth." So the Philistines agreed and brought the money they had promised her. ¹⁹The next time Samson came to see her, she had him lay his head on her lap while she stroked his hair. When he was sound asleep she called in a man to carefully cut off his seven long braids of hair. As Samson slept, he began to weaken and his strength left him.

²⁰Then Delilah cried, "Samson! The Philistines are here!" Samson woke up and said to himself, "I'll go after them as I did before and teach them a lesson they'll never forget." But he didn't know that the Lord had left him. ²¹He went after the Philistines but they could tell that he wasn't the same as he had been before. So they jumped on him, wrestled him to the ground and tied him up. Then the Philistines put out his eyes and took him to Gaza on the coast where earlier he had carried away the city gates. They put his ankles and wrists in shackles and put him to work pushing the arm of a huge millstone to grind grain. ²²In true remorse, Samson confessed his sins and reconsecrated himself to God. As his hair grew back, his strength began to return.

The Death of Samson

²³When the time came for the next festival to honor their god which was half

man and half fish, the Philistine rulers suggested that Samson be brought in as a trophy of victory. They said, "Dagon has delivered Samson into our hands and has taken away his strength. Let's praise him!" ²⁴When the people saw Samson, they said, "Dagon was the one who gave us the victory! He helped us capture the man who burned down our fields and killed many of our people. Let's praise our god for what he has done!" ²⁵During the course of the festival as they were enjoying themselves, someone shouted, "Bring Samson into the arena! Let him put on a show for us!" Others joined in. So they brought Samson into the arena and made fun of him. They had him do things that made him look like a fool. After that they had him stand between the two main pillars holding up the temple of Dagon so everyone could see him. ²⁶Samson was very tired, so he said to the boy who led him, "Guide my hands to the pillars so I can lean against them and rest." And the boy did. ²⁷Now the arena was full of important men and women, including the five rulers of the Philistines who were sitting in a special place of honor. There were about three thousand people sitting on the huge flat roof looking into the arena to watch Samson perform.

²⁸Then Samson prayed to the Lord, "O Sovereign Lord, I have asked you to forgive me my sins so many times. I believe you have forgiven me. So please give me back my full strength just one more time. I want to let these Philistines know that their god is nothing. Besides, why did they gouge out both my eyes and bring me here to make fun of me?"

²⁹Samson believed that the Lord heard his prayer and that He would answer it. So by faith he encircled the two main pillars, his right hand around one and his left hand around the other. ³⁰Then he shouted, "Let me die with the Philistines!" Then he leaned forward with all his might. The pillars gave way and down came the roof with all the people who had been sitting on it. Then the walls fell in on top of them. So Samson killed more Philistines at his death than he had killed during his life. ³¹His brothers came and dug out his body from the rubble and took it home. They buried him between Zorah and Eshtaol in the tomb of his father Manoah. Samson had governed that part of Israel for twenty years.

Micah's Idols

17 There was a man called Micah, who lived in the mountains of Ephraim. ²One day he said to his mother, "I heard you curse the man who stole the eleven hundred pieces of silver you had saved all these years. I need to confess that I'm the one who took the money, and I'm giving it all back to you. Here it is." His mother said, "The Lord bless you, my son, for confessing your sin!" ³Then she said, "Now that you've given me my money back, I need to consecrate it to the Lord to keep the curse from hurting you. Here, take what you need to make an image in honor of the Lord." ⁴But he refused to take the money from his mother and said, "No, it's better that you do it." So she took two hundred pieces of the money, gave it to a silversmith and told him to make a small idol and cover it with silver, which he did. Then she took the idol and gave it to Micah. ⁵To honor the Lord, Micah had a shrine built in his house that looked like the inside of the Sanctuary. He chose one of his sons to serve as priest and had a vest made for him like only the high priest wore. ⁶In those days there was no king or central government in Israel. Everyone did what was right in his own eyes, especially if he had money. This was the case with Micah.

⁷About this time, a young Levite from Bethlehem in Judah ⁸decided to leave home and look for another place to live. On his way through Ephraim, he stopped at Micah's house. While there, he especially noticed the shrine because it looked similar to the Sanctuary. ⁹Micah showed him around and then asked,

"Where are you from?" The young man said, "I'm a Levite from Bethlehem in Judah, and I'm looking for work. The tithe is not coming in as it should, and I do have to eat." ¹⁰Then Micah said, "Come and work for me, and I'll support you with tithe, and you can be a spiritual father and priest for me and my family. I'll pay you ten pieces of silver a year, plus a place to live, clothes and food."

¹¹The young Levite agreed. So Micah took him in and treated him as one of his own sons. ¹²He removed his son and made the young Levite his priest, to live with him in his own house. ¹³Micah said to himself, "Now that I have a Levite as my priest, I know that the Lord will bless me and things will go well for me." But everything he had done was contrary to what the Lord had commanded.

Micah and the Danites

18 At that time Israel did not have a king, only local judges to settle differences between tribes. The Danites had been assigned territory in the highlands. They were unable to conquer it, so they had to move to the mountains. They desperately wanted some good land of their own. ²So they selected five men from Zorah and Eshtaol to go to Ephraim to see if they could find some unclaimed territory suitable for them. They came to Micah's house in Ephraim, and he invited them to stay overnight. ³While they were there, they noticed the shrine he had built which looked like the Sanctuary. They also recognized the voice of the young Levite who was serving there. They said to him, "You look familiar; we have met you somewhere before. What are you doing these days? Who are you working for?" ⁴He told them what had happened and how Micah had offered him this job as family priest. ⁵Then they said, "Ask the Lord if our mission will be successful." ⁶So the Levite prayed to the Lord, then said to them, "Yes, your mission will be successful. The Lord is with you. You'll find the land you need. Go in peace."

⁷So the five men left. They went on north and came to the city of Laish, later renamed Dan. There they saw a peaceful people living in relative safety who devoted themselves to commerce and business like the Sidonians and who had no desire for war. Their land was rich and provided for all their needs. ⁸When the men got back to Zorah and Eshtaol, the people asked them what they had found. ⁹They said, "We've found a great place to live! It's all the way up by Laish, but let's not hesitate to go and take it. It's a good land. It's inhabited by a small colony of Aramaic-speaking people, and it will be very easy to subdue, because they're not expecting anyone to attack them." ¹⁰The country is great and has everything we could wish for. The Lord has given it to us. Let's go now!"

¹⁴Then the five men who had previously spied out the land said to their fellow Danites, "Micah has a shrine in his house that looks like the Sanctuary. He also has a young Levite living there who has a vest that looks like the one only the high priest is to wear, and there's a silver idol in the house." ¹⁵Their fellow Danites said, "Let's go and take a look at it." So they marched over to Micah's house to meet the young Levite. When he came out they greeted him. ¹⁶While the six hundred men with their weapons stood by the entrance of the gate talking to the Levite, ¹⁷the five who had explored the land went into the house to look for the silver idol, the special vest and any other household gods they could find. ¹⁸When the Levite saw them carrying out the silver idol, the special vest and other household gods, he stopped them and said, "What are you doing?" ¹⁹They said, "Keep quiet! Don't you dare say another word. We want you to come with us to be our spiritual father. Isn't it better to be a priest for a whole tribe than to minister to just one family?"²⁰The Levite was happy to accept their invitation. So he let them take the silver idol, the vest and the other household gods, and went with them.

²¹The Danites decided to let their families and livestock go ahead of them, and they followed behind. ²²They had gone quite a distance before Micah noticed what had happened. Then he called all the armed men in the area and asked them to help him go after the Danites. ²³When they saw the Danites, they shouted to them to stop. They did and then waited for Micah to catch up with them. They said to him, "What's the idea of coming after us with a band of armed men?"

²⁴Micah said, "You took my gods, my priest, the special vest and the silver idol. Then you have the nerve to ask, 'What's the idea of coming after you?'" ²⁵The Danites said, "Now don't start an argument or some of our hot-tempered men will think nothing of killing you and those with you, as well as going back and killing your entire family." ²⁶Micah saw that the Danites were too much for him, so he turned around and went back home, and the Danites went on their way.

Danites Conquer Laish

²⁷They took with them the Levite and the other things that Micah had made and headed north for the city of Laish. When they got there, they attacked those peaceful people and totally surprised them. They captured the city and burned it to the ground. ²⁸No one came to defend them because they lived too far from Sidon or any other city. Laish was located in the valley of Beth Rehob, some distance from any other Aramaic city or tribe. So the Danites rebuilt the city and settled there. ²⁹They named the city Dan, after their ancestor Dan, who was one of the sons of Jacob and a brother to Joseph.

³⁰Then the Danites set up the silver idol that they had taken from Micah, and the Levite and his sons served them as priests for many years until the land was invaded by the Aramean states adjoining Syria. The Levite who served first Micah and then the Danites was Jonathan, son of Gershom and grandson of Moses. ³¹The Danites hung on to the silver idol which Micah had carefully made during the time the Sanctuary of the Lord was at Shiloh.

The Levite and His Concubine

19 In those days Israel had no central government and no king to guide them. There was a Levite who lived in the mountains of Ephraim who took a servant girl from Bethlehem to be his second wife. ²One day they had a big argument and he treated her very cruelly, so she left in anger and went back to her father's house in Bethlehem. ³About four months later, the Levite went to see her and to kindly speak to her hoping she would come back. He took his servant with him, plus a couple of donkeys. When he got to her house, his wife's father was glad to see him and invited him in. ⁴He asked the young Levite to stay two or three days, which the Levite did. The couple made up, and they all ate and drank together and everyone was happy.

⁵On the morning of the fourth day the couple got up early to get ready to leave, but the father hated to see them go and said, "Don't leave so early. Here, sit down and at least have a good meal before you go." ⁶The two men sat down and ate and when they were finished the father said, "Why don't you two take it easy? Stay over another night and leave tomorrow." ⁷The Levite wanted to get going, but the father of his wife insisted he stay another day, so the young man agreed.

⁸On the morning of the fifth day, the same thing happened. The father insisted that the couple have something to eat first and they agreed. They ate and visited together and soon it was past noon. Then the father said, "You don't want to get started now. Why don't you stay another day. We don't know when we'll see you again." ⁹But the couple decided to pack. When they were ready to leave, the father urged them to sit down first and eat a bite. So they sat down and had another good meal. Then the father said, "It's not good to start out so late. Think of how far it is to where you can get good lodging. Stay one more day and then get up early tomorrow morning and I'll help you get started."

¹⁰But this time the Levite did not give in, so the couple said good-bye and left. They got on their donkeys and headed for the city of Jebus, later called Jerusalem. ¹¹When they got near there, the servant said, "It's getting late in the day. Why don't we stop here and stay overnight and then leave early in the morning?" ¹²The Levite said, "No, let's not spend the night here because the city is still in the hands of the Jebusites. Let's go on to Gibeah and spend the night in an Israelite city. ¹³We may even be able to reach Ramah, which is only a few miles beyond Gibeah. We'll stay overnight in one or the other." ¹⁴They pushed on ahead but the sun was already beginning to set before they reached Gibeah in the territory of Benjamin. ¹⁵So they decided to spend the night there. As the custom was, they sat in the city square and waited for someone to invite them home. But no one came.

¹⁶It was getting late when an older man, originally from Ephraim, but now living in Gibeah came in from the field. ¹⁷When he passed through the town square and saw the Levite with his wife and servant sitting there, he stopped and said, "Where are you folks from? Where are you going?" ¹⁸The Levite said, "We just came from Bethlehem and are on our way to my home in the mountains of Ephraim. No one has offered to take us in for the night, so we're still sitting here. ¹⁹We've got plenty of food for our donkeys and for ourselves. All we need is a place to sleep."

²⁰The man said, "Come along with me. It's not a good idea to spend the night sleeping out here. You can stay at my house. I'll put you up for the night." ²¹So they went with the man to his house, fed their donkeys and then washed up and had something to eat.

The City of Gibeah Unsafe

²²No sooner had they finished than they heard shouting outside, and then someone pounded on the door. When the old man opened it, he saw a group of lawless young men from the city. They were shouting, "Bring out the young man. We want to have sex with him." They did this to all strangers who came into town. ²³The old man went outside to talk to them and said, "Wait a minute. This man is my guest. I invited him to stay overnight in my house. I'm the one responsible for his welfare. I don't want you to abuse him. ²⁴I have a virgin daughter and this man has a servant girl wife. I'll bring both of them out to you instead. But don't abuse this visitor. He's my guest. How low can you men get?"

²⁵But they wouldn't listen to him. So the Levite pulled the man inside, took his concubine and pushed her out to them, then closed the door. The young men took her and raped her all night and then let her go. ²⁶She made her way back to the man's house and when she reached the door, she collapsed. At dawn she was still there.

²⁷The Levite got up early that morning and opened the door of the house to be on his way. There was his common-law wife lying at the foot of the door with her hands on the threshold. ²⁸He said, "Come on, get up. It's time to go." But she didn't move. Then he realized that she was dead. So he put her body on his donkey and headed for home. ²⁹When he got home, he took a knife and cut her body into twelve parts according to her bones, and hired twelve men to take the parts to the leaders of each tribe. ³⁰When the people heard what had happened they became angry and said, "We haven't heard of such cruelty since we left Egypt! We need to do something about this!"

Israel Attacks Benjamin

20 Then men from all over Israel, from Dan in the north to Beersheba in the south and from the land of Gilead on the other side of Jordan, came together at Mizpah to ask the Lord what to do. Now Mizpah was in the territory of Ephraim only a few miles north of Gibeah. ²When the leaders of the tribes got there they found over four hundred thousand battle-hardened men from all over Israel, all armed with swords. ³When the Benjamites heard about this, so they sent some of their leading men there to find out what was going on. Then the leaders of Israel, including those from Benjamin, called for the Levite and said, "Tell us again what happened so everyone can hear it."

⁴The Levite said, "I and my servant wife were on our way home from Bethlehem when we decided to stop and stay overnight at Gibeah. ⁵While we were waiting in the town square for someone to invite us home, an Ephraimite living there came by and took us to his house. We had just finished eating when there was a loud knock on the door. The young men of Gibeah had come to the house and wanted me to come out so they could have sex with me and maybe even kill me. Instead, they sexually abused my concubine all night long until she died. ⁶So I took her body and cut it into twelve pieces according to her bones, and sent one piece to each tribe to show my utter horror at such behavior in Israel by the people of Benjamin. ⁷What are you going to do about this? You're the leaders of Israel. I want to hear what you have to say."

⁸All the leaders, including those from Benjamin, spoke as one man and said, "Not one of us will go home until this thing is settled. ⁹This is what we'll do. We'll draw lots to determine which troops will go to Gibeah to demand that the city fathers hand over those who were involved. If they refuse, our men will attack.

¹⁰We also need to draw lots for one man out of every ten to get food for the troops. This means ten out of every hundred, a hundred out of every thousand and a thousand out of every ten thousand are to keep the troops fed. This way when the troops get to Gibeah, they'll be well supplied and ready to fight if they have to. Those who did this terrible thing in Gibeah must be brought to justice." ¹¹All the leaders were of one mind and agreed to confront the city fathers for allowing such a thing to take place.

¹²But before they used force, the leaders sent messengers throughout the tribe of Benjamin and said, "Do you people know what crimes are being committed in Gibeah? Things like this should never happen in Israel. ¹³You need to hand young men like this over to us to be tried for murder so it won't happen again."

But the people and their leaders wouldn't listen. ¹⁴Instead, they called up their fighting men and prepared for war. Their troops assembled at Gibeah and got ready to defend the city, even if it meant fighting their fellow Israelites. ¹⁵Benjamin was able to call up twenty-six thousand trained men from their cities, including seven hundred expert marksmen from Gibeah. ¹⁶These marksmen were left-handed and could sling a stone at a hair and not miss. They could sling it with such force that it would pierce an enemy's shield or battle helmet. ¹⁷Now the rest of the tribes of Israel had over four hundred thousand troops and all of them were warriors.

¹⁸Then the leaders went to Bethel where the Ark of the Covenant was, to ask the Lord whether they should fight their brothers over this or not, and, if so, which tribe should go first. The Lord answered, "The tribe of Judah."

¹⁹The leaders returned to Mizpah and told the men of Judah what the Lord had said. The next morning the men of Judah led the way, and the army of Israel marched over to Gibeah and pitched camp. ²⁰The following day, they prepared to attack the army of Benjamin and set up battle stations to take the city. ²¹But the men of Benjamin came charging out of the city of Gibeah, attacked the Israelites and drove them back, killing over twenty-two thousand men. ²²The next day the Israelites came back with renewed courage and a fresh supply of troops ready to take up the same battle stations. ²³But after the loss of all those men the day before, the leaders of Israel went back to Bethel and wept before the Lord until nearly sunset. Then they asked Him whether they should continue to fight their brothers from Benjamin or not. The Lord said, "Yes, go ahead."

²⁴With this encouragement they returned to Mizpah. The next morning the troops took up their battle stations a second time. ²⁵The men of Benjamin came charging out of the city and attacked the Israelites again. By the time the day was over they had killed another eighteen thousand of them. ²⁶So the leaders of Israel went to Bethel for the third time. Again they wept before the Lord and fasted and prayed until nearly sunset. They offered whole burnt offerings to the Lord and asked Him what to do. ²⁷They offered these sacrifices at Bethel, because the Ark of the Covenant had been brought there from Shiloh. ²⁸These were the days when Phinehas, the son of Eleazar and grandson of Aaron, was in charge of the Sanctuary and carried on the high priestly ministry before the Ark in the Most Holy Place. So the leaders asked the Lord what to do, and the Lord said, "Go back and attack the city of Gibeah again because this time I will go with you and give the Benjamites into your hands."

²⁹The leaders went back and again sent fresh troops in to man their stations and get ready to attack. But this time they also stationed men around the city to prepare for an ambush. ³⁰The main force did as the men had done the day before. They took up their battle stations and got ready to attack the Benjamites and go against the city of Gibeah. ³¹Once more the Benjamites came out of the city of Gibeah and attacked them, and again, the Benjamites were winning. They killed about thirty men, some in the field, some on the road that goes to Bethel and others on the main road coming into Gibeah. ³²This encouraged the Benjamites, and they said, "This time let's go after these Israelites and really slaughter them so they won't dare attack us again." But the Israelites purposely retreated to draw the Benjamites as far from the city as possible, and the Benjamites went after them.

³³While the main force of the Israelites retreated and were regrouping at Baal Tamar for a counterattack, the troops that were part of the Israelite ambush came out of hiding from all around the city. ³⁴These were ten thousand of the finest troops Israel had who attacked the city, and the fighting between them and the Benjamites who had stayed behind was awesome. But the Benjamites didn't know that the Lord was with Israel and that disaster would soon strike. ³⁵By the time the fighting for the day was over, both in the field and in the city, the Israelites had killed over twenty-five thousand Benjamites.

³⁶After the battle, there was no longer any doubt in the minds of the Benjamites that they had been defeated. ³⁷The main force of the Israelites had purposely retreated to draw as many of the Benjamites away from the city as possible and in that way split up their troops. This allowed the Israelite men waiting in ambush to surprise the Gibeonites, attack the city and take it. Once inside, they killed everyone they could find and set it on fire.

³⁸Meanwhile, Israel's main force at Baal Tamar waited until they saw smoke in the distance. This was the signal for them to turn and attack the Benjamites who had come out after them. ³⁹These Benjamites were part of the force that had killed forty thousand Israelites during the previous two days of fighting. They had decided that this time they would inflict such heavy casualties on Israel that they would never come back. ⁴⁰But when they saw the column of smoke on the horizon, they knew that Gibeah had been taken and the troops left there had been defeated.

⁴¹Then the main Israelite force decided to strike. They came at the men of Benjamin with such fury that it threw them into a panic. ⁴²They turned and ran from the attacking Israelites toward the open country but couldn't escape because they were caught between the main army and the troops that had been in ambush which were now coming at them from the city. ⁴³The Israelite troops surrounded the Benjamites and began to overrun them at a point east of Gibeah, killing them as they went. ⁴⁴There alone, eighteen thousand of the best men in Benjamin were killed. ⁴⁵The rest fled across the field heading in the direction of the Rock of Rimmon about eight miles away. It was a huge limestone rock with caverns that served as hiding places for refugees. But the Israelites killed five thousand along the roads, and later another two thousand. ⁴⁶Altogether, over twenty-five thousand Benjamites were killed that day, all of them brave men. ⁴⁷About six hundred of them made it across the open country to the Rock of Rimmon and stayed there in the caverns for four months. ⁴⁸Then the men of Israel turned back and killed everyone in the villages along the way, including the animals, and set the villages on fire.

Wives for the Tribe of Benjamin

21 When the men of Israel got back to Mizpah, they took an oath never to give their daughters in marriage to a Benjamite. ²Then the leaders went up to Bethel again and sat before the Lord until sunset, lifting up their voices in prayer and weeping bitterly. ³They said, "O Lord, God of Israel, why did this have to happen? Now one of our own tribes is nearly wiped out."

⁴The next morning the Israelites built a stone altar and offered whole burnt offerings and peace offerings to the Lord. ⁵Then they said to each other, "Was there a tribe that didn't send some fighting men to Mizpah?" They had taken an oath to punish any tribe that did not send some troops. But all the tribes had willingly responded. ⁶The leaders of Israel continued to grieve over their Benjamite brothers and said, "We have lost almost one whole tribe. There are so few Benjamite men left that foreigners could come in and take over, and Benjamin would no longer be part of Israel. ⁷We must do something to help them now that we've killed over twenty-five thousand of their men, not counting the women who died. We've also taken an oath not to give our daughters in marriage to the men who are left."

⁸As they discussed the problem, they said, "Isn't there at least a part of a tribe that didn't send men to Mizpah and didn't take this oath?" Then they went over the tribes again and found that no one from Jabesh Gilead had come because they were on the side of the Benjamites. ⁹To make doubly sure, they took a roll call, and no one from Jabesh was there. ¹⁰So the men sent twelve thousand troops to Jabesh Gilead with instructions to punish the city for not having sent some men to Mizpah. They said to the troops, "Take the city and kill everyone there, including women and children. ¹¹Kill all the men and every woman except those who are virgins." ¹²So the troops headed for Jabesh. They carried out their orders and when it was all over, about four hundred young women were left. They brought them down to Shiloh.

¹³Then the leaders sent a message to the six hundred Benjamite troops still hiding in the caverns of Rimmon and offered to make peace with them. ¹⁴The Benjamite men agreed, so the Israelites sent them the four hundred girls from Jabesh as wives, but there weren't enough to go around. ¹⁵The leaders of Israel were still grieving over the possibility of losing Benjamin as one of their tribes, and though they tried to solve the problem, they didn't have enough young women for every man at Rimmon.

¹⁶The leaders said, "As far as we know, all the Benjamite women were killed, and the girls we brought from Jabesh fell short of what was needed. Now what do we do?" ¹⁷We have to find another two hundred young women to give as wives to the rest of those men so Benjamin can flourish and continue to be part of Israel. ¹⁸We took an oath not to give our daughters in marriage to any Benjamite, and we can't go back on our oath, even if it's a bad one. ¹⁹Look, here's an idea. In a few days we'll have our annual festival at Shiloh, and Shiloh is just north of Bethel. It's east of the road that goes from Lebonah to Shechem. There are lots of unmarried young women there." ²⁰They said to the Benjamite men who still needed a wife, "Go and hide in the vineyards along the main road to Shiloh. ²¹Watch for the young women as they come out of Shiloh to join the dancing. Then each of you catch a wife and take her home with you to Benjamin. ²²When the fathers and brothers of these young women complain, we'll say to them, 'Be kind to us because of the situation we're in. We don't want to lose one of our tribes to foreigners. We weren't able to get enough young women for the men who needed a wife, and you didn't break the oath, because you didn't give your daughters to the Benjamites—they took them.' The parents will understand."

²³The Benjamite men who still needed a wife agreed. So they hid themselves in the vineyards along the main road to Shiloh, and when the young women came out of the city dancing and singing before the Lord, the men rushed out and each one took one. Then they went home to rebuild their cities and settle there. ²⁴The men of Israel left Shiloh and went home to their cities and tribes.

²⁵That's how things were in those days, because there was no central government and no king to guide the people or settle disputes between tribes. Everyone did what he thought was right.

RUTH

Elimelech's Family Moves to Moab

1 Before Israel had a king, judges maintained law and order. During their rule there was a terrible famine in the land. A man named Elimelech from Bethlehem in Judah, together with his wife and two sons, decided to move to the country of Moab. ²His wife's name was Naomi, and they had two sons, Mahlon and Kilion. Elimelech was a native of Bethlehem Ephratha but went to live in Moab because of the famine. ³Later, Elimelech became sick and died, and Naomi was left alone with her two sons. ⁴Even though the famine back home had ended, Naomi decided to stay in Moab, which was inhabited by Lot's descendants. Her two sons married Moabite girls, Orpah and Ruth. ⁵About ten years later, both men died. So Naomi was left alone with her two daughters-in-law, without a husband and without her two sons to support her.

Naomi and Ruth Return to Bethlehem

⁶So she decided to return home. The famine had long ended there and the Lord was blessing His people with plentiful harvests. ⁷She left the place where she lived, followed by her two daughters-in-law, and started back toward Bethlehem in the land of Judah. ⁸On the way, she talked to Orpah and Ruth, urging them to stay in Moab and live among their own people. After she had talked with them for a while, she prayed with them and said, "May the Lord bless you and be as kind to you as you have been to me and to my sons. ⁹May He grant that each of you find another husband and establish another home." Then she kissed each of them good-bye.

¹⁰The young women started crying and said, "But we don't want to live among our own people." ¹¹In spite of their pleas, Naomi insisted, "Go home, my daughters. Why would you want to come with me? You'd be living in Judah as foreigners, so what security would you have in coming with me?" ¹²You need to go back to your home where you'll be better off. I'm too old to marry again, but even if I did and could raise two more sons, ¹³would you wait until they were grown just so you could be part of my family? No, my daughters, you need to go back home and find a husband among your own people. It's hard to say good-bye, even harder for me than for you because you're still young. I'm old and all alone, but this is what the Lord has allowed to happen."

¹⁴They all started crying again, then Orpah decided to take Naomi's advice and return home. She kissed her mother-in-law and said good-bye. But Ruth clung to Naomi and would not let her go. ¹⁵Naomi said to Ruth, "Look, your sister-in-law is going back home and you need to go with her. Return to your people and to the gods you are familiar with. Don't come with me to live as a foreigner in a strange country with a different culture."

¹⁶Ruth answered, "Don't ask me to leave you. I want to go wherever you go and live where you live. Your people will be my people and your God, my God. ¹⁷Where you die, I want to die. May the Lord punish me severely if anything but death separates you and me." ¹⁸When Naomi heard that commitment and saw how determined Ruth was, she stopped urging her to go back home and let her come along.

¹⁹So the two women made their way to Bethlehem. When they arrived, the whole village became excited and the women said, "Is this Naomi? It is! She's come back!" ²⁰She said to them, "Don't call me Naomi anymore, for that means, Pleasant. Call me, Mara, which means Bitter, because since I left you the Lord has allowed my life to become very bitter. ²¹When I left here I had everything, but the Lord has brought me back with nothing. So why should I be called Naomi? The Lord let sickness and death strike down my husband and my two sons."

²²So Naomi returned home and brought her daughter-in-law, Ruth from Moab, with her. They arrived in Bethlehem at the time of the barley harvest.

Ruth Works in Boaz's Field

2 Naomi had a relative on her husband's side, a man of wealth and high standing in the community, whose name was Boaz. ²One day Ruth said to Naomi, "Let me go out to the fields to pick up grain that the harvesters drop and leave for the poor. I'm sure I can find someone who will let me work in his field." Naomi said, "Yes, you need to go because we're nearly out of food. The Lord be with you." ³So Ruth went and found a field that was being harvested and walked behind the harvesters, picking up the grain that had been dropped and left behind. It happened to be the field of Boaz, the relative of Naomi's deceased husband, Elimelech.

⁴Later that day, Boaz arrived from Bethlehem to see how the harvesters were doing. He greeted them by saying, "God bless all of you." They greeted him, "The Lord bless you, Boaz." ⁵Then Boaz asked the man in charge, "Who is that woman over there picking up leftovers?" ⁶The foreman said, "She's the Moabitess who came back with Naomi, the widow of Elimelech." ⁷She asked if she could follow our workers and pick up grain that was left, and I told her she could. She's been here since early this morning and has worked steadily all day long, except for brief periods when she went under our canopy over there in the field to rest for awhile."

⁸Then Boaz went over to Ruth and said to her, "Young lady, let me give you some advice. This is a huge field. Be careful you don't end up in some corner off by yourself, and don't go to another field alone to get more grain. Stay close to my servant girls for safety. ⁹Watch where they go to tie up grain and stay close to them. I've told my men not to touch you, even though you're a foreigner. When you get thirsty, go and get a drink from the jars of water the men have drawn." ¹⁰Ruth knelt and bowed with her face to the ground and then looked up at him and gratefully said, "Why should you be so kind to a foreign woman?"

¹¹Boaz replied, "I've heard how kind you've been to Naomi, your mother-in-law, since the death of your husband and how you were willing to leave your father and mother and your own land to come to live in Israel with a people you don't even know. ¹²May the Lord repay you for your kindness to Naomi. And may the God of Israel whom you have chosen to serve and under whose wings you have come for safety, watch over you and richly bless you." ¹³Ruth said, "You are a very kind man, sir. You have spoken gently to me even though I'm not one of your servants. You have made me feel safe. I do thank you."

¹⁴At mealtime Boaz called to Ruth, "Come over here under the canopy with the rest of the workers. Have some bread and dip it into the pickled relish." Ruth came and sat down, and Boaz also gave her some roasted grain. She ate until she was satisfied and saved some she had left over for Naomi. ¹⁵After she went back out to the field, Boaz spoke to his men and said, "If she gathers grain close to where the bundles are, don't scold her. ¹⁶If she gathers close to where you're harvesting, leave some stalks for her to pick up. Don't stop her."

¹⁷So Ruth gathered grain the rest of the day until late that afternoon. Then she beat out the kernels from the stalks and had enough to fill a twenty-five pound sack. ¹⁸She carried it back to town, and when Naomi saw it, she couldn't believe that Ruth had gathered all that in just one day. Then Ruth gave her the food that was left from the lunch that Boaz had given her. ¹⁹When Naomi saw that, she said, "Where did you say you gleaned today? Whose field did you work? Whoever's field it was, may the Lord bless the man who was so kind to you." Ruth told her where she had worked and all about the kindness of the man who owned it. Then she added, "The workers said that the man's name was Boaz."

²⁰Naomi exclaimed, "Boaz! The Lord bless him for being kind to the living and the dead! He's a relative of Elimelech. The Lord has surely been kind to us to guide you to pick that field." ²¹Then Ruth said, "He told me to come back and stay close to the servant girls until all his fields are harvested." ²²Naomi said, "The Lord was watching out for you. So keep going back to that field. It is good to stay close to the servant girls who are working there, because if you go to someone else's field alone, the men might harm you." ²³So the next day Ruth went back to the same field to glean more grain and stayed close to the servant girls just as she had been told. She worked in different fields of Boaz every day until both the barley and the wheat were harvested. All this time she continued to live with her mother-in-law.

Boaz Attracted to Ruth

3 One day Naomi said, "Ruth, I need to find a husband for you so you will be provided for. You're still young enough to have a family of your own." ²Boaz, the man from whose field you have been gathering and who was so kind to you, is a relative of ours. He has the right to redeem you from widowhood and perpetuate the name and heritage of your husband. This evening he and his men will be threshing the barley they have harvested. So listen to me. Here is the way to respond to the kindness he has shown to us. ³When you come back from the field, bathe and put on your best clothes and perfume. Then go down to the threshing floor where Boaz is, but don't let him see you. When he and his men have finished working and are full from their meal, ⁴watch where he goes to lie down. After he's asleep, go quietly over to him, lift up the bottom of the blanket and lie down by his feet. Sooner or later his feet will touch you, and he'll wake up. When he does, and he sees you, he'll know that I've sent you because you don't know our customs. He will tell you what to do." ⁵Ruth listened carefully, and then she said, "If you think that's the proper thing to do, I'll do it."

⁶She prepared herself as her mother-in-law had suggested and went down to the threshing floor. ⁷She got there just as the men had finished eating and had found a place to lie down. Soon they were all fast asleep. She noticed that Boaz had gone to the other side of the grain pile to lie down. After he fell asleep, she went over to where he was and quietly lifted the bottom of the blanket and lay down by his feet.

⁸During the night as Boaz turned and stretched, his feet touched something. Startled, he sat up and saw a woman lying at his feet. ⁹He whispered, "Who are you? What are you doing here?" Ruth raised up and answered quietly, "I'm Ruth. Naomi asked me to come here and according to your custom, let you know that I'm a widow of one of your relatives. She said that we need to know whether or not you're willing to redeem my widowhood, since you're our kinsman. If you're willing to care for me, just put the robe that's beside you over my shoulders."

¹⁰Boaz reached for his robe, gently put it around her shoulders, and whispered, "Ruth, the Lord bless you. You're showing even greater commitment to Naomi's family by doing this than when you first came to live in Israel. You had a perfect right to stay back home with your own people to find a husband, but you didn't. As beautiful as you are, you could have a much younger man for a husband than I, even a much richer man. But you came with Naomi to Israel to live in poverty.

¹¹Don't worry. I won't take advantage of you because of your commitment to Naomi's family. And don't worry about what others might say if they see you here with me, because this is something that relatives do. It is our custom. Besides, all the townspeople know that you're a woman of noble character. ¹²However, you should know that even though I'm your relative by marriage, there's someone else who's even a closer relative than I. ¹³Stay here tonight. Here, use one of my blankets and cover yourself and get some sleep. In the morning, I'll go to the other relative to see what he says. If he wants to provide for you, that's good, because he's a very responsible person. If not, I promise the Lord that I'll take care of both you and Naomi. Lie down now and get some sleep."

¹⁴Ruth took the blanket Boaz gave her and lay down near his feet. Before the break of dawn, she got up to leave for home before anyone could recognize her. Boaz whispered, "Don't tell anyone that you spent the night here because they might think we had other women here also." ¹⁵Then he said, "Bring me the large shawl you're wearing and hold it out." So she held it out and Boaz poured about fifty pounds of barley into it. He tied it up and put it on her back, and she went home.

¹⁶When Ruth arrived back home, Naomi met her at the door, took the bundle of grain off her shoulders, and said, "Well, tell me. How did it go? What did he say?" Ruth told her everything that Boaz had said ¹⁷and added, "He told me not to go home without a gift for my mother-in-law. So he gave me about fifty pounds of barley as a present for you." ¹⁸When Naomi heard that, she said, "Let's praise the Lord! By this present, Boaz is saying that he will not rest until he's settled the matter with your other relative. My guess is that he'll settle it today."

Boaz Marries Ruth

4 That same day, still early in the morning, Boaz went to the town gate where the city fathers usually met and sat down. He waited until Elimelech's other relative came by. Boaz called out to him, "Come over here for a minute and sit down. I need to talk to you." So he came over and sat down. ²Boaz then asked ten of the city fathers standing nearby to serve as witnesses. When they came over, he asked them to sit down and listen while he explained his situation. ³In their presence he said to Elimelech's relative, "As you know, Naomi has come back from Moab and put her husband's property up for sale. ⁴I thought you should know about it in case you wanted to buy it, because you're a closer relative to her than I am and you have a right to it first. If you want to buy it, the judges need to legalize the sale, but if you don't, then I would like to buy it." The man said, "I'll buy it."

⁵Then Boaz said, "All right, but you should know that Naomi is selling it on the condition that the buyer take care of Ruth, her daughter-in-law, by marrying her. That way the property will stay in her dead husband's family." ⁶The man answered, "If that's the case, forget it. I'll give up my right to buy it. If I bought it, I would have to manage the property for her daughter-in-law, and when her first son was born it would belong to him. I would be paying for the property, only to give it back. I can't afford to do that. So if you want to buy it and take care of Ruth and her descendants, that's up to you."

⁷In those days when someone bought or sold a piece of property, one man took off his sandal and gave it to the other in the presence of the city fathers to legalize the transaction. ⁸So the man took off his sandal and gave it to Boaz, saying, "I give up my right to buy the property." ⁹Then Boaz took the sandal and told the city fathers and the townspeople who had gathered, "You are my witnesses. Today I am buying all the property that belonged to Elimelech and his sons, Mahlon and Kilion. ¹⁰I will also take Ruth, the Moabite, Mahlon's widow, to be my wife. This will keep the property in their family and the dead man's name will not be lost from the family roster but will continue to be part of the tribe of Judah and of Israel." Then he gave the sandal back to the man.

¹¹The city fathers and the townspeople who had stopped to watch the transaction said, "We are your witnesses. The property is now yours to buy, and after you reach an agreement with Naomi, may the woman who is to be your wife be like Rachel and Leah, who had many children and built the house of Israel. May you continue to have standing in the eyes of the community and be respected in Bethlehem. ¹²May the children the Lord gives you by Ruth be as numerous as the descendants of Perez, whom Tamar conceived by Judah."

Descendants of Boaz and Ruth

¹³So Boaz bought the property and married Ruth, and she was accepted by the townspeople as one of their own. The Lord blessed her and she became pregnant and gave birth to a son. ¹⁴The women who were present at the circumcision said to Naomi, "Praise the Lord! He has given you a grandson. May he become famous throughout Israel. ¹⁵Now your family line will not die out and he will care for you in your old age. Your daughter-in-law who loves you so much, who is worth more to you than seven sons, has given you this grandson."

¹⁶Naomi took the baby in her arms and loved it as if it were her own. ¹⁷The women of the neighborhood suggested they call him, Obed, which they did. Then they spread the news throughout Bethlehem, saying, "Naomi is a grandmother! The grandmother of a baby boy!" Obed became the father of Jesse, who became the father of David.

¹⁸These are the descendants from Judah to David: Judah was the father of Perez, Perez of Hezron, ¹⁹Hezron of Ram, Ram of Amminadab, ²⁰Amminadab of Nahshon, Nahshon of Salmon, ²¹Salmon of Boaz, and Boaz of Obed, ²²who was the father of Jesse, the father of David.

Elkanah and His Family

1 A man named Elkanah, the son of Jeroham, lived in the city of Ramathaim Zophim on Mount Ephraim. His grandfather was Elihu, his great grandfather, Tohu, and his great-great grandfather, Zuph. His ancestry went back to Korah, a descendant of Levi who was the third son of Jacob. ²Elkanah had two wives, Hannah and Peninnah. Peninnah had children but Hannah had none.

³Every year Elkanah and his family went to Shiloh to worship and offer sacrifices to the Lord. Hophni and Phinehas, the sons of Eli the high priest, were helping their father at the Sanctuary when Elkanah arrived. ⁴When Elkanah's turn came to help with the sacrifices, he did so joyfully. He took portions of the meat that were his from the sacrifices and gave a portion to each member of his family, ⁵but he gave a double portion to Hannah because he loved her so much. He treated her as if she had a child even though she did not. ⁶Peninnah ridiculed Hannah for not having children, claiming that the Lord loved her more than He loved Hannah. Every chance she had, she would torment and humiliate Hannah. ⁷This went on year after year, especially when they went to Shiloh to worship the Lord. It got so bad at one festival that Hannah left the table and burst into tears.

Hannah and Eli

⁸Elkanah tried to comfort her. "Hannah," he said, "don't cry. You need to eat something. Why are you so sad? Am I not better to you than ten sons?"

⁹One day after the family had eaten, Hannah went to the Sanctuary to pray. Eli, the high priest, was sitting by the entrance to minister to the needs of the people. ¹⁰Hannah stood not far from where Eli was seated. In anguish she fell on her knees and silently cried to the Lord, telling Him that what Peninnah was doing to her was getting to be more than she could take. ¹¹She made a vow to the Lord, "Almighty Lord, please look down on my misery and help me. Please open my womb and let me bear a son. If you do, I'll give him to you and he'll be yours forever. I promise to carefully raise him and not to cut his hair as a sign that he belongs to you."

¹²Eli, the high priest, saw Hannah's mouth moving. ¹³Her eyes were closed, and though her lips moved, he heard no sound. So he decided that she had been drinking, and he scolded her, saying, ¹⁴"How long are you going to stay here and attract attention to yourself? You need to go home and sleep off your wine and stop drinking."

¹⁵Hannah got up off her knees and said to Eli, "Sir, I'm not drunk. I'm grieving. I've not touched one drop of beer or wine. I was pouring out my problems to the Lord hoping He would hear my prayer. ¹⁶I'm not the kind of woman you think I am. I've been praying to the Lord, telling Him all my troubles."

¹⁷Eli didn't know exactly what to say at first. Then he replied, "I'm sorry. Go in peace and may the Lord, the God of Israel, answer your prayer and give you what you have asked for." ¹⁸Hannah smiled through her tears and said, "I hope you will think kindly of me and remember me in your prayers." Her sadness seemed to lift, and she returned to Elkanah. At the next meal she was able to eat without being despondent.

Samuel's Birth and Dedication

¹⁹Early the next morning the family worshiped the Lord and then went back home to Ramah. The Lord remembered Hannah and answered her prayer. ²⁰In the course of time she conceived and gave birth to a son. She decided to name him Samuel, meaning Asked of God.

²¹The next year when Elkanah went to Shiloh to perform his duties and to offer the special sacrifices he had promised to bring to the Lord, Hannah stayed at home. ²²She said to her husband, "Once the boy is weaned and old enough to take care of himself without my help, I'll go with you again, but not now. When I return to Shiloh I will give him to the Lord. Then he will stay there with Eli and serve our God for the rest of his life."

²³Elkanah agreed, "Whatever you decide. Take care of the little fellow, and once he's weaned so he can take care of himself, we'll go to Shiloh together and give him to Eli. I only pray that Eli and the boy will agree so that you can keep your vow to the Lord." So Hannah stayed home and cared for the boy.

²⁴About five years later when it was time for Elkanah to make his annual trip to Shiloh, Hannah decided to go and take young Samuel with her. She also took a three-year-old bull, a measure of flour and a leather bag of fresh unfermented wine as offerings to the Lord. ²⁵When they reached Shiloh, they gave these offerings to the priest and took Samuel to Eli.

²⁶Hannah said, "Sir, I'm the woman who, a few years ago, stood near the entrance of the Sanctuary and fell on my knees and prayed for this child. ²⁷At that time, you said that the Lord would answer my prayer, whatever it was. Well, He did! He gave me a son whom I have named Samuel. ²⁸I promised the Lord that if He gave me a boy, I would give him back to the Lord to serve Him forever." Eli was deeply moved and bowed with them in prayer as they worshiped the Lord together.

Hannah's Prayer

2 Hannah prayed, "My heart is full of joy in the Lord! My strength and happiness come from Him. I can laugh again as a youth because God has given me a child. He has silenced my enemies.

²"No one is holy like the Lord. There is no other God, O Lord, but you. There is no Rock like our God. ³No one should boast about himself, for the Lord God knows all about us. What counts with the Lord are deeds, not talk. ⁴The bows of proud warriors break, but the Lord gives strength to those who stumble in their weakness. ⁵Those who were once well-fed must now work for their food. But those who were hungry now have all they want to eat. The wife who was unable to have children is hoping for seven, but the wife who had many grieves because she cannot get pregnant again.

⁶"The Lord is the source of life. He gives it and takes it away. He sends people to the grave; He also gives life. ⁷The Lord controls poverty and wealth. He humbles people, and He makes people great. ⁸He raises the poor and lifts the needy from the ash heap. He seats them with princes and gives them a throne of honor. The earth is the Lord's and its foundations are in His hands.

⁹"He guides the feet of His saints and watches over His people. He will take the wicked away to disappear into darkness. Man does not succeed by his own strength. ¹⁰Those who fight against the Lord will be destroyed. He will thunder against them from heaven. He will judge the whole world. He will give all power to His chosen King and exalt the One whom He has anointed."

¹¹So Elkanah and Hannah left young Samuel with Eli at Shiloh and went back home to Ramah. The boy stayed with Eli and helped him in his ministry for the Lord.

The Wicked Sons of Eli

¹²Eli's sons had no respect for the things of God. Their father had not disciplined them for their wicked ways. ¹³Nor were they satisfied with their share of the offerings as stipulated by the Lord. After the people had offered their sacrifices and were preparing for the sacred feast, Eli's sons would send their servants to take whatever meat they could get. ¹⁴The servants would jab their three-pronged forks into the boiling pots and take whatever stuck to their forks, whether there was enough left for the family who brought the sacrifice or not. This is how Eli's sons treated everyone who came to Shiloh.

¹⁵To make matters worse, before a sacrifice was placed on the altar, one of Eli's sons' servants would say to the man who brought the sacrifice, "Remember that part of this sacrifice belongs to my master, the priest, and he wants his share now before it is given to the Lord."

¹⁶If the man refused and reminded Eli's sons' servant that the Lord had already chosen which parts were His and which parts should go to the priests, the servant would say, "My master wants me to take the best part for him now because he wants it raw, not cooked. If you don't let me have it, I'll get the other servants and we'll take it by force." ¹⁷This was greatly against what the Lord had told the priests, and the people knew it. And Eli's sons still simply laughed about it, showing contempt for the Lord.

Samuel's Childhood Ministry

¹⁸While all this was going on, Samuel continued to stay by Eli's side, helping him as he could. He wore a little ephod made out of finely woven white linen just like the priests wore. ¹⁹Every year when his parents came to Shiloh with their sacrifices, Samuel's mother would bring him a larger robe she had made. ²⁰Eli would bless them and say, "May the Lord give you many more children to take the place of the one you gave to Him." After Elkanah carried out his duties at the Sanctuary, he and Hannah would return to their home in Ramah.

²¹As the years went by, the Lord blessed Hannah and gave her three more sons and two daughters. And Samuel stayed with Eli, learning about the services of the Lord. As he grew up he refused to follow the example of Eli's sons and the other wicked priests.

Prophecy Against Eli's Household

²²Over the years Eli had heard about the wicked things his sons were doing, but he shrank from crossing their wills. As time went on, they became more wicked. They even forced the women who served at the entrance of the Sanctuary to sleep with them. Finally, when Eli was over ninety years old, he said to his sons, ²³"Why do you keep doing such wicked things? Over the years I've heard all about what you've been doing, but I kept praying that you would come to your senses. ²⁴What I hear is not good. Everywhere I go the Lord's people are talking about you. ²⁵If a man sins against another person but makes restitution, he may be pardoned. But when a man sins against the Lord, he's solely responsible to Him. No one else can help him." But his sons didn't pay any attention to his rebuke. But God would put an end to their wickedness.

²⁶Young Samuel began to restore confidence in the priesthood, and as he grew in stature, he also grew in favor with God and with man.

²⁷About this time, a prophet of the Lord came to Eli and said, "The God of Israel has given me a message for you. He said, 'Wasn't your ancestor Aaron a slave in Egypt? ²⁸I chose him out of all the men in Israel to be my priest, to minister at my altar, to burn incense before me and to wear the garments of the high priest. I also gave him and his family a share in all the offerings to be burned on the altar. ²⁹Why then are your sons so greedy? Aren't these sacrifices and offerings mine? They are stealing what belongs to their God. And what have you done about it? How long are you going to let them do this? How long will you allow them to steal from me to satisfy their greed and fatten themselves on my sacrifices?'"

³⁰"Therefore, the Lord, the God of Israel says, 'I promised that your family would always serve me. But your sons have ignored the conditions of this promise. I will not honor those living in sin and creating disrespect for the priesthood, no matter who their ancestors are. I will only honor those who honor me.'

³¹Over the years I will cut your family off from the priesthood. Your descendants will die in the prime of life, and not one will become old. ³²In spite of the good things that I will do for Israel, there will be trouble in your family. No one in your family will live as long as you have. ³³Some of your descendants will die by the sword and those who escape will grieve in their hearts and cry bitter tears over what is happening to them.

³⁴Hophni and Phinehas will die on the same day as a sign to you that what I have said will come to pass. ³⁵I will raise up a faithful young man to serve me as high priest who will also be my prophet and will govern Israel for me. He will listen to me and do what's in my heart. I will establish his family, and his descendants will continue to serve as priests, even after Israel turns the government over to a king. ³⁶Those left in your family will come to him begging for money and food. They'll ask for any job helping the priests, just to get something to eat."

The Lord Calls Samuel

3 During the days when the boy Samuel was serving the Lord and helping Eli, messages from the Lord were few and prophetic dreams were rare.

²Eli was now very old and almost blind. One night he was asleep in his usual place near the Sanctuary, ³and the boy Samuel was also asleep. Before dawn, as the lamps in the Sanctuary began to burn low, ⁴the Lord called Samuel by name. The boy answered, "I'm here. I'm coming." ⁵He got up and ran to Eli, asking, "Did you call me?" Eli said, "No, son. I didn't call you. Go back to bed." So Samuel went back and lay down. ⁶Again the Lord called Samuel by name and the boy got up and ran to Eli, saying, "I'm here. Do you need me?" Eli said, "My son, I didn't call you. Go back and lie down."

⁷The Lord had not spoken directly to young Samuel before, so the boy didn't recognize His voice. ⁸A third time the Lord called Samuel by name and again he got up and ran to Eli, saying, "I'm here. I know you called me." Then Eli realized that the Lord had been calling the boy. ⁹So he said, "I believe the Lord is calling you, Samuel. Go, lie down and when He calls again, say, 'Yes, Lord, your servant is listening.'" Samuel went back to his cot and lay down.

¹⁰This time the Lord came close to Samuel, and the boy could sense His presence. Once again God called Samuel by name. The boy answered, "Yes, Lord, your servant is listening." ¹¹The Lord said to him, "I'm about to do something in Israel that is so strange that everyone who hears about it will be in shock. ¹²I will do everything against Eli's family that I told him I would; nothing will be overlooked. ¹³I told him I will no longer uphold his family in the priesthood because the behavior of his sons has brought contempt on the ministry and destroyed the people's respect for their God. Eli knew what his sons were doing and did nothing about it, nor did he put them out of the ministry. ¹⁴I have told Eli that I will step in and take things in hand. No amount of sacrifices, offerings or tears will change my mind. He and his family will have to face the consequences of allowing these things to go on."

¹⁵After the Lord had spoken, Samuel lay back down until it was time to get up and open the Sanctuary for the morning sacrifice. He was pained for Eli and was afraid to tell him what the Lord had said. ¹⁶Soon Eli called to him, "Samuel, my son!" The boy answered, "I'm coming." ¹⁷When he came, Eli said, "What did the Lord tell you last night? Don't hold anything back. God will be very displeased with you if you don't tell me everything He told you."

¹⁸So the boy told Eli everything the Lord had said, holding nothing back. Eli said, "The Lord is our God and He will do what is best for His people." ¹⁹And the Lord continued to bless young Samuel as he grew into manhood, and everything He had told him about Eli and his family came true.

²⁰As time went on, all Israel, from Dan in the north to Beersheba in the south, knew that Samuel had been called to function as a prophet, and they listened to what he had to say. ²¹The Lord continued to speak to him at Shiloh through visions and dreams. Through Samuel the word of the Lord came to all Israel.

The Ark of God Captured

4 About this time Israel decided to attack the Philistines without consulting the Lord. They called up their men and camped at a place later named Ebenezer, across from the Philistine army camped at Aphek, a fortress west of Shiloh. ²The Israelites attacked, and after a long and difficult battle, they were defeated, and about four thousand of their men lay dead. ³The rest of the troops withdrew, and as they came back to camp, the leaders of Israel asked, "Why did the Lord let this happen? Why did He favor the Philistines and let us be defeated?" They decided if they brought the Ark of the Covenant from Shiloh to Ebenezer, it would help them defeat the Philistines. ⁴They sent men to Shiloh who carried the Ark back with them to the Israelite camp. Hophni and Phinehas came also. God had often spoken to Israel from between the cherubim and saved them from their enemies.

⁵When the troops saw the Ark coming into the camp, they shouted with such joy that the ground shook. ⁶The Philistines heard this shouting coming from the Israelite camp and said, "Listen! What does that mean?" When they learned that the Ark of the Lord had come into the camp of the Israelites, ⁷they were afraid and said, "The Hebrews brought their God into their camp to help them fight against us. We're done for! We've never had to fight them like this before. ⁸What are we going to do? This is the God who brought all the plagues on Egypt in order to free His people and bring them out into the wilderness so they could worship Him. ⁹We need to fight as we've never fought before or we'll be defeated and will have to be subject to the Hebrews as they are to us. So let's go and show them the kind of fighting men we are!"

¹⁰Then they attacked the Israelites and slaughtered them. When the battle was over, thirty thousand Israelites lay dead and the rest scattered and ran home. ¹¹Hophni and Phinehas were also killed, and the Ark of the Covenant was captured and carried off to Philistia.

Death of Eli

¹²When that happened, a young Benjamite left the battlefield and ran the fifteen miles to Shiloh with his clothes torn and dust on his head to show his grief. ¹³He got to Shiloh late that day. Eli was sitting at the gate of the Sanctuary waiting for some news from the front because he was worried that something might happen to the Ark. The young man ran past Eli into the city. He told the people what had happened, and they all cried out in anguish and fear. ¹⁴When Eli heard them, he asked, "What is this uproar all about?" Then they had the young man come back to tell Eli the bad news. ¹⁵Eli was ninety-eight years old and nearly blind, so he had to depend on people to tell him what was going on. ¹⁶The young man said to Eli, "I've just come from the front lines and ran all the way home to tell the people what happened." Eli asked, "What did happen?" ¹⁷The young man answered, "Israel was defeated by the Philistines and thousands of our men are dead. They also killed your two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, and captured the Ark of God!" ¹⁸When Eli heard that his sons were dead and the Ark had been taken, he fell backwards off his seat, broke his neck and died. He was old and very heavy. He had served Israel as high priest for forty years.

Wife of Phinehas Dies in Childbirth

¹⁹His daughter-in-law, the wife of Phinehas, was pregnant and it was almost time for the baby to be born. When she heard that her husband and the other priests had been killed, that the Ark had been taken and that her father-in-law had just died, she went into premature labor. All this was too much for her and her life forces began to ebb away. ²⁰The women attending her tried to encourage her by telling her that she had given birth to a son, but she didn't answer. ²¹Then, with her dying breath, she whispered, "Name the boy, Ichabod, meaning God's Glory Has Departed From Israel." She said this because the Ark had been taken from Israel, her father-in-law, the high priest, was dead, and her husband had been killed in battle. ²²She said, "God's glory is gone from Israel because the Ark has been taken away."

The Ark of the Covenant Among the Philistines

5 After the Philistines had captured the Ark of God, they took it from the final battle at Ebenezer to the city of Ashdod by the Mediterranean as a trophy of victory. ²They placed it in the temple of Dagon, a god they had made whose upper body was that of a bearded man and the lower body that of a fish. They considered this idol to be the father of Baal, the god of the harvest. ³The next morning when the leaders and priests went to the temple to worship, Dagon had fallen over and lay face down in front of the Ark of the Lord. So they picked him up and put him back in place. ⁴The following morning when they went to their temple to worship, not only had Dagon fallen on his face again, but his head and hands had broken off and were lying in the doorway. Only the trunk of his body was left. ⁵So they took the Ark of God out of the temple and put it in a building by itself. From then on whenever the leaders and priests of Ashdod would go into Dagon's temple they would step over the threshold where his head and hands had lain.

⁶All the time the Ark was with the Philistines, Israel made no attempts to reclaim it. It was not a blessing to the Philistines as their leaders had thought it would be. In fact, the Lord caused the men of Ashdod and the surrounding territory to break out with tumors in the groin, a symptom of the bubonic plague. ⁷They remembered what the God of Israel had done to the people of Egypt and said, "We can't keep the Ark of the Lord any longer. Look at what has happened to our people and to Dagon!" ⁸So they called all five Philistine kings together and asked them what to do. They agreed to move the Ark out of Ashdod to the city of Gath. ⁹After it was moved, the same thing happened in Gath as had in Ashdod, causing everyone in Gath to panic. The Lord caused the men, both young and old, to break out with tumors.

¹⁰Then the people of Gath sent the Ark north to the city of Ekron in another Philistine territory, but the people there didn't want it either. They heard what had happened to the men of Ashdod and Gath and as it came into Ekron, they said, "Why are you bringing the Ark of God here? Are you trying to kill us?" ¹¹So they called the five Philistine kings together and said, "Send the Ark of God back to Israel. We don't want it. If it stays here any longer we'll all die." They said this because many of their men had already died, ¹²and many others had the tumors. The people of Ekron demanded that the Ark be sent back to Israel and cried out to their gods to help them.

The Philistines Return the Ark to Israel

6 The Ark of God was with the Philistines for seven months. ²By then the people decided that they had had it long enough and called for their priests and diviners to help solve the problem. They said, "What should we do with the Ark of God? We don't want it! Tell us how to send it back to Israel." ³The priests and diviners said, "Whatever we do, let's not send the Ark of the God of Israel back empty. We need to send an offering of some kind with it. If these tumors go away, then we'll know we were punished for the sin of taking the Ark away from the Hebrews."

⁴The Philistines asked, "What kind of appeasement shall we send with it?" The priests and diviners said, "Gifts of gold, shaped like the tumors we have and like the rats that have overrun our gardens and fields. Make five of each to represent our five territories, because even though the Ark has been in only three of them, men in all our territories are suffering from these tumors. ⁵So let's make gold copies of the tumors and of the rats that are destroying our crops and carrying the plague. We'll give these as a guilt offering to the God of the Hebrews. Maybe this will stop Him from giving us these tumors, embarrassing our gods and destroying the country. ⁶Let's not be stubborn like the king of Egypt and make fools of ourselves as he and his people did. The God of the Hebrews did not stop until the Egyptians let His people go. ⁷You must return the Ark of Israel on a new cart. Get two cows that have just had calves and hitch them to the cart. Take their newly born calves away from them. ⁸Put the Ark on the cart and place the gold copies of the tumors and rats in a box beside it as a guilt offering. Then send it off and see what happens. ⁹If the cows stay in their yoke without struggling to get back to their calves and pull the cart toward Beth Shemesh, then we'll know that we displeased the God of the Hebrews and that He is the One who brought all these troubles upon us. But if the cows fight to be free and want to run back home to their calves, then we'll know that our troubles happened by chance."

¹⁰The people did what their priests and diviners told them. They took two cows, hitched them to a new cart and took their calves home. ¹¹Then they put the Ark of God on the cart and next to it in a box they placed the gold tumors and rats as an offering to the Lord. ¹²The cows pulled the cart straight toward

Beth Shemesh, lowing as they went. They did not struggle to return to their calves. The five Philistine kings followed them as far as the border and watched to see what would happen.

¹³The people of Beth Shemesh were out harvesting their crops, but when they heard the cows, they looked up and saw the Ark of the Lord on a cart. They stopped their work and with joy ran to meet it. ¹⁴The cows pulled the cart into a field owned by a man named Joshua who lived in Beth Shemesh. They stopped beside a large rock. The people ran to get the Levites who took the Ark off the cart and set it on the ground. Then they chopped up the cart and sacrificed the cows as a burnt offering to the Lord. ¹⁵The Levites set the Ark on the rock, along with the gold copies of tumors and rats. Word quickly spread and soon people came from all around bringing their burnt offerings to be sacrificed to the Lord.

¹⁶When the five Philistine kings saw all this, they were convinced that they had made the right decision and returned to Ekron. By the time they reached home, their men's tumors were gone, and rats had stopped eating their crops. ¹⁷The five gold tumors that the Philistines had given to the Lord as an offering represented their five capital cities: Ashdod, Gaza, Ashkelon, Gath and Ekron. ¹⁸And the five gold rats represented the five territories of the five kings in which the rats were destroying the crops. The large rock in the field of Joshua where the cows stopped was a witness for years as to what had happened there. However, the Levites did nothing to prepare a suitable place for the Ark of the Lord but left it sitting out in the field.

¹⁹But the people of Beth Shemesh continued their wicked ways. Some of the men became curious about the Ark and went out and opened the cover to look inside. The Lord immediately punished them for their disobedience and seventy of them from fifty families died right there beside the Ark. The people of Beth Shemesh were stunned by what had happened and mourned their great loss.

²⁰The survivors said, "We can't touch the Ark. We need to get rid of it before more of us die. What should we do with it?" ²¹They decided to send messengers to the city of Kiriath Jearim about ten miles up in the mountains. The messengers said, "The Philistines have returned the Ark of the Lord. Come down and take it to your city, as it will be safer there."

7 The people of Kiriath Jearim loved the Lord and knew that His presence would be a blessing. So they took the Ark to the house of a Levite named Abinadab. He willingly agreed to care for it and put Eleazar his son in charge of it.

Samuel Governs Israel

²It took twenty more years of oppression from their enemies before the people of Israel realized that idolatry doesn't pay. The Ark was left at Kiriath Jearim during this time. Through Samuel's ministry the Israelites began to return to the Lord.

³He sent word out to all of Israel, "If you have decided to turn to the Lord with all your heart, then you must get rid of the idols like Baal and the figurines of the nude goddess Ashtoreth that you have in your homes. Dedicate yourselves to serving the Lord and Him alone and He will free you from the domination of the Philistines." ⁴Finally the Israelites got rid of their idols and served the Lord only.

⁵When Samuel saw this, he sent word to the representatives of the tribes and asked them to come to Mizpah to dedicate themselves and their people to the Lord. "I will intercede with the Lord for you there," he said. ⁶When the leaders came together at Mizpah they drew water from a well and poured it out before the Lord in recognition of their unworthiness. They fasted and prayed and confessed, "We have sinned against you, Lord. Please forgive us and help us not to forsake you again." Then, as evidence of their determination to serve the Lord, they made Samuel their judge and governor and invested him with authority to act as their country's leader. ⁷The Philistines learned what had happened at Mizpah, and their five territorial kings called out their troops and joined forces to attack Israel. The Israelites heard that the Philistines were coming and were afraid. They said to Samuel, ⁸"Please don't stop praying for us, because we need the Lord to protect us from the Philistines."

⁹So Samuel offered a lamb to the Lord and asked Him to protect Israel from the oncoming armies of the Philistines. The Lord heard Samuel's prayer, accepted the sacrifice and answered him. ¹⁰In fact, the sacrifice was still burning on the altar when the Philistines advanced for the attack. Then the Lord sent a terrible thunderstorm which threw the Philistines into a panic, and they began to withdraw in confusion. ¹¹The Israelite men who were at Mizpah rushed after the retreating army, pursuing them all the way to Beth Car and killing a great number of them along the way.

¹²Then Samuel had the people set up a large stone between Mizpah and Shen and they called it Ebenezer, meaning: "The Lord helped us before and He will help us again." ¹³So the Philistines were subdued and didn't attack again for years. All through the rest of Samuel's life the Lord kept the Philistines away from His people. ¹⁴All Israelite cities between Ekron and Gath that the Philistines had taken and controlled they now gave back to Israel. So Israel recovered all its territory and there was peace between the Israelites and the Philistines. Also, there was peace also between Israel and their neighbors the Amorites.

¹⁵Samuel was recognized as the official governor of Israel for the rest of his life. ¹⁶Every year he made his rounds to Bethel, Gilgal and Mizpah to hold court and settle disputes. ¹⁷But he always came back to his home in Ramah where he had built an altar to the Lord. Samuel also set up two schools of the prophets, one in Ramah where he lived and one in Kiriath Jearim where the Ark of the Lord was kept.

Israel Asks for a King

8 As Samuel grew older he turned over more and more of the responsibilities of governing Israel to his two sons. ²The name of his firstborn son was Joel and the second was Abijah. They lived in Beersheba at the southern end of the country. ³They didn't follow their father's example, but became more interested in making money dishonestly than in serving the Lord. Soon they were accepting bribes and perverting justice.

⁴So the leaders of the tribes came to Samuel at Ramah and said to him, ⁵"You're getting up in years and your sons are not at all like you. We need a strong central government with a king like the other nations around us instead of being only loosely-knit tribes." ⁶When Samuel heard this, he was deeply hurt that his leadership was no longer appreciated and that he was being asked to step aside. He said nothing, but took it to the Lord in prayer. ⁷The Lord rebuked him and said, "You're not listening to what they're really saying. They're not rejecting you, they're rejecting me. They don't want me to be their king because they want someone they can see and show off. They want to be like the people around them. ⁸This has been their attitude off and on ever since they left Egypt. This is the problem Moses had at the foot of Mount Sinai when they made a golden calf. That's why they turned to other gods and worshiped them instead of me. Now they're doing to you what they've done to me. ⁹But go ahead and listen to them. If they insist on having a king, then warn them what it will be like and what a king will do to them."

¹⁰So Samuel told the leaders and the people everything the Lord had said to him. ¹¹He warned them about having a king, saying, "Have you ever thought what is involved and what it costs to support a king? He'll take your sons and turn them into professional soldiers. Some will drive his war chariots, others will serve in his cavalry and still others will be his foot soldiers. ¹²Some will become officers in charge of fifty, a hundred or a thousand men. Others will be used as laborers to work the king's fields and reap his harvests. Still others will make his weapons of war and build his chariots. ¹³He'll also take your daughters to work for him as bakers and cooks to feed his staff and all his troops. Others will clean his palace and make decorations and perfumes for his various state occasions.

¹⁴"He'll take the best of your fields, vineyards and olive groves which the Lord gave you and claim them for himself. He won't even ask you if he can have them. ¹⁵On top of that he will tax you a tenth of your increase so he can live in luxury and provide for the families of his officials and staff. ¹⁶He'll take the best of your servants, your cattle and your donkeys for himself without even asking, and you won't be able to do a thing about it. ¹⁷You'll end up being his slaves and there will be no court of appeal. One tenth of everything you own will be his. ¹⁸When that happens you'll cry to the Lord for help and wish you had never asked to have a king. But the Lord will not help you solve your problems then because you must learn the consequences of relying on your own wisdom."

¹⁹The leaders would not listen to Samuel's counsel. "We have thought about all this, but we still want a king," they said. ²⁰"He'll not only be our governor but will lead our men into battle as kings of other countries do." ²¹When Samuel saw that they were determined to have their way, he told the Lord what they had said. ²²The Lord replied, "Give them what they want. Let them have a king." Then Samuel returned to the leaders and told them that they could have a king, but they must go back home. The Lord would choose one for them.

Saul and Samuel Meet

9 There was an influential and wealthy man named Kish from the tribe of Benjamin. His father was Abiel, the son of Zeror, the son of Becorath, the son of Aphiah, a descendant of Benjamin who was a son of Jacob. ²This man had a son named Saul, a handsome man in the prime of youth. He was head and shoulders taller than anyone in Israel and had a very commanding presence.

³One day some donkeys belonging to Saul's father wandered away and got lost. So Kish called in his son and said, "Take one of our servants and the two of you see if you can find the donkeys." ⁴Saul did as his father asked, and he and the servant searched throughout the local area and then over into the hill country of Ephraim around Shalishah, but without success. They went on to Shaalim and looked around there but still didn't find them. Then they decided to go through the territory of Benjamin and look around, but the donkeys were nowhere to be found.

⁵When they reached the area of Zuph, Saul said to the servant, "Come, let's go back, or my father will stop worrying about the donkeys and start worrying about us." ⁶The servant answered, "There's a man of God near here in Ramah who is highly respected because everything he says comes true. Let's go into town and see him. Maybe he can tell us where the donkeys are." ⁷Saul said, "If we go, what can we give him? We don't have any money, and we ate all the bread and fruit we had. We don't have a gift to offer." ⁸The servant replied, "Look, I have a tenth of an ounce of silver. It's not much, but if he accepts a quarter of a shekel and tells us where the donkeys are, it'll be worth our time to go to see him." ⁹It was the practice in Israel that if a man wanted to have a direct answer from God, he would go to see the prophet

(also called a seer, meaning the one who sees and understands God's will). ¹⁰Saul said to his servant, "All right, let's go." So they went to Ramah where Samuel lived. The town was situated on a hill.

¹¹As they made their way up the hill they met some girls coming out of town to draw water from the city well. They asked, "Is the seer in town?" ¹²The girls answered, "Yes, in fact he came into town today just ahead of you. If you want to talk to him, you'd better hurry because he'll soon be offering a sacrifice over on that high point." ¹³You shouldn't have any trouble finding him because he's in town inviting people to the service. He must first conduct the service and bless the sacrifice. Then afterwards there will be a sacred meal and everyone will eat." ¹⁴So Saul and his servant went into town to look for the man of God. As they approached the town, Samuel was coming out to go up the hill which the girls had pointed out, to offer sacrifices to the Lord and to have the sacred meal.

¹⁵Now the day before, the Lord had spoken to Samuel about Saul and had said to him, ¹⁶"About this time tomorrow I will send you a man from the tribe of Benjamin whom I want you to anoint as prince over Israel, who will eventually become their king under my authority. I have seen what the Philistines are doing to Israel and I have heard their cry. So I have chosen this man to deliver my people from their oppression." ¹⁷When Samuel saw Saul coming toward him, the Lord said to him, "This is the man I told you about yesterday. He will lead my people." ¹⁸Saul stopped Samuel on the road and said, "Sir, could you tell us where we can find the seer's house?" ¹⁹Samuel said, "I'm the seer. I've been expecting you. Go to that high point over there and after the sacrificial service I want you to join us for the sacred meal. After that we need to talk some more about what's really on your heart, and then tomorrow morning you can be on your way. ²⁰Don't worry about the donkeys you've been looking for the last three days. They've been found. You are the kind of man the people's hearts are longing after to be their leader." ²¹Saul said, "But I'm only a Benjamite, one of the smallest and least important tribes in Israel. My family isn't even looked up to within my own tribe. So why are you even saying such a thing?"

²²Then Samuel walked with Saul and the servant to the place of worship. After the service he invited them to join him for the sacred meal and asked them to sit next to him at the head of the table. There were about thirty guests there that day. ²³As the cook was getting ready to serve, Samuel went over to him and said, "Take the piece of meat I told you to set aside for me and give it to the tall young man sitting next to me." ²⁴So the cook returned with the choice thigh and set it in front of Saul. Samuel said, "I've saved this especially for you, so enjoy it. The Lord told me you would be coming, and I want you to feel at home with me and the people I've invited." So Saul and his servant relaxed and enjoyed the meal together with the other guests.

²⁵After the meal Samuel took Saul back to town to his own house. There they went up on the flat roof to enjoy the evening breeze and talk together about Israel. In his heart Saul had been very much concerned about his country and Samuel told him that the Lord knew it. ²⁶Early the next morning Samuel called up to Saul who was sleeping on the roof, "Get up. You should be on your way." Then Saul and the servant got up and prepared to leave. Samuel walked with them to the edge of town.

Samuel Anoints Saul as King

²⁷As they were walking along Samuel said to Saul, "Tell the servant to go on ahead because I have a personal message for you from the Lord."

10 Then Samuel took a small clay bottle from inside his robe. He asked Saul to bend down, and he poured some oil on his head. Then he kissed him on both cheeks and said, "With this oil the Lord has anointed you to rule over Israel, to lead his people and deliver them from their enemies. The Lord will give you three signs that He has called you to rule over His inheritance. ²On your way home, as you pass Rachel's tomb near Zelzah on the border between Ephraim and Benjamin, you'll meet two men. They'll tell you that the donkeys you were looking for have been found and that your father is now worried about you. He's been asking, 'What about my son? Has anyone seen him?'"

⁵"When you reach the Hill of God near your home in Gibeah where the Philistine garrison is, you'll meet some students from the School of the Prophets coming down the hill singing praises to God, accompanied by lyres, tambourines, flutes and harps. They'll be dramatizing the various duties of a prophet and the words they sing will be sacred truth set to music. ⁶Then the Spirit of the Lord will come upon you and you will join them and sing songs you've never sung before. As you do this, the Lord will open your mind, and you'll understand things about God and His claim on you. He'll give you the gift of leadership and you'll be a changed person.

⁷"After these experiences, return home and go about your regular work, but don't think that the Lord has forgotten you. He's still with you. ⁸Not long after that, the Lord will impress you to go to Gilgal. I'll be going there to sacrifice both burnt offerings and peace offerings to the Lord. You'll get there about a week ahead of me, and then I'll come and tell you what the Lord wants you to do next."

⁹As Saul left Samuel, the Lord gave him a new heart and he became a converted man. All the things that Samuel had predicted happened to Saul that same day. ¹⁰When he got to Gibeah the ministerial students were coming down the hill and the Spirit of the Lord came upon him and he joined them in praising the Lord with songs he hadn't known before. ¹¹People who knew him said, "Isn't that Saul, the son of Kish? You mean he has decided to attend the School of the Prophets?" ¹²A man standing nearby overheard their conversation and said, "Does it make any difference who he is, or who his father is or who the father is of any of these young men? The important thing is that they've been called by the Spirit of the Lord!" From that day on the people accepted Saul as one preparing to work for the Lord. ¹³After they stopped singing, Saul decided to go back up the hill with them and join them in worship.

¹⁴When he and the servant finally reached home, his uncle greeted them, "Where have you two been?" They answered, "Looking for the lost donkeys. But when we couldn't find them, we went to Samuel to see if he could help us." ¹⁵His uncle said, "What did Samuel say?" ¹⁶Saul replied, "He told us that the donkeys had already been found and that we should go home." But Saul didn't tell him all the other things that Samuel had said or that he had anointed him to lead Israel.

Saul Proclaimed King

¹⁷The time finally came for Samuel to let the people know that the Lord had chosen Saul to be their leader. So he called the leaders of all the tribes to meet him at Mizpah. ¹⁸When they assembled he said to them, "This is what the Lord God of Israel said: 'I led you out of Egypt and delivered you from Pharaoh's army. I brought you into this land and subdued your enemies. ¹⁹I am the God who helps you get out of trouble and who stands by you when you have problems. After all this, you've rejected me and asked for a king to fight your battles for you. Because that's what you want, I will give you what you ask for. Arrange yourselves by tribes, by clans and by families.'" The people did so and then waited in silence.

²⁰Samuel presented before the Lord the leaders of each tribe. Lots were cast in a solemn ceremony, and the tribe of Benjamin was chosen. ²¹From the tribe of Benjamin, the clan of Matri was chosen and then the family of Kish. From the family of Kish, the Lord chose Saul. But when the leaders and the people looked for him, he could not be found. ²²They inquired of the Lord, "Do you suppose he's not here yet?" The Lord said, "Saul is here. He's hiding behind the supplies and equipment." ²³They ran over and brought him out. When he stood up, he was a head taller than anyone else. ²⁴Samuel said, "This is the man the Lord has chosen! There is no other man like him in all of Israel—tall, strong and handsome." They all shouted, "Long live the king!"

²⁵Samuel explained to the leaders the rights and duties of a king. After that he dismissed them and sent them home. Later he wrote all these things down in a book and placed it in the Holy Place of the Sanctuary for future reference. ²⁶Saul, too, went home and the Lord impressed some of the most powerful leaders of Israel to accompany him. ²⁷But others objected, each faction having its own candidate, and they refused to accept the Lord's choice. They did not give Saul the customary gifts people give a new king. They said, "He was hiding in the supplies. How is he going to lead us?" Saul said nothing to all this. When he got home, he sent away the leaders who had come with him and quietly went about his work as a farmer, leaving his future in the hands of the Lord.

Saul Defeats the Ammonites

11 About a month later, Nahash, king of the Ammonites, marched against the city of Jabesh in Gilead. He had oppressed the people of Gad and Reuben and gouged out the right eyes of all the men of war he had captured, but seven thousand had escaped and fled to Jabesh for protection. The city fathers said to Nahash, "Make a peace treaty with us, and we'll turn these men over to you and submit to your rule." ²Nahash said, "I'll make a peace treaty with you on the condition that you'll let me gouge out everyone's right eye so you'll remember who's over you."

³The city fathers said, "Give us seven days to think about it. We want to see if any of our other tribes will come and help us. If not, we'll accept your terms." Nahash was so confident of Israel's weakness that he said, "All right, one week only, but no more." ⁴Then two messengers went to Gibeah where Saul lived and told the people about the terms of the peace treaty that Nahash was asking for. When the people of Gibeah heard this, they wept in despair.

⁵Just then Saul came in from the field with a pair of oxen and asked, "Why are all the people crying? What has happened?" They told him what the men from Jabesh had said about the terms of the peace treaty. ⁶When Saul heard that, the Spirit of the Lord came on him, and he was filled with righteous anger. ⁷He killed his two oxen, cut them in pieces and sent parts of them to the leaders of all the tribes with this message: "This is what will happen to the oxen of anyone who refuses to come and help Saul and Samuel in the battle against the Ammonites." When the people heard this, they knew it was a call from the Lord, and they responded willingly. ⁸Thirty thousand troops from Judah and three hundred thousand from all the other tribes of Israel met Saul at Bezek.

⁹Then Saul sent messengers to the people of Jabesh telling them that by noon the next day they would be free. When the people of Jabesh heard this, they gave a shout of joy. ¹⁰Then the city fathers sent this message to Nahash, "Tomorrow evening the week is up and if no help comes by then, we'll surrender the city to you and accept your terms of peace." ¹¹The next morning before dawn Saul divided his troops into three groups and launched his attack from three sides. He ordered his men to show no mercy. So they went after the Ammonites with fury and slaughtered them. By noon they had scattered them everywhere so that no two were found together.

¹²When the battle was over Saul's men said, "Where are those who didn't want Saul to be our king? Bring them here and we'll execute them." ¹³Saul heard about their plan and said to his men, "No one will be killed who didn't want me to be king. Today is a day of victory! This is a day to praise the Lord for what He has done for us!" ¹⁴News of the victory reached Samuel and he sent word throughout Israel to send their leaders to Gilgal for the coronation of Saul. ¹⁵So they came, and there before the Lord and all Israel, they accepted Saul as their king. Then they joined Samuel and Saul in bringing peace offerings to the Lord, and all Israel celebrated.

Samuel's Farewell Address

12 Then Samuel said, "I've set a king over you as you asked me to. ²Now he's your leader. As for me, I'm old and gray and my sons are now on their own. I've served the Lord since I was a boy and I've been your leader all my adult life. ³So here I am. If I have done anything wrong, I want you to tell me. I want you to say it publicly in the presence of the Lord and your king who's standing here beside me. Have I taken anyone's ox or donkey? Is there anyone here whom I have cheated? Have I been unfair or have I oppressed any of you? Have I ever accepted a bribe from any of you or shut my eyes to your wrongdoing? If so, you need to tell me because I want to make it right with you.”

⁴The leaders said, “We don’t know of anyone who has complained about you. No one has ever told us that you cheated them, oppressed them or took anything from them.” ⁵Samuel said, “The Lord is witness to what you just said, as is your king, that you have found me to be innocent of any wrongdoing.” The leaders said, “The Lord is our witness.”

⁶Then Samuel continued, “Let me remind you of a few things. It was the Lord who chose Moses and Aaron to be our leaders and brought our ancestors out of Egypt. ⁷Listen to what I have to say because I’m going to tell you about some of the wonderful things the Lord has done for you and your fathers. ⁸After Jacob came to Egypt, our ancestors were made slaves. They cried to the Lord for help. He heard their cries and sent Moses and Aaron to help them. He brought them out of Egypt and into this land. ⁹But soon our fathers forgot what the Lord had done for them. So He allowed Eglon, king of Moab, and Sisera, who commanded Jabin’s army at Hazor, and also the Philistines and others to come against the children of Israel. ¹⁰Our people cried to the Lord, ‘We have sinned! We have turned away from the Lord and made Baal and Ashtoreth our gods. Please forgive us our sins and deliver us from our enemies. We promise to love and serve you.’

¹¹“The Lord heard their cries and sent men like Gideon, Barak, Jephthah, Samson and others to save them from their enemies. The Lord also has come to your rescue, as you well know. ¹²But when you heard that Nahash, king of the Ammonites, and his troops had subdued Gilead, you panicked and demanded a king. You said, ‘Give us a king like the other nations have,’ and you completely ignored the fact that the Lord was your King. Some of you wanted to be king yourselves, so you pushed the idea as hard as you could.

of king you asked for—tall, strong, good-looking and now an outstanding general. The Lord selected him for you and gave you the kind of man you wanted. ¹⁴You need to repent of your sin of losing confidence in the Lord as your King. You must honor Him by accepting His counsel and obeying Him. You must not rebel against His commands. Then all will go well with you and your king. ¹⁵But if you don’t listen to the Lord and you rebel against Him and don’t do what He asks you to do, He’ll turn away from you and stop protecting you, just as He did with your ancestors. ¹⁶To let you know that I’m speaking for the Lord, watch and see what He will do. ¹⁷It is now the dry season and the time of the wheat harvest. I’m going to ask the Lord to send a violent thunderstorm and heavy rains today, but not on your crops. This should impress on your minds the wicked thing you have done in turning away from the Lord’s leadership and asking for a king.”

¹⁸Samuel prayed, and the Lord sent a violent thunderstorm and heavy rains, but not on the crops. The leaders of Israel stood in fear as the rains came and violent thunder shook the earth. ¹⁹Then they cried out to Samuel, “We have sinned against God! Pray that He won’t strike us with lightning and kill us all! We’ve added to our sins by asking for a man to be our king in place of the Lord! We admit that we’ve done wrong!”

²⁰The Lord heard their cries and accepted their repentance and the rains stopped. Then Samuel said to them, “Don’t be afraid. You won’t die. You’ve confessed and repented of your sins and the Lord has forgiven you. Now don’t turn your backs on Him but serve Him with all your hearts and souls and minds as you should. ²¹Don’t go back to worshipping your useless idols. They can’t help you. They can’t rescue you from your enemies because there are no other gods. They’re useless. ²²You belong to the Lord. For the sake of His own integrity and because He loves you so much, the Lord won’t turn against you. He's the One who has chosen you to be His special people.

²³“As for me, I'm not going to stop praying for you. I won't sin against the Lord and His people by brooding in disappointment over what you have done. I love you and will do all I can to help you and to teach you what is right. ²⁴Just be sure to stay close to the Lord. Respect Him and do what He asks you, and do it with all your heart. Never forget what He has done for your ancestors and for you. ²⁵But if you lose faith in the Lord and turn back to your idols, both you and your king will be conquered and destroyed.”

Saul Attacks the Philistines

13 Saul was over thirty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned for forty years. He had completed his first year as king of Israel and was in his second year when he began to subdue the Philistines.

²He took three thousand troops and went against the Philistines because they still controlled some large sections of Israel. Two thousand troops were under his personal command at Michmash and another thousand under command of his son Jonathan in the hill country about three miles from Gibeah. The rest of the troops, he sent home. ³Jonathan attacked and defeated the Philistine outpost at nearby Geba. Word quickly spread and the Philistines called for reinforcements. Then Saul sent messengers with rams' horns throughout the land of Israel declaring all-out war on the Philistines. ⁴The messengers told the people that Saul had defeated the Philistine garrison at Geba (though it was really Jonathan who had done it). The people of Israel knew how much the Philistines hated them and that what Saul had done was a declaration of war. So they answered the call to arms and joined Saul at Gilgal about twelve miles east of Michmash, where he had retreated from the advancing Philistine army.

⁵The Philistines consolidated their forces. They had three thousand chariots of war, six thousand horsemen and so many foot soldiers, they could hardly be counted. They marched toward Michmash where they hoped to meet Saul's army. ⁶News of the advancing Philistine forces terrified the Israelites. They remembered their defeat at Shiloh when the Ark had been taken. So now, many of their troops went to hide among the rocks or in caves, pits, thickets and wells. ⁷Others crossed the Jordan River into the territory of Gad in Gilead just to get away. Saul stayed at Gilgal with his handpicked troops, but even they were desperately afraid of the Philistines.

⁸When Saul called for Samuel, he was told to wait at Gilgal for seven days, then Samuel would come and offer sacrifices to the Lord and pray for God's help against the Philistines. This delay was a test of Saul's obedience and faith. During that week of waiting, Saul did not encourage his men or strengthen their faith by reminding them of what the Lord had done in the past. ⁹As he watched more and more of his men leave, he became frantic and decided to quiet their fears. He said, “Bring me some animals for a whole burnt offering and a peace offering.” Then, dressed in his armor and weapons of war, he offered these animals to the Lord.

¹⁰Just then Samuel arrived. Saul went to meet him and welcomed the old prophet with open arms. ¹¹Samuel already knew what was happening, and he said to Saul, “What have you done? Couldn't you have waited a little longer?”

Saul excused his disobedience, saying, “When I saw that so many of my men were leaving, that this was the seventh day of waiting and you still hadn't come to offer the morning sacrifice, and also that the Philistine army was camped just a few miles away ready to attack us, I got desperate. ¹²I said, ‘The Philistines will attack me here at Gilgal and I haven't even asked the Lord to help me.’ That's when I decided to offer the sacrifices myself.”

¹³Samuel replied, "That was a very foolish thing for you to do. The Lord explicitly said that no one but priests are to offer sacrifices, and they must be dressed for worship. You've publicly disobeyed the Lord's instructions. If the Lord were to permit your family to continue to rule Israel, it would look as if He approved of what you have done. He would be excusing your sin. If you had held on just a little longer, I would have been here and things would have turned out differently. The Lord would have blessed you, and you and your descendants would have always ruled Israel.

¹⁴But now He can't do that because you not only disobeyed His command, but you led your men to look to you for direction instead of to God. So the Lord has no choice but to take the kingdom from your descendants and give it to someone who will do what He says, a man after His own heart, one who will make Him first in everything he does."
¹⁵Then Samuel left Gilgal and went to Gibeah. And when Saul counted his men, he found that only six hundred were still with him.

Israel Without Weapons

¹⁶So he tried to make up in heroics what he lacked in obedience and marched his men west toward Geba just across the valley from Michmash where the Philistines were. ¹⁷In the meantime, the Philistines sent out three raiding parties to ravage the country for food. One detachment turned toward Ophrah in the area of Shual, ¹⁸the other toward Beth Horon, and the third toward the Valley of Zeboiim facing the Judean desert.

¹⁹There were no blacksmiths in all of Israel because the Philistines controlled the flow of iron and other metals that came inland from the coast in order to keep the Israelites from making swords or spears. ²⁰When Israel wanted metal farming tools they had to buy them from the Philistines. They even had to go to them to have them sharpened. ²¹The charge for sharpening plowshares and hoes was two small silver coins. For sharpening axes and repairing oxen goads, it was one small silver coin. ²²So at this time the Israelites had neither swords nor spears, except Saul and Jonathan. The rest of the men had only bows and arrows and sling shots. ²³When the Philistines heard that Saul and Jonathan had joined forces, they immediately sent a reinforcement of troops to defend the Michmash Pass.

Jonathan's Faith

14 The Lord impressed Jonathan to attack the main Philistine camp at Michmash. Jonathan said to his armor bearer, "Let's sneak over to this Philistine garrison and take them by surprise." But he didn't tell his father. ²Meanwhile, Saul had set up his tent under a huge pomegranate tree by the threshing floor of Migron, between Gibeah and Geba, not far from Michmash. With him was the reduced force of six hundred men who had marched there from Gilgal. ³Among them was a priest named Ahijah, the grandson of Phinehas. Phinehas was one of the sons of Eli killed in the battle of Shiloh when the Philistines had taken the Ark. Ahijah had the holy breastpiece with him. No one noticed that Jonathan and his armor bearer were gone. ⁴On either side of the Michmash Pass, which Jonathan had to go through to get to the Philistines, were two huge overhanging cliffs, one called Bozez and the other Seneh. ⁵One was on the north side toward the city of Michmash, and the other was on the south side toward Geba.

⁶Jonathan said to his armor bearer, "Let's go down through the pass underneath those overhanging rocks so that no one will see us until we get near the Philistine garrison. Pray that the Lord will be with us because He can give victory to many or to few." ⁷His armor bearer agreed, "Let's put our trust in the Lord and go on ahead. I'm with you."

⁸Then Jonathan said, "All right, let's go. We'll make our way down the gorge and when we get near the Philistine camp, we'll let them see us. ⁹If they challenge us by saying, 'If you want to fight, stay where you are and we'll come down and teach you a thing or two,' then we'll slip into the shadows and make our way back here. ¹⁰But if they challenge us by saying, 'If you want to fight, show your courage and come on up here,' that will be a sign from the Lord that He'll fight for us and give us the victory." The armor bearer agreed.

¹¹So when they got near the outpost they let the Philistine guards see them climbing around the rocks down in the gorge. The guards laughed and said, "Look! The Hebrews are scared of us and are crawling out of the holes they've been hiding in." ¹²Then they shouted to Jonathan, "If you want to fight, come on up here and we'll teach you how!" Jonathan turned to his armor bearer and said, "That's the sign we've been praying for. Follow me and we'll go up to meet them as they've asked us to do. The Lord has already given us the victory."

¹³So they slipped back into the shadows, went a little farther down the pass and crawled on their hands and knees up the other side to where the Philistines were. Since Jonathan and his armor bearer had not answered them, the guards assumed that the two Hebrews had slipped back home. Jonathan took them by surprise, killed them and then attacked the garrison. Jonathan took the lead, and his armor bearer, who now had one of the Philistine swords, was close behind him. ¹⁴The Lord protected them, and in a small area of less than half an acre, Jonathan and his armor bearer killed twenty men.

¹⁵Then the earth began to shake and the Philistines realized that the God of Israel was against them. Suddenly, the troops in the camp, those nearby and those who had raided the area for food, all began to panic. In confusion, they thought their buddies were enemy troops, and they began to slaughter one another. ¹⁶Saul's men also felt the earthquake and when his sentries looked over to the Philistine side, they saw them running in all directions and knew something had happened. ¹⁷By Saul's order they quickly took count of their own men and found that Jonathan and his armor bearer were missing. ¹⁸Saul said to Ahijah, "Put on the holy vest that you wear before the Ark and ask the Lord what we should do. While you're praying, we'll get ready for battle."

¹⁹While Saul was still talking to Ahijah, the noise from the Philistine camp got louder and louder. So he said, "Forget it! There's no time to pray now!" ²⁰So he took his men and rushed over to the other side of the pass. When they got there, they found the Philistines in utter confusion. Their troops were killing each other left and right. ²¹Some of the local Hebrews had joined the Philistine army, but when they saw what was happening they deserted and joined Saul and Jonathan. ²²When news of the battle reached the troops that had left Saul at Gilgal, those who had hidden in caves, pits and wells in the mountains of Ephraim came out and also joined forces with Saul and Jonathan. The Philistines were now on the run, with the Hebrews in hot pursuit. ²³So the Lord turned the tide of battle, and that day the Israelites defeated the Philistines and pursued them all the way to their homeland beyond Beth Aven and Aijalon.

Saul's Rashness

²⁴By day's end, Saul's men were worn out, because he had made them take an oath that they would not eat until they had gained complete victory over the Philistines. If they had, they would have been executed—so none of his men had eaten. ²⁵As they were passing through the woods, they came across a wild bee's nest with honey oozing from it. ²⁶They didn't dare taste it because of the oath Saul had made them take. ²⁷But Jonathan hadn't been there when they took the oath, so he stopped and jabbed the tip of his sword in the nest and pulled out a honeycomb. He raised it to his mouth and licked off the honey, which renewed his energy. ²⁸One of the men saw him and told Jonathan about the oath his father had made the troops take before they went into battle. Then he added, "That's why the men are so weak and can't keep going."

²⁹Jonathan said, "That was a foolish thing for my father to do. It will spell trouble because the victory will not be as complete as he would like it to be, simply because the men won't have enough energy to keep going. ³⁰It would have been much better if the men could have picked up some food to eat with the other plunder they stripped from the dead Philistines. That way we could have kept up with the Philistines and killed more of them than we have."

³¹When the day was over and the Israelites had defeated the Philistines from Michmash to Aijalon, a distance of more than twenty miles, they were utterly exhausted. ³²When evening came, they killed the animals they had taken from the Philistines and ate the meat with the blood still in it. ³³Someone said to Saul, "Look! The men are sinning by eating meat that still has blood in it!" Saul shouted to his troops, "You're traitors to the faith! Find a big stone and roll it over here to me, now! ³⁴Bring your sheep and calves and slaughter them over here! Don't sin against the Lord by eating meat with blood still in it!" So that night everyone brought their animals and killed them in the presence of Saul and did as he said. ³⁵Then Saul built an altar to the Lord out of stones and asked Ahijah to offer sacrifices of thanksgiving on it. This was the first time Saul had ever built an altar to the Lord to express his thanksgiving.

³⁶After the service Saul said to his men, "Tonight, let's go down and invade the main camp of the Philistines and kill the rest of them, even if it takes us all night. In the morning we can enjoy the spoils of war." The troops said, "Do whatever you think is best." But Ahijah the priest said, "Let's ask the Lord what to do." ³⁷So Saul prayed, asking the Lord whether or not he should attack the Philistines that night and if he did, would the Lord give him the victory. But the Lord didn't answer him. ³⁸Then Saul thought that maybe the Lord didn't answer because someone had broken the oath he had made his troops take earlier that day. So he said, "We need to find out who has sinned against the Lord by eating something while we were in battle. That's why the Lord isn't answering us. ³⁹Let me tell you that whoever sinned against the Lord will pay for it with his life, even if it's my own son!" But no one said a word.

⁴⁰Saul said, "All right, let's draw lots. You men stand over there, and my son and I will stand over here." The officers replied, "If that's what you want to do, that's fine."

⁴¹Saul prayed to the Lord again, "Lord, why didn't you answer me the first time and let us know whether or not we should attack the Philistines tonight? If the fault is in me or my son, let me know." So they drew lots and the lot fell on Saul and Jonathan, but the officers and their men were cleared. ⁴²Then Saul said, "Let's draw lots between me and my son." And the lot fell on Jonathan.

⁴³Saul turned to him and said, "What did you do? Tell me!" So Jonathan told him, "I just licked a little honey from the tip of my sword. Must I die when I didn't even know about the oath?" ⁴⁴Saul said, "There's no excuse! May God strike me dead if I don't make you pay for this with your life. This is jeopardizing my final victory over the Philistines!"

⁴⁵But the officers and their men defended Jonathan. They said, "Should we execute someone whom the Lord used to defeat the Philistines and give us victory? Never! No one will touch a hair of Jonathan's head!" So the troops saved Jonathan from being executed by his own father. ⁴⁶Then Saul decided not to invade the camp of the Philistines as he had planned. Instead he withdrew his men from the area and first thing in the morning took them back home.

Saul's Other Wars

⁴⁷But Saul didn't stop fighting. He continued to attack Israel's enemies such as the Moabites, the Ammonites, the Edomites, the kings of Zobah and the Philistines. In all those battles he and his men were victorious. ⁴⁸He even fought off the fierce Amalekites when they attacked Israel and prevented them from plundering the land. ⁴⁹Saul's other sons were: Ishvi, also called Ishbosheth, and Malchishua. He also had two daughters: Merab and Michal. ⁵⁰His wife was Ahinoam, the daughter of Ahimaaz. The commander of his army was his cousin Abner, the son of his uncle Ner. ⁵¹Saul's father Kish and Ner were brothers, both sons of Abiel. ⁵²All the rest of his life Saul had to fight off the Philistines because he didn't pursue them the day the Lord blessed Jonathan. Whenever Saul saw a strong or brave man, he took him into his army.

Saul's Second Chance

15 One day Samuel went to Saul and said, "When the Lord told me to anoint you king over Israel, I did. Now listen to this message from the Lord and this time do exactly what He tells you to do. He's giving you another chance to redeem yourself. ²The Lord Almighty said, 'I want you to go and drive out the Amalekites who have come back into the land and pursue them until you totally defeat them so they won't attack Israel again. When my people came out of Egypt, the Amalekites showed them no mercy and tried to keep them from going into Canaan. So show them no mercy. ³Go and attack them and completely destroy everything they have. That's the only way to stop them from attacking my people again. Let nothing live. Put to death men, women, infants, children, cattle, sheep, oxen, camels and donkeys. That will make a statement to other nations to leave Israel alone.'"

⁴Then Saul called out his army and assembled them at Telaim in the southern part of Judah close to the Amalekites. More than two hundred thousand men came from all over Israel, ten thousand from Judah alone. ⁵He marched his men to the city of Amalek where Agag the king lived and set up an ambush in a dry river bed. ⁶He sent a message to the Kenites, descendants of Hobab, Moses' brother-in-law, who had joined the children of Israel when they first came out of Egypt and settled in the southern part of Judah. He said to them, "You need to move your families out of the area so no one gets killed when the fighting starts. You were kind to our people, and we haven't forgotten that." So the Kenites moved their families out of the area away from the Amalekites.

⁷Then Saul attacked the Amalekites all the way from Havilah to the wilderness of Shur just east of Egypt. ⁸He took the city of Amalek and ordered his men to kill everything that moved except King Agag. They were to capture him and bring him back alive. ⁹So all the Amalekites in that part of the country were destroyed, except King Agag. But the best of the sheep, cattle, young bulls and lambs, plus anything else that was of value, they kept for themselves. And Saul did nothing to stop them. But they did destroy everything else.

God Rejects Saul as King

¹⁰Then the Lord said to Samuel, ¹¹"I'm disappointed with Saul as king because this is the second time he has openly disobeyed me. I must stop blessing him or the people will think that it doesn't matter if their king obeys me or not." When Samuel heard this, he broke down and cried all night, praying that somehow the Lord would find another way to deal with the problem. ¹²Early the next morning he went to meet with Saul. The people told him that he and his men had been camped near the city of Carmel where Saul had set up a monument to honor his victory over the Amalekites, but he and his men had moved on down to Gilgal.

¹³So Samuel went to Gilgal. When he reached the camp, Saul came out to meet him and said, "Samuel, blessings on you. I'm glad you've come. I've got some good news for you. I've defeated the Amalekites and have done everything the Lord asked me to do." ¹⁴Samuel said, "What's all this mooing of cattle and bleating of sheep that I hear?" ¹⁵Saul said, "The troops brought these animals back with them to give to the Lord. That way they don't have to sacrifice their own sheep and cattle, and yet the Lord will have a good supply for Himself. That seemed like a good idea, so I let them do it. Everything else we destroyed." ¹⁶Samuel said, "Stop! Don't tell me any more. Let me tell you what the Lord said." Saul said, "Tell me, what did He say?"

¹⁷Samuel said, "The Lord is very disappointed with you. The authority He gave you as king has gone to your head. Once, you were very humble and dependent on Him. That's when He anointed you king over Israel. All this time He has watched over you and blessed you with victories. ¹⁸Then He sent you on a mission and said, 'Go and completely destroy the Amalekites. They're a heartless and cruel people. Make war against them until you totally destroy them.' By asking you to do this, the Lord gave you a chance to redeem yourself in the eyes of the people by carefully obeying Him this time. ¹⁹So why didn't you do it? Why did you let your troops bring all these animals back with them? Didn't you know that by doing nothing to stop them you were disobeying the Lord?"

²⁰Saul said, "But I did obey the Lord! I went to war against the Amalekites as He told me to and destroyed everything that moved and even captured their king.

²¹The soldiers were the ones who took the sheep and the cattle. They saved the best for the Lord so when they came back to Gilgal they would have something to sacrifice."

²²Samuel said, "Do you know what makes the Lord happy? It's not the sacrifices and offerings we bring to Him. No! It's our love and obedience that pleases Him, because that shows that we trust Him. Sacrificing animals doesn't make Him happy. ²³Rebellion is as much a sin as consulting demons. Arrogance is as evil as worshiping idols. Since you have openly disobeyed the Lord twice, He now rejects you as king." Then Samuel turned to leave.

²⁴When Saul realized the consequences of his disobedience, he pleaded, "Samuel, don't leave me! I realize now that I have sinned. I have disobeyed the Lord and didn't listen to you as I should have. I was afraid of my troops and gave in to them. ²⁵Forgive me! Please, come back and stay with me here at Gilgal and give me your support! The people respect you, and we can worship the Lord together."

²⁶Samuel said, "I will not go up to the altar and worship the Lord with you because the people will think that I approve of what you have done. You have disobeyed the Lord and everybody knows it. He has rejected you as the rightful king of Israel. Don't you understand that?" ²⁷As Samuel stepped forward to leave, Saul grabbed the edge of Samuel's robe to keep him from going and it tore. ²⁸Then Samuel said, "Just as you have torn my robe, so the Lord will tear the kingdom of Israel from you and give it to one of your neighbors who is more trustworthy than you. ²⁹God is not like us. He doesn't lie, and He doesn't change His mind once He tells you to do something. So don't get the idea that you can persuade Him to change His mind about this."

³⁰Saul said, "I admitted that I did wrong. What else can I do? Don't humiliate me in front of my troops and the leaders of Israel by turning your back on me. Have some compassion." ³¹So Samuel turned and went back with Saul in front of the troops and others who were there, and they worshiped the Lord together. ³²Then Samuel said to Saul, "Let me see King Agag." So they brought Agag, the Violent, to Samuel. Agag stood there trembling and said, "Surely all bitterness between our people is now over."

³³Samuel answered, "Your cruelty has made many a woman childless, so your mother also will be childless." Then Samuel took a sword, killed Agag and cut his body in pieces before the Lord right there at Gilgal. ³⁴Afterwards, Samuel went home to Ramah, and Saul dismissed his troops and returned with his special unit to Gibeah. ³⁵Samuel never went to see Saul again, but the rest of his life he grieved over him and what he had done. The Lord also grieved over Saul and the people's desire to have a king.

God Chooses David

16 Soon afterward the Lord said to Samuel, "How much longer will you grieve over Saul? I have rejected him as king and there's no turning back. So fill your horn with olive oil and go to Bethlehem to worship. Stay at the house of Jesse for I have chosen one of his sons to be king."

²Samuel said, "How can I do this? Saul will hear about it and send some of his men to kill me. He's so caught up with his own importance he would kill his best friend." The Lord said, "Take a young calf with you to Bethlehem for a worship offering. When you get there, assure the people that you've come in peace to offer a sacrifice to the Lord. This will put them at ease. I will protect you. ³Invite Jesse and his family to the service and from that point on, I'll tell you what to do. You must anoint the young man I will show you."

⁴Samuel did what the Lord said, and when he got to Bethlehem, the city fathers came out to meet him. They were somewhat frightened over what his visit might be about. They said, "Is this a peaceful visit or have we done something to displease the Lord?" ⁵Samuel answered, "It's a peaceful visit. The Lord told me to come here and conduct a religious service and sacrifice this young calf. So get ready and come join me for worship." Then Samuel stopped at Jesse's house and invited his family to the service.

⁶When the worship service was over but before they ate the sacred meal, Samuel told Jesse to introduce his sons. Jesse started with Eliab, his firstborn. Samuel thought to himself, "This must be the one the Lord wants me to anoint. He's good-looking, well built, the picture of a king. And he's the firstborn."

⁷But the Lord said to Samuel, "Don't judge a man by his appearance. That's what the people did before when I showed them Saul. Don't look at how good looking or strong or tall he is. That's what men look for. The Lord looks at the heart—at his attitude, his willingness to obey and his dependence on me. Eliab is not the one." ⁸Then Jesse introduced Abinadab. Again the Lord said to Samuel, "This is not the one." ⁹Next, Jesse introduced Shammah, but the Lord told Samuel to pass him by.

¹⁰Jesse introduced seven of his sons, and the Lord didn't choose any of them. ¹¹Then Samuel said to Jesse, "Are these all the sons you have?" Jesse said, "Well, there's one more, but he's out in the field watching the sheep." Samuel said, "Send for him, because we can't sit down to eat until everyone is here." ¹²Jesse sent for David and introduced him to Samuel. The young man was suntanned, rugged and handsome. But what Samuel noticed most was the sparkle in his eye as he talked with him about the Lord.

Then God said to Samuel, "This is the one. Anoint him." ¹³After the meal Samuel took David aside and, unknown to his family, Samuel quietly anointed him. And the Spirit of the Lord came upon David with added power from that day on. Then he went back to take care of his father's sheep, and Samuel returned to his home in Ramah.

David Calms Saul's Spirit

¹⁴Meanwhile, Saul continued to withdraw himself from the influence of the Spirit of the Lord by brooding over losing his crown. At times he acted as if an evil spirit controlled him. ¹⁵His servants would say to him, "We can see that God is not stopping the evil spirits from tormenting you. ¹⁶Why don't you let us find someone who can play a lyre and sing to you? When the evil spirits come, he can sing songs about the Lord, and the evil spirits will stop bothering you."

¹⁷Saul agreed, "All right, let's try it. Find someone who can play well and bring him to me." ¹⁸His counselors said, "Jesse of Bethlehem has a son who is a skillful musician. He composes songs about the Lord. He's a brave young man and would make a good soldier. He's also nice-looking and speaks sensibly. There's no doubt that the Lord is with him." ¹⁹Then Saul sent messengers to Jesse and said, "Send me your son David, the one who watches sheep."

²⁰Jesse called David in from the field and loaded a donkey with gifts of bread and fresh unfermented wine. He gave David a young goat and sent him off to see Saul. ²¹When Saul met David he was very pleased. He had him play, and the heaven-inspired music charmed the king. So he decided to keep David and make him one of his armor bearers. ²²He sent word back to Jesse, "I'm impressed with your son, the young man you sent. Do let him serve me." ²³So whenever Saul became depressed and the evil spirits began bothering him, he would call David. David would play songs of praise to the Lord, and Saul would find relief and feel better again.

David and Goliath

17 The Philistines decided to get even with Saul after their defeat at the hand of Jonathan, so they mobilized their troops for war. They set up camp at Ephes Dammim between Socoh and Azekah inside the borders of Judah. ²Then Saul called up his troops and set up camp on the edge of the Valley of Elah just across from the Philistines. ³So the Philistines occupied one hill, and the forces of Saul, the opposite hill, with a valley between them.

⁴One day, Goliath, the Philistine champion fighter from Gath, came out and challenged Israel to a fight. He was a giant of a man, over nine feet tall. ⁵He wore a bronze helmet and had on a bronze battle vest that weighed over a hundred pounds. ⁶He also wore bronze leg guards and had a short bronze javelin slung over his back. ⁷His spear was like a weaver's beam, and its iron tip weighed almost fifteen pounds. A powerful soldier walked ahead of him carrying his shield.

⁸Goliath stood on the Philistine side of the narrow valley and shouted to the Israelites, "Why are you lined up for battle? Why do we need a whole army to settle our differences? I'm a Philistine, and you're the servants of Saul, so send a man over here and the two of us will fight it out. ⁹If he wins and kills me, we'll be subject to you. If I win and kill him, you'll be subject to us." ¹⁰When no one took up his challenge, he cursed and shouted, "I defy Israel and their God! Give me a man so we can fight it out!" ¹¹Saul was the only man in Israel who even came close to Goliath's stature. Among his own people, he, too, was a giant of a man and had a bronze helmet and a bronze battle vest. But when Saul and his men saw Goliath, they were afraid of him and lost their courage.

¹²Jesse of Bethlehem had eight sons, one of whom was David, and they all lived with their father. In the days of Saul, Jesse was already up in years. ¹³His three oldest sons had joined the army to go to war against the Philistines. The oldest was Eliab, the second, Abinadab, and the third, Shamamah. ¹⁴David, Jesse's youngest, and his three oldest brothers were all serving Saul. The rest of Jesse's sons were at home. ¹⁵When David wasn't needed to play his lyre for Saul he would go home to be with his other brothers and to watch his father's sheep. ¹⁶Every morning Goliath, the Philistine, came from his camp to challenge the Israelites to a fight. He did this day after day for forty days, but no one took up the challenge.

¹⁷About this time Jesse said to David, "I want you to take half a bushel of roasted wheat and ten loaves of bread to your brothers who are with Saul. Leave early in the morning and go quickly to their camp. ¹⁸Take these ten fine cheeses along and give it to the officer in charge of your brothers' thousand-man unit. Then go to see your brothers and bring back word from them so I'll know they're all right."

¹⁹Saul and David's brothers and all the men of Israel were by the Valley of Elah across from the Philistines. ²⁰David made arrangements for the care of his sheep, and early the next morning he took the food and left. About four or five hours later, he arrived at camp just as the men were running out to the battle line shouting their war cry. ²¹The two armies drew up battle lines on either side of the valley and faced each other, waiting for the signal to charge. ²²David asked the supply officer to watch his baggage and ran to find his brothers. ²³It wasn't long before he found them and told them about the food he had brought for them. As they were talking, Goliath stepped out from the Philistine battle lines and shouted another challenge. When no one responded, he cursed the Israelites and their God, and David heard it.

²⁴When the Israelites saw how defiant Goliath was, they shrank back in fear and lost all courage to go into battle. ²⁵They said, "Just look at his size! Did you hear how he curses us? King Saul said he will give a big reward to anyone who can kill him. He'll give him his daughter in marriage and exempt his father's family from paying taxes."

²⁶David said to his brothers and the other men standing near, "Why are you letting this man defy the God of Israel? He's nothing but an uncircumcised Philistine! He can't speak like this against the living God!" David hadn't heard everything that had been said earlier, so he asked his brothers, "What reward will be given to the man who kills him?" ²⁷They repeated what had been said, including what the reward would be for the one who killed Goliath.

²⁸Eliab thought David was only interested in the reward, and he became very angry. He said to David, "Why did you come out here to the front lines? By the way, who is taking care of your little flock of sheep? I know how proud and evil you are. You just came to watch the battle, didn't you?" ²⁹David replied, "What have I done to make you so angry? I only asked a question. There's a reason to be concerned—God's honor is at stake." ³⁰Then he turned to some of the other men and asked them the same questions and they gave him the same answers.

³¹When word of this got to Saul's tent, he sent for David. ³²David greeted Saul and then said, "No one should be afraid of this Philistine. If no one else will fight him, I will." ³³Saul laughed, "You can't go out and fight this Philistine giant! You're just a boy and without any battle training. This fellow has been fighting since he was a youth."

³⁴David said, "Your Majesty, I've been watching my father's sheep since I was a little boy. Whenever a lion or a bear came and tried to carry off a lamb, I would go after it with my staff and sling. ³⁵When it dropped the lamb and turned on me, I would use my staff and sling to kill it. ³⁶I have killed both lions and bears, and I'll do the same thing to this godless Philistine. He cannot curse my God and defy the armies of Israel. ³⁷The Lord who delivered me from the lion and the bear will do the same for me now."

Saul marveled at David's courage and said, "All right. Go, my son, and may the Lord God be with you." ³⁸But before Saul let him go, he insisted that David put on his personal armor. Saul's servant put the heavy bronze helmet on David's head and the bronze vest on his body.³⁹The king's sword was strapped to his waist, and he tried walking around.

Then he turned to Saul and said, "Your Majesty, I can't wear these. They're much too big for me, and I'm not used to things like this." David took the armor off and thanked the king for his kindness.⁴⁰Then he took his shepherd's rod in his hand, ran past the front lines and then down into the valley. At the brook he carefully chose five smooth stones for his sling and put them in the little bag around his waist. With his sling in one hand and his shepherd's rod in the other, he made his way up the other side to meet the Philistine giant.

⁴¹Goliath saw him coming, and as David reached the top of the hill, Goliath started out to meet him. The man carrying Goliath's shield was in front as they approached David.⁴²Drawing closer, Goliath saw that the approaching enemy was only a boy, well-tanned and handsome, carrying his shepherd's rod. He felt that Israel was making fun of him by sending a child out to fight him, and he flew into a rage.⁴³He shouted at David, "Do you think I'm a dog that you come over here to fight me with a stick?" Then he called down curses from all his gods on David and said, ⁴⁴"Come on, you little fool! I'll make mincemeat out of you and feed your body to the birds and the beasts."

⁴⁵David replied in a clear voice that could be heard across the valley, "You've come to fight me with a sword, a spear and a javelin, but I come to you in the name of the Lord of hosts, the mighty God of Israel, whom you have defied.⁴⁶Today the Lord will hand you over to me, and I'll strike you down and cut off your head. Then birds will eat the bodies of the whole Philistine army and beasts will chew on your bones, and all the world will know that there is a God in Israel.⁴⁷Everyone here will see that the Lord does not need a sword or a spear for victory. The battle is the Lord's, and He will give all of you into our hands."

⁴⁸When Goliath heard that, he became enraged, pushed back his helmet and headed for David. David ran to meet him.⁴⁹Then he reached into his bag, took out a smooth stone, put it in his sling and slung it with all his might at the Philistine. The stone whizzed through the air and struck Goliath in the forehead so hard that it cracked his skull. The giant staggered and fell facedown on the ground.

⁵⁰So David defeated the Philistine champion with a sling and a stone. And he didn't even have a sword!⁵¹He ran over to the giant and with both hands, pulled Goliath's sword from its sheath. With one swift blow, he cut off Goliath's head. When the Philistines saw that Goliath was dead, they turned and ran.⁵²The men of Israel and Judah let out a war cry and chased the Philistines as far as Gath and Ekron. Bodies of dead Philistines were everywhere along the road of Shaaraim.⁵³When the Israelites returned from battle they plundered the camp of the Philistines.⁵⁴After David killed Goliath, he picked up the giant's head and gave it to Saul. Praising the Lord for what He had done for Israel, he was ready to go back home. Later, when he was king, he had Goliath's head brought to Jerusalem. The sword he sent to the high priest at Nob, but he kept the armor in his home town of Bethlehem.

⁵⁵As Saul had watched David go out to meet Goliath filled with courage from the Lord, he had turned to Abner his commanding general and said, "Who did you say his father is?" Abner said, "I really don't know."⁵⁶Saul said, "Then go, find out more about his family and let me know."⁵⁷So Abner went looking for David and found him just as he was returning from the other side of the valley carrying Goliath's head. Abner took him to Saul, and Jonathan was there with his father.⁵⁸Then Saul said to David, "Young man, we're proud of you. The Lord has used you to gain a mighty victory. But you have never told me much about your father or your family." David said, "I'm the son of your servant Jesse of Bethlehem."

Saul Jealous of David

18 After Saul talked with David, Jonathan's heart went out to him, and he loved David as much as he loved himself because they were so much alike. ²From that day on, Saul kept David with him and didn't let him go back home to watch sheep. ³Jonathan made a friendship pact with David because they loved each other like brothers. ⁴To seal this new friendship, Jonathan took off his royal robe and gave it to David. He also gave David his uniform, including his sword with its belt and his battle bow with all its arrows. ⁵Saul tested David by sending him to fight the Philistines, and each time, David came back successful. Then Saul put him in charge of a section of his army which greatly pleased the people. David behaved himself wisely and depended on the Lord in all he did.

⁶After Goliath had been killed and Saul and his men were returning home from battle, women from surrounding cities and towns came out to greet them with tambourines and lyres. They danced and sang songs of victory and joy, ⁷singing, "Saul, the king, has killed thousands, and David, the shepherd, has killed tens of thousands."

⁸This made Saul very angry and he said to himself, "They're giving me credit for only thousands and they're giving this stripling shepherd credit for tens of thousands. The next thing I know, they'll be making him king!" ⁹Even though Saul was polite to David he was very jealous of him and had him carefully watched from that day on.

¹⁰The day after the women praised David, Saul became very depressed and God did not prevent the evil spirits from troubling him. So Saul called David to come and play for him, which David did.

But it wasn't long until Saul flew into a rage and began pacing the floor with a spear in his hand, shouting like a mad man. ¹¹Then he quietly mumbled to himself, "I'm going to pin David to the wall if it's the last thing I do." Suddenly he turned and threw his spear at David, but he dodged it. Then Saul picked it up and threw it at him again, but David dodged it the second time.

¹²Saul was afraid of David because he knew that the Lord was no longer blessing him, but was blessing David. ¹³The next thing Saul did was to ask David to take command of a thousand men and go to fight the Philistines. ¹⁴Everything David did was successful because the Lord was with him. ¹⁵When Saul saw David's success and wise conduct, he became even more afraid of him. ¹⁶The people of Israel and Judah loved David more and more because they could see that the Lord was with him.

David Marries Saul's Daughter

¹⁷One day Saul said to David, "I would like to offer you my oldest daughter, Merab, in marriage so you'll be part of the royal family. But this is on the condition that you stay loyal to me and fight the battles of the Lord for Israel." Saul thought to himself, "Why should I kill him? Let the Philistines do that." ¹⁸David responded to Saul's offer by saying, "Who am I and what standing does my father's family have that I should become the king's son-in-law?" ¹⁹But Saul insisted. Yet when the time came for him to give Merab to David, he suddenly changed his mind and gave her to Adriel of Meholah instead.

²⁰Saul's youngest daughter, Michal, had fallen in love with David the first time she had seen him. When Saul found out about this he was pleased. ²¹He said to himself, "Good! I can still carry out my plan. I'll give her to David to show everyone that I like him, and then I'll send him out to fight the Philistines, and they will kill him for me." So he called for David and said, "I'm sorry about Merab, but my daughter, Michal, is in love with you. I'll give her to you in marriage, and you can still become my son-in-law." But David hesitated. ²²So Saul asked his servants to talk to David and urge him to take advantage of the marriage offer. He said, "Tell David how much I like him, how much my attendants and officers like him and that everyone wants him to become the king's son-in-law."

²³Saul's servants talked to David and urged him to accept Saul's offer. But David always gave the same answer, "It's a heavy responsibility to become the king's son-in-law, especially for a nobody like me. Besides, even if I married her, what dowry would I give the king for his daughter? I'm only a poor man." ²⁴Then Saul's servants went back to him and reported everything that David had said.

²⁵Saul said, "Go back and tell David that all he needs for a dowry is to circumcise a hundred dead Philistines and bring me their foreskins." Of course, Saul was secretly hoping that David would be killed in the process. ²⁶When the servants took word back to David, he felt encouraged about the marriage offer. So he agreed to marry Michal and become the king's son-in-law on the condition that Saul had laid down and by the date he had set for David to come up with the dowry.

²⁷Then David took a handful of his best men and went out and killed over two hundred Philistines. He circumcised them and brought their foreskins back to Saul as dowry for Michal. So Saul gave him his daughter in marriage and David became the king's son-in-law and part of the royal family. ²⁸When Saul saw how the Lord protected David everywhere he went and how much his daughter Michal loved him, ²⁹he was still more afraid of David and decided that he would not rest until David was put out of the way.

³⁰The Philistines did not let up on Israel and there were constant battles between them. Every time Saul sent David, he would defeat the Philistines and come back victorious. He was more successful than any of Saul's officers and in a relatively short time, he became a respected commander, not only at home, but also among Israel's enemies.

Saul Determined to Kill David

19 Saul became so jealous over David's continued success that he bluntly told his son Jonathan and his officers to kill David the first chance they had. But Jonathan loved David as if he were his own brother. ²So he warned David, "My father has just given his officers orders to kill you, and if he gets a chance, he'll kill you himself. So be careful. You had better find a place to hide. ³Tomorrow morning my father will go out to the field to practice. When he does, I'll go along and appeal to him on your behalf. Then I'll let you know what he says."

⁴The next day Jonathan went with his father out to the field and said to him, "Father, don't do anything to hurt David. He hasn't harmed you. Actually, he's been a great blessing to you and to Israel. ⁵He risked his life when he went out to fight Goliath. The Lord blessed him and gave Israel a great victory because of him. You saw all that and were glad at the time. God would hold you accountable for murdering someone who saved our country. Why would you want to kill an innocent man?"

⁶Saul listened to Jonathan and changed his mind about David. Then he swore to the Lord, "As surely as the God of Israel lives, David must not be killed." ⁷Later that morning Jonathan met with David and told him everything his father had said. Then he took him to Saul and he accepted David as before.

¹⁰Suddenly Saul stood up and threw the spear at David, hoping to pin him to the wall. But David eluded the spear and it hit the wall with such force that it stuck there. He ran from the room and out into the night and made his way home.

¹¹Then Saul ordered some of his men to follow David and keep an eye on his house so when he came out in the morning they could kill him. But David's wife, Michal, urged him not to stay at home that night, because she had visited her father earlier and knew that he would stop at nothing to kill David. She said, "If you don't leave tonight, you'll be dead by tomorrow. When father's men see you, they will kill you." ¹²So Michal tied some bed sheets together and helped David lower himself out a window to escape. ¹³Then she took a statue, laid it in David's bed, put black goats' hair on its head to look like hair and covered it up so it looked like David asleep.

¹⁴The next morning when Saul's men got there and asked to see David, Michal told them that he was sick in bed. ¹⁵The men went back to Saul and told him that David was sick. Saul didn't care. He said, "Go back and get him, bed and all, and bring him here so I can kill him myself." ¹⁶When the men went back and forced their way into the house, they found a statue in David's bed, its head covered with goats' hair. ¹⁷They returned and told Saul. He immediately called for Michal and said, "How could you do this to your own father? You helped my worst enemy escape and then lied and told my men he was sick." She lied and said, "I had no choice. David told me that if I didn't help him escape, he would kill me." And Saul believed her.

¹⁸After David escaped through the window during the night, he made his way to Samuel's place in Ramah and told him everything that had happened. Samuel welcomed David and invited him to join the students from the School of the Prophets who were with him. ¹⁹But someone told

Saul that David was with Samuel in Ramah at the School of the Prophets. ²⁰So he sent some of his men over to get David and bring him back. But when they got there, the students were in the midst of worship and the Spirit of the Lord came upon Saul's men, and they, too, started to sing and praise the Lord.

²¹Saul heard about this. So he sent another group of men to Ramah to get David. But they, too, joined the students in worship. Again word got back to Saul, and he sent a third group of men to get David, and the same thing happened to them. ²²Saul's rage became uncontrollable. He started for Ramah himself. When he came to the large well at Secu, he asked the people if they knew where he could find Samuel and David. They directed him to the prophet's house. ²³But before he even got there, the Spirit of the Lord came upon him, and he started to sing and praise the Lord. ²⁴When he met Samuel he took off his royal cloak and his armor and wore only the ordinary garment he would wear at home. He joined the students in worship and stayed there overnight praising the Lord. When the people heard about this, they asked, "Does this mean that the Lord has called Saul into the ministry?"

Jonathan and David

20 David quickly left Ramah and made his way back to Gibeah to see Jonathan. When he got there he said, "Your father is still trying to kill me! What have I done? What crime have I committed for him to hunt me down like this to kill me?" ²Jonathan said, "No, no! My father took an oath and swore to the Lord that he wouldn't kill you. Besides, there's nothing he doesn't tell me. If he were planning to kill you, I would be the first to know about it." ³Then David said to Jonathan, "I swear by the living God that your father is planning to kill me. You don't know because you've been away. He knows we're close friends.

That's why he didn't tell you because it would hurt you and you would warn me. As surely as the Lord lives, I'm only a step from death." ⁴Jonathan said, "What do you want me to do for you?"

⁵David said, "Tomorrow evening begins the Festival of the New Moon. I'm supposed to have dinner with your family but I should really go to Bethlehem to be with my father. So let me go, and I'll be back after sunset the next day and will hide in the field until you come and tell me what to do. ⁶If your father asks about me, tell him the truth, that I asked your permission to go to Bethlehem to be with my family. Say, 'This is the time of the year when they get together to offer a special sacrifice to the Lord for what He has done for them. So I let him go.' ⁷If he says, 'Fine,' then you'll know I'm safe and you can come out and get me and I'll be happy to eat with the king again. But if he goes into a rage, you can be sure he's out to kill me. ⁸Now if I'm guilty of some crime or if I've hurt your father in any way and deserve to die, then I'd rather have you kill me. You made a covenant before the Lord accepting me as your brother. So I know you would not want to turn me over to your father to kill me." ⁹Jonathan said, "Stop talking like that! If I had the least suspicion that my father wanted to kill you, wouldn't I have told you?"

¹⁰David said, "Who is going to tell me whether your father hates me or not? You're the only one I can trust." ¹¹Jonathan said, "Come, let's go out to the field where we can talk some more." So the two of them walked out to the field together.

¹²Jonathan said, "I promise the Lord that sometime during the festival I'll find out how my father feels about you. If he feels good about you, I'll let you know. ¹³If he's determined to kill you, may the Lord punish me severely if I don't tell you and help you get away. I pray the Lord will continue to be with you as He was with my father when he first became king. ¹⁴I know God has called you to rule Israel, so when you take over, if I'm still alive, be merciful to me. ¹⁵If I get killed before then, take care of my family as long as they live. I know the Lord will help you defeat every one of your enemies, but don't forget to be kind to my loved ones. ¹⁶So let's keep the covenant we made with each other because there's no doubt in my mind that the Lord will remove your enemies." ¹⁷Then Jonathan asked David to seal the covenant they had made with each other with an oath, which David did. And Jonathan did the same thing because he loved David as much as he loved himself.

¹⁸Jonathan said to David, "Tomorrow at sunset the Festival of the New Moon begins, and it will last until sunset the next day. It will be obvious that you're not there, because your seat will be empty. If Father asks me where you are, I'll tell him what you said and watch his reaction. ¹⁹When you come back from your family visit, come here and hide by the stone Ezel while it's still dark. Some time the next morning I'll come out and tell you what happened. Stay until you hear from me. ²⁰I'll come out for target practice and shoot three arrows in the direction of the boulder. ²¹I'll bring a young boy with me to run after my arrows. If I say to him, 'The arrows are this way, closer to me,' then you'll know that everything's all right, and you can come home to the palace. ²²But if I say to the boy, 'The arrows are way over there beyond you,' then you had better run, because my father is out to get you, just as you have said. This will mean that the Lord wants you to go. ²³Remember, God knows what we have talked about. He brought us together and will keep us close as long as we live."

²⁴So David went to Bethlehem, came back after the festival when it was dark, hid in the field and waited all that night and on into the morning. ²⁵At the dinner for the Festival of the New Moon, Saul sat in his usual place at the head of the table with his back to the wall. Abner, his commander-in-chief, sat on Saul's right, and Jonathan sat at the other end of the table, but David's place on Jonathan's right was empty.

²⁶At first Saul didn't say anything because he thought that maybe David had done something to make himself ritually unclean and that was why he wasn't there. ²⁷But if David had become ritually unclean, he could have washed, and by sunset would have been considered clean. Yet he didn't come that evening nor the next day. At the close of the festival, Saul said to Jonathan, "Where's David? He didn't show up yesterday evening, all day today, and he's not even here for the final meal." ²⁸Jonathan said, "David asked my permission to go to Bethlehem to be with his family. ²⁹He told me that they all get together once a year to offer sacrifices to the Lord and that his brothers wanted him to be there. So he asked me to let him go, which I did."

³⁰When Saul heard that David showed more respect to his father than to the king, he flew into a rage and said to Jonathan, "You son of an evil and disobedient woman! Now I know that you've taken sides with David! You've disgraced both me and that mother of yours!" ³¹Don't you know that as long as the son of Jesse is alive you can never be the next king—your kingdom will never be. So get him and bring him here and I'll kill him myself. Go!"

³²Jonathan said, "Why should he be put to death? What has he done?" ³³Then Saul stood up and threw his spear so hard at Jonathan at the far end of the table that it would have killed him, but Jonathan was quick enough to dodge it. Now he knew for sure that his father hated David so intensely that he would kill him and anyone connected with him. ³⁴Then Jonathan got up from the table and left the room. He couldn't eat or sleep that night for grieving over his father's violent temper and shameful attitude toward David.

³⁵The next morning he went to meet David as they had agreed. He took a young boy with him to run after the arrows he would shoot for target practice.

³⁶Jonathan told the boy to start running and then shot some arrows way beyond him. ³⁷As the boy came close to the first arrow, Jonathan called out, "There's another arrow beyond you!" ³⁸Then to impress David with the gravity of the situation, he shouted as loud as he could, "Hurry! Keep going! Don't waste any time!" The boy ran and found all the arrows and brought them back to Jonathan. ³⁹But only David and Jonathan knew what all this meant. ⁴⁰Then Jonathan gave the boy his bow and his other arrows and said, "Take these back to the palace. I don't feel like practicing today. I think I'll stay out here and rest a while."

⁴¹After the boy was out of sight, David came out from behind the big boulder and ran toward Jonathan. As he came close he fell on his knees and bowed three times out of respect for Jonathan. They hugged each other and cried, especially David. ⁴²Then Jonathan said to David, "God be with you. We're committed to be friends forever. You promised to watch over my family and I promised to watch over yours, and the Lord will help us keep our promises." So David and Jonathan parted with the peace of God between them, and Jonathan went back to the palace.

David Flees for His Life

21 David decided to go to the city of Nob where the Sanctuary was. Ahimelech, the high priest, was surprised to see David and said nervously, "Why are you by yourself? Is something wrong?" ²David's faith in God began to waver, and he lied to Ahimelech, "I'm on a secret mission for the king. But I'm in a hurry because I told my men to meet me at a certain place at a certain time, so I have to keep going. ³Do you have some bread you could let me take? I could use about five loaves or even more if you have it."

⁴Ahimelech said, "I don't have any ordinary bread here but I do have the Lord's consecrated bread, those twelve flat loaves that sit on the little table in the Sanctuary. I'm sure the Lord would not object if I gave you those to keep you and your men from going hungry. But you need to know that if any one of you has had sex today, he's ritually unclean until this evening and can't eat this bread until then. That's the same rule that the priests have to follow." ⁵David answered, "We haven't touched a woman for days, so the men are ritually clean. We make sure of that whenever we go on ordinary missions for the Lord. How much more this time!" ⁶So Ahimelech gave him the twelve flat loaves of bread from the Lord's table because there was no other bread available. Then he ordered more bread to be baked to replace the loaves.

⁷Saul's chief herdsman Doeg, happened to be there that day. He was an Edomite who had accepted the Jewish faith. He had become ritually unclean and was waiting there until evening so he could pay his vow to the Lord. He saw and heard everything that was going on.

⁸When David saw Doeg, he decided to ask Ahimelech if he had a sword on hand. He said, "I was in such a hurry to leave that I didn't even think about bringing one along until I got here." ⁹The high priest said, "The only sword I have is Goliath's sword that you gave us as a trophy in remembrance of what the Lord had done for Israel. If you want it, you may have it." David said, "Thank you, I'll only borrow it. There's no sharper sword in all of Israel." So Ahimelech gave him the sword.

David Goes to the Philistines

¹⁰Without asking the Lord, David made his way to the Philistine city of Gath, about thirty miles away, hoping to find safety among his enemies. When he got there he asked to see King Achish. ¹¹The king's officials said to Achish, "Isn't this David, the future king of Israel? Isn't he the one the Israelite women sang about when they said, 'Saul killed his thousands and David his tens of thousands?'"

¹²David was greatly admired and respected, even by his enemies, for his prowess and skill in battle. Achish welcomed David and took such an unusual interest in him that David became afraid. He didn't trust Achish. ¹³So David decided to act out a lie and pretended to have a seizure. He jerked his arms and legs back and forth, ran into the wall, scratched on the doors and let saliva run down his beard. ¹⁴When Achish saw this he said to his officials, "Look at this man! He's possessed! And you bring a man like this into my presence? ¹⁵Don't I have enough people like this in my own country? Do I have to sit here and watch something like this in my own palace? Get him out of here!" So the king's officials removed David from the king's presence and told him to leave the city.

David Returns to Israel to Hide

22 David was glad to leave Gath, and he hurried back to Israel and hid in a cave near the city of Adullam. When his brothers and other relatives learned where he was, they joined him for their own safety. ²Everyone who had lost confidence in Saul, those who were in debt and those who wouldn't compromise their faith, joined David and accepted him as their leader. Soon he had over four hundred men with him, not counting their families.

³Then David decided to leave the cave and go to Mizpah, one of the mountain strongholds in the land of Moab not far from the capital city of Kir. From here he sent word to the Moabite king asking him if he would be so kind as to care for his elderly parents who had also joined him until God showed him what to do next. ⁴The king gladly agreed since David's great-grandmother, Ruth, was from Moab. So David's parents stayed with the Moabite king all the time David was in hiding. ⁵Now the prophet Gad also joined David. One day the Lord gave him a message for David. He said, "Don't stay here any longer but leave at once and go back to the land of Judah." So David left Mizpah, and he and his men hid in the forest of Hereth.

Saul Slaughters the Priests

⁶One day Saul was sitting under a tamarisk tree on a hill overlooking Gibeah. He had a spear in his hand and was surrounded by his officers. Someone came and told him that David had left Adullam and was now in the forest of Hereth. ⁷When Saul heard this he said to the officers, "Listen, you Benjamites! Who told David that I was planning to attack him at Adullam? Do you think David will reward you with fields and vineyards? If he became king, would he keep you as his officers and put you in charge of hundreds or thousands of troops? ⁸Why are you plotting against me by telling David my plans? No one told me that my son Jonathan made a pact with David. I had to find out from someone else. None of you seem very concerned that David, who was supposed to be my personal aide, is looking for a chance to kill me and that my own son is encouraging him to do so! The man who names the traitor will be rewarded handsomely."

⁹Doeg, the Edomite, happened to be there to give Saul a report on his sheep. When he heard the offer and saw a chance to get even with Ahimelech for reproving his sins, he said, "Your Majesty, I saw Ahimelech, the high priest, help David. ¹⁰He prayed for David, gave him food from the Sanctuary and even gave him Goliath's sword."

¹¹Then Saul sent for Ahimelech and all his male relatives who were serving as priests in the Sanctuary. ¹²When they all arrived Saul spoke to the high priest, saying, "Listen to me, Ahimelech." The high priest replied, "Yes, Your Majesty." ¹³Saul said, "Why did you conspire against me by helping David? I've heard that you prayed for him, gave him bread from the Sanctuary and even gave him Goliath's sword. Now he and his men are just waiting for a chance to kill me."

¹⁴Ahimelech replied, "David is one of your most loyal subjects. He's your son-in-law, the captain of your bodyguard and highly respected by your whole family. ¹⁵That's not the first time I have prayed for David. Was it wrong for me to give someone bread and a sword who was on a secret mission for the king? I don't know anything about a conspiracy against you, nor does my father's family."

¹⁶When Saul heard Ahimelech's defense, he flew into a rage and said, "Ahimelech! You're going to pay for this! Not only will you and your sons die, but so will your father's entire family!" ¹⁷So he ordered his bodyguards to draw their swords and kill Ahimelech and then go and kill all his family back home because he had stood up for David and had not told the king that David had run away or where he was hiding. But Saul's men refused to touch the Lord's priests. ¹⁸So Saul ordered Doeg and his sons to do the job, and they didn't hesitate. They pulled out their knives, surrounded the priests and killed all eighty-five of them.

¹⁹Saul then had all the other inhabitants of Nob, the city of priests, killed. He also killed all the cattle, donkeys and sheep in the village. None of the animals were spared.

²³After he regained his composure, he said to Abiathar, "Stay with me. Don't be afraid of Saul, because he wants to kill me too. You'll be safe here."

David Saves the City of Keilah

23 When David was told that the Philistines had surrounded the walled city of Keilah and were taking the newly harvested grain from the farmers, ²he asked the Lord, "Should I go and fight the Philistines? Will you go with me if I do?" The Lord answered, "Yes, go help the farmers and I'll go with you." ³But David's men didn't want to go. They said, "We're not strong enough to face the forces of Saul right here in Judah. That's why we have to hide. What do you think will happen if we go out in the open and attack the Philistines? Suppose Saul attacks us? Then we'll have two enemy forces to worry about."

⁴So David asked the Lord again whether or not he should go and fight the Philistines, particularly since Saul's forces also were camped in that general area. The Lord said, "Go to Keilah and fight the Philistines. Don't worry about Saul. I'll go with you and give you the victory." ⁵David told his men what the Lord had said. So they quickly marched the few miles to Keilah and attacked the Philistines, and the Lord gave them victory. They killed a large number of enemy troops, and returned to the farmers the cattle and grain which the Philistines had taken. They also saved the townspeople from being killed.

⁶It was about this time that young Abiathar, the son of Ahimelech, joined David, after escaping from Saul's men who had attacked his hometown. He brought with him the high priestly vestments that his father had worn. ⁷When Saul heard that David had left his hideout in the forest of Hereth, he said to himself, "Now I've got him. God has finally given me the chance to kill him. He's gone to the walled city of Keilah and put himself in a trap." ⁸Then Saul called up his troops and marched to Keilah to surround the city and wipe it off the map, with David and his men inside.

⁹When David got word that Saul and his men were coming, he said to young Abiathar, "Quick, put on the priestly garments of your father and the holy breastpiece with its Urim and Thummim gems, and ask the Lord what we should do!"

¹⁰David prayed, "O Lord, mighty God of Israel, we have heard that Saul and his men are coming to attack us here in Keilah. We know he'll not hesitate to kill everyone here just to get me. If that happens, I'll be the one to blame for their deaths. ¹¹Is Saul really coming here? If he does, will the people of Keilah turn me over to him to save themselves? Will Saul kill them because of me? O Lord, please tell me what's going on!" The Lord said, "Yes, Saul and his men will come."

¹²Again David prayed, "Lord, will the people of Keilah really turn me over to Saul if I stay here?" A light encircled the large gem on the right of the breastpiece indicating, "Yes." ¹³Then David with his men, who now numbered six hundred, left Keilah as fast as they could and didn't stay in any one place very long. When Saul heard that David had gone, he turned his troops around and marched them back home.

David Hides in the Mountains

¹⁴When David reached the wilderness mountains near Ziph, he positioned his men at certain lookout points from which they could see large areas of the open country. Saul didn't give up. Every day he went looking for David, but the Lord always protected him from Saul. ¹⁵David kept moving from place to place in the mountains to keep Saul from finding him. One day David and some of his men went to the city of Horesh on the road to Engedi to get some food. There he learned that Saul was after him again.

¹⁶While he was there, Jonathan came to encourage him and strengthen his faith in the Lord. ¹⁷Jonathan said to him,

"Don't be afraid. My father won't be able to find you; the Lord won't let him. Everyone back home knows that the Lord has chosen you to be the next king of Israel and that I'll be standing by your side. Even my father knows that." ¹⁸The two of them renewed the covenant they had made with each other. Then Jonathan went back home and David stayed at Horesh.

¹⁹Some of the people from Ziph went to see Saul at Gibeah and said to him, "Your Majesty, as you know, David is hiding in the mountainous region near Horesh. Right now he's camped on Mount Hachilah just south of Jeshimon. ²⁰If you and your men come down, we'll find David so you can capture him." ²¹Saul said, "Bless you for your willingness to help. I won't forget your kindness. ²²I want you to go back to make sure David is where you say he is and keep an eye on him, because he's very clever. ²³Learn all his hiding places and then come and tell me. I'll come down with my men and we'll finish him off. If he's in the area, we'll find him, if we have to track him down across the whole land of Judah." ²⁴So the Ziphites went to locate David. They found that he was still in the same general area south of Jeshimon in the wilderness east of Maon, in the southern part of Judah called Arabah. ²⁵When Saul got word, he and his men went after him.

But David heard that Saul was coming so he took his men deeper into the Maon wilderness and up one of the ridges overlooking the Valley of the Rocks. Saul continued to pursue David. ²⁶As Saul and his men were going along a ridge on one side of a deep narrow gorge, David and his men were trying to escape along the other side, but Saul kept closing in on him. ²⁷Suddenly a messenger ran up to Saul, and reported, "Your Majesty, the Philistines have taken advantage of your absence and are invading the country!" ²⁸So Saul ordered his men to turn around and they headed back to fight the Philistines. That's why this ridge is now called, Sela Hammahlekoth, or The Rock of Parting or Separation Hill. ²⁹Then David took his men and headed east to the region of Engedi and hid in the protected places of that area.

David Spares Saul's Life

24 After Saul defeated the Philistines, he was told that David was hiding in the area of Engedi. ²So he took three thousand of his best men and went after David. They started looking for him east of the Wild Goat Rocks. ³When they came to a large cave on the mountainous road beside some sheep pens, Saul went into the cave to attend to his needs. This happened to be the same cave where David and his men were hiding, only they were way in the back where it was dark. ⁴David's men whispered to him, "Remember, the Lord promised that if we're faithful to Him, He would give our enemies into our hands. This is your chance to get rid of your enemy and kill him."

Saul had removed his cloak and sword and laid them off to the far side. David could see Saul, but Saul couldn't see him. David cautiously crawled along the edge of the cave, reached out and picked up Saul's cloak and cut off one corner of it. ⁵Then he crawled back to his men. But his conscience bothered him for having done even that much to Saul. ⁶He whispered to his men, "May the Lord forgive me for having done this, for being in the presence of the king and cutting off a corner of his cloak to prove to him that I was here. Saul is still the Lord's anointed king of Israel. God forbid that I should do anything to embarrass him." ⁷Then he told his men not to get any ideas about attacking Saul or killing him, because he was still their king.

⁸After a while, Saul picked up his cloak and sword and left the cave to join his troops. When he was some distance away David stepped out of the cave and shouted, "My lord, the king!" Saul looked back to where David was and saw him standing in full view. David respectfully bowed low and said, ⁹“Why do you listen to those who tell you that I’m trying to kill you? ¹⁰If I had wanted to kill you, I could have done so in this cave where you relieved yourself. My men urged me to do so, but I told them that you were the Lord’s anointed king and that I would do nothing to hurt you, much less kill you, even though I could have. ¹¹See this piece of cloak in my hand? I cut it off while you were relieving yourself but I didn’t kill you. I pray this convinces you that I’m not starting a rebellion against you. I haven’t done anything to hurt you, yet you keep hunting me as if I were a common criminal, hoping to kill me. ¹²May the Lord be our judge. He will decide which one of us has done wrong. He knows how you’ve been chasing me. He also knows that I’m not out to hurt you. ¹³As our old saying goes, ‘Evil things come from evil people!’ Let me assure you that I will never lift up my hand against you. ¹⁴But look who the king is chasing! It’s as if he’s going after a dead dog or a flea. ¹⁵The Lord will decide who’s wrong and who’s right. He will take my case in hand and vindicate my cause and protect me because of my innocence.”

¹⁶When David finished, Saul asked, “David, my son, is that really you?” Then he broke down and wept. Through his tears, he said, ¹⁷“You’re a good man, David, much more committed to doing right than I am. You’ve been good to me, but I’ve treated you badly. ¹⁸What you did just now shows the kind of righteous man you are. The Lord gave me into your hands, and you could have killed me, but you didn’t. ¹⁹When a soldier catches his enemy off guard, does he let him go? Yet you let me go. May the Lord reward you for what you have done for me today. ²⁰I know that the Lord has called you to be the next king of Israel and that the kingdom will prosper under your rule. ²¹Now promise me before the Lord that you will be good to my descendants and not view them as a threat or order them killed.

Promise me you won’t wipe out our family name from Israel.” ²²So David took an oath before the Lord as Saul requested. Then Saul returned to Gibeah, and David and his men went back to their hiding place.

The Death of Samuel

25 About that time Samuel died and the leaders of Israel gathered together and mourned for him. He was buried at his home in Ramah. While David also mourned the prophet’s death, he felt that Saul would now come after him again, so he moved his men back to the wilderness of Maon.

David and Abigail

²There was a wealthy landowner in the area who had three thousand sheep and a thousand goats. He was about a mile away in Carmel shearing his sheep. ³The man’s name was Nabal. He was mean and violent tempered. His wife, Abigail, was a wise and intelligent woman and was also very beautiful. ⁴All the time that David and his men had been in the area they had protected Nabal’s flocks from raiders. When David heard that Nabal was shearing his sheep, ⁵he chose ten young men and said to them, “Before we move again, we need to make sure that we have enough food for our men. I want you to go to see Nabal who’s with his sheep at Carmel and say to him, ⁶‘Greetings from David and good health to you, to your family and to all those who work for you. ⁷David heard that you were shearing your sheep and he’s happy for the way the Lord has blessed you. When your shepherds were near us in the field watching over your flocks, God asked us to protect them. The whole time your shepherds were in the area of Carmel, not one sheep was taken nor was anything else of theirs. ⁸Ask your shepherds about this, and they’ll tell you that it’s true. Please be kind to David, especially since this is a festive time for all shepherds, and give him and his men whatever you can to meet their needs.’”

⁹So the young men went to see Nabal, greeted him and gave him David's message. Nabal was busy, so they patiently waited for his answer. ¹⁰Finally, he interrupted his work and said, "Who is David? Who does this son of Jesse think he is? There are many rebellious servants breaking away from their masters these days. ¹¹Why should I give my bread, my fresh water and the meat from my own sheep to a stranger coming in from the desert?"

¹²The young men said nothing but turned around, went back to David and told him everything that Nabal had said. ¹³David was upset. By now his little army had grown to six hundred experienced fighters. He called them together and said, "Is this what we get for our services to Nabal? Strap on your swords! We're going to pay Nabal a visit!" Then he strapped on his own sword, took four hundred men with him and left two hundred behind to guard the supplies.

¹⁴Meanwhile, one of Nabal's servants ran to tell Abigail, Nabal's wife, what had happened. He said to her, "David sent a kind greeting to our master and asked for help, but our master insulted his men and sent them away empty-handed. ¹⁵These men have been very good to us, protecting us and our flocks the whole time we were out in the fields. We didn't lose one of our sheep or anything else as long as they were there. ¹⁶They were like a wall of protection around us day and night while we were herding our sheep. ¹⁷See what you can do because something awful could happen not only to our master, but to his family and to all of us. None of us can talk sense into him, for he won't listen to anyone."

¹⁹She said to them, "Go on ahead of me. I'll catch up with you." She did all this without telling her husband. ²⁰She then mounted her donkey, caught up with the small caravan and went on ahead of them to meet David. ²¹On his way to attack Nabal, David said to himself, "We watched over this man's flocks day and night so that not one of his sheep was missing, and what do we get? We gave him kindness, and he gives us nothing but insults! ²²May the Lord strike me dead if by tomorrow morning one of his men is still alive!"

²³About this time David saw a woman coming down the hill on a donkey, heading straight for him and his men, and not far behind her was a small caravan of donkeys. So he ordered his men to stop to see what it was all about. When Abigail reached David she quickly slid off her donkey, bowed with her face toward the ground, ²⁴and then fell to her knees in front of him, pleading, "My lord, let the blame of my husband, Nabal, fall on me. Please listen to me and hear what I have to say. ²⁵Nabal has nothing against you personally. He's always saying things he doesn't mean and then he reaps the consequences. He has a reputation of living up to his name which means A Fool. I wasn't there, so I didn't have a chance to explain things to your young men when they came. ²⁶Please don't be angry with my husband. The God of Israel has been kind to you and has kept you from a revengeful spirit and from killing your worst enemy. I know that the Lord will take care of your enemies for you in His own way, and He'll decide how to handle Nabal. So please don't harm anyone. ²⁷Let these gifts that I have brought for you and your men be acceptable in your sight. ²⁸Please forgive any wrong that my husband has done. There's no doubt that the God of our fathers will make you and your descendants rulers over Israel forever because you fight the Lord's battles. You are not the kind of man who would seek revenge for personal wrongs. ²⁹If someone tries to kill you, the God of Israel protects you. He watches over you like a precious treasure. He picks up your enemies as a man picks up stones for his sling and whirls them into the air.³⁰ When the God of our fathers places you on the throne of Israel and gives you all the good things He has promised,³¹ you should not have a guilty conscience to take with you or a bad memory of having killed innocent people because of one man's foolishness. Please sir, remember my kindness when the Lord has dealt well with you."

³²David's heart melted as he listened to Abigail. He asked her to get up from her knees and then said, "Praise be to the God of Israel who sent you to meet us.³³ May He bless you for your good judgment and for stopping me from shedding innocent blood.³⁴ If you hadn't come quickly, by tomorrow morning not one male who works for Nabal would have been left alive."³⁵ Then David accepted the gifts Abigail had brought for him and his men and said, "Go in peace, and may the God of our fathers bless you. I have listened to what you have said and you are right. We will return to our camp."

³⁶When Abigail returned home with her servants and donkeys, Nabal was already there. He had ordered his servants to prepare a banquet fit for a king for his neighbors and friends. He had enjoyed a great harvest of wool and was in good spirits but very drunk. So Abigail didn't say anything to him that night about where she had been.³⁷ In the morning, Nabal had sobered up so Abigail told him about David's intentions and how she had helped him change his mind. When Nabal heard this, he went into shock, suffered a massive stroke and was unable to move.³⁸ The Lord did not intervene, and ten days later he died.

³⁹When David heard what had happened, he said, "How thankful I am that the Lord kept me from shedding innocent blood. He took up my case against Nabal and let the evil thing he did return on his own head." Then David decided to ask Abigail to be his wife. So he sent messengers to ask her if she would consent to marry him.⁴⁰ They went to her place in Carmel and said to her, "David has sent us to ask you if you would be willing to become his wife."⁴¹ Abigail listened respectfully, then bowed before them and said, "Yes, I'm willing to become his wife and do anything I can to help him, even to wash his servants' feet."⁴² So she got on her donkey and with her five maids went with the messengers to become David's wife.

⁴³David had also taken Ahinoam, a woman from Jezreel, to be his second wife. Michal, the daughter of Saul, was his first wife, and Abigail became his third wife. He was making the same mistake that other leaders made in his day, that of having many wives.⁴⁴ In David's absence, Saul had given Michal, David's first wife, to Paltiel, the son of Laish from Gallim, a city not far from Gibeah.

David Spares Saul's Life a Second Time

26 The Ziphites went to see Saul in Gibeah and said, "David is hiding on the mountain of Hachilah, opposite Jeshimon, near the edge of the Judean wilderness."² Then Saul took three thousand of his best men and went down to the Wilderness of Ziph to look for David.³ He set up camp by the side of the road that goes along the top of Hachilah facing Jeshimon. David was just south of there, toward the wilderness. When he heard that Saul had come into the area looking for him,⁴ he sent out scouts and learned that Saul himself was camped near Hachilah.⁵ So David took some of his men and got as close to their camp as he could. He saw Saul and Saul's cousin Abner, commander-in-chief of the army, sleeping in the middle of the camp with troops camped all around them.

⁶Then David talked to Ahimelech, the converted Hittite, and to Abishai, the son of David's sister Zeruiah. David asked them, "Which one of you will go with me after dark to see how close we can get to Saul's camp?" Abishai answered, "I'll go with you." ⁷So David and his nephew Abishai made their way to Saul's camp that night and slipped past the guards. Quietly they crept right up to Saul who was sound asleep. His spear was stuck in the ground by his head and nearby were Abner and the king's special troops. All were sound asleep. ⁸Abishai whispered to David, "God has given Saul into your hands. It'll only take me two seconds to pull up his spear and pin him to the ground; one thrust will do it."

⁹David whispered back, "Don't you dare! You think you can kill the Lord's anointed and claim innocence? ¹⁰As surely as the Lord lives, He'll take care of Saul. Either he will die suddenly or be killed in battle. ¹¹But God forbid that we should touch him. Get his spear—and his water jug there by his head while you're at it. Then let's go!" ¹²Abishai pulled up the spear, took the water jug and they slipped past the guards back to their own camp. The Lord had caused Saul and his troops to fall into a deep sleep.

¹⁷By this time Saul was up and he recognized David's voice. He said loudly, "Is that you, David, my son?" David answered, "Yes, it is, my lord. ¹⁸Tell me, why are you chasing me? What have I done? What am I guilty of? ¹⁹Listen to me, my lord. I am your servant. If God has sent you after me, then I must have sinned. If so, He will accept my sincere confession and heartfelt offering. But if men have caused you to be angry with me for no reason, let the Lord judge them. They have sent me away and said, 'Go live somewhere else and serve other gods.' ²⁰If you feel you have to kill me, don't do it so far from home and from the Lord's Sanctuary. Why should the king kill someone as harmless as a flea? Why should he come after me as if he were hunting a partridge in the mountains?"

²¹Saul shouted to David, "I have sinned! Come back, David, my son. You have spared my life, so I will spare yours. I will not hunt you again. I've acted foolishly and done a terrible wrong." ²²David shouted back, "Send one of your young men over here to get your spear and your water jug. ²³The Lord rewards right-doing and loyalty to Him. Last night He delivered you into my hands. But I would not touch you because He anointed you to be our king. ²⁴I spared your life. May the Lord spare mine and free me from all this trouble." ²⁵Saul answered, "May the Lord bless you, my son. I know you will do great things for the Lord and you will someday be the king of Israel." Then David went back into hiding, and Saul and his men returned home.

David Joins the Philistines

27 David thought to himself, "If I know anything about Saul, he's not going to give up. One of these days he'll succeed in killing me. The only thing left for me is to escape to the land of the Philistines. At least there I'll be safe from Saul, because he will be happy that I'm out of Israel and will stop chasing me."

²Without asking for divine guidance, David and his six hundred men went back to see King Achish in Gath. ³Achish was flattered to have David and his men seek his protection. He decided that David must be over his seizures, so he gave him and his men political asylum in his own city. David also had his two wives with him, Ahinoam from Jezreel, and Abigail, Nabal's widow, from Carmel. ⁴When Saul heard that David had left Israel and was living in Gath, he was content and stopped looking for him.

⁵In time David realized that he and his men shouldn't live in that idolatrous city. So he went to see Achish and expressed appreciation for what the king had done for him and requested a place to live in one of the small country towns. He said to the king, "Why should we be so privileged as to live with you in the royal city of Gath?" ⁶Achish liked David's request and gave him and his men the country town of Ziklag, which had once belonged to the tribe of Simeon. Ziklag has belonged to Israel ever since Achish gave it to David. But the Lord was not pleased with David for exposing the weakness of Israel to others and showing a lack of faith in God's protection. ⁷David, his men and their families stayed in Ziklag for a year and four months.

¹⁰Many times Achish would ask, "Where did you raid today?" David would say, "I raided villages in the southern section of Judah belonging to the Jerahmeelites and Kenites who are descendants of Hobab, brother-in-law of Moses." He said it in such a way that Achish thought he meant that he had raided Judean villages in the southern section of the Negeb belonging to the territory of Judah. ¹¹David never brought survivors back with him, so no one could tell Achish what villages he had really raided. David and his men continued this for more than a year, the entire time they lived in Ziklag. ¹²Because Achish took David's answer to mean that he had raided his own people, the king thought he could trust David to be loyal. He thought, "David is making the Hebrews dislike him more and more. Soon he will be forced to serve me for the rest of his life because he'll have nowhere else to go." David's evasive answer made the Philistines think he was on their side, and they began to make plans to attack Israel.

28 Later the Philistines called up their troops and were soon ready to march against Israel. Achish said to David, "I want you to understand that I expect you and your men to join us in our attack on Israel." ²Again David gave an evasive answer, "As long as I'm here, I'm under your command, and you'll see for yourself how well my men can fight." Achish took what David said as a pledge of support, so he said to him, "Good! After we defeat the Israelites I'll reward you by making you my personal bodyguard, and you'll become a permanent member of my court."

Saul Consults a Spirit Medium

³Since Samuel the prophet had died, no one had had any messages from the Lord for Saul. The whole country had mourned over losing Samuel and had buried him in his hometown of Ramah. When Saul first became king, he had pleased the Lord by expelling from the country all spirit mediums, fortune-tellers and those who claimed they could channel voices of men from the past. ⁴When the Philistines set up camp at Shunem, on the north side of the Valley of Jezreel at the foot of Mount Moreh, Saul and his men set up camp about five miles away on the south side of the valley at the foot of Mount Gilboa.⁵ Saul had used all his time and energy chasing David and had not kept up with what the Philistines were doing. So when he saw the huge forces that the Philistines had brought into Israel and knew that David was with them, a sense of doom filled his heart.⁶ He asked the Lord what he should do to defeat the Philistines, but the Lord didn't answer him. Saul had refused to listen to Samuel the prophet. He had killed Ahimelech and the other priests living at Nob. Ahimelech's son Abiathar had escaped, but he had joined David. He had taken with him the holy breastpiece with the Urim and Thummim which the Lord used to give direction to His people.

⁷Out of desperation Saul said to two of his closest officers, "Go and find a woman who is a spirit medium. I need help in knowing how to fight the Philistines." When they returned they said, "There's a witch at Endor, about eight miles from here."⁸ After it was dark, Saul disguised himself, put on other clothes and went with his two officers to see this woman who lived in a cave.

Saul said to her, "Consult the spirits for me. I'll give you the name of the man I need to talk to."⁹ The woman suspected who he might be because of his size and the rich gifts he had brought her. She said, "You know that Saul has forbidden us to practice witchcraft or we must leave the country. If we disobey, he said he would have us executed. Are you trying to get me into trouble?"¹⁰ Saul took an oath, "As the Lord lives, I promise that nothing will happen to you."¹¹ The woman said, "Whose spirit do you want me to bring up?" Saul said, "Samuel's spirit."

¹²She went through her incantations, and a spirit began to come up. The woman let out a cry, "Why did you try to deceive me? The spirit just told me you're Saul! Why didn't you tell me who you really were?"¹³ Saul said, "Never mind; nothing will happen to you. Tell me what you see." She replied, "Now I see many spirits coming up from the ground and one of them is coming closer."¹⁴ Saul said, "What does he look like?" She answered, "An old man wrapped in a robe." Saul said, "That's Samuel!" and he fell on his knees and bowed with his face to the ground in front of the spirit which was now in full view.

¹⁵Then the evil spirit impersonating Samuel spoke to Saul, "Why did you bring me back to this land of trouble?" The spirit looked just like Samuel and sounded so much like him that Saul believed it really was the prophet. He answered, "I need your help. The Philistines are getting ready to attack and the Lord hasn't told me what to do. He doesn't answer my prayers anymore, and He hasn't sent a prophet to give me direction. So I've come here to ask you what to do."¹⁶ The spirit replied, "Why would you ask me what to do when the Lord doesn't answer you? If that's the case, He wouldn't give me a message for you either."¹⁷ The Lord is simply doing what He said He would when you disobeyed Him. He has taken the kingdom of Israel out of your hands and has given it to David.¹⁸ You didn't listen to Him when He told you to completely destroy the Amalekites. That's why He has left you alone just as you wanted. You need to decide for yourself how to fight the Philistines.¹⁹ The Lord will not protect you tomorrow but will hand you over to your enemies. The Philistines will win, and you and your sons will join me. The army of Israel will surrender to the Philistines." Then the spirit disappeared.

²⁰Saul fell to the ground as if he were dead. He was already faint from lack of food, and now fear and a troubled conscience drained his last ounce of energy.²¹ Finally he moved, and the woman and the two officers were relieved. The woman, still shaking from what had happened, said to Saul, "I listened to you and by doing so took my life in my hands."²² So sit up and let me get you something to eat. I don't want anything to happen to you. You'll need all the energy you can muster to go back to your troops and be ready for tomorrow morning's battle." ²³But Saul just lay there and refused to eat. The two officers also urged him to get up and eat something. Slowly he got up and sat on the couch. ²⁴The woman quickly butchered the little calf she had been fattening. While the meat was roasting, she also baked some unleavened bread. ²⁵When it was ready she served the food to Saul and his two officers. After the meal, they got up and returned to their troops while it was still dark.

The Philistines Refuse David's Help

29 The Philistines moved their forces to Aphek, close to Israel's troops which were camped at the spring of Jezreel. Saul's special unit was nearby. ²As the Philistine kings were grouping their troops in units of a hundred and a thousand, they assigned King Achish and his men to guard the rear. ³When the commanders noticed David and his men waiting to be assigned, they asked Achish, "What are these Hebrews doing here?" Achish replied, "That's David, one of Saul's officers who defected to us. I've given him asylum in my territory. We can trust him to help us." ⁴But the Philistine commanders responded angrily and said, "Send these Hebrews home. Send David back! There's no way to know what will happen once the fighting begins and we don't want to take that chance. If those Hebrews are out of sorts with Saul, what better way for them to gain back his favor than by attacking us from the rear." ⁵Isn't that the same David the Hebrew women sang about when they said, 'Saul killed his thousands, but David killed his ten thousands?'"

⁶Then Achish went over to David and said, "The Philistine commanders don't trust you. As surely as the Lord lives, you've done nothing to show disloyalty. It would make me very happy if you could stay and fight alongside me. But the kings and their commanders think otherwise. ⁷So you had better go back to Ziklag and wait there. We don't want to do anything to displease these kings." ⁸David acted hurt and said, "What have I done to deserve such treatment? Have you ever found me doing anything against you? Why can't I come along and fight against your enemies?" ⁹Achish said, "I know you've been as loyal to me as an angel from God. But that's the decision of the kings and their commanders, and that's final. I have no choice but to send you home. ¹⁰Tomorrow morning I want you to take your men and any other Israelites who have come with you and leave at the first light of dawn." ¹¹David did just that. He got up very early, and at daybreak, they started the long march back to Ziklag. He realized that God had intervened and was directing his steps. Then the Philistines marched their men south toward the Valley of Jezreel where Saul was.

David Defeats the Amalekites

30 After covering almost a hundred miles in less than three days, David and his weary men finally reached home. When they got there they were stunned by what they saw. While they had been away, the Amalekites, a desert tribe, had raided the Negeb in southern Judah including Ziklag. ²They had taken all the women and children out of Ziklag and then set it on fire. They hadn't killed anyone, but had taken them to sell as slaves and concubines. ³When David and his men reached home and found their families gone and Ziklag burned to the ground, it was almost more than they could take. ⁴They broke down and cried until they were too exhausted to cry anymore. ⁵David's wives, Ahinoam from Jezreel and Abigail from Carmel, were also gone. ⁶When the men recovered from the shock, they became angry with David and were ready to stone him for asking them to leave their families. Now their wives and children were prisoners.

David felt remorse for leaving Judah and coming to live in Ziklag. Out of desperation he turned to the Lord for an answer.

⁷He said to Abiathar, "Bring me the holy breastpiece so we can see what the Lord says for us to do." So Abiathar went and got the ephod. ⁸Then David prayed, "O Lord, please help me. Should we go after the Amalekites? Will we get our wives and children back?" The Lord said, "Yes, go after the Amalekites and overtake them. You and your men will rescue all your wives and children; not one will be missing." ⁹David and his six hundred men immediately pursued the Amalekites. When they reached the Besor Brook, some of them stayed there. ¹⁰They had already marched a hundred miles from Apek to Ziklag and then another fifteen to the Besor Brook near Gerar. Two hundred of the men were too tired and weak to go on. The other four hundred continued the pursuit.

¹¹They found an Egyptian boy in the wilderness on the verge of death due to exposure and dehydration. They picked him up and carried him to David where he was given food and water, and he revived. ¹²Then they gave him half a cake of pressed figs and two clusters of raisins, and he ate it all and regained some of his strength. He hadn't had anything to eat or drink for three days and nights. ¹³David asked him, "Where are you from? Who do you belong to?" The boy answered, "I'm an Egyptian slave of an Amalekite. Three days ago my master left me behind because I got sick. ¹⁴First we raided the villages of the Cherethites along the coast. Then we turned inland and raided the Calebites in the southern part of Judah. Finally, we raided and burned Ziklag. As we were leaving, I got sick, so my master left me to die." ¹⁵Then David said, "Do you have any idea where the Amalekites are now? Do you think you could take us there?" The boy answered, "Promise you won't kill me or turn me over to my master, and I'll take you to them."

¹⁶David promised, so the boy led them to the broad oasis where the Amalekites were camped. It was near sunset and the Amalekites were celebrating their victories. They were eating and drinking and rejoicing over the huge amount of plunder they had taken out of Philistia and Judah. ¹⁷When David saw this he ordered an immediate attack. In the evening twilight he and his men began fighting the Amalekites and kept on through the night until late in the afternoon the next day. The only Amalekites who got away were four hundred young men who mounted camels and escaped.

¹⁸All the women and children the Amalekites had taken from Ziklag were safe, including David's two wives. And everything that had been taken was recovered. ¹⁹God had restrained the cruelty of the Amalekites, and not one boy or girl, spouse, or older person was harmed or missing. David and his men had recovered everything. ²⁰They also recovered all the flocks and herds the Amalekites had taken from Ziklag, as well as the flocks and herds they had taken from the villages in Philistia and Judah. David's men drove these animals ahead of their own and called them David's loot.

²¹Then they returned to the Besor Brook where the other men were waiting. When these men saw them, they ran out to meet them and to embrace their families. David told them what had happened and everything the Lord had done for them. ²²But some of the men who had gone with David said to him, "Don't get any ideas about asking us to share this extra loot with them. Let each of them take his wife and children and whatever else belongs to him and be happy."

²³David said, "No, my brothers, you can't do that. We're not going to be selfish with what the Lord has given us. He protected us and our families and gave us the victory over innumerable odds. So let's be grateful. ²⁴We will give the same share to those who had to stay behind as to those who were strong enough to go on. We will share and share alike. Those who stayed behind to protect the supplies are entitled to the same as those who went out to battle.”²⁵This became the rule for David’s men from then on. Eventually it became a rule for all of Israel, just as it had been in the days of Moses.

²⁶When David and his men got back to Ziklag with their families, he carried out the instructions of Moses by sending some of the captured animals as gifts to the elders of Judah with the message that this was the Lord’s portion from their recent victory over the Amalekites.²⁷In addition, he sent gifts from the captured herd to the people who had befriended him when he had to flee for his life and hide in the mountains. He sent these gifts of appreciation to those in the cities of Bethul, Ramoth in the Negeb, Jattir,²⁸Aroer, Siphmoth, Eshtemoa²⁹and Racal, to the Jerahmeelites and Kenites,³⁰to those in Hormah, Bor Ashan, Athach and Hebron,³¹and to the people in all the other places where he and his men had stayed.

The Death of Saul and His Sons

31 David and his men went to work rebuilding Ziklag while waiting for news about the battle between Saul and the Philistines. Meanwhile, the Philistines attacked the forces of Saul with such fury that they turned and ran. Many were killed and their bodies scattered all over Mount Gilboa.²The Philistines especially went after Saul and his sons and finally caught up with them. They killed all three of his sons, Jonathan, Abinadab and Malchishua.³Then fighting intensified around Saul. When the archers shot him, he was severely wounded but kept going, and they could not catch him.

⁴Saul realized he could not continue fleeing and that he would soon die, so he said to his armor-bearer, “Pull out your sword and run it through me. I don’t want these uncircumcised Philistines to find me wounded and abuse me before they kill me.” But the young man was too scared to kill the Lord’s anointed. Then Saul pulled out his own sword, held it against his abdomen and fell on it.⁵When the young man saw that Saul was dead, he pulled out his own sword and fell on it and died beside him.⁶So Saul, his three sons, his armor-bearer and the men of his special guard were all killed the same day.⁷When the Israelites on the other side of the valley saw that their men were defeated and learned that Saul and his sons were all dead, they left their homes and fled. Then the Philistines took these villages and settled there. Soon that whole part of the country was under their control.

⁸The next day, as the Philistines went over the battlefield to strip the dead of any valuables, they found the bodies of Saul and his three sons lying not far from each other on the mountain of Gilboa.⁹They cut off Saul’s head, took his armor and sent messengers to carry the news of victory to their people. Then their priests called the people together to celebrate the victory of their gods over the God of the Hebrews.¹⁰They placed Saul’s armor as a trophy in the temple of Ashtoreth, the goddess of war, and his head in the temple of Dagon as trophies of their victory. The Philistines fastened the bodies of Saul and his three sons to the wall of Beth Shan for all to see.¹¹The people of Jabesh in Gilead heard what the Philistines had done to Saul and his sons.¹²They remembered how Saul had saved their city from the Ammonites forty years before. So that same night they sent some of their bravest men across the Jordan River to Beth Shan to get the bodies and bring them to Jabesh. They took the bodies of Saul and his sons down from the wall and brought them back home to give them an honorable burial.¹³They buried their bones under a huge tamarisk tree just outside the city of Jabesh and fasted and mourned for Saul and his sons for a whole week.

David Learns of Saul's Death

1 Saul was dead by the time David and his men returned to Ziklag after defeating the Amalekites. For two days they wondered how the battle was going between the Philistines and Israel. ²On the morning of the third day a young man from Saul's army came into town with torn clothes and dirt on his head. When they took him to David, he fell on his knees and bowed to the ground. ³David said, "Where did you come from?" The young man answered, "I was able to escape from the camp of Israel at the battle of Gilboa." ⁴David asked, "What happened? Tell me!" The youth answered, "The Israelites were defeated and ran from the Philistines. Many of them were killed, and Saul and Jonathan are dead."

⁵Then David asked him, "How do you know Saul and Jonathan are dead?" ⁶The young man lied, "I was running from the Philistines on Mount Gilboa when I saw Saul using his spear to support himself. The Philistine chariots and riders were closing in on him fast. ⁷He turned around and saw me and called to me. I answered, 'Yes, Your Majesty. What do you need?' ⁸He asked, 'Who are you?' I answered, 'I'm an Amalekite trying to get away from the Philistines.' ⁹Then he said, 'Come over here and kill me, because I'm critically wounded and about to die. I don't want the Philistines to capture me.' ¹⁰So I pulled out his sword and killed him as he requested because otherwise he would have been taken alive by the Philistines. Then I took the band of gold from his head and the gold bracelet from his arm and brought them to you as proof, my lord."

¹¹When David heard this, he tore his clothes in grief and broke down and wept and so did all his men. ¹²All day they mourned for Saul and his sons and for all the Israelites who had been killed in battle. They wept and did not eat because Israel had been defeated. ¹³After David and his men recovered somewhat, he called the young Amalekite to him and asked, "Where did you say you were from?" He said, "I'm the son of an Amalekite, an alien living in Israel." ¹⁴David didn't trust him and said, "How come you didn't hesitate to destroy the king of Israel when you knew he was the Lord's anointed? You're as ruthless as the rest of your tribesmen who burned Ziklag." ¹⁵Then David turned to one of his men and said, "Take care of him." So David's soldier thrust his sword through the Amalekite and he died. ¹⁶David looked at the young man's body and said, "You deserved to die. You condemned yourself by your own testimony when you said, 'I killed the king of Israel, the Lord's anointed.'"

David's Song of Sorrow

¹⁷Then David wrote a funeral song of mourning for Saul and Jonathan. ¹⁸He called it, The Song of the Bow, and taught it to his men so they could sing it when they got back home and spread it throughout Judah. The song was later written in The Book of Jashar and goes like this:

¹⁹"The pride of Israel was killed on the mountainside. How are the mighty fallen. ²⁰Don't tell it in Gath or proclaim it in the streets of Ashkelon. Don't let the women of Philistia be glad or the daughters of our enemies rejoice. ²¹May the mountains of Gilboa receive no dew or rain in sorrow for Saul. May they produce no grain because there is where his shield lies in disgrace. It was defiled and is not rubbed with the oil of victory. ²²Jonathan's bow was deadly and the sword of Saul never returned empty. Their weapons were stained with blood as they pierced their enemies' bodies. ²³Saul and Jonathan were respected and loved. They were together in life and in death. They were swifter than eagles and stronger than lions. ²⁴Daughters of Israel weep for Saul! He returned from battle and shared with you the spoils, ornaments of gold and scarlet cloth. ²⁵How are the mighty fallen in the middle of the fray! Jonathan lies dead on the heights of Gilboa. ²⁶I grieve for you, my brother, Jonathan. Your friendship meant so much to me. Our bond of brotherhood was wonderful, stronger than the love of women. ²⁷How are the mighty fallen! Their weapons are silent and abandoned in the field."

David Made King of Judah

2 Not long after this David prayed to the Lord, "Should I leave Ziklag and go back to Judah?" The Lord said, "Yes." David asked, "Where should I go?" The Lord answered, "Go to Hebron." ²So David took his two wives, Ahinoam from Jezreel, and Abigail, the widow of Nabal from Carmel, to Hebron. ³His men and their families with their possessions went also, settling in Hebron and in the surrounding villages. ⁴The leaders of the tribe of Judah welcomed David home after about twelve years of living in fear of his life, and anointed him king of Judah.

When they told David that the men of Jabesh in Gilead had rescued the bodies of Saul and his sons and given them an honorable burial, ⁵he sent some of his men there with this message: "The Lord bless you for your kindness and loyalty to Saul in burying him. ⁶May the Lord show His kindness and faithfulness to you. I, too, will be kind to you because of what you have done. ⁷So continue to be strong and brave even though Saul is dead. Judah has now made me their king."

Ishbosheth Made King of Israel

⁸After Israel's defeat at Gilboa, Abner, the commander of Israel's army, took Saul's son, Ishbosheth, and fled east across the Jordan to the Levitical city of Mahanaim. ⁹There Abner made Ishbosheth king over the northeastern territories of Gilead, Asher and Jezreel. Later Ishbosheth extended his rule over the tribes of Ephraim and Benjamin, and finally over all of Israel except for the tribe of Judah. ¹⁰He was about forty years old when he became king east of Jordan and reigned there for two years. It was under Abner's direction that Ishbosheth began to extend his rule over Israel. Abner was determined to get rid of David, but the house of Judah was faithful to him. ¹¹David was content to wait for the Lord to direct events so he stayed in Hebron and ruled over Judah for seven-and-a-half years.

Israel and Judah at War

¹²One day, while David was still in Hebron, Abner took some of his men and came back across Jordan to Gibeon. ¹³Joab, David's nephew and one of his top officers, heard that Abner was in Gibeon. So he took some of his men and met Abner and his men by the city's small reservoir. Abner's men sat on one side and Joab's men sat on the other. ¹⁴Abner said to Joab, "Why don't we have some of our young men practice hand-to-hand combat in front of us?" Joab said, "Good idea! Let's do it!" ¹⁵So they chose twenty-four young men, twelve to fight in the name of Ishbosheth and twelve in the name of David. ¹⁶They lined them up, matching each one with his opponent and let them fight it out. Before the fight was over, they had pulled out their swords, grabbed each other by the head and plunged their swords into each other's sides. Then they all fell down and died. So the people named the place, Helkath Hazzurim, meaning The Field of Sharp Knives. ¹⁷Then a terrible fight broke out between the two sides. Abner and his men were defeated and they fled from David's men.

¹⁸Joab's brothers, Abishai and Asahel, were there that day. Asahel could run as fast as a wild deer, ¹⁹and he decided to pursue Abner and started after him without stopping for anything. ²⁰When Abner saw Asahel coming up behind him he shouted, "Asahel! Is that you?" Asahel shouted back, "Yes!" ²¹Then Abner shouted, "Go after one of the other men and take his weapons! Don't come after me!" But Asahel paid no attention to what Abner said. ²²He kept after Abner. As Asahel began to gain on him, Abner shouted back again, "Stop coming after me or I'll have to kill you. If I do that, your brother Joab will never forgive me!" ²³But Asahel kept coming. When he caught up with Abner, Abner jabbed the butt of his spear into Asahel's stomach so hard that it came out through his back. Asahel fell over and died. Abner pulled out his spear and kept on going. As David's men caught up and saw that Asahel was dead, they stopped and stood silent for a moment.

²⁴But Joab and Abishai kept pursuing Abner. At sunset, they reached the hill of Ammah near the city of Giah on the way to the Wilderness of Gibeon. ²⁵All of Abner's men had scattered except for the Benjamites among them. They rallied around Abner and took their stand on a nearby cliff. ²⁶Then Abner called down to Joab, "How much longer will you keep chasing us? If you don't stop, it'll only create a lot of bitterness between men who ought to be brothers. Show some mercy." ²⁷Joab called up to Abner, "If you had not asked for mercy, I swear before the Lord that we would have kept after you until we got you. After all, it was your suggestion that you made this morning by the reservoir of Gibeon that started the whole thing." ²⁸Then Joab blew the ram's horn and called off the pursuit and they stopped fighting.

²⁹Abner took his men and left the area and marched all that night through the Jordan Valley. They crossed the Jordan River and arrived back home in Mahanaim at noon the next day. ³⁰When Joab called his men together and counted them he found that David had lost twenty men, including his own brother Asahel. ³¹But David's men had killed three hundred and sixty of Abner's men. ³²Then Joab and his men carried the body of Asahel with them to Bethlehem and buried it in the family tomb. After the funeral they marched all night and arrived at Hebron at daybreak.

3 Fighting between the followers of Saul and the followers of David continued for a long time. Gradually David's side grew stronger and stronger and Saul's side grew weaker and weaker.

²While David lived in Hebron he had a number of wives, as the custom of kings was in those days, and they bore him six sons. The first was Amnon, son of Ahinoam from Jezreel. ³The second was Chileab, son of Abigail the widow of Nabal from Carmel. The third was Absalom, son of Maacah the daughter of King Talmai of Geshur. ⁴The fourth was Adonijah, son of Haggith. The fifth was Shephatiah, son of Abital. ⁵And the sixth was Ithream, son of Eglah. All these were born to David while he was in Hebron.

Abner Joins David

⁶Occasionally there were other fights between the forces of David and the forces of Saul, and each time Abner strengthened his leadership position among his followers. ⁷Then one day Ishbosheth, Saul's son, heard that Abner had slept with one of Saul's concubines. He confronted Abner, saying, "Who gave you permission to take Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah, to be your concubine? ⁸She belongs to the house of Saul! Were you trying to make a statement that you'll be the next king?" This really upset Abner, who angrily retorted, "How dare you talk to me that way! I've been loyal to your father's house all my life. I didn't hand you over to David, but made you king over all of Israel except Judah. So this is what I get—all because of a woman! ⁹I've had it! The Lord help me if I don't make God's promise to David come true! ¹⁰I'll take the kingdom from you and give it to David, from Dan to Beersheba." ¹¹When Ishbosheth saw how angry Abner was, he didn't dare say another word because he was afraid of what Abner might do to him.

¹²Then Abner sent messengers to David at Hebron, saying, "I know that you'll eventually rule the whole country, so let's make an agreement and I'll help you become king over all Israel." ¹³When David heard Abner's offer, he said to the messengers, "Tell Abner that I'll be happy to renew our friendship. As a pledge of loyalty, I want him to bring Saul's daughter Michal to me when he comes." ¹⁴Then David sent messengers of his own to Ishbosheth, saying, "Send Michal, my first wife, back to me. I had to kill a hundred Philistines to marry her." ¹⁵So Ishbosheth asked Abner to take Michal away from her husband, Paltiel, the son of Laish, and give her back to David. This would make Saul's daughter the queen of Judah and later of Israel and show that David had no animosity toward Ishbosheth. ¹⁶But Michal's husband didn't want to let her go. He cried as he followed her from his home in Gallim all the way to Bahurim. Finally, Abner said to him, "Turn around and go home!" So he did.

¹⁷After Abner brought Michal to David, he sent word to the leaders of Israel and said, "All along you've been wanting to make David king but I objected. Well, I've changed my mind. ¹⁸Let's do it! We all know that the Lord told David that He would use him to save Israel from the Philistines and all our other enemies." ¹⁹Then Abner personally went to see the leaders of Benjamin, Saul's tribe who had been the most loyal to Ishbosheth. Abner convinced them that David should be king. After that he returned to Hebron and told David that all the leaders had agreed to make him king, even those from the tribe of Benjamin.

²⁰Twenty men went with Abner on the trip. David was so glad to see him after all these years that he ordered a special banquet for him and his men. ²¹Abner said to David, "Let me call all the leaders of Israel together and tell the people to get ready for your coronation. You'll be our king and unite the country, which is something your heart has desired." David noticed Abner's sudden ambition to make him king, but dismissed it and sent him on his way with his blessing, in honor and in peace.

Joab Murders Abner

²²Just then Joab and his men came back from fighting the Amalekites and brought a huge amount of plunder with them. By then, David had already sent Abner and his men away. ²³Someone told Joab about the banquet David had given Abner, that Abner had offered to help David become king of all Israel and that David had accepted Abner's plan. ²⁴So Joab went to see David to report on his victory over the Amalekites and to question David's wisdom in letting Abner go. He said to David, "Do you realize what you just did? You let the man who's been trying to kill you all these years get away! How could you do that?" ²⁵You know you can't trust him. He came here to deceive you and get information on our future troop movements so he can set a trap for you and kill you."

²⁶Then, unknown to David, Joab immediately sent runners after Abner to tell him to come back to Hebron because David had something more to tell him. The runners caught up with Abner at the Well of Sirah about two miles north of Hebron. ²⁷When Abner and his twenty men got back to Hebron, Joab met him at the city gate, greeted him warmly and pulled him aside as if to tell him something. Then, Joab pulled out his knife and thrust it into Abner's stomach, and he slumped over and died. Joab did this to get even with Abner for killing his brother Asahel. He had also feared that David would appoint Abner as commander-in-chief and then he would have had to serve under him. ²⁸When David heard what had happened he said, "I'm innocent of the death of Abner, the son of Ner, and the Lord knows it." ²⁹Then he expressed his disapproval of what Joab had done and said, "May Joab and his family be punished for his cowardly murder of Abner. May his descendants never be without someone who has leprosy, walks with crutches, is hungry or gets killed in a war.”³⁰Both Joab and his brother Abishai were involved in the plot to kill Abner. They felt that the family name had been dishonored by the way Abner had killed their brother Asahel at the battle of Gibeon.

David Mourns for Abner

³¹Then David ordered Joab and all his men to take part in Abner's funeral. He told them to put on sackcloth, tear their outer clothes and mourn as they walked in front of Abner's coffin while David walked behind it as chief mourner.³²That morning they buried Abner in Hebron. At the grave site David wept over losing him, as did all the people.

³³Then David sang a funeral song he had written for Abner which went like this: “Why should Abner die like a lawless one? ³⁴His hands were free to fight and his feet were free to move. He died without a chance to defend himself as one falls by the hands of wicked men.” Then all the people wept again.

³⁵David did not eat the rest of the day in honor of Abner. His people urged him to eat something but he refused, saying, “I have taken an oath not to eat and may God deal with me if I taste one crumb of bread until the sun has set.” This is how much David respected Abner.³⁶The people saw that David was a man with a heart, as well as a man of courage. And they were pleased with him.³⁷So all Israel knew that David had no part in killing Abner, who had been a respected commander and admired by all the tribes.

³⁸Then David said to his closest men, “Do you realize that Israel has lost one of its greatest generals? ³⁹And even though I'm your king I feel helpless to do anything against Joab and Abishai, the sons of my sister Zeruiah, because they, too, are respected generals and their influence is very strong. To punish them for their cowardly deed would cause their troops to revolt and split the country even more. I have to leave this case in the Lord's hands. May He punish them for their wickedness.”

Ishbosheth Is Murdered

4 When Saul's son, Ishbosheth, heard that Abner had been killed by Joab at the gate of Hebron, he lost courage to rule Israel because he knew it was only a matter of time before his kingdom would fall. In fact, all Israel was alarmed.²Ishbosheth had two captains in his army who were particularly close to him, Baanah and Rechab. They were brothers who lived in the city of Beeroth which belonged to the tribe of Benjamin.³Years before, Saul had attacked this city and tried to wipe out all the Gibeonites, but many of them left the city of Beeroth and fled to Gittaim and stayed there.

⁴Besides Ishbosheth, no one else from the house of Saul had a right to the throne except Jonathan's son Mephibosheth who was crippled in both legs. He had been five years old when news of the death of Saul and Jonathan in the Valley of Jezreel came. His nurse had scooped Mephibosheth up in her arms and run from the house to get away and hide him. As she was running, she had dropped him and he broke both ankles.

⁵Baanah and Rechab, who were sons of Rimmon and trusted officers of Ishbosheth, went to visit him one day. They arrived at his house about noon while he was taking a nap.⁶The maid had been cleaning wheat, but she, too, had fallen asleep, so they slipped into the house and made their way to his bedroom. They quietly shut the door, and stabbed Ishbosheth in the stomach,⁷killing him as he was lying in bed asleep. When they were sure he was dead, they cut off his head, put it in a sack and slipped away, taking his head with them. They walked the rest of the day and all that night through the Jordan Valley to get to David.

⁸Early the next day they arrived in

Hebron and asked to see David. After they were ushered in they said to him, "We have in this sack the head of Ishbosheth, the son of your enemy Saul, who tried to take your life. The Lord has avenged you from Saul's household." Then they opened the sack, pulled out Ishbosheth's head and showed it to David, hoping to be rewarded.

⁹David said to them, "As surely as the Lord lives who saved me from the hand of Saul and kept me from hurting him, the two of you will pay for this!" ¹⁰Once a man came to Ziklag to tell me that Saul was dead and that the king had asked him to kill him. He, too, thought he was bringing me good news and would get a reward. But I had him executed for what he had done. ¹¹How much more you two deserve to die for killing an innocent man in his sleep, in his own house and on his own bed!" ¹²Then David ordered his men to take the murderers out and execute them. David's men also cut off the hands and feet of the two brothers and hung their mutilated bodies beside the city pool. Then they buried the head of Ishbosheth in Abner's tomb in Hebron.

David Becomes King of All Israel

5 The leaders of all the tribes of Israel came to David at Hebron and said, "We are all brothers, all descendants of Jacob, of the same flesh and blood as you. ²When Saul was king of Israel and you were one of his officers, you led Israel on many successful campaigns against our enemies. About twenty years ago, the Lord said that one day you would be the king and shepherd of His people. That day has now come." ³David was aware of what the Lord had said about him becoming king of Israel. He had seen God's providence in his life. So he made an alliance with the other eleven tribes, and Israel and Judah became one country again. Then the people anointed David in Hebron as king of all Israel. ⁴He was thirty years old when he became king and altogether he ruled for forty years. ⁵He ruled over Judah from Hebron for seven-and-a-half years and over all of Israel from Jerusalem for nearly thirty-three years.

City of Jebus Named Jerusalem

⁶Soon after David was made king, he and his men set out to take the city of Jebus. Years before, the children of Israel had taken this city but had not driven out its inhabitants. When David and his men got there, the Jebusites said, "You can't take this city! We've built it back in such a way that even our lame and blind could hold you off." They didn't think David could get in because it was built like a fortress. ⁷But he did take the city, even though it had been built on top of Mount Zion. So the city of Jebus became the City of David.

¹¹Hiram, king of the city of Tyre on the Mediterranean coast, sent messengers to David in Jerusalem congratulating him on his coronation. He offered to provide David with cedar logs, carpenters and stone masons to build his palace. ¹²David accepted Hiram's offer to help him build a palace, because he knew that the Lord wanted him to serve as king and had blessed him for the sake of His people. ¹³After David left Hebron and moved to Jerusalem, he took still more wives and concubines as was the custom of kings in those days. And he had many sons and daughters. ¹⁴The names of some of those born in Jerusalem were Solomon, Shammua (also called Shimea), Shobab, Nathan, ¹⁵Ibhar, Elishua, Nepheg, Japhia, ¹⁶Elishama, Eliada and Eliphelet.

David Defeats the Philistines

¹⁷When the Philistines heard that David had become king of Israel and that he had made an alliance with Hiram king of Tyre, they mobilized their troops and came out in full force, hoping to draw David out of the city and capture him. But David heard about their plan and stayed behind the walls of the city until he could ask the Lord what to do. ¹⁸The Philistines had marched into the Valley of Giants southwest of Jerusalem and spread out to set up their camp. ¹⁹David asked the Lord, "Should I leave the city and attack the Philistines or should I stay here? And if I attack them, will you give me victory?" The Lord answered, "Go! Attack them and drive them from the land. I will definitely give you victory over them." ²⁰So David attacked the Philistines, breaking through their positions and driving back their entire line of defense. Then he named the place, Baal Perazim, meaning The Lord Broke Through. ²¹He defeated the Philistines so quickly that they left their idols behind which were supposed to have brought them victory. David and his men carried them away and burned them.

²²But the Philistines returned to the Valley of Giants with a larger army, expecting David to use the same tactics as before. ²³David again asked the Lord what to do. The Lord answered, "This time don't come straight at them, but circle around to the side and attack from where the mulberry and balsam trees are. ²⁴When you get there, wait until you hear the sound of marching high in the trees, then launch your attack, because this means that I have gone ahead of you to defeat the Philistines." ²⁵David did just as the Lord had said and defeated the Philistines. He drove them from Gibeon all the way back to Gezer.

The Ark Brought to Jerusalem

6 After defeating the Philistines, David called together thirty thousand leading men from all over the country. ²They went to Kiriath Jearim, about nine miles northwest of Jerusalem, to bring the Ark of the Lord to the nation's capital. David wanted the Ark near him because between its angels would often appear a brilliant light indicating God's presence. ³The Ark had been at Abinadab's house since the Philistines sent it back during the time of Eli. Abinadab's grandsons, Uzzah and Ahio, drove the oxen which pulled the newly built cart on which the Ark was carried. ⁴Ahio walked in front guiding the oxen while Uzzah walked alongside. ⁵David, the priests and the musicians of Israel were celebrating the momentous occasion with joyful songs, using lyres, harps, tambourines and cymbals.

⁶They got as far as the threshing floor of Chidon when the oxen stumbled. The Ark shook, and Uzzah reached out to steady it. ⁷When he did, the Lord struck him, and he died right there beside the Ark. He had been living in open, unconfessed sin and had lost a sense of the Ark's sacredness, daring to touch the symbolic presence of God, which right had been given only to priests. ⁸When David saw that Uzzah was dead, he was alarmed and called the place Perez Uzzah, meaning The Punishment of Uzzah. ⁹David questioned the justice of God and was fearful for his own life. He said, "How can we bring the Ark into Jerusalem if the presence of the Lord does this to people?" ¹⁰So instead of taking the Ark to Jerusalem, he asked Obed Edom, a native of Gath Rimmon, if he could leave it at his house. ¹¹The Ark remained there for three months, and while it was there, the Lord blessed Obed Edom and his entire family.

¹²David was told how the Lord was blessing Obed Edom and his family. He realized more than ever the sacredness of the law and the need for careful obedience. Knowing that the Ark was a symbol of God's favor, he again decided to bring it to Jerusalem. ¹³This time he ordered the Levites to carry the Ark on their shoulders as the Lord had originally told Moses. The priests were to carry it only six paces and stop. When nothing happened, they all rejoiced and David ordered a young bull and a fattened sheep to be sacrificed as expressions of thanksgiving. ¹⁴Then with music and songs the people made their way to Jerusalem. David was so happy that he took off his royal outer robe and leaped and danced for joy before the Lord in his long, white linen robe as the multitude sang praises to God. ¹⁵Watchmen on the walls of Jerusalem blew their trumpets and burst into song as the people approached, answered by other trumpets and singers. Hundreds in the procession joined the triumphal chorus. So Israel brought the Ark into Jerusalem with singing and the sound of trumpets.

¹⁶As the procession came through the gates into the city, David's wife Michal, Saul's daughter, looked out the window and saw her husband joyously leaping and dancing in front of the Ark. She was so disgusted that she later scolded him. ¹⁷The priests brought the Ark to the tent that David had set up and put it in place. Then David ordered whole burnt offerings and peace offerings to be sacrificed to the Lord as an expression of confession and thanksgiving. ¹⁸At the close of the service, after the animals had been sacrificed, David blessed the people in the name of the Lord of hosts. ¹⁹He gave each Israelite, both men and women, a loaf of bread, a cake of dates and a cake of raisins, and the people went home rejoicing.

²⁰When David got home, Michal came out to meet him. She said angrily, "The king of Israel surely made a fool of himself today! How dare you take off your royal robe in front of your officers' servant girls and wear only a thin linen robe? How vulgar to do something like that in public!" ²¹David said, "I did this in front of the Lord to show that He is our victorious king, and the people understood it that way. It was the Lord who chose me to be king of Israel above your father or any of his sons. I'm not ashamed to humble myself and dance in gratitude before the Lord for what He has done for me. ²²In fact, I'm ready to humble myself even more. This may be offensive to you, but my officers' servant girls understood it and respect me for it." ²³Because of her attitude toward David, the Lord did not allow Michal to have any children of her own.

Nathan's Message to David Changed

7 Later David moved out of the Millo fortress he had built and into his palace, for the Lord had given him peace from all his enemies. ²David called in Nathan the prophet and said, "Here I am, living in a palace of cedar while the Ark of the Lord is sitting in a tent. That is not right!" ³Nathan said, "If you have in mind to build a temple for the Lord, go ahead and do it. God will surely be pleased and will be with you."

⁴That night the Lord said to Nathan the prophet, ⁵"Tomorrow morning go back to David and tell him that he should not build a temple for me. Both of you have good intentions, but that is not my plan. Tell David that the Lord asked, 'Why do you want to build me a house?' ⁶I've lived in a tent for hundreds of years, from the time I brought the children of Israel out of Egypt until now. ⁷Whenever my people have moved and wherever they have gone, I have gone with them. Did I ever ask any leaders of the people to build me a house?' ⁸Also tell David that the Lord said, 'I took you as a poor shepherd boy taking care of your father's flock and made you king over Israel. ⁹I've been with you everywhere you've gone and helped you conquer all your enemies. I'm planning to make a name for you among the greatest men on earth. ¹⁰I'm also planning to make a permanent place for my people which they can call their own. They will no longer be oppressed by their neighbors or persecuted by violent men. ¹¹All through the time of the judges they've suffered, but I will give them peace from their enemies. I will build a house for you and for my people, a spiritual house which will rest on a sure foundation. ¹²After you die, one of your own sons will succeed you to the throne and I will establish his kingdom. ¹³He will build a house for me, and if he is faithful, this city and that house will stand forever. ¹⁴I will be like a father to him and his descendants. The nation of Israel will be my son, and when he does wrong, I will correct him using other nations as a father uses a rod to discipline his son, ¹⁵but I will never stop loving Israel or withdraw my support from the house of David as I did from the house of Saul. ¹⁶Your house and lineage will last forever. And your kingdom is established forever.'" ¹⁷Nathan went to David and told him everything that the Lord had said and shown him.

David's Prayer of Thanksgiving

¹⁸Then David left his palace and went into the tent where the Ark of the Lord was and prayed, "O Sovereign Lord, who am I and who is my family that you should choose me to be king and do everything for me that you have done? ¹⁹As if this weren't enough, you have revealed your plan to build a spiritual house through One of my descendants. In this world, kings come and go and their lineage disappears. ²⁰What more can I say, Lord? I'm overwhelmed. You know me better than I know myself and yet you still love me! ²¹You have revealed all this to me because of your promise and your wondrous love. ²²O Lord, my God, no one else is like you! No god can do the things that you do. How great you are! ²³There is no other nation like Israel, the only people who were ever delivered from slavery and set free to be special to you. You did great and awesome things to bring us out of Egypt into this land where we now live. ²⁴You have made us to be your own forever, and you are not ashamed to be our God.

²⁵"Now, O Lord, do as you wish. My will is lost in yours. Let my son build you a house and carry out your promise. ²⁶May your name be honored by what you do and may it always be magnified among all people of the earth. May they say, 'The Lord Almighty is the God who is worshiped in Israel.' May my lineage be established and my descendants serve you forever. ²⁷O mighty Lord, you are the great and loving God of Israel. You have promised to establish my house forever. That's why I have courage to pray the way I do. ²⁸O Sovereign Lord, you are God and there is none else. Your words are truth, and you have given me this wonderful promise. ²⁹That's why I ask you now to please bless my descendants and help them to be loyal and obedient to you. Then they will enjoy your presence and favor forever."

David's Additional Victories

8 Soon David's enemies mobilized their troops and again attacked Israel. But each time the Philistines came, David defeated them. He even took their mother city of Gath from them. ²Then the Moabites broke the pact they had made with David when they had given his parents asylum from Saul, and they attacked him. But David defeated them and ordered that two out of three of those captured be killed. The remaining Moabites submitted to David and signed an agreement to serve him and to be taxed.

³David also defeated Hadadezer, son of Rehob, who was king of Zobah, the most powerful of the Syrian states. Hadadezer had tried to gain control over the territories along the Euphrates River. ⁴David captured a thousand chariots, seven thousand horsemen and twenty thousand foot soldiers. He ordered the hamstring to be cut on all the horses' hind hooves so they would be unfit for war, but spared enough for a hundred chariots which he kept for himself. ⁵When troops from the Syrian state of Damascus came to help Hadadezer, David counterattacked and killed twenty-two thousand of them, and the rest fled. ⁶David then stationed his troops in the Syrian states of Damascus and Zobah. He became their overlord, and they agreed to be taxed by him. So the Lord gave David the victory wherever he went. ⁷David took the gold-plated shields which he had taken from Hadadezer's men and brought them to Jerusalem. ⁸He also took many things made of bronze from the cities of Tebah and Berothai that belonged to Hadadezer.

⁹When King Tou of Hamath, the kingdom north of Zobah, heard that David had defeated Hadadezer's entire army, ¹⁰he sent a delegation to David headed by his son Joram. Toi's son congratulated David on his victory and expressed gratitude to him because Hadadezer had also been at war with his father. Joram gave David gifts of gold, silver and bronze. ¹¹David dedicated all these gifts to the Lord and to His future house, including the gold, silver and bronze that he had taken from others, ¹²the Edomites, Moabites, Philistines, Ammonites, the Amalekites and from Hadadezer, king of Zobah.

¹³David had now won a name for himself. After this, he also defeated the attacking Edomites in the Valley of Salt where his troops killed another eighteen thousand. ¹⁴He stationed troops in Edom, and the Edomites submitted to him and signed an agreement to be taxed by him. The Lord gave David the victory wherever he went.

David's Government

¹⁵So David ruled over all Israel and administered justice and equity to all the people, including those nations who submitted to him. ¹⁶Joab, his nephew, was in charge of the army. Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud, was in charge of government records. ¹⁷Zadok, the son of Ahitub, and Abiathar assisted by his son Ahimelech, whose grandfather had given David the holy bread when he fled from Saul, served as high priests. Zadok served at the Sanctuary in Gibeon and Abiathar at the Ark in Jerusalem. Seraiah served David as secretary of state. ¹⁸Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, was captain over the Cherethites and Pelethites, the king's bodyguards made up of foreign mercenaries independent of the political tensions of the court. And David's sons held high positions as princes of the court.

David and Mephibosheth

9 One day David said to his staff, "Is there anyone left from the family of Saul to whom I can show kindness for the sake of my friend Jonathan?" ²A former servant of Saul named Ziba was told about David's inquiry, and the people urged him to go to see David. So he went. David said to him, "Are you Ziba, the former servant of Saul?" He said, "Yes, I am." ³David said, "Do you know of anyone from Saul's house that is still left? If there is, I want to show some kindness to him for the sake of my friend Jonathan." Ziba said, "Yes, there's one of Jonathan's sons. His name is Mephibosheth, but he can hardly walk because he's crippled in both legs." ⁴David said, "Where is he?" Ziba answered, "He's staying with Makir, the son of Ammiel, in Lo Debar on the other side of Jordan."

⁵Then David sent for him and had him brought to Jerusalem. ⁶Mephibosheth trembled in David's presence, but bowed before him to show that he accepted him as rightful king. David asked, "Are you Mephibosheth, son of Jonathan?" He answered, "Yes, I am. And I'm your servant, sir." ⁷David said, "Don't be afraid. I won't hurt you. I want to show you kindness for the sake of your father who was my very best friend. I'll give you all the land your grandfather Saul personally owned and you can stay right here and eat with me at my table whenever you want to."⁸When Mephibosheth heard that, he bowed before David and said, "Who am I that you should even notice me? I'm of no more use to you than a dead dog."

⁹David ignored what Mephibosheth said, but called in Ziba, Saul's former servant, and said to him, "I am giving all the land that Saul personally owned to his grandson Mephibosheth. ¹⁰I want you, your sons and your servants to work for Mephibosheth, to farm his land and harvest the produce so that he and his family will be taken care of. He may bring his family to eat with me at my table any time he wants to." David knew that Ziba could handle this extra responsibility because he had fifteen sons and twenty servants. ¹¹Ziba said to David, "I'll be happy to work for Mephibosheth and take care of his land just as the king commands." So Mephibosheth stayed in Jerusalem and whenever he ate at the king's table, he was treated as part of David's family. ¹²All of Ziba's sons and servants worked for Mephibosheth and for his young son Mica, taking care of their land. ¹³Then Mephibosheth moved his whole family to Jerusalem, and they ate with David's family quite regularly. Both his feet were lame.

David Defeats the Ammonites and Syrians

10 Some time after this, Nahash, the aged king of the Ammonites, died and his son Hanun succeeded him. ²David said to himself, "Nahash showed kindness to me even though it was prompted by his hatred of Saul. I will show kindness to Hanun." So David sent a delegation with a message of sympathy to Hanun at the loss of his father. ³When they arrived, the Ammonite princes said to Hanun, "Do you think that David sent these men here to honor your father and express their sympathy? No indeed! He's sent them here as spies to check on our fortifications. Then he'll know how to overthrow our country." ⁴Hanun believed them and ordered his men to take David's envoys and shave off half of each man's beard, cut off their robes at the hips and then send them away. ⁵When David heard that his ambassadors had been humiliated, he quickly dispatched messengers to tell them to stay in Jericho until their beards had grown back. Then they returned to Jerusalem.

⁶The Ammonites realized that they had insulted David and that this would most likely provoke him to war. That is what they wanted because they feared his growing strength. So they hired twenty thousand Syrian mercenaries from Beth Rehob and Zobah. They also hired a thousand men from Maacah and twelve thousand from the country of Tob. ⁷When David heard this, he ordered Joab to take all the forces of Israel and launch an immediate attack. ⁸The Ammonites marched out to meet the Israelites and took up positions at the entrance of Rabbah, the capital. The Syrian troops and those from Maacah and Tob took their positions about twenty miles southwest of Rabbah in the open country which was more suitable for their chariots.

⁹When Joab crossed the Jordan, he learned that not only were there troops in front of him, but off to his right were troops with chariots which could easily swing around and attack him from the rear. So he took his best troops to withstand them. ¹⁰He put the rest of his troops under the command of his brother Abishai and sent them against the Ammonites in front of him. ¹¹Before he sent Abishai away, he said to him, "Our forces will be close to each other, so if the Syrians and those from Maacah and Tob are too much for me, then send some of your troops to help me. If the Ammonites are too strong for you, I'll send some of my men to help you. ¹²But let's be strong and fight with courage. Remember, we're fighting for our people and for the God of Israel. Whatever the Lord's will is for this day, may it be done!" ¹³Then Joab took his troops and attacked the men from Syria, Maacah and Tob, and defeated them.

¹⁴When the Ammonites saw that the Syrians and others had been defeated, they turned and ran from the forces of Abishai back into their city. Joab took his army and returned to Jerusalem. ¹⁵When the Syrians realized that Joab and his men were heading back to Jerusalem, they decided to regroup. ¹⁶Hadadezer, whose army had previously been defeated by David and was now threatened by Joab, brought a huge force from the other side of the Euphrates to the city of Helam. These troops were under the command of Shobach, Hadadezer's best general.

¹⁷When David heard about this, he took personal charge of the armies of Israel, crossed the Jordan River and set up his position near Helam to keep this new Syrian force from joining the troops farther south. The fighting began when the Syrians formed battle lines and attacked David. ¹⁸Soon they realized they were no match for David and his men, so they turned and ran. On the first day David and his men killed seven thousand charioteers and thousands of footmen. By the end of the conflict they had killed forty thousand troops. He also severely wounded Shobach, the Syrian general, who died on the battlefield. ¹⁹When the rulers of the territories under the control of Hadadezer saw that their joint forces were defeated by the Israelites, they made peace with David and transferred their allegiance to him by sending their taxes to Jerusalem. Then all the forces of Syria, Maacah and Tob withdrew, and never again did they help the Ammonites fight against Israel. So Israel's influence extended all the way to the Euphrates River just as the Lord had said it would.

David and Bathsheba

1 The following spring, the time of year when kings usually went to war, David ordered Joab and his men to attack the Ammonites and besiege the city of Rabbah because he wanted to finish the war that Hanun had started. David had become very powerful and felt proud of what he had done. So he decided that his presence was no longer needed and returned to Jerusalem.

²Late one afternoon he went up to the roof of his palace to enjoy the evening breeze. As he looked down on the houses and courtyards below, he saw a woman bathing herself. She was very beautiful, ³so he sent someone to find out who she was. When the man came back, he said to David, "The woman is Bathsheba, the daughter of Eliam, one of your mighty warriors, and the granddaughter of Ahithophel, one of your own counselors. She's the wife of Uriah the Hittite who joined our forces and is now at the battlefield." ⁴Then David sent messengers from the court to her house to tell her that the king would like to see her. She had just purified herself after her monthly period, so she agreed to sleep with him that night. Then early in the morning she returned home. ⁵Some weeks later she sent word to David telling him that she was pregnant.

⁶Then David sent this word to Joab: "Send Uriah the Hittite home. I need to see him." So Joab pulled Uriah off the front lines and sent him back to Jerusalem to see David. ⁷When Uriah arrived, David welcomed him and asked him all about the war, how the siege was going, how Joab was and how the troops were doing. ⁸After their conversation, David said to Uriah, "It's good to hear that everything is going so well. You deserve a rest. Stay home for a few days and take it easy." Uriah thanked the king, and David sent a gift of food to their house as a reward for Uriah's faithfulness to Israel. ⁹But Uriah didn't go home. Instead, he slept with the troops in the guardroom at the king's palace.

¹⁰The next day when David heard that Uriah had slept with the palace guards and not in his own house, he asked to see him. David said, "I heard that you slept with the palace guards last night. You've come a long way and haven't been home for some time. Why would you sleep with them instead of in your own bed?"¹¹ Uriah answered, "The men of Israel and Judah, as well as our commander Joab, are all sleeping out in the open, and God's Ark is still housed in a tent. How can I, an officer, come home and eat and drink and sleep with my wife when my troops are out there fighting? I could never conscientiously do such a thing."

¹²David complimented him on his loyalty to the Lord and to the men in the field and asked him to stay one more day to get some more rest before going back. So Uriah agreed to stay one more day, eager to leave early the next morning.¹³ That evening David invited Uriah to dinner and he kept urging him to eat and drink what was set before him until Uriah was almost drunk. Then David sent him home, but Uriah didn't go home. Again, he slept on his blanket in the guard room.

¹⁴The next morning when David heard that Uriah still had not gone home but had slept in the guard room, he decided to write a letter to Joab and have Uriah deliver it.¹⁵ In the letter he said, "Assign Uriah to the front lines where the fighting is the heaviest. Then draw back from him so he'll be killed."¹⁶ Joab was more loyal to David than to God, so when he got the letter he ordered an attack on the city and sent Uriah to where the fighting would be the heaviest and the enemy forces the strongest.¹⁷ The Ammonites came out of the city to repulse the attack, and some of Joab's officers and men were killed, including Uriah.

¹⁸Joab sent a messenger to David to give him a full account of the battle.¹⁹ He said to the messenger, "When you finish telling the king about the battle,²⁰ and he gets angry with you and says, 'Why did Joab have his men get so close to the city when he knew that they would get shot at by the archers from the wall?'²¹ Didn't Joab remember how Abimelech, the rebellious son of Gideon, was killed at Thebez? He got too close to the wall and was killed by a woman who dropped a rock on his head. Why did Joab go so near the wall?' If the king asks that, then tell him, 'Your servant Uriah was also killed.'"

²²The messenger took off for Jerusalem and when he got there he told the king everything Joab had told him to say.²³ He said to David, "We attacked the city, and the Ammonites sent their best troops out against us. We fought them in the open. Then we drove them back right up to the city gates,²⁴ but we got too close to the wall and the archers shot at us, and some of our officers and men were killed, including Uriah the Hittite, one of our bravest officers."²⁵ David said, "Thank you for the report. When you get back to Joab tell him not to let this upset him because even though this was tragic, the sword is no respecter of persons. Tell him not to get discouraged, but to keep up the pressure on the city so we can end this war as quickly as possible."

²⁶When Bathsheba heard that her husband was killed in battle, she deeply mourned for him. When the period of mourning was over,²⁷ David had her brought to the palace and made her his wife and in due time she gave birth to a son. But the Lord was extremely displeased with what David had done.

Nathan's Parable and David's Repentance

12 As the weeks passed, David's evening with Bathsheba became known, and people suspected that the baby was his and that he had ordered the death of Uriah to cover it up. One day the Lord sent Nathan, the prophet, to see David. He told David this story: "There were two men who lived in the same town, one was rich and the other was poor.² The rich man had many sheep and cattle.³ But the poor man had nothing but one little ewe lamb. He carefully raised the little lamb as a family pet, and it grew up with his children. He would give it food from his table, let it drink from his cup and hold it in his arms as if it were his own daughter. ⁴One day the rich man had a visitor whom he invited for dinner. But he didn't want to kill one of his own sheep, so he asked his servants to go to the poor man's house and take his sheep. He told his servants that if the man resisted, to take it by force. And that's what they did." ⁵Before Nathan could finish the story, David stood up in anger and said, "As surely as the Lord lives, the man who did this heartless thing deserves to die! ⁶I will make him pay four times the value of that sheep because he had absolutely no pity on that poor man!"

⁷After David sat down, still furious over what Nathan had told him, the prophet fixed his eyes on the king and said, "You are that man! This is what the Lord says: 'I was the One who made you king over Israel and kept you from being killed by Saul. ⁸I gave you his kingdom and as a sign of transfer of power let you take care of his harem. I gave you Judah and Israel, and if this were too little, I would have given you still more had you only asked. ⁹But you had to exercise your earthly authority by taking the wife of my faithful servant Uriah and then had him killed to cover up your sin. By example, you have told the people that my commandments are not that important. To make things even worse, you had the Ammonites kill him for you. ¹⁰So now cruelty and bloodshed will never leave your family, because you ignored my law by committing adultery, killing Uriah and then taking his wife to be your own. ¹¹You'll live to see the consequences of your example, even in your own family. Someone close to you will have sexual relations with some of your concubines in broad daylight and I will not stop him. ¹²You took another man's wife secretly and someone close to you will take your wives publicly to show that he's the new king. And all Israel will see it.'"

¹³David was stunned. He knew he had grievously sinned, and on hearing the prophet's words, he keenly felt it. Then, with trembling lips he admitted his guilt, saying to Nathan, "I have sinned a great sin against Uriah and Bathsheba, but most of all against the Lord. I deserve to die." After David finished weeping, Nathan said, "The Lord has heard your admission of guilt and has forgiven you. You will not die as you deserve. ¹⁴But because you have shown such disregard for God's law and for human life and have ignored what He has said, others who wish to ignore God's standards will claim an excuse to break them. Therefore, your newborn son, whom you love, will get sick and die in your place. This will be more painful to you than your own death."

David's Son Dies

²⁰Then David got up and bathed, combed his hair, put on fresh clothes and went to the Sanctuary to worship. After he returned to the palace, he asked his servants to bring him food; then he sat down and ate. ²¹His officials were puzzled. They said, "Why are you acting like this when your son has just died?"

When he was alive you fasted and prayed, which we can understand, but now that he has died, you get up and eat!" ²²David said, "While my son was alive I fasted and prayed and wept before the Lord because I thought that the Lord might hear my prayer and change His mind and let my little son live. ²³Now that he's gone, why should I fast? There's nothing more I can do. I can't bring him back to life. Someday I will join him in death, but he won't be coming back to me anymore."

Solomon Is Born

²⁴Then David went to comfort Bathsheba. Soon she became pregnant again and gave birth to another son. David named him Solomon. The Lord still loved David, and He also loved his newborn son. ²⁵To show His love, the Lord sent word to David through Nathan the prophet that he should also call the baby Jedidiah, meaning Loved by the Lord.

David Captures Rabbah

²⁶During this time Joab was at the front fighting the Ammonites and was about to take their capital. ²⁷So he sent word to David, saying, "We're ready to launch our final attack on Rabbah. We've already captured the lower part of the city with its water supply, so the more fortified section can't hold out for more than a few days. ²⁸Bring the rest of the troops with you and come and take the city. Otherwise, I'll have to take it, and they'll name it after me." ²⁹So David called up the rest of the troops and marched over to Rabbah. They attacked the city and took it.

³⁰David took the golden crown that had rested on the head of their idol god Molech and put it on his own head as a sign of victory. It had a huge precious stone in the front and was very heavy, about seventy-five pounds. David also took a large amount of spoils out of the city. ³¹He made the people work for Israel with saws, axes and picks, or had them manufacture things such as bricks and building materials. It was his practice to do this to all the Ammonites whose cities he took. Then he and his men returned to Jerusalem.

Amnon and His Sister Tamar

13 In the course of time, four of David's sons died, according to the fourfold sentence he had pronounced on the rich man who had taken the poor man's sheep. Amnon, David's firstborn from Ahinoam, fell in love with Tamar, the beautiful sister of Absalom. Absalom and Tamar were both children of Maacah, so Amnon was Tamar's half-brother. ²Tamar was a virgin. Amnon was so infatuated with her that he got sick. It was forbidden for him to have sex with her because she was his half-sister, and according to custom, all young women were to remain virgins until they got married.

³Jonadab, the son of David's brother, Shimeah, and a cousin to Amnon, was very shrewd. ⁴One day he said to Amnon, "You look sick. What's bothering you? You're the king's son, why do you go around looking so sad every day?" Amnon said, "I'm in love with my sister Tamar, and Absalom won't let me get near her." ⁵Jonadab said, "That's simple. Go to bed and pretend you're sick. That should be easy to do because you look it. When your father comes to find out how you are and asks what he can do for you, tell him you would like Tamar to bring you some food and cook it right in your room. This might increase your appetite." ⁶So Amnon went home and pretended he was sick. When David came to see him, Amnon said, "Could Tamar come and prepare some food for me? Maybe seeing it cooked would make me feel more like eating."

⁷Then David sent for Tamar, saying, "Take some food to Amnon and prepare it in front of him to help his appetite." ⁸Tamar went to her brother's apartment and found him in bed. She took the unleavened dough she had, kneaded it in front of him and then baked it over the hot coals in his presence. ⁹When the cakes were done, she took them out of the pan and served them to him, but he refused to eat. Then Amnon said to his servant, "Send everyone out of here." And they left. ¹⁰When Tamar and Amnon were alone he said to her, "Let me see those cakes again. I feel a little more like eating now." So she brought out the cakes and brought them to Amnon. ¹¹When she got near him, he grabbed her and said, "Come to bed with me, my sister!"

¹²She cried out, "No! Let me go! Don't do this! You're my brother! We don't do such things in Israel! It's wicked! ¹³If I get pregnant before I'm married, they will accuse me of adultery and stone me, or if they let me go, I'll be disgraced for the rest of my life. And you'll either be stoned or considered to be a wicked fool. All you have to do is ask the king for me, and he'll let us get married." ¹⁴But Amnon wouldn't listen and pulled her into bed and raped her, because he was stronger than she was.

¹⁵Then he hated her so intensely that his hatred was greater than the love he had felt. So he told her, "Get up and get out!" ¹⁶She got up, but she refused to leave. She said, "No! Sending me away like a prostitute is even more insulting than what you've already done to me!" But he refused to listen. ¹⁷Then he called for his personal servant and said, "Get this woman out of my sight and lock the door so she can't come back in." ¹⁸That's what the servant did. He took hold of Tamar, pushed her out the door and locked it. Tamar was wearing a long dress with full sleeves like all the virgin daughters of the king wore. ¹⁹Once outside, Tamar tore her dress, sprinkled ashes on her head and buried her face in her hands as she went home crying aloud.

²⁰When her brother Absalom saw her, he said, "What happened? Did Amnon bother you?" Then she told him what had happened. Absalom said, "Let's try to keep what happened to ourselves. After all, he is your brother. You come and move in with me." So Tamar lived in her brother's house and remained unmarried the rest of her life. ²¹When David heard what had happened, he was furious, but felt he couldn't do a thing about it because of his own sin with Bathsheba. ²²Absalom hated Amnon intensely for what he had done to his sister. But he never mentioned the incident to Amnon.

Absalom Murders His Brother Amnon

²³Two years later, at the time of sheep shearing, Absalom invited all his brothers to join him at a place called Baal Hazor, about fifteen miles northeast of Jerusalem, to celebrate the wool harvest. ²⁴He went to the king and said, "I am having my sheep sheared, and I want to invite you and your officials to join us in celebrating the harvest." ²⁵David said, "Thank you, son, but if we all went, there would be too many of us for you to take care of." Absalom urged him to come, but David refused. He did, however, give Absalom his blessing. ²⁶Absalom knew this would happen, and he also knew that the king would then grant him his second request. So he said to his father, "If you and your officials can't come, then at least could Amnon, my oldest brother, join us?" The king said, "Why should he be the only one who goes?" ²⁷Absalom kept pressing his father, so David ordered all his sons to go. Absalom had prepared an elaborate feast.

²⁸When they all got there and were celebrating together, Absalom said to his workers, "Listen, when Amnon has had too much to drink and starts acting like a happy fool, I want you to kill him. I'll tell you when. Now don't be afraid. I'll take full responsibility." ²⁹So at the right time, Absalom gave the signal and his workers surrounded Amnon and killed him. Then the rest of the king's sons got up, jumped on their mules and fled.

³⁰Somehow news got back to Jerusalem ahead of them that Absalom had killed all his brothers, and this report reached David. ³¹He stood up, tore his robe and laid face-down on the ground. His servants also tore their clothes, shocked at what they had heard. ³²But Jonadab, one of David's nephews, went to him and said, "Your Majesty, don't believe the report you heard that all your sons were slain. Only Amnon was killed, none of the others." The king listened as Jonadab continued, "Absalom has been planning this for two years, ever since Amnon raped his sister Tamar. ³³So don't believe that your other sons are dead. The only one dead is Amnon."

Absalom Flees Jerusalem

³⁴Meanwhile, Absalom fled from the place of celebration. Back in Jerusalem a watchman on the wall saw a group of men on mules coming down the Horonaim road beside the mountain and went and told the king. ³⁵When Jonadab overheard this, he said to David, "See, the king's sons are coming back from the celebration, just as I told you." ³⁶No sooner had he finished speaking than David's sons came in sobbing uncontrollably and told the king what happened. Then the king and all his officials wept aloud over the death of Amnon. ³⁷While his brothers were rushing to Jerusalem, Absalom hurried for safety to Talmai, his maternal grandfather, king of Geshur, on the other side of Jordan. David was deeply grieved over the death of Amnon and mourned for him a long time. ³⁸Absalom stayed with his grandfather in Geshur about three years. ³⁹Finally, David stopped mourning for Amnon and longed for Absalom to return.

Joab Arranges Absalom's Return

14 Joab knew how much David missed Absalom and that he longed to see him. ²So he sent for a woman in Tekoa, who had a reputation for being very wise. He said to her, "I want you to do something for me. Put on some mourning clothes, but don't anoint yourself with oil, because I want you to look like you've been mourning for a long time. ³Then go to see the king and tell him this." Then he told her what to say.

⁴The woman did exactly as Joab requested. When she was ushered in to see the king, she fell on her knees, bowed low to the ground and said, "Your Majesty, please help me!" ⁵David said, "Tell me what the problem is to see if I can help you." She said, "I'm a poor widow, and my husband has been dead for some time. ⁶I had two sons who looked after me, but they got into a fight out in the field and no one was there to stop them. One of them ended up killing the other. ⁷Now all our relatives want me to hand this son over to them for stoning because he killed his brother. They say he's a murderer and deserves to die. They're doing this not only to punish my son, but so they can divide my property among themselves. If they succeed, the one spark of hope I have will go out, and it will be the end of my husband's name and property in Israel."

⁸David said to the woman, "By special order I will pardon your son. Go back home quickly and tell him what I said." ⁹But the woman pressed the issue, saying, "But Your Majesty, if you override the law, the people will hold you responsible for the crime because you let it go unpunished. Let the guilt fall on me, and let me die in my son's place. The king should not be blamed for letting a murderer go free." ¹⁰The king answered, "If anyone has any questions, let him come to me and he won't bother you again. I'll take full responsibility for my decision." ¹¹The woman said, "Then let the king promise before God that he will not let one of my relatives take the law into his own hands and kill the only son I have left." David said, "As the Lord lives, my order will be clear that no one is to touch one hair on your son's head."

¹²The woman thanked the king and said, "My lord, may I say one more thing?" The king answered, "Speak." ¹³She said, "My lord, why are you so quick to forgive my remaining son, and yet you don't forgive your own son who's living in exile? By your words, you convict yourself for not showing the same love toward him. ¹⁴All of us must die sometime, and when it happens, we are like spilled water on the ground which no one can gather up. Yet God respects each life and provides a way to bring us back from death so we will not remain separated from Him. ¹⁵I have come to the king because I was afraid of my relatives. I thought the only way out would be to see if you would grant my son a pardon. ¹⁶You are the only one who can deliver my son from the hand of those who are ready to kill him and take the inheritance that God has given us. ¹⁷You have graciously granted my request, and your promise gives me hope. My lord the king is like an angel of God, knowing the difference between good and evil. May the Lord God of Israel ever be with you."

¹⁸David listened patiently to the woman and then replied, "I'm going to ask you a question, and I want you to tell me the truth." The woman said, "Ask me anything, my lord, and I'll tell you the truth." ¹⁹The king said, "Did Joab put you up to this?" The woman said, "As surely as I live, the king is very wise. There is no way to avoid your question and still tell the truth. Yes, it was Joab who asked me to do this and told me what to say. ²⁰He wanted to bring about a reconciliation between you and your son Absalom. My lord has the insight of an angel of God to know so much."

²¹David dismissed the woman and asked to see Joab. When he came, David said, "I've decided to listen to what you have said through the woman. Go to Geshur and bring Absalom back home." ²²Joab knelt before the king, bowed low to show respect, then stood and thanked David for his mercy. He said to the king, "Thank you for showing favor by granting my request." ²³Then Joab went to Geshur and brought Absalom back to Jerusalem. ²⁴But the king told his official that he did not want to see his son Absalom ever again and that he was not to come into the palace, either alone or with his brothers. So when he returned, he went to live in his own house and was not called in to see the king.

David Forgives Absalom

²⁵Absalom was the most handsome man in Israel—tall, well proportioned and without a blemish from head to toe. He walked with the bearing of a king. ²⁶His hair was long and very thick. About once a year when it became too hard to manage, he would have it cut, and the cuttings weighed close to five pounds. ²⁷Absalom had three sons and a daughter. He named his daughter after his sister Tamar. She grew up to be a very beautiful woman.

²⁸When Absalom returned to Jerusalem, he was not allowed to see the king. For the next two years he played on the sympathy of the people who admired his courage in dealing with his brother when David would not. ²⁹One day he called for Joab to see if he would intercede again with the king to allow him to come to the palace. But Joab refused to come. Absalom asked for him a second time, but again he refused. ³⁰Then Absalom said to his servants, "Look, Joab's field of barley is right next to mine. I want you to set it on fire." So they did.

³¹Joab then went immediately to Absalom's house and asked, "Why did you have your servants set my field on fire?" ³²Absalom answered, "That's the only way I could get your attention. Listen, I want you to go and ask the king why he even brought me home. It would have been better for me to have stayed in Geshur. If I'm guilty of murder, let him put me to death." Absalom knew that because of his father's sin against Uriah and Bathsheba, he was in no position to carry out the law against him. ³³Joab went to David and told him what Absalom had said. David then sent for his son, and Absalom bowed before him as all visitors did. David threw his arms around his son, kissed him and welcomed him home.

Absalom's Rebellion

15 For two more years Absalom played politics by riding around the city in a horse-drawn chariot with fifty men running ahead announcing his coming. ²He got up early and stood near the city gate. Whenever someone came into the city to take a case to the king, Absalom would draw him aside and ask where he was from. ³Then he would say, "You have a good case to take to the king. Unfortunately, there's no representative of the king assigned to the city gate to hear your case. ⁴Now if I were a judge, I could hear your case right here. I would carry out the law and see that justice is done." ⁵The man would bow before Absalom honoring him as the king's son and ask him for help. Then Absalom would put his hands on the man's shoulders and give him the greeting of a brother by kissing him on both cheeks. ⁶He did this to all Israelites who came to appeal their cases, no matter what tribe they belonged to. In this way Absalom stole the hearts of the people.

⁷All this took place after David had allowed Absalom to resume his duties in the palace. So after four years of quietly campaigning, Absalom went in to see the king and said, "Father, I would like your permission to go to Hebron where you first became king and where I was born. I made a vow to the Lord while living in Geshur, and I'd like to keep it. ⁸While I was there, I prayed, 'Lord, if you bring me back home to Jerusalem, I will go and worship you in the city where I was born to show my gratitude for what you have done for me.'"

⁹When David heard this he said to Absalom, "Of course, my son, I'll gladly let you go to worship the Lord." So Absalom went to Hebron, and David never suspected a thing. ¹⁰When Absalom got to Hebron, he sent secret agents throughout the tribes of Israel to tell those who favored him that he planned to become king. These men were to get the people together, and at a set time the rams' horns were to blow and everyone would shout, "Absalom is king at Hebron!" ¹¹Absalom had invited two hundred prominent men from Jerusalem to go to Hebron as his guests, to a feast of thanksgiving before the Lord. They innocently accepted his invitation, not knowing what was going on. ¹²When Absalom got to Hebron he offered sacrifices to the Lord and then sent for Ahithophel, the grandfather of Bathsheba who lived in Giloh, only eight miles from Hebron. Ahithophel was one of David's advisers, but he was still angry over what David had done to Bathsheba. Under his guidance the plot against David had gained momentum and the number of Absalom's followers had grown tremendously.

David Flees Jerusalem

¹³A messenger brought the news to David: "Your son Absalom is planning to make himself king of Israel, and men from all over the country are pledging loyalty to him!" ¹⁴Then David's former decisiveness returned, and he immediately took charge. He called in all his officers who were in Jerusalem at that time and said, "Come! Let's get out of the city! Absalom will try to attack before we can prepare to resist him. Let's get out before he comes and kills us and everyone else in the city who opposes him." ¹⁵They all agreed, "We're with you, and we'll do whatever you say." ¹⁶So the king, his family and all his officials left the city, except for ten of his concubines whom he left behind to look after the palace. ¹⁷When David and his people got to the outskirts of Jerusalem before crossing the Kidron Valley, they stopped. ¹⁸David's bodyguard, made up of the Cherethites and Pelethites, marched first. Then came the six hundred men from Gath who had accepted Israel's God and joined the forces of David when he had hidden from Saul.

¹⁹The king stopped this group and said to Ittai, their commander, “Why are you coming with us? Why don’t you go back and pledge your allegiance to the new king? You and your men haven’t grown up in Israel, so no one will think it strange if you don’t get involved in our politics. ²⁰You’ve been in Israel only a few years, so why should you roam around the country with me when I don’t even know where I’m going yet? Go back, and may the Lord our God be with you.” ²¹But Ittai said, “As surely as the Lord God of Israel lives and as long as my lord the king lives, wherever he goes, we will go, even if it means we have to die.” ²²David had been testing their loyalty. “If that’s your decision,” he said, “you’re welcome to stay. So go and march on up ahead of us.” Then Ittai and his men and their families went on ahead. ²³Along the way, the people wept as David and his men passed by. They crossed the Kidron Valley and continued toward the wilderness. They headed east toward the Jordan River, planning to cross it and then turn north toward Mahanaim and the forest of Ephraim.

²⁴Abiathar and Zadok, who had come from Gibeon to Jerusalem, were both high priests. They had brought the Ark of the Lord out of Jerusalem, set it down and offered sacrifices until all the people who wanted to follow David had safely left the city. ²⁵Then David said to Zadok, “Why don’t you take the Ark back to the city? If the Lord wants me to continue to serve as king, He’ll bring me back to Jerusalem to worship Him. ²⁶But if He’s not pleased with me and doesn’t want me to continue to be king, then let Him do to me whatever He sees best. ²⁷You have a lot more insight than I have, so why don’t you take your son Ahimaaz and, together with Abiathar and his son Jonathan, go back to Jerusalem to see what’s going on. ²⁸I’ll wait to hear from you before I cross Jordan.” ²⁹So Abiathar and Zadok took the Ark back to Jerusalem and stayed there.

³⁰As David ascended the Mount of Olives he went barefoot, covered his head and wept. The people covered their heads and cried also. ³¹When David heard that Ahithophel, the grandfather of Bathsheba and one of his advisers, had sided with Absalom, David prayed, “O Lord, please turn Ahithophel’s advice to Absalom into foolishness.”

³²When he got to the top of the Mount of Olives where people often went to pray, Hushai, the Archite, was there to greet him. He was wearing a torn robe and had ashes on his head. ³³David greeted his former adviser and said, “You’re an answer to prayer. You’re one of my most trusted friends. But you won’t be much help to me here. ³⁴You can be more help to me if you go back to Jerusalem and offer Absalom your services. Tell him you were one of his father’s advisers but that now you’re ready to work for him. That way you can hopefully defeat Ahithophel’s counsel. ³⁵I already sent Zadok and Abiathar back to Jerusalem with the Ark. Tell them everything you find out that I should know, and they’ll get it to me. ³⁶In fact, their sons Ahimaaz and Jonathan are there already. You can contact them and they’ll let me know what’s happening.” ³⁷So Hushai changed his clothes and went to Jerusalem, arriving just as Absalom was coming into the city.

Mephibosheth’s Servant

16 Just past the summit of the Mount of Olives, David met Ziba, a former servant of Saul whom David had put in charge of Jonathan’s son Mephibosheth, coming up the hill toward him. He had several donkeys loaded with two hundred loaves of bread, a hundred clusters of raisins, a hundred portions of figs and a huge leather container full of unfermented wine. ²The king asked Ziba, “Where are you going with all that?” He replied, “The donkeys are for you and the women in your family. The bread and the fruit are for everyone, and the wine is to take along for those who need it so that they don't pass out as they make their way through the wilderness." ³The king asked, "Where's Saul's grandson Mephibosheth?" Ziba answered, "He decided to stay in Jerusalem because he thinks that the people of Israel will turn against Absalom and restore to him the kingdom his grandfather Saul had." ⁴David said, "You're a faithful friend, Ziba. Because of Mephibosheth's treason, I'm taking the property of his grandfather Saul away from him and giving it to you." Then Ziba bowed before the king and said, "My lord, may I always serve you and find favor in your eyes."

Shimei Curses David

⁵When David and his people got close to Bahurim, a city on the road from Jerusalem to Jordan, a man named Shimei from the tribe of Benjamin and a relative of Saul came out cursing. ⁶When he got close to David he began throwing stones at him and his officials, even though they were all surrounded by the king's bodyguards. ⁷As he cursed, Shimei shouted, "Get out of here, you murderer! You're nothing but a bloodthirsty old man, the son of a devil. ⁸The Lord has seen to it that you get a taste of your own medicine for killing all of Saul's family just so you could be king. He has taken the kingdom away from you and given it to Absalom. You murderer!"

⁹Abishai, David's nephew, said, "Why don't you let me go over and cut off his head for saying that?" ¹⁰David said, "You and your brother are the bravest men I have, but we don't think the same. The Lord may have let him come and curse me publicly for a reason. How do I know?" ¹¹Then he turned to those around him and said, "My own son, my flesh and blood, is out to kill me. Why should we be surprised if a Benjamite and a relative of Saul curses me? Leave him alone. The Lord may have a purpose in all this. ¹²I'd rather let the Lord take care of it if He feels He needs to do so. Who knows, God may want to see my reaction and if I show mercy to this man, He may have mercy on me." ¹³So David and his people continued on down the road. Shimei walked on the opposite side of the road, cursing David and throwing stones and flinging dust at him. ¹⁴Finally, the king and his people got to the Jordan River. They were exhausted and hungry so they stayed there and rested and refreshed themselves.

The Counsel of Ahithophel

¹⁵Meanwhile, Absalom, Ahithophel and the Israelite leaders arrived in Jerusalem and found that David and his officials were gone. ¹⁶Then Hushai the Archite, David's trusted friend, went to the palace to welcome Absalom and said to him, "Long live the king!" ¹⁷Absalom said, "Is this how you show your loyalty to David by being the first to greet the new king? Why aren't you with him?" ¹⁸Hushai said, "I couldn't go with your father because I'm for the one chosen by the Lord and supported by the people and leaders of Israel. He's the one I will serve and no one else. ¹⁹Besides, if I served the father, why shouldn't I serve the son? So I'm ready to serve you as I served your father David."

²⁰Absalom was pleased and accepted the services of Hushai and made him one of his advisers. Then he turned to Ahithophel and said, "Now that we took Jerusalem without a fight, what shall we do next? What would you advise?" ²¹Ahithophel said, "Take the ten concubines that your father left behind and announce that they are now yours and that he's your enemy. Then the hearts of the people who are with you will be strengthened." ²²Absalom accepted Ahithophel's advice. He had a tent pitched on the roof of the palace and took his father's concubines into the tent with Israel looking on. ²³In those days people listened to Ahithophel's advice as if it came from God. That's also how both David and Absalom took his advice.

17 Ahithophel suggested to Absalom, “Why don’t you let me choose twelve thousand of your best men, and I’ll go after David tonight and get even with him for what he did to Uriah and Bathsheba. You need to stay here for your own safety and stabilize things in Jerusalem. ²I’ll launch a surprise attack while he and his people are tired and discouraged. His men will panic and run. That will give me a chance to go after David himself. ³Then his men will return to Jerusalem and pledge their loyalty to you. So the death of one man will mean the support of many. I will not harm any of the king’s family or any of his officials.” ⁴To Absalom this seemed like a reasonable plan, and the leaders of Israel agreed.

The Counsel of Hushai

⁵Then Absalom said, “Before we do this, let’s have Hushai the Archite come in and see what he has to say.” ⁶When Hushai came, Absalom told him what Ahithophel had said and then asked him what advice he would give.

⁷Hushai said, “This time Ahithophel’s advice is not good. ⁸You know the kind of fighters your father and his men are. They fight as fiercely as a mother bear robbed of her cubs. Besides, your father is an experienced fighter and would not spend the night with his troops out in the open where they could be attacked. ⁹He’s probably hiding in a cave somewhere as he used to do when he fled from Saul. So, if your men go looking for him, he’ll catch them off guard and launch a surprise attack as he’s done so many times with the Philistines and others. As soon as some of your men get killed, word will get back that David is winning, ¹⁰and even your bravest warriors who have hearts like lions will be frightened because they know what your father and his men can do. ¹¹My advice is to call together all men fit for military service, from Dan in the north to Beersheba in the south, until they look as numerous as the sand on the seashore and then you should personally lead them into battle. ¹²This way we’ll have enough men to hunt your father down and fall on him as the morning dew settles over the whole countryside. Then neither he nor his men will be left alive. ¹³If they make it to some city and think they’re safe, our people will bring ropes and pull that city off the mountain until nothing is left.”

¹⁴Absalom and the leaders of Israel listened and said, “The advice of Hushai is better than Ahithophel’s because it gives us a greater guarantee of success.” This is how the Lord caused Absalom to reject Ahithophel’s advice.

Hushai Warns David

¹⁵Then Hushai went to see Zadok and Abiathar, the high priests, and told them the advice that he and Ahithophel had given. “Absalom has decided to follow my plan,” Hushai reported, “but he could still change his mind.” ¹⁶Hushai then told them to get word to David as quickly as possible and tell him to cross the Jordan River as fast as he can and head for the forest of Ephraim. For him to spend the night at Jordan’s crossing could spell disaster for him and his people.

¹⁷Ahimaaz and Jonathan, the sons of Zadok and Abiathar, had decided to stay near the En Rogel well just outside of Jerusalem because there was always a crowd there, and they could be contacted without arousing suspicion. So Zadok and Abiathar sent a servant girl to the well to give Jonathan and Ahimaaz the message, and they were told to take it to David as quickly as they could. ¹⁸But an older boy saw them talking together, became suspicious and ran to tell Absalom. Jonathan and Ahimaaz had noticed the boy standing nearby watching them and decided to leave immediately. They got as far as Bahurim and stopped at the house of a friend who had a well in his yard, and they climbed down into it. ¹⁹The man’s wife put a covering over the well and then scattered some dry grain on it as if it had been there a long time, so no one would get the idea of looking into the well. ²⁰When Absalom's men came looking for Jonathan and Ahimaaz they asked the woman if she had seen the sons of the high priests. The woman said, "I saw them cross that brook over there." Absalom's men covered the whole area looking for them but couldn't find them. So they went back to Jerusalem.

²¹After Absalom's men had left the area, Jonathan and Ahimaaz climbed out of the well and immediately headed for David's camp. When they got there they said to David, "You need to cross the river right away because Ahithophel advised Absalom to attack you tonight."

²²So David and his people crossed the Jordan River. By daybreak they were all safely on the other side.

²³When Ahithophel saw that Absalom and his men had firmly decided to follow Hushai's plan, he saddled his donkey and headed back home to Giloh near Hebron. Then he put his affairs in order and hanged himself. So they buried him next to his father in the family tomb.

²⁴Meanwhile David and his people headed north into the forest of Ephraim as Hushai had suggested. Absalom and his men also crossed the Jordan and went after David as fast as they could.

²⁵Absalom had put Amasa in charge of the army of Israel in place of Joab. Amasa's father Jether (also called Ithra) was an Ishmaelite who had married Abigail, David's half-sister by Nahash. Amasa had defected from David's army and joined Absalom at the first sign of rebellion. ²⁶So Absalom's army crossed the Jordan River and headed north into the land of Gilead in hot pursuit of David.

²⁷David and his people were still some distance ahead of Absalom. When they arrived at Mahanaim, three men came to meet him: Shobi, the son of Nahash, an Israelite who lived in the Ammonite city of Rabbah, Makir, the son of Ammiel from Lo Debar, and Barzillai, the Gileadite from Rogelim. ²⁸They brought bedding, blankets, bowls and pots for David and his people. They also brought wheat, barley, parched grain, flour, beans, lentils, ²⁹honey, cheese, curds and sheep for them to eat. They said, "We knew you'd be hungry and thirsty after walking all that way through the wilderness."

Absalom Is Defeated and Killed

18 David took his most experienced men and divided them into divisions of thousands and companies of hundreds and set officers over them. ²He put Joab at the head of one division, Abishai at the head of another and Ittai from Gath over the third division. Then he told his troops that he would personally lead them into battle. ³But his men said to him, "No, you're not going to battle with us, because if we lose the battle, Absalom's men will forget about us and go after you. Getting you is worth more to them than ten thousand of us. No, it's better if you stay here with the reserves where you have some protection and get ready to send us more troops if we need them."

⁴David said, "I'll do whatever you think best." So the king stood at the gate of the city as his best troops marched past in units of hundreds and thousands on their way to battle. ⁵As Joab, Abishai and Ittai marched by at the head of their columns, David called out to each of them, "Be kind to Absalom for my sake." The troops also heard him.

⁶So David's men marched out to fight Absalom's army, and they met in the forest of Ephraim. ⁷David's troops defeated the Israelites with a great slaughter, killing over twenty thousand of them.

⁹As Absalom was trying to get out of the forest on his mule, he spotted some of David's men following him, so he rode as fast as he could, glancing behind him. His mule ran under a huge oak tree and

Absalom's head was caught in the fork of two branches. As his mule ran out from under him, he hung there by his neck, unconscious, with his long hair entangled in the branches. ¹⁰One of David's men saw what happened but was afraid to touch Absalom because of what the king had said to the generals before they left for battle. So he ran to Joab and said, "Absalom is hanging over there caught in the branches of a tree!" ¹¹Joab said, "What! You saw Absalom hanging in the branches of a tree and didn't kill him? That was your chance! You should have run him through with your sword, and I would have given you ten pieces of silver and a warrior's belt!"

¹²The man said, "Even if you gave me a thousand pieces of silver, I wouldn't touch the king's son, because as we marched out to battle, we heard the king tell you and Abishai and Ittai to protect young Absalom. ¹³So if I killed him, the king might demand my head. He knows everything that's going on, and sooner or later, he would find out who had done it. And there would be nothing even you could do to save me." ¹⁴Joab said, "Let's not waste time arguing. Where is he?" Together they ran to Absalom, and Joab took three short spears and thrust them into Absalom's chest while he was hanging there unconscious, but still alive. ¹⁵Joab's ten young bodyguards finished the job to make sure that he was dead. Then they lifted his body out of the branches and laid it on the ground.

¹⁶Joab then blew the ram's horn, and David's men stopped pursuing the Israelites. ¹⁷Joab ordered his men to throw Absalom's body in a nearby pit in the forest and cover it with a huge pile of stones, which they did. Meanwhile, the Israelites had fled before David's men and returned to their homes. ¹⁸During the short time that Absalom had been king, he had ordered a monument built to himself in the Valley of the Kings, because he thought, "I have no son to carry on my name, so this way the people won't forget me." He gave it his name, and today it's still called Absalom's Monument.

David Is Told of Absalom's Death

¹⁹Now Ahimaaz, the son of Zadok the high priest, was so eager to tell the king about the battle that he went to Joab and said, "Let me run and take the good news of our victory to the king and tell him that the Lord has saved him from his enemies." ²⁰Joab said, "No! You're an Israelite and the son of the high priest. You should not be the bearer of bad news, because even though we won, the king's son is dead. This will turn into a day of mourning, not a day of celebration." ²¹Then Joab turned to his Cushite servant and said, "Go and tell the king what happened." His servant bowed and took off running. ²²Then Ahimaaz spoke to Joab again, "Please let me run. Now that the Cushite is bearing the bad news, let me carry the good news." Joab said, "Son, why are you so eager to run to the king? The Cushite's already gone, and if there's a reward, he'll be the one to get it." ²³Ahimaaz said, "Reward or not, I'd like to run." So Joab said, "All right, go and run." Then Ahimaaz took the longer but easier way through the Jordan Valley, rather than the shorter way over the mountains, and he outran the Cushite.

²⁴David was sitting in one of the guardrooms between the inner and outer gates waiting for news from the front. When the watchman on the roof of the tower scanned the horizon, he saw a lone man running toward the city. ²⁵He called down to the king, "There's a runner coming!" The king said, "If he's alone, he's got good news, because no one runs with bad news." ²⁶Soon the watchman saw another man running toward the city. He called down to the king, "There's another runner coming, at little distance behind the first one, and he, too, is alone!" The king said, "He must be bringing more good news." ²⁷The watchman said, "The first runner looks like Ahimaaz, the son of Zadok." The king said, "He's a good man, and if he's in a hurry, he must have good news."

²⁸When Ahimaaz saw the king standing by the gate waiting for him, he called out, "All is well!" At the gate he bowed before David and said, "Praise the Lord! He has given you victory over all those who rebelled against you!" ²⁹The king said, "How is Absalom? Is he safe?" Ahimaaz skirted the question, saying, "I saw a tumult around Absalom, but I didn't see what was happening, and that's when Joab sent your servant running." ³⁰The king said, "Stay here, because there's another runner coming and we'll see what he has to say." So Ahimaaz stayed beside the king and waited.

³¹Then the Cushite came running up to the king, bowed low and said, "This day the Lord has saved the king from all those who rebelled against him." ³²The king said, "How is my son Absalom? Is he safe?" The Cushite answered, "May all the enemies of my lord and all those who rebel against him be as he is."

David Mourns for Absalom

³³When the king heard that, he was overcome with grief and his whole body shook as he wept. He went to the guardroom over the gateway and cried, "O Absalom! My son, my son! If only I could have died in your place! O Absalom, my son, my son."

19 Then someone told Joab that the king was really shaken by news of the death of his son, and that he was in the guardroom over the gateway mourning and weeping over Absalom. ²When word got around to all the troops that Absalom was dead and that the king was grieving over his death, they, too, mourned. ³That day they came through the gates of the city like men who had been defeated in battle. ⁴They heard the king crying out in a loud voice, "O my son, my son! Absalom, my son!"

⁵Then Joab said to David, "We have just gone out and risked our lives for you and your sons and daughters, your wives and your officials. We have received no thank you or word of appreciation. With all your weeping, you've made us feel ashamed of what we've done. ⁶You shame those who love you and love those who hate you. You've certainly made it clear to everyone that your field commanders and troops mean nothing to you and that you'd be happier if we were all dead and Absalom were alive. ⁷Stop crying now and go outside and show some appreciation to your troops for what they've done. I swear that if you don't welcome them back, none of us will stay, and by tonight, you'll be all alone. That will be worse than anything that's ever happened to you from your boyhood until now."

⁸David listened to Joab, then wiped his tears and went down to sit by the city gate. When the men heard that the king was by the gate, they lined up outside the wall and marched back in to receive his congratulations on their victory. Meanwhile, Absalom's men fled to their own homes.

David Starts Back to Jerusalem

⁹Some had actually revolted against David; others were indifferent toward him. Still others said, "David is the one who saved us from our enemies. He rescued us from the Philistines, but when Absalom claimed the throne, he left. ¹⁰So we made Absalom our king, but now he's dead. Why don't we just make David king again?"

¹¹When David heard about the confusion, he sent a message to Zadok and Abiathar, the two high priests, which said, "Ask the leaders of Judah why they're hesitating to invite the king back to his palace. ¹²Remind them that I'm their brother, that we belong to the same tribe and that I'm wondering why they're the last tribe to consider taking the king back. ¹³Also remind Amasa that he is my own flesh and blood and that I promise to put him in charge of all the armies of Israel in place of Joab.” David hoped by this to win Amasa’s loyalty. ¹⁴Zadok and Abiathar did as David said and his message touched the hearts of the leaders of Judah and re-awakened their loyalty to him. So they sent a message to the king, “Come back home and bring along all those who are with you.”

¹⁵David left Mahanaim and got as far as the eastern bank of the Jordan River. The leaders of Judah arrived from Jerusalem and went to Gilgal on the western bank to welcome him. ¹⁶Shimei, the Benjamite from Bahurim, who had cursed David, heard that Absalom was dead and that David was on his way home. So he quickly joined the men of Judah and hurried with them to the Jordan to welcome David. ¹⁷A thousand men from the tribe of Benjamin also went, as did Ziba, the former servant of Saul, and his fifteen sons and twenty servants. They all went down to the Jordan to welcome the king and help him across.

David’s Mercy to Shimei

¹⁸The Benjamites went across the river first to see what they could do to help the king. When Shimei got there, he fell at David’s feet and said to him, ¹⁹“My lord, forgive me for cursing you the day you left Jerusalem. Please don’t hold it against me. ²⁰I know that I did wrong and sinned in doing that, but today I’m one of the first from Joseph’s house to welcome you back.” ²¹Then Abishai, the son of Zeruah, said, “This fellow dared to curse the Lord’s anointed! He ought to be put to death!” ²²David said to Abishai, “You and your brother Joab certainly don’t think as I do. This is not the time to execute people. It’s a time of mercy and not justice. I’m still the king, and no one from Israel will be put to death.” ²³Then David turned to Shimei and promised him with an oath that he would not execute him for what he had done.

David and Mephibosheth

had joined the group to welcome the king. He had not cared for his feet, trimmed his beard, or washed his clothes since David had left Jerusalem. ²⁵When he greeted the king, David said to him, “Why didn’t you come with me when I left Jerusalem? Why did you stay behind? Did you think the people would make you the king?” ²⁶Mephibosheth answered, “Since I can’t walk, I told Ziba to saddle my donkeys for me so I could ride along with you, but he left without me. ²⁷I heard that he lied to you. He said that I decided to stay in Jerusalem, hoping to take back my grandfather’s throne and become king, which is not true. So now do to me whatever seems best to you, because you are like an angel from God to me. ²⁸All my grandfather’s descendants deserved to die because of the way they treated you. But out of love for my father Jonathan, you gave me a place at your own table. So I have no right to ask for additional mercy.”

²⁹David interrupted Mephibosheth and said, “Don’t say any more. Because Ziba brought us food and gave us donkeys when we were desperate, I told him he could have all your grandfather’s property, but I’m giving half of it back to you.” ³⁰Mephibosheth said, “He can have all of it! The only thing that matters is that you’re safely back home.” David felt that he could not restore all the property to Mephibosheth and remain true to his word.

David’s Kindness to Barzillai

³¹Now Barzillai, the Gileadite who with others had brought food and blankets to Mahanaim for David and his family, had come down from Rogelim to accompany the king across the Jordan. ³²Barzillai was an old man in his eighties. He was very wealthy and had provided for the king at Mahanaim. ³³So the king said to him, “Come on over Jordan with me to Jerusalem, and I’ll take care of you and be as generous to you as you have been to me.”

³⁴Barzillai replied, "I don't have that many more years to live. Why should I go and live in Jerusalem at this late time in my life? ³⁵I'm in my eighties and my mind is not what it used to be. It's hard for me to make decisions. I don't enjoy food like I used to, and my hearing is almost gone so that I can hardly hear the voices of singers. So why should I come to Jerusalem to be a burden to you? ³⁶I'll cross over Jordan, but then I'll go back home. The king doesn't need to reward me for what I have done. ³⁷Let me live out my days in my hometown and be buried next to my parents. But here's my son, Chimham. Let him go in my place if he wants to, and do for him what you would do for me." ³⁸The king said, "I'll be happy to take Chimham with me, and I'll do for him whatever I would have done for you. If there's anything else I can do for you, let me know and I'll be happy to do it." ³⁹So the king and all his people crossed to the western side of the Jordan River. Then David kissed Barzillai good-bye, and the old man returned home. ⁴⁰Chimham, Barzillai's son, went with the king. Then all the troops of Judah, but only half of those from Israel, welcomed the king back home.

Judah and Israel Argue Over David

⁴¹From here they went on to Jerusalem and when they drew close to the city, the leaders of Israel came out to meet the king and said, "Why were the men of Judah in such a hurry to go out to welcome you and help you cross Jordan? Didn't they want us to come along?" ⁴²The leaders of Judah said, "We did this because the king is our flesh and blood. He belongs to our tribe, so we thought it was our duty to go to welcome him and protect him. We didn't go out to get a reward. Why are you so angry?" ⁴³The men of Israel said, "Just remember that we have a ten-tribe claim on the king, even if he comes from your tribe. So don't keep looking down on us as if you're better than we are. Don't forget that it was our idea to bring the king back to Jerusalem." But the leaders of Judah were not willing to back down. They spoke more angrily than the men of Israel.

Sheba's Rebellion

20 Sheba, the son of Bichri, and a troublemaker from the tribe of Benjamin, happened to be there when the people of Israel were arguing with those of Judah. So he blew his ram's horn and then shouted, "We're not related to David! So why should we fight over him! Let's get out of here and go home!" ²Then all the Israelites who were there, even those who had welcomed David, left on Sheba's suggestion and went home. But the men of Judah stayed by and escorted David into Jerusalem.

³When David got home, the first thing he did was to take the ten concubines that he had left behind and put them in a separate housing area of the palace. He did this to show that he did not approve of what Absalom had done. He provided for the concubines but never went to see them again. So they lived as widows the rest of their lives.

⁴Then the king called in Amasa and said to him, "Call together all the fighting men of Judah to meet me here day after tomorrow, and I want you to be with them." ⁵But Amasa took longer to get the men together than the king had allowed, because he went to tribes other than Judah. ⁶In the meantime, David also called in Abishai and said, "Sheba, the son of Bichri, will stir up more rebellion than Absalom ever did. Take our special forces and my bodyguards and go after him before he collects a whole army, takes over some of the fortified cities and gets away from us."

⁷So Abishai and his brother Joab and their men, together with the Cherethites and Pelethites, David's bodyguards, left Jerusalem and went after Sheba. ⁸About six miles away they reached the huge boulder at Gibeon just across the border in Benjamin. Amasa and some of his men came out to greet them. Joab wondered what Amasa was doing in Benjamin when he was supposed to be rounding up the men of Judah. Joab loosened his dagger and as he stepped forward to greet Amasa and bowed to him, the dagger that was strapped to his waist fell out of its sheath. He bent over to pick it up with his left hand. ⁹Then he greeted Amasa and said, "How are you my brother?" He leaned forward and took hold of Amasa's beard with his right hand as if to pull him closer to give him a customary brotherly kiss.

¹⁰Amasa didn't even think about the dagger in Joab's left hand. Joab pulled him closer, kissed him and then plunged the dagger into Amasa's abdomen, ripping it open so that his insides fell out. He died instantly. Then Abishai and Joab went on their way to find Sheba. ¹¹One of Joab's officers who stood nearby shouted, "Whoever belonged to Amasa but favors Joab and is loyal to David, come and follow us!" So all of Amasa's men who were there followed Joab. ¹²Now Amasa's body was covered with blood and lay in the middle of the road. As the troops passed by, they all stopped to look. When one of the officers realized what was slowing down the troops, he took Amasa's body and dragged it into the field and threw a blanket over it. ¹³Then the troops moved on and went with Abishai and Joab to find Sheba.

¹⁴In the meantime, Sheba had gone through all the tribes to gain support and to collect his own private army. The men from his father's clan went with him and when they got up to the city of Beth Maacah near the city of Dan, they stopped to rest. ¹⁵The forces of Abishai and Joab caught up with Sheba and besieged the city. They began digging a ditch to get dirt to build a ramp against the wall so they could get into the city. Then they started battering the top of the wall to break it down.

¹⁶A woman appeared at the top of the wall and called down to the men, "Listen! Listen to me! Tell Joab to come here. I want to tell him something." ¹⁷They passed the word along, so Joab came and the woman called down to him, "Are you Joab?" He said, "Yes, I am." She said, "Listen to what I have to say." He replied, "Go on, I'm listening."

¹⁸She spoke firmly, "For years the people have said, 'If you want some good advice, go to the city of Beth Maacah,' and the advice we gave them would solve the problem. ¹⁹We're a peaceful people and loyal Israelites. We're like a mother to the people of our country. Why must you destroy those who are serving the Lord?" ²⁰Joab listened to her and replied, "The last thing I want to do is to kill your people and destroy your good city. ²¹But there's a man in there by the name of Sheba, from the tribe of Benjamin. He lives in the hill country of Ephraim and has revolted against David. Bring him out to us, and we'll leave your people alone." The woman said, "Wait there, and we'll throw his head down to you." ²²The woman talked to the people of the city. They grabbed Sheba, cut off his head and threw it down to Joab. Joab then blew the ram's horn and gave the order for the men to break up and go home. But Joab and Abishai took the special forces and returned to Jerusalem.

David's Officials

²³Joab was still the commander of all the armies in Israel. Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada was still over the Cherethites and Pelethites, David's personal guards. ²⁴Adoniram (Adoram) was in charge of conscripted labor, and Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud, was in charge of government records. ²⁵Sheva was the royal court secretary, and Zadok and Abiathar were still the high priests. ²⁶Ira from the city of Jair was David's personal envoy and royal adviser.

David and the Gibeonites

21 Toward the close of David's reign, there was a severe famine for three years. David prayed to the Lord about it. The Lord finally answered, "I'm withholding rain because there is guilt on Israel over Saul killing the people of Gibeon in cold blood. Years before, Joshua signed a peace treaty with these people, and they had put their trust in Israel." ²So David called for the leaders of the Gibeonites who were left to come to see him. The Gibeonites were a small group of surviving Amorites whom the Israelites had agreed not to destroy. But Saul in his misguided zeal for Israel had ignored the treaty and tried to wipe them out. ³When they came to see David, he said, "What can I do to make amends for what Saul did to you? The Lord is displeased with Israel for the way we have treated you. We want you to know that our God did not tell us to do that."

⁴The Gibeonites said, "We are not insisting on being paid for the death of our people or the loss of our property. We're not interested in Saul's silver and gold, and we're certainly not here to demand that an equal number of Israelites be killed." David said, "Then what is it that I can do for you?" ⁵They answered, "Saul wanted to completely destroy us and almost succeeded. The few of us who are left are scattered everywhere, and we have no place to call our own. ⁶So give us seven male descendants of Saul. We will execute them and hang their bodies up before the Lord outside of Saul's hometown. This is what Moses did with the leaders of Israel who had sex with the Moabite women who seduced them into worshipping Baal. At that time it stopped the plague the Lord had sent on Israel, and maybe this time it'll stop the famine." David said, "I'll give them to you as you request."

⁷So the king gave seven male descendants of Saul to the Gibeonites, but he spared Jonathan's son, Mephibosheth, because of the oath he had taken before the Lord and Jonathan to care for Jonathan's family. ⁸But David did order Armoni and Mephibosheth, two sons of Saul from his concubine Rizpah, to be handed over to the Gibeonites. Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah, was the one that Saul's commander Abner, had slept with. David also ordered the five sons of Saul's daughter Merab to be handed over to the Gibeonites. She was the one Saul had first promised to David but then gave to Adriel, the son of Barzillai the Meholahite. ⁹So the Gibeonites took them and impaled all seven of them on the mountain just outside of Saul's hometown of Gibeah at the beginning of the barley harvest.

¹⁰Then Rizpah went to Gibeah where the bodies were, spread some rough cloth on a nearby rock and stayed there to keep vultures away during the day and wild animals away at night. She stayed there from the beginning of the barley harvest until the rains came. ¹¹When David heard about the honor Rizpah gave her sons, he was moved with compassion and greatly sympathized with her.

¹²David decided to honor Saul and Jonathan who had been killed in the battle of Gilboa while defending Israel. The Philistines had hung their bodies up for public display in Beth Shan, but men from Jabesh had gone and gotten the bodies and given them an honorable burial in their own city. So David ordered the bones of Saul and Jonathan dug up and taken from Jabesh in Gilead to Saul's hometown, for re-burial. ¹³When David's men returned, he ordered them to bury the bodies of the seven descendants of Saul, together with the bones of Saul and Jonathan in Gibeah. ¹⁴They buried them in the tomb of Kish, Saul's father, and the Lord allowed the rains to return and refresh the drought-stricken land.

Battles With Philistine Giants

¹⁵Once more, war broke out between the Philistines and Israel. Then David left Jerusalem and took his men into battle. While in hand-to-hand combat, he suddenly became exhausted. ¹⁶When Ishbi-Benob saw David, he decided to go after him. He was a Philistine of tremendous size, a descendant from the giants of Gath. His bronze spearhead weighed seven-and-a-half pounds and his sword was brand new and as sharp as a razor. ¹⁷But Abishai saw him and came to David's rescue. He attacked the giant with such force that he struck him down with one blow and killed him. Then David's officers said to the king, "You're not going out to battle with us again! If you're killed, Israel will have lost its light!" David agreed and stayed away from the front. After their victory, he and his men returned to Jerusalem.

¹⁸Not long afterward there was another battle between Israel and the Philistines at Gob near the city of Gezer. It was during this battle that Sibbecai, the Hushathite, killed Saph, another man of tremendous size and a descendant of Rapha the giant. ¹⁹In still another battle, Elhanan, the son of Jair, a weaver from Bethlehem, killed a man named Lahmi, the youngest brother of Goliath whom David had killed. ²⁰In yet another battle, which took place near the city of Gath, there was a man of tremendous size with six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot. He, too, was a descendant of Rapha, the giant. ²¹When he challenged Israel to a fight, Jonathan, the son of David's brother Shimeah, accepted the challenge and killed him. ²²So these four descendants of the giants from Gath were all killed by David's men.

David's Song of Victory

22 This is one of the songs that David wrote and sang to the Lord after being delivered from all his enemies, including Saul. ²He sang,

"The Lord is my Rock, my Fortress, my Defense. ³My God is my Rock under whose overhang I hide; He is my strength and He holds my salvation. He is my stronghold, my tower of defense, the One who has saved me from violence. ⁴I called on the Lord for help and He saved me from my enemies; He alone is worthy to be praised.

⁵"When death was all around me and the waves of destruction were about to roll over me, ⁶when the grave was ready to trap me, and death reached out to touch me, ⁷I cried to the Lord for help; I called for Him to come and rescue me. He heard me from His Temple.

⁸"Then the earth quaked and the heavens shook; the Lord was angry with my enemies. ⁹Smoke and fire came out of the earth; hail like burning coals came down from the sky. ¹⁰The Lord came down from heaven in a thick, dark cloud. ¹¹He stepped into his heavenly chariot, surrounded by thousands of angels, and rode down on the wings of the wind. ¹²Darkness covered Him and clouds heavy with rain filled the sky. ¹³Lightning flashed from His presence, and bolts of lightning streaked the sky.

¹⁴"The sound of thunder filled the air, and the voice of the Most High God was heard defending me. ¹⁵He directed His arrows at my enemies, and His bolts of lightning sent them running. ¹⁶At God's rebuke, the bottom of the ocean was uncovered, and the foundations of the earth were laid bare when He breathed.

¹⁷"He reached down from the sky and took hold of me and pulled me out of deep waters. ¹⁸He rescued me from my enemies and from those who pressed in to kill me; they were too strong for me. ¹⁹They attacked me and it looked like the end, but the Lord came to my rescue. ²⁰Suddenly there was space around me; He had saved me from death because He was pleased with me.

²¹"The Lord helped me because I tried to do right; He rewarded me according to what I had done. ²²I have followed in the ways of the Lord; I have not turned away from Him to do that which is evil. ²³I know His commandments by heart; I have not broken His law. ²⁴He knows that I'm innocent of wrongdoing and that I have kept myself from sin. ²⁵The Lord has rewarded me according to my obedience, according to my cleanness in his sight.

²⁶"The Lord is loyal to those who are loyal; He does good to those who do good. ²⁷Those who are pure see Him as pure, but those who are wicked see Him as cruel. ²⁸The Lord helps those who are humble and humbles those who are proud. ²⁹Lord, you are my lamp, the One who turns my darkness into light. ³⁰With your help I can scale a wall; with you beside me, I can attack a whole army. ³¹The ways of the Lord are perfect; the words of the Lord are true; He is a mighty shield to all who seek His protection.

³²“Who is God but the Lord? Who is the Rock, but our God? ³³He alone is my refuge and strength; He clears the way before me; He makes my path safe. ³⁴He helps me run like a deer and protects me high in the mountains. ³⁵He helps me train for battle; He gives me strength to bend the strongest bow. ³⁶The Lord gives me the victory; His gentle condescension has made me great. ³⁷He has protected me from being captured. He has kept me from stumbling in battle and falling into the hands of my enemies.

³⁸“With His help I pursued my enemies and defeated them; I pursued them until I destroyed them. ³⁹I struck down my enemies so they could not rise; they fell at my feet and lay defeated. ⁴⁰You gave me strength to do battle; you gave me victory over my enemies. ⁴¹You made my enemies turn and run; you helped me defeat those who hated me and were out to get me. ⁴²They cried for help to their gods, but no one came to save them; they cried to the God of heaven, but neither did He answer them. ⁴³I struck my enemies to the ground; I trampled them in the dust; I walked on them as I charged into battle.

⁴⁴“You delivered me from my enemies and placed me at the head of nations; people I don’t even know are subject to me. ⁴⁵Foreigners bow before me; when I speak, they obey. ⁴⁶When they see me they lose courage; they come down from their strongholds and fall at my feet. ⁴⁷The Lord our God is alive! He will never die! Praise be to the Rock of our defense!

Let us exalt the Lord who saves us. ⁴⁸He is the One who gives me victory; He is the One who puts nations under my feet. ⁴⁹He saves me from my enemies; He exalts me above those who hate me; He protects me from the hands of violent men.

⁵⁰“Therefore I will praise the Lord among the nations; I will sing praises to His name. ⁵¹The Lord gives the king great victories; He is loyal to the one He has chosen; He showers David and his descendants with unspeakable love.”

David's Last Words

23 David was the son of Jesse, the man God chose to be king, the one whom the God of Jacob made great. He composed many songs and was known as Israel’s beloved singer. This was his last song:

²“The Spirit of the Lord spoke to me, and His message is in my mouth. ³The God of Israel spoke and the Rock of Israel said to me, ‘One will come whose rule over men will be just, who will rule in the fear of God. ⁴He is like light flooding the earth at dawn on a cloudless day; He is like the sun that fills the sky after the rain; He makes every blade of grass sparkle like a diamond in the field and sprout from the ground.’ ⁵God has made an eternal covenant with me to establish my house forever; He will keep His word and bring to pass all my desires. ⁶When He comes, evil men will be cast aside like thorns; those whom no one could touch without getting hurt will be no more. ⁷Only an iron hand or a spear can now control them, but when He comes, He will use fire to destroy them forever.”

David's Mighty Warriors

⁸Here is a list of David’s mighty warriors: There was Josheb Basshebeth (or Jashobeam), also known as Adino the Eznite. He was leader of The Famous Three. He used his sword and spear fearlessly, and he killed three hundred men in one battle, and a total of eight hundred.

⁹The second of The Famous Three was

Eleazar, the son of Dodo the Ahohite. He alone stood with David against the Philistines at Pas Dammim after the rest of the men withdrew. ¹⁰Eleazar fought so long and hard that when the battle was over, his hand was cramped around the handle of his sword and he couldn't let go. The Lord gave them the victory that day. The rest of the men finally returned, but only to strip the dead of their weapons and armor.

¹¹The third of The Famous Three was Shammah, the son of Agee, the Hararite. When the Philistines gathered at Lehi in a field of lentils, the Israelites had fled. ¹²But Shammah stood in the middle of the field and defied the Philistines. When they attacked, he fought them off, and the Lord gave him a great victory.

¹³Actually, David had thirty such mighty men. Once during the harvest, three of these were with David at the cave of Adullam while the Philistines camped in the Valley of Rephaim. ¹⁴As David and his men stood on top of a hill not far from Bethlehem where a Philistine garrison was stationed, ¹⁵he longed aloud for a drink, saying, "O, how I wish I could have a drink of water from the well by the gate of Bethlehem!" ¹⁶So these three broke through the Philistine lines, drew water from the well and brought it back to David. When they gave it to him, he refused to drink it, but poured it out on the ground as an offering to the Lord. ¹⁷He said to them, "You could have been killed! How could I have enjoyed that water knowing you risked your lives for it?" These were the kinds of exploits The Mighty Thirty carried out.

¹⁸Now Abishai, the son of Zeruiah and brother of Joab, was the leader of The Mighty Thirty. He was not at all afraid to use his sword and spear, and during one long battle he killed three hundred men. This kind of bravery, along with his leadership, gave him a name next to The Famous Three. ¹⁹He was the most respected of The Mighty Thirty and was also their commander, even though he was not one of The Famous Three.

²⁰Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, from Kabzeel in Judah, also performed great feats of valor. He killed two giant Moabite warriors who attacked him at the same time. He went down into a pit on a snowy day to face a trapped lion and killed it. ²¹He also killed a huge Egyptian, about seven-and-a-half feet tall, who came at him with a spear. Benaiah attacked him with his club, snatched the spear from the Egyptian's hand and used it to kill him. ²²These were some of the feats of Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, which gave him his standing among The Mighty Thirty. ²³He was looked up to and respected by The Mighty Thirty, even though his feats did not equal the feats of The Famous Three. Benaiah was also in charge of David's bodyguards, made up of the Cherethites and Pelethites.

Gareb, the two Ithrites;³⁹ and Uriah the Hittite, whom David ordered killed. All these men were at one time among the mighty men of David.

David's Census

24 Toward the end of David's life the Lord was again displeased with the people of Israel. They had become proud of their newly attained national greatness and desired to be like the nations around them. God's purpose for their existence was forgotten, and David succumbed to Satan's temptation to take a census of Israel and Judah to see how many were of military age.² He called in Joab, his commander, and said, "Send your men throughout Israel from Dan in the north to Beersheba in the south and take a census for me. Count the number of men of military age to see how large an army we would have if we decided to go to war to enlarge our country."³ Joab said to the king, "May the Lord increase the size of Israel and its fighting men a hundredfold and may the king live to see it, but let the Lord do so. Why go through the entire country just to count those of military age? That sounds like nothing but ambitious pride. It is not a good thing to do."

⁴But the king overruled Joab's reluctance, so Joab left to carry out the king's order.⁵ Joab and his men crossed the Jordan River and camped in a small valley just south of Aroer. They began taking the census at the southern border of Israel and worked their way north to Jazer in the land of Gad.⁶ From there they went on to Gilead and Kadesh in the land of the Hittites and then north to Dan, and west to Sidon.⁷ At Sidon they turned south to the city of Tyre on the coast of the Mediterranean, taking in all the cities along the way that once belonged to the Hivites and the Canaanites. Then they kept heading south until they got to Beersheba in the Negeb, the southern part of Judah.⁸ It took nine months and twenty days to finish taking the census, then Joab and his men returned to Jerusalem to give the king their report.⁹ Joab gave the final count to David, and there were eight hundred thousand fighting men in Israel, not counting the nearly three hundred thousand in David's standing army. There were almost five hundred thousand in Judah alone.

Judgment on David for Taking a Census

¹⁰Then David's conscience began to bother him, and he realized that he had given in to the temptation of pride. He said to the Lord, "O Lord, I have sinned! Please forgive me! Take away my sin and my guilt. I gave in to my pride and did a very foolish thing."¹¹ Early the next morning before David got up, the Lord said to the prophet Gad,¹² "Go talk to David and say to him, 'The Lord has heard your prayers and forgiven you. But both you and the people need to be disciplined, because they were just as full of pride as you were. The Lord is giving you three options; choose the one you want Him to carry out.'" ¹³So Gad went to see David and said to him, "The Lord has heard your prayers and is giving you three options. Which one of these should He carry out as punishment for your sin? Should it be three years of drought and famine, three months of being chased by invading armies, or three days of a plague throughout Israel? You decide and I'll take your answer back to the Lord."¹⁴ "This is awful!" David said. "How can I decide such a thing? I know this: It is better to fall into the hands of the Lord than into the hands of our enemies. Let Him punish us, because He's full of compassion."

¹⁵So the Lord sent a plague in the land which began that very morning and was to last for three days. Seventy thousand men from Dan to Beersheba who had been trained for military service died as a result of that plague.¹⁶ Then the angel standing on Mount Moriah stretched out his sword over Jerusalem ready to strike the city with the plague, but the Lord said to him, "That's enough. Stop!" The angel was standing by the threshing floor of Araunah, the Jebusite, whom the people called Ornan. ¹⁷And the Lord opened David's eyes to let him see the angel with a drawn sword. David said, "O Lord, I'm the one who sinned! I'm the one who started all this! The people are my sheep. They only did what I asked them to do. Just punish me and my father's house, not them!"

The Altar on Mount Moriah

¹⁸Then the prophet of God came to see David and said, "Go up to Mount Moriah where you saw the angel standing, and build an altar to the Lord there on the threshing floor of Araunah, the Jebusite." ¹⁹So David left Jerusalem and headed to the top of Mount Moriah, just as the prophet had said. ²⁰When Araunah saw David and his officials coming toward him, he went to greet them, bowed face down in front of David and asked, ²¹"Why has my lord the king come to see me?" David answered, "I have come to buy your threshing floor so I can build an altar to the Lord and stop the plague that's spreading through the land."

²²Araunah said to David, "Let the king do whatever pleases him. Here are my oxen; you may use them for sacrifices. And here are their wooden yokes and the boards of the threshing floor; you may use those to make the fire." ²³Araunah offered all these to David, then added, "May Israel's God accept these and answer your prayer." ²⁴David replied, "No, I must pay you. I will not bring to the Lord an offering that doesn't cost me anything." So David bought Araunah's threshing floor and his oxen for fifty silver coins, and the entire hill of Moriah for six hundred gold coins. From then on, that area was considered holy. It was the place where Abraham had built an altar to offer his son Isaac and where Solomon would later build the Temple. ²⁵David built an altar there and had the priests offer the oxen as burnt offerings and peace offerings to the Lord. Then the Lord answered David's prayer and stopped the plague.

Adonijah Claims the Throne

1 When David was about seventy years old, he just couldn't keep warm anymore, even when his servants covered him with blankets. ²Then his physicians said to him, "We'll find a healthy young virgin who is not engaged to be married to come and take care of you. She will lie close to you and keep you warm." The king agreed, ³so they searched throughout the tribes of Israel and found a young woman named Abishag in Shunem near Mount Tabor and brought her to Jerusalem to care for the king. ⁴She was very beautiful and after some training under the king's physicians, she became David's nurse. At night she would lie next to him to keep him warm, but he had no sexual relations with her.

⁵After Absalom's death, Adonijah, the son of David and Haggith, wanted to take the throne. So he assembled chariots and horses and an escort of fifty men to run ahead of him. ⁶Unfortunately, his father had never disciplined him or questioned his actions. Adonijah was even more handsome than his older brother Absalom had been, though they had different mothers. ⁷Adonijah talked to Joab, the commander of David's army, and to Abiathar, the high priest serving the Ark of God in Jerusalem, about succeeding his father on the throne. In spite of the fact that David had already appointed Solomon, they gave Adonijah their support. ⁸But Zadok the high priest serving at the sanctuary in Gibeon, Benaiah commander of David's bodyguard, Nathan the prophet, and Shimei and Rei who were in charge of the chariot drivers and David's special forces did not join in the conspiracy.

⁹One day Adonijah sacrificed a number of sheep, young bulls and fattened calves as a peace offering. He made these sacrifices on top of Snake Rock near the spring En Rogel just south of Jerusalem. Then he held a royal thanksgiving feast and invited his brothers, the leaders of Judah who served at his father's court, and other important people who supported him. ¹⁰But he did not invite his brother Solomon, Nathan the prophet, Benaiah or any others from the king's bodyguard.

¹¹When Nathan heard this, he went to see Solomon's mother Bathsheba and said, "Have you heard that Adonijah without David's knowledge has told the people that he's succeeding his father as king? ¹²If he does that, it will be the end of you and Solomon because Adonijah knows full well that David wants Solomon to be the next king. To make his throne secure, Adonijah would have to kill Solomon. So if you want to save your life and that of your son, let me tell you what to do. ¹³Go to David and ask him, 'My lord, didn't you say God told you that He wants Solomon to be the next king to rule over all the tribes of Israel? Why is Adonijah rebelling against God by telling everyone that he's to be the next king?' ¹⁴After you've talked to the king, I'll go in and confirm what the Lord has said and what Adonijah is doing."

¹⁵So Bathsheba went to see David in his private room where Abishag was taking care of him. ¹⁶She bowed before David and sat next to his bed. He asked what he could do for her. ¹⁷She said, "My lord, didn't you tell me that God wanted our son Solomon to succeed you as king? ¹⁸Adonijah is telling everyone that he's to be the next king, and he hasn't even discussed it with you. ¹⁹He's already sacrificed sheep and young bulls and fattened calves for a royal thanksgiving feast and invited Abiathar and Joab and all your other sons except Solomon. ²⁰Now everyone is looking to you to find out who will really be the next king. ²¹If you don't do anything, as soon as you're dead, Adonijah will take your throne, and Solomon and I will be executed."

²²While Bathsheba was talking to David, Nathan the prophet came to the palace. ²³A servant told the king that

Nathan was there to see him, and David asked to have him sent in. Bathsheba excused herself. Then Nathan came in, bowed before the king and sat next to his bed. ²⁴He said, "My lord, the king, did you say that Adonijah is to succeed you as king and be the next one to rule Israel? ²⁵He's telling everyone that he is to be the next king and is holding a royal feast to celebrate. He has slaughtered numerous sheep, young bulls and fattened calves and has invited all the king's sons, the commanding officers of your army and Abiathar the high priest, and they have all accepted. The feast is going on right now and everyone is shouting, 'Long live King Adonijah!' ²⁶But he didn't invite his brother Solomon, Zadok the high priest, Benaiah the commander of your bodyguards, or me, because he knows that we don't support him. ²⁷Did you approve of this? If so, why didn't you tell us?"

David Proclaims Solomon King

²⁸Even though David was very weak, his mind was clear and he responded to the crisis with his former spirit. He said, "Ask Bathsheba to come back in." So Nathan left, and Bathsheba returned and stood before the king. ²⁹David took an oath, declaring, "As surely as the Lord lives who has delivered me out of many troubles, ³⁰our son Solomon will be king as the Lord has said. I will obey the Lord and this very day Solomon will sit on my throne as the new king of Israel." ³¹Bathsheba, who was kneeling next to the king's bed, bowed and stated, "May my lord, the king, live forever."

³²David said, "Go and call Zadok, the high priest, Nathan the prophet and Benaiah the commander of my bodyguards to come to see me. Hurry!"

³³When they came, he ordered, "Get my personal servants and take the royal mule. Have Solomon sit on the mule, and go through the city out to the Gihon Spring, about a half-mile from where Adonijah is holding his feast. ³⁴There I want you, Zadok, as high priest, and you, Nathan, as prophet, to anoint my son Solomon as the new king of Israel. Then blow the ram's horn and shout, 'Long live King Solomon!' ³⁵After that, make your way back to the palace and have Solomon sit on my throne to rule in my place. I have chosen him to be king over both Israel and Judah. This is in harmony with the will of the Lord."

³⁶Benaiah, commander of the king's bodyguard, was the first to respond, "Amen! Let the will of the king be done!"

³⁷As the Lord God of Israel was with my lord, the king, so may He be with Solomon and make his reign even greater and more prosperous than that of David!"

³⁸Then Zadok, Nathan, Benaiah and the king's bodyguards went to get the king's mule. They sat Solomon on it and escorted him through the city out to the Gihon Spring. And the people followed them. ³⁹There Zadok the high priest took a small animal horn of olive oil which he had brought from the tent where the Ark of the Lord was, and he anointed Solomon as the new king of Israel. Then they blew the ram's horn and the people shouted, "Long live King Solomon!" ⁴⁰And all the people followed Solomon back to the city, playing on their flutes and shouting for joy. When they got to the city they shouted so loudly that the ground shook.

⁴¹Adonijah and his guests heard the shouting just as they were finishing their royal feast. Joab was the first to speak.

He said, "What's the meaning of all that noise coming from the city?" ⁴²While Joab was still speaking, Jonathan, son of Abiathar the high priest, came running up. Adonijah welcomed him, saying, "It's good to see you. Come and join the festivities. A worthy young man like you must be bringing good news. Tell us, what is it?"

⁴³Jonathan said, "It's not good news. David has just made Solomon king. ⁴⁴He told Zadok, Nathan and Benaiah, along with David's bodyguards, to have Solomon ride on the king's mule. ⁴⁵They have just escorted him out to the Gihon Spring and Zadok anointed him with oil. The people shouted, 'Long live King Solomon!' Then they followed him back to the city shouting for joy. That's the noise you heard. ⁴⁶Solomon is now sitting on David's throne as the new king of Israel. ⁴⁷The government officials have already paid their respects to him and accepted him as their king! They thanked David for choosing Solomon and said to him, 'May the God of Israel who helped you, make Solomon's name even greater than yours!' David accepted their expressions of appreciation and while on his bed bowed in worship. ⁴⁸praying, 'Praise be to the Lord God of Israel who has let me live to see one of my own descendants succeed to the throne.'

⁴⁹When Adonijah and his guests heard this, they were afraid and left the feast. ⁵⁰Adonijah fled to the Sanctuary in Gibeon and took hold of the horns of the sacrificial altar for safety, acknowledging that he had sinned against the will of the Lord. ⁵¹So they went and told Solomon, "Adonijah is afraid of the king. He says, 'Let Solomon be merciful and promise not to execute me.'" ⁵²Solomon told the men who came to him, "If Adonijah shows himself to be loyal, not a hair of his head will be touched. But if not, he will surely die." ⁵³Then Solomon sent some men to get Adonijah. They convinced him it was safe to come to the palace, so he went and bowed before the king. Solomon said to him, "I've forgiven you. You're free to go."

David's Final Instructions to Solomon

2 As David grew weaker and realized that he would soon die, he called for his son Solomon and said, ²"I am very weak and could die any time now. I want you to be a strong and courageous king for the Lord. ³Do what God says. Keep His commandments and laws that He gave through His servant Moses, and He'll bless and prosper you in everything you do. God gave those laws for our own good. ⁴The Lord promised me, 'If your descendants obey me with all their hearts and have complete faith in me, your house will never fail to have one of your descendants on the throne.'

⁵"You remember how your cousin Joab hurt my name when he heartlessly killed two commanders of Israel, Abner and Amasa. They met him in peace as brothers, and he killed them in anger as if they had been enemies at war. Their blood stained the belt around his waist and the sandals on his feet; it was premeditated murder. But I could do nothing about it because I, too, had sinned against the Lord by having Uriah the Hittite killed. ⁶You must carry out Joab's sentence for me at the right time and place according to the wisdom the Lord gives you. But don't let him die without paying openly for his crime. ⁷Do be kind to the sons of Barzillai from Gilead and be sure they have plenty to eat. They stood by me and helped me when I fled from Absalom. So care for them. ⁸You also have Shimei, the son of Gera, to deal with. He's the Benjamite from Bahurim who cursed me publicly for having taken the throne away from Saul as I went to Mahanaim when fleeing from Absalom. After your brother died, Shimei came to meet me at the Jordan River and apologized, so I promised not to touch him. ⁹But remember, he's treacherous and not as innocent as he makes out to be. You are wise and will know what to do and when to do it. He should be put to death."

The Death of David

¹⁰That day David talked to Solomon for some time. Soon afterward, he died and was buried in Jerusalem near the palace. ¹¹He had ruled a little over forty years, seven and a half years in Hebron and thirty-three years in Jerusalem. ¹²So Solomon ruled in his father's place, and his kingdom was firmly established.

Solomon Orders Adonijah Killed

mon's mother. Bathsheba asked him, "Is this a friendly visit?" He answered, "Yes, it is." So she agreed to talk to him. ¹⁴He said, "I have something important to ask you." "What is it?" she asked. ¹⁵Adonijah replied, "As you know, the people wanted me to be king, and I would have been, but my father chose Solomon to take his place because that was the Lord's choice. ¹⁶Since then I've been thinking, and I have only one request. Please don't refuse me." "You may make your request," Bathsheba stated. ¹⁷Adonijah said, "Ask your son Solomon to let me have Abishag, the Shunamite woman who took care of my father, to be my wife." ¹⁸Bathsheba said, "That's a reasonable request. I'll talk to the king for you."

¹⁹When Bathsheba went in to see Solomon, he stood up to greet his mother and bowed to her in respect. He had a royal chair brought in for her so she could sit next to him. ²⁰Then he asked why she had come to see him. She answered, "I have a small favor to ask, so please don't refuse me." Solomon replied, "Tell me, Mother, what is it? You know that I'll do anything for you that I can." ²¹Bathsheba answered, "Adonijah would like to marry Abishag and wants your permission to have her as his wife." ²²Astonished, Solomon replied, "Do you realize what you're asking? The people consider her the king's concubine. If I consented for him to marry her, I'd be acknowledging that he had a right to the throne. That's one of the first things Absalom did when he came to Jerusalem to take the kingdom away from my father David was to have sexual relations with his concubines. It's only because of God's will that I succeeded my father, because Adonijah is older. If I let him take Abishag, I might as well give him the whole kingdom. That's what Abiathar the old high priest and Joab want me to do!"

²³Then King Solomon took an oath, "May the Lord strike me dead if I don't deal with this underhanded rebellion against Him. Adonijah will pay for this with his life! ²⁴God has put me on this throne and given me the kingdom of my father David to help establish his house forever. As surely as the Lord lives, Adonijah will die this very day for his sly maneuvering." ²⁵Then Solomon ordered Benaiah, the commander of the king's special guard, to go and execute Adonijah, which he did.

Solomon Exiles Abiathar and Orders Joab Killed

²⁶The king also sent this message to Abiathar, the high priest: "I want you to retire from active service. Go back to your home in Anathoth. You really deserve to die for going against the will of the Lord by supporting Adonijah to be the next king when you knew better. But I will not have you put to death, because you shared the hardships of my father David when he fled from Saul and later you were in charge of the Ark when David brought it to Jerusalem." ²⁷So Solomon took away the priestly privileges from Abiathar and put Zadok, who also was a high priest, in charge of the Sanctuary and the Ark of the Covenant. This fulfilled the prophecy the Lord had given to Samuel against the house of Eli that the high priesthood would pass from the descendants of Aaron's son Ithamar to the descendants of his son Eleazar.

²⁸When Joab heard what had happened to Adonijah and Abiathar, he fled to the Sanctuary. He went into the courtyard and took hold of the horns of the sacrificial altar for protection. Although Joab had not taken part in Absalom's rebellion, he had supported Adonijah, and by going to the Sanctuary for protection, he was admitting his guilt. ²⁹When Solomon heard that Joab had fled to the Sanctuary and was holding on to the horns of the altar, he sent a messenger to ask him why he was doing that. Joab said he was afraid Solomon would have him killed for supporting Adonijah and going against the Lord's will. Then Solomon told Benaiah to go and kill Joab, based on his own admission of guilt. ³⁰So Benaiah went to the Sanctuary and asked Joab to come out from the courtyard to be executed for his crimes. Joab said, "No! If I must die, I will die right here."

Benaiah went back to the king and said, "Joab refuses to leave the Sanctuary. What should we do?" ³¹The king said, "If he wants to die there, it's his choice. Kill him by the altar and then bury him. He needs to die, not so much for supporting Adonijah, because I could banish him for that, but for killing two officers who came to meet him as a friend. I must do what my father David could not do. ³²Joab killed Abner, the commander of Israel's army, and Amasa, the commander of Judah's army, in cold blood and didn't even tell my father what he had done or why. Those two officers were more honorable than he was. ³³The guilt of their blood rests squarely on Joab's head and the consequences will be with his descendants forever. But peace will come to the house of David for seeing that justice is done." ³⁴So Benaiah went back to the Sanctuary and ran a sword through Joab as he was holding on to the horns of the altar. They buried Joab by his house near the desert. ³⁵Then Solomon asked Benaiah to take Joab's place as commander-in-chief of all the armies of Israel, just as he had asked Zadok, the high priest, to take over all the responsibilities of the high priest which he had shared with Abiathar.

Solomon Orders Shimei Killed

³⁶Next the king sent for Shimei and said, "Because of what you did to my father David, cursing him when he had to flee from my brother Absalom and publicly accusing him of taking the throne away from Saul, I could have you executed. But I won't. I'll let you live. However, I want you to build a house in Jerusalem and stay there so I can keep an eye on you. ³⁷The day you cross the Kidron Brook just outside the city, I'll have you executed to keep you from stirring up trouble against the will of the Lord." ³⁸Shimei answered, "You are kind, Your Majesty. I will do as you have said." So Shimei built a house in Jerusalem as the king requested and stayed there for some time.

³⁹Three years later, two of Shimei's domestic slaves ran away. They went to the city of Gath that was ruled by Achish, the son of Maacah, but controlled by Israel. Someone told Shimei where they were. ⁴⁰So he saddled his donkey and left Jerusalem to go to Gath to find them. Soon he found them and brought them back home. ⁴¹When Solomon heard that Shimei had been out of Jerusalem, he called for him and said, ⁴²"Didn't you promise me that you would not leave Jerusalem? You even sealed it with an oath to the Lord! Didn't I tell you that if you ever left the city I would have you executed? You agreed to that. ⁴³Then why did you ignore my orders and break your oath to the Lord? Why didn't you send someone else after your servants? I can't really trust you or your loyalty to the crown. ⁴⁴You know all the wrong you did to my father, and when things changed, you pretended you were loyal to him. But even though he promised not to harm you, you have now brought judgment on yourself. I will have you executed, not so much for leaving Jerusalem as for helping Absalom in his rebellion against my father who was appointed to be king by the Lord. ⁴⁵Now the blessing of the God of Israel will rest still more on David's descendants and on his throne, and his house will be established forever because justice is being done." ⁴⁶Then the king ordered Benaiah, his commander-in-chief, to take Shimei out of his presence and execute him.

So the kingdom was secured, and Solomon, the son of David, was firmly established on the throne.

Solomon Prays for Wisdom

3Next, Solomon gave his attention to international affairs by making a political alliance with Egypt. Custom called for such an alliance to be sealed with a marriage. Solomon met Pharaoh's daughter and took her to be his wife. He brought her to live with him in the southern section of Jerusalem known as the City of David until he finished building his palace. He also began to carry out his father's wish to build a Temple for the Lord and a wall around Jerusalem. ²Now the people were offering sacrifices to the Lord on various altars in high places throughout the country where the Canaanites had worshiped their gods, because, they said, "There is no house for the Lord in Jerusalem."

³Solomon loved the Lord and did what his father David had told him to do, except he did offer sacrifices and burn incense to the Lord at different high places in the country, which was against God's law. ⁴He also went to Gibeon, just a few miles from Jerusalem, where the Sanctuary was and offered a thousand sacrifices and much incense in appreciation for what the Lord had done for him. ⁵It was at Gibeon that the God of Israel spoke to Solomon in a dream one night, saying, "Is there something special that you would like me to do for you?" ⁶Solomon answered, "Lord, you were very kind to my father who served you with all his heart. He was faithful and loyal to you and accepted your correction without excuse. You even let him live to see his own son sit on his throne. ⁷You have chosen me to be king and to rule Israel in my father's place. But I'm so young, I'm like a little child that doesn't know what to do. ⁸I'm supposed to rule these people, but there are so many of them, it's even hard to count them all. ⁹What I would like is wisdom to know how to rule and to decide between right and wrong. Who can rule such a large number of people, especially your people, and make all the right decisions?"

¹⁰The Lord was pleased with Solomon's request. ¹¹So He said to him, "Since you have asked for wisdom to rule instead of wealth or a long and healthy life or the death of your enemies, ¹²I will give you what you have asked for. I will give you wisdom and the ability to decide between right and wrong more than anyone ever has had or ever will have in the future. ¹³Besides that, I will give you what you didn't ask for. I will give you such wealth and honor that no king can be compared to you. ¹⁴If you walk in my ways, keep my commandments and obey my laws as your father David did, I will also give you a long and healthy life."

¹⁵Then Solomon woke up and knew that the Lord had spoken to him in his dream. So he returned to Jerusalem where the Ark of the Covenant was and sacrificed burnt offerings and peace offerings to the Lord. He also provided another feast of thanksgiving for everyone in his court.

Solomon Judges Between Two Women

¹⁶One of the first cases that Solomon had to judge was the case of two prostitutes. ¹⁷As they stood before the king, one woman said, "Your Majesty, this woman and I live in the same house. She was with me when I had my baby, a boy. ¹⁸Three days later I was with her when she had her baby. It also was a boy. After her baby was born, the people who had come to help us left, and there was no one in the house but us. ¹⁹During the first night after she had given birth, she rolled over and accidentally smothered her baby. ²⁰When she woke up and saw what she had done, she quietly took my baby while I was asleep and put hers next to me. ²¹In the morning when I woke up to nurse my baby, he was dead! But when I looked at him closely, it wasn't my baby at all!" ²²Then the other mother who had been holding the baby spoke up, "This is my baby! The dead one is yours!" So they stood there and argued over the infant in front of the king.

²³Solomon quieted them down and then said, "One of you says, 'The live baby is mine and yours is dead,' and the other one says, 'No, the live baby is mine and yours is dead.' How can I know who's telling the truth?" ²⁴Then the king turned to his servant and asked him to bring a sword. The king said to the servant, ²⁵"Go over and cut the baby in two and give half to each of them. That should settle it." ²⁶Then the baby's real mother cried out, "No! Please, my lord! Don't kill the baby! Let her have it!" The woman who was holding the baby said to the first woman, "The king is right. Neither of us should have the baby. Let them cut it in two and give each of us half." And she handed the baby over to the servant with the sword. ²⁷The king said, "Don't kill the baby. Give it to the other woman. It belongs to her. She's the real mother because she loves the baby and wants it to live."

²⁸When the people heard how Solomon had solved this case, they were filled with awe at his insight into human nature. They knew that the Lord had given him wisdom to administer justice for all.

Solomon's Government

4 Solomon was king over all of Israel from Dan to Beersheba and beyond. ²These were his chief officials: Azariah, the grandson of Zadok, who later became high priest; ³Elihoreph and Ahijah, the sons of Shisha, were the king's secretaries; Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud, was in charge of government records; ⁴Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, was commander-in-chief of Israel's armies; Zadok and Abiathar were the high priests; ⁵Azariah, son of Nathan the prophet, was over the district governors; Zabud, the other son of Nathan, was the king's personal adviser and friend; ⁶Ahishar was in charge of the palace; and Adoniram, the son of Abda, was in charge of conscripted labor.

⁷Solomon divided Israel into twelve districts and appointed a tax officer over each district. It was their responsibility to collect taxes and supply food for the king and for those who worked for him. Each tax officer provided the necessary supplies for the king for one month a year. ⁸These are the names of the twelve tax officers and their districts: Ben Hur was in charge of the hill country of Ephraim; ⁹Ben Deker was in charge of the cities of Makaz, Shaalvim, Beth Shemesh, Elon Beth Hanan and the surrounding areas; ¹⁰Ben Hesed was in charge of the cities of Arubboth, Socoh and all the land of Hepher; ¹¹Ben Abinadab, who married Solomon's daughter Taphath, was in charge of the territory of Dor; ¹²Baana, the son of Ahilud, was in charge of the cities of Taanach, Meggido and all the region of Beth Shan up to the town of Zarethan just south of the city of Jezreel and as far as the cities of Abel Meholah and Jokmeam; ¹³Ben Geber was in charge of the city of Ramoth in Gilead and all the other cities and towns in Gilead belonging to the descendants of Manasseh through Jair, and also the entire region of Argob in Bashan that had sixty fortified cities with high walls and bronze gates; ¹⁴Ahinadab, the son of Iddo the prophet, was in charge of the Mahanaim district; ¹⁵Ahimaaz, who married Solomon's daughter Basemath, was in charge of the territory of Naphtali; ¹⁶Baana, the son of Hushai, was in charge of the territory of Asher and Aloth; ¹⁷Jehoshaphat, the son of Paruah, was in charge of Issachar; ¹⁸Shimei, the son of Ela, was in charge of Benjamin; ¹⁹and Geber, the son of Uri, was in charge of the territory of Gilead which at one time had been ruled by Sihon, king of the Amorites, and another time by Og, king of Bashan. There was also a tax officer in charge of Judah who was over the twelve other officers.

Solomon's Prosperity

²⁰By this time the children of Israel and Judah were so numerous that they seemed to cover the land like sand on the seashore. Their tables were bounteously spread and they were happy.

²¹Solomon ruled over the whole area from the Arabian Desert in the east to the Mediterranean in the west, and from the Euphrates River in the north to the border of Egypt in the south. Everyone paid taxes to him, including the Canaanites and others who were still living in the land.

²²Solomon had over ten thousand people working for him at the palace. Every day he needed over one hundred and eighty bushels of fine flour, over three hundred and seventy-five bushels of meal, ²³ten heads of stall-fed oxen, twenty heads of pasture-fed cattle, one hundred sheep and goats, as well as deer, gazelles, roebucks and poultry.

²⁴Solomon ruled over all the land west of the Euphrates River from Tiphseh in the north to Gaza by the Mediterranean in the south. All the local kings in this whole area were subject to him, and he was at peace with all the nations around him. ²⁵During his reign, all Judah and Israel from Dan to Beersheba lived securely, each family having its own property. ²⁶Solomon had four thousand stalls for his chariot horses, plus twelve thousand horses with riders at various military posts. ²⁷Each month a tax officer supplied Solomon with all the food he needed for that month. There was never anything lacking. ²⁸These men also supplied barley and straw for Solomon's chariot horses and other horses.

²⁹In addition to everything that Solomon had, the Lord also gave him wisdom, insight, good judgment and breadth of understanding that couldn't be measured. ³⁰His wisdom was greater than all the wisdom found in the East and all the wisdom of Egypt. ³¹He had more understanding of things than Ethan the Ezrahite, and Heman, Calcol and Darda, the sons of Mahol. His fame spread throughout the surrounding nations. ³²He wrote over three thousand proverbs and over a thousand songs.

³³He wrote about all kinds of plant life, from the cedars in Lebanon to the hyssop that grows out of walls and about all kinds of animals, birds, reptiles and fish.

³⁴People came from everywhere to hear Solomon's wisdom. Other kings heard about it and sent their scholars to listen to him.

Solomon Prepares to Build the Temple

5 King Hiram of Tyre on the Mediterranean coast had always been a friend of David's and when he heard that Solomon had succeeded his father as king of Israel, he sent ambassadors to congratulate him and offer him his friendship. ²Solomon welcomed the ambassadors and sent back this message:

³"Thank you for your friendship. As you know, my father David had to fight against our enemies who were all around us. Because of this he was not allowed to build a temple for the Lord our God. He was told that the temple was to be built in a time of peace, not in a time of war, because it is to be a temple of peace. ⁴Now that the Lord has given us peace on all sides, I intend to build it. ⁵The Lord promised my father, 'Your son will succeed you on the throne and will build a Temple for me.' I now plan to build it for the Lord my God. ⁶I need your help. Please send your men to Lebanon to cut down some of the giant cedars for me. If you're willing, my men can come and help. I'll pay whatever price you set for your workers. No one is as skillful in cutting down those huge trees as you and your men."

⁷When Hiram got Solomon's message, he was pleased and said to his officers, "Praise to Israel's God who has given David such a wise and peace-loving son to succeed him as king over a great nation." ⁸Then he replied to Solomon: "I received your message and I'm happy to do what I can to provide all the cedar and cypress timbers you need. ⁹My men will cut them and bring them down from the mountains to the sea. Then they'll tie them together and float them as rafts to the place you specify. My men will bring them on shore and your men can then take over and haul them inland to Jerusalem. All I'm asking is that you feed my men; I'll pay their wages." And Solomon agreed. ¹⁰So Hiram, king of Tyre, supplied Solomon with all the cedar and cypress he needed. ¹¹And Solomon gave Hiram one hundred and twenty-five thousand bushels of wheat and one hundred and fifteen thousand gallons of olive oil. He gave this to him every year as long as Hiram's men were cutting and hauling the logs he needed. ¹²The Lord blessed Solomon in everything he did and gave him much wisdom. Solomon and Hiram had such a good relationship that they made a friendship treaty between themselves.

¹³Then Solomon drafted thirty thousand men from all over Israel to help with the work. ¹⁴He would send ten thousand men a month to bring to Jerusalem the logs that Hiram's men brought to the coast. Then he would bring them home for two months. So there were three shifts of ten thousand men, each shift working one month, with two months off. Adoniram was in charge of the entire operation. ¹⁵Solomon employed seventy thousand laborers and eighty thousand stone cutters to work in the hill country. ¹⁶He had three thousand, six hundred foremen and overall supervisors who took charge of the various projects to make sure everything stayed on schedule. ¹⁷Solomon ordered the stonecutters to carefully cut huge stones from the quarry for the foundation of the Temple. ¹⁸The craftsmen of Solomon and Hiram, plus the craftsmen from Gebal (Byblos), a coastal city of Phoenicia, worked together and prepared all the wood and stones needed for the Temple.

Solomon Builds the Temple

6 In the four hundred and eightieth year after the children of Jacob had come out of Egypt, in the fourth year of Solomon's reign and in the second month of that year, he began building the Temple. ²The Sanctuary portion of the Temple was one hundred and ten feet long, thirty-six feet wide and fifty-five feet high, including the attic above the two compartments. These measurements were based on a cubit and hand's breadth being a little more than twenty-one inches. ³Solomon built an entrance on the front of the Sanctuary thirty-six feet across, as wide as the Sanctuary, and eighteen feet deep. ⁴The walls of the Temple had openings in them, narrow on the outside and wide on the inside. ⁵Outside the Temple, on three of its sides—north, west and south—Solomon built a three-story annex, each story being nine feet high. ⁶The first story wall was nine feet wide, the second story eleven feet wide and the third story thirteen feet. At each level the wall was narrower, making the upper rooms wider. It was recessed to make a ledge so the beams for the next story could rest on them without having to be inserted into the wall, thus weakening it.

⁷The stones for the Temple were prepared at the quarry, so when they brought them to the building site, everything fit and the Temple was built without the noise of hammers, axes or any iron tools.

⁸The entrance to the first story of the annex was on the south side of the Temple, with stairs leading up to the second and third stories. ⁹When Solomon finished building the Temple, he roofed it with beams and planks of cedar. ¹⁰The three-story annex with its nine-foot high rooms and cedar beams was built against the wall of the Temple.

¹¹Then the Lord said to Solomon, ¹²"As for the Temple, don't think that it can hold me. Heaven is my throne and the earth, my footstool. But if you keep my commandments, obey my laws and listen to what I have to say, I will keep the promise I made to your father David. ¹³I promised him that I would come and live with my people in this Temple you are building and that I would not forsake my people.”

¹⁴So Solomon continued building the Temple until it was finished. ¹⁵The inside walls of the Holy Place were covered from floor to ceiling with cedar boards. The floor was covered with boards of cypress. ¹⁶The Most Holy Place measured thirty-six feet square, and its walls were also covered from floor to ceiling with cedar boards. ¹⁷The Holy Place was seventy-two feet long and thirty-six feet wide. ¹⁸The whole inside of the Sanctuary was covered from floor to ceiling with cedar so that the stone wall could not be seen. Gourds and flowers were carved into the wood. ¹⁹The inner Sanctuary, called the Most Holy Place, was where the Ark of the Covenant was kept. ²⁰This room was thirty-six feet long, thirty-six feet wide and thirty-six feet high, not including the attic. Solomon overlaid this room with pure gold. He also covered the cedar altar of incense with pure gold. This altar stood in front of the curtain going into the Most Holy Place. ²¹The whole inside of the Sanctuary was covered with pure gold including the entrance. Then he made chains of pure gold and hung them across the front of the Most Holy Place. ²²All the walls of the Sanctuary were covered with gold, including the altar of incense which, according to function, belonged in the Most Holy Place but which sat in the Holy Place.

²³Solomon also had two extra angels made to stand in the Most Holy Place next to the Ark of the Covenant, in addition to the cherubim which were already part of the ark. They were made of olive wood and each one was eighteen feet tall. ²⁴Each wing from the middle of the shoulder to its tip was nine feet long. From one wing tip to the other was eighteen feet. ²⁵Both angels were the same shape and size, including their wings. ²⁶Each angel was eighteen feet high. ²⁷The tips of their outstretched wings touched each other and the opposite walls of the Most Holy Place. ²⁸Both cherubim were overlaid with pure gold.

²⁹Solomon had angels and palm trees carved on the walls of the two inner rooms in addition to the gourds and open flowers. The carvings were also overlaid with gold. ³⁰Even the wooden floors of both rooms were covered with gold.

³¹Then he had a huge double door made of olive wood for the entrance to the Holy Place. Each door was three and a half feet wide and nine feet high. So the two doors with the frames covered one-fifth of the entrance. ³²He had angels, palm trees, gourds and flowers carved on them and then overlaid everything with gold.

³³The frame for the entrance to the Holy Place was made of olive wood. ³⁴The doors were made of cypress. He made the doors with two panels each, which folded over each other. ³⁵He also had angels, palm trees, gourds and flowers carved on these doors, then overlaid the doors with gold. ³⁶There were two courtyards, the inner one for the priests and the larger one for the people. The courtyard for the priests was in front of the Sanctuary and was enclosed with walls made of three rows of carefully cut stones and one row of trimmed cedar beams alternating all the way up.

³⁷Work began on the Temple in the second month of the fourth year of Solomon's reign. ³⁸It was completed in the eighth month of the eleventh year of Solomon's reign. He built it exactly as it had been planned by his father David. It took seven years to complete.

Solomon's Other Building Projects

7 Solomon also built a palace complex, including living quarters for himself, which took thirteen years.

²One part of the large complex was the Hall of Lebanon. According to the measure of an ordinary cubit, it was one hundred and fifty feet long, seventy-five feet wide and forty-five feet high. It was paneled with cedar and had four rows of cedar pillars, fifteen in each row, with cedar beams resting on the pillars. ³The ceiling had forty-five such cedar beams, fifteen in each row, resting across all four rows of pillars. The inner two rows of pillars made three great aisles down the length of the building. ⁴Three rows of windows were placed high on the side walls facing each other to let the sun shine down on the pillars. ⁵The doorways had rectangular frames, artistically decorated, which faced each other across the hall as the windows did.

⁶The Porch of Pillars was seventy-five feet wide, forty-five feet deep and covered from floor to ceiling with cedar. It led into the Hall of Lebanon and had an overhanging roof with pillars.

⁷The Hall of Justice was where Solomon sat and judged those cases brought to him from the lower courts. It was also covered from floor to ceiling with cedar.

⁸Solomon's living quarters were set farther back and designed to match the rest of the palace complex. He had similar quarters built for his wife, the daughter of the king of Egypt.

⁹All the buildings making up the palace complex from the foundation to the roof were made of high-grade stones, carefully cut and smoothed to tightly fit together. ¹⁰The foundation stones were huge, from twelve to fifteen feet square. ¹¹On top of these stones were two layers of other stones carefully cut to size and then a layer of cedar wood. ¹²The walls of the palace complex were built just like the walls of the Temple, three layers of carefully cut stones and one layer of trimmed cedar beams and so on all the way up.

Hiram the Craftsman

¹³When Solomon asked Hiram, the king of Tyre, to send him a craftsman, he sent a skilled coppersmith named Hiram. ¹⁴Hiram's mother was a descendant of Oholiab (or Aholiab) from Dan the one whom the Lord had given special wisdom in helping to build the Sanctuary for Moses. She had been twice widowed. Her first husband had been from the tribe of Naphtali and the second had been from Tyre. Now her son was invited to take charge of all Solomon's metalwork because of his skill and experience.

¹⁵He cast two bronze pillars for the Temple according to the Sanctuary cubit. Each pillar was thirty-three feet high and twenty-two feet around. ¹⁶He made two bronze crowns to sit on top of the pillars. Each crown was four-and-a-half feet high; together they measured nine feet. ¹⁷Each crown had a design of seven interwoven chains of wreaths ¹⁸and two rows of pomegranates. This design was repeated in each of the crowns. ¹⁹Each crown was shaped like a lily and was seven-and-a-half feet across. ²⁰All the way around the crown were rows of pomegranates, one hundred of them on each crown. ²¹Solomon had these freestanding pillars set at the entrance of the Temple. The pillar to the south was called Jachin, meaning The Lord Shall Establish, and the pillar to the north was called Boaz, meaning In God Is My Strength. ²²Each pillar had a lily-shaped crown. The work on these special pillars was finally finished.

The Bronze Basin and the Oxen

²³Next, Hiram made a huge bronze basin or laver. It was about eighteen feet across, nine feet high and fifty-six feet around. From this basin the priests used water to wash their hands and feet before ministering at the altar or entering the Sanctuary. It symbolized their need to be clean in heart and life when worshipping God. ²⁴Just below the rim and all around it were two rows of bronze gourds, ten gourds about every twenty-one inches. ²⁵The huge basin rested on the backs of twelve bronze bulls standing in a circle facing outward. Three faced north, three south, three east and three west. ²⁶The sides of the basin were three-and-a-half inches thick and the rim curved out like a cup or a lily blossom. It could easily hold ten thousand gallons of water.

The Carts and the Lavers

²⁷In addition to the huge basin, he made ten movable carts with basins for washing parts of the sacrifices. For these extra basins, he used the regular eighteen-inch cubit. Each cart with its basin was six feet long, six feet wide and four-and-a-half feet high. ²⁸The bottom part of the cart had four panels around it attached to the frame. ²⁹On the panels were figures of lions, bulls and flying angels. Above and below these figures were flowers of hammered bronze.

³⁴Each stand had four handles, one projecting from each of the four corners of the frame. ³⁵Each basin had a nine-inch wide circular bronze rim attached to the four corners. The panels below were attached to the frame to make the cart one firm piece. ³⁶Both the panels and the supports were engraved with angels, lions, palm trees and wreaths of flowers. ³⁷All of the carts were identical in size and shape.

³⁸Huram designed and made all ten of them. Each cart was six feet across, and its basin could hold over two hundred gallons of water. ³⁹Five stands were placed on the south side and five on the north side of the courtyard, and the huge bronze basin sitting on twelve bronze bulls was placed in line with the entrance to the Holy Place.

Temple Furnishings

⁴⁰Huram also designed and made the bowls, shovels and pots used for the Temple services. This is a list of what he made for Solomon: ⁴¹Two huge pillars with lily-shaped crowns ⁴²containing four hundred pomegranates, one hundred for each crown and two hundred to be used elsewhere; ⁴³ten carts with ten basins; ⁴⁴the huge basin sitting on the backs of twelve bulls; ⁴⁵and the bowls, shovels and pots needed for the services. Huram the coppersmith from Tyre made all these things for the Temple for Solomon out of the finest polished bronze.

⁴⁶They were first cast in clay molds in the foundry in the Jordan Valley between Succoth and Zarethan. ⁴⁷They were not weighed, because bronze was used for so many things that their weight was never determined.

⁴⁸Solomon did other things for the furnishings of the Temple. He had the altar of incense overlaid with gold. He had additional tables made to hold the holy bread, five for the north side of the Holy Place and five for the south side. ⁴⁹He had additional lampstands made to bring more light into the Holy Place, five on the north side of the entrance and five on the south side, with gold floral work, lamps and tongs. ⁵⁰He also had other things made, such as dishes, wick trimmers, sprinkling bowls, ladles and pans for carrying hot coals, all of which were made of gold. Even the hinges and sockets for the doors were made of gold.

⁵¹When the Temple was finished, Solomon brought in all the things his father David had dedicated to the Lord—the silver, the gold and the other precious things—and placed them in the Temple treasury.

The Ark Brought to the Temple

8 Then Solomon invited the leaders of Israel to Jerusalem. He wanted the older leaders, heads of tribes and leaders of families to witness the bringing of the Ark from the City of David (the southern section of Jerusalem) to the newly-built Temple on Mount Moriah. ²They met with Solomon in the month of Ethanim (also called Tishri) which is the first month of the civil calendar year and the seventh month of the religious year. On the tenth day of the seventh month the Day of Atonement was held and on the fifteenth day, the Festival of Tabernacles began. ³When they had all arrived, the Levites under the direction of the priests moved the Ark of the Covenant the short distance from Mount Zion to the Temple. ⁴Also the Sanctuary at Gibeon with all its furnishings and holy vessels was moved to the Temple.

⁵Solomon and all the leaders and officials of Israel assembled in front of the tent where the Ark of the Covenant was and sacrificed so many sheep and oxen to the Lord that they couldn't be counted. ⁶Then the Levites, under the direction of the priests, brought the Ark of the Covenant to the Temple, into the Most Holy Place, and set it down beneath the outstretched wings of the two huge angels. ⁷The outstretched wings of these two angels stretched from wall to wall and arched over the whole ark including its carrying poles. ⁸When the ark was set down, the carrying poles were so long that they stretched across the entire floor of the Most Holy Place. Their protruding ends could be seen from inside the Holy Place but not from the entrance to the Sanctuary. They were never removed from the ark.

⁹At this time there was nothing inside the Ark except the two stone tablets on which the Ten Commandments were written. They had been placed there by Moses when the children of Israel were in the wilderness after they had left Egypt. ¹⁰The priests directed the Levites where to locate the rest of the furniture in the Holy Place. When they finished and came out, a dazzling cloud enveloping the Lord's presence flooded the entire Temple. ¹¹It was so bright that the priests and Levites had a hard time carrying out their responsibilities in the courtyard and had to leave the Temple until the glory of the Lord subsided and allowed them to return.

¹²Then Solomon lifted up his voice in prayer and said, "O Lord, you are the One who created light and separated it from darkness. ¹³You have been with our people in a cloud, but now we have built a beautiful Temple for you. It is yours to live in forever."

Solomon Speaks to the People

¹⁴Solomon then turned and blessed the leaders of Israel and the people who were standing there, by saying to them, ¹⁵"Blessed be the Lord, the God of Israel, who kept the promise He made to my father David. ¹⁶God said to David, 'From the time I brought my people out of Egypt, I have not asked for a temple to be built for me nor have I chosen a city in which to live. But I have chosen you and your descendants to rule my people Israel.' ¹⁷My father David wanted to build this Temple for the Lord more than anything else. His whole heart was set on doing it. He wanted to honor the name of the Lord and to exalt the God of Israel. ¹⁸The Lord said to my father, 'I know that you want to build me a temple to honor my name, and that's good. ¹⁹But you are not the one to do it. Your son, your own flesh and blood, will build a temple for me.' ²⁰The Lord has kept His promise. He chose me to succeed my father as king, and I have built this Temple to honor His name and to exalt the God of Israel above all other gods. ²¹I provided a place in the Temple for the Ark of the Covenant. Inside the Ark are the same two stone tablets on which God wrote the covenant that He made with our ancestors when they first came out of Egypt."

Solomon's Prayer

fice, he raised his hands in prayer and said, ²³“O Lord God of Israel, there is no other God like you in heaven or on earth. You keep your promises and hold to the covenant that you have made with your people. You shower them with your love and bless those who keep your righteous law. ²⁴You have kept your promise to my father David who loved you with his whole heart. You told him that his son would build a temple for you and that you would help him do it. Here it stands. ²⁵Now, Lord, keep your other promise to David that his descendants would always sit on the throne of Israel as long as they obey you and love you as he did. ²⁶We believe that everything you told my father David will come true.

²⁷“But how can you, the infinite God of heaven, maintain your presence on earth confined to a temple? Even heaven cannot contain all your glory, so how can this Temple hold you? ²⁸O Lord, my God, please listen to my prayer and grant my requests. I am totally your servant and plead for your mercy. ²⁹May you be pleased with this Temple and watch over it day and night. May this Temple always be known as a place where prayers are heard and your name is revered. ³⁰Hear me, O Lord, and the prayers of your people when they come here to pray or even when they pray just facing this place. When they ask you to forgive them, hear them in heaven, your dwelling place, and forgive their sins and shortcomings.

³³“In the future when your people sin against you and then are defeated by an invading army and carried off as captives, if they look again to this Temple and confess their sins, ³⁴please hear their prayers in heaven and forgive them and bring them back home to the land that you gave to their fathers. ³⁵When there is a severe drought in the land because your people have sinned against you, and they look to this Temple and confess their sins, ³⁶do hear their prayers in heaven and forgive them and send them the rain they need. Then teach them how to do what is right and bless their land with the needed rains.

³⁷“When there is a famine because the crops have been destroyed by locusts or grasshoppers, by blight or mildew, by an invading army or other disasters, or when diseases strike down your people ³⁸and they face this house with uplifted hands asking for forgiveness, ³⁹then hear them from your place in heaven. You are the only One who knows the hearts of all of your people. Forgive them and answer their prayers according to their needs. ⁴⁰May your presence be a deterrent from sin so they can continue to live safely in this land you have given them.

⁴¹“When foreigners join your people in worship, ⁴²and those who live in distant lands hear of your mighty works and how you have reached out to your people as they come to your Temple praying for help, ⁴³hear their prayers and answer them from your throne in heaven. Lord, in your wisdom answer our prayers in such a way that people everywhere will know that this Temple is yours and that you are their God too. Then they will love you as we do.

⁴⁶“We know that there is no one who does not sin. So when your people sin grievously and you permit them to be taken into captivity, do not forget them. ⁴⁷If they confess their sins, admitting how wrong they were in leaving you and how wicked they have been, ⁴⁸and repent and turn to you with all their hearts and souls and minds, as they face their homeland, the city you have chosen and the Temple I have built for you, ⁴⁹then hear their prayers and be merciful to them. From your throne in heaven, send them the help they need. ⁵⁰Forgive the sins that they have committed against you and cause their captors to have mercy on them. ⁵¹Even when they're captives, they are still your people and your special possession whom you brought out of Egypt, that blazing furnace of oppression.

⁵²"O Lord, do hear my prayer and the prayers of your people whenever we call on you to help us. ⁵³You have chosen us to be your people out of all the people of the world. You have chosen us to be your own, your special possession. This is what you said to our forefathers through Moses when you brought them out of Egypt."

Solomon Blesses the Congregation

⁵⁴When Solomon finished his prayer, he rose from where he had been kneeling in front of God's altar praying with outstretched arms ⁵⁵and looked toward the people. In a loud voice he blessed all of them, saying, ⁵⁶"Let us praise the Lord! He has given us peace just as He promised. Not a word has failed of all the promises He gave through His servant Moses. ⁵⁷May the Lord our God ever be with you as He was with our forefathers. May He never leave us or forsake us. ⁵⁸May He give us the desire to follow Him and help us to walk in His ways and keep His commandments and laws which He gave us through our forefathers. ⁵⁹May the Lord God of Israel never forget the prayer I just prayed. May He keep it before Him day and night and help us according to our daily needs. ⁶⁰Then people everywhere will know that the Lord is God and that there is no other. ⁶¹May your hearts always be in tune with His. May you always love the Lord your God with all your hearts. May you always be as committed to obeying Him and keeping His commandments as you are today."

Solomon Dedicates the Temple

⁶²Then the king and the people offered many sacrifices to the Lord. ⁶³They offered twenty-two thousand young bulls and one hundred and twenty thousand sheep as part of the dedication service of the Temple and the festivals that followed. ⁶⁴That same day Solomon dedicated the courtyard of the Temple in front of the Holy Place and offered consecration offerings, grain offerings and fellowship offerings. Sacrifices were made in many places in the courtyard because the sacrificial altar was too small to hold all of them.

⁶⁵Solomon and all Israel, from the entrance to the Hamath Pass in the north to the Egyptian border in the south, celebrated the Festival of Tabernacles (also called the Festival of Shelters or Booths) for fourteen days, twice as long as usual. ⁶⁶The next day, he sent the leaders and those who were with them back home. Then the people blessed the king and with their hearts overflowing with love for God, praised Him all the way home for what He had done for David and for Israel.

God Appears to Solomon Again

9 So Solomon finished building the Temple and his royal palace and had everything made the way he wanted it. ²At their completion, the Lord appeared to him as He had in Gibeon when Solomon first became king. He said to Solomon, ³"I have heard the prayer you prayed at the dedication of the Temple which you built, and I have accepted this place as my own. It will be a holy place with my presence. If my people are obedient, I will protect it. I will watch over it with my eyes and my heart. ⁴If you will love me and serve me with all your heart as your father David did and keep my commandments and do what I ask you to do, ⁵I will keep the promise I made to him when I told him that one of his descendants would always be on the throne of Israel.

⁶“But if you or your descendants turn away from me and don’t keep my commandments or do what I asked you to do and you follow other gods and worship them, ⁷then I will have no choice but to withhold my blessings and protection and turn away from this Temple. Israel will then be taken from this land and become an object of ridicule and contempt wherever they live. ⁸Even though my intention is for this Temple to stand forever as a place of awe and worship, a monument to what I have done for Israel, all who pass by and see it in ruins will be appalled and say, ‘Why did the God of Israel let this happen?’ ⁹Others will answer, ‘Because they turned away from God who brought their forefathers out of Egypt with a mighty hand and miracles. They followed other gods and served them—that’s why all this happened.’”

Solomon and King Hiram

¹⁰It took Solomon twenty years to build the Temple and the royal palace—seven years for the Temple and thirteen for the palace. ¹¹Hiram, king of Tyre, provided all the cedar, cypress and gold that Solomon needed. As payment, Solomon gave Hiram a section of Galilee with twenty cities. ¹²When Hiram went to see these cities, he was disappointed with what he saw. He sent this message to Solomon: ¹³“Friend, is this the territory that you’re offering me? These twenty cities are worthless!” He renamed the territory Cabul, meaning Good For Nothing. ¹⁴Not only had Hiram given Solomon large quantities of cedar and cypress, but he had also given him about four-and-a-half tons of gold. In comparison, he felt the twenty cities he got in return were worthless.

Solomon’s Other Achievements

¹⁵Solomon used conscripted laborers to build the Temple and his palace. He also used forced labor to build the terraced gardens and walls around Jerusalem. Then he rebuilt the cities of Hazor, Megiddo and Gezer. ¹⁶Gezer was the city that the king of Egypt had attacked and burned. The Egyptian king had killed all the Canaanites who lived there and had given the city as a wedding gift to his daughter who became Solomon’s wife. ¹⁷That’s why Solomon was so interested in rebuilding Gezer. He also rebuilt the cities of Lower Beth Horon, ¹⁸Baalath, Tamar (or Tadmor) in the wilderness and others. ¹⁹He used these cities as military bases and kept his horses and chariots there. He also built other cities in which to store the country’s surplus grain. Solomon built many other things in Jerusalem, in the Lebanese mountains and in various other places. ²⁰The descendants of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites ²¹who were still in the country because the Israelites had not driven them out made up the conscripted labor force that Solomon used to do most of the work. ²²He did not use the men of Israel for such labor, but they served instead as soldiers, horsemen, chariot drivers, commanders, captains and other officers.

²³The Israelites were also government officials and supervisors. Five hundred and fifty of them were needed just to oversee these various building projects.

²⁴Solomon built a palace for his Egyptian wife, and she moved from the lower part of Jerusalem called the City of David into her new royal quarters west of the Temple. Solomon also constructed large terraced gardens for her so she would feel more at home.

²⁵During all this time Solomon never failed to fulfill his obligations to the Lord. Three times a year he brought a large number of animals to the Temple to be sacrificed as consecration and fellowship offerings on the altar that he had built for the Lord, together with the required grain offerings and incense.

²⁶Solomon also built ships at the port city of Ezion Geber on the Gulf of Aqabah near Elath in the land of Edom. ²⁷Hiram, king of Tyre, sent his experienced sailors to help the men of Israel sail their fleet. ²⁸From Ezion Geber they would sail to Ophir on the northeastern coast of Africa to bring back gold. They brought back sixteen tons of gold just for Solomon alone, not counting what he shared with Hiram.

The Queen of Sheba

10 When the queen of Sheba heard about the wisdom of Solomon and how his God had blessed him, she decided to go to see him herself and to test his wisdom with difficult questions. ²Leaving her kingdom at the southwestern tip of Arabia, she traveled all the way to Israel just to talk to Solomon. She arrived in Jerusalem with a large number of attendants and a great caravan of camels carrying gold, spices and precious stones. She asked Solomon every question she could think of. ³He answered everything she asked. Nothing was too hard for him to explain. ⁴Then she realized how wise Solomon truly was. She saw the palace that he had built, ⁵the food on his table, the seating of his many officials, the attending servants in their rich robes, his cupbearers and the large number of sacrifices offered at the Temple, and she was greatly impressed.

⁶She said to Solomon, "What I heard in my country about your wisdom and accomplishments is true! ⁷I didn't believe it until I saw it myself. In fact, those who told me didn't tell half of it. Your wisdom and wealth are much greater than what they said. ⁸How fortunate your people are to have a king like you! How privileged your officials and servants must feel to serve you and to hear what you have to say! ⁹Praise be to the Lord your God who must have been pleased with you to place you on the throne of Israel. He must have an everlasting love for Israel to give you such wisdom and help you administer justice and maintain law and order." ¹⁰Then she gave Solomon about four-and-a-half tons of gold, many spices and precious stones. Never again were so many spices brought into the country at one time as those that the queen of Sheba gave to Solomon.

¹¹Previously, Hiram's ships had brought gold, spices and precious stones into the country, as well as sandalwood from southwestern Arabia. That's how the queen of Sheba had first heard about Solomon. ¹²Solomon had used sandalwood to make supports for the Temple and his palace. He also used this wood to make harps and lyres for his musicians. Never again was so much sandalwood seen or brought into the country as when Solomon was building the Temple and palace.

¹³When the queen of Sheba was ready to leave, Solomon gave her many gifts and anything else she asked for. Then she left with her attendants and camels and returned to her own land, amazed at what she had seen of Solomon's wisdom and at the greatness of his God.

Solomon's Wealth

¹⁴The annual income of Solomon's government was twenty-five tons of gold. ¹⁵This did not include revenues that came in from international trade with other kings and governors. ¹⁶Solomon had two hundred large shields out of hammered gold made for his bodyguards. Over seven pounds of pure gold went into each shield. ¹⁷He also made three hundred smaller shields for the rest of the palace guards and overlaid each shield with three-and-a-half pounds of pure gold. These five hundred shields were hung in the Hall of Lebanon and used only on state occasions.

¹⁸Solomon's throne was very large. It was covered with ivory inlaid with gold. ¹⁹It had armrests and a high rounded back. Beside each armrest was the statue of a huge lion. There were six steps leading to the throne ²⁰and twelve statues of smaller lions, six on each end of the six steps. Nothing like this had ever been made in any other kingdom.

²¹All of Solomon's goblets, plates and bowls were made of pure gold, as was all the other dinnerware used for serving in the Hall of Lebanon. Nothing was made out of silver because during the reign of Solomon silver was of little value. ²²Solomon also had a huge fleet of ships in addition to the ships his men shared with the sailors from King Hiram. Once every three years this larger fleet would return from Tarshish loaded with gold, silver and huge amounts of ivory, as well as with peacocks, baboons and apes.

²³Solomon's kingdom ranked greatest in wisdom and wealth among all nations of his day. ²⁴Other kings wanted to talk with him to hear the wisdom God had given him and to learn about his God. ²⁵Year after year, every king who came brought him gifts, including silver, gold, expensive spices, costly robes, chariots, weapons of war, horses and mules.

²⁶Altogether, Solomon had fourteen thousand chariots and twelve thousand horses and riders which he stationed at military posts throughout the country and in Jerusalem. ²⁷During Solomon's time silver was as common as stones and cedar as plentiful as fig trees in the lowlands of Judah. ²⁸In addition to the horses and costly gifts that kings gave to Solomon, he imported horses from Egypt and Cilicia (Turkey). ²⁹He also imported chariots from Egypt for six hundred pieces of silver each and horses for one hundred and fifty pieces of silver. Then he sold them at a profit to the Syrians and Hittites.

Solomon's Heart Is Turned Away From God

11 King Solomon had many foreign women as wives besides the daughter of Pharaoh. There were women from Moab, Ammon, Edom, Sidon and the Hittite territories. ²He brought them into his harem, even though the Lord had told the Israelites not to intermarry with these nations because these women would turn them away from Him as the Moabite women had done to their forefathers at Peor. But it was the custom of kings to make alliances with other nations through marriage, and Solomon thought he was strong enough to resist their influence. ³He had seven hundred wives of royal birth in his harem and three hundred concubines of more common origins. They soon turned his heart away from God.

⁴In time Solomon began to worship foreign gods just as the Lord had predicted if he married foreign wives. He was not faithful to God as his father David had been. ⁵Human nature eventually overcame common sense, and Solomon ended up worshiping such gods as Ashtoreth, the nude sex goddess of the Sidonians, and Molech, the bloodthirsty god of the Ammonites to whom babies were sacrificed. ⁶By doing this, he not only sinned against the Lord but also lost his love for God. He no longer followed the Lord as his father David had done. ⁷To please some of his wives, Solomon even built a place of worship near Jerusalem on the Mount of Olives for Chemosh and Molech, the gods of the Moabites and Ammonites. ⁸He did the same for all of his foreign wives because they wanted to also worship their own gods, to burn incense and offer sacrifices to them.

⁹The Lord was very displeased with what Solomon was doing because it turned him away from the God of Israel who had appeared to him twice in a dream and talked to him personally. ¹⁰The Lord had plainly told him not to marry foreign women or to worship other gods, but Solomon had done so anyway.

¹¹Now the Lord spoke to him again, saying, "Because you have broken the covenant I made with you when you first became king and have not kept my commandments, I will take the kingdom away from you and your descendants and give it to one of your servants. ¹²However, for the sake of your father David, I won't do it until after you die. Then I will take it from your son. ¹³I won't take the whole kingdom from him, but most of it. For the sake of my servant David and for the sake of Jerusalem, the city I call my own, I will give him the tribe of Judah and the little tribe of Benjamin."

Solomon's Enemies

¹⁴Then the Lord caused Hadad from the royal line of Edom to stir up a revolt in his country against Solomon's control. ¹⁵Years before, when David was at war with Edom, Joab, his commander, had stayed behind after his victory over the Edomites to see that those who had died were buried. While there, he had killed all the adult males he could find. ¹⁶For six months Joab and his men searched the land for every man until they thought they had killed them all. ¹⁷But young prince Hadad escaped to Egypt, together with some of his father's officials. ¹⁸They left Midian where they had been hiding and went to Paran. Some of the men from Paran decided to go with them to Egypt. The king of Egypt welcomed them and gave Hadad and his father's officials a house, some land and whatever they needed. ¹⁹When Hadad grew up, the king of Egypt was so pleased with him that he gave him the sister of Queen Tahpenes to be his wife. ²⁰Queen Tahpenes's sister then gave birth to a son whom she called Genubath. She brought him to the palace to be raised, and he grew up with Pharaoh's children, as if he were one of them. ²¹While Hadad was in Egypt, he heard that David and Joab had died. Then Hadad said to Pharaoh, "Let me go. I need to return to my country." ²²Pharaoh asked, "Why? Aren't you happy here? Do you lack anything so that you must go back home?" Hadad said, "No, but I must go back to my own country. So please let me go." Then Pharaoh gave him permission to leave, and Hadad returned to Edom as king and became Solomon's bitter enemy.

²³The Lord also permitted Rezon, the son of Eliada and a servant of Hadadezer, king of Zobah, to revolt against Solomon's control. ²⁴Years before, David had defeated Hadadezer and his old Syrian allies. At first Rezon was just the leader of an armed band roving the country, but then he went to Damascus and established himself as the new king of Syria. ²⁵As king of Syria, Rezon became Solomon's enemy and caused him endless trouble in the north while Hadad the Edomite was causing him trouble in the south.

Jeroboam's Rebellion

²⁹One day as Jeroboam left Jerusalem, Ahijah the prophet from Shiloh met him on the road out in the open country. Ahijah was wearing a new outer robe. As they talked together, ³⁰suddenly Ahijah took off his new robe, and to the surprise of Jeroboam, tore it into twelve pieces.

³¹"Here, take ten of these pieces," said the prophet. "They're for you. The Lord says, 'I will take the united kingdom away from Solomon and give ten of the tribes to Jeroboam. ³²But for the sake of my servant David, the city of Jerusalem which I have made my own and the tribe of Judah with the little tribe of Benjamin will stay with his descendants. ³³Solomon has disobeyed me and is worshipping foreign gods such as Ashtoreth, Chemosh and Molech. He is no longer walking in my ways, keeping my commandments or doing what is right as his father David did. ³⁴I will let Solomon stay on the throne and continue to rule Israel as long as he lives. I'm doing this for the sake of his father David whom I made king of Israel and who loved me and kept my commandments and tried to do what was right. ³⁵When Solomon is dead and his son is king, I will give the ten tribes to you. ³⁶I will give one large and one small tribe to his son so that David will always have a descendant on the throne in Jerusalem, the city I have made my own. ³⁷As for you, you will rule over Israel, which is what you desire, and be king over ten tribes. ³⁸If you listen to me and keep my commandments and do what is right as my servant David did, I will be with you as I was with him. You and your descendants will be the future kings of Israel and I will build you a dynasty as enduring as the dynasty of David. ³⁹Because of Solomon's sins I will humble David's descendants, but not forever."

⁴⁰Solomon tried to kill Jeroboam because of his open disapproval of Solomon's reign. He feared Jeroboam would try to cause a revolt. So Jeroboam had left Jerusalem and was on his way to King Shishak in Egypt when Ahijah met him. He remained in Egypt until Solomon died.

The Death of Solomon

⁴¹Everything that Solomon did during his reign as well as his wisdom is recorded in the official state records and in the books written by the prophets Nathan, Ahijah and Iddo. ⁴²Solomon ruled in Jerusalem over the kingdom of Israel for forty years. ⁴³When he died he was buried in the southern section of Jerusalem called the City of David and his son Rehoboam became king.

The Northern Tribes Rebel Against Rehoboam

12 For his coronation ceremony Rehoboam went to Shechem where the leaders of Israel wanted to make him king. ²Jeroboam was in Egypt to escape being killed by Solomon. When he heard that Solomon was dead, he returned to Ephraim. ³The leaders of Israel invited Jeroboam to come to Shechem to join them for the coronation of Solomon's son Rehoboam as the new king of Israel. They also asked Jeroboam to speak to Rehoboam about the heavy taxes they were asked to pay. So Jeroboam said to Solomon's son, ⁴"Your father was hard on us by asking us to pay such heavy taxes. Lower our taxes and we'll be happy to serve you as our king." ⁵Rehoboam said, "Come back the day after tomorrow and I'll give you my answer." So Jeroboam and the leaders left.

⁶Then Rehoboam called the older counselors together, those who had served under his father Solomon and said to them, "What advice do you have for me about the request the people have to lower their taxes?" ⁷They said, "If you want to serve the people and be a shepherd to them, be kind and give them a favorable answer, and they'll willingly serve you forever." ⁸But Rehoboam didn't like their answer and called in his younger counselors, those who had grown up with him, and asked them what to do. ⁹He asked them, "What's your advice? What do you say I should do about the request of the people to lower their taxes?" ¹⁰The young men answered, "Tell the people who complained about your father's high taxes that your little finger is thicker than your father's waist. ¹¹Tell them that if they thought your father's taxes were heavy, they haven't seen anything yet. Taxes will now be heavier than your father's ever were. If they felt like your father was beating them with ordinary whips, they will now feel the sting of cattle whips. These people need to know who's in charge or they'll never respect you."

¹²On the third day Jeroboam and the leaders of Israel returned to find out Rehoboam's decision. ¹³Rehoboam ignored the advice of the older men and spoke harshly to the delegation. ¹⁴He followed the advice of his young friends, saying, "You people complain about the heavy taxes my father laid on you, but I'll make your taxes even heavier. You said you felt like my father was whipping you, but I'll beat you so hard you'll feel you've been stung by scorpions." ¹⁵Rehoboam did not listen to the people and determined to rule them with a rod of iron. But the Lord would not let him carry out his policy, so what Ahijah the Shilonite had said to Jeroboam came true.

¹⁶When the people realized that Rehoboam would not listen to them, they said, "We're not related to David. Why should we support one of his descendants? Let's leave this place! Let Rehoboam rule his own people!" So they turned and left and did not accept him as their king. ¹⁷This split the kingdom and from then on, Rehoboam only ruled over the people of Judah and Benjamin. ¹⁸Then Rehoboam sent Adoniram, chief of Israel's labor force, to go out immediately to get more workers for his building projects. But the people of Israel stoned Adoniram and he died. When Rehoboam saw that the rebellion was real, he ran to his chariot and raced back to Jerusalem. ¹⁹So the ten tribes of Israel rebelled against the house of David and formed their own kingdom. Never again were they part of the kingdom of Judah. ²⁰Then they sent for Jeroboam and made him the king of Israel. Only the tribe of Judah and the little tribe of Benjamin stayed with Rehoboam.

²¹When Rehoboam got back to Jerusalem, he called up all the fighting men of Judah and Benjamin—one hundred and eighty thousand of them—to fight against the ten tribes of Israel to the north. He wanted to bring them back under his rule. ²²But the Lord said to Shemaiah the prophet, ²³"I want you to talk to Rehoboam, the son of Solomon who is king of Judah and Benjamin. Give him and his people this message: ²⁴"The Lord does not want you to attack your brothers. Send all your troops back home. The dividing of the kingdom is from me and what has happened has my approval.'" Rehoboam and his officials listened to the Lord and all the troops were sent back home.

Jeroboam's Golden Calves

²⁵Then Jeroboam fortified the city of Shechem in the mountains north of Ephraim and made it his capital. He also rebuilt the town of Penuel (or Peniel) on the other side of Jordan and made it a military outpost. ²⁶Jeroboam wondered how he could keep the ten tribes away from the tribe of Judah. ²⁷He thought, "These people will go to Jerusalem to worship, and it won't be long before they'll give their allegiance to Rehoboam. If I object, they'll turn around and kill me." ²⁸So he talked the problem over with his advisers and decided to make two golden calves like the one Aaron had made at the foot of Mount Sinai. Then he said to the people, "Listen to me, my Israelite brothers. These calves represent the presence of the Lord our God who brought us out of the land of Egypt. From now on you don't need to go all the way to Jerusalem to worship the Lord." ²⁹He built a shrine for one golden calf in Bethel in the south near the border of Judah and another in Dan on Israel's northern border.

³⁰What Jeroboam did led the Israelites away from God and into idolatry. Most people went to Dan to worship the calf there. ³¹Jeroboam built shrines for other gods throughout the country and appointed common men, regardless of character, to serve as priests because the Levites refused to participate. As a result, the morals of the people sank lower than ever. ³²Then he instituted a rival religious festival to be held throughout the country on the fifteenth day of the eighth month in opposition to the Festival of Tabernacles held in Judah on the fifteenth day of the seventh month. He had his priests offer sacrifices to the golden calves and at the other shrines that he had built. ³³At the opening of his religious festival on the fifteenth day of the eighth month, Jeroboam went to Bethel to personally officiate as priest at the dedication of the new altar.

Prophet Condemns Worship at Bethel

13 Then the Lord sent a prophet from Judah to Bethel to confront Jeroboam. He crossed the border and arrived just as the king was standing by the altar ready to offer a sacrifice. ²The prophet cried out against the altar, "O altar! The Lord says, 'A child called Josiah will be born to the family of David. He will come and slay all the false priests that have been appointed in Israel and burn their bones on you.'" ³Then the man of God said to all those present, "This is a sign that what the Lord has spoken is true. The altar will split apart, and the ashes of the sacrifices on it will fall to the ground."

⁴When Jeroboam heard what the man of God had said against the altar he had built, he pointed at him with an outstretched arm and said to the men nearby, "Grab him!" As soon as he said that his arm became paralyzed and he couldn't pull it back. ⁵Then the altar split apart and the ashes fell to the ground just as the prophet from Judah had said it would. ⁶Jeroboam said to the man of God, "Please pray to the Lord for me and ask Him to restore my arm." So the prophet prayed and the king's arm was restored to normal. ⁷Then the king said to the prophet, "Come home with me and let's eat together, and I'll give you a present." ⁸The man of God said, "Even if you were to give me half of your kingdom, I wouldn't eat with you. I wouldn't think of eating in this idol-infested place. ⁹The Lord told me not to eat or even drink water here, nor to go back home the way I came." ¹⁰So the prophet left and started home from Bethel another way than the Lord had told him to go.

The Death of the Prophet

¹¹There was an old man living in

Bethel who claimed to be a prophet of the Lord. That day his sons came running home and told their father about the man of God from Judah and everything that had happened. They also told him about how the king had invited the prophet to eat with him, but the prophet had turned him down. ¹²Their father said, "When he left, which way did he go?" His sons told him. ¹³Then he said, "Quick! Saddle my donkey for me." So they did, and the old man went after the prophet. ¹⁴He found the man of God sitting under an oak tree. He asked, "Are you the prophet from Judah?" The man answered, "I am." ¹⁵Wanting to be hospitable, the old man said, "Come home with me and have something to eat before you go back." ¹⁶The prophet said, "I can't, because the Lord told me not to eat with anyone in this place, not even a piece of bread or a drink of water. ¹⁷I'm not to eat or drink anything until I get back home. He also told me not to go back the same way I came." ¹⁸The old man said, "I, too, am a prophet of the Lord. Just a little while ago an angel said to me, 'Go and find the man of God and bring him back to your house and give him something to eat.'" He kept repeating this to the man of God, but the old man was lying.

¹⁹The man of God finally believed him, and without checking with the Lord, he got up and went with the old man to his house and ate food and drank water. ²⁰While they were still sitting at the table after eating, the Lord spoke to the old man and gave him a message for the man of God from Judah. ²¹He stood up and said to the prophet from Judah, "Listen to the word of the Lord. You have not done what the Lord commanded you to do. ²²You ate bread and drank water in this place where He told you not to. If your disobedience goes unpunished, Jeroboam will not take God's message seriously and will think that his sins will go unpunished and that the prophecy you gave him was untrue. Therefore, you will die before you get back home, and your body will not be buried in the tomb of your fathers.”

²³After he had plenty to eat and drink, the man of God got up from the table to leave. The old man had a donkey saddled for him and gave it to him as a gift. Then the prophet got on it and rode away. ²⁴As he was traveling along the road home, he met a lion which attacked and killed him. His body lay in the road, and the lion and the donkey stood quietly beside it. ²⁵Soon some men came along and were amazed at what they saw—a lion and a donkey standing beside a dead man’s body. So they ran to the old man’s town and told what they had seen.

²⁶When he heard it, the old man thought, “This must be the man of God from Judah who disobeyed the Lord. God kept His word and sent a lion to kill him but not to eat him.” ²⁷He called his sons and said, “Quick! Saddle my donkey for me.” And they did. ²⁸He rode out to the place where the prophet’s body was and saw everything just as the men had said. The body was lying in the middle of the road, and the lion and the donkey were just standing there. The lion had not eaten the body or attacked the donkey. ²⁹Then the lion left, and the old man picked up the prophet’s body, put it on the donkey and took it back to the city for burial. ³⁰There the old man had his sons lay the prophet’s body in his own family tomb. He wept and said, “O my brother, my brother! What have I done!”

³¹After they buried the prophet from Judah, the old man said to his sons, “When I die, lay my body next to his. We were brothers in life and we will be brothers in death. ³²Now we know that the message he gave against the altar here in Bethel and all the shrines throughout our country and against King Jeroboam will surely come true.”

³³But even after Jeroboam heard what had happened to the prophet from Judah, he did not change his ways. He appointed more priests from the common people to serve at various places of idol worship. All anyone had to do to become a priest was to bring animals and volunteer his services. ³⁴This is the sin that brought an end to the royal house of Jeroboam and led to its downfall. Eventually his whole family was cut off and the Northern Kingdom disappeared from the face of the earth.

The Death of Jeroboam’s Son

14 About this time Abijah, the son of Jeroboam, became very ill. ²Jeroboam said to his wife, “Disguise yourself so no one will recognize you as my wife and go down to Shiloh where the old prophet Ahijah lives who said I would become king. ³Take ten loaves of bread with you, some cakes and a jar of honey as a present. Ask him about our sick son, and he’ll tell you what to do.”

⁴So Jeroboam’s wife disguised herself, took the gifts and made her way to Shiloh where Ahijah lived. Because of his age, Ahijah couldn’t see, so he couldn’t tell who was at the door. ⁵But the Lord said to him, “Jeroboam’s wife is here to see you to ask you about their son who is sick. But she disguised herself and is pretending to be someone else. This is what I want you to say to her.” Then the Lord told him what to say.

⁶So when she knocked, Ahijah got up and felt his way to the door, opened it and said, “Come in, wife of Jeroboam. The Lord told me that you were coming. I have bad news for you.” ⁷So she came in and Ahijah said to her, “Tell your husband Jeroboam that this is what the Lord God of Israel says, ‘I chose you to be king over my people Israel. ⁸I took the ten tribes away from the house of David and gave them to you. But you haven’t walked in my ways as David did. He loved me and kept my commandments and followed me with all his heart, even when I had to discipline him. He always tried his best to do what was right. ⁹But you have done more evil in a short time than anyone before you, including Solomon whose actions you so openly criticized. You have made your own gods, cast golden images and turned your back on me. ¹⁰Because of this, I will bring disaster on the entire house of Jeroboam. Every one of your male descendants will die, whether they remain free or are taken by your enemies. I will see to it that all your heirs disappear like dung that people throw in the fire and burn until there's nothing left. ¹¹Dogs will eat the bodies of your heirs who die in the city and birds will feed on the bodies of your heirs who die in the country. The Lord has spoken."

¹²Then Ahijah said to her, "As for your sick son, when you return to your city, he will die. ¹³All Israel will mourn his death and then they will bury him. He will be the only one of Jeroboam's sons who will be buried, because the Lord has seen something good in him, and in mercy He will lay him to rest. ¹⁴God will choose another king to reign over Israel who will put an end to the house of Jeroboam. The day of doom for his house has already begun. ¹⁵Israel will be punished also and will sway like a reed in the water. If she does not repent, God will uproot Israel from the land He has given her and scatter her people beyond the Euphrates River. He will do this because they have turned their backs on the Lord and put Asherah, the mother goddess of fertility, in His place. ¹⁶He will give up Israel because she has allowed herself to be led into sin by Jeroboam and enjoyed going along with what he wanted her to do."

¹⁷Then Jeroboam's wife went back to Tirzah, the new capital of Israel, where she lived. As soon as she set foot in her house, the boy died. ¹⁸All Israel mourned for the boy and buried him in great sadness as the Lord through his prophet Ahijah had said they would.

The Death of Jeroboam

¹⁹The other things that Jeroboam did, his wars and how he ruled, are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ²⁰Jeroboam ruled for twenty-two years and then slept with his fathers. After his death Nadab his son ruled in his stead.

Rehoboam's Reign in Judah

²¹While Jeroboam ruled over Israel to the north, Rehoboam, son of Solomon, ruled over Judah to the south. His mother was an Ammonite named Naamah, one of Solomon's many foreign wives. Rehoboam was forty-one years old when he became king, and he ruled Judah from Jerusalem for seventeen years. The Lord called Jerusalem His own city, and He wanted His people to come there to worship Him. ²²However, the people of Judah did evil in the sight of the Lord and displeased Him more than their ancestors had ever done. ²³They built places of worship on hills and in groves throughout the land. Stone pillars and wooden poles were set up as symbols of Asherah and other false gods of their northern neighbors. ²⁴Men as well as women served as prostitutes at these shrines and the people did shameful things to excite the goddess' reproductive powers so they would have a plentiful harvest. They followed the customs of the heathen who had lived there before even though the Lord had taken the land from the heathen for that very reason.

²⁵Now in the fifth year of Rehoboam, king of Judah, the Lord allowed Shishak, the king of Egypt, to attack Jerusalem. (This was the same king who had allowed Jeroboam to come to Egypt for protection against Solomon.) ²⁶He took away treasures from the Temple and the royal palace. He even took the five hundred gold shields that Solomon had made which hung in the Hall of Lebanon. ²⁷After Shishak left, Rehoboam replaced these gold shields with bronze ones, which the royal guards used for state occasions instead of gold ones. ²⁸Whenever the king went to the Temple, the guards who went with him carried their bronze shields, and when they got back, they returned the shields to the guardroom to be hung in the Hall of Lebanon.

²⁹The other things that Rehoboam did are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ³⁰While Jeroboam was king of Israel and Rehoboam was king of Judah, there was constant warfare between them. ³¹When Rehoboam died, he was buried in Jerusalem with his ancestors. He was the son of Naamah, the Ammonite wife of Solomon. Then Rehoboam's son Abijah became the next king of Judah.

Abijah's Reign in Judah

15 It was in the eighteenth year of the reign of Jeroboam, king of Israel, that Abijah became king of Judah. ²He ruled Judah for less than three years. His mother was Maacah, the granddaughter of Absalom. ³He did all the evil things his father had done and was not devoted to the Lord as his ancestor David had been. ⁴But for the sake of David, the Lord gave Abijah a son to succeed him who would keep the city strong. ⁵David had loved the Lord with all his heart and had kept His commandments all the days of his life, except in the case of Bathsheba and Uriah the Hittite. ⁶There was war between Abijah and Jeroboam all during Abijah's reign, just as there had been between his father Rehoboam and Jeroboam. ⁷All the other things that Abijah did are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah, including the wars between Abijah and Jeroboam. ⁸When Abijah died, he was buried with his fathers in the section of Jerusalem called the City of David. His son Asa became the next king of Judah.

Asa's Reign in Judah

⁹It was in the twentieth year of Jeroboam's reign in Israel that Asa became king of Judah. Two years later Jeroboam died. ¹⁰Asa ruled Judah from Jerusalem for forty-one years. His grandmother's name was Maacah, the granddaughter of Absalom, son of David. ¹¹Asa did what was right in the eyes of the Lord as David had done. ¹²He banned the male prostitutes throughout the country who worked at the shrines of the fertility gods. He also destroyed all the idols that his father, grandfather and great-grandfather had set up. ¹³He even deposed the Queen Mother, who was his grandmother, because of the obscene image she had set up of the goddess Asherah. Asa had it cut down and burned in the Kidron Valley outside of Jerusalem. ¹⁴He tried but did not succeed in destroying all the shrines in the country. Asa's heart was fully committed to the Lord, and he was faithful to Him all his life. ¹⁵Like his father Abijah, he did his best to replace all the silver, gold and other treasures that Shishak, king of Egypt, had taken from the Temple and royal palace during the reign of Rehoboam.

¹⁶There was never any real peace between Israel and Judah and soon hostilities broke out again. When Baasha killed Jeroboam's son Nadab and became the new king of Israel, ¹⁷he invaded Judah and took the border town of Ramah and began to fortify it to keep his people from going to Jerusalem and settling in Judah. ¹⁸Then Asa took the silver, gold and other treasures from the Temple and royal palace which were still left and had his ambassadors take them to Benhadad I, king of Syria. Benhadad was the grandson of Hezion (or Rezon), whom the Lord had raised up to fight against King Solomon. ¹⁹The ambassadors went to the city of Damascus and delivered Asa's message, which said, "Let's be friends as our ancestors were at one time and remember the treaty which our fathers made with each other. Here is some silver and gold from our Temple and royal palace as a present to you from us. Break your alliance with Baasha, the king of Israel, so he will have to concentrate on protecting his border with you and will pull his troops out of Judah."

²⁰Benhadad accepted Asa's offer of friendship and decided to cross the border into Israel and attack some of its northern cities. He also took the land near the northern end of the Lake of Galilee and the whole territory belonging to Naphtali. ²¹When Baasha heard what Benhadad had done, he stopped fortifying Ramah. He withdrew his forces from Judah and brought them back to his capital in Tirzah. ²²Then Asa ordered the people of Judah to come to Ramah and help carry away all the timbers and stones Baasha had been using to fortify the city. Instead, the king used these materials to build up and fortify the cities of Geba and Mizpah in the territory of Benjamin. ²³All the other things that Asa did, his achievements and the cities that he fortified are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. During the last years of his life he ruled the country jointly with his son Jehoshaphat while he suffered greatly from a foot disease. ²⁴When he died, they buried him with his ancestors in Jerusalem. His son Jehoshaphat ruled in his place.

²⁵Before this, after Jeroboam had died in Israel, Nadab his son took over during the second year of Asa, king of Judah. Nadab ruled Israel for parts of two years. ²⁶He did all the wicked things his father Jeroboam had done and led Israel even deeper into sin.

Baasha's Reign in Israel

²⁷While Nadab was besieging the Philistine city of Gibbethon, Baasha revolted against him and killed him. Baasha was not from one of the major tribes of Israel but from the obscure tribe of Issachar. ²⁸In the third year of Asa, king of Judah, Baasha proclaimed himself the new king of Israel. ²⁹One of the first things he did was to kill everyone in Jeroboam's family for his own security. He left no one alive. This was in harmony with what the prophet Ahijah from Shiloh had told Jeroboam's wife when she came to him about her sick boy. It all happened just as he had prophesied. ³⁰Jeroboam had turned Israel against God and had led them into worshipping idols which greatly displeased the Lord. Because Jeroboam would not repent, God's protection was withdrawn from him and his family.

³¹All the other things that happened during Nadab's reign are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ³²There were periodic wars between Baasha, king of Israel, and Asa, king of Judah, during the entire time they ruled.

³³Baasha became king of Israel in the third year of the reign of Asa, king of Judah, and he ruled the Northern Kingdom for twenty-four years. ³⁴He did all the evil things that Jeroboam and Nadab had done and led Israel even deeper into sin.

16 Then the Lord spoke to Jehu, the son of Hanani from the tribe of Judah, and gave him this message for Baasha: ²"You were a nobody until I permitted you to become leader of my people. But you've been just as wicked as Jeroboam and you've led Israel even deeper into sin. You knew that this would displease me, but you didn't care. ³So I will remove you and your family just as I removed Jeroboam and his family. ⁴Those of your family who die in the city will be eaten by dogs and those who die in the country will be eaten by vultures."

⁵All the other things that Baasha did, his achievements and victories, are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ⁶Baasha died and was buried in Tirzah where his fathers were buried, and Elah his son ruled in his stead. ⁷The Lord gave this message to Jehu, the son of Hanani, against Baasha because of all the wicked things he had done against the Lord. He had done every evil that Jeroboam had, and more, and took it on himself to kill everyone who belonged to the royal house of Jeroboam.

Elah's Reign in Israel

⁸It was in the twenty-sixth year of the reign of Asa, king of Judah, that Elah, the son of Baasha, became king of Israel. He ruled Israel from Tirzah for less than two years. ⁹Zimri, commander of half the king's chariots, plotted against him. One day Elah was visiting in the home of Arza, the man in charge of the palace, and got drunk. ¹⁰Then Zimri came into the house and killed him. This happened in the twenty-seventh year of the reign of Asa, king of Judah.

¹¹The first thing he did as king was to kill every male he could find who was related to Baasha and Elah, and even Baasha's friends. ¹²This is just what the prophet Jehu had told Baasha would happen, and Zimri carried it out. ¹³The Lord allowed this to happen because of all the wicked things that Baasha and his son Elah had done in leading Israel deeper into sin. They knew that worshipping idols greatly displeased the Lord but they had done it anyway. ¹⁴All the other things that Elah did are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

Zimri's Reign in Israel

¹⁵It was in the twenty-seventh year of the reign of Asa, king of Judah, that Zimri became king of Israel. He had only been king for about a week when the army of Israel that was besieging the Philistine city of Gibbethon heard what had happened. ¹⁶When the army heard how Zimri had killed Elah, son of Baasha, they were glad, but they didn't like Zimri either. So they made Omri, their commander, king of Israel. ¹⁷Then they withdrew from Gibbethon and marched back home to Tirzah, the capital of Israel, and besieged it. ¹⁸When Zimri saw that the city was surrounded and would soon be taken, he went into the palace, set it on fire and died in the flames. ¹⁹The Lord allowed this to happen because of all the wicked things that Zimri had done. During his one week in office, he did the same wicked things that Jeroboam had done. ²⁰All the other things that Zimri did and the rebellion he carried out are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

Omri's Reign in Israel

²¹Then the people of Israel were divided over who should be the next king. Some wanted Tibni, the son of Ginath, to be king, and others went along with the troops and accepted Omri as their king. ²²After more than four years of civil war, Tibni was killed and Omri was accepted as king of Israel. ²³In the thirty-first year of the reign of Asa, king of Judah, Omri became king over the entire country of Israel. He ruled for twelve years from the time his troops first proclaimed him king. For six years he ruled from Tirzah, the capital. ²⁴Then he bought a hill from a man named Shemer for one hundred fifty pounds of silver. Here is where Omri built and fortified a city which he called Samaria after Shemer, and moved his capital there. It was situated for defense as well as beauty.

²⁵But Omri did worse in the sight of the Lord than all the evil kings before him. ²⁶He followed Jeroboam's wicked example and continued to worship worthless idols and led the people of Israel into even greater apostasy, which greatly displeased the Lord. ²⁷All the other things that Omri did are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ²⁸During his last years he ruled from Samaria and was buried there. Ahab, his son became the next king.

Ahab's Reign in Israel

²⁹In the thirty-eighth year of Asa, king of Judah, Ahab began to reign over Israel, and he ruled for twenty-two years. ³⁰Ahab did more evil in the eyes of the Lord than any other king before him. ³¹What Jeroboam had done to displease the Lord was mild in comparison to Ahab. He married a woman named Jezebel, the daughter of Ethbaal, king of the Sidonians and high priest of Baal. Then Ahab began to worship the storm god Baal. ³²He built an altar to the storm god Baal right in the city of Samaria. ³³He also set up a carved pole of Asherah, the mother goddess of fertility. Ahab did more to displease the Lord with his evil ways than all the kings of Israel before him.

³⁴During Ahab's time, Hiel from Bethel decided to rebuild Jericho. During the construction Hiel's firstborn son Abiram was killed by accident when the foundations of the city were being laid, and his youngest son Segub also was killed by accident when they were putting the city gates in place. This was in harmony with what the Lord through Joshua had said would happen to the man who tried to rebuild Jericho.

Elijah Predicts a Drought

17 In the mountainous region of Gilead in the obscure village of Tishbe lived a faithful prophet named Elijah. God sent him to Samaria, where he boldly walked into Ahab's presence and stated, "As the Lord God of Israel lives whom I serve, there will be neither dew nor rain in the land for the next three years until I say so." Then he turned and left. ²The Lord spoke to Elijah again, ³"Now leave the city and camp by the Cherith Brook in the valley east of Jordan. ⁴You'll be safe from Ahab and will have plenty of water to drink during the drought that's coming. I'll order the ravens to bring you food." ⁵Elijah did what the Lord directed, left Samaria, crossed the Jordan River and hid in the valley by the Cherith Brook. ⁶The ravens brought him pieces of bread and meat in the morning and again in the afternoon. He drank water from the brook. ⁷Soon the drought began and the people turned to Baal to send rain, but none came. The land became parched and even the Cherith Brook dried up.

Elijah and the Widow in Zarephath

⁸Then the Lord said to Elijah, ⁹"Go north to Jezebel's country to the city of Sidon on the Mediterranean coast. Before you get there, you'll come to the village of Zarephath. Stay there until the drought is over. I've asked a widow who lives there to feed you. Though she's not an Israelite, she believes in me." ¹⁰So Elijah left the valley and went to Zarephath. As he neared the village he saw a woman just outside the gate picking up sticks. He asked, "Would you be so kind as to get me a drink of water?" ¹¹The woman laid down her sticks to go to the village well to get a drink for Elijah. As she started to go, he said, "Could you also please bring me a piece of bread?" ¹²She turned and said, "As truly as the Lord lives, I don't have any bread. All I have is a little flour and a little olive oil. I was here getting some sticks to make a fire so my young son and I could have one last meal and prepare to die because the drought is too great."

¹³"Take your sticks," Elijah said, "go home and make a small cake of bread for me and bring it here. Then go back and make some for yourself and your son." ¹⁴The Lord God of Israel has given me this message for you: Your flour and oil will last until the drought is over." ¹⁵While not an Israelite, she accepted what Elijah said as God's word and made a little cake and brought it to Elijah. When she returned home, her containers had still more flour and oil. She ran back and invited Elijah to stay with them, and they had plenty of bread. ¹⁶The flour and oil did not run out, just as the Lord had said.

The Widow's Son Restored

¹⁷Some time later the widow's young son got sick. He grew steadily worse until he died. ¹⁸Then the widow said to Elijah, "What does your God have against me? Have you come here to keep me alive so you could punish me for my sins by killing my son?" ¹⁹Elijah said, "Bring the boy to me." She picked up his little body and brought him to Elijah. He carried the child upstairs to the room where he was staying and laid him on his bed. ²⁰Then he knelt next to the bed and prayed to the Lord, "O Lord God, you have allowed death to enter the very house where this widow has been so kind. What will these Phoenicians think of you?"

²¹In agony of spirit he spread himself on top of the little boy's body and bitterly cried to the Lord, asking Him to give the boy's life back to him. He did this three times. Each time, he prayed, "O Lord God, please give this boy's life back to him!" ²²The Lord heard Elijah's prayer and life returned to the boy's body. ²³Then Elijah picked him up, carried him downstairs and called to the boy's mother, "Look! Your son is alive!" ²⁴The woman took her son into her arms and said, "Now I really know that you're a prophet of the Lord and that whatever your God says is true!"

Elijah and Ahab

18 In the third year of the drought, the Lord said to Elijah, "Go back to Israel and present yourself to Ahab. I am about to send rain on the land. ²Elijah left and began the trip of over one hundred miles to see Ahab. The drought was very severe around Samaria and very little food was left. ³Ahab had called in Obadiah, who was in charge of the palace, to help him find food for his horses and mules. Obadiah was a steadfast believer in the Lord. ⁴Jezebel had been so angry with what the prophet Elijah had done that she had killed anyone even remotely connected with him, including some of the young men who had studied under him. Obadiah had come to their rescue and had hidden a hundred of them in two caves, fifty in each, and supplied them with food and water. ⁵The king said to Obadiah, "I want you to help me find some springs and grass nearby to keep my horses and mules from wasting away and dying." ⁶So they divided up the land and agreed how much each one would cover. Ahab went in one direction and Obadiah in the other.

⁷As Obadiah was riding along, he saw Elijah heading toward Samaria and recognized him immediately. He bowed and called out, "Elijah! Is that you?" ⁸Elijah said, "Yes, it is. Go and tell Ahab that I'm here and want to see him." ⁹Obadiah said, "Do you want me to die? If I tell Ahab that I know where you are, he'll kill me. ¹⁰Ahab is out to get you and anyone who supports you. He's sent people everywhere looking for you. He also asked the rulers of nearby countries to help capture you. He even had them swear that they tried but couldn't find you. ¹¹Now you're asking me to go to Ahab and tell him that I know where you are? ¹²Even if I do that, how do I know you'll still be here when I get back? Maybe the Spirit of the Lord will take you away and hide you somewhere and if Ahab comes and doesn't find you, he'll think I lied to him and will kill me. Either way I'll lose. I've been true to the Lord the whole time you've been gone just as I have been since my youth. ¹³Maybe you haven't heard, but Jezebel has killed everyone who openly identified himself with you, including many of your students. I hid a hundred of them in two caves, fifty in each and have been supplying them with food and water. ¹⁴And now you want me to tell Ahab, 'I know where Elijah is!' He will certainly kill me!"

¹⁵Elijah said, "As surely as the Lord Almighty lives, I'll be right here. So when Ahab comes, he'll have no reason to kill you. You'll be safe." ¹⁶So Obadiah went to find Ahab and told him where Elijah was. Ahab immediately followed Obadiah to see for himself. ¹⁷When he got there and saw Elijah, he said, "So there you are, you troublemaker of Israel!"

¹⁸Elijah said, "I'm not the cause of the trouble in Israel. You are! You and your father's house have disobeyed the Lord and turned against Him by worshiping Baal!" ¹⁹Now go and invite the people from all over Israel to meet me at Mount Carmel by the Mediterranean and bring with you the four hundred and fifty prophets of Baal and the four hundred prophets of the fertility goddess Asherah who eat at Jezebel's table."

Elijah on Mount Carmel

²⁰Ahab did what the prophet Elijah

said. He sent word throughout Israel for people to come to Mount Carmel to see Elijah. He called the prophets of Baal together and took them along, but not the prophets of Asherah. ²¹When everyone got there, Elijah stood where he could be seen and said in a loud voice, "When will you make up your minds as to who the true God is? If the Lord is God, follow Him; but if Baal is God, then follow him." The people just stood there and said nothing. ²²Then Elijah said, "I'm the only prophet of the Lord who is left, but Baal has four hundred and fifty prophets. ²³Go and get me two young bulls. Let the prophets of Baal choose one for themselves, and I'll take the other one. Let them build an altar, then kill their young bull, cut it in pieces and lay it on the wood, but don't light a fire. I'll do the same. I'll repair the Lord's altar, kill my bull, cut it into pieces and lay it on the wood, but I won't light the fire. ²⁴You prophets of Baal, pray to your god and I'll pray to mine. The one who sets the wood on fire is the real God!"

The people said, "That's a good idea!" ²⁵So Elijah said to the prophets of Baal, "Since there are so many of you, you go first. Choose one of the bulls, kill it and lay it on the wood, but don't light a fire." ²⁶They agreed, chose one of the bulls, prepared it and did what Elijah had asked them to do. Then they prayed to Baal, "O Baal, send down the fire!" But no fire came. Then they shouted to him, but nothing happened. They danced and jumped around their altar, constantly shouting to Baal, but still there was no answer. ²⁷This went on all morning. About noon, Elijah began to tease them, "You need to shout a little louder. Maybe your god can't hear you. Maybe he's meditating. Maybe he's busy doing something important, or maybe he's on a trip. Maybe he's sleeping and you need to shout loud enough to wake him up."

²⁸So they shouted louder and louder, danced and jumped much harder, and even began cutting themselves with knives and swords until the blood flowed, which the worship of Baal required. ²⁹They kept this up for hours, with Elijah carefully watching them so they wouldn't light the fire themselves. They continued this until late in the afternoon, but there was still no response.

³⁰Then Elijah said to the people, "Come closer. Don't stand so far away." So the people came closer and watched as Elijah carefully repaired the altar of the Lord which lay in ruins. ³¹Then he chose twelve stones, one for each of the twelve sons of Jacob whose name the Lord had changed to Israel. Elijah told people that these stones represented the twelve tribes of Israel. ³²He used them to finish repairing the altar, then he dug a trench around it. ³³Next he put the wood on the altar, killed the young bull, cut it in pieces and laid the pieces on the wood. Then he said to the people, "Go to the spring in the Kishon Valley and fill four huge watering jars. Then bring the water and pour it over the sacrifice and the wood." ³⁴So they did. "Now do that again," he said. So they did. Then he said to them, "Do it one more time." And they did it a third time. ³⁵Altogether they poured twelve large jars of water on the sacrifice and on the wood, and the water that ran down filled the trench.

³⁶By this time it was late afternoon and time for the evening sacrifice. Elijah stepped up to the altar, raised his hands toward heaven and cried aloud, "O Lord, God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, let the people know that you are the God of Israel and that I'm your servant who has done all this at your bidding. ³⁷Answer my prayer, Lord, answer me, so that these people will know that you are the God of Israel and so they will return to you with all their hearts."

³⁸No sooner had Elijah finished praying than fire came down from heaven, consumed the sacrifice, the wood and the stones, scorched the ground and licked up the water in the trench. ³⁹When the people saw this, they fell on their knees with their faces to the ground and cried out, "The Lord is God! The Lord is God!" But the prophets of Baal refused to repent. ⁴⁰Then Elijah said to the people, "Quick! Grab these prophets and don't let any of them get away." Then he led the prophets of Baal down to the nearby Kishon Valley where he had every one of them killed.

The Drought Ends

⁴¹Ahab had been watching everything. Elijah came to him and said, "You'd better eat something before you go back because it will soon be raining really hard."

⁴²Ahab sat down to eat while Elijah went back to the top of Mount Carmel to pray for rain. He bowed low before the Lord, thanking Him for this day of victory.

⁴³Then he said to his servant, "Go and look out toward the Mediterranean, then come back and tell me what you see." The servant went to the highest point and looked out toward the sea but saw no sign of rain. He came back and told Elijah he had seen nothing unusual. ⁴⁴Elijah asked him to go and look again. This happened seven times. The seventh time he saw a small black cloud in the distance about the size of a man's hand hovering over the Mediterranean. He raced back and told Elijah what he had seen. Elijah said to his servant, "Quick! Tell Ahab to get in his chariot and head for Samaria before the rain comes and the valley gets flooded."

⁴⁵Soon the sky was filled with dark, churning clouds. The wind picked up and a downpour began. At Elijah's warning, Ahab had jumped into his chariot and headed for his other palace in nearby Jezreel where his wife Jezebel was. ⁴⁶The Spirit of the Lord came on Elijah and he tucked his robe in his belt, and in the power of God, he ran ahead of Ahab's horses, guiding the chariot for more than twenty miles through blinding rain all the way to Jezreel.

Elijah Escapes and Goes to Sinai

19 When Ahab got to the palace he told Jezebel everything that Elijah had done and how that prophet of God had killed four hundred and fifty prophets of Baal. ²Then Jezebel sent this message to Elijah: "May the gods strike me dead if by this time tomorrow I don't hunt you down and kill you." ³During the night the messenger found Elijah fast asleep against the city wall. He awakened the prophet and told him what Jezebel had said. Then Elijah got up and ran for his life. When he got to Beersheba on the edge of the wilderness, about a hundred miles south of Jezreel, he told his servant to stay behind while he went on.

⁴He continued walking for another day, and when he found a tree that gave good shade, he slumped to the ground and prayed to die. He said, "Lord, I've had it. I can't take any more. Please let me die. I'm no better than my ancestors. I scored a victory for you on Mount Carmel and then ran from a woman." ⁵Discouraged and disappointed in himself, Elijah lay down and fell asleep. A little later an angel awakened him and gently said, "Sit up, Elijah. I have brought you something to eat." Then the angel disappeared. ⁶Elijah opened his eyes and saw some bread, freshly baked over hot coals, and beside it, a jug of water. He sat up, ate and drank and then lay back down and fell asleep. ⁷After a while the angel returned, touched him and said, "You have a long way to go, so I have brought you some more food." Then he disappeared. ⁸Elijah sat up, ate and drank again, and then felt strong enough to go on his way. That food sustained him for the next forty days as he traveled through the wilderness for almost two hundred miles until he reached Sinai.

⁹When he arrived, he slipped into one of the caves to spend the night. Then the Lord said to him, "Elijah, what are you doing here?" ¹⁰Elijah answered, "I know I'll be safe here on your mountain. I've been very zealous for you and the honor of your name. I've tried to lift you up as the God of Israel and to get the people to worship you and you alone. They have broken your covenant, torn down your altars and killed your prophets. What looked like a revival and reformation didn't change Jezebel's mind one bit. She's still in charge of things and out to kill your prophets. I'm the only one left and she's determined to find me and kill me."

¹¹The Lord said to Elijah, "Go and stand at the opening of the cave because I'm about to pass by." Elijah obeyed, and as he stood there, a powerful wind came from the direction of the Lord's voice and hit the side of the mountain with such force that it shattered some rocks, but the Lord was not in the wind. After the wind came an earthquake, and the whole mountain shook, but the Lord was not in the earthquake. ¹²After the earthquake came flames of fire that scorched the mountain so badly that Elijah ran back into the cave for protection. But the Lord was not in the fire. Suddenly, all was still. Then he heard a quiet, gentle voice outside. It was the voice of the Lord. ¹³Elijah pulled his mantle over his head and stood at the entrance of the cave. The Lord spoke to him, "What are you doing here?" ¹⁴Elijah said, "Lord, I have been very zealous for you to protect your name, but the children of Israel have broken your covenant, torn down your altars and killed your prophets until I'm the only one left. Now they're after me."

¹⁵In the same quiet, gentle voice the Lord said to Elijah, "I want you to go back to Israel the way you came. Go north until you get to Damascus, the capital of Syria. As you near the city, a man named Hazeal will meet you. I am sending you to anoint him king of Syria. ¹⁶Then come back south into Israel and go to the city of Samaria where you'll find a man named Jehu, the son of Jehoshaphat and grandson of Nimshi, who is one of Ahab's officers. I want you to anoint him king of Israel. Then go north toward Jezreel and anoint Elisha, the son of Shaphat, from Abel Meholah in the Jordan Valley to take your place as my prophet. ¹⁷Soon the Syrian army under Hazeal will attack Israel from the north, and Jehu will kill anyone from Ahab's house who escapes from Hazeal. Then Elisha will pronounce the death sentence on anyone who escapes from Jehu. ¹⁸There are still seven thousand people scattered throughout Israel who have not worshiped Baal. They have refused to kneel down in front of him and have not gone up to kiss his carved image."

The Call of Elisha

¹⁹So Elijah came down from Mount Sinai and went back the way he came. He did what the Lord had told him to do. He anointed Hazeal and Jehu and then went to look for Elisha. He found him and the family servants plowing the field with twelve teams of oxen. Elisha was driving the twelfth team. When he saw Elijah coming, he stopped plowing and went to greet him. Elijah said nothing. He just threw his mantle over Elisha's shoulders and turned and walked off. ²⁰Elisha stood there a moment, then left his team of oxen standing in the field and ran after Elijah, saying, "I know what this means, but I first need to go and tell my father and mother and say good-bye to them. Then I'll come with you."

Elijah said, "Go back to your plowing. Why would you want to be a prophet?" ²¹Then Elisha decided to accept the Lord's call without going back home. So he killed the young oxen and sacrificed them to God as a sign of his acceptance and his commitment to the prophetic ministry. He used wood from the plow to cook some of the meat, then shared it with the servants. After they had all eaten, he told them to take the rest of the meat home. Then he joined Elijah and became his helper.

War With Syria

20 Now King Benhadad II of Syria called up all his troops and, supported by the thirty-two local rulers under his control, took all their horses and chariots and invaded Israel and besieged Samaria. ²He sent messengers to Ahab who said to him, ³"King Benhadad of Syria demands that you give him all your silver and gold and the best of your wives and children. These are his terms for peace." ⁴Ahab said, "I accept his terms. Tell King Benhadad that he can have me and my family and everything I own."

⁵The messengers carried Ahab's response to Benhadad who then sent Ahab another demand which read, "King Benhadad accepts your silver and gold and the best of your wives and children as the terms for peace, ⁶but in addition he will send his officers into the city not only to search the palace but also the houses of all your officials and take what they want."

⁷Ahab told the messengers to wait outside. Then he called the old leaders of Israel together and said to them, "This man Benhadad is looking for a fight. When he asked for my silver and gold and the best of my wives and children as terms for peace I agreed. But now he wants to come into the city and go through our houses and take everything he wants. What should I do?" ⁸The old leaders said, "Don't do it. Don't give in to him or he'll only ask for more."

⁹So Ahab called the messengers back in and said to them, "Tell your king that I am his servant and still accept the first terms of peace, but not the second." So they left and took Ahab's message back to Benhadad. ¹⁰Early the next morning Benhadad sent a message to Ahab, "I've got so many men ready to attack you that if each one took a handful of dust from your city, there wouldn't be anything left. May the gods strike me dead if I don't wipe you and your city off the face of the earth."

¹¹Ahab sent a message back, "A real soldier boasts after the battle when he takes his armor off, not before it while he's putting it on." ¹²The messengers gave Benhadad Ahab's message while he and his thirty-two allies were sitting in their tents drinking. As soon as he heard this, he ordered his troops to move into position to attack.

¹³Then a prophet of the Lord came to Ahab and said, "The Lord God of Israel says, 'Don't be afraid of Benhadad and his huge army. I will give them into your hands and you will know that I am the Lord and am longing for my people to come back to me.'"

¹⁴Ahab said to the prophet, "But I'm not sure that my officers are brave enough to initiate the attack." The prophet answered, "The Lord says the special young men who are under the provincial officers will." Ahab said, "But who will lead out?" The prophet replied, "You will." ¹⁵So Ahab called together the provincial officers and their young men, and there were only two hundred and thirty-two of them. Then he called up all the fighting men in Israel which totaled seven thousand. He told his troops that the plan was to attack the enemy, and he would personally lead them into battle.

¹⁹Ahab's young men under their provincial officers marched out of the city, followed by the rest of the Israelite army. ²⁰They attacked Benhadad's scouts, and during the hand-to-hand combat, each Israelite killed the man he fought. When the rest of the Syrians saw that no Israelites had been killed, they got scared and ran. Ahab's men pursued them and headed for Benhadad's tent.

But the king and his allies mounted their horses and escaped. ²¹Ahab now took personal command of Israel's entire army and went after the retreating Syrians. He defeated them with a great slaughter and captured many horses and chariots.

²²After the battle, while Ahab and his men were resting, the prophet of the Lord came to see the king and said to him, "You need to build up your forces as quickly as you can because next spring Benhadad will come back and attack you again."

The Syrians Defeated

²³When the king of Syria got back home, his advisers said to him, "The reason you were defeated is because the Israelite God is the God of the hills. You need to fight the Israelites on flat land, then you'll be able to defeat them. ²⁴So we suggest that you replace your allied commanders with commanders who know how to fight in the open. ²⁵Then call up enough men to replace the ones you lost and those who deserted you. Also, replace the horses and chariots you lost. Train these men to fight on flat land and this time we'll defeat them." Benhadad agreed and did what they said.

²⁶By the next spring, Benhadad was ready to fight Ahab. He got his men together and with this fresh army trained to fight on the plains, he marched against the Israelite city of Aphek and took it. This city was in the region of Jezreel where Ahab had his second palace. ²⁷Then Ahab called up his men, gave them provisions and marched them out in two groups to meet the Syrians. When they got there and set up camp, they looked like two small flocks of goats compared to the hordes of men that Benhadad had which seemed to cover the countryside. ²⁸Again the prophet of the Lord came to see Ahab and said, "This is what the Lord says, 'Because the Syrians think that I'm the God of the hills and not the God of the plains, I will deliver this huge army into your hands, and again you'll have evidence that I am the Lord.'"

²⁹For the next seven days the armies camped opposite each other. On the seventh day after their arrival, the Israelites attacked. Ahab's men killed a hundred thousand foot soldiers in one day. ³⁰Some of them ran back to the city of Aphek for protection against the Israelites. They crowded against the city wall while a few climbed up to keep an eye on Ahab's army, but the wall collapsed, and another twenty-seven thousand died. Then Benhadad and those closest to him hid in a house in the middle of the city.

Ahab's Treaty With the Syrians

³¹They said to Benhadad, "We've heard that the kings of Israel are merciful kings. Why don't you let us go to Ahab with sackcloth wrapped around our waists and ropes around our necks and beg for mercy. Maybe he'll let us live." Benhadad agreed and let them go. ³²They asked the people in the city for sackcloth, which they wrapped around their waists. Then they wrapped ropes around their necks and went to meet Ahab. They said to him, "We are at your mercy. Please let Benhadad live." Ahab answered, "You mean to tell me that he's still alive? Good, because he's my brother." ³³The men saw this as an indication of mercy and replied, "Yes, your brother Benhadad is alive and well." Ahab then said to them, "Go and get him." When he came, Ahab invited him to step up into his chariot. ³⁴Benhadad did so, saying to Ahab, "As a sign of peace I will give you back all the cities my father took from your father. Also, you can come and set up markets in Damascus as my father did in Samaria." Ahab responded, "On that basis I'll let you live and return home in peace." So they shook hands and made peace and Ahab let him go.

Ahab Condemned by a Prophet

to take his weapon and hit the side of your face so hard that you bleed.” The prophet went to a companion and told him what the Lord had said. But he refused to do it. ³⁶The prophet said, “Because you refused to obey the Lord, a lion will attack and kill you.” After the man left, a lion tracked him down and killed him. ³⁷The prophet went to another companion and said, “The Lord wants you to take your weapon and hit me on the side of my face so hard that it bleeds.” So the man did. ³⁸Then the prophet bandaged his face in such a way as to disguise himself and stood by the side of the road waiting for the king to pass.

³⁹When Ahab approached, the prophet called out to him, “Your Majesty, I went to fight in the battle and on the way an officer asked me to guard a prisoner. He told me that if I let the prisoner escape I would pay for it with my life or with seventy pounds of silver. ⁴⁰I got busy with some other things and when I wasn’t looking, the prisoner escaped. What can I do? If the officer finds me, he’ll kill me because there’s no way I can pay what he’s asking.” The king answered, “You brought the sentence on your own head. You’ll have to pay for it with your life.” ⁴¹The prophet then ripped the bandage off his face and the king recognized him. ⁴²He said to the king, “The Lord says, ‘You let your prisoner go, the very one I appointed for destruction. So it will be your life for his.’” ⁴³When Ahab heard that, he was terribly shaken and returned to Samaria, resentful and sullen.

Jezebel Orders Naboth Killed

21 Some time later Ahab was back in Jezreel. There was a vineyard close to his palace that he liked, but it belonged to a man named Naboth. ²One day Ahab went to see Naboth and said, “Let me buy your vineyard that’s close to my palace so I can have it plowed to use for a vegetable garden. I’ll pay you whatever you think it’s worth, or I can give you an even better vineyard for it.” ³Naboth answered, “This vineyard has been in the family for a long time so it’s very special to us. It’s been passed down the line from father to son, generation after generation. There’s no way I would feel right about selling it.” ⁴Then Ahab went home and laid down on his couch, sulking and refusing to eat because he couldn’t have that cherished vineyard.

⁵Jezebel came in and asked what was wrong and why he would not eat. ⁶He answered, “Because I went to see Naboth who owns the vineyard close to our palace and offered to buy it from him, but he refused to sell.” ⁷Jezebel said, “You’re the king of Israel—he’s not. Stop sulking and come eat. I’ll get the vineyard for you.”

⁸So Jezebel wrote a letter in Ahab’s name and sent it to the city fathers and others of influence, saying, ⁹“I want you to announce a special day of fasting and prayer. After the people have come together, take Naboth to the head table with you and give him a place of honor. ¹⁰Find a couple of shady characters and seat them across from him. At the right time have them accuse Naboth of cursing God and the king for calling a day of fasting and prayer. Then take Naboth and have him stoned.” ¹¹So the city fathers did what Jezebel told them to do according to the letter she had written in Ahab’s name. ¹²They announced a day of fasting and prayer and when the people came together, Naboth was at the head table where everyone could see him. ¹³At the right time, two scoundrels, sons of Belial, sitting across from him jumped up, pointed their fingers at Naboth and said, “This is the man who a little while ago cursed God and the king for calling a day of fasting and prayer!” Then the city fathers told the people to take Naboth outside the city and stone him to death. ¹⁴When it was all over, the city fathers sent word to Jezebel that Naboth was dead.

¹⁵As soon as Jezebel got word, she went to see Ahab who had been sulking on his couch for days and said to him, "Now get up and go to the vineyard that Naboth refused to sell you and claim it as yours. Naboth is dead. He was found cursing you and God and the people decided to stone him for it." ¹⁶When Ahab heard that, he got up and went to the vineyard and claimed it as his own.

Elijah Condemns Ahab

¹⁷Now the Lord had known this would happen, so He had said to Elijah the Tishbite, ¹⁸"I want you to go to see Ahab. You'll not find him in Samaria, but at his other palace in Jezreel. When you get there, he'll be in Naboth's vineyard looking it over, ready to lay claim to it. ¹⁹Give him this message from me: 'First you arranged to have an innocent man killed and now you're here to claim his property. Because of this, dogs will lick up your blood in the same place they licked the blood of Naboth.'"

²⁰So Elijah went to see Ahab and found him looking over Naboth's vineyard, just as the Lord had said. When Ahab saw Elijah, he said, "Well, how's my enemy? So you found me." Elijah said, "Yes, I found you. The Lord sent me here because you sold out to the devil. ²¹This is His message to you: 'I have decided to do away with you and with all males related to you, no matter where they are or what position they have. ²²Your family will disappear from the face of the earth like the families of Jeroboam and Baasha disappeared from the tribes of Ephraim and Issachar. You've led Israel still deeper into sin, and you've turned against every evidence of my love and my leading. ²³As far as Jezebel is concerned, dogs will eat her body in the streets of Jezreel right outside the palace. ²⁴Your relatives who die in the city will be left unburied, and dogs will eat their bodies. Any of your relatives who die in the country will be eaten by vultures.'"

²⁵No one in all Israel ever did such incredibly wicked things as Ahab, urged on by his wife Jezebel. ²⁶He threw himself into the abominable worship of idols with the same zeal as the Amorites whom the Lord had driven out of the land.

²⁷When Ahab heard the message from the Lord that Elijah gave him, he tore his robe, put on sackcloth, fasted and prayed. He truly humbled himself before God. ²⁸Then the Lord said to Elijah, ²⁹"Go back to Ahab and give him this message: 'I have seen your sorrow for sin and how you've humbled yourself before me. Because of this I will not carry out the sentence on you and your family while you're still alive. But I will see to it that it's carried out in the days of your son.'" So Elijah went to see Ahab and told him exactly what the Lord had said.

The Prophet Micaiah Warns Ahab

22 For the next three years there was peace between Syria and Israel. ²Toward the end of the third year, King Jehoshaphat of Judah, whose son had married Ahab's daughter, went to visit Ahab. ³During the banquet Ahab turned to his officials nearby and said, "Why haven't we done anything to get Ramoth in Gilead back from the Syrians? Benhadad promised to give it back." ⁴He said to Jehoshaphat, "Will you join forces with us against Syria to get Ramoth back?" Jehoshaphat answered, "I'm ready when you are. I'll call up my troops and get my horses and chariots ready to join you whenever you say. You name the time and place, and I'll be there."

⁵Then he added, "But before we go, we ought to ask the Lord to see if it's what He wants us to do." ⁶Ahab agreed. So the two kings with their officials and guests moved to the large open square near the city gate. Then Ahab sent for his prophets, about four hundred of them. When they got there, Ahab said, "I want to attack the city of Ramoth in Gilead to get it back from the Syrians. Should I go or should I wait?" The prophets said, "Go, for the Lord will go with you, and He will give you the victory." ⁷Then Jehoshaphat said, "Isn't there a true prophet of the Lord God nearby whom we can ask?" ⁸Ahab said, "Yes, there's one other prophet we can ask, but I don't trust him because he never says anything good about me. His name is Micaiah, the son of Imlah." Jehoshaphat said, "The king shouldn't talk about a prophet of the Lord that way. We need to ask him too." ⁹So Ahab told one of his officers to get Micaiah.

¹⁰Dressed in their royal robes, Ahab and Jehoshaphat sat on portable thrones by the gate of the city, with all the prophets in front of them prophesying good things. ¹¹Meanwhile, Zedekiah, one of the false prophets, the son of Chenaanah, had sent for two iron horns and pretended to speak for the Lord, saying to the two kings, "This is what the Lord God of Israel says, 'These two horns represent the kings of Israel and Judah. As a bull can gorge a man to death with his two horns, so these two kings will destroy the Syrian army.'" ¹²Then all the other prophets joined in and confirmed what Zedekiah had said. They told the two kings to attack the city of Ramoth in Gilead, and the Lord God of Israel would give them the victory.

¹³When the officer got to Micaiah's house he said, "Ahab wants to see you. All his prophets are telling him that he and Jehoshaphat should attack the city of Ramoth to take it back from the Syrians and that the Lord will give it to them. I would suggest that when you come, you say the same thing."

¹⁴Micaiah said, "As truly as the Lord lives, I will say only what He tells me to say." ¹⁵So they made their way to the city gate where Ahab and his prophets were. Ahab said to Micaiah, "Should I go against the Syrians to take back Ramoth or should I wait?" Micaiah said, "You've already decided to attack Ramoth no matter what the Lord says, so go ahead and see what will happen." Micaiah said this to mock Ahab. ¹⁶The king said, "How many times have I told you not to play games with me by telling me what you think I want to hear? I want the truth."

¹⁷Then Micaiah grew serious and said, "The Lord gave me a vision in which I saw the army of Israel scattered over the hills like sheep without a shepherd. Then the Lord said to me, 'These men have lost their leader; let them return home in peace.'" ¹⁸Ahab turned to Jehoshaphat, "Didn't I tell you he never prophesies anything good about me?"

¹⁹Micaiah continued to describe his vision, "I saw the Lord sitting on His throne in heaven with all the angels standing around Him. ²⁰The Lord said to them, 'What do you think about Ahab? Should we put a stop to his wickedness? If so, how should we go about it?' One angel suggested this and another that. ²¹Then in vision I saw an evil angel and heard him say that he would entice Ahab to go to war. ²²The Lord said, 'How will you do it?' The evil angel said, 'I will make his false prophets lie to him.' The Lord said, 'Go and I'll let you entice him to go to war.' ²³So your prophets are lying to you. The Lord will not go with you to Ramoth to protect you."

²⁴Then the false prophet Zedekiah went and slapped Micaiah in the face and said, "Since when did the Spirit of the Lord God of Israel talk only to you?" ²⁵Micaiah said, "You'll find out whom the Spirit of the Lord is speaking to when you have to hide in a back room to keep from being killed." ²⁶Then Ahab said to his officers, "Take Micaiah and turn him over to Amon the mayor and to my son Joash. ²⁷Tell them to throw him into prison and give him only bread and water until I get back from fighting the Syrians. Then I'll deal with him myself." ²⁸Micaiah spoke up, "If you come back alive at all, it wasn't the Spirit of the Lord who spoke through me." Then he turned to everyone there and said, "Mark my words. Don't forget what I've just said."

Ahab Dies in Battle

²⁹So Ahab and Jehoshaphat joined forces and marched to Ramoth in Gilead to fight the Syrians and take the city. ³⁰Ahab said to Jehoshaphat, "I'd like to have a personal part in this battle instead of just directing it. So I'm going to disguise myself as an ordinary soldier. But you keep your royal robes on so the men have at least one king to look to." Jehoshaphat agreed and Ahab went into battle as one of the troops, but his men knew who he was.

³¹Benhadad, king of Syria, had told his thirty-two chariot commanders to focus on getting Ahab, no matter what happened with the lesser soldiers. ³²So the commanders ordered their troops to break through the Israelite forces and go after the king. ³³When the Syrians broke through, they said, "There's the king of Israel! After him!" Then Jehoshaphat cried out to the Lord for help, and when he did so, they realized that he was the king of Judah and turned back.

³⁴During the heat of the battle, a Syrian soldier drew his bow at random and the arrow hit Ahab in a place not covered by his armor. Ahab said to his driver, "I'm hit! Turn the chariot around and let's get out of the battle zone." ³⁵The battle continued all day, but Ahab remained just behind the front lines, encouraging his troops. He stood in his chariot, leaning against the side of it to hold himself up. Meanwhile, his blood ran down inside his armor to the floor of the chariot. After the fighting stopped, he died. ³⁶Near sundown the order went through the ranks, "Retreat to your own land and city!"

³⁷So they took Ahab's body back to Samaria and buried him there. ³⁸They washed his chariot by the city pool and dogs came and lapped up Ahab's blood just as the Lord had said. Then Amon, the mayor, released Micaiah, the prophet of God, from prison. ³⁹All the other things that Ahab did, how he decorated the palace walls with ivory and fortified the cities in outlying areas, are all recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ⁴⁰So Ahab slept with his ancestors, and his son Ahaziah became the next king.

Jehoshaphat's Reign in Judah

⁴¹Now Jehoshaphat had become king of Judah in the fourth year of Ahab, king of Israel. ⁴²He was thirty-five years old at the time and ruled in Jerusalem twenty-five years. His mother was Azubah, the daughter of Shilhi. ⁴³Jehoshaphat followed his father Asa's example and did what was right in the eyes of the Lord. But he did not destroy the pagan shrines on the hills around the city, so the people continued to worship idols and offer incense and sacrifices to them. ⁴⁴All the years Jehoshaphat reigned, he was an ally of the king of Israel.

⁴⁵The other things that Jehoshaphat did, his military exploits and his personal bravery, are all recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ⁴⁶However, he did rid the city of the male prostitutes who served at the pagan shrines that his father Asa had not destroyed.

⁴⁷During this time there was no king over the land of Edom. The country was ruled by a deputy appointed by Jehoshaphat. ⁴⁸Jehoshaphat also built a fleet of ships to sail to the land of Ophir for gold, as his ancestor Solomon had done, but his ships were wrecked in a storm at Ezion Geber and never sailed again. ⁴⁹While he was building these ships, Ahaziah, the son of Ahab, requested that his men sail with the men from Judah, but Jehoshaphat refused. ⁵⁰When Jehoshaphat died, he was buried with his ancestors in the City of David, and Jehoram, who had been ruling jointly with his father, became the next king of Judah.

⁵¹Ahaziah, the son of Ahab, became king of Israel ruling from Samaria in the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat. He was co-ruler with his father for one year and reigned alone for only one year. ⁵²Ahaziah did all the wicked things his parents, Ahab and Jezebel, had done and all that his evil ancestor Jeroboam, the first ruler of the Northern Kingdom, had done. ⁵³He displeased the Lord as much as his father by his zealous worship of Baal.

Elijah and King Ahaziah

1 After Ahab died, the Moabites rebelled against the oppression of Israel. ²One day Ahab's son Ahaziah, who had become king of Israel, was leaning against the lattice window in an upper story of his palace. Suddenly it gave way, and he fell, severely injuring himself. So he sent messengers to the Philistine city of Ekron, saying to them, "Go and inquire of Baalzebub, the Lord of Flies, if I will recover from my injuries." ³Then the Lord said to Elijah, "Go to Samaria and intercept Ahaziah's messengers before they reach Ekron. Say to them, 'Isn't there a God in Israel who knows the future? Why are you going to Ekron to the priests of a lifeless idol like Baalzebub?' ⁴Tell them that's an insult to the God of Israel. Also tell them this is what the Lord says about Ahaziah: 'You will never get out of bed. You will stay there until you die.'"

So Elijah went to Samaria and intercepted the messengers on their way to Ekron and told them what the Lord had said. ⁵Then the messengers turned around and went back to the palace to see the king. When Ahaziah saw them, he said, "Why have you come back? You're supposed to be on your way to Ekron." ⁶They said, "A man met us who spoke with great authority, saying, 'Go back and tell the king that it's an insult to the God of Israel to go to a spirit medium for the answer to his future. Because of this, the king will never get out of bed, but will stay there until he dies.'" ⁷The king asked, "What did the man look like?" ⁸They said, "He had lots of hair and was wearing a garment made of animal skin with a leather belt around his waist." The king said, "That was Elijah the Tishbite!"

⁹So he sent an officer with fifty men to arrest Elijah and bring him to the palace. When the officer found Elijah, he was sitting on top of a hill just outside the city. The officer demanded that Elijah come with him to see the king. Then he and his men mocked Elijah and the God of Israel. After they had had their fun, the officer said, "Come on, you 'man of God.' The king wants to see you." ¹⁰Elijah said, "If I'm a man of God and if the God of Israel has spoken through me, may fire come down from heaven and consume you and your fifty men." Then fire came down from heaven as it had on Mount Carmel and consumed them.

¹¹When the captain and his men didn't come back, Ahaziah sent another captain with fifty men to arrest Elijah and bring him to the palace. The officer and his men went to Elijah with the same demand, and again they mocked him and God. After they had had their fun, the officer said, "Come on, you 'man of God.' The king wants to see you." ¹²Elijah said, "If I'm a man of God and if He has spoken through me, may fire come down from heaven and burn up you and your men." Then fire came down from heaven and consumed them all.

¹³When the second officer and his men didn't come back, the king sent a third officer with fifty men to arrest Elijah. This officer went and fell on his knees in front of Elijah and said, "Man of God, have mercy on us. We're your servants and respect the God of Israel. ¹⁴You've called down fire from heaven two times, and each time it has consumed the officers and their men. But please have mercy and go with us to see the king." ¹⁵Then the Lord said to Elijah, "Go down with them to the palace. Don't be afraid. I'll be with you." So Elijah came down the hill and went with the officer to see the king. ¹⁶He was ushered in to the king's bedroom where Ahaziah lay crippled from his fall. Elijah said, "This is what the Lord says: Because you sent messengers to consult Baalzebub to know the future instead of asking the God of Israel, you will be confined to your bed until you die. And it won't be long." Then Elijah turned and left.

¹⁷Not long afterward, Ahaziah died, just as the Lord had said he would. Ahaziah had no son of his own, so Joram, another son of Ahab, became the next king of Israel. This was in the second year of Jehoram, the son of Jehoshaphat, who was reigning jointly with his father in Judah. ¹⁸All the other things that Ahaziah did are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

Elijah Taken Bodily to Heaven

2 The time came when the Lord was about to take Elijah to heaven bodily by a whirlwind. Early one morning as Elijah and his helper Elisha were preparing to leave Gilgal, ²Elijah said to Elisha, "The Lord wants me to go and visit our school at Bethel, but I want you to stay with our students here at this school." He said this to test Elisha's commitment. But Elisha answered, "As surely as the Lord lives, I will not leave your side." So the two of them walked the seven miles to Bethel to see how the young men were doing. ³The students at the School of the Prophets came out to meet them. A little later they said to Elisha, "Did you know that the Lord is going to take Elijah away from you today?" Elisha said, "Yes, I know. The Lord has told me, but don't tell Elijah that I know."

⁴Later that day Elijah said to Elisha, "The Lord wants me to go on to Jericho, but I want you to stay here." Elijah again was testing Elisha's commitment. But Elisha said, "As surely as the Lord is alive, I will not leave your side." So they went on to Jericho, about thirteen miles east of Bethel. ⁵At Jericho there was another school, and the students there also came out to meet them. A little later they said to Elisha, "Did you know that the Lord is going to take Elijah away from you today?" Elisha said, "Yes, I know. The Lord has told me, but don't tell Elijah that I know."

⁶By this time it was late in the afternoon and Elijah said to Elisha, "The Lord wants me to go to the Jordan River, but I want you to stay here." For a third time Elijah was testing Elisha's commitment. But Elisha answered, "As surely as the Lord lives, I will not leave your side." So they walked together another five miles until they reached the Jordan River not far from Mount Nebo. ⁷Fifty students went with them and stood at a distance as the two men approached the Jordan. ⁸Elijah took his mantle, rolled it up and hit the water with it. The river divided, and the two of them walked over on dry ground.

⁹After they crossed, Elijah knew that the Lord would take him. So he said to Elisha, "What would you like me to do for you before I leave?" Elisha answered, "I pray that I'll receive a double portion of the Holy Spirit that the Lord has given you." ¹⁰Elijah said, "You've asked a hard thing. I don't have the power to decide that. If the Lord lets you see Him take me away, He'll give you what you asked for. But if He doesn't, He's decided not to give you what you've asked." ¹¹As they were walking along talking together, suddenly a chariot of fire pulled by fiery horses came racing toward them and separated the two men. Then a twisting wind swept Elijah up into the chariot and he was whisked away toward heaven. ¹²Elisha cried out, "Father Elijah! I see the chariots of Israel and the horsemen!" Then the chariot and the horses disappeared.

In grief, Elisha tore his outer robe in half. ¹³Then he picked up the mantle that had fallen from Elijah's shoulders and headed back to the Jordan River. ¹⁴He rolled up the mantle and said, "Where is the power of the God of Elijah?" Then he hit the water with it and the river parted as it had for Elijah. And Elisha walked across on dry ground.

¹⁵The students from Jericho saw it and said to each other, "Look! The power of the Spirit that was on Elijah is now on Elisha!" They ran to meet him and bowed in respect as they had done for Elijah. ¹⁶They asked, "Where did the Lord take your master Elijah? There are fifty of us ready to look for him. Maybe the Lord buried him on top of one of the mountains or in a valley somewhere." Elisha answered, "There's no need for you to go looking for him. He didn't die. He was taken to heaven bodily, so you won't find his grave anywhere." ¹⁷The students insisted because they wanted to make sure that Elijah had not just died. So Elisha finally let them go. ¹⁸Three days later they came back to the school at Jericho where Elisha was and reported that they hadn't found a thing. Then Elisha said, "Didn't I tell you that Elijah was taken to heaven? But you had to go looking for him anyway."

Elisha's Miracles

¹⁹Now while Elisha was at the school in Jericho, the men of the city said to him. "As you can see, this town is well situated, but the water here is bad and as a result, people have gotten sick from it. It's even affected the soil so we can't grow good crops." ²⁰Elisha listened and said to them, "Go and bring me a new bowl filled with salt." So they did as he said. ²¹He took it and went out to the city spring and dumped the salt in it. He said, "This is what the Lord says: 'The water in this spring is now healed and never again will it cause death or keep the land from producing good crops.'" ²²From that moment, the water of the city was pure, just as Elisha had said.

²³Then Elisha left Jericho and went to visit the school at Bethel. As he was walking along, a mob of young ruffians came out of one of the towns to make fun of him and of Elijah's disappearance in a heavenly chariot which they had heard about. They shouted and cursed at Elisha, saying, "Hey, Baldy! Are you going up next? Are you going up next?" ²⁴Then the Spirit of the Lord came upon Elisha. He stopped, turned to face them and said, "May the Lord punish you for what you're doing." Then two bears came out of the nearby woods and chased the young men, mauling all forty-two of them. For the next fifty years, all through Elisha's ministry, no one dared ridicule his ministry. ²⁵After Elisha had visited the school at Bethel he went on to Mount Carmel and then returned to Samaria.

War Between Moab and Israel

3 Joram, the son of Ahab, became king of Israel in the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, and reigned over Israel from Samaria for twelve years. ²Although Joram did evil in the sight of the Lord, he was not as wicked as his father Ahab or his mother Jezebel. The reformatory work of Elijah and Elisha was having a marked effect on the people. This led Joram to tear down the altar and image of Baal that his father had set up. ³But he continued to worship the golden calves that his ancestor Jeroboam had made and to do all the evil things that he had done.

⁴The Moabites were under the control of Israel. They were sheep traders, and every year, they had to supply Israel with one hundred thousand lambs and wool from one hundred thousand sheep. ⁵After Ahab and Ahaziah had died and Joram had taken over, Mesha, king of Moab, rebelled against Israel. ⁶So Joram mobilized his troops and set out from Samaria to put down the Moabite rebellion. ⁷He also sent a message to Jehoshaphat, saying, "The king of Moab has rebelled against me. Can you come and help me put down this rebellion?" Jehoshaphat and his son Jehoram agreed to help and said, "We are as you are. Our people are one with your people and our horses and chariots are your horses and chariots." ⁸So they joined forces and Jehoshaphat said to Joram, "From what direction should we attack?" Joram answered, "I think we ought to take the long way around and go south through the wilderness of Edom and attack the Moabites from that direction."

⁹Joram and Jehoshaphat asked the king of Edom to join them, which he did. After marching for seven days the troops began running out of water for themselves and their animals. ¹⁰When the king of Israel heard about it, he said, "What? Don't tell me we don't have enough water! If that's the case, our three armies are done for. We're at the mercy of the Moabites. All they have to do is come and wipe us out. Did the Lord bring us all this way to die?" ¹¹Jehoshaphat said, "Is there a prophet of the Lord nearby to whom we could go for advice?" One of the officers of Joram said, "Elisha, son of Shaphat, lives not far from here. He was Elijah's servant and has now taken his place." ¹²Jehoshaphat said, "The Lord is with him. Let's go to see him." So the three kings went to see Elisha.

¹³When they came to him, Elisha greeted them, then said to the king of Israel, "What do you and I have in common? Why don't you go to the prophets of Baal that your father and mother worshiped?" Joram said, "I can't do that because I believe it was the Lord's plan for us to take our troops this way. But it looks as if the Lord brought us out here to hand us over to the Moabites. We want to know what to do." ¹⁴Elisha said, "Don't blame the Lord. It was your idea to take the long way around. As surely as the Lord lives whom I serve, if Jehoshaphat's troops weren't along, I wouldn't even listen to you. But because he serves the Lord, I'll see if I can find out what the Lord wants to do for you."

¹⁵Then he turned to his servant and said, "Go find a musician." Soon the servant came back with a harpist who played for the three kings to quiet their spirits.

¹⁶While the harpist was playing, Elisha was praying. The Lord spoke to him, saying, "This is what I want you to tell the kings: By this afternoon, the Lord wants your men to dig ditches all over the valley. ¹⁷Then you'll begin to see the hand of the Lord. There will be no wind or rain, but all the ditches will fill with water and there will be enough for all your troops including their animals.

¹⁸This is something very small for the Lord to do, and in addition, He'll give you victory over the Moabites. ¹⁹You will take all their major cities and are to do what invading armies do. Cut down their fruit-bearing trees, stop up their springs and strew their fertile fields with stones."

²⁰The troops dug the ditches, and the next morning at the time of sacrifice, water came flowing down the valley from the direction of Edom, and all the ditches were filled with water.

²¹In the meantime the Moabites heard that the kings of Israel, Judah and Edom were on their way to attack them from the south. So every man, young and old, who could carry a sword was called up and stationed at the border. ²²As they looked down the valley and saw the morning sun shining on the ditches, the water looked as red as blood. ²³They said to each other, "Look! That's blood! Those kings must have gotten into a fight among themselves. Let's go down and plunder their camp and see what we can find."

²⁴As the Moabites came into the valley, the Israelites and their allies saw them coming and hid. After the Moabite troops arrived, the Israelites suddenly attacked. When the Moabites saw that they were losing the battle, they turned and ran. The Israelites went after them, invaded their land and slaughtered them unmercifully. ²⁵They not only destroyed the Moabite cities, but as the troops went, they picked up stones and threw them into the fertile fields until they were full of stones. They also stopped up the wells and cut down all the fruit-bearing trees.

Finally, only the capital Kir Hareseth was left for them to take. Then the Israelites and their allies surrounded the capital and army units equipped with slings were put on the front lines. ²⁶When the king of Moab saw that the battle for holding the city was lost, he decided to attempt to escape to Syria. He took seven hundred swordsmen and tried to break through the enemy lines, but the units armed with slings picked off the swordsmen as they came through the city gates. ²⁷When he saw that escape was futile, he took his firstborn son who was to succeed him on the throne and sacrificed him to his god on top of the city wall. This act by their king made the people of the land despise Israel even more. So the kings regretted that they had attacked the city and returned to their own land.

Elisha and the Poor Widow's Oil

4 One day the wife of one of the men who had attended the School of the Prophets came to Elisha and said, "My husband suddenly died. You know how much he loved the Lord. But now his creditors have come and want to take away our two sons and sell them as slaves to pay our debts." ²Elisha said, "What would you like me to do for you? Tell me what you have in your house that's saleable." The young widow said, "Nothing, except a little olive oil." ³Elisha said, "Go to your neighbors and borrow all the empty jars you can, as many as they'll let you have. ⁴Take them home, close the door and have your sons help you pour the olive oil from your jar into the other jars until all of them are full."

⁵She did what Elisha had said, borrowed all the jars she could, went home and closed the door. Then with her sons handing her the jars, she began pouring oil. ⁶"Bring me another jar," she said. Her son responded, "There are no more jars." Then the oil in her jar stopped flowing. ⁷She went and told Elisha that all the jars she had borrowed were full. He said to her, "Go and sell the oil and pay off your debts, and you'll have money left over for you and your sons to live on." And that's what she did.

Elisha Raises the Rich Woman's Son

⁸One day Elisha went to the town of Shunem where a wealthy woman lived. When she heard him speak, she urged him to come to her house for a meal, which he did. He also accepted her invitation to eat with them any time he was in town. ⁹One day she said to her husband, "I can tell that Elisha is a prophet and a holy man of God. ¹⁰Let's build a small room for him on the roof. We could put a bed, table, chair and candlestick in it and invite him to stay here whenever he's in town." Her husband liked the idea and agreed.

¹¹One day Elisha went up to his room to rest. ¹²Before lying down, he called his servant Gehazi and said to him, "Go tell the woman of the house I would like to talk to her." So Gehazi went and got her. She came and stood outside the open door wondering why the prophet had called for her. ¹³Elisha said to Gehazi, "Tell her that I appreciate all the trouble she's gone through to make a place for me to stay. Ask her if there is something I can do for her. Does she want me to put in a good word for her to the king in Jerusalem or to the army commander in charge of the city, or is there something else that she needs?" So Gehazi told her what Elisha had said. She responded, "I have all I need and I'm very comfortable living here among my own people." ¹⁴Then she left. Gehazi told Elisha what she had said. Elisha asked, "What can we do for her?" Gehazi said, "She doesn't have children, and they aren't getting any younger. I'm sure she would like to have a son of her own." ¹⁵Elisha said, "Go and ask her to come back." Gehazi did, and this time Elisha talked to her directly. ¹⁶"Gehazi told me that you have all you need, but you don't have any children. This time next year you will give birth to a son." She said, "Man of God, don't get my hopes up by lying to me." ¹⁷But she did become pregnant and about the same time the following year, she gave birth to a son, just as Elisha had said.

¹⁸The child grew, and one day during harvest time, he went with his father out to the field to join the reapers. ¹⁹It was hot and suddenly the boy cried out, "My head! My head!" The father said to one of his servants, "Quick, carry him home to his mother." ²⁰The servant did as he was told. The boy's mother held him in her lap, but he lay there listless until noon, and then he died. ²¹She carried him upstairs to Elisha's room, laid him on the prophet's bed, closed the door and left. ²²She asked her husband to let her take a servant and a donkey to go quickly to look for Elisha. ²³Her husband said, "Why do you want to go looking for him today? It's not a special Sabbath nor is it time for the festival of the new month." She said, "Don't worry. All will be well." ²⁴So he let her go. She had the servant saddle a donkey for her and then said to him, "Lead the donkey as fast as you can and don't slow down unless I tell you to."

²⁵So she and the servant left hurriedly and found Elisha at Mount Carmel about fifteen miles from Shunem. When Elisha saw her coming, he said to Gehazi, "Isn't that the Shunammite woman?" ²⁶Run and ask her if everything is all right or if something has happened to her husband or son." Gehazi ran to meet her but she avoided his questions. ²⁷When she got to Elisha, she got off the donkey, fell on her knees crying and in anguish grabbed his feet. Gehazi tried to pull her away, but Elisha said, "Don't stop her; leave her alone. She's in a lot of pain, and the Lord has not told me why." ²⁸Finally she spoke, sobbing, "Did I ask you for a son? Didn't I tell you not to get my hopes up by lying to me? Now the boy is dead."

²⁹Elisha turned to Gehazi and said, "I want you to run as fast as you can to her house. Tuck the bottom of your robe into your belt and hurry. Here, take my walking stick and when you get there lay it on the boy's face. Don't let anyone stop you, and don't stop to talk to anyone. Now go!" ³⁰The woman said, "I will not leave until you come with me." So Elisha followed her home. ³¹Meanwhile, Gehazi ran ahead and laid Elisha's walking stick on the boy's face, but there was no response. Then he ran back to meet Elisha, saying, "I did what you said, but nothing happened."

³²When Elisha got there, he went up to his room and found the dead child lying on his bed. ³³He closed the door, fell on his knees and prayed earnestly to the Lord, asking Him to return life to the boy. ³⁴Then he got up, laid on top of the boy, face to face, eye to eye, mouth to mouth and hands to hands. As he stretched himself out on the boy's body it began to grow warm. ³⁵Elisha got up, paced the floor and continued praying to the Lord. Then he stretched himself out on the boy's body a second time. This time the boy sneezed seven times and opened his eyes. ³⁶Elisha got up, called Gehazi and said, "Go and get the Shunammite." Gehazi did so, and when she came, Elisha said to her, "Pick up your son; the Lord has given him back to you." ³⁷She could see that the child was alive. She fell on her knees in front of Elisha, bowing low to the ground in a gesture of extreme gratitude. Then she went over and picked up her son. Holding him close, she left the room, crying for joy.

Elisha and the Pot of Stew

³⁸Elisha returned to visit the school at Gilgal again, and he found that a severe drought had hit the area. He called for a meeting and then told Gehazi to make a large pot of stew so when the meeting was over, he and the students could eat together. ³⁹One of the students decided to help Gehazi and went out into the field to get some plants. He found a vine full of wild cucumbers and picked as many as he could carry in the fold of his robe, came back, cut them up and threw them into the pot without knowing what they were. ⁴⁰When the meeting was over Elisha and the young men sat down to eat. The stew was dished up, but when the students tasted it they cried out, "Elisha! This stew is poisonous!" And they refused to eat it. ⁴¹Elisha said, "Someone bring me some meal." When they gave it to him, he dumped it into the pot. Then he told Gehazi to give the young men a fresh serving of stew. When they tasted it, it tasted good and it didn't hurt them.

Elisha Feeds Over One Hundred Students

⁴²While he was there a man from Baal Shalishah brought Elisha twenty small loaves of barley bread baked from the firstfruits of his harvest, along with some other freshly picked heads of grain from his field. Elisha thanked him and told Gehazi to serve the bread to the students. ⁴³Gehazi said, "We have over a hundred students. That will only give each man a couple of bites!" Elisha answered, "Serve the bread. The Lord says, 'They'll have plenty to eat and there will even be some left over.'" ⁴⁴Gehazi did as he was told, and the young men ate until they were full. There was even some left over, as the Lord had said.

Naaman's Leprosy

5 Naaman was a commander of the Syrian army under King Benhadad II. He was highly respected because he was a brave soldier, and the Lord had used him to punish Israel by giving him many victories. But he had the beginning signs of leprosy. ²In one of the Syrian raids on Israel, Naaman's men carried off a young girl who became his wife's servant. ³One day she said to her mistress, "I wish my master would go to see the Lord's prophet in Samaria. He'd cure him of his leprosy." ⁴When Naaman came home, his wife told him what the girl had said. So he went to see the king and asked him what he should do.

⁵The king said, "By all means, go. I'll send a letter of introduction along with you to give to the king of Israel." So Naaman left and took with him seven hundred fifty pounds of silver, a hundred and fifty pounds of gold and ten sets of fine clothes. ⁶The letter from Benhadad to Joram, king of Israel, read, "I am sending one of my officers to you to be healed of his leprosy. His name is Naaman, and he'll tell you more about himself." ⁷When the king of Israel read the letter he was so upset that he tore his robe and said, "Does Benhadad think that I'm God?"

Does it look like I have the power of life and death? Why is he sending me this leper? Is he trying to use this as an excuse to pick a fight with me?"

⁸Elisha heard about it, so he sent a message to King Joram, "Why has the king of Israel torn his robe? Send the man to me to be healed so he can know the loving kindness of God and that there's still a prophet of the Lord in the land of Israel." So Joram sent Naaman to see Elisha. ⁹Naaman took his horses and chariots and went to Elisha's house and stood outside the door. ¹⁰The prophet sent his servant out to tell him to go and wash seven times in the Jordan River, and his skin would be restored and he would be healed.

¹¹But Naaman felt insulted and said to himself, "I thought the man would at least come out to see me, pray to his God, wave his hand over the diseased spot and heal me. But all he did was ask me to dip in the little Jordan River. ¹²We have bigger, cleaner rivers in Syria to bathe in. Why should I do it here? Even the Abana and the Pharpar rivers in the city of Damascus are cleaner than the rivers in Israel. Why didn't he tell me to wash in them?" Then he left in a rage. ¹³But his servants stopped him and said, "Wait! If the prophet had asked you to do something great, wouldn't you have done it? So why not wash in the Jordan River. You've got nothing to lose!" ¹⁴Naaman listened and decided to do as Elisha had told him. He went to the Jordan River and dipped his whole body in the water seven times. As he came up the seventh time, suddenly, his body was firm and healthy again like that of a young man. His leprosy was gone!

¹⁵With great joy he returned with his servants to Elisha's house. Elisha came out to meet him, and Naaman said, "Now I know that there is no god in all the world like the God of Israel. Please let me give you something to show my appreciation and gratefulness." ¹⁶Elisha replied, "As the Lord God of Israel lives whom I serve,

I will not let you give me something for what the Lord has done." Naaman insisted and begged Elisha to at least take something, but he refused. ¹⁷Then Naaman said, "If you won't take anything, then let me take two mule-loads of soil from Israel back home with me so I can walk on the same ground that Israel walks on, because I accept the Lord your God as my God and will never again offer sacrifices to any god but Him. ¹⁸May the Lord God of Israel forgive me for one thing. When King Benhadad goes into the temple of the god Rimmon, he asks me to go with him so he can lean on my arm, for he is old and unsteady on his feet. When he bows before his god, I have to bow with him, but I won't do it to worship. May the Lord forgive me for this."

The Greed of Elisha's Servant

¹⁹Elisha said, "The Lord understands. Go in peace." So Naaman left and had gone only a short distance ²⁰when Elisha's servant Gehazi thought, "My master was too easy on him. He should have taken everything the man offered him. As surely as the Lord lives, I'm going after this Syrian to get whatever I can." ²¹So Gehazi quickly followed Naaman. When Naaman saw him coming, he stopped his chariot, got down and asked Gehazi, "Is everything all right?" ²²Gehazi answered, "Everything's fine. It's just that my master wanted me to catch up with you to ask you for some help. Two ministerial students from the hill country of Ephraim have just come by who are very poor. Elisha was wondering if you could let them have a seventy-five pounds of silver between them and two sets of clothes."

²³Naaman said, "Of course! Here take a hundred and fifty pounds of silver, seventy-five pounds for each of them, and two sets of clothes each. He gave the silver and the clothes to two of his servants to carry because the silver was heavy. So they went with Gehazi back to Elisha. ²⁴When they came to the side of a hill near Elisha's house, Gehazi said to Naaman's servants, "Thank you so much for your help. I can take care of this from here." And he sent them away. ²⁵Then he hid the gifts and went on to the prophet's house. When he walked in the door, Elisha said to him, "Where were you?" Gehazi lied, "Nowhere. I've been here all the time."

²⁶Then Elisha said, "Why are you lying? Wasn't I there in spirit when you ran after Naaman and he stopped his chariot to greet you? Was this the time to take money or clothes? Is it right to profit from the loving kindness of God and use it to buy vineyards, olive groves, flocks and herds or to hire servants for yourself? ²⁷Naaman's leprosy will now be on you and on each generation of your descendants." Immediately Gehazi developed leprosy, and he left Elisha's house with patches of skin as white as snow.

The Floating Ax Head

6 One day the students from the School of the Prophets at Jericho said to Elisha, "The place where we meet is too small for us. ²Let's go to the Jordan River and cut some wood to enlarge these classrooms." Elisha agreed. ³Then one of them said, "Why don't you come with us?" Elisha said, "All right, I'll come."

⁴So he went with them. When they got there, they began cutting down trees. ⁵As one of the students was chopping down a tree, the head of his ax flew off the handle into the river. He cried out, "Oh, no! It was borrowed!" ⁶Elisha asked, "Where did it fall?" and the student showed him. Elisha cut a stick, threw it into the water where the ax head had fallen, and the iron ax head came floating to the top. ⁷Elisha said, "Quick! Get it, before it floats away!" The student reached out and grabbed it.

The Syrian Army Blinded

⁸During this time, King Benhadad II of Syria was conducting border raids into Israel with great success. After conferring with his officers he carefully picked a place to set up camp.⁹ Then Elisha sent word to Joram, king of Israel, "Don't go near that place, because the king of Syria is waiting there in ambush."¹⁰ So the king warned his troops not to go near there as Elisha had said. This happened time and time again.

¹¹Benhadad really got upset over this. So he called his officers together, and said, "Which one of you has been telling the king of Israel about our plans?"¹² One of the officers answered, "Not one of us, Your Majesty. It's Elisha the prophet who tells King Joram everything we plan, even in the privacy of your tent."¹³ Benhadad said, "Then let's go get him. Find out where he is and bring him here." The officers sent out spies and learned that Elisha lived in the little town of Dothan, about ten miles northeast of Samaria.¹⁴ Then the king of Syria sent a detachment to Dothan to get Elisha and bring him back with them. They left that night, and by morning, they had surrounded the whole town.

¹⁵When Elisha's servant got up and went out to get wood to make breakfast, he saw that the Syrian troops with their horses and chariots had surrounded the place. He came running back into the house and said frantically to Elisha, "The Syrians have surrounded the whole town! What will we do?"¹⁶ Elisha said, "Don't be afraid. We have a stronger force on our side than they have on theirs."¹⁷ Then Elisha prayed, "O Lord, open my servant's eyes so he can see." The Lord answered Elisha's prayer, and his servant looked outside and saw the surrounding hills full of horses and chariots of fire.¹⁸ As the Syrian troops streamed into town heading for Elisha's house, Elisha prayed, "Lord, take away their sight." The Lord answered Elisha's prayer and the whole detachment instantly became blind.¹⁹ Then Elisha went out to meet them as they were groping their way down the street and said to them, "This really isn't the city where you want to go. Come, follow me, and I'll take you to the man your king is really after." So they followed him and he led them to Samaria.

²⁰After they got there, Elisha asked the Lord to open their eyes. The Lord did and when the men looked around to see where they were, they saw that they were in Samaria, surrounded by Israelite troops.²¹ The king of Israel said to Elisha, "Should I kill them?"²² Elisha said, "No, that's not what the Lord wants you to do. We don't even kill men we capture in combat, much less men like these. Feed them well, because I'm sure they're hungry after marching most of the morning. Let them eat and drink, and then send them back to their units."²³ So that's what the king did. He ordered a feast for them and after they had finished eating, he sent them back to Benhadad. This so impressed the Syrian king that he ordered all raids on Israel stopped.

The Siege of Samaria

²⁴But a few years later, Benhadad decided to wage an all-out war against Israel and he and his troops surrounded Samaria.²⁵ It wasn't long before the city ran out of food. But the siege continued and the famine became so severe that a donkey's head sold for two pounds of silver, and half a pint of pigeon droppings sold for two ounces of silver.²⁶ One day as Joram was walking along the city wall inspecting the troops, a woman called up to him, "Help me, Your Majesty! Help me!"²⁷ The king said, "If the Lord doesn't do something to help us, there's nothing I can do. I cannot get grain from an empty threshing floor or wine from an empty winepress."²⁸ But what's your trouble?"

She replied, "This other woman said to me, 'Let's eat your baby first, then we'll eat mine.'²⁹ I finally agreed and cooked my baby to keep the rest of the family from dying, then the next day we were supposed to do the same with her baby. I told her, 'It's your turn.' But she had hidden her baby and refused to share him with us.”³⁰ When the king heard that, he tore his robe in horror. When he did, the people saw that he was wearing sackcloth underneath, and they realized that he truly sympathized with them.³¹ Then he said, “May the Lord strike me dead, if I don’t take off Elisha’s head for not warning me ahead of time about this siege.”

³² Now Elisha was in his house not far from Samaria talking with some of the city fathers and leaders of Israel. Before the king and his men got there, Elisha interrupted the conversation and said, “Our king is sending someone here to cut off my head. Let’s lock the door. His executioner is almost here and the king is not far behind.”³³ Before they finished their discussion, the officer knocked on the door, but they wouldn’t let him in. Soon the king came and demanded that they open the door. When they did, he said to them, “I want Elisha! Why should I keep waiting for the Lord to do something? The people demand action, and I intend to do something to help them.”

7 Elisha said, “In twenty-four hours the siege will end. The Lord says, ‘By this time tomorrow, ten pounds of the best wheat flour or twenty pounds of the best barley flour will sell for as little as two-fifths of an ounce of silver, right outside the city gates.’² One of the king’s officers said, “That could never happen. Do you think the Lord will rain wheat and barley from heaven just to help us?” Elisha answered, “Because you doubt what God says, you will see it happen, but you won’t eat any of it.” The king decided to wait one more day.

The Syrians Break the Siege and Flee

³ Late that afternoon four men with leprosy were sitting outside the city gate. They said to each other, “Why sit here until we die?”⁴ They won’t let us into the city to beg for food because they hardly have enough to eat themselves. If we stay here, we’ll starve to death. Let’s go over to the Syrians. The worst they can do is kill us, but they might give us something to eat and let us live.”

⁵ As it began to get dark, the men made their way over to the Syrians. When they got there they found the camp empty—not a single soldier anywhere.⁶ The Lord had caused the Syrians to hear what sounded like a huge army with horses and chariots coming to rescue Samaria. When the Syrians heard this they had said to each other, “The king of Israel has hired Hittites and Egyptians to attack us. Let’s get out of here!”⁷ So they ran for their lives and left everything behind—horses, donkeys, equipment and plenty of food.⁸ Just after this, the four lepers reached the camp and found it empty. They went into one tent which was filled with food. They ate and drank, then took the silver, gold and clothing they found and hid them. They did the same thing in the next tent.

⁹ After hiding some more things, they said to each other, “This isn’t right. We can’t keep all this for ourselves. Let’s go back to Samaria and tell the king what we’ve found. If we wait until daylight, the Lord will surely punish us for not sharing with others.”¹⁰ So they ran back to the city in the dark and at the gate, called out to the guards, “We went to ask the Syrians for food and found the whole camp empty. No one is there! But the horses, donkeys and all the equipment and tents are intact! Come and see!”¹¹ The guards shouted the news to the people in the palace.¹² The king was already in bed. He got up and said to his officers, “I’ll tell you what’s happening. The Syrians know that our people are starving, so they have left their camp and hidden, thinking that we would come out to see why their camp was empty. Then they’ll attack and take the city without a fight.”¹³ One of the officers spoke up, “Let’s send some men on the five horses we’ve got left to scout things out. If they’re caught and killed, they’ll only die a day or so earlier, because if nothing happens soon, we’ll all be dead.”

¹⁴The king agreed and sent out two chariots and four horses. He said to the drivers, "Go and find out what happened, but be careful." ¹⁵So the men rode off and found the camp of the Syrians completely empty. They followed their trail for twenty miles all the way to the Jordan River. It was strewn with equipment and clothes that the Syrians in their haste had thrown away. So the men headed back to Samaria and reported to the king just as it began to dawn.

¹⁶When the people were told what had happened, they rushed out the city gates and looted the camp of the Syrians. That day ten pounds of the best wheat flour or twenty pounds of the best barley sold for two-fifths of an ounce of silver, just as the Lord through Elisha had said. ¹⁷The king had put the same officer in charge of the city gates who had gone with him to see Elisha the day before, and when he opened the gates to let the people out, he was knocked down and trampled to death. So he died and did not even taste the food. ¹⁸Elisha had said to the king, "Tomorrow ten pounds of wheat flour or twenty pounds of barley flour will sell for two-fifths of an ounce of silver." ¹⁹The king's officer had retorted, "That will never happen. Do you think the Lord will rain wheat and barley from heaven just to help us?" Elisha answered, "Because you doubt what God says, you will see it happen, but you will not eat any of it." ²⁰And it happened exactly as Elisha had predicted, for the people trampled the officer to death at the city gate.

The King Restores the Widow's Land

8 Before the siege of Samaria, the Lord had told Elisha that there would be a famine in the land, so he had warned the Shunammite woman, "You need to leave and find another place to live because a severe famine is coming to this part of the country. It will last for seven years." ²Though the woman had lost her husband, she took her family and went to live with the Philistines in the fertile plain west of the mountains. ³At the end of seven years she returned and found that her house had been confiscated because it had been empty. So she went to the king to ask for it back.

⁴When she got to Samaria, the king was talking to Elisha's servant Gehazi, asking him about all the great things that Elisha had done. ⁵Just as Gehazi was telling how Elisha had raised the son of a Shunammite woman to life, the woman came in to ask the king about her house. When Gehazi saw her, he said to the king, "My lord, there's the woman I'm telling you about, the one whose son was raised to life." ⁶The king asked her to come forward and tell him exactly what had happened. So she did. Then she asked him for her house. The king called for one of his officials and said to him, "See that this woman gets back everything that belongs to her, including whatever income there was from the crops that her land may have produced while she was gone."

The Death of the Syrian King

¹¹Then Elisha stared at Hazael with such a horrified look that Hazael felt very uneasy. All of a sudden Elisha started crying. ¹²Hazael said, "Why are you crying?" Elisha said, "Because I know the evil that you'll do to Israel. You'll be the next king of Syria and will invade our country, set fire to our cities, kill our young men, smash our babies against the rocks and rip open our pregnant women." ¹³Hazael said, "I'm a nobody. How could I ever become king?" Elisha said, "The Lord has shown me that you will be king."

¹⁴Then Hazael went back to Damascus and Elisha returned to Israel. When Hazael got back to the king, Benhadad, who by now was very weak, said to Hazael, "Tell me, what did Elisha say?" Hazael answered, "He told me that your disease is not fatal." ¹⁵The next day Hazael went in to see the king, took a thick cloth from the head of the bed, dipped it in water as if to cool the king's face, but held it there, smothering him until he died. Then Hazael proclaimed himself king of Syria.

Jehoram's Reign in Judah

¹⁶In the fifth year of the reign of Ahab's son Joram as king of Israel, Jehoram, the son of Jehoshaphat, became king of Judah. ¹⁷Jehoram was thirty-two years old when he came to the throne and ruled Judah from Jerusalem for eight years. ¹⁸He did the same evil things that the sons of Ahab were doing in Israel and sinned greatly against the Lord. He was led into this by Athaliah his wife who was Ahab's daughter. ¹⁹But because of the promise the Lord had made to David, He was not willing to destroy Judah.

²⁰When Jehoshaphat died and Jehoram, who had ruled jointly with his father, became king, the Edomites rebelled against the heavy taxation that Judah had imposed on them. ²¹Then Jehoram took all his chariots and engaged the Edomites in battle across the border at Zair. The Edomites surrounded Jehoram and his chariot forces, but during the night the king and his men were able to break through the Edomite lines. Though scattered, they were able to make their way back home. ²²From then on the Edomites rebelled against the heavy-handed domination of Judah. Soon afterward the city of Libnah also revolted and became independent. ²³All the other things that Jehoram did are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ²⁴Jehoram reigned only eight years and he died. They buried him in the royal tombs of the kings of Judah in Jerusalem and his son Ahaziah ruled in his place.

Ahaziah's Reign in Judah

²⁵It was in the twelfth year of the reign of King Joram (Israel's count), that Ahaziah began his reign in Judah. ²⁶Ahaziah was twenty-two years old when he became king and he ruled Judah from Jerusalem for only one year. His mother was Athaliah, daughter of Ahab and granddaughter of King Omri. ²⁷Ahaziah did as much evil in the sight of the Lord as Ahab's sons because of the influence of his mother Athaliah.

²⁸Ahaziah joined forces with his uncle Joram against Hazael, to take back the city of Ramoth in Gilead. During the battle Joram was severely wounded. ²⁹So he left and went to his other palace in Jezreel to recover. Ahaziah stayed with the troops and took Ramoth back from the Syrians. Then on the way home he stopped at Jezreel to see how Joram was doing.

Jehu Anointed King of Israel

9 At this time the prophet Elisha called for one of the students at the School of the Prophets and said to him, "Run as fast as you can to Ramoth in Gilead with this little jar of olive oil. ²When you get there, look for a man named Jehu, son of Jehoshaphat and grandson of Nimshi. He's one of Joram's top officers. When you find him, tell him that I sent you, and ask to see him alone. ³Get him into a room by himself, pour some oil on his head and say, 'The Lord anoints you king of Israel.' Then open the door and run. Get out of there as fast as you can!"

⁴So the young man headed quickly for

Ramoth in Gilead with the oil that Elisha had given him. ⁵When he got there he found some army officers in an outdoor meeting. He said, "I have a message from Elisha for one of the officers." Jehu answered, "I'm Jehu. Which one of us is it for?" The young man replied, "For you, sir." ⁶Jehu got up and went inside with the young man. Then the young man poured oil on Jehu's head and said, "The Lord God of Israel says, 'I anoint you king of Israel. ⁷You are to destroy the house of Ahab because the time has come for me to punish Jezebel for killing my servants and my prophets. ⁸The whole house of Ahab must perish, including the king. Every male must be put to the sword whether he's young or old, bond or free. ⁹The house of Ahab will come to an end just as did the house of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, and the house of Baasha, the son of Ahijah. ¹⁰As for Jezebel herself, she must not be buried, but dogs will eat her body outside her palace in Jezreel.'" Then the young man opened the door and ran.

¹¹When Jehu came out, one of the officers said, "Is everything all right? What did this madman have to say that was such a secret?" Jehu said, "You know how these people are. They say a bunch of nothing." ¹²The officer said, "Stop avoiding the question. Tell us what he said." Then Jehu said, "All right, I'll tell you. He poured oil on my head and said, 'The Lord God of Israel anoints you king of Israel.'" ¹³When they heard this all the officers stood, took off their cloaks and spread them on the stairs. As Jehu stood on the top step, they blew the trumpet and shouted, "Jehu is king!"

King Joram of Israel Killed

¹⁴So Jehu, son of Jehoshaphat and grandson of Nimshi, was proclaimed king of Israel in place of Joram. Israel's main fighting force was still stationed at Ramoth in Gilead in case Hazael, king of Syria, decided to counterattack. ¹⁵King Joram had been wounded in the battle at Ramoth and had come to Jezreel to recover. Jehu said to his fellow officers, "If you accept me as your king, then don't go to Jezreel and tell what has happened. Stay with me." ¹⁶Then he got in his chariot and took off for Jezreel to see Joram who was there recovering, and Ahaziah, king of Judah, who was visiting him.

¹⁷When the watchman on the city wall by the tower of Jezreel saw Jehu and his men in the distance, he called out, "I see chariots coming this way!" When the king got the message, he said to his guards, "Send out a horseman to find whether this means peace or war." ¹⁸The man rode out and when he met Jehu, he shouted over to him on his chariot, "Are you coming to Jezreel for peace or war?" Jehu shouted back, "It's none of your business! Fall in behind me!" And the man did. Then the watchman on the wall of Jezreel shouted, "The man isn't coming back!" ¹⁹So the king sent out a second horseman to see whether this meant peace or war. When the man got there and shouted the same question to Jehu, Jehu shouted back, "It's none of your business! Fall in behind me!" And the man did. ²⁰The watchman in Jezreel shouted, "This man isn't coming back either! And the driving of the lead chariot looks like the driving of Jehu, the grandson of Nimshi, for he's driving like a madman!"

²¹Joram said, "Quick! Get my chariot ready!" Then Ahaziah told his men to get his chariot ready. So the two kings rode out together, each in his own chariot, to see Jehu. They met near the field that once belonged to Naboth, the Jezreelite, whom Jezebel had killed just because Ahab wanted his property. ²²King Joram shouted to Jehu, "Are you coming in peace?" Jehu shouted back, "How can there be peace as long as the witchcraft and idolatry of your mother Jezebel prevails throughout the country!" ²³Joram got the message, turned his chariot around and headed back to the city. As he went he shouted to Ahaziah, "This is treason!" ²⁴Jehu drew his bow and hit Joram between the shoulders, and the arrow went straight into his heart. He slumped over in his chariot and died. ²⁵Then Jehu shouted to Bidkar, the chariot officer behind him, "Pull aside and get the king's body out of the road. Dump it in the field that belonged to Naboth. Remember when we rode beside Ahab, and the prophet Elijah came to see him? ²⁶Do you recall what the prophet said? 'In the place where the dogs licked up the blood of Naboth they will lick up the blood of your son.' So pick up the body and throw it in Naboth's field."

King Ahaziah of Judah Killed

²⁷When Ahaziah, the king of Judah, saw all this, he turned his chariot around and headed toward Beth Haggan intending to go to Jerusalem. Jehu went after him, shouting to his men, "Go after him and kill him!" They shot and wounded him as he was going up to Gur near Ibleam but he got away. Then he changed his course from the mountainous region to the level plain of Megiddo. From there he escaped toward the south. They finally caught him near Samaria and brought him to Megiddo where Jehu had him executed. ²⁸Ahaziah's servants took his body back to Jerusalem in his chariot and buried him in the royal tombs in Jerusalem.

²⁹It was in the eleventh year of King Joram in Israel (Judah's count) that Ahaziah had become king of Judah.

Queen Jezebel Killed

³⁰When Jehu arrived in Jezreel, Jezebel heard about it. So she painted her eyes, arranged her hair and stood watching the street from a window of the palace. ³¹As Jehu's chariot came through the palace gates, she called to him, "You're just like Zimri! He killed King Baasha! Now you've killed your master just like that murderer did! Are you coming in peace or not?" ³²Jehu looked up at her and shouted, "Who up there is on my side? Who?" Two or three eunuchs looked down from the window. ³³When they did, Jehu shouted up at them, "Throw her down!" So they picked up Jezebel and threw her out the window. As she hit the pavement her blood spattered on the wall and on the horses, and Jehu drove his chariot over her body.

³⁴Then he and his men went inside and sat down to eat. When they finished, he said to his men, "Go and take that woman's body and bury it. After all, she was a king's daughter." ³⁵They went outside but found nothing left except her skull and the bones of her hands and feet. The city dogs had already eaten her body and carried parts of it throughout the city. ³⁶So they went back and said to Jehu, "There's no body left, only the woman's skull and some bones." Jehu remembered aloud, "This is what the Lord told Elijah, that dogs would eat her body on the palace grounds in Jezreel. ³⁷He also said that pieces of her body would be found all over the city so that no one could point to a place and say, 'Here's where Jezebel is buried.' It has happened, just as the Lord said."

Ahab's Sons Killed

10 There were seventy sons of Ahab living in Samaria. So Jehu wrote a letter and sent a copy to the officials of the city and to the guardians of Ahab's descendants which said, ²"Since Joram is dead and you're in charge of Ahab's descendants and have horses and chariots and live in a fortified city, ³choose the most worthy descendant of Ahab and make him king. Then get ready to fight for him." Jehu did this to find out whose side they were on. ⁴When they read the letter, they were terrified and said, "If Jehu killed two kings who couldn't defend themselves against him, how can we?"

⁵So the palace managers, the city governor, the elders and the guardians of Ahab's descendants sent a message to Jehu, saying, "We're on your side and we'll do anything you say. But we will not choose someone as king. You do whatever you think best.”⁶ Jehu sent a message back to them, “If you’re on my side and are ready to do what I say, then bring the heads of Ahab’s sons to me in Jezreel by tomorrow morning.” Altogether there were seventy male descendants of Ahab in and around the city being supported by the people.⁷ When the city fathers got Jehu’s letter they took all seventy princes, executed them, put their heads in baskets and sent them to Jehu in Jezreel.

⁸The messengers arrived in Jezreel the next day and told Jehu that they had the heads of Ahab’s seventy sons in baskets as he had requested. Then he said to his men, “Take the heads and put them in two piles by the city gate and leave them there until tomorrow morning.”⁹ The next day Jehu went out and stood by the city gate and said to the leaders of the people, “I want you to know that you’re not guilty of the death of your king. I’m the one who killed him. But who killed the rest of Ahab’s sons? The people in Samaria.¹⁰ I want to remind you of what the Lord told us through the prophet Elijah.¹¹ He said that the house of Ahab would be destroyed and that his chief supporters, his friends and his priests would also die. No one would survive. I’ve been asked by the Lord to carry out that prophecy, and I intend to do so.”

Relatives of Ahaziah Killed

¹²Then Jehu left and headed for Samaria. At Beth Eked, called the Shepherd’s Camp, he met some of the relatives of Ahaziah and said to them, “Who are you?”¹³ They said, “We’re sons of Ahaziah’s brothers and are on our way to Jezreel to pay our respects to King Joram and his mother Jezebel.”¹⁴ Jehu said to his men, “Take them.” So his men took them and executed them by the shepherd’s well at Beth Eked, all forty-two of them. There were no survivors.

The Rest of Ahab’s Family Killed

¹⁵Then Jehu and his men continued on to Samaria. On the way they met Jehonadab, the son of Recab. Jehu greeted him, “Are you with me or against me?” Jehonadab said, “I’m with you.” Jehu said, “Good. Give me your hand.” Jehonadab did, Jehu helped him up into his chariot and said to him,¹⁶ “Come with me to Samaria and see my zeal for the Lord God of Israel.” Then they took off.¹⁷ When Jehu got to Samaria, he killed all those who were left from Ahab’s family. No one survived. This was what the Lord through Elijah had said would happen.

Worshippers of Baal Killed

¹⁸Then Jehu called the people together and said to them, “If you saw Ahab serve Baal, you haven’t seen anything yet.¹⁹ I want all the prophets and priests of Baal and all those who minister to him to come together for a gigantic feast. We’re going to have a festival in honor of Baal such as you’ve never seen. There will be more sacrifices than you can imagine. Be sure that no one who ministers to Baal stays away. If he does and I find out, I’ll kill him.” Jehu was lying because he wanted to get everyone together in one place and kill them all at one time.²⁰ Jehu said, “I proclaim a day of worship in honor of Baal.”²¹ Then he sent word throughout Israel announcing the time and place for this special day, and all those who ministered to Baal and served him came to Samaria. Not one of them stayed home. They all crowded into the temple of Baal and filled the place to overflowing.²² Jehu said to the caretaker, “Bring out robes for those who worship Baal.” He did.²³ Then Jehu and Jehonadab, son of Recab, went inside and Jehu said to the ministers of Baal, “Look around and make sure that no one is here who worships the Lord. If so, he should leave.”²⁴ Then the priests brought sacrifices and other offerings into the heathen temple. Jehu had posted eighty men outside with swords and told them, “If you let any of the people inside escape, it’ll be your life for theirs.”

²⁵A priest of Baal made the first burnt offering. Once the worship was under way, Jehu went outside and ordered his officers and men to go in and kill everyone who was there. So they went in with drawn swords, killed everyone there and dragged their bodies outside. Then they went back into the inner shrine of the temple, ²⁶took out the sacred pillar and set it on fire. ²⁷They tore down the temple of Baal, and what was left of it, the people later used as a public restroom.

²⁸So for a while Jehu wiped out all Baal worship from Israel. ²⁹But he didn't turn away from the other evil practices that Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, had started. He continued to worship the two golden calves that Jeroboam had set up at Bethel and Dan. ³⁰Then the Lord said to Jehu, "Because you've put an end to Baal worship and made sure that no descendant of Ahab will ever again sit on the throne of Israel, I will guarantee the kingdom to you and your descendants for four generations." ³¹In spite of this, Jehu did not give up his wicked ways or keep the commandments of the Lord with all his heart. He continued to promote worship of the golden calves that Jeroboam had started.

The Death of Jehu

³²Then the Lord began to reduce the size of Israel's territory by letting Hazael, the king of Syria, take some of it. ³³He took all territory east of Jordan, the whole land of Gilead and Bashan as far south as the Aroer River where the tribes of Reuben, Gad and half the tribe of Manasseh lived. ³⁴Everything else that Jehu did, all his victories, are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ³⁵When Jehu died he was buried with his fathers in Samaria, and Jehoahaz his son became king. ³⁶Jehu had reigned over Israel from Samaria for twenty-eight years.

Queen Athaliah Reigns in Judah

11 When Athaliah, the daughter of Jezebel and the mother of King Ahaziah, heard that Jehu had killed her son, she ordered all the male descendants of David executed. She was determined that if her own offspring couldn't rule over Judah, neither would any descendant of David. ²But Jehosheba, the half-sister of Ahaziah, took her infant nephew Joash, the son of Ahaziah, and his nurse and hid them in the bedroom of her house. So Joash was the only descendant of David who was not executed. ³Jehosheba was the wife of the high priest, so Joash and his nurse lived at the Temple for the next six years while Athaliah the queen mother ruled Judah.

The Boy Joash Crowned King of Judah

⁴In the seventh year of Athaliah's reign, Jehoiada the high priest, husband of Jehosheba, asked the captains of the palace guards, the foreign mercenaries and the royal bodyguards to come to the Temple. He made them take an oath to the Lord not to tell what he was about to show them. Then he brought out young Joash, the only surviving descendant of David and the rightful king of Judah. ⁵He said to the captains, "Those of you who are assigned to duty this coming Sabbath are to divide into three units. ⁶One third of you will guard the entrance to the palace, one third will be at the Sur Gate leading from the palace to the Temple and the other third by the gate at the rear of the palace. ⁷Those of you who are scheduled to be off this Sabbath shall come and stand guard inside the Temple because we will make Joash our new king. ⁸Station yourselves around the young prince with spears and shields that I'll give you, and kill anyone who dares to fight. Then go with the young king and protect him wherever he goes."

⁹The officers agreed to do everything that Jehoiada the high priest had commanded. Each officer took his men who were beginning their Sabbath duty and those who were off duty and gave them their assignments. ¹⁰Then Jehoiada gave the officers, and their off-duty men who had come, spears and shields left from David's army. These had been kept in the Temple. ¹¹The off-duty men stationed themselves inside the Temple facing east toward the entrance. They lined up several ranks deep in front of the sacrificial altar from the northern to the southern corner of the courtyard, protecting the little prince. ¹²Then Jehoiada brought young Joash out, put a crown on his head and gave him a copy of the law containing the covenant of the Lord. He anointed him and proclaimed him king. Then all the people who had come to worship clapped their hands and shouted, "Long live the king!"

The Death of the Queen

¹³Athaliah the queen heard this noise coming from the Temple on Sabbath, so she went there to find out what was going on. ¹⁴When she arrived, she saw young Joash standing between the pillars at the entrance to the Sanctuary with a crown on his head, her own officers and bodyguards with their spears and shields in front of him and trumpeters beside him. The people were rejoicing and shouting, "Long live the king!" Then Athaliah tore her robes and shouted, "Treason!" ¹⁵Jehoiada the high priest saw Athaliah and ordered the officers to go after her and kill her and anyone who tried to defend her. But he told them not to kill her in the Temple courtyard. ¹⁶So they caught Athaliah as she was trying to escape through the palace stables and killed her there.

¹⁷Then Jehoiada renewed God's covenant between the Lord, the king and his people that they would worship God and Him alone. He also had the king and his people make a covenant between them to be loyal to each other. ¹⁸Then the people went over to the temple of Baal and tore it down. They crushed the altars and the images of Baal and killed Mattan the high priest of Baal in front of the destroyed altars. While this was happening Jehoiada asked some of the guards to stay at the Temple. ¹⁹He took the rest of the officers and their men, together with the young king, to the palace. They passed the guards on duty without trouble and went on into the palace where Joash took his seat on the throne. ²⁰All the people rejoiced over their new king and the city was at peace because Athaliah, the queen mother, was dead. ²¹Young Joash (also called Jehoash) was only seven years old when he began to reign.

Joash Orders the Temple Repaired

12 It was in the seventh year of the reign of Jehu, king of Israel, that Joash became king of Judah and he ruled from Jerusalem for forty years. His mother's name was Zibiah from the city of Beersheba. ²Joash did what was right in the eyes of the Lord, and Jehoiada the high priest taught him what to do. ³But some of the places of pagan worship were still allowed to function and some people went there to offer sacrifices and to burn incense.

⁴However, soon after Joash became king, he called in the priests of the Lord and said to them, "Set aside all the money that the people bring to the Lord, such as census payments, pledges from vows and money from thank offerings. ⁵I want the funds to be used for repairing the Temple of the Lord. Each of you on duty is responsible to work with the treasurers to see that these funds are not used for anything else." ⁶But during the next twenty-three years, the work had gone ahead only halfheartedly. ⁷Then Joash called in Jehoiada and the other priests and said to them, "Why hasn't more been done to repair the Temple all these years? From now on you are to turn the money you get from the treasury over to me, and I'll personally see to it that the Temple is repaired." ⁸The priests agreed and gave the king the money that the people had brought to the Temple. And the responsibility for overseeing the repairs was taken away from them.

⁹Then Jehoiada took a chest, bored a hole in the lid and put it near the sacrificial altar and later at the entrance to the courtyard. The priests put the money the people gave into the chest. ¹⁰After a large amount of money had been collected, the priests would call Jehoiada the high priest and the king's secretary and they would come and count the money and tie it up in bags. ¹¹Then they recorded the amount they gave to the king's men in charge of repairing the Temple. They, in turn, paid those working for them, such as carpenters, masons, stonemasons and builders. ¹²The construction supervisors also used the money to buy timbers, stones and any other items needed for repairs. ¹³The money was not spent for extra silver basins, wick trimmers, sprinkling bowls, trumpets and other items of silver or gold used in worship. ¹⁴It was used to pay the workmen and to buy the necessary building materials for repairing the Temple. ¹⁵Jehoiada, the high priest, and the royal secretary did not require an accounting of the money from the construction supervisors because they were honest men. ¹⁶The money that came in from restitution payments and from the monetary value of sin offerings was not used to repair the Temple but went to pay the priests as directed by the king.

King Hazael of Syria Threatens Jerusalem

¹⁷About this time, Hazael, king of Syria, attacked the city of Gath in the land of Judah and took it, then turned to attack Jerusalem. ¹⁸Then Joash took all the offerings of silver and gold that his ancestors Jehoshaphat, Jehoram and Ahaziah had given to the Lord and what he had given the Lord over the years, together with the silver and gold already found in the Temple and in the palace, and sent it all to Hazael as payment for not attacking Jerusalem. Hazael accepted it and took his troops and went back home.

The Death of King Joash

¹⁹All the other things that Joash did are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ²⁰In his last years some of his officials plotted against him and assassinated Joash in his house at Millo, a suburb of Jerusalem on the road going to Silla. ²¹Those responsible were Jozacar (also called Jozabad or Zabad for short), son of Shimeath, and Jehozabad, son of Shomer (also called Shimrith). Joash was buried with his ancestors in Jerusalem, and Amaziah his son reigned in his place in Judah.

Jehoahaz's Reign in Israel

13 In the twenty-third year of Joash, king of Judah, Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu, became king of Israel and ruled from Samaria for seventeen years. ²Like his ancestor Jeroboam, Jehoahaz did evil in the sight of the Lord and continued to lead Israel into sin. He never did change his ways. ³The Lord was very displeased with him and let Israel come under the control of Hazael, king of Syria, and also under his son Benhadad III, who defeated Israel time and time again. ⁴Then Jehoahaz prayed to the Lord and asked for His help. The Lord listened because He saw how severely the king of Syria was oppressing the Israelites, and He decided to answer Jehoahaz's prayer, even though he had not changed all his evil ways.

⁵So the Lord sent the king of Assyria to rescue Israel by defeating the Syrians and bringing them under his control. Then the Israelites enjoyed peace once again and could live securely in their own houses. ⁶However, they didn't stop their wickedness but continued to commit the sins that the house of Jeroboam had led them into. Even the sacred tree dedicated to Asherah, the mother goddess of fertility, still stood in the middle of Samaria. ⁷After many battles with Syria, the army of Israel was reduced to fifty horsemen, ten chariots and ten thousand fighting men. The rest of the army had been destroyed by the king of Syria. ⁸The other things that Jehoahaz accomplished are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ⁹He died and was buried next to his forefathers in the city of Samaria, and his son Jehoash ruled in his stead.

Jehoash's Reign in Israel

¹⁰In the thirty-seventh year of Joash, king of Judah, Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz, became king of Israel and ruled for sixteen years. ¹¹He also did evil in the sight of the Lord and continued in the wicked ways of his ancestor Jeroboam and led Israel still deeper into sin. He never repented or changed his ways. ¹²All the things that Jehoash did, including his victorious war against Amaziah, the king of Judah, are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ¹³Jehoash died and was buried next to his ancestors in the city of Samaria.

The Death of Elisha

¹⁴One of the things that happened during the reign of Jehoash was that the prophet Elisha came down with a fatal illness. When Jehoash the king went to see him and saw how sick he was, he wept and said, "My father, my father! You have been more valuable to Israel than all our horsemen and chariots!" ¹⁵Elisha said to him, "Go and get a bow and some arrows." And the king did. ¹⁶When the king came back, Elisha said, "Take your bow and get ready to shoot. When you do, I'll place my hands over your hands and we'll do it together. ¹⁷Then he told the king to open the window that faced east toward the cities beyond Jordan under Syrian control. He placed his hands over the kings' hands and said, "Shoot!" and the king did. Elisha said, "That was an arrow for the Lord. It was His arrow of victory. You will be the arrow He will use to defeat the king of Syria at the battle of Aphek." ¹⁸Again he said, "Now take the rest of the arrows and hit the ground with them." The king struck the ground three times and stopped. ¹⁹The prophet was upset with him and said, "You should have hit the ground at least five or six times to show your determination. Then the Lord could have used you to defeat the Syrians and completely destroy them. But now the Lord can use you to defeat the Syrians only three times."

²⁰Then Elisha died and was buried. Every spring, bands of Moabites would invade Israel. ²¹One time they came when the Israelites were in the midst of a funeral. The people saw the Moabites coming and quickly threw the body into Elisha's tomb and ran. As soon as the body touched the bones of Elisha, the man came back to life, stood up and walked out.

War Between Israel and Syria

²²All through the earlier reign of Jehoahaz, Hazael of Syria had oppressed Israel. ²³But the Lord was merciful to Israel in spite of their wicked ways and had compassion on them because of the covenant He had made with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. He did not abandon Israel nor did He stop caring for His people. ²⁴Eventually, King Hazael of Syria died and his son Benhadad III took over. ²⁵Then Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz, fought against Benhadad and took back the cities and towns that had been taken from his father. Three times Jehoash defeated the Syrians just as Elisha the prophet had said.

Amaziah's Reign in Judah

14 In the second year of Jehoash, king of Israel, Joash, king of Judah, died and his son Amaziah began to reign. ²Amaziah was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he ruled from Jerusalem for twenty-nine years. His mother was Jehoaddin from Jerusalem. ³He did what was right in the eyes of the Lord, as his father Joash had done, but not as well as his ancestor David. ⁴He worshiped the Lord, but he tolerated other places of worship in the country where the people brought their offerings and sacrificed to other gods. ⁵Once he had control of the country, he executed the officials who had murdered his father. ⁶He did not execute the sons of his father's assassins because it was not allowed by the law of Moses. The law says, "Fathers are not to be executed for the sins of their sons, nor are sons to be executed for the sins of their fathers."

⁷Amaziah defeated ten thousand Edomites in the Valley of Salt after they attacked Judah. He also took the mountain city of Sela by storm and changed its name to Jaktheel (later called Petra).

⁸Then he sent messengers to Jehoash, king of Israel and grandson of Jehu, challenging him to a fight. ⁹But Jehoash sent back this message: "Once a thorn bush in the mountains of Lebanon asked a cedar of Lebanon to give his daughter in marriage to his son. But then a wild animal came along and trampled down the thorn bush. ¹⁰Just because you defeated the Edomites, don't become arrogant. Stay at home and glory in your victory. Why ask for trouble and bring disaster on yourself and your people?"

¹¹But Amaziah wouldn't listen. So Jehoash attacked Jerusalem, and the two kings faced each other in battle at Beth Shemesh in the land of Judah. ¹²Judah was defeated, and every man in Amaziah's army turned and ran for home. ¹³It was during this battle that Jehoash captured King Amaziah of Judah, who had succeeded his father Joash and his grandfather Ahaziah to the throne. Then Jehoash marched from Beth Shemesh to Jerusalem and tore down the city wall from the Ephraim Gate to the Corner Gate, a section of about six hundred feet. ¹⁴Before returning to Samaria, he also took all the silver, gold and valuable articles he could find in the Temple and the royal treasury, plus a number of hostages. But he did leave Amaziah as king in Jerusalem.

¹⁵Everything else that Jehoash did and all his victories, including his victory over Amaziah, are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ¹⁶When Jehoash died they buried him next to his fathers in the city of Samaria, and his son Jeroboam II, who had ruled jointly with his father, became the next king.

¹⁷Amaziah, king of Judah, lived for another fifteen years after the death of Jehoash, king of Israel. ¹⁸The other accomplishments of Amaziah are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ¹⁹Some officials in Jerusalem laid a plot to kill Amaziah. When he heard about it he fled to Lachish, but his assassins followed him and killed him there. ²⁰They brought his body back to Jerusalem on a horse and buried him next to his fathers in the section of the city called the City of David. ²¹Then the people of Judah took Azariah, the sixteen-year-old son of Amaziah, and made him king of Judah. He was also called Uzziah and had been made co-regent when his father was captured by Jehoash, King of Israel. ²²After he became sole ruler, he took the city of Elath on the Gulf of Aqabah away from the Edomites, rebuilt it and once again made it part of Judah.

Jeroboam II's Reign in Israel

²³In the fifteenth year of the reign of Amaziah, King of Judah, Jehoash, King of Israel, died, and his son Jeroboam II became king in Samaria. Jeroboam ruled the Northern Kingdom for forty-one years. ²⁴He did evil in the eyes of the Lord and followed the example of his ancestor Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, who had led the people of Israel into sin. ²⁵He reclaimed the territory of Israel that his enemies had taken from Hamath Pass in the north to the Dead Sea in the south. The Lord had told him through the prophet Jonah that He would do this for him. ²⁶God had seen how His people in Israel, both bond and free, were suffering bitterly and there was no one to help them.

²⁷He would not let Israel be completely destroyed, but had compassion on them and saved them from their enemies through Jeroboam, the son of Jehoash.

²⁸Everything that Jeroboam II did, including his military achievements in recovering the territories of Israel with such cities as Damascus and Hamath, are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ²⁹Jeroboam died and was buried next to his fathers in the royal tombs in Samaria. His son Zechariah became the next king of Israel.

Uzziah's Reign in Judah

15 In the twenty-seventh year of Jeroboam II, king of Israel, Azariah (also known as Uzziah), the son of Amaziah, began to rule in Judah. ²He was only sixteen years old when he became co-regent with his father. Altogether he ruled for fifty-two years. His mother was Jecoliah from Jerusalem. ³Uzziah did what was right in the eyes of the Lord just as Amaziah his father and Joash his grandfather had done, ⁴except he did not remove the pagan shrines from Judah, and the people continued to offer sacrifices and burn incense there. Even so, the Lord did not forsake Uzziah but gave him many military victories. ⁵However, Uzziah assumed priestly privileges and went into the Holy Place to burn incense. Then the Lord smote him with leprosy, and he was relieved of all his duties, though he was given a house to live in. His son, Jotham, took charge of the country and governed as co-regent until his father died. ⁶All the things that Uzziah did and all his victories are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ⁷They buried him near his father in Jerusalem, and his son Jotham became king.

Zechariah's Reign in Israel

⁸It was in the thirty-eighth year of Uzziah, king of Judah, that Zechariah, the son of Jeroboam II, became king of Israel. He ruled for only six months. ⁹He did evil in the eyes of the Lord as his fathers had done. He didn't turn away from the many sins which his ancestor Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, had caused Israel to commit. ¹⁰Now Shallum, the son of Jabesh, plotted against Zechariah, followed him to the city of Ibleam and struck him down in public, killing him. Then he proclaimed himself king, even though he was not of the royal line of Jehu. ¹¹Everything that Zechariah did in his short reign is recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ¹²So the word of the Lord to Jehu was fulfilled when He said that his descendants would be on the throne of Israel for only four generations.

Shallum's Reign in Israel

¹³Shallum took the throne of Israel in the thirty-ninth year of Uzziah, king of Judah, and ruled for only one month. ¹⁴Menahem, the son of Gadi, from Tirzah went to Samaria and struck down Shallum and killed him and took the throne. ¹⁵Everything that Shallum did in his brief reign is recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ¹⁶On his way to Samaria, Menahem attacked the city of Tiphshah and killed everyone living there because they had refused to open the gates and let him in. He showed no mercy, even to pregnant women but ripped them open while they were still alive. He did the same thing in surrounding villages.

Menahem's Reign in Israel

¹⁷It was in the thirty-ninth year of Uzziah, king of Judah, that Menahem became king of Israel, and he ruled the country for ten years. ¹⁸He did evil in the eyes of the Lord and did not turn from the wickedness of his ancestor Jeroboam, son of Nebat, who led Israel into sin. ¹⁹So the Lord allowed Tiglath Pileser III, the king of Assyria (also called King Pul), to invade Israel. Then Menahem gave him thirty-seven tons of silver to gain his favor and to remain as king of Israel. ²⁰Menahem got this silver from rich men in Israel by forcing each one to pay an extra fifty pieces of silver in taxes. In addition Menahem also agreed to pay the king of Assyria an annual tribute of silver, gold and fabric. So Tiglath Pileser kept Menahem on as king of Israel and withdrew to his own country. ²¹Everything else that Menahem did is recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ²²He died and was buried beside his fathers in Samaria, and his son Pekahiah took his place.

Pekahiah's Reign in Israel

²³It was in the fiftieth year of Uzziah, king of Judah, that Pekahiah, son of Menahem, became king of Israel, but he ruled for only two years. ²⁴Pekahiah also did evil in the sight of the Lord and did not turn away from the sins his ancestor Jeroboam, son of Nebat, had caused the people of Israel to commit. ²⁵Pekah, son of Remaliah, one of his top officers, took fifty men from Gilead, went to the fortified royal palace in Samaria and, along with Argob and Arieah, assassinated Pekahiah and took over as king. ²⁶Everything that Pekahiah did is recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

Pekah's Reign in Israel

²⁷It was in the fifty-second year of Uzziah, king of Judah, that Pekah became king of Israel. He actually ruled only eight years, but counting the twelve years he controlled part of Israel, made a total of twenty years. ²⁸But he did evil in the sight of the Lord and did not turn from the sins that his ancestor Jeroboam, son of Nebat, had caused Israel to commit.

²⁹Pekah refused to continue to pay tribute to the Assyrians as Menahem had done. So Tiglath Pileser, the king of Assyria, invaded Israel and took the cities of Ijon, Abel Beth Maacah, Janoah, Kedesh and Hazor. His armies swept across the territories of Gilead, Galilee, Zebulun and Naphtali and took many captives with them back to Assyria. ³⁰It was in the twentieth year of Jotham, who was ruling Judah, that Hoshea, the son of Elah, killed Pekah, the king of Israel, and proclaimed himself king. ³¹Everything that Pekah did, his alliance with Syria against the king of Assyria and his war against Judah are all recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

Jotham's Reign in Judah

³²In the second year of Pekah as king of Israel, Jotham began his reign as king of Judah. ³³He was twenty-five years old when he became king and ruled for sixteen years, plus another four years assisted by Ahaz his son. His mother's name was Jerusha, the daughter of Zadok. ³⁴He did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord just as his father Uzziah had first done. ³⁵But not all the shrines of pagan worship were removed from Judah. The people continued to offer sacrifices and burn incense in those places. Jotham did continue some of the building projects that his father had started, and he also rebuilt the upper gate of the Temple of the Lord. ³⁶Everything that Jotham did is recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ³⁷It was during his reign that Pekah, king of Israel, and Rezin, king of Syria, formed an alliance against Assyria and tried to force Judah to join them. ³⁸Jotham died and was buried alongside his fathers in Jerusalem and his son Ahaz succeeded him as king.

Ahaz's Reign in Judah

16 It was in the seventeenth year of Israel that Ahaz became king of Judah. ²Ahaz was twenty years old when he began to reign with his father, and he ruled from Jerusalem for sixteen years. He did not follow his father's example but did evil in the eyes of the Lord. ³He followed the example of the kings of Israel and even offered his infant son as a burnt offering to Baal, imitating the cruel practices of the Canaanites and others whom the Lord had driven out of the land. ⁴There was hardly a pagan shrine or altar where Ahaz did not offer sacrifices and burn incense, whether on top of a mountain or under some sacred tree.

⁵During his reign Pekah king of Israel and Rezin king of Syria marched against Ahaz and attacked Jerusalem, but could not defeat him. ⁶Rezin did take the city of Elath. He drove out the people of Judah and let the Edomites move in and reclaim the city as their own. ⁷When Ahaz heard that he was about to be attacked again by Pekah king of Israel and Rezin king of Syria, he sent word to Tiglath Pileser, king of Assyria, asking for help. ⁸He took silver and gold from the Temple and from the royal treasury and sent it as a gift to the king of Assyria. ⁹So Tiglath Pileser marched against the king of Syria, took Damascus, executed the king and deported many of his people, scattering them across Assyria all the way to Kir.

¹⁰Ahaz went to Damascus to meet the king of Assyria. While there, he saw an impressive altar and sent a miniature model of it back home to Uriah the priest with instructions to make one just like it and put it in the courtyard of the Temple. ¹¹Uriah did as he was told and finished the altar according to specifications before Ahaz returned. ¹²When Ahaz saw the altar, he was very pleased. He inspected it and decided to offer sacrifices on it. ¹³He offered whole burnt offerings and grain offerings on it, poured drink offerings over the sacrifices and sprinkled the blood of peace offerings against the altar the way the priests did. ¹⁴Ahaz ordered the new altar to replace the bronze altar of the Lord. So this altar sat in the courtyard in a straight line with the entrance to the Holy Place instead of the Lord's altar, which he had moved just to the north of it. ¹⁵Then Ahaz ordered Uriah the priest to offer the morning and evening sacrifices on this new, large altar. He ordered his own burnt offerings, grain offerings and drink offerings, as well as those of the people to be offered there. The king also told the priests to sprinkle the blood of the fellowship offerings on the sides of this new altar and to use the Lord's altar only for prayers and for requesting His guidance.

¹⁶And Uriah the priest did as he was told.

¹⁷The king needed a present for the king of Assyria. So he took the bronze side panels from the carts holding the ten small basins and the twelve bronze oxen supporting the huge basin, replacing them with a base of stone. ¹⁸He removed the royal family's covered platform from the Temple that had been used for Sabbath worship and closed the royal entryway into the Temple. He did all this because he anticipated a visit from Tiglath Pileser to Jerusalem. ¹⁹Everything else that Ahaz did is recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ²⁰Ahaz died and was buried beside his fathers in the royal tombs in Jerusalem, and his son Hezekiah became the next king.

Hoshea's Reign in Israel

17 It was in the twelfth year of Ahaz, king of Judah, that Hoshea overthrew Pekah and proclaimed himself the next king of Israel. He ruled the country from Samaria for nine years. ²He did evil in the eyes of the Lord, but he was not as bad as the kings of Israel before him. ³Hoshea paid tribute to the king of Assyria, first to Tiglath Pileser, who claimed to have put him on the throne in Israel, and then to Shalmaneser, the new king of Assyria. ⁴When Shalmaneser found out that Hoshea had made an alliance with the king of Egypt and had stopped paying tribute to Assyria, he marched against Israel, captured Samaria and put Hoshea in prison.

The Northern Kingdom Falls

⁵Shalmaneser invaded the entire land of Israel and besieged Samaria for nearly three years. ⁶In the ninth year of Hoshea, the king of Assyria captured the city of Samaria and took the people of Israel to Assyria. He settled some of them in the city of Halah, others near the Habor River in the district of Gozan and still others in various cities and towns in the territory of the Medes.

⁷The Lord allowed all this to happen because Israel had sinned so abominably. He had brought them out of Egypt, from under the power of Pharaoh, but they had turned to other gods. ⁸They followed the example of the heathen people around them whom the Lord had driven from the land because of their terrible wickedness. Now His own people were doing the same things. They also followed the example of their leaders and kings who introduced them to many other evil ways. ⁹The people of Israel secretly built places of worship all over the country for their gods, from the large fortified cities to the small villages. ¹⁰They set up images of the fertility goddess Asherah and stone pillars to their gods on the tops of mountains and under every large tree. ¹¹They burned incense to their gods at these places of worship. They followed the example of the local people in other ways connected with such worship which greatly displeased the Lord.

¹²They knew that the Lord had told them not to worship idols, but they defiantly did it anyway. ¹³He had warned them again and again, sending prophets to both the house of Judah and the house of Israel, saying to the people, "Turn from your wickedness and obey the Lord. Keep His commandments and laws which He gave to your fathers when you first came out of Egypt. Listen to the messages He has sent to you through His prophets." ¹⁴But they refused to listen and turned against the Lord just as stubbornly as their fathers had who didn't trust God. ¹⁵They rejected the covenant He had made with their forefathers and the warnings He had sent them. They worshiped pagan gods, imitating the practices of the nations around them. Soon they became like them even though the Lord had warned them, "Do not do as they do." ¹⁶They totally turned away from God's commandments and made two idols in the shape of young bulls from melted metal. They also made images of the mother goddess Asherah. They followed astrology and worshiped Baal. ¹⁷They even sacrificed their newborn sons and daughters to these gods, practiced witchcraft, consulted demons and did every wicked thing imaginable, greatly displeasing the Lord. ¹⁸So God removed His protection from Israel, but not from Judah at that time.

¹⁹Judah had also turned away from the Lord and didn't keep His commandments. They followed the example of their brothers in Israel, but not to the same extent. ²⁰The Lord turned away from Israel and gave them into the hands of their enemies who plundered their country.

²¹Years before, the Lord had separated Israel from Judah and made Jeroboam king. But Jeroboam had led the Israelites away from the Lord and into idolatry, which grew even worse as the years went by. ²²Israel persisted in their idolatry and wickedness and did not turn from the sins that Jeroboam introduced them to. ²³They continued in their evil ways in spite of the Lord's repeated warnings until He stepped in. They refused to listen, so their country was invaded and they were taken into exile by the Assyrians and scattered throughout the empire, never again to have a land of their own.

People From Assyria Settle in Israel

²⁴Then the king of Assyria brought people in from Babylon, Cuthah, Avva (or Ivvah), Hamath and Sepharvaim to settle in the cities of Israel, including the city of Samaria. ²⁵When they first moved in they didn't honor the God of Israel, so the Lord allowed lions and other wild animals among them and some of the people were killed. ²⁶They said to the king of Assyria, "The people you asked to settle in Israel didn't honor the God of Israel, so He sent lions and other wild animals among them and some of the people have been killed. They don't know how to honor the Lord of that country.”

²⁷Then the king ordered that one of the priests from the exiled Israelites be sent back home to teach the settlers how to honor the Lord. ²⁸So one of the priests from among the exiles went back and settled in Bethel and taught these new people what to do to honor the God of Israel.

²⁹However, each group of people who settled in Israel brought along their own gods and set them up in the shrines the Israelites had built. ³⁰The people from Babylon set up Soccoth Benoth; the people from Cuth set up Nergal; those from Hamath set up Ashima; ³¹the Avvites set up the gods Nibhaz and Tartak; and the Sepharvites set up Adrammelech and Anammelech and sacrificed their newborn to them. ³²When they were told about the God of Israel by the priest who lived in Bethel, they chose priests from among themselves to offer sacrifices to the Lord at the pagan places of worship. ³³This was the way they tried to honor the God of Israel while still honoring the gods they had brought with them. ³⁴They continued this practice and worshiped the God of Israel but did not keep His commandments, ordinances or laws that He had given to the descendants of Jacob.

³⁵When the Lord God had made His covenant with the children of Israel, He had said to them, “Do not worship other gods or bow down to them. Do not serve them or offer sacrifices to them. ³⁶The Lord brought you out of the land of Egypt with great power and an outstretched arm. He is the One you are to worship and offer your sacrifices to, and Him alone. ³⁷Be sure you keep my commandments, my ordinances and my laws that I have given you. Do not worship the gods of the land into which you’re going. ³⁸Don’t forget the covenant that I made with your forefathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and with you. Do not worship other gods. ³⁹Worship the Lord and Him alone. He is the One who will deliver you from your enemies and give you peace.” ⁴⁰But even after those who came to resettle Israel heard what the Lord had told His people, they still didn’t change their ways.

⁴¹So while they worshiped God, they also worshiped idols and continued in their wickedness, and their children and grandchildren continued to do the same thing.

Hezekiah’s Reign in Judah

18 In the third year of Hoshea, king of Israel, Hezekiah, the son of Ahaz, became joint ruler with his father as king of Judah. ²He was twenty-five years old when he began to reign alone and ruled the country for twenty-nine years. His mother’s name was Abi (or Abijah), the daughter of Zechariah. ³Hezekiah did what was right in the eyes of the Lord just as his ancestor David had done. ⁴He destroyed the pagan places of worship, crushed the sacred pillars and cut down the poles of the goddess Asherah. He also destroyed the bronze snake that Moses had made in the wilderness because the people had been burning incense to it and had named it Nehushtan, The Bronze God.

⁵Hezekiah put his trust in the God of Israel as no other king of Judah before or after him. In this way he was like his ancestor David. ⁶He held on to the Lord and did not turn aside from following Him. He kept the commandments given to Moses. ⁷The Lord blessed Hezekiah in everything he did. Then Hezekiah rebelled against the king of Assyria and refused to serve him. ⁸He defeated the Philistines from the smallest town to the largest fortified city, including the city of Gaza and its surrounding villages.

⁹In the fourth year of Hezekiah’s co-regency as king of Judah, and in the seventh year of Hoshea, king of Israel, Shalmanezar, king of Assyria, attacked Samaria. ¹⁰During the third year of the siege, Samaria fell to the Assyrians. This happened near the end of the sixth year of Hezekiah’s co-regency and the ninth and last year of Hoshea’s reign in Israel. ¹¹Shalmanezar deported the people of Israel to Assyria and settled them in Halah, in Gozan on the Habor River and in the cities and towns of the Medes. ¹²All this happened because they did not obey the Lord their God; they broke His covenant with them and ignored all that Moses had told the Israelites to do. They refused to listen or obey.

¹³In the fourteenth year of Hezekiah's full reign, Sennacherib, the new king of Assyria, attacked the fortified cities of Judah and took many of them. ¹⁴Then Hezekiah sent a message to the king of Assyria who had just taken Lachish, about thirty miles southwest of Jerusalem. Hezekiah said, "I have done wrong by rebelling against you. I'll pay whatever tribute you demand." Sennacherib demanded all the silver and gold that Hezekiah had, and Hezekiah gave it to him—ten tons of silver and one ton of gold. ¹⁵He gave him all the silver and gold found in the Temple and in the royal treasury as he had promised. ¹⁶He even stripped the gold off the doors and doorposts of the Temple, which had been put there to honor the Lord, and gave that gold to the king of Assyria.

King Sennacherib of Assyria Invades Judah

¹⁷But Sennacherib refused to withdraw from the country. Instead he sent two high-ranking officials and his top military commander with a large force to attack Hezekiah and take Jerusalem. They came up from Lachish and occupied the road by Washerman's Field near the Upper Pool. ¹⁸The field commander and two officials went to the gate of Jerusalem and called for Hezekiah. Then Eliakim, son of Hilkiyah and palace administrator, Shebna the royal secretary, and Joah son of Asaph and in charge of the royal archives, went out to meet them.

¹⁹Rabshakeh, the Assyrian official who could speak Hebrew, was spokesman for the group. He said to them, "Tell your king that this is what Sennacherib, the great king of Assyria, says: 'On what are you basing this great confidence of yours? ²⁰Is it based on your power and military skill? Do you think you can rebel against the military might of Assyria? Who can save you? ²¹Are you going to depend on Egypt? The king of Egypt is like a walking stick that you lean on and it breaks. You can't depend on him to hold you up. ²²Are you going to depend on your God? You have destroyed all the high places and altars where your people used to worship Him and have made them worship only at the altar in Jerusalem. Do you think your God is pleased with this? ²³Come, let's make a deal. We'll give you two thousand horses if you can put two thousand men on them. But you can't. ²⁴You're no match for even the lowest-ranking Assyrian officer and his men, much less against the whole army of Assyria, even if you could get Egypt to help you with chariots and horsemen. ²⁵Besides, do you think I have taken all your fortified cities on my own? No, the Lord your God, through His own prophet, said that Assyria should come and punish both Israel and Judah. And He has helped me do it.'"

²⁶When the Assyrian official finished, Eliakim, Shebna and Joah said to Rabshakeh, "Please talk to us in Aramaic; we can understand it. Don't talk to us in Hebrew because the people sitting on the wall are listening to us." ²⁷Then Rabshakeh said, "It wasn't only to you and your king that Sennacherib was speaking. He also sent me to speak to your people, including those sitting on the wall. If we besiege your city, you are all doomed to eat your own filth and drink your own urine."

²⁸Then he shouted in Hebrew loud enough to be sure that the people could hear him, "Listen to what Sennacherib, the great king of Assyria, is telling you. ²⁹He says, 'Don't let Hezekiah lead you into thinking that he can save you. It will never happen. ³⁰Don't let him tell you to trust the Lord to deliver you out of the hands of the Assyrian army. That isn't possible. ³¹Don't listen to Hezekiah. Listen to what the king of Assyria has to say. Come out of the city and peacefully surrender to me. Then I will allow you to eat from your own grapevine and fig tree and drink water from your own well ³²until I come back to resettle you in a land much like your own. It has a lot of vineyards and produces rich harvests of grain. It's a land of olives and honey. So why should you die? Don't let Hezekiah fool you into thinking that the Lord will deliver you. ³³Have the gods of any other nation delivered their people out of the hands of the king of Assyria, including the God of the Northern Kingdom of Israel?

³⁴Where were the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where were the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena and Ivvah? Did the God of Israel save Samaria and her people? ³⁵Can you point to any god who has saved his people from the great king of Assyria? Then what makes you think that the Lord your God will deliver Jerusalem?"

³⁶But the people sat on the wall and said nothing, because Hezekiah had told them not to answer the Assyrians, no matter what they said. ³⁷Then Eliakim, Shebna and Joah went back into the city to see Hezekiah. They tore their robes in anguish and told him everything the Assyrians had said.

Isaiah's Counsel

19 When Hezekiah heard what the Assyrians had said, he tore his robe in distress and put on sackcloth. Then he went to the Temple to pray. ²He also asked Eliakim, Shebna, Joah and the chief priests to wear sackcloth and go to the prophet Isaiah, the son of Amoz, to see if there was any word from the Lord.

³They said to Isaiah, "Hezekiah wants us to tell you that today is a day of disgrace and embarrassment for Israel. We are like a woman who comes to the point of delivery and can't give birth to her baby because she's too weak. ⁴The king of Assyria sent two of his officials and his top commander with a large army to take Jerusalem and defeat the God of Israel. May the Lord hear their insults and punish them for their arrogance. So pray for the remnant of our people who are left."

⁵When Isaiah heard what the messengers of Hezekiah had to say, ⁶he said to them, "Tell Hezekiah that this is what the Lord says: 'Don't be afraid of the king of Assyria and don't let the insults of his officials disturb you. I heard what they said about me.

⁷I will cause Sennacherib to hear a rumor about trouble back home that will make his spirit tremble. He will return to his own country and after he gets there, I will cause him to fall by the sword.'"

Hezekiah's Prayer

⁸Meanwhile, Rabshakeh and the two officials heard that Sennacherib had taken Lachish and was on the move. So they left Jerusalem to find out if what they had heard was true. It was. Sennacherib had taken his troops to Libnah, about twenty miles southwest of Jerusalem. ⁹He had heard that an Egyptian army under King Tirhakah from Ethiopia was coming to attack him. So he had marched his men over to Libnah to keep the Egyptians from helping Hezekiah. When the officials he had sent to Jerusalem came to him at Libnah and told him that the people refused to surrender, he sent them back with a letter to Hezekiah which said: ¹⁰"Don't let your God fool you. Don't depend on what your God says when He tells you that you won't fall into my hands. ¹¹Haven't you heard what the kings of Assyria have done to other countries? Do you think you can do any better? ¹²Did the gods of Gozan, Haran and Rezeph deliver their people? What happened to the inhabitants of Betheden in Telassar? All of them were killed! ¹³And what happened to the kings of the cities of Hamath, Arpad, Sepharvaim, Hena and Ivvah?"

¹⁴When Hezekiah got the letter from the king of Assyria, he read it, then went into the Temple and spread it before the Lord. ¹⁵Then he prayed, "O Lord God of Israel, enthroned between the cherubim, you are the only true God, the One who is over all the kingdoms of this world. You created the heavens and the earth. ¹⁶Open your ears and listen to how this man Sennacherib is insulting you. Open your eyes and see the terrible predicament your people are in. ¹⁷It's true that the kings of Assyria have conquered all these countries and destroyed their cities. ¹⁸They took the gods of these nations and destroyed them and threw them in the fire because they were gods of wood and stone carved by man's own hand. ¹⁹But you are the living God. You are our God, the Lord God of Israel. Deliver us from the hands of the Assyrians so everyone will know you, and only you, are the one true God."

The Word of the Lord Against Sennacherib

²⁰Then the Lord sent a message to Hezekiah through the prophet Isaiah, saying, "I have heard your prayer concerning Sennacherib king of Assyria. ²¹This is my answer to him: 'The virgin daughter of Zion mocks you. The daughter of Jerusalem tosses her head in scorn. ²²Do you realize whom you have insulted? Do you know against whom you have raised your voice and lifted up your eyes with pride? Against me, the God of Israel! ²³Your messengers have blasphemed me. You said that with your chariots you have conquered my cities on the highest mountains in Lebanon. You said that you cut down the biggest cedars, the finest cypress, the choicest pines and that you have penetrated the deepest forests. ²⁴You said that you dug wells in countless foreign countries and drank from the waters of many lands. You said that since the mountains and deserts couldn't stop you, neither would the rivers of Egypt.

²⁵'Haven't you heard that I control the destiny of nations? Don't you know that I planned what would happen before you were born? I was the One who helped you conquer fortified cities and turn them into piles of stone. ²⁶The people who lived in those cities were powerless to stand against you. They were afraid of you and confused. They were like tender plants in the field, like gardens on rooftops scorched by the sun before they mature. They fell at your onslaught.

²⁷'But I know all about you. I know where you live, and I know your comings and goings. I know how furious you are against me. ²⁸Because of your arrogance and anger, I will put a hook in your nose and a bit in your mouth. I will make you return home the same way you came.'

²⁹'As for you, Hezekiah, this will be a sign to you: This year your people will find enough to eat from what grows wild in the field and the next year from what springs from that. Then in the third year they will plant their own grain and harvest it. They will plant vineyards and eat their fruit. ³⁰The remnant of Judah will flourish like plants that put their roots deep into the soil and produce rich harvests. ³¹Jerusalem will survive the siege because of God's strong love for His people. A remnant will come out of Jerusalem and a band of survivors out of Mount Zion. The power of God almighty will accomplish this.

³²"The Lord says about Assyria: 'The king of Assyria will neither enter Jerusalem nor shoot even one arrow against it. His troops will not lift their shields against the daughter of Zion, neither will they build a siege ramp against her walls. ³³He will return home the way he came and will not touch this city. ³⁴I will defend Jerusalem and save it for my name's sake and the sake of my servant David.'

An Angel Defeats Sennacherib's Army

³⁵That same night the Lord sent an angel into the Assyrian camp who killed one hundred and eighty-five thousand men. When the people of Judah got up the next morning and looked out over the wall, the Assyrians were all dead.

³⁶When Sennacherib heard what had happened to the army at Jerusalem, he withdrew from guarding the approach to Egypt and returned with his men to Nineveh by the same route he had come. ³⁷One day back home while he was worshipping in the temple of his god Nisroch, his sons Adrammelech and Sharezer came in and killed him with their swords. Then they escaped to the land of Ararat, and Esarhaddon, another of Sennacherib's sons, became the next king.

Hezekiah Healed

20When Sennacherib, king of Assyria, first invaded Judah, Hezekiah was very ill and almost died. The prophet Isaiah went to see him and said, "The Lord says you should put your house in order because you won't recover from this illness. You will soon die."

²When Hezekiah heard that, he turned his face to the wall and prayed to the Lord, ³"O Lord, you know how I've tried to obey you and how I love you with all my heart. I've tried to do what's right and good in your eyes." Then the king began to cry bitterly. ⁴After Isaiah had given the Lord's message to the king, he left. But before he crossed the courtyard, the Lord said to him, ⁵"Go back to Hezekiah and say to him, 'This is what the Lord, the God of your ancestor David says: I have heard your prayer and seen your tears. I will heal you. The day after tomorrow you'll be up, strong enough to go to the Temple to worship me. ⁶I will add fifteen years to your life and will deliver Jerusalem from the hand of the Assyrians. I will defend this city for the sake of my name and for the sake of my servant David.'" ⁷So Isaiah turned around and told Hezekiah what the Lord had said. He also told the king's servants to make a poultice of figs and put it on the infection and their master would get well. They did what Isaiah said and the king began to recover.

⁸Then Hezekiah said to Isaiah, "What sign can you give me so I can know that the Lord will completely heal me and that the day after tomorrow I'll be strong enough to go to the Temple to worship Him?" ⁹Isaiah said to him, "The Lord will give you a sign that He will heal you and it will be a sign that can only come from Him. Would you like Him to move the shadow on the palace stairway forward ten steps or back ten steps?" ¹⁰Hezekiah said, "It's easier for the sun to go down and for the shadow to increase. So if the sign is from the Lord, then let the sun come back and the shadow on the stairway shorten by ten steps." ¹¹Then Isaiah prayed to the Lord and the Lord shortened the shadow on the stairway by ten steps.

The Babylonians Visit Hezekiah

¹²While all this was happening, Merodach-Baladan, the deposed king of Babylon, was looking for allies to fight against the Assyrians who had taken over his country. He learned from his astronomers about the change on the sundial and the reason for it, so he sent envoys to Hezekiah with a present congratulating him on his recovery and asking about the God who could perform such miracles. ¹³Hezekiah welcomed the envoys, but instead of telling them what great things the Lord had done for him, he showed off the riches of Jerusalem, including all the silver, gold, rare spices and oil stored in the royal treasury, as well as everything in his armory. There was nothing that Hezekiah didn't show them. ¹⁴After they left, Isaiah came to see Hezekiah and said, "What did these visitors see while they were here? And where did they come from?" The king said, "They came from some distance and risked their lives to get here. They were envoys from the deposed king of Babylon." ¹⁵Isaiah said, "But what did they see?" Hezekiah answered, "I showed them everything. There's nothing in my palace, in the royal treasury and in the armory that I didn't show them. I wanted Jerusalem to look good in their eyes."

¹⁶Isaiah said, "Now hear the word of the Lord: ¹⁷The time will come when the Babylonians will rise up against the Assyrians and become a world power. Then they will come against Jerusalem and take all the treasures you and your fathers have so carefully stored up. They will take everything you have shown them to Babylon. Nothing will be left. ¹⁸Even some of your own sons will be taken captive and castrated and will serve as eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon." ¹⁹Hezekiah realized that what he had done was wrong and repented of his sin. When he learned that the Lord's message also meant that there would be peace and security at least during his lifetime, he said, "The Lord is kind and full of mercy."

The Death of Hezekiah

²⁰Everything that Hezekiah did, his great deeds and how he built the tunnel that brought water from the Gihon spring into the city to form the Pool of Siloam is recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ²¹Hezekiah died and was buried beside his fathers, and his son Manasseh became the next king.

Manasseh's Reign in Judah

21 Manasseh was conceived after Hezekiah was healed. His father appointed him as co-regent and successor, so when he was twelve years old, he began to rule and reigned for a total of fifty-five years. His mother was Hephzibah, a woman whom the Lord delighted in. ²He did that which was evil in the sight of the Lord and followed the example of the original inhabitants of the land whom the Lord had driven out. ³He rebuilt the pagan places of worship that his father Hezekiah had destroyed. He built altars to Baal and erected wooden poles to the fertility goddess Asherah just like Ahab, the wicked king of Israel had done. He even bowed down and worshiped the sun, moon and stars and served them. ⁴He built altars in the Temple though the Lord had told the children of Israel never to do so because He alone was to be worshiped there. ⁵He built altars to the sun, moon and stars in both courts of the Temple.

⁶He sacrificed his infant son as a burnt offering. He practiced witchcraft and sorcery, and brought back mediums through whom he consulted the spirits, though the Lord had forbidden this under penalty of death. Manasseh did much evil to provoke the Lord to anger. ⁷He took one of the carved poles made for Asherah, the mother goddess of fertility, and set it up in the Temple, though the Lord had said to David and Solomon, "I will put my name on this Temple and on Jerusalem, for I have chosen this city to be mine out of all the cities in Israel. ⁸I will not drive out my own people from the land that I promised to give them as long as they obey me and keep my commandments and do what Moses told them to do." ⁹But Manasseh didn't listen and led the children of Israel into greater and greater sins until they were even worse than the heathen nations of the land whom the Lord had driven out.

¹⁰Then the Lord said to Isaiah and the other prophets, ¹¹"Manasseh, king of Judah, has greatly sinned. He has done more detestable sins than the Amorites ever did and has led the people into doing the same. ¹²Therefore, this is what the Lord God of Israel says: 'I will bring such destruction on Jerusalem and Judah that everyone who hears about it will sit up and take notice. ¹³I will use the same measuring line for Jerusalem that I used for Samaria, the same plumb line that I used on the house of Ahab. I will pick up Jerusalem and wipe it dry as one wipes a dish, wiping it and then turning it upside down and wiping it on the other side. ¹⁴I will depart from the remnant of my people and turn them over to their enemies. They will be attacked, and their enemies will plunder their land. ¹⁵My people have done evil ever since their fathers first came out of Egypt and worshiped a golden calf and have done so to this very day.’”

¹⁶Manasseh killed many innocent people, including the prophets who delivered the Lord’s messages to him, even the prophet Isaiah whom he had sawed in half. He also persecuted those who listened to the prophets until the streets of Jerusalem were covered with blood from one end of the city to the other. In addition, he led Judah into great evil.

¹⁷Everything that Manasseh did, including his wickedness, is recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ¹⁸Manasseh died and slept with his ancestors. He was buried in the palace garden, which originally belonged to a man called Uzza. Then Amon, named after the Egyptian sun-god Amen, ruled in his father’s stead.

Amon’s Reign in Judah

¹⁹Amon was twenty-two years old when he began to reign, and he ruled Judah for only two years. His mother was Meshullemeth, the daughter of Haruz, from the city of Jotbah. ²⁰He followed in his father’s footsteps and did evil in the eyes of the Lord. ²¹He worshiped the idols his father had made and bowed down to the sun, moon and stars. ²²He turned away from the God of his ancestors and neither kept the Lord’s commandments nor walked in His ways. ²³His officials plotted against him and assassinated him in his own palace. ²⁴Then the people killed all those who had assassinated him and made his son Josiah king. ²⁵Everything that Amon did is recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ²⁶They buried him in his tomb in the garden of Uzza and Josiah ruled in his father’s place.

Josiah’s Reign in Judah

22 Josiah was eight years old when he began to reign and he ruled Judah from Jerusalem for thirty-one years. His mother was Jedidah, the daughter of Adaiah, from the city of Bozkath. ²He did what was right in the eyes of the Lord following David’s example, not turning to the right or to the left.

The High Priest Finds the Book of the Law

³In the eighteenth year of his reign while Josiah was having the Temple repaired, he sent Shaphan, the royal secretary, with a message to the high priest. ⁴Josiah said to Shaphan, “Go to see Hilkiah and get a report on how much money the priests have collected from the people entering the Temple. ⁵Then tell him to take the money and give it to the men in charge of restoring the Temple so they can pay the workers. ⁶The carpenters, masons and other workers should be paid, and the supervisors need money to buy the necessary timber and stone. ⁷They are good, honest men and don’t need to keep a special account for me of every last penny they spend.”

⁸That same day Hilkiah, the high priest, told Shaphan, the royal secretary, that he had found a copy of the book of the law written by Moses buried in the debris of the Temple. He gave it to Shaphan to read for himself. ⁹Shaphan read parts of it and got so excited, he decided to take it to the king. Hilkiah said, “Wait. Tell the king that his servant has emptied the chests of money the priests collected and has given it to the workers and supervisors at the Temple for wages and materials as he requested.” ¹⁰Then Shaphan went and showed the king the book of the law that Hilkiah the priest had found in the Temple. Josiah asked him to read some of it to him.

¹¹When the king heard about the blessings and curses that were written in the book and the consequences that follow disobedience, he tore his royal robe in anguish and said to Shaphan, ¹²“This is terrible. Go and get Hilkiah the high priest, Achbor, the son of Micaiah, Asaiah my personal attendant and your son Ahikam. ¹³Then go to the prophetess and find out from the Lord what all this means. The people of Judah have a right to know what is written because they haven't heard the law read to them since the days of my great-grandfather Hezekiah, and that's been almost a hundred years ago. If I understand it right, the Lord is greatly displeased with us as a people because of what our fathers did, and they have passed their lifestyle of disobedience on to us."

¹⁴So Shaphan, Hilkiah, Achbor, Asaiah and Ahikam went to see Huldah the prophetess who lived and taught in the new northern section of Jerusalem called The Second Quarter. She was the wife of Shallum who was in charge of the vestments of the priests as well as the royal wardrobe. ¹⁵She welcomed them, and they told her what had happened.

She then said to them, "The Lord God of Israel says, 'Go back and give the king this message: ¹⁶Your understanding of what is written is correct. I will destroy Jerusalem and bring disaster on this place and on the people just as it says in the book of the law that you have read. ¹⁷The people have turned away from me and have made gods for themselves. They have offered sacrifices to these idols and worshiped them. They have sinned greatly by such wickedness. Something must be done to stop this, and I will see that it is done.'"

¹⁸Then Huldah added, "Also give the king this message from the Lord: 'Concerning the words you read, ¹⁹because you took them to heart and humbled yourself and showed your grief over what would happen to Jerusalem and to the people and prayed and wept in my presence, ²⁰I will not destroy Jerusalem or bring disaster on my people during your lifetime. You will live in peace and be buried beside your fathers right here in Jerusalem.'" Then the men left and took her messages to the king.

Josiah Restores True Worship

23 Then Josiah called all the leaders of Jerusalem and Judah and Benjamin together. ²They went to the Temple of the Lord. The priests, the prophets and the people of Jerusalem, rich and poor alike, all went with him. Then the king read to them from the book of the law written by Moses which Hilkiah the high priest had found. ³Josiah stood on a platform by the royal pillar in front of all the people. He renewed the covenant of the Lord promising to keep His commandments, His laws and statutes with all his heart, soul and mind. The people followed his example and also pledged themselves to keep the Lord's covenant and to put into practice what was written in the book.

⁴Then the king ordered Hilkiah the high priest, his assistants and the Temple guards to clear the house of the Lord of all objects that had been made for worshipping Baal, Asherah and the sun, moon and stars. He had them take these objects outside the city to the Kidron Valley, burn them and carry the ashes out of the land of Judah all the way to Bethel and scatter them there. ⁵He removed from office the pagan priests who had been appointed by the former kings of Judah to burn incense on various hills throughout the land and around Jerusalem, and those who had been appointed to offer sacrifices to Baal and to the sun, moon and stars and to constellations in the heavens. ⁶He took the pole of the fertility goddess Asherah out of the Temple, down to the Kidron Valley outside of Jerusalem and burned it, then pounded the ashes into dust and scattered them over the graves of those who had sacrificed to her.

⁷He also tore down the apartments of the male prostitutes who practiced the Canaanite fertility rites in the Temple of God and the apartment complex where women did weaving for Asherah, the mother goddess of fertility. ⁸He recalled all priests from the high places, from Geba to Beersheba, where they had been burning incense. He destroyed pagan shrines where these priests had been serving. He also tore down the altars to the left of the Gate of Joshua going to the governor's house. ⁹Even though these priests were not allowed to serve at the Lord's altar in Jerusalem, they were given a share in the Temple offerings and ate unleavened bread with the rest of the priests.

¹⁰Josiah tore down the pagan altar in Topheth in the Hinnom Valley near Jerusalem where people had offered their infant sons and daughters to the god Molech. ¹¹He burned the chariots that the kings of Judah had dedicated to the sun-god and got rid of the horses which drew them that were housed in the Temple courtyard not far from the apartment of Nathan Melech, a city official. ¹²King Josiah tore down altars which the kings of Judah had built on the roof of the palace above the private apartment of King Ahaz. He also broke down the altars that King Manasseh had built in the two courts of the Temple. He smashed these altars to pieces and scattered the rubble throughout the Kidron Valley. ¹³He tore down the altars built on the high places east of Jerusalem on the southern slope of the Mount of Olives (also called the Mount of Corruption). This was where Solomon had built altars for Ashtoreth the nude sex goddess of the Sidonians, for Chemosh the hated god of the Moabites, and for Molech (Milcom), the cruel god of the Ammonites. ¹⁴He crushed the stone pillars and cut down all the wooden poles set up for the goddess Asherah. He had human skulls and bones brought in and scattered all over the ground where the people came to worship her.

¹⁵Josiah also tore down the altar at Bethel that Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, had set up. He ground the stones into dust because this was the altar where people had been led into sin. He set the place on fire, including the poles set up for Asherah. ¹⁶When Josiah first got there he noticed some graves on the hillside. He ordered them dug up, had the bones removed and burned them on the altar before he destroyed it. This was exactly what one of the prophets had told Jeroboam would happen. ¹⁷Then the king said, "Whose tombstone is that over there?" The men of the city said, "It marks the burial place of the prophet from Judah who predicted all these things." ¹⁸Josiah said, "Leave his grave alone. Don't disturb his bones or the other prophet from Samaria who invited the prophet from Judah home to eat." ¹⁹Josiah even went up to Samaria and destroyed all the pagan temples that the kings of Israel had built there just as he had done in Bethel. ²⁰He killed the pagan priests serving at those temples and burned their bones on those altars, then returned to Jerusalem.

²¹Josiah then issued a proclamation for the people to get ready to keep the Passover as written in the book of the law given to them by Moses. ²²Not since the days of the first judges nor during the days of the kings of Israel and Judah was the Passover kept the way it was kept by the people of Jerusalem under Josiah. ²³All this took place in the eighteenth year of Josiah.

²⁴He also got rid of all mediums and those who practiced witchcraft and destroyed all the idols in the land of Judah, even those in people's homes. He carried out what was written in the book of the law which Hilkiah, the high priest, had found when they were repairing the Temple. ²⁵There was no king before Josiah or after him who obeyed the Lord so fully with all his heart and soul and mind and strength. He vigorously saw to it that all the laws of Moses were properly carried out.

Judgment on Judah

²⁶But all this did not change the Lord's mind about Jerusalem and Judah because of the terrible things Josiah's grandfather Manasseh had done when he led the people into sacrificing their infants to Molech. ²⁷The Lord had said, "I will do to Judah and Jerusalem what I did to Israel. I will let the people be deported by their enemies and will turn away from Jerusalem and from the Temple which I said was mine and which was built to honor me.”

Josiah Dies in Battle

²⁸All of Josiah’s works of reformation are recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ²⁹Some years later Josiah decided to help Nabopolassar, king of Babylon, the father of Nebuchadnezzar, who had come to power and was ruling much of the Assyrian Empire. The king of Assyria was holding out against the king of Babylon and had asked Necho, king of Egypt, to come up to Carchemish by the Euphrates River to help him. Josiah marched out to stop Necho, and their armies met at Megiddo. Josiah was defeated. He was also severely wounded, and they took him back to Jerusalem where he died. ³⁰They buried him beside his fathers in the royal tombs of the kings of Judah. Then the people made Jehoahaz, son of Josiah, king in place of his father.

³¹Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old when he became king. He ruled Judah for only three months. His mother’s name was Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah, a man from the city of Libnah. ³²Jehoahaz did evil in the sight of the Lord as his wicked ancestors had done. ³³On the way back from his defeat at Carchemish by the Babylonians, the king of Egypt asked Jehoahaz to meet him at Riblah in the land of Hamath. When Jehoahaz got there, Necho took him prisoner. Then he demanded from the people seven thousand and five hundred pounds of silver and seventy-five pounds of gold. ³⁴Then he made Jehoahaz’s brother, Eliakim, king of Judah in his father’s place and changed his name to Jehoiakim. He took Jehoahaz in chains to Egypt, and he died there.

Jehoiakim’s Reign in Judah

³⁵Jehoiakim agreed to pay Necho the silver and gold he demanded, and he taxed the people to get it. Everyone had to pay according to his income and property value. ³⁶Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he ruled for eleven years. His mother’s name was Zebidah, the daughter of Pedaiiah, from the city of Rumah. ³⁷He disobeyed the Lord just as his ancestors had done.

Nebuchadnezzar Invades Judah

24 Jehoiakim submitted to Babylon’s control of Judah for three years, then he rebelled. So Nebuchadnezzar, crown prince of Babylon, invaded the land. He attacked Jerusalem and forced Jehoiakim to submit to him, then headed toward Egypt. When Nebuchadnezzar received word that his father had died, he hurried back across the desert to become the next king. He told his troops to bring the treasures and captives with them, which included Daniel and his three friends. ²The Lord had allowed not only the Babylonians to invade the land of Judah, but also the Arameans, the Moabites and the Ammonite tribesmen. This was what He had told the people of Judah would happen.

³The Lord permitted these things to come on Judah because of the terrible sins of Manasseh which had brought on the nation’s downfall. ⁴He had killed many innocent people including prophets of the Lord, such as Isaiah. The streets of Jerusalem were often covered with innocent blood and the Lord could not overlook such unrestrained violence and evil. ⁵Everything else that Jehoiakim did is recorded in The Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ⁶Jehoiakim died, and his son Jehoiachin took his place. ⁷The king of Egypt who was defeated by Nabopolassar at Carchemish never again challenged the Babylonians nor did he try to defend the territory in Judah which he claimed as his own and which Nebuchadnezzar had taken. So the Babylonians controlled all the territory from the River Euphrates in the north to the borders of Egypt in the south.

Jehoiachin Taken Captive

⁸Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he became king, and he ruled for only three months. His mother's name was Nehushta, the daughter of Elnathan from Jerusalem. ⁹He did that which was evil in the sight of the Lord as his father had done.

¹⁰When Nebuchadnezzar heard that Judah had rebelled against him, he again invaded the land and besieged Jerusalem. ¹¹This time he took personal command of the situation and joined his generals in the attack. ¹²Then Jehoiachin, together with the queen mother, his attendants, his officers and the leaders of Judah surrendered to him. It was in the eighth year of Nebuchadnezzar's reign that he captured Jehoiachin and took him in chains to Babylon as a war trophy.

¹³This time Nebuchadnezzar took all the remaining gold articles that Solomon had made for the Temple and all the treasures from the palace. ¹⁴He also took with him to Babylon all the royal princes, the army officers and their men and all the craftsmen and metal workers he could find. Altogether he took ten thousand people with him back to Babylon. Only the poorest people were left in Jerusalem. ¹⁵He even took Jehoiachin's mother, his wives, his advisers and the leading men of Judah, including the prophet Ezekiel. ¹⁶The king of Babylon took with him the entire force of Judah's seven thousand soldiers, all of whom were trained for war, and one thousand craftsmen and metal workers. The other two thousand were civil and religious leaders.

Zedekiah's Reign in Judah

¹⁷Then he made Mattaniah, Jehoiachin's uncle, the new king of Judah and changed his name to Zedekiah. ¹⁸Zedekiah, the brother of Jehoahaz and Jehoiakim, was twenty-one years old when he began to reign and he ruled the country for eleven years. Their mother was Hamutal, wife of Josiah and daughter of Jeremiah, a man from Libnah. ¹⁹He did evil in the eyes of the Lord as his brothers, Jehoahaz and Jehoiakim, had done. ²⁰All this happened to Jerusalem and Judah because the people had forsaken the Lord. So they were banished from the land and from the presence of the Lord in His Temple. Zedekiah didn't learn from all of this but rebelled against the Lord and against the king of Babylon.

The Fall of Jerusalem

25 In the ninth year of Zedekiah on the tenth day in the tenth month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon marched against Jerusalem a third time. He surrounded the city and built siege works all around it. Then he sent parts of his army against other cities in Judah. ²The siege continued for more than two years into the eleventh year of Zedekiah. ³During the final year there was no food in the city and people suffered greatly from hunger. Mothers even ate their own babies.

⁴On the ninth day of the fourth month that year, Nebuchadnezzar's men succeeded in making a breach in the wall. Then Zedekiah decided to escape with some of his men by way of the royal gardens through the small gate connecting the old and new walls. They ran in the direction of the Jordan Valley, ⁵but the Babylonians went after them and overtook them in the plains of Jericho. All Zedekiah's men scattered and left him alone. ⁶So the Babylonians captured him and took him north to Riblah where Nebuchadnezzar was preparing for his attack on the city of Tyre to let him decide what to do with Zedekiah. ⁷The king of Babylon ordered that Zedekiah's sons be executed in front of him. Then they put out Zedekiah's eyes and took him to Babylon in bronze chains.

⁸On the seventh day of the fifth month, in the nineteenth year of his reign, Nebuchadnezzar sent Nebuzaradan, the commander of his bodyguard and personal aide, from Riblah back to Jerusalem to carry out his other orders. ⁹Nebuzaradan set fire to the Temple, the royal palace and other important buildings. He also set fire to all the houses in Jerusalem. ¹⁰He then ordered the army to tear down the walls of the city. ¹¹He took with him those who remained in Jerusalem and those living near the city, as well as those who had surrendered to the Babylonians during the siege. ¹²He left only the very poorest of the people to work the vineyards and fields.

¹³He ordered his men to break up the two bronze pillars by the Sanctuary and take them, plus the little bronze carts and basins, as well as the huge bronze basin. ¹⁴He took everything that was bronze with him to Babylon, the shovels, pots, wick trimmers and bowls used to catch the blood of the sacrifices, as well as those used for incense. ¹⁵He also took everything that was made of gold or silver, including the censers and sprinkling bowls, which had not been taken before. ¹⁶There was so much bronze that it could not be weighed. This included the two bronze pillars which Solomon had made for the Temple, the little carts and basins, as well as the huge basin. ¹⁷Each pillar was thirty-three feet high with a four-and-a-half foot crown which had one hundred pomegranates on it, ninety-six of which could easily be counted.

¹⁸Nebuzaradan also took with him Seraiah the high priest, Zephaniah the next priest in rank, and the three most important Temple officials. ¹⁹From the city he took the officer in charge of the few soldiers that were left, his assistant in charge of the army's records, five of Zedekiah's personal advisers and sixty other important people. ²⁰Nebuzaradan took all of them to Riblah where Nebuchadnezzar and his men were camped. ²¹The king had them all executed and buried at Riblah. Then the people of Judah were led away from their homeland into captivity.

Gedaliah Made Governor of Judah

²²A few people were left in Judah, so

Nebuchadnezzar appointed Gedaliah, the son of Ahikam and grandson of Shaphan, as governor. ²³Some of the army officers and their men escaped from Jerusalem and scattered throughout the country just before Nebuchadnezzar took the city. When they heard that he had appointed Gedaliah governor, they came out of hiding and met Gedaliah at his capital in Mizpah. The four officers who came with their men were: Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, Johanan the son of Kareah, Seraiah the son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah, a Maacathite (also called Jezaniah). ²⁴Gedaliah took an oath to assure them that if they would quietly settle in the land and serve the king of Babylon they would have nothing to fear from the Babylonians.

²⁵In the seventh month of that same year, however, Ishmael, the son of Nethaniah, the grandson of Elishama, who was of royal descent, took ten men and assassinated Gedaliah. He also put to death the men of Judah who had supported him and the Babylonian guards stationed at Mizpah. ²⁶Then all the people of Judah who lived nearby, rich and poor, together with the other three officers and their men, escaped to Egypt. They were afraid to stay in Judah because of the Babylonians.

Jehoiachin Released From Prison

²⁷In the thirty-seventh year of the imprisonment of King Jehoiachin in Babylon, Nebuchadnezzar died and his son Evil-Merodach (or Amel Marduk) took over. On the twenty-seventh day of the twelfth month, he released Jehoiachin from prison. ²⁸Jehoiachin was now an old man. Amel Marduk spoke kindly to him and gave him a seat of honor among other captive kings in Babylon. ²⁹So Jehoiachin took off his prison clothes, and for the rest of his life, he ate regularly at the king's table. ³⁰The king also gave Jehoiachin a daily expense allowance as long as he lived.

1 CHRONICLES

From Adam to Abraham

1 These are the genealogical tables of the people of God from Adam to Abraham and on to his great-grandson Judah. Adam was the father of Seth, who was the father of Enosh. ²Then came Kenan, Mahalalel, Jared, ³Enoch, Methuselah, Lamech and Noah. ⁴The sons of Noah were Shem, Ham and Japheth.

⁵The sons of Japheth: Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Meshech and Tiras. ⁶The sons of Gomer: Ashkenaz, Riphath and Togarmah. ⁷The sons of Javan: Elishah, Tarshish, Kittim and Dodanim (or Rodanim).

¹¹Mizraim was the father of the Ludites, Anamites, Lehabites, Naphtuhites, ¹²Pathrusites and Casluhites who were forerunners of the Philistines and the Caphtorites.

¹³Canaan was the father of the Sidonians through Sidon his firstborn, and of the Hittites, ¹⁴Jebusites, Amorites, Girgashites, ¹⁵Hivites, Arkites, Sinites, ¹⁶Arvadites, Zemarites and Hamathites.

¹⁷The sons of Shem were Elam, Asshur, Arpachshad (or Arphaxad), Lud, Aram, Uz, Hul, Gether and Meshech. ¹⁸Arpachshad was the father of Cainan, who was the father of Shelah, the father of Eber. ¹⁹Eber had two sons: Peleg (meaning Divided, because it was in his day that people separated themselves into different language groups) and Joktan. ²⁰Joktan was the father of Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah, ²¹Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah, ²²Obal, Abimael, Sheba, ²³Ophir, Havilah and Jobab. All these were the sons of Joktan.

²⁴A shortened line from Shem, the son of Noah, down to Abraham is as follows: Shem, Arpachshad, Cainan, Shelah, ²⁵Eber, Peleg, Reu, ²⁶Serug, Nahor, Terah ²⁷and Abram (later renamed Abraham).

²⁸Abraham married Sarah and he had two sons: Ishmael by Hagar as a surrogate mother, and Isaac by Sarah herself.

The Family of Ishmael

²⁹The sons of Ishmael were Nebaioth his firstborn, Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam, ³⁰Mishma, Dumah, Massa, Hadad, Tema, ³¹Jetur, Naphish and Kedemah. All these were sons of Ishmael.

The Family of Keturah

³²After Abraham's wife Sarah died, he married Keturah and his sons through her were Zimran, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak and Shuah. The sons of Jokshan were Sheba and Dedan. ³³The sons of Midian were Ephah, Epher, Hanoch, Abida and Eldaah. All these were Abraham's descendants through Keturah.

The Family of Isaac

³⁴Isaac was Abraham's son through Sarah. Isaac had two sons, Esau and Jacob. ³⁵The sons of Esau were Eliphaz, Reuel, Jeush, Jalam and Korah. ³⁶The sons of Eliphaz: Teman, Omar, Zepho (or Zephi), Gatam, Kenaz, Timna and Amalek. ³⁷The sons of Reuel: Nahath, Zerah, Shammah and Mizzah.

The Inhabitants of Edom

³⁸The sons of Seir were Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, Dishon, Ezer and Dishan. These were the original inhabitants of Edom known as Horites or Hurrians. ³⁹The sons of Lotan: Hori and Homam. Lotan's sister was Timna. ⁴⁰The sons of Shobal: Alvan (or Alian), Manahath, Ebal, Shepho and Onam. The sons of Zibeon: Aiah and Anah. ⁴¹The son of Anah was Dishon. The sons of Dishon were Hemdan (or Hamran), Eshban, Ithran and Cheran. ⁴²The sons of Ezer: Bilhan, Zaavan and Jaakan (or Akan). The sons of Dishan were Uz and Aran.

The Kings of Edom

⁴³These were the kings who ruled in Edom before there were any kings in Israel. The first was Bela, the son of Beor, who ruled the land from the city of Dinhabah. ⁴⁴When Bela died, Jobab the son of Zerah of Bozrah, became the next king. ⁴⁵When Jobab died, Husham from the region of Teman succeeded him. ⁴⁶When Husham died, Hadad, son of Bedad, who had defeated the Midianites on the plains of Moab, succeeded him. He ruled the country from Avith. ⁴⁷When Hadad died, Samlah from Masrekah succeeded him. ⁴⁸When Samlah died, Shaul from Rehoboth by the River Euphrates became king. ⁴⁹When Shaul died, Baal Hanan the son of Achbor, succeeded him. ⁵⁰When Baal Hanan died, Hadad became king. He ruled the land from the city of Pai. His wife was Mehetabel, daughter of Matred and granddaughter of Me Zahab. ⁵¹Then Hadad also died.

The chiefs of the tribes in Edom were: Timna, Aliah (also known as Alvah), Jetheth, ⁵²Oholibamah, Elah, Pinon, ⁵³Kenaz, Teman, Mibzar, ⁵⁴Magdiel and Iram.

The Family of Jacob

2 The twelve sons of Jacob, who was Isaac's son, were Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Zebulun, ²Dan, Joseph, Benjamin, Naphtali, Gad and Asher.

From Judah to David

³The sons of Judah were: Er, Onan and Shelah. These three were born to him by a Canaanite woman called Bathshua. Er, Judah's firstborn, was so wicked in the Lord's sight that the Lord took his life. ⁴Judah's daughter-in-law Tamar, Er's widow, bore him Perez and Zerah. So altogether Judah had five sons.

⁵The sons of Perez were Hezron and Hamul. ⁶Zerah had five sons, Zimri, Ethan, Heman, Calcol and Dara (or Darda). ⁷The sons of Carmi were Achan (or Achar) who brought trouble on Israel by taking things from Jericho which were to be destroyed as an offering to God and who was then stoned in the Valley of Achor, ⁸and Ethan whose son was Azariah.

⁹The sons of Hezron were Jerahmeel, Ram and Chelubai (or Caleb). ¹⁰Ram was the father of Amminadab who was the father of Nahshon, an important leader in the tribe of Judah. ¹¹Nahshon was the father of Salmon, Salmon of Boaz, ¹²Boaz of Obed, and Obed of Jesse. ¹³Jesse was the father of Eliab, who was his firstborn, followed by Abinadab, Shimea, ¹⁴Nethanel, Raddai, ¹⁵Ozem, and the seventh living son was David. ¹⁶Their sisters were Zeruiah and Abigail. Zeruiah's sons were Abishai, Joab and Asahel. ¹⁷Abigail was the mother of Amasa, whose father was an Ishmaelite named Jether.

The Family of Hezron

¹⁸Caleb, the son of Hezron, married Azubah (also known as Jerioth). She bore him three sons: Jeshur, Shobab and Ardon. ¹⁹When Azubah died, Caleb married Ephratah and she bore Hur. ²⁰Hur was the father of Uri and Uri the father of Bezalel.

²¹When Hezron, the father of Caleb, was sixty years old he married the daughter of Makir, the father of Gilead, and she bore him a son named Segub. ²²Segub was the father of Jair who took over twenty-three villages in Gilead and called them The Settlements of Jair. ²³Later Geshur and Aram took these settlements (called Havvoth Jair) and the city of Kenath, plus its sixty smaller fortified towns. The people who lived there were all descendants of Makir, the father of Gilead. ²⁴After Hezron died in Caleb Ephratah, his wife Abijah bore him a son called Ashhur, who became the father of Tekoa.

The Family of Jerahmeel

²⁵The sons of Jerahmeel, Hezron's firstborn, were Ram his firstborn, Bunah, Oren, Ozem and Ahijah.²⁶ Jerahmeel also married Atarah, who was the mother of Onam.²⁷ The sons of Ram, Jerahmeel's firstborn, were Maaz, Jamin and Eker.²⁸ The sons of Onam were Shammai and Jada. The sons of Shammai were Nadab and Abishur.²⁹ Abishur married Abihail, who bore him Ahban and Molid.³⁰ The sons of Nadab were Seled and Appaim. Seled died without having any sons.³¹ Appaim was the father of Ishi, Ishi of Sheshan and Sheshan of Ahlai.³² The sons of Jada, Shammai's brother, were Jether and Jonathan. Jether died without having any sons.³³ The sons of Jonathan were Peleth and Zaza. All these were the descendants of Jerahmeel.³⁴ Sheshan had only daughters. He had an Egyptian servant named Jarha,³⁵ so he gave one of his daughters to him and she bore a son called Attai.³⁶ Attai was the father of Nathan, who was the father of Zabad,³⁷ Zabad of Ephlal, Ephlal of Obed,³⁸ Obed of Jehu, Jehu of Azariah,³⁹ Azariah of Helez, Helez of Eleasah,⁴⁰ Eleasah of Sismai, Sismai of Shallum,⁴¹ Shallum of Jekamiah, and Jekamiah of Elishama.

The Family of Caleb

⁴²The sons of Caleb, the brother of Jerahmeel, were Mesha, his firstborn, who was the father of Ziph, and Mareshah, who was the father of Hebron.⁴³ The sons of Hebron were Korah, Tappuah, Rekem and Shema.⁴⁴ Shema was the father of Raham and Raham of Jorkeam. Rekem was the father of Shammai,⁴⁵ Shammai of Maon, and Maon of Beth Zur.⁴⁶ Caleb's sons by his concubine Ephah were: Haran, Moza and Gazez. Haran also had a son named Gazez.⁴⁷ The sons of Jahdai were Regem, Jotham, Geshan, Pelet, Ephah and Shaaph.⁴⁸ Caleb's sons by his concubine Maacah were Sheber and Tirhanah.⁴⁹ Later she bore him two more sons: Shaaph and Sheva. Shaaph was the father of Madmannah and Sheva was the father of Machbenah and Gibeab. Caleb also had a daughter by Maacah named Achsah.⁵⁰ All these were the descendants of Caleb.

Now the sons of Hur, who was the firstborn of Caleb's wife Ephratah, were Shobal, who was the father of Kiriath Jearim,⁵¹ Salma, who was the father of Bethlehem, and Hareph, who was the father of Beth Gader.⁵² Shobal, the father of Kiriath Jearim, founded a city by that name. He also was the ancestor of the people of Haroeh and half of the Manahathites.⁵³ Other people who descended from Shobal through Kiriath Jearim were the Ithrites, Puthites, Shumathites and Mishraites. From these also came the Zorathites and Eshtaolites.⁵⁴ Salma, the father of Bethlehem, was an ancestor of the Netophathites, those who lived in Atroth Beth Joab, the other half of the Manahathites, the Zorites,⁵⁵ and the Tirathites, Shimeathites and Sucathites, who were skilled writers living in the city of Jabez. The Kenites were descendants of Jethro, Moses's father-in-law, whose land was promised to Abraham. They intermarried with the Rechabites who were descendants of Hammath and later settled in the territory of Judah.

The Family of David

3 These were the sons of David born to him while he was ruling over Judah from Hebron: the first, Amnon by Ahinoam from Jezreel; the second, Daniel by Abigail from Carmel; ²the third Absalom by Maacah the daughter of King Talmai of Geshur, the fourth, Adonijah by Haggith; ³the fifth, Shephatiah by Abital; and the sixth, Ithream by Eglah.⁴ These sons were born to David in Hebron during the seven years and six months he reigned as king over the tribe of Judah. Then David became king over all Israel and moved to Jerusalem where he ruled for thirty-three years.⁵ These were the sons born to him there: Solomon, Shimea (or Shammua), Shobab and Nathan. These four were by Bathsheba, the daughter of Eliam (or Ammiel). ⁶David also had the following nine sons by his other wives: Ithar, Elishua, Elpalet, ⁷Nogah, Nepheg, Japhia, ⁸Elishama, Eliada and Eliphelet. ⁹So there were thirteen sons born to David by his wives while he was in Jerusalem, not counting those sons who were born to his concubines. David also had a daughter named Tamar.

The Family of Solomon

¹⁰These are the kings of Judah who descended from David: Solomon, then his son Rehoboam, his son Abijah, his son Asa, his son Jehoshaphat, ¹¹his son Jehoram, his son Ahaziah, his son Joash, ¹²his son Amaziah, his son Azariah (or Uzziah), his son Jotham, ¹³his son Ahaz, his son Hezekiah, his son Manasseh, ¹⁴his son Amon and his son Josiah. ¹⁵Josiah had four sons: Johanan the firstborn, the second Jehoiakim (or Eliakim), the third Zedekiah and the fourth Shallum (or Jehoahaz). ¹⁶Jehoiakim's son Jehoiachin became the next king, followed by his uncle Zedekiah, the younger brother of Jehoiakim. Zedekiah was the twentieth and last king to reign over Judah.

The Family of Jeconiah

¹⁷Jehoiachin was taken captive by Nebuchadnezzar and carried to Babylon. His descendants were Shealtiel, ¹⁸Malchiram, Pedaiah, Shenazzar, Jekamiah, Hoshama and Nedabiah. ¹⁹The sons of Pedaiah were Zerubbabel and Shimei. Later Zerubbabel became the adopted son of Shealtiel, who had no sons. The sons of Zerubbabel were Meshullam and Hananiah, and they had a sister called Shelomith. ²⁰He also had five other sons: Hashubah, Ohel, Berechiah, Hasadiah and Jushab Hesed. ²¹Hananiah had two sons: Pelatiah and Jeshaiah. Jeshaiah was the father of Rephaiah, his son was Arnan, his son Obadiah and his son Shecaniah. ²²Shecaniah had a son, Shemaiah, who had five sons: Hattush, Igal, Bariah, Neariah and Shaphat.

So Shecaniah had six descendants. ²³Neariah had three sons: Elieoenai, Hizkiah and Azrikam. ²⁴Elieoenai had seven sons: Hodaviah, Eliashib, Pedaiah, Akkub, Johanan, Delaiah and Anani.

The Family of Judah

4 The descendants of Judah through his son Perez were Hezron, Carmi, Hur and Shobal. ²The son of Shobal was Reaiah, who was the father of Jahath, and Jahath was the father of Ahumai and Lahad. These were the ancestors of the Zorathites. ³Now the son of Hur was Etam and his three sons were Jezreel, Ishma and Idbash, and their sister's name was Hazzeleponi. ⁴Hur had two other sons, Penuel and Ezer. Penuel was the father of Gedor and Ezer was the father of Hushah. Hur himself was the firstborn son of Caleb and Ephratah and his descendants founded the city of Bethlehem.

⁵The son of Perez was Hezron and one of his descendants was Ashur, the founder of Tekoa. Ashur had two wives, Helah and Naarah. ⁶Naarah bore him four sons: Ahuzzam, Hopher, Temeni and Haahashtari. ⁷Helah also bore him four sons: Zereth, Izhar (or Zohar), Ethnan and Koz. ⁸Koz was the father of Anub and Zobebah (or Hazzobedah) and the ancestor of those families who eventually descended from Aharhel, the son of Harum. ⁹From this family line came a man named Jabez who was a most honorable man. His mother named him Jabez, meaning Pain, because his birth was so painful. ¹⁰Jabez prayed to the Lord, "O Lord God of Israel, bless me with much land. Stay with me and keep me from harm and from causing others pain, so my name will lose its meaning." The Lord heard his prayer and gave him what he had asked for.

¹¹Chelub was the brother of Shuhah and had a son named Mehir who was the father of Eshton. ¹²Eshton was the father of Beth Rapha, Paseah and Tehinnah who was the father of Ir Nahash. They all settled in Rechah. ¹³Kenaz was the brother of Caleb and he had two sons, Othniel and Seraiah. Othniel's sons were Hathah and Meonothai. ¹⁴Meonothai was the father of Ophrah. Seraiah was the father of Joab, who was the father of Geharashim. They all lived in the Craftsmen's Valley.

¹⁵Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, had three sons: Iru, Elah and Naam. The son of Elah was Kenaz. ¹⁶Jehallelel's sons were Ziph, Ziphah, Tiria and Asarel. ¹⁷Ezrah's sons were Jether, Mered, Ephraim and Jalon. Mered's wife Bithiah was a daughter of the king of Egypt. She gave birth to Miriam, Shammai and Ishbah who was the father of Eshtemoa. ¹⁸Mered's Judean wife bore him three sons: Jered who became the father of Gedor, Heber the father of Socoh, and Jekuthiel the father of Zanoah. All these were Mered's sons from his Egyptian wife Bithiah and from his Judean wife. ¹⁹Hodiah married the sister of Naham. Their descendants included Keilah the Garmite and Eshtemoa the Maacathite.

²⁰The sons of Shimon were Amnon, Rinnah, Ben Hanan and Tilon. Ishi's sons were Zoheth and Ben Zoheth. ²¹The sons of Shelah were Er the father of Lecah, Laadah the father of Mareshah (who was the ancestor of the line of weavers who settled in the town of Beth Ashbea), ²²Jokim, (the ancestor of those who settled in Cozeba), and Joash and Saraph (who, according to ancient records, married women from Moab and settled in Jashubi Lehem). ²³Others settled in Netaim and Gederah and worked in the pottery factories owned by the king.

The Family of Simeon

²⁴The descendants of Simeon were Nemuel, Jamin, Jarib, Zerah and Shaul. ²⁵Shaul's son was Shallum, his son Mibsam and his son Mishma. ²⁶Mishma was the father of Hammuel, Hammuel of Zaccur and Zaccur of Shimei. ²⁷Shimei had sixteen sons and six daughters, but his brothers didn't have many children, so the tribe of Simeon never got as big as the tribe of Judah. ²⁸The descendants of Simeon lived in these cities: Beersheba, Moladah, Hazar Shual, ²⁹Bilham, Ezem, Tolad, ³⁰Bethuel, Hormah, Ziklag, ³¹Beth Marcaboth, Hazar Susim, Beth Biri and Shaaraim (or Sharuhin). All these cities belonged to Simeon until the time of David when they were given to Judah. ³²Then there were the cities of Etam, Ain, Rimmon, Tochen and Ashan. ³³These cities and their surrounding villages stretched as far south as Baal (or Baalathbeer). This is according to their own genealogical records.

³⁴Here are the leaders of the various family groups: Meshobab, Jamlech and Joshah, the son of Amaziah. ³⁵Then there was Joel, and also Jehu the son of Joshibiah and grandson of Seraiah and great-grandson of Asiel, ³⁶and Elioenai, Jaakobah, Jeshohaiah, Asaiah, Adiel, Jesimiel, Benaiah, ³⁷and Ziza, the son of Shiphi who was the son of Allon, the son of Jedaiah, the son of Shimri, the son of Shemaiah.

³⁸These family groups continued to grow and a number of their people eventually moved west. ³⁹Some moved as far as Gedor (or Gerar) toward the land of the Philistines all the way up to the eastern side of the valley in search of pasture for their flocks. ⁴⁰They found rich pastures there and the country was wide open, quiet and peaceful. Ham's descendants had formerly lived there. (Ham was a son of Noah.) ⁴¹It was in the days of Hezekiah, king of Judah, that the above-named families moved west. When they got there, they destroyed the Meunites and Hamites by setting fire to their tents. Then they settled in the land because it was good for pasture. ⁴²Five hundred Simeonites led by Pelatiah, Neariah, Rephaiah and Uzziel, the descendants of Ishi, invaded the hill country to the south going toward Mount Seir in the land of Edom. ⁴³They killed the remaining Amalekites who had survived the wars of Saul and took the land and settled there.

The Family of Reuben

5 Reuben was the firstborn of Jacob, but because he had sexual relations with one of his father's concubines, he lost the rights and privileges of the firstborn which were given to Joseph. ²Even though Joseph was given the rights of the firstborn, the tribe of Judah became the strongest and gave the royal line of David to Israel. ³The descendants of Reuben, the firstborn of Jacob, were Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron and Carmi. ⁴Then there was Joel, his son Shemaiah, his son Gog, his son Shimei, ⁵his son Micah, his son Reaiah, his son Baal and ⁶his son Beera (a strong leader among the Reubenites whom King Tiglath Pileser of Assyria took into exile). ⁷The following were leaders of family groups according to the genealogical records of Reuben: First was Jeiel, then Zechariah, ⁸and Bela the son of Azaz, the son of Shema, the son of Joel. These family groups settled in the area from the cities of Aroer north to Nebo and on to Baal Meon. ⁹To the east they took in Gilead up to the edge of the desert that stretches to the Euphrates River. They needed all this land because they had huge herds of livestock which had multiplied while they were in Gilead. ¹⁰During the reign of Saul the Reubenites attacked the Hagrites, defeated them and took over their territory east of Gilead.

The Family of Gad

¹¹The Gadites also lived in the land of Gilead just north of the Reubenites and as far east as Salecah. ¹²Joel was the leader of the most important Gadite family group, Shapham of the next one, and Janai and Shaphat were the leaders of the family groups in Bashan. ¹³Other leaders of family groups were: Michael, Meshullam, Sheba, Jorai, Jacan, Zia and Eber. ¹⁴These were the descendants of Abihail, the son of Huri, the son of Jaroah, the son of Gilead, the son of Michael, the son of Jeshishai, the son of Jahdo, the son of Buz. ¹⁵The head of all these clans was Ahi, the son of Abdiel, the grandson of Guni. ¹⁶The Gadites lived in the land of Bashan and Gilead and took in all the outlying villages and pastures of Sharon. ¹⁷This was according to the family records of the Gadites which were compiled during the reign of Jotham, king of Judah, and Jeroboam, king of Israel.

¹⁸The tribes of Reuben, Gad and half of Manasseh had a total of forty-four thousand, seven hundred and sixty trained men fit for military service. These men could handle sword and shield as well as bow and arrow and were trained for close combat. ¹⁹They went to war against the Hagrites and against the tribes of Jetur, Naphish and Nodab. ²⁰During the battle they pleaded with God for help and He answered their prayers because they trusted in Him. So they defeated the Hagrites and their allies and took their land and settled there. ²¹They also captured fifty thousand camels, two hundred fifty thousand sheep, two thousand donkeys and one hundred thousand prisoners of war. ²²Many enemy troops were killed because the Lord fought for His people and the battle was His. Then these Israelite tribes settled the land and lived there until the Assyrians came and deported them.

The Family of Manasseh East of Jordan

²³The half tribe of Manasseh that settled there became very large. They claimed the land from Bashan in the south to Baal Hermon on the slopes of Mount Hermon in the north which the inhabitants call Senir. ²⁴The leaders of the family groups of Manasseh were: Ephraim, Ishi, Eliel, Azriel, Jeremiah, Hodaviah and Jahdiel. All of these were outstanding military men, brave in battle and leaders of large family groups. ²⁵But they were not true to the God of their fathers and worshiped the fertility gods of the people of the land whom God had driven out because of their wickedness. ²⁶That's why

God stirred up the spirit of Tiglath Pileser, king of Assyria, who came and took the Reubenites, Gadites and the half-tribe of Manasseh away. He settled them in the areas of Halah, Habor, Hara and Gozan on the Khabur River between Haran and Nineveh.

The Family of Levi

6 The sons of Levi were Gershon, Kohath and Merari. ²The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel. ³The children of Amram: Aaron, Moses and Miriam. The sons of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. ⁴Eleazar was the father of Phinehas, Phinehas of Abishua, ⁵Abishua of Bukki, Bukki of Uzzi, ⁶Uzzi of Zerariah, Zerariah of Meraioth, ⁷Meraioth of Amariah, Amariah of Ahitub, ⁸Ahitub of Zadok, Zadok of Ahimaaz, ⁹Ahimaaz of Azariah, Azariah of Johanan, ¹⁰Johanan of Azariah, who served as priest in the Temple Solomon built in Jerusalem, ¹¹Azariah was the father of Amariah, Amariah of Ahitub, ¹²Ahitub of Zadok, Zadok of Shallum, ¹³Shallum of Hilkiah, Hilkiah of Azariah, ¹⁴Azariah of Seraiah and Seraiah of Jehozadak. ¹⁵Now Jehozadak was among those who were deported by Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, when the Lord sent him against Judah and Jerusalem.

¹⁶The three sons of Levi—Gershon, Kohath and Merari—all had sons. ¹⁷Gershon had Libni and Shimei. ¹⁸Kohath had Amram, Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel, as mentioned above. ¹⁹Merari had Mahli and Mushi. The following are the names of the leaders of the various family groups among the Levites according to their ancestry: ²⁰The descendants of Gershon were his son Libni, his son Jehath, his son Zimmah, ²¹his son Joah, his son Iddo, his son Zerah and his son Jeatherai. ²²The descendants of Kohath were his son Amminadab (or Izhar), his son Korah, his son Assir, ²³his son Elkanah, his son Ebiasaph, his son Assir, ²⁴his son Tahath, his son Uriel, his son Uziah, his son

Shaul. ²⁵The descendants of Elkanah were his sons Amasai and Ahimoth. ²⁶Ahimoth's son was Elkanah, his son Zophai, his son Nahath, ²⁷his son Eliab, his son Jeroham, his son Elkanah and his son Samuel. ²⁸Samuel had two sons: Joel and Abijah. ²⁹The descendants of Merari were his son Mahli, his son Libni, his son Shimei, his son Uzzah, ³⁰his son Shimea, his son Haggiah and his son Asaiah.

The Temple Musicians

³¹After David brought the Ark of the Covenant from the house of Abinadab at Kiriath Jearim to Jerusalem, he appointed a number of men to serve as musicians at the place of worship. ³²They took turns ministering to the Lord even before Solomon built the Temple. ³³These are the men and their descendants who served as musicians: From the Kohathites there was Heman, he leader of the first choir. His ancestry began with his father Joel, the son of Samuel, ³⁴the son of Elkanah, the son of Jeroham, the son of Eliel, the son of Toah, ³⁵the son of Zuph, the son of Elkanah, the son of Mahath, the son of Amasai, ³⁶the son of Elkanah, the son of Joel, the son of Azariah, the son of Zephaniah, ³⁷the son of Tahath, the son of Assir, the son of Ebiasaph, the son of Korah, ³⁸the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, the son of Jacob who was called Israel. ³⁹Heman's associate in music and leader of the second choir was Asaph, the son of Berechiah, the son of Shimea, ⁴⁰the son of Michael, the son of Baaseiah, the son of Malchijah, ⁴¹the son of Ethni, the son of Zerah, the son of Adaiah, ⁴²the son of Ethan, the son of Zimmah, the son of Shimei, ⁴³the son of Jahath, the son of Gershon, the son of Levi, the son of Jacob. ⁴⁴Ethan was another associate of Heman and was the leader of the third choir. He was the son of Kishi, the son of Abdi, the son of Malluch, ⁴⁵the son of Hashabiah, the son of Amaziah, the son of Hilkiah, ⁴⁶the son of Amzi, the son of Bani, the son of Shemer, ⁴⁷the son of Mahli, the son of Mushi, the son of Merari, the son of Levi, the son of Jacob. ⁴⁸Their fellow Levites were given other responsibilities in connection with the worship services.

The Family of Aaron

⁴⁹Aaron's descendants were the ones who served as priests, offering incense and sacrifices to the Lord that were burned on the altar. They also were responsible for carrying out all worship services in the Holy Place and the Most Holy Place, including the sacrifices by which to make atonement for the sins of the people. They did all this according to the instructions given to Moses by the Lord. ⁵⁰The descendants of Aaron through his son Eleazar were his son Phinehas, his son Abishua, ⁵¹his son Bukki, his son Uzzi, his son Zerariah, ⁵²his son Meraioth, his son Amariah, his son Ahitub, ⁵³his son Zadok, and his son Ahimaaz.

The Cities of the Levites

⁵⁴Here is a list of the settlements assigned to the descendants of Levi through his son Kohath and on through Aaron, for the lot fell on them first: ⁵⁵In Judah, the city of Hebron with its surrounding pasturelands, ⁵⁶but the villages with their fields were given to Caleb, the son of Jephunneh. ⁵⁷Hebron also was a city of refuge. Other cities given to Aaron's descendants through Kohath were Libnah, Jattir, Eshtemoa, ⁵⁸Hilen, Debir, ⁵⁹Ashan, Juttah and Beth Shemesh with their pasturelands. ⁶⁰The tribe of Benjamin gave them Gibeon, Geba, Alemeth and Anathoth with their pasturelands. Altogether there were thirteen cities in Judah and Benjamin given to the descendants of Kohath.

⁶¹They also were given ten cities in with the half-tribe of Manasseh east of Jordan. ⁶²The descendants of Gershon, son of Levi, were given thirteen cities from the tribes of Issachar, Asher, Naphtali and Manasseh west of Jordan. ⁶³The descendants of Merari, son of Levi, were given twelve cities from the tribes of Reuben, Gad and Zebulun. ⁶⁴All the cities and pasturelands that the Israelites gave to the Levites and their descendants were determined by drawing lots. ⁶⁵The cities and pasturelands from the tribes of Judah, Simeon and Benjamin also were determined by drawing lots.

⁶⁶Other Kohathite families were given the following cities with their pasturelands in the tribe of Ephraim: ⁶⁷Shechem a city of refuge in the hill country, Gezer also a city of refuge, ⁶⁸Jokmeam, Beth Horon, ⁶⁹Aijalon and Gath Rimmon together with their pasturelands. ⁷⁰From the tribe of Manasseh west of Jordan the descendants of Kohath were given Aner and Bileam with their pasturelands.

⁷¹The descendants of Gershon were given the following cities with pasturelands: Golan in Bashan and Ashteroth, both in the territory belonging to the half-tribe of Manasseh east of Jordan. ⁷²The tribe of Issachar gave Kedesh, Daberath, ⁷³Ramoth and Anem with their pasturelands. ⁷⁴The tribe of Asher gave Mashal, Abdon, ⁷⁵Hukok and Rehob with their pasturelands. ⁷⁶The tribe of Naphtali gave Kedesh in Galilee. Hammon and Kiriathaim with their pasturelands. ⁷⁷The descendants of Merari were given the following cities from the tribe of Zebulun: Jokneam, Kartah, Rimmon (or Rimmono) and Tabor with their pasturelands. ⁷⁸The tribe of Reuben east of Jordan gave Bezer near the desert, Jahzah, ⁷⁹Kedemoth and Mephaath with their pasturelands. ⁸⁰From the tribe of Gad they received Ramoth in Gilead, Mahanaim, ⁸¹Heshbon and Jazer with their pasturelands.

The Family of Issachar

7 The sons of Issachar were Tola, Puah, Jashub and Shimron. ²Tola had six sons: Uzzi, Rephaiah, Jeriel, Jahmai, Ibsam and Shamuël, all of whom were leaders of family groups. The descendants of Tola were famous soldiers and by the time of David, they had a well-trained fighting force of twenty-two thousand, six hundred men. ³The son of Uzzi was Izrahiah. Izrahiah had four sons: Michael, Obadiah, Joel and Isshiah, and each one of these five men was a chief. ⁴They had so many wives and children that it wasn't long before they had a fighting force of thirty-six thousand men, all trained for war. ⁵The official updated records of the tribe of Issachar showed a total fighting force of eighty-seven thousand men.

The Family of Benjamin

⁶Benjamin had three sons: Bela, Becher and Jediel. ⁷The sons of Bela were Ezbon, Uzzi, Uzziel, Jerimoth and Iri, all of whom were leaders of family groups. The genealogical records from the tribe of Benjamin lists a total of twenty-two thousand and thirty-four men trained for war. ⁸The sons of Becher were Zemirah, Joash, Eliezer, Elioenai, Omri, Jeremoth, Abijah, Anathoth and Alemeth. ⁹Their genealogical records include a total of twenty thousand, two hundred fighting men. ¹⁰The son of Jediel was Bilhan. The sons of Bilhan were Jeush, Benjamin, Ehud, Chenaanah, Zethan, Tarshish and Ahishahar. ¹¹All these were leaders of family groups and famous soldiers. They had seventeen thousand, two hundred men trained for war. ¹²Huppim and Shuppim were the sons of Ir, and Hushim (or Shuham) was the son of Aher; all belonged to the tribe of Benjamin.

The Family of Naphtali

¹³Naphtali, the son of Jacob by Bilhah, had four sons: Jahzeel (or Jahziel), Guni, Jezer and Shallum (or Shillem).

The Family of Manasseh West of Jordan

¹⁴Manasseh had two sons: Asriel and Makir, both by his Aramean concubine. Makir's son was Gilead. ¹⁵Makir married Maacah, the sister of Huppim and Shuppim. Zelophehad was the grandson of Makir through his son Gilead, but Zelophehad had daughters only. ¹⁶Makir's wife Maacah gave him two more sons: Peresh and Sheresh. Sheresh had two sons: Ulam and Rakem. ¹⁷The son of Ulam was Bedan. These were descendants of Gilead, son of Makir, son of Manasseh. ¹⁸Gilead's sister Hammolecheth gave birth to Ishhod, Abiezer and Mahlah. ¹⁹The sons of Shemida were Ahian, Shechem, Likhi and Aniam.

The Family of Ephraim

²⁰The descendants of Ephraim were his son Shuthelah, his son Bered, his son Tahath, his son Eleadah, ²¹his son Tahath, his son Zabad, his son Shuthelah. Ezer and Elead were killed when they went down to Gath to fight the Philistines to take their cows and sheep. ²²Ephraim mourned for them a long time, and family members came from everywhere to comfort him. ²³It was after this that Ephraim's wife bore him a son whom he named Beriah, meaning Misfortune. ²⁴Ephraim's daughter was Sheerah. She built the towns of Lower and Upper Beth Horon as well as Uzzen Sheerah. ²⁵Ephraim also had a son called Rephah, his son was Resheph, his son Telah, his son Tahan, ²⁶his son Ladan, his son Ammihud, his son Elishama, ²⁷his son Nun and his son Joshua. ²⁸The territory which they took and settled in included Bethel with its surrounding villages, all the land to the east as far as Naaran and to the west as far as Gezer and the villages around it. It also included the cities of Shechem and Ayyah and the villages around them. ²⁹The descendants of Manasseh settled in the cities of Beth Shan, Taanach, Megiddo and Dor and the villages around them. This is where the descendants of Joseph, the son of Jacob, lived.

The Family of Asher

³⁰Asher had four sons: Imnah, Ishvah, Ishvi and Beriah. He had one daughter called Serah. ³¹The sons of Beriah were Heber and Malchiel, who was the father of Birzaith. ³²Heber had three sons: Japhlet, Shomer and Hotham. He had one daughter named Shua. ³³The sons of Japhlet were Pasach, Bimhal and Ashvath. ³⁴The sons of Shomer: Ahi, Rohgah, Hubbah and Aram. ³⁵The sons of Hotham (or Helem): Zophah, Imna, Shelesh and Amal. ³⁶The sons of Zophah: Suah, Harnepher, Shual, Beri, Imrah, ³⁷Bezer, Hod, Shamma, Shilshah, Ithran and Beera. ³⁸The sons of Ithran (or Jether): Jephunneh, Pispah and Ara. ³⁹The sons of Ara (or Ulla): Arah, Hanniel and Rizia. ⁴⁰All these were descendants of Asher and were leaders of family groups as well as outstanding military men. There were twenty-six thousand men listed in Asher's genealogy who were trained for war.

The Family of Benjamin

8 Benjamin had five sons: Bela, the firstborn, then Ashbel, Aharah, ²Nohah and Rapha. ³The sons of Bela were Addar, Gera, Abihud, who was the father of Ehud, ⁴then there was Abishua, Naaman, Ahoah, ⁵Gera, Shephuphan and Huram. ⁶The sons of Ehud were the leaders of the family groups living in Geba. They were forced out and went to live in Manahath. ⁷Their leaders were Naaman, Ahijah and Gera, the father of Uzza and Ahihud. Gera was the one who led the families to Manahath. ⁸Shaharaim divorced his wives, Hushim and Baara, and went to live in the land of Moab. ⁹While there he married Hodesh who gave him seven sons: Jobab, Zibia, Meshah, Malcam, ¹⁰Jeuz, Sachia and Mirmah all of which were leaders of family groups. ¹¹Before he divorced Hushim, she gave him two sons: Abitub and Elpaal. ¹²The sons of Elpaal were Eber, Misham and Shemed. Shemed was the one who built the cities of Ono and Lod with their surrounding villages. ¹³Elpaal's two other sons were Beriah and Shema, both leaders of family groups who lived in Aijalon. They drove out the inhabitants of Gath. ¹⁴Beriah's sons were Ahio, Shashak, Jeremoth, ¹⁵Zebadiah, Arad, Eder, ¹⁶Michael, Ishpah and Joha. ¹⁷Elpaal's other sons were Zebadiah, Meshullam, Hizki, Heber, ¹⁸Ishmerai, Izliah and Jobab. ¹⁹The sons of Shimei were Jakim, Zichri, Zabdi, ²⁰Elienai, Zillethai, Eliel, ²¹Adaiah, Beraiah and Shimrath. ²²The sons of Shashak: Ishpan, Eber, Eliel, ²³Abdon, Zichri, Hanan, ²⁴Hananiah, Elam, Anthothijah, ²⁵Iphdeiah and Penuel. ²⁶The sons of Jeroham were Shamsherai, Shehariah, Athaliah, ²⁷Jaareshiah, Elijah and Zichri. ²⁸All these were heads of families who according to their genealogical records lived in Jerusalem.

²⁹Jeiel (or Aziel), governed the city of Gibeon and had a son by the same name. Jeiel's wife was Maacah. ³⁰His firstborn was Abdon, then came Zur, Kish, Baal, Ner, Nadab, ³¹Gedor, Ahio, Zecher ³²and Mikloth, who was the father of Shimeah. They all lived near their relatives in Jerusalem. ³³Ner was the father of Kish, the father of Saul, the father of Jonathan, Malchishua, Abinadab and Ishbosheth (or Eshbaal). ³⁴The son of Jonathan was Mephibosheth, who was the father of Micah. ³⁵The sons of Micah were Pithon, Melech, Tarea and Ahaz. ³⁶Ahaz was the father of Jehoaddah. Jehoaddah was the father of Alemeth, Azmaveth and Zimri. Zimri was the father of Moza. ³⁷Moza was the father of Binea, Binea of Raphah, Raphah of Eleasah and Eleasah of Azel and Eshek. ³⁸Azel had six sons: Azrikam, Bocheru, Ishmael, Sheariah, Obadiah and Hanan. ³⁹The sons of his brother Eshek were: Ulam, the firstborn, then Jeush and Eliphelet. ⁴⁰The sons of Ulam were known for their bravery and were extremely skilled in handling the bow and arrow. Altogether Ulam and his sons had one hundred and fifty sons and grandsons, all of whom belonged to the tribe of Benjamin.

People Who Returned From Captivity

9 Everyone in the country was listed according to their family in the genealogical records of either Israel or

Judah. Years later the people of the Northern Kingdom of Israel were deported by Assyria and ceased to exist as a nation. The people of the southern kingdom of Judah were taken into exile by Babylon, but after seventy years they returned home. ²In the first group to come home to their property were those from Israel who before the exile had settled in Judah, as well as priests, Levites and Temple workmen.

³Those from the tribes of Judah, Benjamin, Ephraim and Manasseh who had settled in Jerusalem were the following: ⁴Uthai, who was the son of Ammihud, the son of Omri, the son of Imri, the son of Bani, the son of Perez, the son of Judah. ⁵There also was Asaiah a descendant of Shelah, the son of Judah, and his extended family, known as the Shilonites. ⁶Then there was Jeuel, a descendant of Zerah, another son of Judah, and six hundred and ninety in that grouping. ⁷The descendants of Benjamin who returned from Babylon were Sallu, the son of Meshullam, the son of Hodaviah, the son of Hassenuah. ⁸Then there was Ibneiah, the son of Jeroham, and Elah, the son of Uzzi who was the son of Michri, and also Meshullam, the son of Shephatiah, who was the son of Reuel, the son of Ibnijah. ⁹In this first return there were nine hundred and fifty-six families who came back from Babylon. According to their genealogical records they all belonged to the tribe of Benjamin.

The Priests at Jerusalem

¹⁰The priests who came back were Jedaiah, Jehoiarib, Jachin, ¹¹and Azariah, the son of Hilkiah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Zadok, the son of Meraioth, the son of Ahitub who had been in charge of the Temple. ¹²Then there was Adaiah, the son of Jeroham, the son of Pashur who was the son of Malchijah, and Maasai, the son of Adiel, the son of Jahzerah, the son of Meshullam, who was the son of Meshillemith, the son of Immer. ¹³At this time there were one thousand, seven hundred and sixty priests as heads of families who came back to work in the Temple, but not all settled in Jerusalem.

The Levites at Jerusalem

¹⁴The Levites who came back were Shemaiah, the son of Hasshub, who was the son of Azrikam, the son of Hashabiah a descendant of Levi's son Merari. ¹⁵There also was Bakbakkar, Heresh, Galal and Mattaniah, who was the son of Mica, the son of Zichri, the son of Asaph. ¹⁶Then there was Obadiah, the son of Shemaiah, who was the son of Galal, the son of Jeduthun, and also Berekiah, the son of Asa, who was the son of Elkanah who lived in one of the villages of the Netophathites.

The Temple Guards

¹⁷The Temple guards who came back to Jerusalem were Shallum, Akkub, Talmon, Ahiman and all their families. Shallum was the one in charge. ¹⁸These guards were Levites who had been stationed at the King's Gate, the eastern gate going into the Temple, through which the king comes. ¹⁹Shallum, the son of Kore, the son of Ebiasaph, who was the son of Korah, plus his fellow guardsmen all of whom were descendants of Korah. These families had always been responsible for guarding the entrance to the Sanctuary, even when it was still a tent in the wilderness. ²⁰In the past, Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron, had been in charge of the Sanctuary guardsmen. The Lord was with him. ²¹Zechariah, the son of Meshelemiah, was also one of the priests in charge of the Sanctuary. ²²Altogether there were two hundred and twelve men chosen to serve as guards. Their names are recorded in the genealogical records according to where they lived. They were assigned their specific duties by David and some even earlier by the prophet Samuel. ²³They and their descendants first guarded the Sanctuary and later the Temple. ²⁴The custom was to station them on all four sides of the Sanctuary, east, west, north and south. ²⁵Every week their fellow guardsmen would come in from the villages and take their turn at guard duty. ²⁶The four chief guardsmen were Levites, and their responsibilities included looking after the storage rooms in the Temple and the supplies that were kept there. ²⁷These men lived near the Temple because they had the key to lock it at night and open it in the morning.

Other Levite Responsibilities

²⁸Other Levites were in charge of the utensils used in worship and checked them in and out as they were needed. ²⁹Still others were assigned to take care of the furnishings of the Temple and the flour, unfermented wine, olive oil, incense and spices. ³⁰While the Levites stored the spices, the priests had the responsibility of preparing the holy ointment. ³¹A Levite called Mattithiah, the firstborn of Shallum (a descendant of Korah) was in charge of baking the thin cakes of flour and olive oil used in the offerings. ³²The descendants of Kohath were in charge of preparing the twelve loaves of sacred bread that were placed on the table in the Holy Place each Sabbath.

³³Some Levites served as musicians. When the leaders of these groups were on duty they stayed in rooms in the Temple. They were not assigned other duties because they were on call day and night. ³⁴According to the genealogical records, the men mentioned above were heads of family groups and lived in Jerusalem.

The Family of Saul

³⁵The ancestors and descendants of King Saul were as follows: Jeiel governed the city of Gibeon and lived there with his son. His wife's name was Maacah. ³⁶His firstborn son was Abdon, then came Zur, Kish, Baal, Ner, Nadab, ³⁷Gedor, Ahio, Zechariah and Mikloth.

³⁸Mikloth was the father of Shimeam. Their descendants lived in Jerusalem near their other relatives. ³⁹Ner was the father of Kish, the father of Saul. Saul was the father of Jonathan, Malchishua, Abinadab and Ishbosheth. ⁴⁰The son of Jonathan was Mephibosheth, who was the father of Micah. ⁴¹The sons of Micah were Pithon, Melech, Tahrea and Ahaz. ⁴²Ahaz was the father of Jadah (or Jehoadah). Jadah was the father of Alemeth, Azmaveth and Zimri. Zimri was the father of Moza. ⁴³Moza was the father of Binea, Binea of Raphaiah, Raphaiah of Eleasah and Eleasah of Azel. ⁴⁴Azel had six sons: Azrikam, Bocheru, Ishmael, Sheariah, Obadiah and Hanan.

The Death of Saul and His Sons

10 The Philistines fought against the Israelites on Mount Gilboa and defeated them. Many Israelites were killed and the rest of them fled. ²The Philistines chased Saul and his men and killed three of his sons, Jonathan, Abinadab and Malchishua. ³The fighting grew heavy around Saul, and one of the Philistine archers got close enough to wound him with an arrow. ⁴Realizing how bad his injury was, Saul said to his armor bearer, "Pull out your sword and run it through me before these godless Philistines come to ridicule and abuse me until I die."

But his armor bearer was afraid to touch the king and refused to do it. So Saul took his own sword, held the point against his body and fell on it. ⁵When his armor bearer saw that Saul was dead, he too fell on his sword and died. ⁶So Saul, three of his sons and all his other relatives who fought in that battle with him, died. ⁷When the rest of the Israelite army in the valley camped by the spring of Jezreel saw that Saul and his men were defeated and heard that he and his sons were dead, they left the towns and villages where they were camped and the Philistines moved in.

⁸The next day when the Philistines went through the battlefield on top of the mountain to strip the dead of their valuables. they found Saul and his sons. ⁹They cut off Saul's head, stripped him of his armor and sent messengers throughout the land of the Philistines to carry the good news to their people who, in turn, thanked their idols. ¹⁰They put Saul's armor as a trophy in the temple of their gods and his head in the temple of Dagon. ¹¹When the inhabitants of the city of Jabesh in Gilead heard what the Philistines had done to Saul, ¹²they sent their bravest men to get his body and the bodies of his sons and bring them back to Jabesh for burial. There the people buried Saul and his sons under the great oak. Then they fasted and mourned for seven days.

¹³Saul was defeated and killed by the Philistines because he had been unfaithful to the Lord and refused to obey—to the point of consulting a witch for advice. ¹⁴He hadn't asked the Lord what to do, so the Lord let him be killed and then turned the kingdom over to Jesse's son David.

David Made King Over Israel

1 David first made his home in Hebron, the capital of Judah. Seven years later, the leaders of Israel went to see him and said, "We are of the same flesh and blood. ²In the past, even when Saul was still our king, you were the one who led Israel into battle and brought us our victories. We know that the Lord has chosen you to lead Israel and to be our next king." ³So David made a covenant with the leaders of Israel and they anointed him to be their king. David then became king of all Israel just as the Lord had said he would when He spoke through Samuel.

The City of David

⁴David and his men who came from all parts of Israel attacked the city of Jebus in order to claim it as their capital. The Jebusites who lived there said to David, ⁵"You'll never get inside our city." The city was located on Mount Zion and was built like a fortress. But David captured it and renamed it Jerusalem. ⁶During the campaign David said to his men, "The first one who gets into the city and kills the gate keepers so we can come in will become commander-in-chief." Joab, the son of David's sister Zeruah, led his men into the city through a water shaft and became David's commander-in-chief. ⁷So David moved from Hebron to Jerusalem and proclaimed it the capital of all Israel, but the people called it the City of David. ⁸He expanded the city to the north to include the fortress of Millo and then commissioned Joab to oversee the restoration of the rest of the city. ⁹David became more and more powerful because the Lord Almighty was with him.

David's Mighty Warriors

¹⁰The people throughout Israel, together with David's mighty men, gave him their support just as the Lord had promised. ¹¹Here is a list of David's warriors: Jashobeam, the son of Hachmoni, the leader of The Famous Three. He raised his sword and spear against three hundred whom he killed in one battle and eight hundred altogether.

¹²Next among The Famous Three was Eleazar, son of Dodai, the Ahohite. ¹³He fought alongside David against the Philistines at the battle of Pas Dammim (or Ephes Dammin). He and David took their stand against the advancing Philistines in a field of barley while the other troops fled. ¹⁴They stopped in the middle of the field and fought off the Philistines and the Lord gave them the victory. Third of The Famous Three was Shammah, the son of Agee, the Hararite, who fought off a whole army of Philistines all by himself.

¹⁵Three other men of a group called The Mighty Thirty were with David in the cave near Adullam when the army of the Philistines camped in the valley of Rephaim. ¹⁶A Philistine garrison was stationed in Bethlehem. ¹⁷David longed for a drink of water from home and said, "O that I could have a drink of water from the well at Bethlehem!" ¹⁸So these three broke through the lines of the Philistines, drew water from the well by the gate of Bethlehem and brought it back to David. When he realized what they had done to get it, he refused to drink it and poured it out on the ground as a precious offering to the Lord. ¹⁹He said, "God forbid that I should drink this water. It would be like drinking the blood of these men." Because they had risked their lives to get the water, David wouldn't drink it. Such were the exploits of these three valiant men.

²⁰Abishai, the brother of Joab, was leader of The Mighty Thirty. He was not afraid to use his sword and spear against three hundred Philistines, all of whom he killed. He was the bravest of this group of thirty. ²¹Abishai was a mighty warrior, and he became as famous as The Famous Three.

²²Benaiah from the city of Kabzeel was another one known for his bravery. He killed two mighty Moabite warriors and went down into a pit on a day that snow had fallen and killed a trapped lion. ²³He also killed an Egyptian giant who was seven-and-a-half feet tall and who carried a huge spear. Benaiah attacked the giant with a club, took the spear from his hand and killed him with it. ²⁴These were just a few things that Benaiah did to win a name for himself. He became as famous for his exploits as were The Famous Three. ²⁵David made him commander of his bodyguard, even though he wasn't included with The Famous Three.

²⁶Here is a list of some of the mighty warriors that David had over the years: Asahel the brother of Joab, Elhanan the son of Dodo from Bethlehem, ²⁷Shammoth the Harorite, Helez the Pelonite, ²⁸Ira the son of Ikkesh from Tekoa, Abiezer from Anathoth, ²⁹Sibbecai the Hushathite (also known as Mebunnai), Ilai the Ahoite, ³⁰Maharai the Netophathite, Heled (or Heleb) the son of Baanah the Netophathite, ³¹Ithai the son of Ribai from Gibeah in Benjamin, Benaiah the Pirathonite, ³²Hurai (or Hiddai), from the valley near Gaash, Abiel the Arbathite, ³³Azmaveth the Baharumite, Eliahba the Shaalbonite, ³⁴Hashem the Gizonite, Jonathan the son of Shammah (or Shagee) the Hararite, ³⁵Ahiam the son of Sacar (or Sharar) the Hararite, Eliphal the son of Ur, ³⁶Hepher the Mecherathite, Ahijah the Pelonite, ³⁷Hezro (or Hezrai) the Carmelite, Naarai the son of Ezbai, ³⁸Joel the brother of Nathan, Mibhar the son of Hagri, ³⁹Zekek the Ammonite, Naharai the Beerothite who was the armor bearer of Joab, the commander-in-chief, ⁴⁰Ira and Gareb, the two Ithrites, ⁴¹Uriah the Hittite, Zabad the son of Ahlai, ⁴²Adina the son of Shiza the Reubenite, a leader among the Reubenite men with his own group of thirty, ⁴³Hanan the son of Maacah, Joshaphat the Mithnite, ⁴⁴Uzzia the Asherathite, Shama and Jeiel the sons of Hotham the Aroerite, ⁴⁵Jediael the son of Shimri, and his brother Joha the Tizite, ⁴⁶Eliel the Mahavite, Jeribai and Joshaviah the sons of Elnaam, Ithmah the Moabite, ⁴⁷Eliel, Obed and Jaasiel the Mesobaite.

David's Loyal Followers

12 While David was living in the Philistine-controlled city of Ziklag to escape from Saul, many experienced warriors joined him who had helped him in battle. ²They were armed with bows and could shoot arrows or sling stones with either the right or the left hand. These men were from Benjamin, the same tribe that Saul came from. ³They were under the command of Ahiezer and Joash, the sons of Shemaah from Gibeah. Other outstanding warriors were: Jeziel and Pelet the sons of Azmaveth, Beracah, Jehu the Anathothite, ⁴Ishmaiah the Gibeonite, a mighty warrior and one of The Mighty Thirty and a leader in his own right, Jeremiah, Jahaziel, Johanan, Jozabad the Gederathite, ⁵Eluzai, Jerimoth, Bealiah, Shemariah, Shephatiah the Haruphite, ⁶Elkanah, Isshiah, Azarel, Joezer and Jashobeam the Korahites, ⁷Joelah and Zebadiah the sons of Jeroham from Gedor.

⁸Some Gadites had joined David and his men while they were hiding in the wilderness. They were brave warriors trained for battle and experts in handling swords and shields. Their determination and their beards made them appear as fierce as lions, and they were as sure-footed and quick as mountain goats. ⁹Ezer was their leader, Obadiah was next in command and from there the chain of command went on down to Eliab, ¹⁰Mishmannah, Jeremiah, ¹¹Attai, Eliel, ¹²Johanah, Elzabad, ¹³Jeremiah and Machbannai. ¹⁴Some of these Gadites were put in charge of hundreds and others of thousands. ¹⁵They were the same men who had crossed the Jordan during the first month of the year when it reached flood stage and then drove out the settlers in the valleys on both sides of the river.

¹⁶When David and his men were in the wilderness, thirty men from Benjamin and Judah came to join him. ¹⁷David went out to meet them and said, "If you're coming in peace to help me, you're certainly welcome. But if you're joining me to betray me to my enemies even though I've done nothing to hurt you, the God of our fathers knows it and will punish you."

¹⁸Then the Spirit of the Lord came upon Amasai, leader of these thirty men, and he said to David, "We are yours, son of Jesse. Success to you and to all those who are with you. God is on your side and we know it." So David welcomed them and made them leaders in his army.

¹⁹Also some men from Manasseh went to join David when King Achish asked him to march with them against Saul. But David didn't have to fight against Saul because the Lord moved on the hearts of the Philistine commanders, and they realized that during the battle he could easily defect to Saul. So they sent him away. ²⁰It was then that the following leaders from Manasseh deserted Saul and joined David: Adnah, Jozabad, Jediahel, Michael, Jozabad, Elihu and Zillethai, who back home had been officers in charge of thousands. ²¹They helped David fight the Amalekites who had plundered Ziklag while David and his men were away, and later they became important officers in David's forces. ²²Almost every day new men joined David until he had quite a large and formidable army.

David's Army

²³When he moved from Ziklag to Hebron in Judah, a large number of experienced officers and men came to David to make him king in place of Saul. ²⁴From Judah came six thousand, eight hundred battle-hardened men armed with shields and spears. ²⁵From Simeon came seven thousand, one hundred experienced fighters. ²⁶From Levi came four thousand, six hundred. ²⁷Jehoiada, a descendant of Aaron, came with three thousand, seven hundred. ²⁸Zadok, a very capable young officer, came with twenty-two officers from his clan. ²⁹Only three thousand came from Benjamin because most of the tribe remained loyal to Saul who was a Benjamite. ³⁰From Ephraim came twenty thousand, eight hundred fighters, all of whom were famous among the Ephraimites. ³¹From West Manasseh came eighteen thousand chosen men determined to make David king. ³²From Issachar came two hundred top officers who knew what to do in battle and the right time to do it. They came with their men. ³³From Zebulun came fifty thousand experienced soldiers who could use every type of weapon and who were totally committed to David. ³⁴From Naphtali came one thousand officers and thirty-seven thousand men with shields and spears. ³⁵From Dan came twenty-eight thousand, six hundred men ready for battle. ³⁶From Asher came forty thousand experienced fighters. ³⁷From the tribes of Reuben, Gad and East Manasseh on the other side of Jordan, one hundred and twenty thousand.

³⁸All these were experienced men trained for battle. They came to Hebron all of one mind and were determined to make David king, as were the rest of Israel. ³⁹The men spent three days at Hebron celebrating the coronation of David, eating and drinking the food that their fellow countrymen had provided. ⁴⁰From as far away as Issachar, Zebulun and Naphtali, people came with donkeys, camels, mules and oxen loaded with food. They brought huge amounts of flour, figs, raisins, unfermented wine and olive oil, as well as cattle and sheep. All this was an expression of joy felt by the people throughout the country over their new king.

The Ark Moved From Kirjath Jearim

13 After David became king of all Israel and moved from Hebron to Jerusalem, he consulted with his officers over hundreds and thousands about bringing the Ark of the Lord there. ²Then he said to the people, "If you approve and if it's the will of God, let's send word to all the tribes and to the priests and Levites throughout the country that whoever wants to can come and join us as we bring the Ark of the Lord to Jerusalem. ³Then let's go to Kiriath Jearim, which is only about seven miles from here, and get the Ark. It's been there for almost forty years, and we haven't been going there to ask for God's counsel. Let's bring it here to give us the guidance we need as we begin our new nation." ⁴The people agreed with David because what he suggested seemed the right thing to do.

⁵So David invited the people of Israel from all over the country, from the Shihor River on the border of Egypt in the south to the Hamath Pass in the north, to come and join in the celebration of moving the Ark of God from Kiriath Jearim to Jerusalem. ⁶Then David and the people went to Kiriath Jearim (or Baalah), to get the Ark of God. This is where the mighty God of Israel appeared between the cherubim, and that is why it is called the Ark of God. ⁷The Levites moved the Ark out of Abinadab's house. They set it on a new cart like the one the Philistines had made when they sent the Ark back to Israel after capturing it during the days of Samuel. Then they asked Abinadab's sons Uzzah and Ahio, to take charge of the oxen and the cart. ⁸David and the people came with joy before the Lord, singing praises to Him accompanied by harps, lyres, tambourines, cymbals and trumpets.

⁹Now according to the instructions that the Lord had given to Moses, the Ark was to be carried on the shoulders of the Levites and not to be transported on a cart. They got as far as the threshing floor of Chidon (or Nacon) when the oxen stumbled and Uzzah, who was living in open sin, reached out and grabbed the Ark to steady it. ¹⁰When he did that, the Lord struck him down, because only the priests were supposed to touch the Ark, and Uzzah knew it. So he died in the presence of the Lord beside the Ark of God. ¹¹David was not happy with what the Lord had done and questioned His justice. So David named the place Perez Uzzah, meaning, The Punishment of Uzzah.

¹²David was now afraid to move the Ark any farther. He said, "How can I take the Ark of the Lord to Jerusalem when we're all afraid of what might happen to us?" ¹³So he decided to leave it right there. They carefully moved it to the house of Obed Edom the Gittite who was a Korahite Levite and a native of the city of Gath Rimmon. ¹⁴So the Ark of God stayed at the house of Obed Edom for three months before David got up enough courage to try to move it again. During this time the Lord greatly blessed Obed Edom and his family in everything they did.

David Makes Jerusalem His Capital

14 Hiram, king of the coastal city of Tyre, sent messengers to David in Jerusalem offering to provide him with cedar logs, stone cutters and carpenters whenever he got ready to build his palace. David gladly accepted his offer. ²He knew that it was the Lord who had made him king over Israel and who was blessing the country for the sake of His people whom He loved.

³After David made Jerusalem his capital and was established as king of all Israel, he followed the custom of other kings and took more wives and concubines and had many sons and daughters.

⁴These are the names of some of his sons born in Jerusalem: Solomon, Shammua (or Shimea), Shobab, Nathan, ⁵Ibhar, Elishua, Elpalet (who died young), ⁶Nogah, Nepheg, Japhia, ⁷Elishama, Beeliada and Eliphelet.

The Philistines Defeated

⁸When the Philistines heard that David had become king of Israel, they called up all their troops and marched against Israel looking for him. David heard about it and went out to fight against them. ⁹The Philistines began plundering villages in the Valley of Rephaim. ¹⁰Then David prayed to the Lord, "Should I attack the Philistines? Will you go with me?" The Lord said, "Go, and I'll help you defeat them." ¹¹So David and his men attacked the Philistines at Baal Perazim and defeated them. Then he said, "The Lord helped me break out against my enemy and overwhelm their forces like a flood." That's why the place is called Baal Perazim meaning The God Who Breaks Out Against His Enemies. ¹²The Philistines fled so quickly that they left their idols behind. David ordered his men to gather them up and burn them.

¹³Before long, the Philistines came back and started plundering the villages again. ¹⁴Once more David asked the Lord what to do. The Lord said, "This time don't meet their forces head on as you did before, but circle around them and prepare to attack them from the side by the mulberry trees. ¹⁵When you get there, wait until you hear the sound of marching in the tops of the trees, then move out to battle, because this means that I'm marching out ahead of you to defeat the Philistines." ¹⁶David did what the Lord said and defeated the Philistines from Gibeon to Gezer. ¹⁷After this David's fame spread everywhere, and the Lord made all the surrounding nations afraid of him.

The Ark Finally Brought to Jerusalem

15 David began building houses and expanding the city of Jebus, which he had taken from the Jebusites. He renamed it Jerusalem, but the people called it the City of David. It was there that he prepared a place for the Ark of God and set up a tent for it. (The original Sanctuary tent that Moses had made was still standing in Gibeon.) ²After three months, David decided to try again to bring the Ark of God to Jerusalem. He said to the people, "This time we will not place the Ark of the Lord on a cart but the Levites will carry it because the Lord told Moses this is how it should be done." ³Again he invited the people of Israel to come and take part in the joyous occasion of bringing the Ark of the Lord to Jerusalem. ⁴He also asked the descendants of Aaron and the Levites to come and help.

⁵One hundred and twenty descendants through Kohath came together under the direction of Uriel, ⁶two hundred and twenty descendants through Merari under the direction of Asaiah, ⁷one hundred and thirty descendants through Gershon under the direction of Joel, ⁸two hundred descendants through Elizaphan under the direction of Shemaiah, ⁹eighty descendants through Hebron under the direction of Eliel, ¹⁰and one hundred and twelve descendants through Uzziel under the direction of Amminadab. ¹¹Then David called in Zadok and Abiathar, the high priests, and Uriel, Asaiah, Joel, Shemaiah, Eliel and Amminadab, the Levites, and talked to them.

¹²He said, "You are all leaders and heads of Levite families. I want you to con-secrete yourselves and get ready to bring the Ark of the Lord to Jerusalem and set it in the place I prepared for it. ¹³This time you must carry the Ark on your shoulders as the Lord wants us to and not place it on a cart as we did the first time. That's why the Lord was so displeased with us. I want the priests to supervise everything to make sure it's done right."

¹⁴So the priests and the Levites consecrated themselves and got ready to bring the Ark of the Lord to Jerusalem. ¹⁵They went to the house of Obed Edom where the Ark was and carried it with poles on their shoulders exactly as the Lord had told Moses it should be done.

¹⁶David had also told the leaders of the Levites to appoint some of their number to sing joyful praises to the Lord and other Levites to accompany them with lyres, harps and cymbals. ¹⁷So the Levites appointed Heman son of Joel, his relative Asaph son of Berechiah, and Ethan the Merarite who was the son of Kushaiah. ¹⁸The second group included Zechariah, Jaaziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattithiah, Eliphelehu, Mikneiah, Obed Edom and Jeiel. ¹⁹Heman, Asaph and Ethan were to play the bronze cymbals, ²⁰Zechariah, Aziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Maaseiah and Benaiah were to play the composition called "Alamoth" on the high-pitched lyres. ²¹Mattithiah, Eliphelehu, Mikneiah, Obed Edom, Jeiel and Azaziah were to play the composition of the eighth octave of Sheminith on the low-pitched lyres. ²²Chenaniah was put in charge of the choir because he was a talented singer.

²³Berechiah and Elkanah were chosen as guards of the Ark. ²⁴The priests Sheb-aniah, Joshaphat, Nethanel, Amasai, Zechariah, Benaiah, and Eliezer were asked to walk ahead of the Ark and blow the trumpets. Obed Edom and Jehiah were the other two guards.

²⁵Then David, the leaders of Israel and the commanders of the units of a thousand, went to Obed Edom's house and brought the Ark of the Lord to Jerusalem with great rejoicing. ²⁶The Lord blessed the Levites for carrying the Ark. After six paces, they sacrificed a young bull and a fattened sheep as an expression of thanksgiving until seven of each had been sacrificed. ²⁷David wore a plain white linen sleeveless garment like the priests wear. Over that he wore a linen robe, as did the musicians and Levites who were carrying the Ark.

²⁸So the people of Israel brought the Ark of the Lord to Jerusalem with shouts of joy, accompanied by the sound of rams' horns, trumpets, cymbals, lyres and harps. ²⁹As they came into the city, David's wife Michal, the daughter of Saul, watched from the window of her house. When she saw the king of Israel jumping for joy before the Lord, she was embarrassed by his undignified behavior. When the ceremonies were over she scolded him for what he had done.

The Ark Placed in the Tent

16 They brought the Ark to the place David had prepared for it and set it inside the tent. Then they offered both burnt offerings and peace offerings to the Lord. ²After the offering of sacrifices was over, David blessed the people in the name of the Lord. ³Then he expressed his love for the people by giving each man and woman a loaf of bread, along with some dates and raisins.

⁴He appointed certain Levites to lead out in worship before the Ark of the Lord by praying for the people, giving thanks to the Lord and praising Him for what He had done for Israel. ⁵Asaph was put in charge and Zechariah was his assistant. Jeiel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Mattithiah, Eliab, Benaiah, Obed Edom and Jeiel were to play the lyres and harps and Asaph the cymbals. ⁶The two priests, Benaiah and Jahaziel were appointed to blow the trumpets before the Ark during worship.

David's Song of Praise

⁷David also gave Asaph and his brothers the following thanksgiving hymn to sing that he had written for the occasion:

¹⁴"He is the Lord our God; His commandments are for everyone. ¹⁵He will keep His covenant forever; His promise stands for a thousand generations. ¹⁶The covenant He first made with Abraham, He confirmed with an oath to Isaac; ¹⁷He renewed it with Jacob and gave it to Israel to be theirs forever. ¹⁸He said, 'I will give you the land of Canaan as your inheritance.'

¹⁹"Our ancestors were few in number and were strangers in the land. ²⁰They wandered from place to place, pitching their tents in one little kingdom and then another. ²¹The Lord allowed no one to oppress them. For their sake He warned kings not to harm them. ²²He said, 'Do not touch my people; do my prophets no harm.'

²⁸"Praise the Lord, all people on earth; praise His glory and His might. ²⁹Give the Lord the glory that is due His name. Bring an offering and come before Him with praise. Worship the Lord in the splendor of His holiness. ³⁰Let all the people of the earth bow before Him. He set the earth firmly in its path so that it cannot be moved. ³¹Let the heavens rejoice; let the earth be glad! Tell the world: The Lord is King! ³²Let the oceans and every creature in them praise the Lord. Let the fields and everything in them be jubilant and rejoice. ³³Let the trees of the forest sing. Let them sing with joy before the Lord. Let them sing because the Lord is coming to put an end to sin. ³⁴Give thanks to the Lord, for He is good. His love continues forever.

³⁵"Call out to Him, 'Save us, O Lord! Deliver us from our enemies. We will be forever thankful and praise your holy name. ³⁶Praise be to the Lord, the God of Israel. Praise Him now and forever.'

The people loved the hymn that David had written, and they all said, "Amen! Praise the Lord!"

Levitical Duties

³⁷Then David left Asaph and the other Levites in charge of the Ark of the Lord to minister there daily. ³⁸He asked Obed Edom the son of Jeduthun and sixty-eight Levites to assist in the services. He and Hosah were also to serve as guards for the Ark. ³⁹David left Zadok the priest and his fellow priests in charge of the Sanctuary at Gibeon. ⁴⁰Every morning and evening they were to offer sacrifices on the altar of burnt offering according to the instructions that the Lord had given through Moses. ⁴¹Heman and Jeduthun and other Levites were asked to sing praises to the Lord, giving thanks for His love which continues forever. ⁴²These men were also responsible for playing the trumpets, cymbals and other instruments that accompanied the songs. The sons of Jeduthun guarded the gates.

⁴³Then all the people left and went home. David also went home and blessed his family.

God's Promise to David

17 After David had moved into his palace, he called in Nathan the prophet and said to him, "Here I am living in a palace of cedar while the Ark of the Lord sits in a tent." ²Nathan said, "Whatever you have in mind to do for the Lord, do it, because He is with you."

³That night the Lord said to Nathan, ⁴"Tomorrow morning go back to David and say to him, 'This is what the Lord, the God of Israel says: You are not to build a house for me. ⁵I have not lived in a house from the day I brought the children of Israel out of Egypt until now. I have moved from one campsite to another, to be with my people. ⁶When I moved, did I ever ask the leaders of Israel whom I chose to care for my people why they hadn't thought of building a house of cedar for me? ⁷Tell my servant David, This is what the Lord of the heavenly army says: I took you from looking after sheep in the field and made you king of Israel. ⁸I've been with you wherever you have gone. I have defeated all your enemies for you. And I will give you a name among the names of the greatest men on earth.

⁹I will make a place for my people and will settle them in this place. They will have a land they can call their own and will not be oppressed as they have been. ¹⁰From the time of the judges until now, they've been mistreated by their neighbors, but I will subdue their enemies. The royal line of your descendants will last forever. ¹¹When you die and sleep beside your fathers, one of your sons will be the next king. I will extend his kingdom and make it strong. ¹²He will build a house for me and I will establish his family on the throne forever. ¹³I will be a father to him and he will be a son to me. I will not take my supportive love away from him as I had to from Saul. ¹⁴I will put him in charge of my people and set him over my kingdom forever. His royal house will never end.'"

David and told him everything the Lord had said. ¹⁶Then David went to the tent where the Ark was and prayed to the Lord,

"Lord God of Israel, who am I and who is my family that you have made us so important to you? ¹⁷As if what you have done weren't enough, now you've said that you will build a line of kings through my son that will last forever. You've treated me as if I were some important person. ¹⁸What can I say? You know me better than I know myself, yet you have honored me, your servant, and set me over your people. ¹⁹O Lord, out of pure kindness you have done all this for me. You have shown me the future greatness of my descendants and I don't deserve it.

²⁰"There is no one like you. There's no other God who even exists beside you. ²¹What nation is there like Israel? What other nation has been rescued from slavery and made to be a special people to the God of heaven and earth? What other God has made a name for Himself by performing such mighty miracles and driving out nations to make room for those He has redeemed? ²²You have made the people of Israel your own and have become their God forever.

²³"Now, O Lord, let the promise you have made to me about my family be carried out according to your will. ²⁴May my house be established and may your name be honored as great forever. May people everywhere say, 'The Lord, the mighty God, the God of heaven and earth, is the God of Israel.' Under your kingly rule the house of David will stand forever. ²⁵Lord, I have courage to pray this prayer because of the promise you have made regarding my descendants. ²⁶O Lord, there is no doubt that you are God. You are the One who promised all these wonderful things to your servant. ²⁷Now, Lord, bless my family. Help them to be obedient so you can shower them with your blessings, for what you bless is blessed forever."

David's Victories

18 Some time later David again fought off the Philistines and defeated them. He took the city of Gath with its surrounding villages. It was their mother city but he made it part of Israel. ²He defeated the Moabites, and they became subject to him and agreed to be taxed.

³He also fought against Hadadezer from Zobah, the king of Syria who was trying to extend his territory to include Hamath by the upper Euphrates River. ⁴David defeated him and captured a thousand chariots, seven thousand horsemen and twenty thousand foot soldiers. He cut the hamstrings of all the horses so they couldn't be used for war again, except for a hundred chariot horses which he kept for himself. ⁵When the Syrians from Damascus sent an army to help Hadadezer, David defeated them too, and killed twenty-two thousand of their troops. ⁶Then he stationed troops in Zobah and Damascus, and the people there became subject to him and agreed to be taxed. The Lord gave David victory everywhere he went. ⁷He took the gold shields that Hadadezer's officers had and brought these shields to Jerusalem. ⁸He also captured the cities of Tebah and Cun which belonged to Hadadezer and took large quantities of bronze back with him to Jerusalem. This is what Solomon used when he made the huge laver, the pillars and the other bronze utensils for the Temple.

⁹When Toi (or Tou), king of Hamath, heard that David had defeated Hadadezer's entire army, ¹⁰he sent his son Hadoram with a delegation to David to congratulate him on his victory and to express his gratitude because Hadadezer had been at war with him also. Hadoram also brought David gifts of gold, silver and bronze. ¹¹David accepted these gifts and dedicated them to the Lord along with the silver and gold he had taken from the Edomites, Moabites, Ammonites, Philistines and Amalekites.

¹²Abishai, the brother of Joab, defeated the Edomites in the Valley of Salt and in the process killed eighteen thousand of their men. ¹³Then David stationed troops in Edom and the people became subject to him and agreed to be taxed. Wherever David's armies went the Lord gave them the victory.

David's Government

¹⁴David treated everyone in Israel and in territories subject to him with justice and equity. ¹⁵Joab, the son of David's sister Zeruijah, was in charge of the entire army. Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud, was in charge of the country's records. ¹⁶Zadok, son of Ahitub, and Abiathar, assisted by his son Ahimelech, served jointly as high priests. Ahimelech's grandfather was the one who had given David holy bread when he fled from Saul. Shavsha was David's secretary. ¹⁷Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada was in charge of the Cherethites and Pelethites, David's personal bodyguards. David's sons were given positions as princes of the court.

The Defeat of the Ammonites and Syrians

19 When Nahash, king of the Ammonites, died and his son Hanun became king, ²David thought: His father was kind to my parents when I had to flee from Saul. I will show kindness to Hanun. So David sent a delegation to express his sympathy to the new king. When the delegation arrived, ³the Ammonite leaders said to Hanun, "Do you think David sent these men here just to comfort you? They've come to spy out the land so they can conquer us." ⁴Hanun believed what his leaders said and had David's men arrested. He ordered half their beards shaved off, cut their robes at the hips and sent them home. ⁵When David heard about this, he sent word to his men to stay in Jericho until their beards had grown back before coming back.

⁶Hanun and his leading men knew that this would anger David and bring on a war, which is what they were after.

Hanun hired some mercenaries and paid over thirty-five tons of silver for chariots and horsemen from the Syrian states of Maacah and Zobah in Upper Mesopotamia to come and help them fight against David. ⁷He also hired thirty-two thousand mercenaries and a thousand men from Maacah to come and set up camp near Medeba. The Ammonites mobilized all their own men also, and together they moved out for battle. ⁸When David heard about this, he sent Israel's entire army under the command of Joab to meet them. ⁹The Ammonites came out and drew up the battle lines at the entrance of Rabbah while their allies took their men to the open country where they could use their chariots.

¹⁰Joab noted that there were battle lines in front of him and to the side, and that those to the side were ready to use their chariots and swing around behind him. So he took his best troops and got ready to go against the Syrians in the open country. ¹¹He put Abishai, his brother, in charge of the rest of the men and sent them against the Ammonites. ¹²Joab said to him, "If the Syrians are too much for me, then send some of your troops to help me. If the Ammonites are too much for you, I'll send some of my troops to help you. That way we can defeat first one army and then the other." ¹³Let's be courageous and fight bravely for our people and the cities of our God. May the Lord's will be done in this battle." ¹⁴Then Joab took his men and attacked the Syrian forces. He defeated them, and they turned and ran. ¹⁵When the Ammonites saw what was happening to their allies, they, too, turned and ran back into the city for protection. Then Joab and Abishai ordered their men to stop fighting, and they returned to Jerusalem.

¹⁶After the Syrians were defeated, they sent messengers back home asking that reinforcements be sent to them from beyond the Euphrates River. So Hadadezer, whom David had defeated before, recruited more troops, placed them under the command of Shobach and sent them south. ¹⁷When David heard about this, he called up all his men and personally went out with them to meet the Syrians. They crossed the Jordan River and headed north to attack the combined forces of Syrians and Ammonites. ¹⁸David defeated them and altogether killed seven thousand charioteers and forty thousand foot soldiers. He also killed Shobach, their commander. ¹⁹When the local kings who were subject to Hadadezer realized that their combined forces had been defeated, they made peace with David and chose to be subject to him rather than the Syrians. After that, the Syrians never again came to help the Ammonites fight Israel.

David Captures Rabbah

20 In the spring of the following year, when armies usually went to war, Joab led his men back to fight the Ammonites while David stayed in Jerusalem. Joab besieged the capital of Rabbah and overthrew it. ²Then he asked David to come from Jerusalem to have the honor of marching the troops into the fallen city. David took charge of the troops, marched them into the city, took the crown off the head of their idol and, as a sign of victory, placed it for a moment on his own head. The crown weighed seventy-five pounds. It was made of solid gold and contained many precious stones. David took the crown and a large amount of plunder out of that city. ³He also took people from all the other Ammonite cities and consigned them to work with picks, saws and axes. Then he and his army went back to Jerusalem.

Battles Against the Philistine Giants

⁴Later war broke out with the Philistines at Gezer. It was during this battle that Sibbecai, one of David's mighty warriors, killed Sippai (or Saph), one of the giants. Again the Philistines were defeated. ⁵In another battle, Elhanan, son of Jair, killed the giant Lahmi, brother of Goliath. Lahmi's spear was as thick as a weaver's beam.⁶In still another battle with the Philistines near Gath, there was a warrior with six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot. He, too, was one of the giants.⁷When he challenged Israel, Jonathan, the son of David's brother, killed him.⁸These three giants were descendants of Rapha, the giant from Gath, and all three were killed by David's men.

The Census of Israel and Judah

21 Satan wanted to bring trouble on Israel so he played on the pride of David and tempted him to take a census to find out how many men of military age there were in the country.²David called in Joab and the other officers and said to them, "I want you to take a census of the people from Dan in the north to Beersheba in the south. Then report back to me so I can know how big an army I can count on if I need it."³Joab said, "With the Lord on our side, we already have an army a hundred times bigger than it appears. Why worry about how many more men of military age we have? This shows a lack of faith in the Lord. If we take this census we'll all be guilty of sin."⁴But the king insisted and overruled Joab. So he and his officers went throughout Israel taking the king's census. It took over nine months, and when they were finished, they returned to Jerusalem.⁵Joab reported to David the number of men who could be called up for war at a moment's notice. There were one million, one hundred thousand from Israel, including David's standing army of about three hundred thousand. From Judah alone, there were almost five hundred thousand.⁶Joab didn't like the king's command, so he didn't count the men from the tribe of Levi because it was against the law of Moses, nor did he count the men from Benjamin, because they refused to be numbered.

⁷What David had done greatly displeased the Lord, because the enemies of Israel would read into this that Israel's strength was in numbers—in their huge army and not in their God. So the Lord decided to discipline David for what he had done.⁸When God told David what He planned to do, David repented and said, "I have sinned a great sin by doing this. I've been a fool to give in to my pride and draw the people's attention away from you."⁹The Lord said to the prophet Gad,¹⁰"Go to David and tell him that this is what the Lord says, 'I'm giving you three options. You choose which one you think is best for you.'" ¹¹So Gad went to David and said, "This is what the Lord says: 'I'm giving you three options. Choose which discipline you want. ¹²Do you want three years of famine, three months of successive defeats by attacking armies, or three days of an epidemic from the Lord to sweep across the land?'" Gad said, "Let me know what you decide so I can give the Lord your answer."¹³David said, "I have sinned by giving in to my own pride. Let me fall into the hands of the Lord, for He is very merciful. Let us not fall into the hands of man."

¹⁴So the Lord sent an epidemic on Israel, and seventy thousand men across the country died in a matter of three days.¹⁵The angel was ready to destroy those of military age in Jerusalem, but the Lord said, "Stop! That's enough!" When the Lord said this, the angel was hovering over the threshing floor of Ornan (Araunah) the Jebusite on the plateau of Mount Moriah where Abraham almost sacrificed his son Isaac.¹⁶The Lord opened David's eyes and he saw the angel hovering in midair with a drawn sword in his hand extended over Jerusalem. Then David and the leaders of Israel, all of whom were wearing sackcloth to show their repentance, fell on their knees and bowed face down to the ground.¹⁷David prayed to the Lord, "I was the one who ordered the census to be taken. I am the one who lost faith in you. But as for the people, these sheep, what have they done? Let this sickness fall on me and kill me. I'm the one who deserves it. But spare my men."

¹⁸Then the Lord said to Gad, "Go and tell David to build an altar on Ornan's threshing floor." ¹⁹So David obeyed the prophet and went there. ²⁰Now while Ornan and his four sons were threshing wheat, the Lord opened their eyes, and they too saw the angel hovering in midair with a sword in his hand. When his sons saw this, they ran and hid. ²¹Just then David came. When Ornan saw him coming, he left the threshing floor and went to greet David. Then he fell on his knees in front of the king and bowed with his face down to the ground. ²²David said, "Stand up. Let me ask you something. Are you willing to sell your threshing floor? I want to build an altar to the Lord here to help stop this epidemic. I'll pay you the full price, no questions asked." ²³Ornan said, "Take it. I'll be glad to give it to you. Let the king do with it whatever he wants. I'll also give you these oxen. You may sacrifice them to the Lord. Use the boards from this threshing floor for wood and the wheat for the food offering. I'll give it all to you for nothing." ²⁴David said, "No, I'll pay you the full price. I'm not going to give something to the Lord which costs me nothing." ²⁵So David paid Ornan for the oxen and six hundred gold coins for the hill. ²⁶He built an altar to the Lord there and had the priests get the whole burnt offerings and peace offerings ready for sacrifice. David prayed and the Lord answered him by sending fire from heaven to burn up the sacrifices on the altar. ²⁷Then the Lord spoke to the angel and told him to put away his sword.

²⁸When David saw that the Lord had answered his prayer, he asked the priests to offer sacrifices of thanksgiving on the same altar. ²⁹Now the Sanctuary and the altar of sacrifice that Moses had built in the wilderness were still in Gibeon. ³⁰But David didn't leave Jerusalem to go there to pray because he was afraid of the angel of the Lord. He preferred praying by the altar on Mount Moriah.

David Makes Plans to Build the Temple

22 Then David said, "This is where the Temple of the Lord must be built. And the altar of sacrifice for burnt offerings is to be built here also."

²So he gave orders to call together all the foreigners living in Israel and he offered them jobs working for the government. Some were skilled stonemasons and cut huge blocks for the Temple. Others were skilled in working with metals. ³David supplied them with iron for making nails and hinges for the gates. And he provided them with so much bronze it couldn't be weighed. ⁴He also supplied them with many carefully cut cedar logs imported from Tyre and Sidon. ⁵David said, "The Temple of the Lord must not be something ordinary, but something magnificent and full of splendor that will attract the attention of all people. Solomon is still young and inexperienced so I will design the Temple for him and do all I can to get things ready."

⁶Then David called for his son Solomon and said, "My son, I want you to build the Temple according to the pattern the Lord gave me. ⁷I had my heart set on building the Temple more than anything else in the world. ⁸But the Lord told me through Nathan the prophet, 'You have fought too many wars and shed too much blood. I don't want people associating war and bloodshed with my Temple. My Temple is to be a house of peace for all people. ⁹But one of your sons will become king and people will associate him with peace and prosperity. Solomon will build my Temple. His name means Peace, and during his reign I will bring rest to the people of Israel. ¹⁰He will build my Temple, and I will be a father to him, and he will be a son to me. I will establish his royal house in Israel forever.'

¹¹"So you see, my son, the Lord has spoken. He will be with you and help you build this Temple and give you success in doing so just as He said He would. ¹²May the Lord also give you wisdom and understanding when He puts you in charge of the country and helps you keep His commandments and His laws. ¹³If you obey Him and observe the ordinances that the Lord gave us through Moses, then the Lord can bless you and you'll be successful in everything you do. So be confident and full of courage. Don't let anything make you afraid. ¹⁴I have all these building materials ready for you. I have nearly four thousand tons of gold and almost forty thousand tons of silver. I have huge quantities of bronze and iron, probably more than you'll need. I have supplies of wood and stone, but you'll need more. ¹⁵You have a lot of workmen right here in Israel to help you—stonecutters, masons and carpenters. You also have men skilled in working with metals, such as ¹⁶gold, silver, bronze and iron. You've got all the skilled labor you need. When you're ready to begin, the Lord will be there to help you."

¹⁷Then David ordered all the leaders of Israel to be prepared to help Solomon. ¹⁸He said to them, "Hasn't the Lord been with you and given you peace on all sides from your enemies? Hasn't the Lord helped us conquer the people of this land? Today they're subject to the Lord and to you. ¹⁹Serve the Lord with all your heart and soul and mind and strength. When my son Solomon becomes king and starts to build the Temple, help him. Then when it's complete, take the Ark of the Lord from its tent and set it in the Temple where it belongs, together with everything that goes with it."

The Work of the Levites

23 When David grew too old to rule, he made his son Solomon king of Israel. ²He also called together all the leaders, priests and Levites to organize them for service in the Temple. ³He ordered a census taken of the Levites thirty years and older. There were thirty-eight thousand of them.

⁴David said to them, "I want twenty-four thousand of you to carry on the work in the Temple and six thousand of you to serve as officials and judges. ⁵Four thousand of you are to be gate keepers, and four thousand are to serve as musicians using the instruments I've provided." ⁶Then David divided the Levites into three groups corresponding to the sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

⁷Gershon, the first son of Levi, had two sons: Ladan and Shimei. ⁸Ladan had three sons: Jehiel, Zetham and Joel. ⁹The sons of a nephew named Shimei were Shelomoth, Haziël and Haran. ¹⁰Ladan's brother Shimei also had four sons: Jahath, Zizah, Jeush and Beriah. They belonged to the tribe of Levi. ¹¹Jahath was registered as the firstborn and Zizah (or Zina) as the second, but Jeush and Beriah had no sons, so they were enrolled as a single family.

¹²Kohath, the second son of Levi, had four sons: Amram, Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel. ¹³Kohath's oldest son, Amram, was the father of Moses and Aaron. Aaron and his descendants were set apart to serve as priests. They were to take charge of the sacred objects in the Sanctuary, to offer sacrifices to the Lord and to bless the people in the Lord's name. ¹⁴The sons of Moses were counted as being part of the Levites. ¹⁵Moses had two sons: Gershom and Eliezer. ¹⁶Gershom had a number of sons, the firstborn being Shebuel (or Shubael). ¹⁷Eliezer had only one son and his name was Rehabiah. But Rehabiah had many sons. ¹⁸Kohath's second son, Izhar, had Shelomith. ¹⁹Kohath's third son, Hebron, had four sons: Jeriah, Amariah, Jehaziël and Jekameam. ²⁰Kohath's fourth son, Uzziel, had Micah and Isshiah.

²¹Merari, the third son of Levi, had two sons: Mahli and Mushi. Mahli had two sons: Eleazar and Kish. ²²Eleazar had only daughters. Their cousins, the sons of Kish, married them. ²³Merari's second son, Mushi, had three sons: Mahli, Eder and Jerimoth.

²⁴These were the descendants of Levi by heads of family groups as they were registered. All the men twenty years and older had an assignment to work in the Temple. ²⁵David said, "The Lord God of Israel has given His people peace and has come to Jerusalem to live. ²⁶So the descendants of Levi no longer need to carry the Sanctuary and all its articles of furniture from place to place."

²⁷Based on David's instructions all Levites from twenty years old and up were registered for service. ²⁸The duty of the Levites was to help the descendants of Aaron with the services of the Temple. The priests were in charge of the courtyard, the side rooms and purification of the holy things. They were to make sure that all functions were carried out properly. ²⁹They were also in charge of the holy bread on the sacred table, flour for grain offerings, the wafers made without yeast, and baked offerings, as well as the flour mixed with oil. ³⁰Every morning and evening they were to begin and end the day by giving thanks and praising the Lord. ³¹Also, when the special offerings were burned on the Sabbath, at New Moon Festivals and at other appointed festivals they were to praise the Lord. They were to take turns according to the number required. ³²So the Levites carried out their responsibilities in connection with the services of the Sanctuary under the direction of their relatives, the priests who were descendants of Aaron, a descendant of Levi.

The Work of the Priests

24 The descendants of Aaron who served as priests were also divided into groups and given their assignments. Aaron's sons were Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. ²Nadab and Abihu had died long before Aaron their father because they disobeyed the Lord, and they left no sons. Only

Eleazar and Ithamar were left to serve as priests. ³So when David organized the descendants of Aaron into groups, he asked Zadok, a descendant of Eleazar, and Abiathar, a descendant of Ithamar, together with his son Ahimelech, to help him. ⁴There were many descendants of Eleazar, so they were organized into sixteen groups, but the descendants of Ithamar were organized into only eight groups. ⁵Since there were administrators of the Sanctuary and also supervising priests among both groups, their assignments were made impartially by drawing lots. ⁶The descendants of Eleazar and Ithamar took turns drawing lots, and Shemaiah, son of Nethanel, was chosen as secretary to record each name to be drawn. This was done in the presence of the king, the princes, Zadok and Abiathar who served as high priests assisted by Abiathar's son Ahimelech, and the leaders of the ancestral houses of the Levites and priests.

⁷The first drawing produced the name of Jehoiarib, the second Jedaiah, ⁸the third Harim, the fourth Seorim, ⁹the fifth Malchijah, the sixth Mijamin, ¹⁰the seventh Hakkoz, the eighth Abijah, ¹¹the ninth Jeshua, the tenth Shecaniah, ¹²the eleventh Eliashib, the twelfth Jakim, ¹³the thirteenth Huppah, the fourteenth Jeshebeab, ¹⁴the fifteenth Bilgah, the sixteenth Immer, ¹⁵the seventeenth Hezir, the eighteenth Happizez, ¹⁶the nineteenth Pethahiah, the twentieth Jehezkel, ¹⁷the twenty-first Jachin, the twenty-second Gamul, ¹⁸the twenty-third Delaiah, and the twenty-fourth Maaziah. ¹⁹These were the leaders of groups of priests who were to serve in scheduled order at the Temple. They were to carry out their responsibilities according to the regulations handed down to them by Aaron as the Lord had told him.

Other Leaders Among the Levites

²⁰The leaders among the Levites were: Jehdeiah, a descendant of Amram through Shubeal, ²¹Isshiah, a descendant of Rehabiah, ²²Jahath, a descendant of Izhar through Shelomoth, ²³Jeriah, Amariah, Jehaziel and Jekameam, all sons of Hebron, ²⁴Shamir, a descendant of Uzziel through Micah, ²⁵Zechariah, a descendant of Uzziel through Isshiah who was Micah's brother, ²⁶Mahli, Mushi and Jaaziah, descendants of Merari, ²⁷Shoham, Zaccur, Ibri and Beno, all sons of Jaaziah, ²⁸Eleazar and Kish, both of whom were sons of Mahli,—Eleazar had no sons, ²⁹Jerabmeel, the son of Kish, ³⁰and also Mahli, Eder and Jerimoth, the sons of Mushi. These were the leaders of the various ancestral houses of Levi. ³¹They also drew lots for their assignments as their relatives, the priests, had done. They did this in the presence of the king, Zadok and Abiathar and his son Ahimelech and the leaders of the ancestral houses of the priests and Levites. The oldest and youngest were all treated the same.

The Temple Musicians

25 Then David and the religious leaders separated some of the sons of Asaph, Heman and Jeduthun into three groups to serve as musicians to give God's messages in song, using harps, lyres and cymbals. Here is a list of the ones chosen to serve in each group: ²There were the four sons of Asaph: Zaccur, Joseph, Nethaniah and Asharelah. They were under the direction of their father and gave God's message in song as requested by the king. ³Then there were the six sons of Jeduthun: Gedaliah, Zeri, Jeshaiiah, Shimei, Hashabiah and Mattithiah. They were under the direction of their father and also gave God's message in song, together with praise and thanksgiving accompanied by harps. ⁴There were fourteen sons of Heman: Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel (or Shubael), Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, Romamti Ezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir and Mahazioth. ⁵God gave Heman the gift of prophecy who then served also as David's seer. God blessed Heman and gave him fourteen sons and three daughters. ⁶All his sons were musicians skilled in playing instruments such as the cymbal, harp and lyre. They served in the Temple under the direction of their father as requested by the king. ⁷These leaders, together with their relatives from the tribe of Levi, made up a group of two hundred and eighty-eight musicians. ⁸They cast lots for their duties and made no distinction between teacher and student. There were twenty-four groups of twelve, each with its leader.

⁹The drawing of lots was to decide on the order in which the twenty-four sons of Asaph, Jeduthun and Heman were to serve and lead each group of twelve. The first drawing began with the family of Asaph and it came up with the name of Joseph, the second drawing, with the name of Gedaliah, ¹⁰the third, with Zaccur, ¹¹the fourth, with Izri, ¹²the fifth, with Nethaniah, ¹³the sixth, with Bukkiah, ¹⁴the seventh, with Asharelah, ¹⁵the eighth, with Jeshaiiah, ¹⁶the ninth, with Mattaniah, ¹⁷the tenth, with Shimei, ¹⁸the eleventh, with Azarel (or Uzziel), ¹⁹the twelfth, with Hashabiah, ²⁰the thirteenth, with Shubael, ²¹the fourteenth, with Mattithiah, ²²the fifteenth, with Jerimoth (or Jerimoth), ²³the sixteenth, with Hananiah, ²⁴the seventeenth, with Joshbekashah, ²⁵the eighteenth, with Hanani, ²⁶the nineteenth, with Mallothi, ²⁷the twentieth, with Eliathah, ²⁸the twenty-first, with Hothir, ²⁹the twenty-second, with Giddalti, ³⁰the twenty-third, with Mahazioth, ³¹the twenty-fourth, with Romamti Ezer.

The Temple Guards

26 Here are the assignments of the Levites who were chosen to be the gate keepers and who later served as Temple guards: From the Korahites: Meshelemiah, the son of Kore, one of the sons of Asaph. ²Meshelemiah and his sons: Zechariah, Jediael, Zebadiah, Jathniel, ³Elam, Jehohanan and Eliehoenai. ⁴Next Obed Edom and his sons: Shemaiah, Jehozabad, Joah, Sacar, Nethanel, ⁵Ammiel, Issachar and Peullethai. ⁶The Lord blessed Obed Edom's grandsons that he had through Shemaiah, and they all developed into capable leaders. ⁷They were: Othni, Rephael, Obed, Elzabad, Elihu and Shemachiah. The last two were very good leaders. ⁸Altogether there were sixty-two descendants of Obed Edom, and all of them were highly qualified for the work of the Lord. ⁹Meshelemiah had eighteen descendants, all of whom were capable men. ¹⁰Hosah, the Merarite, was put in charge of the gate keepers. His son Shimri was made leader of the group, even though he was not the first-born. ¹¹Then there was Hilkiah, Tebaliah and Zechariah. Altogether there were thirteen descendants of Hosah who were in charge of the gates.

¹²All these men were divided into groups, according to their families and were rotated as gate keepers just as the other Levites were. ¹³Lots were cast for each group who served at the Sanctuary and later at the Temple, and no difference was made between old and young. ¹⁴Shelemiah (or Meshelemiah) drew the lot for guarding the east gate. His son Zechariah, a young man of wisdom, drew the lot for guarding the north gate. ¹⁵Obed Edom drew the lot for the south gate. The lot for guarding the storehouse fell to his sons. ¹⁶Shuppim drew the lot for the west gate. Hosah drew the lot for the Shallecheth gate on the upper road. The guard duty was divided into certain periods with one period following another. ¹⁷Each day there were six guards on the east, four on the north, four on the south and two at each of the storerooms. ¹⁸There were two each day for the colonnade on the west and four at the upper road. ¹⁹So this is how the descendants of Korah and Merari were divided into groups to serve as guards of the Sanctuary and later as guards at the Temple.

Other Temple Duties

²⁰Some Levites were in charge of the Lord's treasury, which included revenue and offerings. Others were in charge of the treasury of dedicated things for the Temple. ²¹Ladan, one of the sons of Gershon, was the ancestor of a number of families including the family of Jehieli.

²²The two sons of Jehieli were Zetham and Joel and they were among those in charge of the Lord's treasury. ²³Others who were assigned to the treasury were descendants of Amram, Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel. ²⁴Shebuel, a descendant of Moses through Gershon, was the leader of those in charge of the treasury. ²⁵The descendants of Eliezer, the brother of Gershon, were: Rehabiah, his son Jeshaiiah, his son Joram, his son Zichri and his son Shelomith, who through the line of descent was related to Shubael. ²⁶Now Shelomith and his relatives were in charge of the things dedicated to the Lord for the Temple. These things had been provided by David, the heads of ancestral houses and commanders of hundreds and thousands. ²⁷Some of the gifts given to the Lord were from things taken in battle and then dedicated to Him for the building of the Temple. ²⁸Everything dedicated to the Lord by the prophet Samuel, Saul, Abner his commander, and Joab the commander of David's army, was put in the care of Shelomith and his relatives.

²⁹Chenaniah and his sons, all of whom were descendants of Izhar, were given duties as officials and judges away from the Temple and were asked to keep records and settle disputes. ³⁰Hashabiah, a descendant of Hebron, and seventeen hundred members of his ancestral house were put in charge of all religious and civil matters throughout the country west of the Jordan River. ³¹Jeriah was in charge of coordinating all of this and assigning people their duties. Now in the fortieth year of David's reign, the family records of Hebron's descendants were checked. They found that some very outstanding men were living at Jazer in Gilead. They were also given administrative responsibilities. ³²Jeriah had twenty-seven hundred very capable men under him from his relatives who were heads of families. David put them in charge of religious and civil matters east of the Jordan River in the territory belonging to the Reubenites, Gadites and half the tribe of Manasseh.

Civil and Military Organization

27 This is a list of the children of Israel who served as government officials and army officers. These were leaders of ancestral houses and commanders of a hundred or a thousand. The army was divided into twelve divisions of twenty-four thousand each. Each division served for one month under its respective commander. Following are the names of the officers who served each month:

²The first month, Jashobeam the son of Zabdiel. ³He was a descendant of Perez, who came from the tribe of Judah to which David belonged. Jashobeam was over all the officers for the first month. ⁴The second month, Dodai the Ahohite served, with Mikloth as second in command. ⁵The third month, Benaiah the son of Jehoiada the priest, served. ⁶This was the same Benaiah who was one of The Mighty Thirty who fought so bravely. His son Ammizabad served as commander under him. ⁷The fourth month, Asahel the brother of Joab, served. His son Zebadiah succeeded him as commander. ⁸The fifth month, Shamhuth the Izrahite served. ⁹The sixth month, Ira the son of Ikkesheh the Tekoite served. ¹⁰The seventh month, Helez the Pelonite from Ephraim served. ¹¹The eighth month, Sibbecai the Hushathite from the family of Zerach from Judah served. ¹²The ninth month, Abiezer the Anathothite from Benjamin served. ¹³The tenth month Maharai the Netophathite also from the family of Zerach from Judah served. ¹⁴The eleventh month, Benaiah the Pirathonite from Ephraim served. ¹⁵The twelfth month, Heldai the Netophathite from the family of Othniel served.

Leaders of Tribes

¹⁶Following are the administrative officers of the tribes: Eliezer, the son of Zichri, was over the tribe of Reuben; Shephatiah, the son of Maacah, over Simeon; ¹⁷Hashabiah, the son of Kemuel, over Levi; Zadok over the house of Aaron; ¹⁸Elihu, the brother of David, over Judah; Omri, the son of Michael, over Issachar; ¹⁹Ishmaiah, the son of Obadiah, over Zebulun; Jerimoth, the son of Azriel, over Naphtali; ²⁰Hoshea, the son of Azariah, over Ephraim; Joel, the son of Pedaiah, over half the tribe of Manasseh west of Jordan; ²¹Iddo, the son of Zechariah, over half the tribe of Manasseh east of Jordan in Gilead; Jaasiel, the son of Abner, over Benjamin; and ²²Azarel, the son of Jeroham, over Dan. These were the administrative officers over the twelve tribes of Israel.

²³David did not take a census of the younger men in Israel, those twenty years old and under, because the Lord promised to make Israel as numerous as the stars in the sky. ²⁴But David did order Joab to count the available fighting men to determine the size of his army should they all be needed. However, the Lord was very displeased, so the census was never really completed.

Other State Officials

²⁵Following are the names of those who administered the royal properties: Azmaveth, son of Adiel, was in charge of the royal treasuries; Jonathan, son of Uzziah, of the storehouses in the cities and villages; ²⁶Ezri, son of Chelub, of the farm workers; ²⁷Shimei, the Ramathite, of the vineyards; Zabdi, the Shiphmite, over the produce of the vineyards; ²⁸Baal Hanan, the Gederite, over olive groves and fig trees in the western foothills; Joash over the supplies of olive oil; ²⁹Shitrai, the Sharonite, over the herds in the Plain of Sharon; Shaphat, son of Adlai, over the herds in the valleys; ³⁰Obil, the Ishmaelite, over the royal camels; Jehdeiah, the Meronothite, over the royal donkeys; ³¹and Jaziz, the Hagrite, over the sheep and goats. All these were in charge of King David's property which was passed on to his son Solomon.

³²Jonathan, David's uncle, a man of great wisdom and insight, was his counselor; Jehiel, the son of Hachmoni, was in charge of educating and training David's sons; ³³Ahithophel was another one of David's counselors; Hushai, the Archite, was David's close friend. ³⁴After Ahithophel died he was followed by Jehoiada, the son of Benaiah, and by Abiathar as the king's adviser. Joab was commander of the army.

David Gives Solomon Plans for the Temple

28 Before David died, he gave specific instructions to all the officials of Israel regarding the Temple. He called for the commanders of thousands and hundreds, the administrators of his properties and herds, those in charge of the palace, administrative leaders and all the mighty men and brave warriors.

²David stood and said, "Listen to me, my fellow Israelites. I had it in my heart to build a Temple for the Ark of the Lord to give it a more permanent home and to serve as a footstool for the God of heaven. God guided me in drawing the plans for it, and I have made all the provisions I could to have it built. ³But the Lord said to me, 'You are not the one to build a Temple for me because you're known as a soldier, and as such, you have killed a lot of men.' ⁴Yet it was the Lord who chose me to be king of Israel. From the tribe of Judah, He chose my family, and from my father's sons, He chose me. ⁵He has given me many sons, and from them has chosen Solomon to succeed me as the new king of Israel. ⁶The Lord said to me, 'Your son Solomon is the one who will build a Temple for me because I have chosen him to be my son, and I will be his father. ⁷I will make his kingdom last forever if he keeps my commandments and faithfully administers my laws as is being done today.' ⁸So now in the presence of God and before all Israel I charge you to obey the Lord our God and do everything He has told us to do so you can continue to live in this goodly land and pass it on to your descendants forever."

⁹Then David turned to his son Solomon and said, "My son, I charge you before God and all these witnesses that you publicly accept your father's God as your God and promise to serve Him with all your heart and soul and mind. He knows all our thoughts and desires. If you seek Him, you'll find Him, for He's not far away. But if you forget about Him and go your own way, He'll not force you to come back. ¹⁰The Lord has chosen you to build a Temple for Him, so take it seriously and put your whole heart into it."

¹¹Then David gave his son Solomon the plans for building the various sections of the Temple, the courtyard, the Holy Place and the Most Holy Place where the final work for the atonement of sin was to be made. ¹²David drew up these plans under the guidance of the Holy Spirit and included plans for the different courts, the storerooms for the Temple equipment and the rooms for the treasures of dedicated things. ¹³He also gave Solomon plans for organizing the priests and Levites into work shifts to carry out their responsibilities in the Temple and to care for all the utensils and equipment to be used for worship.

¹⁴He wrote down for him how much silver and gold to use for making the various utensils and which ones should be made of silver and which ones of gold. ¹⁵He specified how much gold and silver should go into making extra lamps and lampstands, and which ones were to be made of silver and which ones of gold. ¹⁶Then there were instructions on how much gold to use for the extra tables on which to place the holy bread and how much silver to use for certain other tables. ¹⁷David also left instructions on how much gold to use for the forks, sprinkling bowls, pitchers and dishes, as well as how much silver to use for other dishes. ¹⁸He told Solomon how much gold to use to overlay the altar of incense and gave him instructions on how to make two huge cherubim with outstretched wings to arch over the Ark of the Covenant in the Most Holy Place. ¹⁹David had all this written down. When he gave these plans to Solomon, he said to him, "Everything outlined in these plans I have done under the direction of the Lord.

²⁰"So when you're ready to build the Temple, go ahead with confidence because these plans are from the Lord and He's the One building the Temple. Don't get discouraged, no matter how long it takes, because the God of Israel will help you as He helped me in drawing the plans. He won't let you down. He will be with you all the way until the Temple is finished. ²¹The priests and Levites already know what they have to do. The workmen with their different skills are ready to help you. The leaders of Israel and all the people are behind you and are ready to obey your every command."

Offerings for Building the Temple

29 Then David said to all the people who were present, "My son Solomon is the one God has chosen to be the next king, but he's still young and inexperienced. The work he needs to do is awesome because he's not building a house for himself but a Temple for the God of heaven. ²I've done everything I could to get things ready for him. I've drawn up the plans, collected materials such as gold, silver, bronze, iron, timbers, precious stones for mosaics, gems of various colors and large quantities of white marble. ³In addition to all this, I'm giving all my personal treasures of gold and silver to my God because I love Him so very much. ⁴I'm giving Him one hundred and ten tons of pure gold and two hundred and sixty tons of refined silver for decorating the walls of the Temple ⁵and for the gold and silver that the workmen will need for the furnishings. Now who else is willing to consecrate himself and to give an offering to the Lord?"

⁶Then the heads of ancestral houses, the leaders of all the tribes, the commanders of the army and the administrators of royal properties all willingly brought their valuable things to the Lord as an offering. ⁷The combined offerings for the work of the Temple was one hundred and ninety tons of gold, three hundred and seventy-five tons of silver, six hundred and seventy-five tons of bronze and three thousand, seven hundred and fifty tons of iron. ⁸Those who gave precious stones brought them to Jehiel, a descendant of Gershon the son of Levi, who was in charge of the Temple treasury. ⁹When the people saw the generous and whole-hearted response of their leaders, they rejoiced and also gave freely to the Lord. David the king was very pleased.

David Praises God

¹⁰Then he praised the Lord in prayer, "O Lord, you are the God of our father Jacob. Praise be to you forever and ever for what you have done for your people. ¹¹Lord, you are great and powerful, surrounded by glory, splendor and majesty. Everything in heaven and earth is yours. The kingdom is yours and you are its rightful Ruler. ¹²Wealth and honor come from you. You rule over everything by your own strength and power. No one has given you what you have. You are the One who makes others great and gives them strength and power. ¹³We praise your holy name and give thanks for what you have done for us.

¹⁴"Who are we to think that we are giving something to you? You have given us everything we have. So all we're doing is giving you what is already yours. ¹⁵We're pilgrims in this land just like our forefathers who lived in tents. Our days on this earth are numbered and are like a fleeing shadow. Without you, no one can hope to escape the grips of death. ¹⁶O Lord, all the offerings we have brought for your Temple have come from you. We're only returning what is yours. ¹⁷Lord, I know that you look at everyone's heart and test them to see if they love you. I also know that you're pleased to see honesty and integrity there. Whatever I've given you, I've given honestly and with good intentions because I love you. I see how much your people love you, what they've given to you and how willingly and joyously they've done it. ¹⁸O Lord, God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, keep this spirit of love in the hearts of your people and keep them loyal to you always.

¹⁹Please put in the heart of my son Solomon a strong desire to please you and to keep your commandments and laws. Help him do everything he can to build the Temple for which I've made all these preparations."

²⁰After his prayer, David said to the people who were there, "Come praise the Lord our God with me." So they all praised the Lord with him. They fell on their knees and bowed in worship before the Lord and in honor before David their king.

Solomon Anointed King

²¹The next day the people began to bring their animals to the priests to be sacrificed as whole burnt offerings to the Lord. They brought a thousand young bulls, a thousand rams, a thousand male lambs, drink offerings, bread offerings and other offerings in abundance. ²²They held a sacred feast to the Lord and ate with joy, for they knew the Lord was with them. Then they proclaimed Solomon as king of Israel a second time. They anointed him with oil as their ruler and Zadok as their high priest. ²³So Solomon succeeded his father David as king and became ruler over all of Israel. He was a successful king and all Israel obeyed him. ²⁴All the officers and mighty men of David pledged their loyalty to Solomon, as did all the sons of David. ²⁵The Lord blessed Solomon so that the people stood in awe of him. No other king in Israel or Judah ever received the honor he did.

David's Reign Ends

²⁶David, the son of Jesse, had become king of Israel by God's choice. ²⁷He ruled for forty years, the first seven in Hebron, the capital of Judah, and the next thirty-three years in Jerusalem, the capital of Israel. ²⁸He died at a ripe old age, wealthy and respected, having enjoyed a long life, and his son Solomon succeeded him. ²⁹The history of David from beginning to end is written in the books of the prophets Samuel, Nathan and Gad. ³⁰The record tells how he became king, how he ruled, how powerful he was and all the things that happened to him and to Israel, as well as to the surrounding nations during his time.

2 CHRONICLES

Solomon Asks God for Wisdom

1 Solomon was a very powerful and respected king because the Lord God was with him.

²He spoke to the commanders of thousands and hundreds, the judges, tribal leaders and heads of ancestral houses, ³and asked them to go with him to Gibeon to the Sanctuary that Moses had built in the wilderness. ⁴David had already brought the Ark of the Lord from Kiriath Jearim to Jerusalem and put it in a special tent that had been made for it. ⁵But the bronze sacrificial altar that Bezalel, son of Uri and grandson of Hur, had made was still in Gibeon in the courtyard of the Sanctuary. So Solomon and the people of Israel went there to worship instead of to Jerusalem. ⁶Solomon ordered a thousand animals to be sacrificed on the bronze altar as whole burnt offerings to the Lord and as a sign of consecration.

⁷That night the Lord appeared to Solomon and said, "I have accepted your consecration. What do you want me to do for you?" ⁸Solomon said, "Lord, you have been very kind to my father David, and you have chosen me to be king in his place. ⁹May the promise you made my father that his son and his descendants would rule over Israel come true. You have made me king over a people who are so numerous that they can hardly be counted. ¹⁰If I'm to govern these people, please give me wisdom to know how to do it. Otherwise, there's no way I can be the kind of king you want me to be."

¹¹The Lord said, "Since that's what you want and you haven't asked for wealth, fame, the death of your enemies or a long life for yourself, but only for wisdom to govern my people, ¹²I will give you what you have asked for. In addition I'll give you wealth and fame such as no other king in Israel has had before you or will have after you." ¹³Then Solomon left the place of worship at the Sanctuary in Gibeon and returned to Jerusalem to reign over Israel.

Solomon's Military and Economic Power

¹⁴Over time Solomon accumulated one thousand, four hundred chariots and twelve thousand horses. He stationed some of them in Jerusalem and the rest in strategic cities throughout the country. ¹⁵During his reign silver and gold became as common as rocks. And cedar was as plentiful as fig trees. ¹⁶Solomon imported horses from Egypt and from as far away as Turkey. ¹⁷He imported chariots from Egypt and then sold them to the Syrians and the Hittites for six hundred pieces of silver. The horses he imported were so valuable they sold for a hundred and fifty pieces of silver.

Preparation for Building the Temple

2 Solomon determined to build the Temple of the Lord and a royal palace for himself. ²He used seventy thousand men to transport materials, eighty thousand as stonecutters and three thousand six hundred foremen, including supervisors. ³Solomon sent this message to Hiram, king of Tyre: "Can you sell me some cedar logs like you sold to my father David? I'm planning to build a palace. ⁴I'm also in the process of building a Temple for the Lord my God to bring honor to His name. I plan to dedicate it as a place of worship where we will burn incense, set out consecrated bread and offer whole burnt offerings to God every morning and evening, as well as on Sabbath, the New Moon and other appointed days. This is what the Lord has told us to do. ⁵I want to build the greatest temple that has ever been built because we believe that our God is greater than any other god. ⁶In reality no one can build a Temple to hold the Lord our God. This will primarily be a place for us to come and worship Him and bring Him our offerings.

⁷"Can you send me a man who is skilled to work with gold and silver, bronze and iron, and with purple, scarlet and blue cloth and yarn? I also need someone skilled in the art of engraving to work here in Jerusalem with the craftsmen whom my father has already selected. ⁸In addition to cedar, I need cypress and sandalwood from Lebanon. Your people are skilled lumbermen, and I will send my men to help them. ⁹We'll need lots of lumber because the Temple of our God will be the most magnificent temple in the world. ¹⁰I'll send you one hundred and twenty-five thousand bushels of wheat, one hundred and twenty-five thousand bushels of barley, one hundred and fifteen thousand gallons of unfermented wine and one hundred and fifteen thousand gallons of olive oil."

¹¹Hiram, king of Tyre, replied to Solomon in a letter, "It must be because the Lord your God loves His people that He has made you their king. ¹²Praise be to the Lord your God, the God of Israel, Creator of heaven and earth. He has given David a wise son, one full of wisdom and knowledge who will bring honor to his God by building a Temple for Him and only then a palace for himself.

¹³"Yes, I will send you the best craftsman I have. His name is Hiram and he can do all the things you need to have done. ¹⁴His mother was an Israelite from the tribe of Dan and his father was from Tyre. He can work with gold, silver, bronze, iron, stone and wood, as well as with purple, scarlet and blue cloth and yarn. He's also experienced in all kinds of engraving and can design anything you want him to. He'll be glad to work with your craftsmen whom your father David chose. ¹⁵So send me wheat, barley, unfermented wine and olive oil for my servants and we'll get started. ¹⁶I'll have my men cut all the logs you need, bring them down from the mountains and float them down the coast to Joppa. From there you can have your men take them overland to Jerusalem."

¹⁷As soon as Solomon received the letter, he ordered a census to be taken of all foreign workers in the country, similar to the census that his father David had taken to see the size of his army. From the census they found that altogether there were one hundred and fifty-three thousand six hundred foreigners living and working in Israel. ¹⁸So Solomon assigned seventy thousand of them to transport the lumber from Joppa to Jerusalem, eighty thousand to cut stones in the mountains of Israel. He appointed three thousand six hundred foremen, including supervisors, to make sure that everything stayed on schedule.

Solomon Begins Building the Temple

3 Then Solomon began to build the Temple on top of Mount Moriah in Jerusalem where the Lord's angel had appeared with a sword in his hand to his father David. David had bought the property on top of Mount Moriah from Ornan, the Jebusite, and had decided that was where the Temple of the Lord should be. ²Solomon began construction on the second day of the second month in the fourth year of his reign. ³He used the same measure that Moses had used when he built the Sanctuary in the wilderness. The Sanctuary part of the Temple was a hundred and ten feet long and thirty-six feet wide.

⁸The Most Holy Place was thirty-six feet long and thirty-six feet wide, the same width as the Sanctuary overall. Solomon used twenty-three tons of pure gold to overlay the Most Holy Place. ⁹The other rooms, such as the Holy Place and the entrance, were overlaid with gold. Even the nails used were made of gold, twenty ounces for each nail.

¹⁰Two huge angels were carved for the Most Holy Place and overlaid with gold.

¹¹The wingspan of the two angels together was thirty-six feet. Each wing of the first angel was nine feet long, with the two wings measuring eighteen feet. One wing touched the wall and the other touched the wing of the other angel.

¹²The same was true with the second angel. Each outstretched wing was also nine feet long, with the two wings measuring eighteen feet. One wing touched the wall and the other wing touched the wing of the first angel. ¹³So the outstretched wings of the two angels touched each other in the middle of the room and extended to the opposite walls.

¹⁴Solomon also had a curtain made for the Most Holy Place out of blue, purple and scarlet yarn with designs of angels and hung it from golden chains.

¹⁵He had two freestanding pillars made for the entrance to the inner part of the Temple. Each was thirty-three feet high, and together they measured sixty-six feet, not counting the two four-and-a-half-foot crowns, which together measured nine feet. ¹⁶The crown of each pillar was decorated with seven wreaths interwoven and two rows of pomegranates, a hundred in all. Both crowns together had a total of two hundred pomegranates.

¹⁷He had these pillars placed at the entrance to the inner Temple, one on the right and the other on the left. He named the one on the right Jachin, meaning God Establishes, and the one on the left Boaz, meaning In God Is My Strength.

The Temple Furnishings

4 For the courtyard Solomon had a bronze altar made, thirty-six feet square and eighteen feet high. ²He also had a round basin or laver made of cast metal over nine feet high, about eighteen feet across and fifty-four feet around.

³Below the rim on the outside were carvings of bulls; every two feet was a grouping of ten bulls. These were placed in two rows around the basin when it was cast.

⁴The basin itself rested on the backs of twelve bronze bulls, three facing north, three south, three east and three west. They stood facing outward. ⁵The basin was three-and-a-half inches thick, and its rim was shaped like the rim of a cup curving outward like the petals of a flower. When completely full, it could hold seventeen thousand gallons of water. ⁶He also had ten smaller basins made for the courtyard, five to be placed toward the south and five toward the north. The water in those basins was for washing the whole burnt offerings, but the water in the large basin was used by the priests to wash their hands and feet.

⁷Solomon had ten small golden lampstands made, patterned after the large one in the Sanctuary, and placed them in the Holy Place, five on the south side and five on the north side. ⁸He had ten tables made for the sacred bread and placed them in the Holy Place, five on the south side and five on the north. He also had a hundred bowls made for incense. ⁹The inner courtyard was for the priests and the outer courtyard for the people. He also made doors that opened into the courtyards and covered them with bronze. ¹⁰He had the large basin placed in the inner courtyard in line with the southeast corner of the Holy Place.

¹¹He also had pots and shovels and bowls made for the courtyard. ¹²Huram made all this under the direction of Solomon. He made the two freestanding pillars with crowns ¹³and encircling wreaths with one hundred pomegranates for each crown and two hundred to be used elsewhere. ¹⁴He also made the carts with their basins, ¹⁵the large basin resting on the backs of twelve bronze bulls, ¹⁶and the pots, shovels, meat forks and other needed items. Hiram made all these things out of polished bronze just as Solomon had told him to. ¹⁷Solomon had all this done in the foundry located between Succoth and Zeredah (or Zerethan) in the Jordan Valley. ¹⁸There were so many things made out of bronze that no one kept track of how much bronze was being used.

¹⁹Everything used in the Temple was made of pure gold, including the altar of incense, the tables that held the Lord's bread, ²⁰the lampstands which helped to light up the inner Sanctuary, ²¹the decorations of flowers, the other lamps, the tongs, ²²the wick trimmers, bowls for incense, pans for carrying hot coals and the doors going into the Holy Place and into the Most Holy Place. Some of these were made out of solid gold and others were overlaid with gold.

5 When the Temple was finished, Solomon placed everything his father David had dedicated to the Lord, including the gold, silver and other precious vessels, in the storeroom of the Temple.

The Ark Brought Into the Temple

²Then he called all the leaders of Israel and all the heads of ancestral groups to Jerusalem to help him bring the Ark of the Lord from the southern part of the city, called the City of David, to the Temple on Mount Moriah in the northern part of the city. ³This was during the time of the Festival of Tabernacles also called the Festival of Shelters or Booths. ⁴When they all arrived, the priests picked up the Ark ⁵and carried it on their shoulders to the Temple. The priests and Levites also went to Gibeon and brought the Sanctuary and all its furnishings to the Temple in Jerusalem. ⁶Solomon and the people sacrificed so many sheep and other animals in front of the Ark of the Lord that the Levites lost count.

⁷Then the priests brought the Ark into the Most Holy Place of the Temple and set it beneath the outstretched wings of the huge angels that Solomon had put there. ⁸The wings of these two cherubim were so big that they covered the whole Ark including the angels attached to its cover and its carrying poles. ⁹The poles were so long that they could be seen from the Holy Place, but not from the courtyard. They were laid in front of the Ark, and that's where they remained. ¹⁰There was nothing inside the Ark except the two stone tablets that Moses had brought down from Mount Sinai when the Lord made a covenant with the children of Israel after they had come out of Egypt.

¹¹Then the priests withdrew from the Holy Place of the Temple. All these priests had ritually purified themselves, no matter what priestly division they belonged to. ¹²All the Levites who were musicians, that is, Asaph, Heman, Jeduthun and their sons and relatives, came to the Temple in white linen robes. They stood to the east of the altar of sacrifice and played their cymbals, harps and lyres, accompanied by one hundred and twenty priests blowing trumpets.

¹³With one voice they all gave praise and thanks to God, accompanied by the trumpets, cymbals, harps and lyres. They praised the Lord and sang, "The Lord is good. His love endures forever." Then the Temple was filled with the cloud of the Lord's presence ¹⁴which was so brilliant that the Levites and the priests had to discontinue services in the Temple and leave.

6 Then Solomon prayed, "O Lord, you said you would live in clouds and reside in thick darkness. ²I have built a magnificent Temple for you, a place for you to live in forever."

Solomon Speaks to the People

³The people stood and listened to Solomon. Then he turned and blessed them, ⁴saying, "Praise the Lord God of Israel. He has kept the promise He made to my father David when He said, ⁵From the time I brought my people out of Egypt until now, I have not chosen any city from among the tribes of Israel as a site for my Temple, nor have I chosen anyone to lead my people. ⁶But now I have chosen Jerusalem as my city, the place for my Temple, and I have chosen David to lead my people.' ⁷That's why my father David had it in his heart to build a Temple for the Lord. ⁸The Lord said to him, 'You did well to want to build a Temple as a place to worship me. ⁹However, you are not the one to do it. But your own flesh and blood will do it—your son Solomon will build the Temple for me.'

¹⁰'The Lord has kept His promise. I have succeeded my father as king and now sit on the throne of Israel, just as the Lord said, and I have built this Temple for Him. ¹¹I have brought the Ark into the Temple with the two tablets of stone containing the covenant of the Lord with His people.'

Solomon's Prayer

¹²Then Solomon went over to the platform in front of the altar of sacrifice. ¹³For this occasion, he had made a bronze platform which was five-and-a-half feet high, nine feet long and nine feet wide. Solomon knelt on the platform in front of all the people, spread his hands toward heaven and said, ¹⁴'O Lord, God of Israel, there is no other God like you anywhere, either in heaven or on earth. You keep your covenant of love with all who walk wholeheartedly in your way. ¹⁵You kept your promise to my father David. You not only promised it, but backed it up by your actions, as we can see today. ¹⁶Lord, now also keep the promise that you made to my father David when you told him, 'You will always have a descendant on the throne of Israel, as long as your offspring are careful to obey me and walk in my ways as you have done.' ¹⁷Lord, may this promise you made to my father David come true just as your promise about the Temple did.

¹⁸'How can the God of heaven live on earth with sinful men and women? Even the heavens are not big enough to hold your glory. How can a Temple like this hold you? ¹⁹Lord, please listen to my prayer. I plead for your mercy and kindness. I'm your servant and am making this plea, not only in your presence, but in front of all these people. ²⁰May your thoughts be toward this Temple day and night so that no harm will come to it. You said this is where we are to worship you. Please listen to my prayer when I pray facing the Temple. ²¹Hear the prayers of your people when they pray toward this place. Listen from your place in heaven, and when you hear our confessions, please forgive us our sins.

²²'When a man is accused of hurting his neighbor and is brought to your Temple before your altar to take an oath that he's innocent, ²³then hear from heaven and judge your people. Punish those who are guilty and uphold those who are innocent.

²⁴'When your people have been defeated by their enemies because they have sinned against you but then they look to you for help and turn toward this place to ask you for forgiveness, ²⁵please hear their prayers from where you are in heaven and forgive them and bring them safely back to the land that you gave them.

²⁶'When there is no rain because the people have sinned against you and yet they turn to you for help and look to this place asking for forgiveness, ²⁷then listen to them in heaven, forgive them their sins and teach them what is right. Give them the rain needed in the land you have given them as their inheritance.

²⁸'If famine or sickness or mildew or blight comes, if locusts or grasshoppers destroy our crops, if enemies come and surround our cities or whatever disaster strikes your people, ²⁹when they look to this place and plead for help, then listen to them. If anyone spreads out his hands toward this Temple and in heartfelt sorrow afflicts his soul, ³⁰then do hear his prayers. Listen to them from your throne in heaven and forgive them their sins. Forgive each one according to what he has done because you are the only One who knows the thoughts and intentions of the human heart. ³¹Relate to each one personally so that your people will respect you and walk in your ways as they live in this land that you gave to their ancestors.

³²“When a foreigner comes from a distant land because he’s heard how you’ve intervened mightily for your people—when he prays to you and looks toward the Temple for help, ³³then listen to his prayers from your place in heaven. Please answer him so that people everywhere will know that you are their God also, and they will love and respect you as your own people do. Then they will know that the Temple I have built for you is truly yours.

³⁴“When your people go into battle against their enemies, wherever you send them, and they look toward Jerusalem and the Temple and pray for help, ³⁵when they do this, please listen to their prayers from your place in heaven and respond to their needs.

³⁶“When your people sin against you—and there is no one who doesn’t sin—and you allow their enemies to defeat them and take them captive to other countries either near or far away, while they’re there, ³⁷they may have a change of heart. If they repent and confess their sins, saying, ‘Lord, we have sinned against you. Please forgive us!’ then do listen to their prayers. ³⁸When they turn to you and are willing to obey you with all their hearts, when they look toward their homeland and this Temple for your forgiveness and help, ³⁹then please listen to their prayers and be merciful to them; forgive their sins and help them.

⁴⁰O Lord, may your eyes be open and may your ears hear the prayers coming to you from this place.

⁴¹“Now, O Lord, make this Temple your own. Come and sit between the cherubim on the Ark of the Covenant and stay here forever. Bless your priests as they teach your people the way of salvation. Bless your people so they will be happy and rejoice in your goodness. ⁴²O Lord, don’t reject this king you have chosen, but be kind to him. Remember the promise you made to my father David and how much you loved him.”

The Temple Dedicated

7 When Solomon finished praying, fire came down from heaven and consumed the sacrifices that had been put on the altar by the priests, and the glory of the Lord filled the whole Temple. ²The light of His presence was so bright that the priests couldn’t carry on their services. ³When the people saw the fire come down from heaven and the light of the presence of the Lord fill the Temple, they fell on their knees and bowed with their faces to the ground. They worshiped Him, praised Him and thanked Him for His goodness and unfailing love.

⁴Then Solomon and the people brought their personal sacrifices to the Lord. ⁵The king and the people offered twenty-two thousand young bulls and one hundred and twenty thousand sheep. Most were peace offerings and were eaten by priests and people uniting together in holy joy, giving thanks to God for His blessings. So Solomon and the people dedicated the Temple to the Lord God of Israel. ⁶Then the priests took their positions. The Levites stood with musical instruments David had provided, some of which he had used when he praised the Lord. They sang the hymn, “His Love Endures Forever,” and the priests blew the trumpets while all the people stood.

⁷Solomon dedicated the courtyard in front of the Holy Place and had the priests offer whole burnt offerings and peace offerings to the Lord. There were so many offerings that the altar of sacrifice couldn’t hold them all.

⁸The king and his people celebrated the Festival of Shelters for seven days. There was a huge crowd of people at Jerusalem. They came all the way from the Hamath Pass in the north to the border of Egypt in the south. ⁹They spent seven days dedicating the Temple and seven days celebrating the Festival of Shelters. On the eighth day of the festival they had the closing ceremony, ¹⁰which was the twenty-third of the seventh month. That morning Solomon blessed the people and sent them home. They were full of joy over all the things the Lord had done for David, for Solomon and for His people.

¹¹Solomon finished the Temple and did all he had in mind to do before he began to build his royal palace.

God's Second Appearance to Solomon

¹²The Lord appeared to him that night and said, "I have heard your prayer and accept this Temple as my own and as the place for you to offer sacrifices. ¹³Whenever I hold back the rain or let locusts eat the harvest or let sickness come on my people to discipline them, ¹⁴if my people who are called by my name humble themselves and pray and turn from their wicked ways, looking to me for help, I will hear from heaven and will forgive them their sins and heal their land. ¹⁵My eyes will be on this Temple, and my ears will be open to all the prayers that are offered there. ¹⁶I have made this Temple my own and have set it apart to be a place of worship forever. I will watch over it, put my name here and my heart also. ¹⁷As for you, if you serve me as faithfully as your father David did, keep my commandments and obey my laws, ¹⁸I will carry out the promises I made to your father David when I told him that there would always be a descendant of his on the throne of Israel.

¹⁹"But if you and your people turn away from me and stop keeping my commandments and my laws and begin to worship and serve other gods, ²⁰then I will move you and your people out of the land I have given you. I will leave this Temple which I have made holy and it will become an object of ridicule and hatred among many nations. ²¹Even though now people everywhere admire this place, they will be amazed at what will happen to it and will ask, 'Why did the Lord, the God of Israel, do this to His Temple and to this land?' ²²The people will answer and say, 'He did this because His people have forsaken Him. They have turned away from the God who brought their ancestors out of Egypt and they have worshiped other gods. That's why the Lord has allowed this to happen to them.'

Solomon's Other Achievements

8 It took Solomon seven years to build the Temple and thirteen years to build the royal palace, a total of twenty years. ²He also rebuilt the cities that King Hiram had returned to him and settled them with his own people.

³He captured the territory of Hamath Zobah and added it to Israel. ⁴He fortified the city of Palmyra (also called Tadmor) in the Arabian Desert, as well as the cities in Hamath, using them to store supplies for his troops. ⁵He also rebuilt Upper and Lower Beth Horon and fortified them with walls, gates and bars. ⁶He did the same for the city of Baalath and all the cities where he stored supplies and where his troops with their horses and chariots were stationed. Solomon built whatever he wanted in Jerusalem, throughout the country and in all the territories he controlled. ⁷Now the original people left in the land such as the Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites ⁸whom the children of Israel had not driven out, paid their taxes to Solomon in labor. ⁹But the Israelites served him as soldiers, army officers, commanders of chariots and horsemen. ¹⁰Two hundred and fifty officers were appointed by Solomon just to oversee his special projects and three hundred more for his other projects.

¹¹Then Solomon brought Pharaoh's daughter from the lower part of the city to the palace he had built for her west of the Temple. He said, "Though my wife worships the God of Israel, she ought not to live in the vicinity of the Temple because this section of the city is holy."

¹²Solomon had sacrifices offered on the altar of the Lord every day. ¹³They were offered just the way Moses had commanded. Offerings were also brought to the Lord on the Sabbath, the New Moon and the three annual festivals (that is, the Festival of the Passover and Unleavened Bread together, the Harvest Festival and the Festival of Shelters). ¹⁴Solomon also carried out the instructions of his father David and organized the priests and Levites into units to serve at the Temple. The priests offered the sacrifices. The Levites helped the priests and also led in singing praises to the Lord. Solomon appointed Temple guards. He organized them into units and stationed them at the gates as his father David had told him to. ¹⁵All the instructions Solomon gave pertaining to the priests, the Levites and the Temple treasury were carried out in detail.

¹⁶The workmen did everything exactly as Solomon had told them, from the day the foundation was laid until the Temple was finished. After seven years of building, the Temple was finally completed.

¹⁷After the Temple had been built, Solomon sent men to the port cities of Ezion Geber and Elath on the Gulf of Aqabah in the land of Edom and began building ships. ¹⁸King Hiram of Tyre sent some of his ships there under the command of his own officers and manned by experienced sailors. They sailed with Solomon's ships to the land of Ophir and brought back nearly seventeen tons of gold to King Solomon.

The Queen of Sheba

9When the queen of Sheba heard about Solomon's wisdom and all that he had done, she decided to go to Jerusalem to see for herself and to test him with difficult questions. She arrived with a large group of people and a caravan of camels carrying spices, precious stones and lots of gold. She asked Solomon all the questions she could think of. ²He answered all of them to her satisfaction. Nothing was too hard for him. ³So the queen of Sheba learned for herself how wise he was and with her own eyes saw the magnificent palace he had built. ⁴She was amazed at the food on his table, the organization of his staff and the rich clothes they all wore, including his servants and cupbearers. And she was impressed by the large number of sacrifices he offered to his God.

⁵She was indeed overwhelmed with it all and said to the king, "The report I heard in my country about your wisdom and achievements is true, ⁶but I didn't believe it until I came and talked with you and saw everything with my own eyes. In fact, what I had heard is not even half of what is true. Your wisdom and your deeds are even greater than I was told. ⁷How fortunate your officers and servants are and how happy they must be to be around you and hear your words of wisdom! ⁸Praise the Lord your God for what He has done for you! There's no doubt that He loves you, because He has placed you on the throne to rule in His name. He must really love His people to do all this for them and to allow them to be ruled by such a wise king who maintains law and order and looks after their happiness." ⁹Then she gave Solomon about four-and-a-half tons of gold and large amounts of spices and many precious stones. There have never been such fine spices as the queen of Sheba gave Solomon.

¹⁰The men of King Hiram and the men of Israel who had sailed to the land of Ophir brought back a huge amount of gold also, and large quantities of precious stones and juniper wood. ¹¹Solomon used the juniper wood to make steps for the Temple and for the royal palace and to make harps and lyres for his musicians. Nothing like it had ever been seen in Judah before.

¹²As the queen of Sheba was leaving, Solomon gave her everything she asked for. This was in addition to the gifts he had already given her, which were more than what she had given him. Then she left and returned to her own country.

Solomon's Wealth

¹³Every year Solomon received about twenty-five tons of gold. ¹⁴This was in addition to the revenue that came in from taxes paid by merchants and traders. And the kings and governors of other lands who came to visit Solomon brought him gifts of silver and gold. ¹⁵Solomon made two hundred large shields of gold using seven pounds of beaten gold for each one. ¹⁶He also made three hundred smaller shields using three-and-a-half pounds of beaten gold for each of these. He hung them in the House of the Forest of Lebanon for display and used them only for state occasions. ¹⁷Then he made a large throne, inlaid with ivory and overlaid with pure gold. ¹⁸It had six steps leading up to it and a footstool of pure gold. The throne had two armrests and a statue of a huge lion standing on each side. ¹⁹Twelve smaller statues of lions stood on the six steps, one on each end of each step. Nothing like it had ever been made for any other king in any country. ²⁰All of Solomon's goblets were made of gold, as were all the furnishings in the banquet hall of the House of the Forest of Lebanon. Nothing was made out of silver because in those days silver was not considered very valuable. ²¹He also had a whole fleet of ships which were manned by King Hiram's men. Once every three years, the fleet returned bringing gold, silver, ivory, apes and peacocks.

²²Solomon was richer and wiser than any other king in the world. ²³Kings from everywhere came to hear him and the wisdom that God had given him. ²⁴Year after year they came bringing with them gifts of gold, silver, spices and richly decorated robes—also horses, mules and even weapons. ²⁵Solomon had four thousand stalls for his chariot horses and twelve thousand horsemen trained for battle. These were stationed in various cities throughout the country including Jerusalem. ²⁶He ruled over all the land from the Euphrates River in the north to the Philistine country in the west and down to the borders of Egypt in the south. ²⁷During the time of Solomon, silver was as common in Jerusalem as stones on the street and cedar was as plentiful as fig trees in the foothills of Judah. ²⁸Solomon imported horses from Egypt and many other countries.

The Death of Solomon

²⁹All the things that Solomon did during his entire reign are recorded in such books as the records of Nathan the Prophet, the prophecies of Ahijah the Shilonite and the visions of Iddo the Prophet (which took place during the reign of Jeroboam, the first king of Northern Israel). ³⁰For forty years Solomon ruled over all the tribes of Israel from the city of Jerusalem. ³¹Then he died and was buried in The City of David beside his father. His son Rehoboam succeeded him.

The Northern Tribes Revolt

10 Rehoboam went to Shechem where all the leaders had gathered to make him king. ²When Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, who had fled to Egypt to escape the anger of Solomon, heard about this meeting, he came back to Israel. ³When he got home, the leaders invited him to attend the coronation, so he went with them. While he was there, they asked him to be their leader and go with them to talk to Rehoboam about their heavy taxes. ⁴The delegation went to see Rehoboam and said, "Your father, Solomon, taxed us very heavily. If you lower our taxes, we'll be happy to have you as our king." ⁵Rehoboam said, "Come back in three days and I'll give you my answer." And they agreed.

⁶Then Rehoboam called in the older men who had advised his father and who now worked for him. He asked, "What do you think I should do about the people's request for me to lower their taxes?"

⁷They answered, "If you're kind and considerate with the people and give them a favorable answer, they'll be glad to serve you and have you as their king." ⁸But Rehoboam didn't think that was good advice. So he called in some younger men, those he had grown up with and who were also his advisers. ⁹He asked them,

"What's your advice about the request of the people for me to lower their taxes?"

¹⁰The young men answered, "Tell those people, 'My little finger will be thicker than my father's waist. ¹¹My father put a heavy tax on you, but I will make it even heavier. He used regular whips to keep you in line, but I will use whips which sting like scorpions.'"

¹²Rehoboam liked what he heard. Three days later Jeroboam and the leaders of Israel returned to see Rehoboam as he had suggested. ¹³Rehoboam rejected the advice of the older men and spoke harshly to Jeroboam and the leaders. ¹⁴He followed the advice of the younger men, saying, "My father gave you a heavy tax burden, but I will make it even heavier. If my father used whips to keep you in line, then I'll use whips which sting like scorpions." ¹⁵Rehoboam didn't listen to the people's request, and the result was just the opposite of what the young men had suggested. The people rebelled. This is what God had said would happen when years before He sent the prophet Ahijah to tell Jeroboam that Israel would be divided.

¹⁶When the leaders of Israel saw how unreasonable Rehoboam was, they said, "What have David's sons ever done for our tribes? All our taxes are being used to help Judah! Down with David's sons! Let Rehoboam look after himself!" And they all turned away from him and went home.

¹⁸At first Rehoboam didn't believe what had happened. He sent Adoniram, who was in charge of forced labor, to get the Israelites to work for the government in addition to paying taxes, but they refused and stoned him to death. When Rehoboam heard that, he jumped into his chariot and raced back to Jerusalem. ¹⁹From then on, the ten tribes became known as the Northern Kingdom of Israel. Never again did they unite with the Southern Kingdom of Judah ruled by the descendants of David.

11 When Rehoboam got back to Jerusalem, he called up all the troops from the tribes of Judah and Benjamin, one hundred and eighty thousand men, to fight against the other tribes to reunite the kingdom. ²Then the Lord said to Shemaiah the prophet, ³"Go to Solomon's son Rehoboam, king of Judah, and give this message to him and to all the troops from Judah and Benjamin: ⁴This is what the Lord says, 'Do not fight against your brothers to the north. I want you to go home. What happened was my doing.'" The king and his troops listened, then returned home and did not attack their brothers as they had planned.

Rehoboam Fortifies the Cities of Judah

⁵So Rehoboam stayed in Jerusalem and fortified the following cities to help defend Judah: ⁶Bethlehem, Etam, Tekoa, ⁷Beth Zur, Soco, Adullam, ⁸Gath, Mareshah, Ziph, ⁹Adoraim, Lachish, Azekah, ¹⁰Zorah, Aijalon and Hebron. All these cities were either in Judah or in Benjamin. ¹¹He stationed troops with officers in these cities and supplied them with the necessary food and drink. ¹²He equipped the men with spears and shields and in this way made sure that Judah and Benjamin stayed under his control.

Priests and Levites Come to Judah

¹³The priests and Levites from all across the country supported him. ¹⁴They even left their farms and other property and moved to Judah and Jerusalem because Jeroboam and his sons had rejected them as priests of the Lord in the Northern Kingdom. ¹⁵Jeroboam appointed his own priests who served at the pagan shrines he had built and led the people into worshiping golden calves and other idols which he had set up. ¹⁶The people who loved the God of Israel and wanted to worship Him followed the priests and Levites down to Judah and Jerusalem to offer sacrifices to the God their fathers had worshiped. ¹⁷In this way the kingdom of Judah grew stronger and the people supported Rehoboam, son of Solomon, as their king. For the next three years people migrated to Judah so they could worship the Lord as their fathers had done under David.

The Family of Rehoboam

¹⁸Rehoboam had married his cousin Mahalath, the daughter of Jerimoth who was a brother to Solomon. Her mother was Abihail, the granddaughter of David's older brother Eliab. ¹⁹Mahalath gave Rehoboam three sons: Jeush, Shemariah and Zaham. ²⁰Then he married his distant cousin Maacah, the granddaughter of his father's brother Absalom. She gave him four sons: Abijah, Attai, Ziza and Shelomith. ²¹Rehoboam loved Maacah more than any of his other wives and concubines. Altogether he had eighteen wives and sixty concubines, and they gave him twenty-eight sons and sixty daughters. ²²He appointed Abijah, the firstborn son of Maacah, as crown prince to succeed him as king. ²³Rehoboam wisely appointed his other sons as supervisors over districts and fortified cities throughout Judah and Benjamin and provided generously for their needs. Since they were princes, he also found a number of wives for each of them.

Egypt Invades Judah

12 But after Rehoboam became strong and his position as king was secure, he and his people turned away from the Lord. ²Because of this, the Lord allowed Shishak, the king of Egypt, to attack Jerusalem. This happened in the fifth year of King Rehoboam. ³The king of Egypt came against Jerusalem with one thousand, two hundred chariots, sixty thousand horsemen and thousands of troops from Egypt, Libya, Ethiopia and the Sudan. There were so many, it was difficult to count them all. ⁴He took many of the fortified cities and came as far as Jerusalem.

⁵Then the Lord sent Shemaiah the prophet to Rehoboam and his officers who had fled to Jerusalem in fear of Shishak. Shemaiah said to them, "This is what the Lord says: 'You have turned away from me, so I have turned away from you.'" ⁶Rehoboam and his officers humbled themselves and said, "The Lord is right. We have sinned against Him." ⁷When the Lord saw that they had humbled themselves and confessed their sins, He sent the prophet Shemaiah back to them with this message: "Because you have humbled yourselves and confessed your sins, I will not let Shishak destroy you, but I will deliver you. I will not discipline Jerusalem to the fullest extent as I had planned to do. ⁸But I will allow you to become subject to Shishak so you will find out what it's like to serve a foreign king."

⁹Then Shishak attacked Jerusalem and marched right into the city. When he left, he took with him all the treasures of the Temple and the royal palace, including the gold shields that Solomon had made. ¹⁰After Shishak was gone, Rehoboam made bronze shields to replace the gold ones and entrusted them to the officers in charge of guarding the entrance to the palace. ¹¹Whenever the king went to the Temple, the guards would take these shields and go with him. After he returned, they would put them back in the guard room. ¹²Because Rehoboam had humbled himself and confessed his sin, the Lord did not let Shishak destroy Jerusalem, and the country recovered.

Rehoboam's Reign Ends

¹³So Rehoboam established himself firmly in Jerusalem and continued as king. He was forty-one years old when he began to rule and reigned over Judah for seventeen years. Rehoboam's mother was Naamah from the country of Ammon. ¹⁴He did wickedly because he did not set his heart to seek the Lord.

¹⁵Everything that Rehoboam did, from the beginning of his reign to the end, was recorded by the prophet Shemaiah and the prophet Iddo who kept records of the royal family's genealogy. All during Rehoboam's reign there was periodic warfare between him and Jeroboam, king of Israel. ¹⁶When Rehoboam died, he was buried in Jerusalem, the City of David, and his son Abijah became king.

Abijah's Reign in Judah

13 It was in the eighteenth year of Jeroboam, king of Israel, that Abijah, the son of Rehoboam, became king of Judah. ²He ruled for only three years. His mother's name was Maacah, the daughter of Uriel and Tamar from Gibeah.

During these three years there was constant warfare between Abijah and Jeroboam. ³One time Abijah went into battle with over four hundred thousand men against Jeroboam who came to attack him with more than eight hundred thousand. ⁴The armies met in the mountains of Ephraim. Before the battle Abijah stood on Mount Zemaraim and called out to the troops of Israel, "Listen to me! ⁵Don't you know that the Lord God of Israel promised David and his descendants that they would rule over Israel forever? So Israel belongs to Judah. ⁶You Israelites know that Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, was an official under Solomon and that he rebelled against the son of David. ⁷Afterwards, a group of worthless scoundrels gathered around him and rebelled against Rehoboam, the son of Solomon, when he was too young and inexperienced to stand up against them.

⁸"Now all of you have come to attack the descendants of David and rebel even more against the Lord's kingdom. You have a huge army, and with you are the golden calves that Jeroboam made to be your gods. ⁹You have driven the priests, the descendants of Aaron, and the Levites out of the country. You have chosen your own priests as other nations do. Anyone who comes along with a bull and seven rams may become a priest of these false gods you have. ¹⁰But we in Judah still worship the Lord and have not forsaken Him. The priests who serve Him are the descendants of Aaron, and the Levites assist them. ¹¹Every morning and evening they offer the whole burnt offering as a consecration sacrifice to the Lord and burn incense before Him. They set out the sacred bread on a ceremonially clean table, and every evening they make sure that the lamps on the golden lampstand have enough oil in them to burn all night. We are following God's commandments, but you have turned your backs on Him. ¹²God is with us and is our Captain. His priests are here with their trumpets and are ready to give the call to battle. Men of Israel, don't fight against the Lord God of our fathers, because you can't possibly win."

¹³Jeroboam had sent some of his troops around to the rear of the forces of Judah while he stayed in charge of the army in front. ¹⁴Then he ordered his troops to attack. The men of Judah saw that they were surrounded, and they cried to the Lord for help while the priests blew the trumpets for a counter-attack. ¹⁵When the men of Judah gave the battle cry, the Lord came to their rescue and helped them defeat the Israelites. ¹⁶Then Jeroboam and his men turned and ran, but the Lord helped the men of Judah overtake them. ¹⁷Abijah and his forces inflicted very heavy casualties on the Israelites—over five hundred thousand of them were either killed or wounded.

¹⁸So Israel was defeated, but Judah was victorious because they depended on the Lord God of their fathers. ¹⁹Abijah pursued Jeroboam and took the cities of Bethel, Jeshanah and Ephron. They also captured the surrounding villages and occupied them. ²⁰Jeroboam never did regain his former power. Finally the Lord struck him down and he died. ²¹But Abijah's kingdom grew stronger. Over the years he took fourteen wives and had twenty-two sons and sixteen daughters. ²²Everything that Abijah said and did was recorded by the prophet Iddo.

14 Abijah died and was buried in the royal tombs in the City of David where he rested with his fathers, and Asa his son became the next king. For the first ten years of Asa's reign, there was peace in the country .

Asa's Reign in Judah

²Asa did what was right and good in the eyes of the Lord. ³He removed the pagan altars in the high places, crushed the sacred columns and cut down the poles of the mother goddess Asherah. ⁴He told the people of Judah that they should worship the God of their fathers, obey His laws and keep His commandments. ⁵He destroyed the pagan altars of incense in every city and town in Judah. Under him, the kingdom was at peace. ⁶He fortified numerous cities throughout the land of Judah and did so unhindered because there were no wars during that time, for the Lord gave His people rest from their enemies. ⁷Asa had said to the people of Judah, "Let's fortify these cities with walls and towers and gates that can be secured with strong bars. This country is ours and we still have our freedom because we have followed the Lord, and he has given us peace on all sides." ⁸Asa had a standing army of three hundred thousand men from Judah, all of whom were equipped with shields and spears. He also had two hundred and eighty thousand men from Benjamin armed with smaller shields and bows and arrows. All these men were brave and well trained.

⁹Now Zerah, the Ethiopian, decided to attack Judah. He invaded the southern part of Judah with thousands upon thousands of troops and three hundred chariots. He got as far as Mareshah. ¹⁰Asa was prepared and the men of Judah went out to meet him. They took up their positions in the Valley of Zephathah at Mareshah. ¹¹Then Asa called on the Lord for help, saying, "O Lord, there is no one like you to help those who know they're helpless. Please go with us against this mighty army that has attacked our land, for we have no one else to depend on but you. Don't let them defeat us, or they'll think they have defeated you." ¹²The Lord heard Asa's prayer and the men of Judah counterattacked. The Lord struck the Ethiopian forces, and they turned and ran. ¹³Asa pursued them as far as Gerar on the way to Egypt. So many of the enemy were killed that there was no way they could recover and fight again. They were overpowered by the Lord, and the men of Judah were able to carry away enormous amounts of plunder. ¹⁴They also destroyed all the smaller cities in the area around Gerar because the fear of God had fallen on the people. The men of Judah plundered all these cities where there were many treasures. ¹⁵Asa also attacked the camps of the herdsmen in that area and took a large number of sheep and camels. Then he and his men returned to Jerusalem.

Asa's Reforms

15 The Spirit of the Lord came upon Azariah, the son of Oded, ²and he went out to meet Asa and his men as they were returning to Jerusalem, and he said to them, "Listen to me, O king, and all you men from Judah and Benjamin. The Lord is with you as long as you're with Him. If you look for Him, He will let you find Him, but if you forsake Him, He will forsake you. ³For a long time the people of Israel lived without worshiping God and without priests to teach them His law. ⁴But when troubles came, the people turned to the God of Israel and found Him. ⁵In those days it wasn't safe to travel because there was danger and turmoil everywhere. ⁶One country was fighting another country and one city another city. God allowed all these troubles because the people had forsaken Him. But when the people turned to the Lord, He brought them peace. ⁷So be strong and full of courage. Don't give up serving the Lord. The work you do for Him will be rewarded."

⁸When Asa and his men heard this from the prophet, they took courage. So Asa took away all the idols in the land of Judah and Benjamin and all the idols in the cities he had annexed in the hills of Ephraim. He also repaired the altar of the Lord that stood in the courtyard of the Temple and had sacrifices offered on it. ⁹Then he invited the people of Judah and Benjamin to come together to worship the Lord. He also invited the people from Ephraim, Manasseh and Simeon to join them. Many of them had moved to Judah from Israel because they saw that the Lord was with Asa. ¹⁰The people assembled in Jerusalem in the third month of the fifteenth year of Asa's reign. ¹¹They sacrificed seven hundred cattle and seven thousand sheep to the Lord from the plunder they had brought back from war. ¹²They made a covenant with the Lord to serve Him with all their being. ¹³All who insisted on worshipping idols, no matter who they were, man or woman, rich or poor, were to be put to death. ¹⁴The people took an oath to the Lord to do so and voiced their commitment to Him, accompanied by trumpets and rams' horns. ¹⁵They took the oath of commitment wholeheartedly and rejoiced in that they did it unitedly. They took pleasure in worshipping the Lord and sought Him eagerly. And God let them find Him. Then He gave them peace on all sides.

¹⁶Asa also removed his grandmother Maacah as queen mother from her place of influence because she had set up one of the obscene poles of the fertility goddess, Asherah, in the middle of the city. He cut the pole down, chopped it up and burned it outside of Jerusalem in the Kidron Valley. ¹⁷Even though Asa didn't destroy the pagan shrines in the mountains, he did love the Lord and followed Him all the days of his life. ¹⁸Asa brought all the silver and gold and other things to the Temple that he and his fathers had dedicated to the Lord. ¹⁹There had been no major war during Asa's reign until his fourteenth year, which was the thirty-fifth year of the Southern Kingdom, when Zerah attacked Judah.

Asa's Treaty With Syria

16 In the thirty-sixth year of the Southern Kingdom, which was the fifteenth year of Asa's reign, Baasha, king of Israel, invaded Judah and took the city of Ramah. Then he started fortifying it to keep his people from going to Jerusalem and settling in Judah. ²So Asa took silver and gold out of the royal treasury and out of the Temple and sent it to Benhadad I, King of Syria, with this message: ³"Let's make a treaty and be allies as our fathers were. I'm sending you a present of silver and gold and would like to ask you to break your treaty with Baasha, king of Israel, so he'll pull his troops out of my country." ⁴Benhadad agreed and ordered his forces to invade Israel. They took the cities of Ijon, Dan, Abel Beth Maacah, and all the cities of Naphtali where Israel had stored supplies. ⁵When Baasha, king of Israel, heard what had happened, he stopped fortifying Ramah, took his troops and went back home. ⁶Then Asa, king of Judah, took his men, went to Ramah and had them carry away all the timber and building stones that Baasha had brought there.

Asa used this building material to build up and fortify the cities of Geba and Mizpah.

⁷About that time the prophet Hanani came to see Asa and said to him, "Because you relied on Benhadad to help you instead of relying on the Lord, you will not be able to defeat the king of Syria when he breaks his treaty and attacks you. ⁸Didn't Zerah, the Ethiopian, attack you with a large army of Egyptian and Libyan mercenaries and with chariots and horses? What happened? When you relied on the Lord, He delivered them into your hand. ⁹The Lord keeps an eye on everything that goes on in this world. He strengthens the hands of those who love Him and are loyal to Him. You have been very foolish to do what you have done. From now on, you will always be at war with your enemies." ¹⁰This message made Asa very angry, so he had the prophet arrested and put in prison. Then he began to be brutally unjust in his dealings with the people and treated some of them cruelly.

The Death of Asa

¹¹Everything that Asa did from the beginning of his reign until the end is recorded in The Books of the Kings of Judah and Israel. ¹²In the thirty-ninth year of his reign, Asa came down with a terrible foot disease. He didn't ask the Lord for healing but only asked help from his physicians. ¹³Two years later, in his forty-first year, Asa died. ¹⁴They buried him in a rock tomb that he had hewn for himself in the City of David. There the people laid his body on a bier and prepared it for burial using spices and perfumed oils. Then they closed the tomb and built a fire, burning additional spices and perfumed oil in his honor.

Jehoshaphat's Reign in Judah

17 Asa's son Jehoshaphat, became the next king of Judah, and he strengthened his army to defend himself against Israel. ²He stationed troops in all the fortified cities of Judah, in various other cities throughout the Southern Kingdom and in the cities that his father Asa had annexed in Ephraim. ³The Lord blessed Jehoshaphat because he followed the example of his ancestor David and of his father Asa's earlier life. He did not worship or consult Baal. ⁴Instead he worshiped the God of Israel and kept His commandments and did not live as the kings of Israel did. ⁵The Lord made Judah a strong kingdom under Jehoshaphat, and the people brought him many gifts. He became wealthy and was highly respected. ⁶He obeyed God and destroyed all the high places of pagan worship in Judah and all the symbols and poles of the goddess Asherah.

⁷In the third year of his reign he appointed five officials to go throughout the country to see to it that the people were taught about the Lord. These were: Ben Hail, Obadiah, Zechariah, Nethanel and Micaiah. ⁸They were assisted by nine Levites and two priests. The Levites were: Shemaiah, Nethaniah, Zebadiah, Asahel, Shemiramoth, Jehonathan, Adonijah, Tobijah and Tob Adonijah. The priests were: Elishama and Jehoram. ⁹These men took the Book of the Law with them and went to all the cities and towns throughout Judah teaching the people about their God.

¹⁰Then the Lord made the other nations afraid to start a war with Judah. So the country enjoyed peace on all sides. ¹¹Some of the Philistines even brought gifts to Jehoshaphat, including large amounts of silver for taxes. The Arabians brought him gifts from their flocks—seven thousand, seven hundred rams and seven thousand, seven hundred goats. ¹²Jehoshaphat became more and more powerful and built fortifications and supply depots all over Judah. ¹³He stored supplies in huge quantities in various cities throughout the country and even stationed a number of fighting units in Jerusalem.

¹⁴There were three commanding officers from Judah: Adnah had three hundred thousand registered men divided into units of a thousand; ¹⁵Jehohanan had two hundred and eighty thousand registered men; ¹⁶and Amasiah, the son of Zichri, had two hundred thousand available men. ¹⁷And there were two commanding officers from Benjamin: Eliada had two hundred thousand men all skilled in using shields and bows and arrows, ready to be called; ¹⁸and Jehozabad had one hundred and eighty thousand men who were well-armed and ready for war at a moment's notice. ¹⁹These five officers with their regular troops were stationed in and around Jerusalem, besides those assigned to fortified cities in other places throughout the country.

The Prophet Micaiah Warns Ahab

18 When Jehoshaphat became wealthy and highly respected, he made a marriage alliance between his son Jehoram and Ahab's daughter Athaliah. ²Time went by and he decided to pay a royal visit to Ahab. He went to Samaria, the capital of Israel. When he got there Ahab honored Jehoshaphat and his men by holding a royal banquet. He slaughtered countless sheep and cattle for the occasion. During the feast he urged Jehoshaphat to join him in attacking Ramoth in Gilead that the king of Syria had now taken from him. ³Ahab said, "Will you go with me?" Jehoshaphat answered, "Certainly, because my people and your people are one. We should stick together."

⁴Then he added, "But first let's ask the Lord what we should do." ⁵So Ahab called together his prophets, about four hundred of them, and asked, "Should we fight the Syrians at Ramoth?" They answered, "Go, and the Lord God of Israel will go with you and give you the victory." ⁶But Jehoshaphat said to Ahab, "Isn't there a true prophet of the Lord around here whom we can ask, other than these prophets who also worship

Baal?" ⁷Ahab answered, "There is, but I hate him because he never prophesies anything good about me. His name is Micaiah, the son of Imlah." Jehoshaphat said, "You shouldn't say that. Let's bring him here and see what he has to say."

⁸So Ahab called to one of his officers, "Go and bring Micaiah the prophet here as fast as you can." ⁹The two kings were dressed in their royal robes, sitting on portable thrones in an open space near the gates of Samaria. The four hundred prophets were all there prophesying good things for them. ¹⁰Zedekiah, the son of Chenaanah, one of the false prophets, made two iron horns and said to the kings, "This is what the Lord says, 'You will be like these two iron horns. You will attack the Syrians and totally destroy them.'" ¹¹All the other prophets agreed, saying, "Go and attack Ramoth in Gilead, and the Lord will give you the victory and deliver the Syrians into your hands."

¹²In the meantime, the officer whom Ahab had sent to get Micaiah, arrived at the prophet's house and said to him, "When we get to the gates of Samaria, you need to say the same thing that the other prophets have said. They're telling the king to attack Ramoth in Gilead and he will be successful." ¹³Micaiah said, "As surely as the Lord lives, I will tell the king only what the Lord tells me to say." ¹⁴So when they got there, Ahab asked Micaiah, "Should we go to war against Ramoth in Gilead or not?" Micaiah said, "Go ahead and attack! You'll win! These prophets of yours already told you so!" ¹⁵The king said, "How many times have I told you not to play games with me? Tell me the truth!"

¹⁶Then Micaiah said, "I saw the armies of Israel and Judah scattered across the hills of Gilead like sheep without a shepherd. I asked the Lord what this meant, and He said, 'These men have lost their leader; let them go back home in peace.'" ¹⁷Ahab turned to Jehoshaphat and said, "See, I told you that he never prophesies anything good about me." ¹⁸Then Micaiah continued, "Listen to the word of the Lord. In vision I saw the Lord sitting on His throne and all the angels standing in front of Him. ¹⁹The Lord said to the angels, 'How can we get Ahab to go to Ramoth in Gilead? We need to put an end to his wicked reign.' One angel suggested one thing and another something else. ²⁰Finally, an evil angel appeared in the vision and said to the Lord, 'I know what to do.' The Lord said, 'What?' ²¹The wicked angel said, 'I will make all Ahab's prophets tell lies.' The Lord said, 'I won't interfere, because I've already removed my protection from him.' ²²So what these prophets are telling you are lies. You won't succeed, because the Lord has decided that in this battle He will allow you to be wounded and die."

²³Then Zedekiah, the false prophet, went up and slapped Micaiah in the face and said, "When did the Spirit of the Lord leave me to speak through you? Tell me!" ²⁴Micaiah said, "You'll find out when you have to go and hide from the Syrians in a back room to keep from being killed." ²⁵Then Ahab said to one of his officers, "Arrest Micaiah and take him to Amon, the mayor of the city, and to my son Joash. ²⁶Tell them to throw him in jail and feed him nothing but bread and water until I come back safely." ²⁷Micaiah said to the king, "If you return victorious, then what I said was a lie and certainly not from the Lord. Everyone of you here, mark my word."

The Death of Ahab

²⁸Then Jehoshaphat decided to go with Ahab to fight the Syrians at Ramoth in Gilead because he had given his word before hearing what Micaiah had to say. ²⁹When they got to the front, Ahab said to Jehoshaphat, "I want to get more involved in the fighting instead of just standing back and directing it. I'll disguise myself, but you stay dressed as you are and direct things from back here." Jehoshaphat agreed. So Ahab put on other clothes and went into battle, hoping he might escape the prophet's predictions.

³⁰Now the king of Syria had told his chariot commanders to focus on capturing Ahab rather than killing a lot of Israelites. ³¹During the battle when the commanders saw Jehoshaphat, they thought he was Ahab. They said, "There's the king! Let's get him!" So they pursued him. Jehoshaphat cried to the Lord for help, and the Lord turned the main fighting away from him. ³²And when the chariot commanders realized that Jehoshaphat was not the king of Israel, they stopped chasing him.

³³But during the battle one of the Syrian archers drew his bow and shot it at random and the arrow hit the king of Israel between the sections of his armor. Ahab shouted to his chariot driver, "I'm wounded! Turn around and get me out of the fighting!" ³⁴The driver did so, but then Ahab changed his mind and ordered him to turn back to face the Syrians. All that day Ahab directed the battle propped up in the chariot with the arrow still in his body, believing they would defeat the Syrians. Just before sunset he died, and they took his body back to Samaria.

19 But Jehoshaphat was safe, and after the battle, he returned to Jerusalem. ²Then the prophet Jehu went out to meet the king and said to him, "Do you think it's right to make an alliance with the wicked and help those who hate the Lord? You set a bad example in helping Ahab, and the Lord is very displeased with what you have done. ³But there is some good in you. You did get rid of the symbols of the fertility goddess Asherah whom the people worshiped, and you have tried to follow the Lord. Still the Lord will have to punish you so the people will know that your alliance with Ahab was wrong."

Jehoshaphat's Reforms

⁴Jehoshaphat repented of his sin and went throughout the country, from Mount Ephraim in the north to Beer-sheba in the south, turning people's hearts back to God. ⁵He appointed judges in all the fortified cities throughout Judah and Benjamin ⁶ and said to them, "Be sure you do what's right because you're not working for man but for God. Stay close to Him, and He'll stay close to you and help you in everything you do. ⁷The Lord wants people to be treated fairly. So don't let anyone bribe you into handing down a wrong verdict. The Lord will not tolerate it."

⁸Jehoshaphat also set up a supreme court in Jerusalem. He appointed judges from among the Levites, priests and leading men of Judah who lived in Jerusalem. He asked them to hear cases regarding the law of God, as well as settle civil disputes. ⁹He said to them, "You must remember that you're serving the God of Israel. Be faithful in everything you do and love the Lord your God with all your heart. ¹⁰When people come to you to settle their cases, you are to warn them not to sin against the Lord. If you don't do this, the Lord will not only be displeased with you but with all your people. If you warn them, you won't be held guilty. ¹¹Amariah, the high priest, will be the final appeal in religious matters. Zebadiah, the son of Ishmael and governor of Judah, will be the final appeal in civil matters. The Levites will serve as officers. It'll be their responsibility to see that all decisions handed down are carried out. So take up your duties with courage and may the Lord our God be with you."

War With Edom, Ammon, and Moab

20 It was after this that the Lord allowed the Moabites, Ammonites and the Meunites from Edom to attack Jehoshaphat's army and invade the land of Judah. ²A messenger brought word to Jehoshaphat, saying, "A large army is coming from Edom to attack us. They're coming from the other side of the Dead Sea. They've already taken the city of Hazazon Tamar and the wells of En Gedi." ³When Jehoshaphat heard this he was afraid and asked the Lord to help him. He also announced a day of fasting and prayer. ⁴All across the country people came together to pray for Jerusalem and to ask the Lord for protection.

⁵Many of them came to Jerusalem and assembled in the courtyard of the Temple to pray. Jehoshaphat stood up ⁶and prayed, "O Lord, God of our fathers, you're the God of heaven and earth. You rule over all nations and kingdoms. All power is yours, and there is no one who can stand up against you. ⁷You are our God. You are the One who drove out the inhabitants of this land and brought your people Israel here just as you promised our father Abraham, your special friend. ⁸Your people have lived here and built a temple for worshiping you. ⁹You said that if troubles came, whether through famine, war, sickness or any other calamity and we came to the Temple, looking to you for help in our distress, you would hear our prayers and save us. ¹⁰The combined armies of Edom, Ammon and Moab, whose land you would not allow our ancestors to attack when they came out of Egypt, are now coming against us. ¹¹This is how they're repaying us for not destroying them. They're coming here to drive us out of the land you gave us. ¹²O Lord, our God, please help us! We're helpless against such a vast army. We don't know what to do. So we're looking to you to save us."

¹³As Jehoshaphat was praying, the men of Judah with their wives and children stood by helpless. ¹⁴Then the Spirit of the Lord came upon Jahaziel, the son of Zechariah, a Levite and descendant of Asaph. He came and stood in front of the people ¹⁵and said, "All of you, whether you're from Jerusalem or from elsewhere in Judah, listen to the word from the Lord: 'Don't be afraid of this large army. The battle belongs to the Lord and not to you. ¹⁶Tomorrow morning march out against your enemies. They'll be coming up the mountain pass at Ziz and I want you to meet them at the end of the gorge that leads into the open country by Jeruel near Tekoa and from there to the wilderness. ¹⁷You won't have to fight. Just take up your positions, stand firm and see what the Lord will do for Judah and Jerusalem. Don't be afraid and don't get discouraged. Tomorrow morning go out and face your enemies, and the Lord will go with you.'"

¹⁸Jehoshaphat fell on his knees and bowed down, and all the people followed his example. They, too, fell on their knees and worshiped the Lord. ¹⁹Then some of the Levites from the Kohathites and Korahites stood up and praised the God of Israel with loud voices and with singing.

²⁰Early the next morning the troops got ready to march out to the open country to battle. As they left, Jehoshaphat said to them, "Men of Judah and Jerusalem, listen to me! Have faith in God, and He will uphold you. Believe His prophets, and you will succeed." ²¹Then Jehoshaphat ordered the Levites to put on the robes they wore for sacred occasions, organize themselves into a choir and march ahead of the army singing, "Praise to the Lord! Give thanks to Him. His love is eternal; it never fails."

²²As Jehoshaphat and his men neared Tekoa, the Levites began singing and praising the God of Israel. Then the Lord went ahead of them and threw the armies of Edom, Ammon and Moab into confusion. ²³The men of Ammon and Moab started fighting the men from Edom and slaughtered them. Then they turned on each other with a savage fury.

²⁴When the men of Judah got to where they could look out on the open country, they saw only dead bodies. Not one of the enemy had survived. ²⁵Jehoshaphat and his men plundered the camp of their enemies unhindered. They found a large amount of equipment and clothing and so many articles of value, they couldn't carry them all. It took them three days just to collect what they wanted. ²⁶On the fourth day they gathered in the Beracah Valley south of Tekoa and praised the Lord for what He had done. That's why the valley is called The Valley of Praise. ²⁷Then all the men of Judah and Jerusalem led by King Jehoshaphat returned home rejoicing in the Lord. ²⁸When they reached Jerusalem, they marched to the Temple singing praises to the Lord accompanied by harps, flutes and trumpets. ²⁹The fear of the Lord came upon all the surrounding countries when they heard what the God of Israel had done for His people and how He had fought against their enemies. ³⁰So under Jehoshaphat, the kingdom of Judah was at peace because God gave them rest on all sides.

The Death of Jehoshaphat

³¹Jehoshaphat became king when he was thirty-five years old and reigned in Jerusalem for twenty-five years. His mother's name was Azubah, the daughter of Shilhi. ³²He followed the example of his father Asa and did what was right in the eyes of the Lord and didn't deviate from it. ³³However, the pagan shrines on the high places around Jerusalem and in the country were not removed, and the people of Judah still didn't worship God with the same measure of devotion that their fathers had.

³⁴Everything that Jehoshaphat did from beginning to end was recorded by the prophet Jehu, the son of Hanani, and can be found in The Books of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

³⁵Before Jehoshaphat died, he made an alliance with Ahaziah, the king of Israel who had done as many wicked things as his father Ahab had. ³⁶Jehoshaphat agreed to join him in building a fleet of trading ships at Ezion Geber. ³⁷Then the prophet Eliezer, the son of Dodavahu from Mareshah, went to see Jehoshaphat and said, "Because you didn't learn your lesson the first time when the Lord warned you not to make an alliance with Israel but you went ahead and did it again, the Lord will destroy your ships." So the ships were wrecked in a storm and never again sailed to Spain.

Jehoram's Reign in Judah

21 Jehoshaphat died and was buried beside his fathers in the City of David, and his son Jehoram became the next king. ²Jehoram's brothers were: Azariah, Jehiel, Zechariah, Azariahu, Michael and Shephatiah. All these were the sons of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah. ³Their father gave them gold, silver and other valuable gifts and put each one in charge of one of the fortified cities in Judah. But he chose Jehoram to be his successor because he was the oldest.

⁴After Jehoram felt he had firm control of things, he had all his brothers and some of the country's top officials killed. ⁵He was thirty-two years old when he became king and ruled Judah from Jerusalem for eight years. ⁶He followed the example of the kings of the Northern Kingdom and did what Ahab had done. He married Ahab and Jezebel's daughter, Athaliah, and sinned greatly against the Lord. ⁷But because of the covenant the Lord had made with David, the Lord was not willing that Judah should be totally destroyed. He had promised that He would not extinguish the light of David but that his descendants would be the rulers of God's people forever.

⁸In the time of Jehoram, the Edomites rebelled against Judah, set up their own king and declared themselves free from its control. ⁹Jehoram took his army with its chariots and went to put down the rebellion. The Edomites surrounded him. But during the night Jehoram and his men managed to break through the lines and escape. ¹⁰Ever since, Edom has been independent from Judah. Also during this time, the city of Libnah revolted and broke away from Judah. All this happened because Jehoram had forsaken the Lord, the God of his fathers.

¹¹Jehoram even built shrines on the hills around Jerusalem and throughout the country for different gods and led the people to prostitute themselves before these idols. ¹²One day Jehoram received a letter from Elijah the prophet which said, "This is what the Lord God of your ancestor David says, 'You have not followed your father's or grandfather's example, both of whom served as kings of Judah and did what was right. ¹³But you have followed the example of Ahab and Jezebel in Israel and have led the people of Judah and Jerusalem to prostitute themselves in front of these idols whose shrines you have built. You have even killed your own brothers who were better than you. ¹⁴The Lord will bring a severe sickness on your people, your wives and your children. He will take away many of your possessions. ¹⁵You will become sick with a painful intestinal condition which will get continually worse until you die.'"

¹⁶Then the Lord stirred up the anger of the Philistines, the Arabians and the Ethiopians against Jehoram. ¹⁷They began invading the land of Judah and attacking the cities. They came into Jerusalem, carried off all the valuables found in the king's palace, including his wives and children. Not one of them was left except his youngest son, Jehoahaz (also called Ahaziah).

¹⁸Then the Lord brought a painful intestinal condition on Jehoram. ¹⁹In time he couldn't control his bowels, and after about two years, he died. The people did not make a huge bonfire to honor him as they had for his father and grandfather. ²⁰Jehoram was thirty-two years old when he became king, and he ruled over the Southern Kingdom for eight years. When he died, no one mourned for him. He was buried in the City of David but not beside the other kings of Judah.

Ahaziah's Reign in Judah

22 Then the people of Judah made Jehoram's youngest son Ahaziah

king because all of his brothers had either been killed or captured by invading armies. ²Ahaziah was part of the family of Athaliah, daughter of Ahab. Forty-two years after her grandfather Omri had become king of Israel, Ahaziah became king of Judah. He ruled only one year. ³He, too, followed the example of Ahab and Jezebel because his mother, Athaliah, encouraged him to do so.

⁴After his father's death he sinned still more against the Lord by taking in members of Ahab's family as advisers, which led to his ruin. ⁵He listened to them when they told him to go with Joram, the son of Ahab, against Hazael, king of Syria. The armies met at Ramoth in Gilead and Joram was wounded. ⁶Then Joram returned to his other palace in Jezreel to recover from the wounds he had received in battle. Ahaziah, the son of Jehoram and king of Judah, went there to visit him.

⁷While Ahaziah was there, the Lord brought about his downfall. Both kings went out to meet Jehu, the son of Nimshi, whom the Lord had anointed king of Israel with instructions to destroy the royal house of Ahab. ⁸Jehu killed Joram and the other members of the royal house. He killed the sons of Ahaziah's brothers. ⁹Then he told his men to capture Ahaziah who had been wounded and was heading for Jerusalem by way of Samaria. They caught up with him and brought him to Jehu who had him executed. Out of respect they buried him. They said, "He was the grandson of King Jehoshaphat who did what he could to serve the Lord." So no one was left in the family of Ahaziah to rule as king of Judah.

Queen Athaliah's Reign in Judah

¹⁰When Athaliah, the mother of Ahaziah, heard that her son was dead, she appointed herself as queen and took over the kingdom. She was determined that no one from the house of David would replace any of the descendants of Ahab as rulers over Judah. So she proceeded to kill anyone belonging to the house of Judah who would have been eligible to take the throne. ¹¹But Jehosheba, daughter of Jehoram and half-sister of Ahaziah, took one-year-old Joash, her brother's youngest son, and hid him and his nurse in her bedroom. Jehosheba was the wife of Jehoiada, the high priest, and she lived in one of the apartments at the Temple. Because of that, Athaliah, the queen mother, couldn't find the boy. ¹²Little Joash lived in the Temple apartment for six years while Athaliah ruled the country.

Young Boy Joash Made King of Judah

23 In the seventh year, Jehoiada, the high priest, decided to do something about the situation in Judah. So he made an agreement with five commanders of the army: Azariah the son of Jeroham, Ishmael the son of Jehohanan, Azariah the son of Obed, Maaseiah the son of Adaiah, and Elishaphat the son of Zichri. ²They went to all the cities in Judah and brought the Levites and all the heads of ancestral houses to Jerusalem.

³They all took an oath of loyalty to Joash, the seven-year-old son of Ahaziah. Then Jehoiada, the high priest, said to the Levites, the priests and the Temple guards, "This is the son of the late king and a descendant of David. He's the one to rule our country, not Athaliah, the daughter of Ahab and Jezebel. The Lord promised David that his descendants would rule Judah. ⁴So this is what I want you to do. As you take up your Sabbath duties, a third of you will keep an eye on the Temple gates, ⁵a third of you will watch the royal palace and a third of you will be stationed at the Foundation Gate. Don't let anyone come into the Temple. ⁶Only the priests and Levites on duty are to be allowed into the courtyard of the Sanctuary because they have cleansed themselves and are considered ritually consecrated to the Lord. But all others are to be kept out of the inner court as the Lord has told us. ⁷For the ceremony, those of you who had the Sabbath off are to come and stand guard around the king's son with weapons in your hands. Anyone who tries to force his way into the Temple is to be put to death. When the ceremony is over, guard the king wherever he goes."

⁸They did what Jehoiada asked them to do. The commanders told their men going off duty to stay by until they were released by the high priest, so these were added to the men coming on duty. ⁹Jehoiada gave the commanders of the different units the spears and the large and small shields of David which had been stored in the Temple. ¹⁰When the time came for the coronation ceremony, he stationed the men with their weapons around the young king. They stood from one side of the Temple courtyard to the other. ¹¹Jehoiada brought out the young prince, put a crown on his head and gave him a copy of the law to hold. Then he proclaimed him the new king of Judah. He also anointed him with holy oil, and all those present shouted, "Long live the king!"

The Death of Queen Athaliah

¹²When Athaliah, the queen mother, heard shouting coming from the Temple and saw people running in that direction, she wondered what was going on. ¹³So she went to look and the guards let her into the Temple courtyard. She saw little Joash standing between the pillars by the entrance to the Sanctuary surrounded by army officers. All the people were shouting, "Long live the king!" The Temple musicians were blowing their trumpets and the choir was singing praises to the Lord. Then Athaliah tore her royal robe and shouted, "Treason! Treason!" ¹⁴Jehoiada, the high priest, saw her, but he didn't want her killed in the Temple, so he said to the officers, "Let her get out of the Temple, then catch up with her and kill her. Also kill anyone who tries to protect her." ¹⁵So they captured her as she reached the Horse Gate by the king's house, and that's where she was killed.

¹⁶Jehoiada had the young king and those who were there join him in making a covenant that they would be loyal to the Lord. ¹⁷Then the people went to the temple of Baal, tore it down, smashed the altars and the idols and killed Mattan, the high priest of Baal, in front of the destroyed altars. ¹⁸Jehoiada put the Lord's priests and the Levites in charge of the work at the Temple. He assigned the same duties to them that David had written out when he was king and told them to present the offerings to the Lord with singing, just as Moses had told them to do. ¹⁹He also stationed guards at the gates of the Temple so that no one came in who was ritually unclean. ²⁰Then together with the young king, he led the commanders, the leaders of Judah and all the others through the Upper Gate to the place where Joash took his place on the royal throne. ²¹This made all the people happy. They rejoiced and were glad over their new king. Jerusalem was now quiet and at peace because the queen mother was dead.

Joash Orders the Temple Repaired

24 Joash was seven years old when he became king, and he ruled over Judah from Jerusalem for forty years. His mother's name was Zibiah. She was from Beersheba. ²Joash did what was right in the eyes of the Lord nearly all the years of Jehoiada, the high priest. ³When Joash got old enough to marry, Jehoiada the high priest chose two wives for him, and Joash took them and had many sons and daughters.

⁴Some years after he became king, Joash decided to restore the Temple, because it had fallen into disrepair. ⁵So he called together the priests and Levites and said, "Go throughout the country and collect the annual Temple tax as quickly as you can." But the priests and Levites kept putting it off. ⁶Then Joash called in Jehoiada, the high priest, and said, "Why didn't you urge the priests and Levites to collect the annual Temple tax? This tax is what the Lord through Moses told the people to pay to keep up the Temple." ⁷While the wicked Queen Athaliah had been alive, her sons had broken into the Temple and taken many sacred objects which they then diverted for worshiping Baal.

⁸Joash was impatient with the delay of the priests and Levites to collect the Temple tax, so he commanded that a chest be made and placed at the entrance to the Temple. ⁹Then he issued a proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem that the people should bring their Temple tax to the Lord as Moses had instructed they should. ¹⁰The officials and people cheerfully paid the Temple tax. They put it into the chest that Joash had placed at the entrance. ¹¹At the end of every day the Levites would bring the chest inside and call the king's officials to come and open it. Then the royal secretary and the representative of the high priest would empty it. The next morning the Levites would put the chest back at the entrance of the Temple. It wasn't long before they had collected a large amount of money. ¹²Then the king and the high priest gave the money to the men in charge of repairing the Temple. They hired carpenters and masons and others who could work with iron and bronze. ¹³The men in charge were honest men and committed to restoring the original design of the Temple as quickly as they could making it as solid as ever.

¹⁴When they finished their job and had money left over, they brought it to the king and the high priest who used the money to have things made for use in worship, such as bowls and other utensils of silver and gold. Then Jehoiada, the high priest, began regular services in the Temple and offered whole burnt offerings to the Lord every day as long as he lived.

Joash's Apostasy

¹⁵Jehoiada was one hundred and thirty years old when he died. ¹⁶They buried him beside the kings in the City of David because of all the good he had done for Israel and for the Temple.

¹⁷After Jehoiada died, the officials of Judah came to see the king and persuaded him to join them in idol worship. ¹⁸Under their influence the people stopped worshiping the God of their fathers and began worshiping idols and images of Asherah, the mother goddess of fertility, and other idols. The Lord was very displeased with the apostasy of the people. ¹⁹Even though He sent prophets with special messages to warn the people to bring them back to Him, they simply wouldn't listen.

²⁰Then the Spirit of the Lord came upon Zechariah, son of Jehoiada the high priest. He stood above the people and said, "This is what the Lord says, 'Why do you keep disobeying me? You know I can't bless you if you do this. You have forsaken the Lord. The Lord will now forsake you.'" ²¹But the people turned against Zechariah, and with the king's approval and on his orders, they stoned Zechariah to death right in the courtyard of the Temple. ²²Joash had forgotten how kind Zechariah's father Jehoiada had been to him when he was a boy and how he had saved his life from Athaliah, the wicked queen mother. As Zechariah lay dying, he said to the king, "May the Lord see this and demand payment for what you have done."

The Death of Joash

²³In the spring of the year, the Lord allowed the Syrian army to attack Jerusalem. They killed all the officials and took everything of value back to Damascus with them. ²⁴Even though the Syrian army was small, the Lord saw to it that they defeated the much larger Judean army because the people had forsaken God and had turned to idols. This is the way the Lord punished the people for what they were doing.

²⁵During the battle Joash was severely wounded. After the Syrians withdrew and the king was at home recovering, two of his officials conspired against him and killed him in his own bed to avenge the death of Zechariah. Then they buried Joash in the City of David, but not in the royal tombs of the kings. ²⁶The two officials were Jozabad (Zabad for short), the son of Shimeath, an Ammonite woman, and Jehozabad, the son of Shimrith (also called Shomer), a Moabite woman. ²⁷Everything that Joash did, the account of his sons, what he did in his early life for the Temple and the prophetic messages sent against him in his later years, is recorded in The Books of the Kings of Judah. Amaziah, the son of Joash, became the next king.

Amaziah's Reign in Judah

25 Amaziah was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he ruled over Judah for twenty-nine years. His mother's name was Jehoaddin. She was from Jerusalem. ²He did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord, but only halfheartedly. ³When he was in firm control of the kingdom, he executed the two officials who had murdered his father. ⁴He did not put their sons to death, but stayed within the law that the Lord had spoken to Moses, "Fathers are not to be put to death for what their children have done, and children are not to be put to death for what their fathers have done."

War Against Edom

⁵Amaziah assigned all the men of Judah and Benjamin to various military units by ancestral houses and put them under commanders in units of hundreds and thousands. Everyone twenty years old and up who was fit for war and knew how to use a spear and a shield was assigned to a military unit. This gave Amaziah an army of three hundred thousand ready for war. ⁶He also hired a hundred thousand mercenaries from Israel for seven thousand, five hundred pounds of silver. He felt that he was now ready to go against the forces of Edom. ⁷But the Lord sent a prophet to Amaziah who said to him, "You are not to use the troops from the northern kingdom because the Lord will not be with them. They are no longer on the side of Israel. ⁸You may think that they'll be a help to you, but they won't. The Lord can help you, or He can see to it that you're defeated."

⁹Amaziah said, "But what about the seven thousand, five hundred pounds of silver I paid for the use of those men?" The prophet said, "Obedience is more important. The Lord can give you much more than that." ¹⁰So Amaziah sent the troops from the northern kingdom back home. The men were upset about this and felt they were being discriminated against because they were from the north. They became angry with the king and left in a rage. ¹¹Then Amaziah gathered courage and with a much smaller army marched against the forces of Edom. They met in the Valley of Salt. He defeated them, killing ten thousand enemy troops. ¹²By the time the battle was over, he had captured another ten thousand. Then he took these prisoners to the top of the cliff overlooking the nearby city of Sela, later called Petra, and had them pushed off the edge. They were all killed on the rocks below. ¹³When the Israelite troops, whom Amaziah had sent back home, arrived in Samaria, they decided to raid the cities of Judah. So the men crossed the border and attacked the area around Beth Horon. They killed three thousand people and took an enormous amount of plunder.

¹⁴After Amaziah defeated the Edomites, he took their gods with him back to Jerusalem, set them up, bowed down in front of them and even offered sacrifices to them. ¹⁵The Lord was very displeased with this and sent a prophet to see Amaziah. The prophet said to the king, "Why are you worshiping these idols as if they were the heroes who helped you win the war? Did they protect your forces or prevent them from being defeated?"¹⁶Amaziah got very upset over this and interrupted the prophet, "Stop! Who asked you to be my adviser? If you keep on talking, I'll have you arrested." The prophet said, "All right, I'll stop, but let me say this: I know that God will punish you for what you've done and for not listening to my counsel." Then he turned and left.

Judah Invades Israel

¹⁷Soon after this Amaziah consulted his advisers and asked them what to do about the raids the men of Israel had made into Judah. They told him to challenge Jehoash to a fight. So Amaziah sent this message to Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz: "Come and let's face each other in battle."¹⁸Jehoash sent this message back to Amaziah: "Once there was a thorn bush in the mountains of Lebanon. It said to the cedar tree, 'Give your daughter to my son in marriage.' But instead, a wild beast came and walked all over the thorn bush."¹⁹You think that just because you defeated the Edomites that you can now defeat me. That victory has made you arrogant and proud. Stay home. Why ask for a fight and have me walk all over you?"

²⁰But Amaziah ignored the message. So the Lord allowed Jehoash to defeat Amaziah because he had asked the Edomite gods to help him.²¹Then Jehoash, the king of Israel, attacked Amaziah, the king of Judah. Their forces met in battle at Beth Shemesh in the land of Judah.²²Amaziah and his men were defeated, and every one of them turned and ran home.²³Jehoash captured Amaziah during the battle of Beth Shemesh and marched him and the few men he had back to Jerusalem. When they got there, Jehoash broke down part of the city wall all the way from the Gate of Ephraim to the Corner Gate, a section of about six hundred feet.²⁴He took all the gold and silver in the Temple that Obed Edom was in charge of, all the treasures in the royal palace and a number of hostages. Then he released Amaziah and returned to Samaria.

The Death of Amaziah

²⁵Amaziah continued to rule, and lived fifteen years after Jehoash died.²⁶Everything that Amaziah did, from beginning to end, is recorded in The Books of the Kings of Israel and Judah.²⁷After Amaziah rebelled against the Lord, plans were made to kill him. When he heard about it, he fled from Jerusalem to Lachish. But they followed him there and killed him.²⁸They brought his body back by horse and buried him alongside his ancestors in the City of David.

Uzziah's Reign in Judah

26 Then the people of Judah made sixteen-year-old Uzziah king in place of his father Amaziah.²One of the first things Uzziah (or Azariah) did after becoming king was to take the city of Elath on the Gulf of Aqabah, make it a part of Judah and fortify it.³He was sixteen years old when he became co-regent with his father and reigned in Jerusalem for fifty-two years. His mother's name was Jecoliah. She was from Jerusalem.⁴He did what was right in the eyes of the Lord as his father Amaziah had first done, even though he did not remove all the pagan shrines in the country.⁵Uzziah served the Lord as long as the prophet Zechariah was alive. The prophet guided him with visions and dreams from the Lord. And as long as he depended on God, the Lord blessed him.

⁶He fought off the Philistines. In one engagement he took the city of Gath and broke down its walls. He also took the cities of Jabneh and Ashdod. He rebuilt some of the cities that he took, made them part of Judah and then fortified them.⁷Not only did the Lord help him defeat the Philistines, but also the Arabians at Gur Baal and the Meunites from Edom.⁸The Ammonites submitted to Uzziah without a fight and agreed to be taxed by him. He became a very powerful king and his fame spread throughout the neighboring territories as far as the borders of Egypt. ⁹Uzziah also fortified Jerusalem. He restored the length of the wall to the Corner Gate that Jehoash, the king of Israel, had broken down. He repaired and fortified the Valley Gate where the wall turns. ¹⁰He dug numerous wells for his large herds of animals and built fortifications and towers to protect them from bands of robbers. He loved farming and encouraged his people to plant vineyards in the western hills and work the fertile land that was there.

¹¹Uzziah had a well-equipped and battle-ready army. His troops were organized by divisions and their records were kept by Jeiel, one of the royal secretaries, and by Maaseiah the officer under Hananiah, one of the king's commanders. ¹²The king had two thousand, six hundred officers in his army. ¹³Under them were three hundred and seven thousand, five hundred troops all trained for war and well able to fight for the king against his enemies. ¹⁴Uzziah gave them shields, spears, helmets, protective armor, bows and arrows, and slings and smooth stones for their slings. ¹⁵In Jerusalem he had devices made for shooting arrows and slinging large rocks from the towers and corners of the city wall. His fame spread far and wide, and he became a very powerful king because of the help he received from the Lord.

Uzziah's Pride

¹⁶But after Uzziah achieved all this, he became proud, and pride led to his downfall. He thought he could do anything, so he went into the Temple—right into the Holy Place where only the priests are allowed to go—and offered incense to the Lord on the altar of incense. ¹⁷Azariah, the high priest, with eighty other courageous priests, had met the king in the courtyard and tried to keep him from going into the Holy Place.

¹⁸They said, "It's not right for you to come in here and offer incense to the Lord. Only the priests, the descendants of Aaron who have been consecrated to do this, are allowed to come in. You need to leave, because this courtyard is holy, set aside by God, and He will not bless you for doing this."

¹⁹But Uzziah already had a censer with incense in his hand. He became very angry and forced his way into the Holy Place. While he was standing by the altar of incense raging at the priests, leprosy broke out on his forehead. ²⁰When Azariah and the priests saw this, they stared at him with horror and told him what they saw. Then they hurried him out of the Temple. He left in terror because he knew that the Lord was punishing him. ²¹Uzziah had leprosy for the rest of his life. He was relieved of his responsibilities and moved into a separate house. Never again was he able to set foot in the Temple because he was ritually unclean. His son Jotham took over the responsibilities of the government and ruled the land for his father.

²²Everything that Uzziah did, from beginning to end, was recorded by the prophet Isaiah, the son of Amoz. ²³So Uzziah died and rested with his fathers and was buried in a graveyard belonging to the kings, but not in the royal tombs because of his leprosy. Then Jotham, his son, ruled the country.

Jotham's Reign in Judah

27 Jotham was twenty-five years old when he began to rule the country for his father and reigned from Jerusalem for sixteen years. His mother's name was Jerusha, the daughter of Zadok. ²He did what was right in the eyes of the Lord just as his father Uzziah had done in the early part of his reign. Jotham respected the Lord and did not sin by going into the Holy Place as his father had done. But he did allow the people to continue worshipping their idols.

³Jotham rebuilt the Upper Gate of the Temple and did extensive work on the city wall by the Hill of Ophel. ⁴He also ordered new cities built in the Judean hills, as well as fortifications and towers in the forests. ⁵Jotham fought against the kings of the Ammonites and defeated them. Each year for three years the Ammonites paid him seven thousand, five hundred pounds of silver, sixty thousand bushels of wheat and sixty thousand bushels of barley. ⁶He became a very powerful king because he trusted and obeyed the Lord, and the Lord blessed him.

⁷Everything that Jotham did, including his wars and all his other accomplishments, is recorded in The Books of the Kings of Israel and Judah. ⁸He was twenty-five years old when he began to reign and ruled the country for sixteen years, also helped by his son. ⁹He died and was buried next to his fathers in the City of David, and his son Ahaz became fully king.

Ahaz's Reign in Judah

28 Ahaz was twenty years old when he began to reign and he also ruled the country for sixteen years, the same length of time his father had. Unlike his father and his ancestor David, he did evil in the eyes of the Lord. ²He followed the example of the kings of Israel, made images of Baal and set them up everywhere. ³He burned incense to Baal in the Valley of Hinnom just outside Jerusalem. He even sacrificed his own infant sons to Molech. He did all the wicked things that the original inhabitants of the land had done whom the Lord had driven out. ⁴He offered sacrifices and burned incense to Baal on all the hilltops around Jerusalem and under every big tree that attracted his attention.

Syria and Israel Attack Judah

⁵Therefore the Lord removed His protection from Ahaz and let the king of Syria defeat him. The Syrians captured many of the people of Judah and took them back to Damascus with them. The Lord also let Israel attack Ahaz and inflict heavy casualties on him. ⁶In just one day, the army of Pekah, king of Israel, killed one hundred and twenty thousand men of Judah because the people of Judah had forsaken the Lord. ⁷During that same battle, Zichri, one of Israel's mighty warriors from Ephraim, killed Maaseiah, son of Ahaz. He also killed Azrikam, the officer in charge of the king's special guard and Elkanah, who was second in command to the king. ⁸The Israelites took two hundred thousand wives, sons and daughters from the men of Judah. They also took an immense amount of plunder, then headed back to Samaria.

The Lord Orders Israel to Return Captives

⁹When Pekah and his troops reached home, the prophet Oded met him, and said to the king, "You were able to defeat the armies of Judah because the Lord was displeased with them and gave them into your hand. But you slaughtered the people as if they were nothing and you did it so viciously that the Lord will not ignore it. ¹⁰You also brought back with you many men and women from Judah and Jerusalem with the intention of making them your slaves. You know that by doing this you have sinned against the Lord. ¹¹Now listen. Send your brothers and sisters back home. The Lord is not pleased with what you have done."

¹²Then four officials from Israel, Azariah, the son of Johohanan; Berechiah, the son of Meshillemoth; Jehizkiah, the son of Shallum; and Amasa, the son of Hadlai went and stood before the troops coming back from the war. ¹³They said, "Don't bring these people here! We have sinned against the Lord, and this will only make matters worse. The Lord is already displeased with us over the way we have conducted the war, and this will only add to our guilt. If we keep these people as our slaves, He'll punish all of us."

¹⁴So the troops turned the captives and the plunder over to the officials in the presence of the people of Israel. ¹⁵The king then asked the officials to look after the captives and to see them safely home. Many were half-naked and none had eaten for some time. These people were given clothes, sandals and food from the plunder, and olive oil was poured on their wounds. Those who were weak were put on donkeys. They were returned to the city of Jericho, the City of Palms, in Judah. Then the officials from Israel returned to Samaria.

Judah Asks Assyria for Help

¹⁶It was about this time that Ahaz, king of Judah, asked Assyria to help him. ¹⁷The Edomites had again attacked Judah and carried away many captives. ¹⁸The Philistines had raided some of the cities in the western foothills and in the southern part of Judah. They had taken Beth Shemesh, Aijalon, Gederoth, Soco, Timnah, Gimzo and the surrounding villages. ¹⁹The Lord let all this happen to discipline Ahaz for the sins he had caused the people of Judah to commit and for his defiance of the Lord. ²⁰Tiglath Pileser, the king of Assyria, came with his army, but instead of helping Ahaz he turned against him. ²¹Ahaz took things from the Temple, from the royal palace and from the princes and gave them to the king of Assyria. But this appeased Tiglath Pileser for only a short time.

The Death of Ahaz

²²Ahaz didn't learn from all of this, but sinned even more against the Lord. ²³He offered sacrifices to the same gods the Syrians worshiped because he thought, "Since the gods of the Syrians are so strong, if I worship them, they'll help me too." But this was his downfall, and it brought the whole country to the brink of ruin. ²⁴Ahaz went from bad to worse. He smashed all the articles in the Temple used for worship and then closed its doors. Then he set up pagan altars on every street corner in Jerusalem. ²⁵In every city of Judah he built pagan places of worship where the people could burn incense to pagan gods. This greatly displeased the God of Israel. ²⁶All the things that Ahaz did and the other things that happened during his reign are recorded in The Books of the Kings of Israel and Judah. ²⁷Ahaz died and was buried beside his fathers in Jerusalem, but not in the royal tombs. His son Hezekiah became the next king.

Hezekiah's Reign in Judah

29 Hezekiah was twenty-five years old when he began to reign alone, and he ruled the country for twenty-nine years. His mother's name was Abi (or Abijah), the daughter of Zechariah. ²He did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord just as his ancestor David had done.

Hezekiah Reconsecrates the Temple

³The first thing he did was to reopen the Temple and repair the damage that had been done. ⁴He brought the priests and Levites to the eastern section of the courtyard of the Temple and said to them, ⁵"Listen to me, Levites. I want you to reconsecrate yourselves, and then reconsecrate the Temple. It is the house of our God, the God of our ancestors. Take everything out of the Temple that doesn't belong there and clean it up. ⁶Our fathers were unfaithful to the Lord and did evil in His sight. They stopped worshipping at His house. ⁷They closed the Temple doors. They let the lamps go out. They stopped offering sacrifices to Him, the daily burnt offering or any other offerings; neither did they burn incense to Him. ⁸That's why the Lord has disciplined us and allowed all kinds of troubles to come on Judah and Jerusalem. Other people are shocked at what has happened to us. We have become objects of contempt and scorn among our neighbors. You've seen this for yourselves. ⁹This is why our fathers have been killed in battle and our wives and children taken away as captives. ¹⁰I want to renew our nation's covenant with the Lord God of Israel so

He can bless us and stop our enemies from attacking us. Then our people will feel safe again. ¹¹You are spiritual sons of the royal house of Judah. Be faithful to the Lord and do not neglect His house, for the Lord has chosen you to burn incense before Him and to minister to Him in the Temple.”

¹²The Levites listened to the king. From the Kohathites there was Mahath, the son of Amasai, and Joel, the son of Azariah; from the Merarites: Kish, the son of Abdi, and Azariah, the son of Jehallelel; from the Gershonites: Joah, the son of Zimmah, and Eden, the son of Joah; ¹³from the descendants of Elizaphan: Shimri and Jeuel (Jeiel); from the descendants of Asaph: Zechariah and Mattaniah; ¹⁴from the descendants of Heman: Jehuel (Jehiel) and also Shimei; from the descendants of Jeduthun: Shemaiah and Uzziel. ¹⁵These men called together the other Levites and they all made themselves ritually clean and consecrated themselves anew to the Lord. Then they purified the Temple as Hezekiah had commanded, following the instructions the Lord had given to Moses. ¹⁶The priests also cleansed themselves ritually and consecrated themselves anew to the Lord. They went into the Sanctuary itself and purified it. Everything that was unclean they brought out into the courtyard. From there the Levites took it all down to the Kidron Valley and burned it.

¹⁷They began the work of purification on the first day of the first month of the religious year and by the eighth day they had purified the outer sections of the Temple. Then for the next eight days they purified the inner sections of the Temple, and by the sixteenth day of the first month they were finished. ¹⁸Then they went to see King Hezekiah and said to him, “We’ve purified the whole Temple, the sacrificial altar in the courtyard with its utensils and the table for the consecrated bread and all its utensils. ¹⁹We’ve also replaced all the furniture and articles that your father Ahaz destroyed or took away during the years he was unfaithful, and we have dedicated them to the Lord. All these things are setting in the courtyard in front of the altar of sacrifice.”

Hezekiah Restores Temple Worship

²⁰Early the next morning the king called together all the officials of the city and went with them to the Temple. ²¹They brought seven young bulls, seven rams, seven male lambs and seven male goats with them as a sin offering to the Lord for all of Judah. Then the king ordered the priests to offer these sacrifices on the altar of the Lord. ²²So they slaughtered the bulls, took the blood and sprinkled it on the altar. Then they sacrificed the rams and sprinkled their blood on the altar. ²³The goats were brought before the king and the leaders of Judah to have them lay their hands on the animals. ²⁴Then the priests sacrificed the goats and poured their blood on the altar as a sin offering to atone for the sins of all the people as the king had requested.

²⁵Hezekiah also stationed Levites in the Temple with cymbals, harps and lyres as had been outlined years earlier by David, by Gad his personal prophet and by the prophet Nathan. ²⁶While the Levites took the instruments that David had provided, the priests took their trumpets, and together they stood ready to accompany the people in singing praises to the Lord. ²⁷Hezekiah gave the order to offer the whole burnt offering on the altar. As the ritual began, the people broke out in singing praises to the Lord, accompanied by trumpets and other instruments. ²⁸Everyone there bowed in worship. The singing and music continued until the sacrifice of the whole burnt offering was totally consumed. ²⁹When all the offerings were finished, the king and the people knelt down and worshipped the Lord. ³⁰To close the service, Hezekiah and the leaders of Judah told the Levites to sing the songs of praise that David and Asaph the prophet had written. They sang with joy, and the people joined in as they worshiped the Lord together.

³¹Hezekiah concluded by saying to the people, "Now that you're ritually clean and have consecrated yourselves to the Lord, come and bring your own sacrifices of thanksgiving to Him." So the people gladly brought their sacrifices of thanksgiving. In addition, some of them brought whole burnt offerings to the Lord. ³²The whole burnt offerings the people brought voluntarily were seventy young bulls, a hundred rams and two hundred male lambs. ³³The total number of animals brought to the Lord as sacrifices was six hundred young bulls and three thousand sheep. The greater part of the peace offerings was to be eaten by the families and their friends in a joyous festival of thanksgiving. ³⁴But there were too few priests to handle it all. So the Levites had to help until they could find more priests, ritually cleanse them and consecrate them to the Lord. The Levites chosen to step in were more conscientious than some of the priests had been, so they were allowed to help. ³⁵In addition to offering the whole burnt offerings, the priests were responsible for offering the fat of the peace offering, the drink offerings and the bread offerings which went along with the whole burnt offerings. So the worship services of the Temple were restored. ³⁶Hezekiah and all the people rejoiced over what the Lord had done for them so quickly.

Hezekiah Celebrates the Passover

30 Now the people had not celebrated the Passover for a long time. So Hezekiah sent word throughout Judah and also to Israel, especially to the neighboring tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh, inviting them to come to Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover of the Lord. ²It was decided by Hezekiah and his officers to celebrate the Passover during the second month instead of the first month of the religious year, as allowed in exceptional cases.

³They had not been able to celebrate the Passover at the regular time because not enough priests were ritually clean and the people of Jerusalem didn't show an immediate interest. ⁴Both the king and the people said that this was the time to start celebrating the Passover again.

⁵That's when Hezekiah sent word not only to Judah, but also to all Israel, from Dan in the north to Beersheba in the south, inviting the people to come to Jerusalem to celebrate the occasion. It had not been celebrated in harmony with the law by most of the people for a long time. ⁶So at the king's command, messengers went throughout the land of Judah and Israel with an announcement from the king and leaders of Judah which said, "People of Israel, it's time to return to obeying the Lord, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Then the Lord will turn toward us again, especially to the remnant who escaped from the hands of the king of Assyria. ⁷Let's not be like our ancestors who were unfaithful to the Lord. They had to be disciplined by God until even the people around us were shocked and disgusted with them. You've seen this attitude yourselves. ⁸So don't be stubborn as your ancestors were. Give yourselves to the Lord wholeheartedly and show it by coming to His Temple, the place He has made holy. Let's serve the Lord our God so He can protect us again as He used to. ⁹If you return to the Lord, the captors of your loved ones will have compassion on them and will let them come back home. The Lord our God is compassionate and will not turn away from you if you return to Him."

¹⁰The messengers went from city to city in Judah, then on to Ephraim and Manasseh and as far north as Zebulun. But many people made fun of them. ¹¹However, some from the northern tribes of Asher, Manasseh and Zebulun did listen to the king's invitation. They were sorry for what they had done, so they went to Jerusalem. ¹²The Holy Spirit worked on the hearts of the people to give them unity of purpose, and they responded. They listened to the king and his officials and prepared to celebrate the Passover according to the word of the Lord.

¹³The very next month after Hezekiah had reopened the Temple, a large crowd came to Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover and the Festival of Unleavened Bread which followed. ¹⁴Throughout Jerusalem the people broke down all the pagan altars on which incense had been offered and threw them into the Kidron Valley. ¹⁵On the fourteenth day of the second month, the Passover lamb was killed. The priests and Levites who were still ritually unclean were ashamed because the people had more zeal than they did. So they purified themselves by the accepted ritual and reconsecrated themselves to the God of Israel. Then they brought whole burnt offerings and sacrificed them to the Lord. ¹⁶They took their places in the Temple according to the instructions in the law of Moses. The Levites helped in slaughtering the animals and handed the blood to the priests who sprinkled it on the altar.

¹⁷Many in the crowd, particularly those from the Northern Kingdom, were not ritually clean and were not allowed to kill the Passover lambs they had brought. So the Levites killed the animals for them and rededicated each person to the Lord. ¹⁸But others, particularly those from the northern tribes of Ephraim, Manasseh, Issachar and Zebulun who were ritually unclean, had killed their Passover lamb and eaten its meat before consecrating themselves to the Lord.

The king prayed for them, saying, "O Lord, forgive them. You are a compassionate God, a God who pardons. ¹⁹I know you forgive those who worship you with their whole hearts, even if they are not ritually clean according to the rules of the Sanctuary." ²⁰The Lord heard Hezekiah's prayer and showed His compassion and forgiveness to those people.

²¹The people joyfully celebrated the Passover and the Festival of Unleavened Bread for seven days. Every day the Levites and priests sang praises to the Lord, accompanied by the instruments that David had provided years before. ²²Hezekiah complimented the priests and Levites for understanding the work that needed to be done and spoke words of encouragement to them. So the priests, the Levites and the people ate their portions of the sacrifices and peace offerings for seven days and praised the God of their fathers.

²³When the week was over, the people agreed to extend the festival for another week. And they continued to celebrate with great joy. ²⁴Hezekiah gave one thousand young bulls and seven thousand sheep for the occasion. The leaders of Judah also gave a thousand young bulls and ten thousand sheep. A large number of priests went through the ritual of purification and reconsecrated themselves to the Lord. ²⁵All the people who had come to Jerusalem were happy—those from Judah, the Levites and priests from Israel, and the foreigners who lived in Israel and Judah. ²⁶Such joy had not been seen in Jerusalem since the days of Solomon, son of David. ²⁷Then the priests and Levites prayed for the people and asked the Lord to bless them. The Lord heard their prayers and from His place in heaven, blessed them.

Hezekiah's Other Reforms

31 After the people had celebrated the Passover, they went to every city in Judah and broke the images in pieces, cut down the wooden poles of the goddess Asherah and destroyed the pagan altars and places of worship. They did this not only in Judah and Benjamin, but also in Ephraim and Manasseh in Israel. Only then did they return to their homes.

²Hezekiah reinstated the rotation of priests and Levites which David had set up. They were to offer whole burnt offerings and peace offerings and to sing praises to God at the entrance to the Temple. ³He gave animals from his own flocks and herds for the morning and evening sacrifices and for the extra sacrifices used on the Sabbath, the Festival of the New Moon and other appointed festivals as required by the law of the Lord. ⁴He also told the people in Jerusalem to bring their tithes and firstfruits to the Temple for the support of the priests and Levites so they could continue to minister to the Lord. ⁵As soon as the people heard what the king wanted them to do, they gave generously of the firstfruits of their grain, grapes, oil, honey and all the other produce of their fields. They also brought a tithe of everything they had, which was a very large amount.

⁶When the people in other cities and towns heard about it, they, too, brought a tithe of their herds and flocks and other things as freewill offerings and gave them all to the Lord. There were so many things that they had to be stacked in piles. ⁷The people began bringing their tithes and offerings in the third month, one month after the celebration of the Passover, and this went on until the seventh month. ⁸When Hezekiah and his officials came to the Temple and saw the large piles of tithes and offerings, they praised the Lord and blessed His people. ⁹Then Hezekiah asked the priests and Levites if they had enough tithes and offerings to care for everyone. ¹⁰The high priest, Azariah, from the family of Zadok, said, "Since the people have been faithful in bringing their tithes and offerings, there has been more than enough to take care of the priests and Levites and their families. The Lord has surely blessed His people, and because they've been faithful, we have more than we need."

¹¹Then Hezekiah ordered them to build more storerooms in the Temple area. ¹²So the Levites put the extra tithes and offerings into these new storerooms and the king put Conaniah in charge of it all and made his brother Shimei his assistant. ¹³Those assigned to help them were: Jehiel, Azaziah, Nahath, Asahel, Jerimoth, Jozabad, Eliel, Ismachiah, Mahath and Benaiah. These appointments were made by the king and Azariah, the high priest.

¹⁴Kore, who was in charge of the guards at the east gate, was also in charge of receiving tithes and freewill offerings and distributing them to the priests and Levites as needed. He kept any surplus in the storerooms of the Temple. He was the son of Imnah, the Levite. ¹⁵Eden, Miniamin, Jeshua, Shemaiah, Amariah and Shecaniah were his assistants who helped him distribute tithes to the priests and Levites, both young and old, in the cities where they lived. ¹⁶They distributed tithes to every Levite from twenty years old and up who ministered in the Temple and even to each male child from the age of three and up who was listed in the Levite's genealogical records. ¹⁷They also distributed tithes to the priests who were listed in the genealogical records, just as they did for the Levites who worked at the Temple. ¹⁸As they distributed the tithes to the priests and Levites who worked at the Temple, they also took into account their wives and children, as well as anyone else listed in the family history. ¹⁹There were also men assigned to distribute tithes to the priests and Levites who lived in rural areas elsewhere. They gave a share to every male who was listed as a descendant of Aaron.

²⁰Hezekiah had all this done throughout the land of Judah. He did what was good and right in the eyes of the Lord and was faithful in everything he did. ²¹He stayed close to the Lord and kept all of God's commandments including the laws that applied to the Temple. He put his whole heart into it and the Lord blessed him and gave him good success.

King Sennacherib of Assyria Invades Judah

32 After these acts of faithfulness to the Lord on the part of Hezekiah, Sennacherib, king of Assyria, invaded the land and laid siege to some of the fortified cities in Judah, determined to make them part of his empire. ²When Hezekiah saw what was happening and realized that Jerusalem would be next on Sennacherib's list, ³he consulted the city officials and his military staff about the advisability of cutting off the water supply outside the city so the Assyrians wouldn't have water when they came. The city officials and military men agreed.

⁴So they took a large number of men and went outside the city and plugged up all the open springs until the water stopped. They said, "Why should we let the king of Assyria and his men have water if they're coming to attack us?" ⁵After they had cut off the outside water supply, Hezekiah ordered the men to strengthen the city's defenses. So they repaired the wall and built extra defense towers on it. They also extended the wall of the city to protect the Pool of Siloam, which was the city's water supply, and repaired the defenses of the old part of the city called Millo. Then Hezekiah ordered extra shields and spears made. ⁶He armed all the men of the city and put officers in charge of them. Then he assembled them by the gate and said, ⁷"Let's not be afraid of Sennacherib and his vast army, because we have a far greater Power on our side than he does. Take courage. ⁸The king of Assyria is depending on his men, but we have the Lord God of Israel on our side. He will fight our battles." When the troops and the people heard this they gained confidence.

⁹Later, when Sennacherib and his army attacked the city of Lachish, about thirty miles from Jerusalem, he sent this message to Hezekiah and his people: ¹⁰"Sennacherib, king of Assyria, has already invaded your land and taken some of your cities. What makes you think that Jerusalem can resist him? ¹¹When your king says, 'The Lord our God will save us,' don't believe him. He's deceiving you, and you'll only end up dying of hunger and thirst. ¹²Didn't Hezekiah destroy all the altars in Jerusalem and throughout the land and tell you that you should worship and burn your offerings only on the altar by the Temple? Do you think your God is pleased with such restrictions? ¹³Do you realize what I and my ancestors have done to people who have resisted us? Were their gods able to protect them? ¹⁴Which one of those gods saved his people from me and my fathers? Do you think your God can do differently? ¹⁵Don't let Hezekiah lead you astray. Don't believe what he tells you. No god of any other country has been able to resist us and deliver his people. Your God won't be able to do it either."

¹⁶Then Sennacherib's messengers said even worse things against the Lord. ¹⁷But the people did not respond. When Sennacherib heard this, he sent a personal letter to Hezekiah, saying, "Just as the gods of other lands couldn't defend their cities, so your God won't be able to defend Jerusalem. No one can take you out of my hand." ¹⁸This time Sennacherib's messengers shouted in Hebrew to the people on the walls to terrify them so they would surrender. ¹⁹They spoke to them about the God of Israel as they would about the gods of other countries who were only carved idols.

An Angel Defeats Sennacherib's Army

²⁰Then Hezekiah and Isaiah, the son of Amoz, prayed earnestly to the Lord to come and help them. ²¹The Lord heard their prayers and sent an angel into the camp of the Assyrians who killed all the officers and men who had besieged Jerusalem, all one hundred and eighty-five thousand of them. So Sennacherib withdrew the rest of his men from Judah and returned home. There he went into the temple of his god to worship and two of his sons came in and attacked him with their swords and killed him. ²²That is how the Lord answered Hezekiah's prayer and saved the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennacherib. After that, the people of Judah had peace on all sides.²³ Many from across the country came to Jerusalem with thank offerings for the Lord and gifts to King Hezekiah.

Hezekiah Healed

²⁴Just after Sennacherib first invaded Judah, Hezekiah had become sick and was about to die. He prayed earnestly to the Lord to be well. The Lord answered his prayer and gave him a miraculous sign that in three days he would be well.²⁵ After he recuperated, Hezekiah became proud and forgot how good God had been to him. The Lord was very displeased with him and with the people in Jerusalem and throughout Judah.²⁶ Then Hezekiah and the people repented of their pride and the Lord deferred discipline until after Hezekiah's death.

Hezekiah's Wealth

²⁷Hezekiah became so rich that he had to build extra storerooms for his silver and gold, his precious stones and spices, as well as for his shields and other valuables.²⁸ He also had to build extra buildings to store his surplus of grain, grapes and olives, as well as to house his growing herds of cattle and sheep.²⁹ The Lord blessed Hezekiah and he became extremely wealthy.³⁰ Before the siege of Jerusalem, it was Hezekiah's idea to block the upper part of the Gihon spring flowing into the Kidron Valley and make a tunnel so the water would flow to a pool inside the city. He succeeded in this and in everything else he set out to do.³¹ Later, the deposed king of Babylon, who had revolted against the Assyrians, sent messengers to Hezekiah to find out about the miracle that had happened in the land of Judah. Hezekiah didn't talk to them about what great things the Lord had done, only about his own riches. The Lord had brought the Babylonians to Hezekiah to test him, but his heart was full of pride.

The Death of Hezekiah

³²Everything that Hezekiah did, as well as his devotion to the Lord, is recorded in the visions of the prophet Isaiah, son of Amoz, and the Books of the Kings of Israel and Judah.³³ Hezekiah died and was buried in the royal tombs alongside his ancestors. All the people of Jerusalem and Judah showed him great honor at his funeral, and his son Manasseh became the next king.

Manasseh's Reign in Judah

33 Manasseh was only twelve years old when he became king of Judah, having been born after his father Hezekiah was healed. He ruled the country jointly with his father and then alone for a total of fifty-five years.² He did evil in the eyes of the Lord and took up many of the idolatrous practices of those who were in the land before the children of Israel came.³ He rebuilt pagan places of worship that his father Hezekiah had destroyed, erected altars to Baal and Asherah the fertility goddess, and worshiped the sun, moon and stars.⁴ He even erected altars inside the Temple, the very place the Lord had made holy and declared that only He should be worshiped.⁵ In both the outer and inner courts of the Temple he built altars to the constellation figures in the heavens.⁶ He sacrificed his infant sons as burnt offerings to pagan gods in the Hinnom Valley just outside Jerusalem. He practiced witchcraft and sorcery and even consulted spirit mediums and listened to the advice of demons. He sinned against the Lord as no other king before him.

⁷He took the carved image of the fertility goddess, Asherah, and set it up in the very place in the Temple about which the Lord had said to David, "I have chosen this Temple in Jerusalem in the territory of Judah to be forever mine. Here is where my people are to come to worship me.⁸ I will not let my people be driven out of the land that I have given them as long as they keep my commandments, my laws and the ordinances that I gave them through my servant Moses.”⁹ But Manasseh led his people away from the Lord until they were more evil in His sight than the heathen who had been in the land before the children of Israel came.

Manasseh Repents

¹⁰The Lord sent prophets with messages to Manasseh and to the people, but they paid no attention to them. ¹¹So the Lord allowed the king of Assyria and his army to come against Judah. They came and captured Manasseh, put a hook in his nose and put him in chains. Then they led him away to the land of Babylon, which was then still part of the Assyrian Empire. ¹²In his distress Manasseh humbled himself, turned to the God of his fathers and begged the Lord to help him. ¹³The Lord heard his prayer, and the king of Assyria unexpectedly released Manasseh and let him return to Jerusalem to rule Judah. This convinced Manasseh that the Lord is real and that He is God.

¹⁴After his return from Assyria, Manasseh increased the height of the wall of Jerusalem and strengthened the fortifications of the City of David from the Gihon Spring to the Fish Gate and around to the Hill of Ophel. He also stationed troops in all the fortified cities of Judah. ¹⁵He removed his idols, pagan images and altars from the Temple and threw them out of the city. ¹⁶Then he restored the altar of the Lord, sacrificed peace and thank offerings on it and told the people to worship the God of their fathers. ¹⁷But the people only partially obeyed. While they offered sacrifices to the Lord, they did it on pagan altars and wherever it was convenient for them.

The Death of Manasseh

¹⁸Everything that Manasseh did, including his captivity, his prayer to the Lord for help and the messages from the Lord which the prophets gave him, is recorded in The Books of the Kings of Israel and Judah. ¹⁹Also a record of his sins before he was taken prisoner, the pagan places of worship he built, the idols he set up in Jerusalem and in the Temple, the prayer he offered and how God answered it, is found in the writings of the prophets. ²⁰Manasseh died and was buried in the royal gardens next to the palace but not in the royal tombs alongside the other kings. His son Amon became the next king.

Amon's Reign in Judah

²¹Amon was twenty-two years old when he began to reign, and he ruled for only two years. ²²He, too, did what was evil in the eyes of the Lord, as his father Manasseh had done before he was taken captive. Amon worshiped all the idols his father had made and offered sacrifices to them. ²³But unlike his father, who repented during his captivity and then served the Lord, Amon continued to sin and was even more evil than his father had been. ²⁴His officials plotted against him and assassinated him in his own palace. ²⁵Then the people killed those who had taken part in the assassination of Amon and made his son Josiah the next king.

Josiah's Reign in Judah

34 Josiah was only eight years old when he became king, and he ruled over Judah from Jerusalem for thirty-one years. ²He did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord. He followed the example of his ancestor David and remained faithful to God, not turning to the right or the left. ³In the eighth year of his reign, while still in his teens, he began to worship the God of his fathers even more earnestly. Four years later, at about the age of twenty, he began getting rid of pagan places of worship, symbols of the goddess Asherah and the other idols and images that had been set up in Jerusalem and throughout the land of Judah.

⁴Under his personal supervision he had the altars of Baal, the incense altars and the wooden Asherah images destroyed. He even had the wooden and metal images ground into dust and scattered on the graves of those who had worshiped those images. ⁵He also had the bones of the priests of those idols dug up and burned on their pagan altars. Thus he purged Jerusalem and Judah of their idolatry. ⁶Josiah ordered the same thing done in the cities in Ephraim, Manasseh, Simeon and as far north as Naphtali, all in the territory of Israel. ⁷There, too, he tore down the pagan altars and ground the idols and images into dust. Then he returned to Jerusalem.

The High Priest Finds the Book of the Law

⁸By the time Josiah had purged the land of idol worship and cleansed the Temple, he was in his mid-twenties. Then he ordered Shaphan son of Azaliah, Maaseiah mayor of the city, and Joah son of Joahaz, who was the city recorder, to begin repairing the Temple. ⁹The three of them went to Hilkiah the high priest and gave him money that the people had given for the Temple. The Levites, who served as doorkeepers of the Temple, had collected these funds from the people of Judah and Benjamin and from those who came from Ephraim and Manasseh and other parts of Israel to worship in Jerusalem. ¹⁰Then Hilkiah gave the money to the supervisors to give to the workers making the repairs for their wages and for the supplies they needed. ¹¹So the carpenters and masons had enough money to buy timbers and enough stones to repair the parts of the Temple which previous kings of Judah had allowed to deteriorate. ¹²The men did their work faithfully and well. They were supervised by Jahath and Obadiah, both of whom were Levites descended from Merari; and Zechariah and Meshullam, who were descendants of Kohath. These men were not only skilled builders but also skilled musicians. ¹³They supervised all the workers to see that the job was done right while other Levites kept records and served as Temple guards.

¹⁴One day while Hilkiah the high priest was getting money from one of the storerooms, he found a copy of the Book of the Law that someone had hidden there. ¹⁵Hilkiah showed it to Shaphan, the royal secretary, and said, "Look! I've found a copy of the Book of the Law written by Moses," and he gave it to him. ¹⁶Shaphan reported to the king the progress of repairing the Temple, saying, "Your servants have done everything you asked them to do. ¹⁷We have given the money collected by the Levites to Hilkiah, the high priest, who is giving it to the supervisors to give to the workers for their wages and to buy their supplies." ¹⁸Then Shaphan said to the king, "While Hilkiah was in the storeroom, he found this book and gave it to me." The king asked him to read from the book. So Shaphan did.

¹⁹When the king heard what was written in the book, he stood up and tore his robe in grief. ²⁰Then he gave these orders to Hilkiah, Ahikam, Achbor (or Abdon), Shaphan, and Asaiah his personal attendant: ²¹"Go and ask the Lord for me and for God's remnant in Israel and Judah what all this means. It sounds like the Lord is very displeased with us and is ready to discipline us, because, as a people, we and our fathers have not done what is written in this book."

²²So Hilkiah the high priest and others whom the king appointed went to see Huldah the prophetess. She was the wife of Shallum, who was in charge of the king's wardrobe, as well as the garments of the priests serving at the Temple. They lived in the newer section of Jerusalem. ²³Huldah listened to them, then said, "This is what the Lord, the God of Israel, says: 'Give the man who sent you this message: ²⁴I will discipline the people of Jerusalem and Judah by bringing on them all the disasters written in the book that was read to you. ²⁵I will do this because the people have forsaken me and have burned incense and made offerings to others gods. They have turned against me and worshiped idols, so I cannot keep silent but will punish them for what they have done. ²⁶Tell the king of Judah that the Lord also says: ²⁷You have humbled yourself and torn your robe in grief when you heard the words of the book read to you. You repented and wept and prayed over these words. I saw your sorrow and grief and heard your prayers. ²⁸So I will soon lay you to rest, and you will sleep in peace beside your fathers. You won't see all the disasters that will come on Judah and Jerusalem and on those who live there." Hilkiah and the others took this message back to the king.

Josiah Renews the Covenant

²⁹When the king heard it, he called together all the leaders of Judah and Jerusalem to consult with them. ³⁰When they came, he led them to the Temple, together with the priests, the Levites and the people of Jerusalem, rich and poor alike, to worship the Lord. Then the king read to them from the Book of the Law that Hilkiah had found in the Temple.

³¹Josiah stood by the royal column in the courtyard and renewed Israel's covenant with the Lord. He promised to obey the Lord with all his heart and soul and mind, to keep His commandments and His laws and to carry out all the regulations written in the book. ³²Then he committed everyone in Jerusalem and Judah and Benjamin to the Lord and made them promise to keep the covenant. The people responded and obeyed and did everything according to the covenant that God had made with their fathers. ³³Josiah also went north into Israel and destroyed every disgusting idol he could find that he had missed before. As long as he lived, he was committed to the Lord and required the people to serve and worship the Lord God of their fathers.

Josiah Celebrates the Passover

35 Then Josiah decided to celebrate the Passover in Jerusalem. He had the Passover lamb killed on the fourteenth day of Nisan, which was the first month of the religious year and the time the Lord had designated. ²He appointed priests, assigned them their duties and encouraged them in their service for the Lord. ³He said to the Levites who had consecrated themselves to the Lord and were teachers of the people, "Put the Ark of the Lord back in the Most Holy Place. Don't keep carrying it around on your shoulders from place to place but leave it in the Temple where it belongs. Serve the Lord your God and His people with all your hearts. ⁴Take up your duties in the Temple according to your ancestral houses as our forefather David and his son Solomon arranged them. ⁵And organize yourselves in such a way that when people come to the Temple with their offerings, you'll be ready to minister to their spiritual needs and help them. ⁶Consecrate yourselves to the Lord; kill the Passover lambs and then help your fellow Israelites prepare their sacrifices as the Lord through His servant Moses told us to do."

⁷Then Josiah provided the people with all the Passover and sin offerings they needed, a total of thirty thousand sheep and goats and three thousand young bulls, all from his own flocks and herds. ⁸His high officials also gave of their herds and flocks to the people, to the Levites and to the priests. The officials of the Temple, Hilkiah, Zechariah and Jehiel and their families donated two thousand, six hundred Passover lambs and three hundred young bulls. ⁹The leaders of the Levites, Conaniah, Shemaiah, Nethanel, Hashabiah, Jeiel and Jozabad and their families donated five thousand lambs and five hundred young bulls.

¹⁰The priests and Levites arranged everything that needed to be done for the celebration of the Passover and then took up their positions as ordered by the king. ¹¹The Passover lambs were killed; the Levites skinned them, and the priests sprinkled the blood on the altar as the Levites handed the lambs to them. ¹²Then they divided the offering among the people by families, as was instructed in the law by Moses. ¹³They roasted the Passover lambs over the fire. They boiled the peace offerings in pots, kettles and pans, and quickly served portions of the sacrificial meat to the people. ¹⁴Then the Levites prepared something for themselves and for the priests who were burning the offerings and the fat according to the instructions the Lord had given Moses. They worked all day, right up until nightfall. ¹⁵The musicians, made up of the descendants of Asaph, were there and took their places, as arranged years before by David, Asaph, Heman and Jeduthun the prophet. Since the gatekeepers couldn't leave their posts, the Levites prepared the Passover lambs for them.

¹⁶So the people celebrated the Passover and the week-long Festival of Unleavened Bread that followed. And all the sacrifices were offered on the altar of the Lord as Josiah had ordered. ¹⁷The people from the Northern Kingdom of Israel who were in Jerusalem celebrated the Passover and the Festival of Unleavened Bread together with their brothers from Judah. ¹⁸The Passover had not been celebrated with such fervor since the days of Samuel the prophet. No other king had held the Passover with so many priests, Levites and people present from both Judah and Israel. ¹⁹This all took place in Jerusalem in the eighteenth year of Josiah's reign.

The Death of Josiah

²⁰Josiah did all this for the Lord. Thirteen years later, Necho, king of Egypt, was on his way to fight the Babylonians at Carchemish on the Euphrates River. Josiah decided to march out and stop him. ²¹Necho sent this message to Josiah: "I don't have a quarrel with you. I'm not here to attack you, but I am on my way to fight the Babylonians. Your God has told me that since I'm going up north to fight, I must go through the land of Judah as quickly as I can. So stop meddling with the directions your God has given me or He'll turn against you."

²²Josiah thought that since no word had come to him from the Lord, it would be humiliating to turn back. So he didn't listen to the Lord's warning through Necho. He called up his troops, disguised himself as a common soldier and went into battle. The two armies met on the plains of Megiddo. ²³Josiah was critically wounded by archers. He shouted to his servants nearby, "I've just been hit! Quick! Get me out of here!" ²⁴So they carried him out of the battle zone, put him in another chariot and took him back to Jerusalem where he died. He was buried alongside his fathers in the royal tombs, and all of Judah and Jerusalem were very sad and greatly mourned his death.

²⁵The prophet Jeremiah wrote lamentations for Josiah's funeral which are still sung by men and women whenever they commemorate Josiah's death. This became a tradition throughout the land of Israel. ²⁶Everything that Josiah did, his devotion to his God, his obedience and his careful observance of the law ²⁷is recorded from beginning to end in The Books of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

Jehoahaz Taken Captive

36 Then the people made Jehoahaz, a younger son of Josiah, the next king of Judah. ²Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old when he became king and he ruled for only three months. ³King Necho of Egypt had been defeated by the Babylonians at the battle of Carchemish. While on his way home from the north, he decided to attack Jerusalem, taking Jehoahaz prisoner and demanding from the people seven thousand, five hundred pounds of silver and seventy-five pounds of gold. ⁴He made Eliakim, the older brother of Jehoahaz, king of Judah and changed his name to Jehoiakim. Then he took Jehoahaz with him back to Egypt as a war trophy.

Jehoiakim Taken Captive

⁵Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he ruled Judah for eleven years. He did evil in the eyes of the Lord. ⁶When he rebelled, Nebuchadnezzar, crown prince of Babylon, invaded Judah, attacked Jerusalem and took Jehoiakim captive. He intended to take him to Babylon in chains, but Jehoiakim died at the hands of his captors. His body was thrown into a pit outside Jerusalem, just as Jeremiah had predicted. ⁷But he did take many captives with him, including Daniel and his three friends, as well as treasures from the Temple which he put in his palace. ⁸Everything that Jehoiakim did, including his wicked practices, are recorded in The Books of the Kings of Israel and Judah, and his son Jehoiachin became the next king.

Jehoiachin Taken Captive

⁹Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he began to reign, and he ruled the country for only three months and ten days. He, too, did evil in the eyes of the Lord. ¹⁰In the spring of the year when kings go out to make war, Nebuchadnezzar came against Jerusalem again. He took Jehoiachin prisoner, and made his uncle Mattaniah king of Judah and changed his name to Zedekiah. Nebuchadnezzar took with him still more treasures from the Temple to Babylon, as well as more captives, including the prophet Ezekiel.

Zedekiah's Reign in Judah

¹¹Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king, and he ruled for eleven years. ¹²He, too, did evil in the eyes of the Lord. He didn't listen to Jeremiah the prophet who brought him message after message from the Lord. ¹³Zedekiah rebelled against Nebuchadnezzar as his overlord just as Jehoiachin before him had done, even though he had taken an oath in the name of the God of Israel to be loyal to Nebuchadnezzar. Zedekiah broke his oath, became stubborn and refused to obey the God of Israel. ¹⁴All the leaders of Judah, the priests and the people became unfaithful to the Lord and followed the example of the nations around them in worshiping idols and doing the most detestable things imaginable. Not only that, but they did some of these things right in the Temple of the Lord.

The Fall of Jerusalem

¹⁵Again and again, God sent His prophets with messages to His people because he loved them and had pity on them. He also cared about His Temple. ¹⁶But the people made fun of these messages and despised the Lord's prophets until their sin became so great that the Lord had to step in, for there was no other remedy left.

¹⁷Then God allowed the Babylonians to attack Jerusalem a third time. This time Nebuchadnezzar had no mercy on anyone, man or woman, young or old, sick or healthy. He even killed the young men who were in the Temple. ¹⁸He took all the treasures of the Temple that he had not taken before, even those from the palace and the houses of the officials. ¹⁹Then his army set fire to the Temple, broke down the walls of Jerusalem, burned the palace and the houses of all the officials and destroyed anything else of value in the city. ²⁰Nebuchadnezzar took with him all the people who survived the attack, except the very poor and weak, and marched them to Babylon where they became his slaves and the slaves of his sons. They remained slaves until Cyrus, king of Persia, defeated the Babylonians. ²¹What the Lord had predicted through Jeremiah the prophet had come to pass. The land lay desolate for the next seventy years while the children of Israel were in Babylon. So the land made up for the Sabbaths it had missed through the centuries, because the people had not let it rest every seventh year as they were supposed to.

The Decree of Cyrus

²²It was in the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia, that the children of Israel were released from captivity and allowed to go home. Years before, the Lord had told Jeremiah that this would happen. So

Cyrus made a decree and put it in writing to be read throughout the empire. It said, ²³“This is what Cyrus, king of Persia, says: ‘The Lord God of heaven has made me king of Persia and the surrounding countries. He also has given me the responsibility of rebuilding His Temple in Jerusalem. So I want all of you who are God’s people to be free to go to Jerusalem. May God be with you.’”

EZRA

The Seventy Years of Captivity End

1 The very first year that Cyrus was king of Persia, the Lord fulfilled the promise He had given through Jeremiah to stir Cyrus's heart to free His people and let them go home. Cyrus wrote a proclamation to be read throughout his kingdom which said, ²"This is the command of Cyrus, King of Persia:

'The Lord, the God of heaven, has made me ruler over all the kingdoms that make up Persia, and He has given me the responsibility of rebuilding His Temple at Jerusalem in Judah. ³May the God of heaven be with all of you who are His people. You are free to return to Judah and to rebuild the Temple of the Lord, the God of Israel who is worshiped in Jerusalem. ⁴If anyone who worships the God of heaven needs help in returning, those who are able should provide the help needed. They should provide pack animals, livestock, food supplies and money, as well as silver and gold for the house of God in Jerusalem.'

⁵Then leaders from the tribes of Judah and Benjamin got ready to go home, as did the priests and Levites and everyone whose heart was stirred to rebuild the Temple. ⁶Their neighbors gave them silver, gold, food supplies, pack animals, livestock and other valuables to present as offerings to the God of Israel. ⁷King Cyrus gave the exiles the golden cups and bowls that Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had taken from the Temple at Jerusalem seventy years earlier and which he had put in the temple of his gods. ⁸He ordered Mithredath, the chief of the royal treasury, to hand over the following items to Zerubbabel (also called Sheshbazzar), a prince and leader of the tribe of Judah: ⁹Thirty large gold offering bowls, one thousand large silver offering bowls, twenty-nine other large silver bowls, ¹⁰thirty small gold bowls, four hundred and ten small matching silver bowls and one thousand other temple utensils.

¹¹These were just some of the items that Cyrus gave the exiles. Altogether there were about five thousand, four hundred articles of silver and gold which Zerubbabel took with him when he and the exiles left Babylon to go back to Jerusalem. This was the first return of the exiles.

The Captives Return to Jerusalem

2 Many of the exiles living in the province of Babylon responded to King Cyrus's declaration of freedom and returned to Jerusalem or to their various hometowns in Judah. Their families had been living in exile for seventy years, ever since King Nebuchadnezzar had taken them captive to Babylon. ²The leaders who led them back home were Zerubbabel, Joshua (also known as Jeshua), Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai, Rehum and Baanah.

The number of men from each family group were as follows: ³Two thousand, one hundred and seventy-two of the descendants of Parosh, ⁴three hundred and seventy-two of the descendants of Shephatiah, ⁵seven hundred and seventy-five of the descendants of Arah, ⁶two thousand, eight hundred and twelve of the descendants of Pahath-Moab through the line of Jeshua and Joab, ⁷one thousand, two hundred and fifty-four of the descendants of Elam, ⁸nine hundred and forty-five of the descendants of Zattu, ⁹seven hundred and sixty of the descendants of Zaccai, ¹⁰six hundred and forty-two of the descendants of Bani, ¹¹six hundred and twenty-three of the descendants of Bebai, ¹²one thousand, two hundred and twenty-two of the descendants of Azgad, ¹³six hundred and sixty-six of the descendants of Adonikam, ¹⁴two thousand and fifty-six of the descendants of Bigvai, ¹⁵four hundred and fifty-four of the descendants of Adin, ¹⁶ninety-eight of the descendants of Ater through the line of Hezekiah, ¹⁷three hundred and twenty-three of the descendants of Bezai, ¹⁸one hundred and twelve of the descendants of Jorah, ¹⁹two hundred and twenty-three of the descendants of Hashum, and ²⁰ninety-five of the descendants of Gibar. ²¹The number of men who came from certain cities were as follows: One hundred and twenty-three men from the city of Bethlehem, ²²fifty-six from the city of Netophah, ²³one hundred and twenty-eight from the city of Anathoth, ²⁴forty-two from the city of Azmaveth, ²⁵seven hundred and forty-three from the cities of Kiriath Jearim, Chephirah and Beeroth, ²⁶six hundred and twenty-one from the cities of Ramah and Geba, ²⁷one hundred and twenty-two from the city of Micmash, ²⁸two hundred and twenty-three from the cities of Bethel and Ai, ²⁹fifty-two from the city of Nebo, ³⁰one hundred and fifty-six from the city of Magbish, ³¹one thousand, two hundred and fifty-four from the city of Elam, ³²three hundred and twenty from the city of Harim, ³³seven hundred and twenty-five from the cities of Lod, Hadid and Ono, ³⁴three hundred and forty-five from the city of Jericho, and ³⁵three thousand, six hundred and thirty from the city of Senaah.

³⁶The priests numbered nine hundred and seventy-three of the descendants of Jedaiah of the house of Jeshua, ³⁷one thousand and fifty-two of the descendants of Immer, ³⁸one thousand, two hundred and forty-seven of the descendants of Pashhur, and ³⁹one thousand and seventeen of the descendants of Harim.

⁴⁰The Levites numbered seventy-four. They were descendants of Jeshua and Kadmiel through the line of Hodaviah. ⁴¹The number of Temple musicians who came with us was one hundred and twenty-eight; they were descendants of Asaph. ⁴²The Temple guards who registered numbered one hundred and thirty-nine; they were the descendants of Shallum, Ater, Talmon, Akkub, Hatita and Shobai.

⁴³The Temple workmen belonged to thirty-five families whose heads were: Ziha, Hasupha, Tabbaoth, ⁴⁴Keros, Siaha, Padon, ⁴⁵Lebanah, Hagabah, Akkub, ⁴⁶Hagab, Shalmal, Hanan, ⁴⁷Giddel, Gahar, Reaiah, ⁴⁸Rezin, Nekoda, Gazzam, ⁴⁹Uzza, Paseah, Besai, ⁵⁰Asnah, Meunim, Nephishesim, ⁵¹Bakbuk, Hakupha, Harhur, ⁵²Bazluth, Mehida, Harsha, ⁵³Barkos, Sisera, Temah, ⁵⁴Neziah and Hatipha.

⁵⁵The descendants of Solomon's servants belonged to ten families whose heads were: Sotai, Hassophereth, Peruda, ⁵⁶Jaalah, Darkon, Giddel, ⁵⁷Shephatiah, Hattil, Pochereth-Hazzebaim and Ami.

⁵⁸The total number of Temple workmen and the descendants of Solomon's servants was three hundred and ninety-two.

⁵⁹Then there were those who came from the cities of Tel Melah, Tel Harsha, Cherub, Addan and Immer, but who could not show that they were descendants of Israel. ⁶⁰They belonged to the family groups of Delaiah, Tobiah and Nekoda and numbered six hundred and fifty-two. ⁶¹Then there were those family groups who claimed to belong to the priesthood but could not prove their ancestry. They were the descendants of Habaiah, Hakkoz and Barzillai who had married a daughter of Barzillai the Gileadite and had taken the name of his father-in-law. ⁶²They looked for their family records but could not find them, so they were not numbered and could not be accepted as priests. ⁶³Zerubbabel the governor told them that they could not eat from the food that was offered to God until there was a priest who could inquire of God as to their ancestry through the Urim and Thummim.

⁶⁴The total number of exiles returning from captivity was twenty-nine thousand, eight hundred and eighteen men (many of whom would be sending for their families later), and twelve thousand, five hundred and forty two women, which came to forty-two thousand, three hundred and sixty. ⁶⁵The number of male and female servants who came with them was seven thousand, three hundred and thirty-seven, plus two hundred male and female secular singers. ⁶⁶There were seven hundred and thirty-six horses, two hundred and forty-five mules, ⁶⁷four hundred and thirty-five camels and six thousand, seven hundred and twenty donkeys.

⁶⁸When all the exiles arrived home and gathered at the ruins of the Temple in Jerusalem, some heads of families gave thank offerings to the Lord for bringing them home safely. Their gifts were used to rebuild the Temple on its original site. ⁶⁹They gave as much as they could, and their offerings amounted to more than a thousand pounds of gold, about six thousand pounds of silver and one hundred robes for the priests.

⁷⁰The priests, Levites and some of the people settled in or near Jerusalem, while the musicians, Temple guards and Temple workmen settled in nearby towns. The rest of the people settled in the towns their families originally came from.

Worship Begins Again in Jerusalem

3 As the seventh month drew near, after the returnees settled, they all came to Jerusalem to prepare to worship the Lord. ²Then Joshua the high priest, the son of Jehozadak (Jozadak for short), and his fellow priests, together with Zerubbabel, the son of Shealtiel, and his associates, rebuilt the altar of the God of Israel to offer sacrifices according to the law of Moses, the man of God. ³The returned exiles did this in spite of threats from foreigners who now lived in the country. They built the altar where it had stood before and offered on it both morning and evening sacrifices.

⁴Then, in harmony with what is written, they celebrated the Festival of Tabernacles (also called the Festival of Shelters) and offered the appropriate sacrifices required each day. ⁵After the Festival of Shelters they began to offer the regular morning and evening burnt offerings and other sacrifices, such as the New Month sacrifice, sacrifices required at other feasts of the Lord, and sacrifices brought by the people as freewill offerings. ⁶So even though the people had not yet started to rebuild the Temple, by the first day of the seventh month (which according to their civil calendar was New Year's Day), the sacrificial system had begun. ⁷Then the people gave money to the priests to hire stone masons and carpenters. They sent olive oil and other farm produce to Tyre and Sidon in exchange for cedar wood from Lebanon. The people there shipped the wood to Joppa by the sea and from there it was carried overland in harmony with the decree of Cyrus, king of Persia.

The Temple Restored

⁸In the second month of the second year after the exiles had come back, they began working on rebuilding the Temple of the Lord on its original site in the city of Jerusalem. Zerubbabel, Joshua, their fellow priests and Levites, and all the exiles who had come back home to live in Jerusalem joined in the work of rebuilding the Temple. The Levites twenty years old and up were put in charge of overseeing the details of rebuilding the Temple. ⁹Joshua, the high priest, his sons and relatives, and Kadmiel and his sons and relatives, supervised the others, so they all worked together to rebuild the Temple.

¹⁰When the builders finished laying the foundation of the Temple, the priests put on their robes and took their places with silver trumpets in their hands, the Levites took their places with cymbals, and together, they and all the people praised the Lord according to the guidelines handed down from David, king of Israel. ¹¹They sang praises responsively to the Lord and gave thanks, saying, "The Lord is good. His love to Israel endures forever." Everyone sang with all their hearts, and then the people gave a shout as they praised the Lord, because the cornerstone of the Temple had now been put in place.

¹²But many of the older priests, Levites and other leaders had seen the glories of the first Temple, and they wailed in grief as they watched the foundation stone being laid, while others shouted for joy so loudly that ¹³no one could separate the joyful singing from the sounds of wailing. Both groups made so much noise that they could be heard far away.

Opposition to Rebuilding the Temple

4 When the enemies of the people of Judah and Benjamin heard that the exiles had put the cornerstone in place and were rebuilding the Temple of the God of Israel, ²they went to see Zerubbabel, the governor, and the other Jewish leaders. “Let us help you rebuild the Lord’s Temple,” they said. “We worship the same God that you do and have been offering sacrifices to Him as the God of this country. We’ve done this ever since Esarhaddon, king of Assyria, sent us here to live.” ³But Zerubbabel, Joshua and the other leaders answered, “We would rather not have you help us rebuild the Temple of the Lord, because you accept Him as a local god in charge of this area, but we accept Him as the only true God, the Creator of heaven and earth. It would be best if we rebuild the Temple by ourselves as Cyrus, king of Persia, told us to do.”

⁴Then these same people, who had been brought in to live in the land, did their best by threats and intimidations to keep the returned exiles from rebuilding the Temple. ⁵They even bribed the Persian officials in charge of Judah to do all they could to hinder the plans of the exiles to rebuild. They kept this up during the reign of Cyrus and into the reign of Darius, the kings of Persia. ⁶Even in the days of Esther when Ahasuerus (also called Xerxes) was king of Persia, the enemies of Judah had lodged a complaint against the Jews, accusing them of disloyalty.

Opposition to Rebuilding Jerusalem

⁷When Artaxerxes I was king of Persia,

Bishlam, Mithredath, Tabeel and their associates wrote a letter to him in Aramaic about Jerusalem. They wrote their letter in Aramaic, the official correspondence of the Persian Empire, lodging a complaint against the Hebrews for rebuilding the city wall. ⁸Rehum, the commanding officer of Samaria, and Shimshai, the royal secretary, also wrote a letter to Artaxerxes which read:

⁹“Rehum, the commanding officer of Samaria, and Shimshai, the royal secretary, together with our staff of judges and officials, who are men originally from Tripolis, Persia, Erech, Babylon and Susa in the territory of Elam, are sending this letter. ¹⁰Also the people whom the great and powerful Ashurbanipal sent from their homes to live in Samaria and elsewhere in the Trans-Euphrates territory support this letter.”

¹¹That’s how they introduced themselves, and the rest of the letter read: “To King Artaxerxes, from your servants, the men you placed in charge of the Trans-Euphrates territory. ¹²We want the king to know that the Jews who came back from your territories have settled in Jerusalem. They are rebuilding their rebellious and wicked city without your permission. They have already rebuilt sections of the wall and are preparing the foundations of the remaining sections. They are the cause of the current trouble in our territory. ¹³Furthermore, the king should know that if this city is rebuilt and its walls restored, the people will stop paying taxes and the income to the crown will decrease. ¹⁴Since we are under orders from the king of Persia, we are responsible to see that the crown is not dishonored and that the royal treasury does not suffer. That is why we are sending this letter, to inform the king what is happening. ¹⁵We suggest that a search be made in the royal archives, and if this is done, the king will see that for centuries this city has been rebellious and very troublesome to kings and rulers of these territories. That is why Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon, destroyed this city and took many of its people captive. ¹⁶We therefore inform the king that if this city with its wall is allowed to be rebuilt, Persia will no longer be in full control of the Trans-Euphrates territories.”

¹⁷King Artaxerxes was in a disagreeable mood and replied: “To Rehum, the commanding officer, to Shimshai, the royal secretary, and to their associates in Samaria and in the Trans-Euphrates territories, greetings. ¹⁸The letter that you sent has been plainly read to me. ¹⁹I ordered an investigation into the matter, and, as you have said, it was found that for centuries this city of Jerusalem was indeed a troublesome city, in almost constant rebellion against kings, a place of intrigue and sedition. So I want to thank you for your loyalty. ²⁰Yes, there have been mighty kings in Jerusalem ruling the whole Trans-Euphrates territory, and taxes, tribute and import duties were paid to them by the people throughout the territory. So we need to be careful, as you have suggested, that Jerusalem does not become strong again. ²¹Therefore, you are to give orders for these people to stop rebuilding the city and its wall until I order otherwise. ²²Do this at once, so this threat to my throne does not materialize, my authority is not questioned and the royal treasury is not diminished.”

²³As soon as the letter from King Artaxerxes was read to Rehum, Shimshai and their associates, they hurried to Jerusalem with armed troops and forced the Jews to stop rebuilding the city. ²⁴These are examples of what people living in the land did over the years, first to stop rebuilding the Temple and later to halt the rebuilding of Jerusalem. Years earlier work on the Temple had stopped, and it did not start again until the second year of King Darius.

Temple Building Resumed

5 It was during those up and down years of rebuilding the Temple that two prophets, Haggai and Zechariah (son of Iddo), began to speak to the Jews in Judah and Jerusalem in the name of the God of Israel urging them to proceed as Cyrus, king of Persia, had ordered them to do. ²Then Zerubbabel and Joshua organized work crews and again began work on the Temple, and the two prophets of the Lord, Haggai and Zechariah, helped them.

³That’s when Tattenai, the governor in charge of the Trans-Euphrates territory, and Shether-Bozenai, the royal secretary, together with other government officials, came to Jerusalem and said, “Who authorized you to rebuild this Temple so you can worship here?” ⁴He requested a list of the names of all men who were working there. ⁵But the Lord was with His people and the governor agreed that work on the Temple could continue until a reply to his letter was received from Darius the Great, the new king of Persia, which included the territory of the former kingdoms of Assyria and Babylon.

⁶This is the report that Tattenai, the governor in charge of the Trans-Euphrates territory, Shethar-Bozenai, the royal secretary, and other government officials sent to Darius: ⁷“To King Darius, greetings. ⁸Your Majesty should know that we visited the province of Judah and found that the Temple of the one they call the Great God is being rebuilt. The people have chiseled out large stone blocks and put them in place, and they are already setting timbers into the walls. They are doing it with great care and are making steady progress. ⁹We questioned their leaders and asked who authorized them to rebuild the Temple. ¹⁰We also asked for the names of their leaders so you could know who they were. ¹¹This is what they said, ‘We are servants of the God of heaven and earth and are rebuilding His Temple which was built many years ago by one of the great kings of Israel. ¹²But because our forefathers displeased the Lord, He stopped protecting them, and they were defeated by King Nebuchadnezzar. He destroyed the Temple and took many of our people as captives to Babylon.

¹³Seventy years later, King Cyrus, in the first year of his reign as king of Persia, issued a decree to rebuild this Temple and authorized us to do it. ¹⁴He even returned the gold and silver utensils which Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the Temple in Jerusalem and put in the temple of his god in Babylon. He gave these utensils to Zerubbabel, one of our princes, whom he appointed as governor of Judah. ¹⁵King Cyrus told him to put them in the Temple in Jerusalem when it was rebuilt. ¹⁶So Zerubbabel led the people back to Judah, laid the foundation of the Temple and continued his interest in finishing the Temple until this day. But as you can see, the Temple is a long way from being finished.

¹⁷"This is what the people here told us. If it pleases the King, let a search be made in the royal archives of Babylon to see if King Cyrus did issue an order for rebuilding the Temple, and send us a copy of his decision concerning this matter."

The Decree of Darius

6 So King Darius ordered a thorough search to be made in the royal archives of Babylon. ²And in the city of Ecbatana, in the province of Media, they found a scroll with this directive on it: ³"In the first year of the reign of King Cyrus, the king issued the following decree concerning the Temple of God in Jerusalem: Let the Temple in Jerusalem be rebuilt as a place to offer sacrifices. Let the foundations be laid, and let the front of the Temple be a hundred feet high and a hundred feet wide. ⁴The Temple is to be built with three layers of large blocks of stone followed by a layer of wood. All expenses are to be paid out of the royal treasury. ⁵Also, the gold and silver utensils which King Nebuchadnezzar brought from the Temple in Jerusalem to his temple in Babylon are to be returned and deposited in the Temple of God there."

⁶Then King Darius sent the following letter: "To Tattenai, the governor of the Trans-Euphrates territory, to Shethar-Bozenai, the royal secretary, and to all officials: Stay away from the land of Judah. ⁷Do not interfere with the construction of the Temple at Jerusalem. Let the governor of Judah and his associates rebuild the Temple of God on its original site. ⁸I decree that you are to assist the Jews in rebuilding the Temple of God as follows: The expenses of all the workmen are to be paid out of the royal treasury from the revenues of the Trans-Euphrates territory so that the work on the Temple can go ahead unhindered. ⁹Also, whatever is needed day by day for sacrifices, such as young bulls, sheep or lambs for burnt offerings to the God of heaven, or wheat, salt, unfermented wine and olive oil, are to be given to the priests as they request. ¹⁰This is to be done so that their sacrifices are acceptable to the God of heaven, as well as their prayers for my well-being and that of my sons. ¹¹Furthermore, I decree that if anyone disobeys this order, that a beam be taken from his house on which to impale him. Then his house is to be demolished and left as a pile of rubbish for everyone to see. ¹²May the God who chose Jerusalem as His place of worship destroy any king or people who wish to change this decree or destroy the Temple that is being built there. I, Darius, have decreed it. Let it be done with haste."

The Temple Completed

¹³Then, Tattenai, Shethar-Bozenai and their associates implemented the decree as soon as they received it and did exactly what King Darius had ordered. ¹⁴So the leaders in Judah continued building the Temple, and the work went forward according to the decree of Darius and with the encouragement of Haggai and Zechariah, the prophets. The people finished rebuilding the Temple and later rebuilt the city walls as they had been directed by the God of Israel and in harmony with the decrees of Cyrus, Darius and Artaxerxes, all kings of Persia. ¹⁵The Temple itself was completed on the third day of the month of Adar, in the sixth year of the reign of King Darius.

¹⁶Then the people of Israel, the priests, the Levites and the returned exiles, joyfully dedicated the Temple of God. ¹⁷For the dedication ceremony they offered one hundred young bulls, two hundred rams and four hundred male lambs as sacrifices of thanksgiving to the Lord, plus twelve male goats as a sin offering, one for each of the tribes of Israel. ¹⁸And they organized the priests and Levites into groups to serve in the Temple according to the instructions left by Moses.

The Passover Celebrated

¹⁹Then on the fourteenth day of the first month of the religious year, the exiles celebrated their first Passover after rebuilding the Temple. ²⁰Both the priests and the Levites had ritually purified themselves and were ready to serve. Then the Levites killed enough Passover lambs for the returned exiles, the priests and themselves. ²¹The sacrifices were eaten not only by the returned exiles, but by faithful Israelites who had remained in their homeland and by all who had given up their pagan ways to worship the God of Israel. ²²For seven days they joyously celebrated the Festival of Unleavened Bread, thanking the Lord for working on their behalf to finish rebuilding the Temple through the decree of Darius, king of Persia.

The Arrival of Ezra

7 Almost sixty years after the Temple was rebuilt, a man named Ezra lived in Persia while Artaxerxes I was king. Ezra could trace his ancestry back to Aaron. He was the great-great-grandson of Seraiah, son of Azariah, son of Hilkiah, ²son of Shallum, son of Zadok, son of Ahitub, ³son of Amariah, son of Azariah, the son of Meraioth, ⁴son of Zerariah, son of Uzzi, the son of Bukki, ⁵son of Abishua, son of Phinehas, son of Eleazar, who was the son of Aaron. ⁶Ezra was one of the exiles and, as a teacher, was well versed in the laws which Moses had received from God. When Ezra asked Artaxerxes for help, the king gave him everything he requested because the God of Israel was with him. ⁷Other Israelites, including priests, Levites, musicians, gatekeepers and Temple workers, also went back to Jerusalem with Ezra. They returned in the seventh year of Artaxerxes, king of Persia.
